ANSON MAN HELD IN DUAL SHOOTING

United States Closes Door to Any Revision of War Debt

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS REFUSE FURTHER DISCUSSIONS GERMAN REPARATIONS PLAN WITH ALLIES

WASHINGTON, June 13. (US)—The United States has definitely closed the door to any revision of the war debt or a discussion of the German reparations with the allies, it was learned today.

This action has been made necessary, it was stated, to put an end to daily rumors to the contrary and half expected overtures from the allies to scale down their debt to the United States as Germany may be forced to scale down her reparations payments. It was also done to relieve Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, now on his way to Europe and Secretary of State Stimson, soon to sail, from the embarrassment of having to explain the situation with the European premiers.

It was also stated that the United States is not now considering any proposals on the debt or reparations, although reports from Europe are to the contrary and each day some new scheme, purporting to involve the United States, is advanced.

They have, however, found the United States finally adamant in its position.

COLLINS SEES 'JACK' GARNER NEXT SPEAKER

REPUBLICANS WANT TO SHIRK RESPONSIBILITY

Required Number Will Be 'Ill' or 'Conveniently Absent' He Says

WASHINGTON, June 13. (US)—Democratic organization of the house next December, with Representative John N. Garner, Democrat, of Texas, elected speaker, was declared to be a "certainty" by Representative Ross Collins, Democrat, of Mississippi, today.

Enough Republicans will be "ill" or "conveniently absent" to enable the Democrats to elect the fiery Texan speaker, all committee chairmen and otherwise take over the reins of control and responsibility, according to Collins.

The Republicans want to shirk their responsibility and try to place the blame for legislation upon the Democrats, he said.

Will Supply Number

If the Democrats need an absence of 20 Republicans to give them a majority, that will be supplied, according to Collins.

Representatives Snell of New York and Tilson of Connecticut, Republicans, do not share Collins' views. Snell and Tilson, especially the former, are campaigning for Republican votes for the speakership.

While most of the Democrats are eager to organize the house, some believe the wisest strategy would be to let the Republicans have it so that the Democrats would be in a position to attack without taking responsibility.

Democrats Harmonious

While the Republicans are waging a free-for-all scramble for speakership votes, the Democrats appeared to be harmoniously behind "Jack" Garner who was their floor leader in the last congress and who has been a member of the house for over a quarter century.

With both parties so closely divided in membership, neither will have a working majority. Neither will be able to force adoption of any program, it was pointed out. The administration will lack enough votes to compel adoption of President Hoover's program and holding the balance of power, regardless of which party elects the speaker, will be the small band of insurgent Republicans.

Taxi Drivers on Strike

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 13. (UP)—More than 700 taxicab drivers went on strike today after attempts to settle disagreements between the drivers' union and the operating company in the past few weeks had failed.

TARIFF ON OIL ASKED BY U. S. JUNIOR C. OF C.

Resolutions petitioning the United States tariff commission to give especial and immediate attention to the tariff problem, especially as concerns crude oil and its refined products were adopted at the annual convention of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce in Des Moines, Iowa, Saturday, according to a telegram received from T. J. Waggoner Jr., president of the local junior chamber and head of the Wichita Falls delegation to the national meeting.

Jerry Vinson, a past president of the local junior chamber, also was re-elected a member of the board of directors of the national organization, the telegram said.

One of the primary objects of the trip to Des Moines was to urge the adoption of resolutions proposing that the oil industry be given tariff protection.

Those who attended the convention here, in addition to Mr. Waggoner and Mr. Vinson, were Wilburn Page, secretary of the local junior chamber, Ralph Pond, Paul Hines and Russell Kolp.

OSSINING, N. Y., June 13. (AP)—Guards at Sing Sing prison today reported finding a home made bludgeon hidden in the mattress of Francis Crowley, youthful killer, who is in the death house under sentence of electrocution.

Crowley is under death sentence for shooting a policeman several days before he was captured in a sensational apartment house siege here.

MANCHESTER-BY-THE-SEA, Mass., June 13. (INS)—"Roosevelt for president."

That was the word that was brought this afternoon to a luncheon tendered Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York by Col. Edward M. House, "silence figure" of the Wilson administration.

"Like a prairie fire, he's sweeping the country," declared Henry Morganthau, former American ambassador to Turkey.

Governor Roosevelt himself was silent.

So was Colonel House, who refused to disclose the reason underlying the luncheon, other than it was in honor of Governor Roosevelt, who, he said, he had regarded as the most promising of those who might carry the Democratic standard in the next election.

"It's high time we had another Roosevelt in the White House. This is the man." That was the declaration of United States Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts.

Marcus A. Coolidge, Democrat, United States senator of Massachusetts, said:

PREPARE FOR TRIAL OF TWO AT ARDMORE

Hundred New Names Will Be Drawn for Jury Panel for Case

MINISTER WILL ACT AS SHERIFF DURING TRIAL

Attorney Promises Unwavering Attempt to Bring About Justice

ARDMORE, Okla., June 13. (AP)—In a courtroom filled with ghosts of other sensational murder trials and before one of the youngest district judges in Oklahoma, W. E. Guess and Cecil Crosby, former peace officers, will go to trial June 24 on charges of killing Emilio Cortes Rubio, cousin of the Mexican president.

MEXICO CITY, June 13. (AP)—The newspaper El Universal Grafico tonight said that there is a movement of Mexican students attending American colleges to abandon their studies and refuse to return to the United States next fall unless the slayers of the two Mexican students at Ardmore, Okla., are punished.

The youthful Mexican, on his way home from a Kansas college with two companions, was shot to death early last Monday. Manuel Gomez, one of of his comrades, also was killed when the officers believed they faced armed desperadoes. County Attorney Marvin Schilling has elected to try Guess and Crosby first for the Cortes Rubio killing, regarded as the state's stronger case.

Resign as Deputies

The defendants will go to trial as private citizens, having resigned as deputy sheriffs. Their superior, Sheriff Elmer Byrd, disqualified today for the trial and his duties will be taken up temporarily by the Rev.

Film Censor Says Screen Kiss Needs More Refinement

CHICAGO, June 13. (UP)—Blonde Frankie James, who quit being a musical comedy star to censor Chicago motion pictures, finished her first week on the job today with the conviction that movie kisses need more refinement.

"The time element is the least important thing about a film kiss," Miss James told the United Press. "Some kisses last only a second but they're very, very suggestive. Other kisses last longer but look purely platonic.

"Now, my suggestion for better, if not bigger, motion picture embraces is to make them suggest respect and refinement. In other words, go easy on the sex."

VICTIM OF MYSTERY MURDER

MISS STARR FAITHFULL

Soon after the body of Starr Faithfull, above, New York play girl, was washed ashore at Long Beach, L. I., police declared her the victim of assault and murder and started a search which has spread to Boston, New York and London. At the end of a week's search for her slayers and after various theories had been advanced, authorities admitted Saturday that they were still without very tangible clues.

STARR FAITHFULL BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS FEARING HER

NEW YORK, June 13. (INS)—Starr Faithfull's weirdly eccentric life of luxury today yielded new and startling facts that are expected to shed an important light on her death.

She was revealed as a tool of an international gang of counterfeiters.

For five years this strange girl carried vast sums of counterfeit to Europe for disposal at cut rates on the continental market.

She was a tool of the gang until she learned enough of its activities to become a menace to the safety of its members.

Reports of the finding of a new diary were denied today by authorities, but important papers came into their hands which they regarded as significant in establishing a motive for the murder.

The actual murder was done by a gangster, but his was merely the hand that held Starr's pretty head beneath the water as she strangled and choked for breath.

Hired Murders

He was simply hired to do the rough work by two high-grade murder merchants who had wined and dined the unsuspecting Starr on the last two days of her life.

These two men in turn were hired by the person or persons most interested in the death of Starr Faithfull. They won her confidence after a formal introduction on board a steamer.

They entertained her in the dingy atmosphere of a midtown speak-

'Blind Credulity' Held Not Grounds For Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13. (UP)—Those who enter marriage with "blind credulity" must suffer the consequences, the state supreme court ruled today in an annulment suit brought by Elizabeth M. Marshall of Los Angeles against William J. Marshall.

The old rule that "slips don't count" must give way to the principal of caveat emptor—"let the buyer beware"—the court held.

The ruling was made on Mrs. Marshall's complaint that before her marriage Marshall told her he was wealthy, but that afterward she found his "estate" consisted chiefly of unpaid bills and that most of his callers were collectors.

TWO ELDERLY PIONEERS DEAD IN SUICIDE PACT

SEATTLE, June 13. (AP)—Two elderly Washington pioneers, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lewis, without money, ended their lives by gas in a suicide pact here some time last night. Lewis was 72 and his wife 71.

FLAMES DESTROY 200 ACRES OF 1,000-ACRE CROWELL WHEAT FIELD

CROWELL, Texas, June 13.—Fire in a 1,000-acre field of wheat, five miles east of Crowell, Saturday afternoon, destroyed about 200 acres of the grain and for a time threatened to destroy the entire field.

More than 200 volunteer fire fighters from Crowell joined members of the Crowell fire department in fighting the rapidly-spreading flames. A chemical truck from Crowell and a large number of plows were brought into use before the flames were finally checked, after raging for several hours.

The fire is said to have started from a spark from the exhaust on an engine, which was being used to pull the binder, cutting the grain. The flames started almost in the middle of the large tract and spread rapidly over 150 acres belonging to J. H. Carter and 50 acres on the farm of B. N. Bell.

Mr. Bell estimated that the wheat which was destroyed would have yielded about 25 bushels per acre. He did not place any estimate on the amount of the loss.

Chicken Dresser Causes Alarm At Motor Accident

AMARILLO, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Art Lovan, being a chicken dresser by profession, should not attend automobile accidents.

When Cleve Henderson turned his sedan over here today and littered the pavement of a downtown street with glass and parts, Art Lovan was among the first of the crowd that gathered.

Then she fainted.

Killing and dressing chickens is gory work, Lovan explained.

MISS EARHART PLANS TO FLY HERE TUESDAY

Will Be in Oklahoma City Sunday and Enid On Monday

RETURNS TO ABILENE TO RESUME HER FLIGHT

Receives Condolences and Congratulations Following Accident

ABILENE, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Amelia Earhart will return to Abilene Tuesday to pick up her coast-to-coast autogiro flight, exactly where it was dramatically halted Friday morning when her windmill plane cracked up in a forced landing as she was taking off for Fort Worth.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13. (AP)—An autogiro flown by J. Paul Lukens, to be used here tomorrow by Amelia Earhart Putnam in a benefit demonstration, arrived at Oklahoma City Municipal airport at 6:15 p. m. from Tulsa.

"It's the only thing to do," Miss Earhart told reporters a short time before she hopped off in Dick Young's small monoplane for Oklahoma City, to which point Paul Lukens is ferrying a new giro from the factory for her use. Departure with Young was made shortly after 1 p. m. today, with no one about—a striking contrast with the crowd and color and excitement attending her attempted departure of Friday.

"I have no alibis to offer for cracking up," she said, "but I want to prove to the people of Abilene—and the world in general—that the autogiro is a safe and capable craft, and I am coming right back here with the new gird, and take off again for Fort Worth and Dallas. I will be in Enid Monday, then fly to Wichita Falls, and probably reach Abilene late Tuesday for the overnight stop."

Investigation of Friday's mishap was made by R. W. Delaney, area inspector for the department of

Bishop Cannon Sues Hearst for Million and Half

LOS ANGELES, June 13. (UP)—William Randolph Hearst and the Los Angeles Examiner were charged with libel and conspiracy to defame the character of Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in a suit for $1,500,000 damages on file today by the religious leader.

George Young, publisher of the Examiner, a Hearst newspaper, also was named as a defendant.

Bishop Cannon charged that since the presidential campaign of 1928, Hearst had sought to "destroy the reputation of the plaintiff by false, defamatory and libelous publications," and that the publisher had vigorously opposed prohibition and conspired to destroy the influence of prohibition leaders.

The motor, the record said, will be eight-cylinders of V-type construction.

REBELS IN HONDURAS LOOT TOWN OF SALAMA

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 13. (AP)—Dispatches received by the government today say that rebels have looted the town of Salama. The government was informed that Gen. Gergorio Ferrera, rebel leader, was wounded in a short skirmish with federal troops under Gen. Toribio Ramos.

The Honduran government recently announced that until the main rebel corps under General Ferrera had been defeated the rebellion could not be considered at an end.

BLACKSMITH SAYS HE SHOT IN SELF DEFENSE KILLING FARMER WOUNDING COUSIN NEAR ANSON

ANSON, Texas, June 13. (AP)—J. H. Seffel, Anson blacksmith, tonight stood charged with murder and assault to murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Will Windham, 55, and the wounding of the cousin, Frank Windham, 30, at Anson today.

Saffel was denied bail.

He is the father of 13 children.

A report from the sanitarium in which the younger Windham is confined, stated a slug entered the left lung, and several others struck him in the back. Attendants said, barring complications, he would recover.

"I had to do it in self-defense, I had to protect my family," Saffel said.

A group of ball players and Saffel's son are thought to have been the only eyewitnesses to the shooting.

Saffel declared he and the Windhams were supposedly the best of firends, and he knew of no enmity between them until they cursed him as they passed his shop today.

"They said they were going to kill me. When they first passed by I was lying down resting. I got up, came to the door and spoke to them. When they threatened me and started toward me, I shot," he said.

The shooting at Saffel's shop, about one mile south of town on the Abilene highway. Saffel was arrested by Sheriff Tom Hudson a short time later as he walked across a wheat field, a mile and a half from his shop. He surrendered and turned a shot gun over to the sheriff.

The two Windham men had gone to Saffel's shop to water some stock, when the shooting occurred, officers were told. The elder Windham was shot in the chest and died almost instantly. His nephew, with a gaping wound in his right side was removed to a Stamford sanitarium, where his condition is said to be critical. Doctors said he had 10 shot in his back.

INSANITY REPORT MAY BLOCK TRIAL OF SLAYING CASE

D. C. (Blackie) Evans, charged with the murder of a Hutchinson county deputy sheriff and whose case was transferred to Wichita county on a change of venue, is suffering from "dementia praecox of the paranoid type," according to a report made to the district attorney by Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the Wichita Falls State hospital, who has had the prisoner under observation since he was transferred here from Stinnett several months ago.

Local officials said they would have to confer with Hutchinson county authorities before they could announce what disposition would be made of the case.

COUPLE LEAVES DALLAS IN AN AUTOGIRO PLANE BOUND FOR SAN ANTONIO

DALLAS, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoffman took off from Love field shortly after noon today for San Antonio in their autogiro plane, the first to visit Dallas, en route to California from New York. The plane landed unannounced at the Dallas airport yesterday, as hundreds of spectators awaited the arrival of Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam in another autogiro. The arrivial of Hoffman's "windmill" ship somewhat allayed the disapointment of spectators when they learned that Mrs. Putnam had damaged her plane at Abilene and would be unable to proceed to Dallas.

COURT ORDERS LEGS DIAMOND FREE ON BOND

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., June 13. (INS)—Jack "Legs" Diamond, notorious gangster who is under four indictments in Greene county for alleged torture of Grover Parks, a cider truckman, today was ordered freed in $10,000 bail by Supreme Court Justice Christopher J. Heffernan.

Diamond has been held under heavy guard in Greene county jail at Catskill since he was removed on Memorial day from Albany hospital where he was confined for a month after five slugs were fired into his body at Saratoga inn in the Catskill mountains.

The $10,000 bail was fixed on the indictment charging Diamond with carrying a gun. Justice Heffernan fixed bail of $250 on the indictment charging the gangster with coercion.

Freeing of Diamond on bail was vigorously opposed before Justice Heffernan by Deputy Attorney General Henry Epstein who represented Attorney General John J. Bennett.

Application to admit Diamond to bail was made to Justice Heffernan by Daniel H. Prior of Albany, attorney for the gangster.

Prior charged that the state was attempting to "railroad" Diamond to prison.

Supreme Court Justice O. B. Brewster in Schenectady last month refused to free Diamond in bail.

Damage to the structure was estimated at $1,600.

San Angelo Woman Ends Life With Poison Few Hours After Bond Denied Husband and Son on Murder Charges

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Seven hours after her husband and oldest son had been bound over to await action of a grand jury without bond on murder charges, the body of Mrs. George Hill was found in her home here early tonight.

B. E. Gray, justice of the peace, said he would return a verdict of suicide by poison, self administered. The woman left a note which said, among other things, "this is too much for me to bear." The note was to her husband, George A. Hill, 50, and sons, Alva, 23, George Jr., 10, and Curtis, 8.

The husband and Alvan, oldest son, were remanded to jail in connection with the fatal stabbing of John R. Kiser, 42, dairy farmer.

Dan Kiser, 15, second oldest of eight children left fatherless by the killing, identified the Hills as the two men he saw fighting with his parents. Another son, Max Kiser, 11, admitted he threw a rock at the car in which the Hills drove away from the death scene. Other testimony, including the widow's, indicated trouble resulted from the driving of cows by Kiser past the Hill home and pasturing them in an open space nearby.

COUNTERFEIT GANG BLAMED IN MURDER

easy which Starr found so romantic.

They lured her eventually to a lonely place at Long Beach, perhaps to a love tryst, and turned her over to the gorilla man who held her struggling body beneath the waves until all signs of life had fled.

All this was revealed today through an independent investigation.

The counterfeiting gang angle was brought forward to explain, to some extent, the large amounts of money Starr posessed when members of her immediately family were in near want.

The information linking Starr to the counterfeit ring made it appear that she acted as a go-between for American manufacturers of $100 bills and the distributing headquarters abroad.

Starr with her cultured manner, and finishing school background and unimpeachable place in society could carry sums of money back and forth between the continents without exciting suspicion.

Meanwhile reports of a second diary being found were discounted by Inspector King. He denied that he found a second diary and insisted that the document he showed District Attorney Edwards last night was not a diary but merely some notes found at the Faithfull apartment. He said the notes, "may or may not" play a part in solving the mystery.

Little Progress

Meanwhile discussing the case with reporters Police Inspector Harold King said that all the official information uncovered so far could be interpreted in any of three ways—suicide, accidental drowning or murder.

"You could argue as effectively one way as another on the information so far," King said.

Perhaps the last letter written by Starr—a missive sent to Dr. G. Jamieson Carr, ship's surgeon of the liner Franconia—was on its way from London to the district attorney's office.

The letter from Starr apologized to Dr. Carr for her conduct aboard the Franconia the night it sailed from New York.

Starr, intoxicated, was taken off the liner in a tug when she stayed aboard the vessel after it sailed for Europe.

The letter said that she had brought her own liquor aboard the ship "and drank too rapidly."

Statements of the girl's actions aboard the Franconia were also mailed from London. They included statements by the ship's master, chief steward, second steward, the purser, mate and Dr. Carr.

PREPARE FOR TRIAL ARDMORE DEPUTIES

J. C. Price, a Presbyterian minister.

One hundred new names were drawn today for the jury panel. Sentiment is divided here, and the jury selection likely will be prolonged.

Shilling has promised an unwavering attempt to bring about justice. He will be aided by F. M. Dudley, assistant state attorney general, who formerly was county attorney here. Atty. Gen. J. Berry King of Oklahoma may take a personal hand in the trial. High Mexican officials likely will be present.

Conflicting Statements

As indicated by preliminary hearing testimony, the case devolves largely on conflicting statements of witnesses relative to whether Cortes Rubio and the other youth threatened the officers with pistols and whether the deputies announced they were officers.

Salvador Cortes Rubio, who accompanied the youths here on a homeward vacation trip from a Kansas college, contradicted Crosby's testimony that the latter informed the boys he and Guess were deputies. Guess testified that he shot Gomez because the lad pointed a pistol at him through a blanket he wore and that he then shot Cortes Rubio, who, he said, was "coming out with a gun."

He said he took the weapon from the folds of Cortes Rubio's jacket pocket, but other witnesses, attracted to the scene of the shooting, said the deputy removed a pistol from the boy's pocket.

Both defendants are free on $25,000 bond.

Funeral Services Sunday

MORELIA, Michoacan, June 13. (US)—The bodies of Emilio Cortes Rubio and Manuel Gomez, college students slain last week by a deputy sheriff in Ardmore, Okla., arrived here today. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

The University of Michoacon and all business houses are closed as this city went into mourning. Hundreds of persons called at the homes of the youths to express their condolence.

MAN AND MONKEY HELD BY SAN ANTONIO POLICE NEARLY PROVOKE PANIC

SAN ANTONIO, June 13. (UP)—Because they swam together at Concepcion park and thereby nearly caused a panic, a man and a monkey were held by police here today.

The man, H. A. Shane, took the monkey into the pool before other bathers and life guards noticed them, police said. Then police had a hard time capturing the monkey and persuading the man to leave.

KRESTON, Iowa, June 13. (INS)—John Hise of Clarinda and Mrs. Ben Lamon, Mrs. A. Meyer and Mrs. W. Sketon, all of Tulsa, Okla., were seriously injured in an automobile collision four miles east of Corning, Iowa, early today.

Hise, in attempting to pass a car on the highway, collided head-on with the car bearing the three women. All suffered scalp wounds, and X-rays were being made to determine the extent of Hise's injuries.

Milk-Ice Fund Sole Reliance One Family

Noticing three small children, dressed simply but unusually neat and clean, one would never be able to imagine under what circumstances those children exist in order to retain their respectability. The mother lives with her young family in an apartment house by caring for the other apartments in the building. She manages to keep the children in school during the season by washing and ironing. The husband and father, as a result of a paralytic stroke, is too crippled to do anything. Hence the mother struggles against her fate, still upholding a decent, upright character which is really above the average. She has not become degenerated by her misfortunes. But if weekly grocery supplies were not furnished by charity, the consequences would be unendurable.

The Times and Record News milk and ice fund is the only source of assistance the mother has. This is an example of how the other half lives. Because of such a type of living, both the community chest and the milk and ice fund urgently need re-enforcement.

Business and Industrial Leaders Of Nation to Be Called to Capital For Discussion Business Problem

WASHINGTON, June 13. (INS)—Business and industrial leaders of the nation are to be assembled to discuss the problems involved in the business depression under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it was announced today.

The plans call for the organization of a dozen or more committees or 15 or more specialists in a particular field, to recommend courses of action to be embarked upon next fall. The studies will rank from agriculture to transportation, with a close scrutiny of the effects of "government competition," it was announced.

The personnel of the commitees will be named in time to be presented to the chamber's board of directors at their annual meeting here June 26-27. The committees programs are likely to be developed in harmony with plans to be made for the International Chamber of Commerce when the executive committee of the American section, headed by Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, meets in New York July 9.

One of the first of the committees to meet will be the committee on distribution, organized under the chairmanship of Fred Lazarus Jr., of Columbus, Ohio. It will convene in New York June 25.

Second Installment Income Tax Bad News to Government as Well As Taxpayers of United States

WASHINGTON, June 13. (UP)—The second installment of federal income taxes due Monday will be bad news not only for the taxpayers but for the government, it was indicated today as experts predicted the collections would fall far short of those in recent prosperous years.

June income tax collections, it was estimated, will be only about $290,000,000, compared with $526,443,000 last June. As a consequence the government's deficit on June 30, end of the fiscal year, probably will exceed the figure of $900,000,000 forecast by President Hoover.

Collections in March, when the first installment of taxes on 1930 incomes was paid, totalled $359,000,000, against $529,000,000 in March 1930. For the fiscal year to date, collections are running $331,270,354 behind those for the last fiscal year—$1,580,480,768 as constrasted with $1,911,751,132. Total income taxes for the fiscal year are not expected to exceed $1,800,000,000. Customs receipts and miscellaneous taxes also have fallen off.

Deficit More Than Billion

The deficit stood today at $1,092,063,690. June income taxes are about $90,000,000 in debt payments from foreign governments will be applies to its reduction, but these payments will be offset somewhat by government expenditures.

The fall in income tax collections due to the business depression serves to call attention again to the argument for some more stable form of revenue, as expressed recently by Secretary of Treasury Mellon.

The administration has indicated its opposition to any tax increase at the next session of congress, but Mellon has set his experts to work upon a long-time program of tax revision to be presented to congress after the 1932 elections. This probably will include recommendations for a federal gasoline tax and restoration of the former aptomobile sales tax.

The government recently has resorted to an almost unprecedented volume of hand-to-mouth financing because of greatly increased operating expenses and the fall in revenues. During this month $589,000,000 of short-term certificates will come due. To refund these obligations and meet some $90,000,000 in interest on the public debt, the treasury recently offered an issue of $821,000,000 in 18-year bonds. This issue was oversubscribed seven and a half times.

Other long-term issues are expected to be offered in September and December, to take care of a huge block of short-term notes coming due September 15 and December 15 and totalling $1,177,886,000.

MISS EARHART TO FLY HERE TUESDAY

commerce. Delaney was at Sweetwater Friday, investigating last week's crash of an ancient Canuck plane when word came of Miss Earhart's forced landing. He immediately came here and took statements, including her own, forwarding a report on the case to Washington.

"I don't know how it happened," said Miss Earhart today. "Mr. Delaney said it was possible a whirlwind caught the giro's tail. I did not feel one. I have never felt a whirlwind, but I am going to look for them now and fly through them to note the effect they have on the plane."

The aviatrix received both condolences and congratulations in person and by telephone and telegraph. A girl flier friend, Jean Larene of Dallas, flew here to say hello and tender the loan of her own ship. From Edith McConnell, Wichita Falls, came the offer of a plane. Laura Ingalls sent her love. Mrs. Florence (Pancho) Barnes, the "parson's flying wife," whose husband is an Episcopal rector, wired from Pasadena, Calif., that she had "cracked up twice cross-country myself. If it makes you half as low as it did me you will have to reach up to tickle a snake's tummy."

School Damaged

NOCONA, Texas, June 13.—A good rain fell here Friday night, accompanied by an electrical storm and considerable wind. The high school building was slightly damaged by wind, but the loss will not be more than $200, it is estimated. Some trees in town were blown down and grain harvesting interrupted.

Oklahoma Commissioner Refuses To Sign More Oil Proration Orders Until Congress Puts on Embargo

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13. (AP)—C. C. Childers, a member of the state corporation commission, said today he would not sign any oil proration orders until congress puts an embargo or tariff on foreign oil imports or until Texas adopts a proration program in line with Oklahoma.

Childers said he personally has always opposed proration.

Charge Failure to Prosecute

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 13. (AP)—Charges that the state corporation commission had failed to prosecute 80 cases of alleged overproduction on the part of operators in the Oklahoma City field who have been chief proponents of proration were made by the Champlin Refining company in federal court here today.

The company is seeking an injunction to restrain the state courts from acting in a receivership application against its properties until validity of the proration laws is decided by the United States supreme court.

Champlin attorneys said watchers had been hired to make a check of the oil run by proponents of proration. From information obtained, 80 alleged violations were laid before the corporation commission, they said. No action has been taken, Harry Glasser, attorney, said.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR KILLED FOUR BOYS ARE INJURED

CHICAGO, June 13. (INS)—Arthur Wild, physical director of the Elgin, Ill., Y. M. C. A., was killed and four boys were seriously injured today when their automobile was struck here by a fire truck from Racine, Wis.

COURT REFUSES TO ENJOIN GOVERNMENT RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, June 13. (INS)—Action of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in refusing to enjoin Federal Radio commission from conducting hearings involving possible forfeiture of 1,409 licenses of the four operating subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America, means this far-reaching radio case will be publicly aired Monday.

At this hearing the R. C. A. subsidiaries, the National Broadcasting Co., R. C. A. Communications, Inc., Radio Marine Corporation of America, and R. C. A.-Victor Co., will be required to show why their licenses should not be forfeited. The case arose when the United States supreme court held that the Radio corporation, through its tube contract, had violated the Clayton act. Thus came the question whether renewal of licenses should be refused to the subsidiaries under section 13 of the radio act, providing that where a corporation had been adjudged guilty of violations of the anti-monopoly provisions of the law, the radio commission should refuse license renewal.

The court retained jurisdiction in these cases, however and did not dismiss the bills of complaint.

COTTON PLANTINGS RUSSIA INCREASED OVER 60 PER CENT

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Russian cotton plantings for 1931 were reported by the agriculture department today at 6,178,000 acres, an increase of more than 60 per cent over last year.

The department's report was based on a message from the International Institute of Agriculture.

"This figure, if correct," the department said, "represents an increase of 60.9 per cent over the area of 3,840,000 acres actually planted last year and is 8.7 per cent in excess of the 1931 plan as published in an official Russian publication for December 1930."

Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board, has said the southern cotton farmer has lost for all time his Russian market, and that continued increasing competition would be felt from the Soviet farmer in the world market.

Cotton trade reports have estimated a 10 per cent reduction this year in American planting. The farm board has urged a substantial reduction for two or three years until present domestic surplus has been removed.

Announce Early Marriage Popular Archer City Girl

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 13.—The engagement of Miss Freda Abercrombie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Abercrombie, to William P. Abernathy, of McKinney, Texas, was announced at a party in honor of the bride-elect given by her mother at their home in south Archer City Tuesday at 3 o'clock p. m. The wedding will take place Tuesday, June 23, at the Abercrombie home.

The house was decorated throughout with flowers.

The dining table was covered with a handmade lace cloth over green satin with a mound of sweet peas in a silver bowl in the center and silver candelabra with pink candles in silver holders decorated the buffet. The living room and music room were decorated with roses and forget-me-nots.

A program was given throughout the afternoon.

Little Misses Blanch and Paula Powell, of Iowa Park, sang, "Cinderella's Wedding Day."

Miss Jeanette Harrel of Olney, sang "I Love You Truly."

A miniature mock wedding was performed with the following actors: Chas. Henry Hooper, as the preacher; Marjorie Cowan playing the wedding march; Bementa Beck as bride; Benny Jo Wilson, maid of honor; Mary Shelton and Patty Herron were bridesmaids; Eddie Trigg Jr., groom; John Sydney Purcell, best man; Redwood Taylor Jr., Archer City and Barney Wilborn, Olney, ushers.

The ceremony as pronounced by the preacher, Chas. Henry Hooper, with Eddie Trigg Jr., representing the groom and Bementa Beck representing the bride.

"Do you, Billy, take Freda whom you hold by the glove to be your awful strife, and do you promise to be to her a henpecked husband so long as you both shall battle?"

Answer: "Adieu."

"Do you, Freda, take Billy whom you hold by the fist to be your submissive boss and to be to him a good cornbread maker as long as he shall endure?"

Answer: "Adieu."

"Let this ring be a token of your blighted faith and a memorial of your mutual warfare. I now pronounce you vulcanized."

An ice course was served to about 150 guests.

FEWER PASSPORTS ISSUED IN SPITE OF LOWER RATES

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Although steamship companies are making a strong bid in lowered rates for American tourists travel to foreign countries, this year, the state department passport division figures show a sharp decrease for the first time in eight years.

It estimated that 156,715 new and renewed passports will be issued by June 30, a decrease of more than 50,000 as compared with last year. In May of this year, 24,031 new passports were issued as compared with 43,227 in May, 1930. May is the peak month of passport issues each year.

Mounting steadily from 124,844 in the fiscal year of 1923, the number of passports issued in 1930 totaled 209,211.

(AP)—The high court today, after hearing appeals by 71 men sentenced for participation in last January's rebellion, confirmed 15 death sentences, changed three life sentences to the death penalty, and acquitted nine who had been sentenced to exile for life. The rest of the appeals from life sentences were dismissed.

Georgia's Chief Justice Will Give Oath to 33-Year-Old Son as Youngest Governor

ATLANTA, Ga., June 13.—If Richard B. Russell Jr., of Winder, Ga., turns to his handsome, gray-haired father, Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, any day after June 24 next and says, "Well, governor—" the senior member of the Russell family very likely will turn right back and ask, "Well, governor, what is it?"

For Richard Jr.—only 33 years old—on June 24 is going to become governor of Georgia and the youngest governor in the United States. His own father, Chief Justice Russell of the Georgia supreme court, will administer the oath of office at the inauguration ceremonies.

Young Governor-elect Russell, who was elected last October, has other distinctions. He is a bachelor. He is one of 13 sons and daughters of a family whose forebears have lived within the boundaries of Georgia since colonial times. He left the University of Georgia to enlist during the world war. He made his first political campaign driving from house to house in a second-hand automobile.

On assuming the office of chief executive he gives up the post of speaker of the Georgia house of representatives. He served as speaker for three years.

His Plans as Governor

Some insight into the personality of this unusual young man may be gained from the fact that he has stated publicly he believes government should be simplified. Speaking of the work of a special legislative committee of the general assembly not long ago he put his views thus:

"The machinery of government should be so simple that the humblest citizen can understand it. Here in Georgia we have more than 100 different agencies to carry on the state's business and I venture to say there are very few who can sit down with pen and paper and name them all and outline the duties each is supposed to perform.

"Coordinate and combine the departments of state to a minimum," he urges, "and thus give the people of the state the economical government Georgia today so badly needs."

It is doubtful if his own inauguration will make so glamorous an impression on Richard Russell Jr.'s mind as did a visit to Atlanta when he was 9. On that occasion Master Richard arrived as the guest of Gov. and Mrs. Joseph B. Terrell, intimate friends of his father and mother. The boy slept in the governor's mansion and sat in the governor's chair at the capitol.

Started as Lawyer

Young Russell was graduated from an agricultural and mechanical college in 1914. He spent a year at Gordon institute and attended the University of Georgia where he was graduated with an LL. B. degree in 1918. He left school to enlist during the world war. After the armistice he began practicing law at Winder.

In 1921 he was elected to represent Barrow county in the state legislature and he has served in the house of representatives continuously ever since. During two terms he was speaker pro tem, and for three more he was speaker. He has never been defeated in an election.

When young Russell began his first campaign for the legislature he hired a second-hand automobile and visited every family in his county. Judge Russell, one of Georgia's oldest and most successful campaigners, gave his son wholehearted support, but did not attempt to run his son's campaign.

One of 14 Children

Mrs. Russell, his mother, tells an amusing anecdote about Richard Jr. He was the fourth of 13 living brothers and sisters.

"When he came into the world," says Mrs. Russell, "we had three daughters and Judge Russell and myself rather despaired of a son, much as we loved the little girls. Dr. C. B. Almond of Winder was our family physician. He was holding our first boy in his arms when Judge Russell came in the room timidly. With a broad grin Dr. Almond announced, 'It's a boy, Dick!'

"Upon hearing this news the judge gave the doctor such a clap on the back he almost knocked him across the room and the baby barely escaped being dropped on its head. Right then the youngster was informally christened Richard Brevard Russell Jr."

The boy was reared in an atmosphere of politics. His father, who was once a defeated candidate for governor, served in the state legislature as a young man and was solicitor-general of the western circuit from 1889 to 1906. In 1907 he was elected to the Georgia court of appeals. From 1913 to 1916 he retired to practice law. Re-entering public life in 1923, Judge Russell was elected chief justice of the Georgia supreme court.

The Russell boys—brothers of the governor-elect—have met with success. Robert Lee Russell is Richard Jr.'s law partner. Henry Edward, another brother, is preparing for the ministry. Fielding Dillard, twin brother of William John, is a high school professor. William John is in business in Hendersonville, N. C. The sisters are all married except Ina Dillard Russell, who lives in Washington, D. C., and Carolyn Lewis Russell, the youngest, a student at Agnes Scott college in Georgia.

Carolyn is not allowing her brothers to excel her. She won an oratorical contest a year ago and was chosen to represent Georgia at zone finals in Pittsburgh, where she also won second honors.

LEO V. BROTHERS CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT ON WRIT SUPERSEDEAS

CHICAGO, June 13. (INS)—The case of Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis will go to the supreme court next week when his attorneys seek a writ of supersedeas and make formal application for bail pending hearing of Brothers' appeal from conviction as the slayer of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Attorney Harry J. Cantwell of St. Louis arrived here today, conferred with Brothers at the county jail, and then held a conference with Attorneys James C. O'Brien and John Owen, who became associated in the case after Brothers was found guilty by a jury.

The attorneys expect to go before the supreme court Wednesday or Thursday, Cantwell said. Brothers' appeal, however, is not expected to be heard before the October term of the court.

DENY THAT QUEEN HELEN PLANS TO LEAVE RUMANIA

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—The Rumanian legation made public today a dispatch of the official Rumanian agency Rodor denying press dispatches telling of an agreement of Queen Helen to leave Rumania.

The dispatch said newspaper stories from Bucharest published in the United States that "Her Majesty Queen Helen" had agreed to leave Rumania and alleged details of the agreement were "absolutely untrue."

HARDEMAN COUNTY WHEAT AVERAGING ABOUT 14 BUSHELS

QUANAH, Texas, June 13.—The first load of new crop wheat sold here for 45 cents per bushel basis No. 1, to the Moseley elevator. It tested 58, and was believed when thoroughly dry will test 60 or better. B. H. Tidwell brought it in.

Conservative estimates of the average yield of wheat over Hardeman county is about 14 bushels per acre. Some fields will go 25 bushels it is believed. Estimated total production will be close to 200,000 bushels.

The 1924 census gave Hardeman county 24,518 acres, with production listed at 43,698 bushels. Approximately 36,000 bushels of seed wheat was planted in the county, averaging about three-fourths bushels per acre.

Estimates place the acreage for this year at 48,500 acres, the largest acreage planted to wheat in the history of the county. A total of 13,619 bushels of seed wheat were shipped in by the Oklahoma Wheat Growers association, the Red Cross supplied 2,200 bushels, and 1,820 bushels were shipped in from other sources. Chillicothe received 2,400 bushels. Farmers were believed to have had sufficient wheat stored to plant nearly half the total.

The crop is being harvested with binders, later to be threshed, and with combines, although some fields have been mowed and baled for hay. Much new equipment has been sold in this section, and all threshers and binders have heretofore been put into condition for the harvest.

KANSAS CITY POLITICAL LEADER SURRENDERS AND MAKES BOND FOR $5,000

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (UP)—John Lazia, Italian Kansas City Democratic political leader charged by the government with being Al Capone's representative in the Midwest, surrendered today to federal authorities and made bond for $5,000.

Lazia, along with 46 others, was indicted this week at Joplin, Mo., by a federal grand jury for conspiring to violate the national prohibition laws.

Arrested here recently when prohibition agents concentrated against what they said was a $5,000,000 alcohol ring operating in seven states, Lazia was said by officials to represent Capone in this section.

Reno System of Divorce 'Alibi' in Robbery of Bank

RENO, Nev., June 13. (INS)—Despondency because his wife had obtained a Reno divorce led Robert F. Weaver, 31-year-old Sacramento aviation instructor, to bank robbery.

A plea for mercy today based on this declaration saved him from death or a life sentence to prison.

In an intensely dramatic court scene, District Judge Benjamin F. Curler, one of the judges who grants Reno divorces on a 10-minute schedule, sentenced Weaver to state prison for from five to seven years for robbing the bank of Sparks, May 28.

Rev. Andrew Weaver of Quincy, Calif., father of the prisoner, and Mrs. Loretta Weaver who divorced him here only a short time ago, sat in the crowd that filled the court room with bowed heads, weeping softly during the proceedings.

RED CROSS TO DONATE $2,500 IN FLOOD AREA

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE NECESSARY

Neighboring Towns Contribute Seed and Cash To Destitute

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 13. (AP)—The regional office of the Red Cross in St. Louis has contributed $2,500 for the relief of flood sufferers in Hall and Briscoe counties, in vicinity of Turkey and Quitaque, where a cloudburst washed crops away last Monday night.

Two thousand dollars will be sent to Briscoe county and $500 to Hall county, according to J. Claude Wells, chairman of the Hall county chapter, who made application for relief.

The amount donated by the Red Cross will go to families who have not already received seed loans from the government, Wells said. The balance of the farmers, who are in the majority, must be cared for from a fund raised by voluntary donations, he said. It was estimated that $12,000 worth of cotton and grain sorguhm seed would be needed to replant the 66,000 acres devastated by the rain, which averaged from six to 10 inches.

Farmers are at work, replanting their crops, Wells said, and the situation is well in hand. Nine hundred pounds of seed was donated from Bronte, Texas, and four truck loads came in from Wheeler and Collingsworth counties, many cash donations also have been received.

GERMAN PRESIDENT SUPPORTS BRUENING FINANCIAL POLICIES

BERLIN, June 13. (INS)—The crisis in the affairs of the German government, which appeared to threaten the continued incumbency of the cabinet of Chancellor Henrich Bruening, eased somewhat today as President Paul von Hindenburg unqualifidely supported his chancellor.

The chancellor returned to the capital today from the president's summer residence, armed with full authority to proceed with his program of instituting fiscal economies in the reich's government.

The support of the aged president, still the idol of most elements among the German people, caused the German Peoples party, heretofore the most outspoken critics of the Bruening policies, to soft-pedal their demands for an extra session of the reichstag to consider Bruening's financial decrees.

Simultaneously it was learned that Foreign Minister Curtius has summoned the German ambassadors from Washington, Paris and Rome, for a conference in Berlin some time during the latter part of this month. It was believed that this conference would coincide with the American Secretary of State, Col. Henry L. Stimson's visit in Berlin.

THREE BANK BANDITS FLEE UNDER GUNFIRE OF NEGRO WATCHMAN

ANGLUM, Mo., June 13. (INS)—An attempted holdup on the State bank of Anglum was frustrated here today. Three bandits, who apparently had been in the bank all night, waiting for officials to arrive this morning, fled under the fire of a negro watchman. One of the robbers appeared to have been wounded.

The bandits had covered Harry H. Seib assistant cashier with guns. About that time Rubin Gibbs, negro watchman entered the bank, and the bandits frightened at the appearance of Gibbs fled. Gibbs emptied his pistol at the fleeing robbers.

BALL IN WHICH SCIENTISTS REACHED EARTH'S STRATOSPHERE

High on a snow-field of an Alpine glacier, the fantastic-looking stratosphere vehicle of Prof. Auguste Piccard and Dr. Kipfer came safely to rest. Here you see the finale of the history-making flight—removal of the precious instruments and records from the balloon's aluminum gondola, in which the two Swiss scientists had ascended nearly 10 miles into the earth's outer air. The men shown packing the equipment were members of a rescue expedition sent to the Gurgl glacier, in the Austrian Tyrol, after Piccard's balloon had been sighted drifting helplessly among the mountain peaks.

Otherwise, the directory gives the usual pertinent facts relative to the community. In addition to listing the names of residents alphabetically, the directory contains a list of the district and county officials of the state, a list of postoffices of Texas, names of fraternal organizations of the city, a street directory and a classified business directory of the city.

Scotty May Leave Death Valley If U. S. Interferes

LOS ANGELES, June 13. (US)—Death Valley Scotty is peeved. He threatens to leave his dear death valley flat.

"Scotty," who also answers to the name Walter Scott, today gave vent to his feelings. It's all about the government. "Scotty" said:

"If the government is going to oppose any further extensions of the project that my partner, A. M. Johnson and myself are considering in connection with our castle in the heart of Death valley we will quit.

"The government is still bothering us and we are the only ones who ever spent a cent to develop Death valley. If they don't like it after what we have done, we are through. We have been giving employment to the Indians in the valley and they are our friends."

Scotty said that he is soon to have a conference with his partner, Johnson, who is a millionaire insurance man of Chicago. Mr. and Hrs. Johnson are expected here tomorrow.

The "trouble" with the government, it is said, relates to their guest house and not their castle. The latter, "Scotty" declared, has been built at a cost of about $5,000,000, in a Garden of Eden that was once the playground of rattlesnakes.

U. S. and Europe Can Learn Much From Each Other About Aviation Hawks Says After European Jaunt

Editor's Note—Making numerous record breaking flights about Europe, Capt. Frank Hawks, American speed flier, has captured the imagination of aviation circles in European capitals. In the following interview with a correspondent for The Associated Press, Captain Hawks has outlined his impressions of European aviation.

By HAMILTON WHITMAN

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press)

ROME, June 13.—An air joy ride of 20,000 miles over 11 European countries has convinced Capt. Frank Hawks, American speed ace, that the United States has much to learn from Europe concerning flying field management.

On the other hand, America has a few lessons to offer on such matters as proper surfacing for landing fields, the use of brakes on planes and the speeding up of mail and passenger service.

"The fundamental difference between European and American fields is that here they become social centers," Hawks said today. Every large European airport has magnificent field houses, restaurants, cafes and beer gardens. People with only small interest in actual flying use these fields for recreation and sports. This is something in the spirit of the American aviation country clubs, but the European fields are open to the public instead of being small and exclusive."

Berlin Field Best

Hawks said the finest field that he has seen in Europe is Tempelhof in Berlin.

"I think Berlin has the best field in Europe, at least the best I've seen and I have been in 11 countries and have stopped at most of the important fields in those countries. One reason for this is that Tempelhof is only 12 or 15 minutes from the center of the city, a factor that helps draw crowds.

"The tables there are loaded with beer, there is a general holiday atmosphere, and all this helps sell aviation to the public.

'One of the biggest differences between American and European fields is the lack of paved runways in Europe. I have not tried landing at any of these European airports in rainy weather, but I know what they must be. European fields are far rougher than American, but the ground crews are superb, showing remarkable speed and ease in handling planes.

"Another point of variance is the lack of brakes on European planes. Also, here they fly passenger ships on schedule in weather much worse than is thought safe in the United States. This is not caused by recklessness but by a different point of view.

Schedules Slower

"Schedules on European lines are somewhat slower than those in America. Mail planes in the United States are much faster, better and longer than anything in Europe. Also we do much more night flying at home, particularly of mail.

"The only difficulties an American finds flying in Europe are the language barrier and the unceasing formalitfes. To a pilot accustomed to flying at will over the United States it is annoying to be held up for hours over passports and flying permits, but frontier lines make it impossible to do without these formalities here.

"The only incident of the kind on my whole trip occurred at Pisa, Italy, where I landed to check my oil supply. I wanted to spend only a few minutes, but a field official insisted that I hand over my passport. I could not make him understand I wanted to take off at once and since I don't speak Italian, it looked as though I was stalled.

"But the commanding officer of the field arrived, saw the situation and told the official what I supposed to have been, 'for heaven's sake, don't bother him, don't you see he's an American pilot.'"

BLIND STUDENT HEAD OF CLASS

OMAHA, Neb., June 13. (UP)—Blindness proved no handicap to Edward J. Kuncel, 17, who graduated from South Omaha high school today with the highest scholastic honors in his class of 362 students.

The youth, financing his way through school by doing stenographic work and selling insurance, had no grade less than an "A," the highest mark. He completed the four-year course in three years.

NEGRO HELD DEATH CASE IMPLICATED SOONER HIJACKING

Robert Burns, negro man charged here with murder in connection with the death of Eddie Nash, negro, several weeks ago, was brought back from Oklahoma City last Saturday by Sheriff Perry Browning, Deputy Ben Smith and District Attorney Sam B. Spenee.

The negro was taken there after local officials obtained information leading them to believe the prisoner might be wanted for crimes in that city. At Oklahoma City it was learned that Burns had served a term in the Oklahoma state prison and a statement was made by him in connection with a hijacking which occurred there several months ago.

Oklahoma officers said that the negro had been shot and wounded by one of them about two years ago.

The viscera of Nash, in whose death Burns is charged, was sent to Austin where the state chemist reported finding strychnine.

AMERICAN MAYORS' TOUR OF FRANCE NEARS END

PARIS, June 13. (UP)—The tour of the visiting mayors from America was almost at an end today and most of them took advantage of a "free day" from official functions to shop.

The party, in France as guests of the government, already is breaking up, and several of the mayors have indicated they plan extended tours of other countries prior to returning to the United States.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF LOCAL PRESBYTERY STAGE CONVENTION

An attendance of 87 persons was reported Saturday at the convention of the Presbyterian Young Peoples league for the Wichita presbytery, including 13 counties, which was in session all day.

The first talk at the afternoon meeting in the First Presbyterian church was by Miss Aurie Belle Yearger of Wichita Falls, on "The Story of the Presbyterian church."

Four five-minute talks followed: "National Missions" by Miss Lucile Wilson, Wichita Falls; "Foreign Missions" by B. A. Hodges of Waxahachie, Texas; "Education" by Leonard Beard, Burkburnett, and "Evangelism" by Bill Allen, Wichita Falls.

Doctor Hodges led a round table discussion on "How Can Young People Help Their Church—What Do Young People Want the Church to Do for Them."

The afternoon session closed with a debate on the subject, "Resolved that National Missions Are More Important Than Foreign Missions." The affirmative side was taken by Walton Newton of Seymour while Curtis Cook and Miss Anne Weaver, both of Wichita Falls, represented the negative.

At 5 o'clock the delegates all went to Westmoreland for a swim. The evening program opened with a banquet in the church at 6:30 p. m.

Doctor Hodges made the principal address, which was followed by games and stunts under the direction of Paul Woodward and Larry Robertson.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS AT CAPITAL BANQUET SING 'SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK'

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Democracy's 1928 campaign song—"The Sidewalks of New York"—broke out unexpectedly last night at the closing banquet of the young Republican conference.

The tune which Alfred E. Smith brought from his own east side to political listeners throughout the country seemed an overflow of yguthful exuberance in a college campus atmosphere that had weathered two full days of continuous speaking and was awaiting the close of four hours of banqueting and seven addresses before the final dance began.

Secretary Hurley, Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, and Walter Newton, secretary to President Hoover, appeared amused at the unexpectedness of the song.

"My Old Kentucky Home," and "Out Where the Tall Corn Grows" were other favorites sung by groups during the dinner courses.

NO HITCH IN PLANS SAYS GOAT GLAND SPECIALIST

MEXICO CITY, June 13. (AP)—Dr. J. R. Binkley, Kansas "goat gland" specialist, departing tonight for Kansas, said he would be gone from Mexico 10 days and he would deliver a speech June 18 at Stahle Grove, near Topeka.

He said there had been no hitch in his "Mexican plans," but he declined to reveal the nature of the project he was interested in here. He said he would return June 25.

SOME PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER?

Old Ministry Kept in Face Of Strong Protest

PARIS, June 13. (AP)—Paul Doumer was inaugurated president of France today and his first official act was to continue in office the complete cabinet of Premier Pierre Laval.

He did this in the face of a strong effort to force him to unload Aristide Briand, the foreign minister.

Permier Laval and the president were warned the ministry would fall if the veteran Briand were included in the new cabinet. They did not heed the warning.

Whispers that Laval would change several ministers in the cabinet after Doumer asked him to remain as premier threatened trouble for the new administration at the outset of its seven year term.

The threat against the government is not yet over, for that chronic enemy of Briand, Louis Marin, informed the premier he had signatures enough to overthrow him when the government presents itself to the chamber of deputies on Tuesday unless Briand is dropped.

Doumer's ceremony of inauguration, held at the Elysee palace, was most simple. It was all over in half an hour.

My, Such Pens

A bridegroom of 75, marrying his third wife, was called upon to sign the register.

The pen was a bad one, and, after making several attempts to sign, he said to the marriage clerk:

"This is the third or fourth time you've played me this trick. Next time I'll bring my fountain pen!"—Tit-Bits.

KANSAS MAN BURIED UNDER FIVE TONS OF ROCK RESCUED UNHURT

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—Buried for 25 minutes today beneath five tons of small stones, William Pashel, 35, was rescued uninjured.

When the last of the stones dumped upon him by a concrete mixer were removed by the frantic efforts of workmen, Pashel, a truck driver, arose, dusted himself off and refused the offer of a stretcher.

"I'm all right, boys," he said.

FEAR FURTHER MINE TROUBLE OHIO DISTRICT

Tense Atmosphere Prevails As Strikers Plan 'Drives'

PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY COUNTY AUTHORITIES

Call Upon Citizens to Aid Them in Putting Down 'Grave Disorders'

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, June 13. (AP)—A tense atmosphere prevailed in the eastern Ohio coal fields tonight as striking miners prepared two "drives" upon mines still operating, despite a proclamation issued by Belmont county authorities calling upon good citizens to aid in putting down "grave disorders and lawlessness."

Leaders of the National Miners Union, who are directing the strike, said they would continue the drive tonight against the new Lafferty mine of the M. A. Hanna Coal company and start a new one against the No. 6 mine of the Rail and River Coal company at Bellaire where 350 men are employed. The men are striking for an eight-hour day and re-employment of men they said were discharged because of union connections.

Three More Mines Closed

Belmont county officials issued the proclamation after the strikers forced the closing of three more mines in the Belmont county territory.

"This grave disorder and lawlessness is being caused by and financed by people from without the county, on a large part, without the state, who are not interested in law and order or in the miners or good citizens of Belmont county," the proclamation said. The proclamation was signed by the three members of the board of county commissioners, Sheriff Howard Duff and Prosecutor Paul Waddell.

The strike in Belmont county has affected approximately 1,500 miners, officials said. They pointed out that this was approximately half the persons employed in the mines of the county which is one of the richest coal fields in the state.

More Than 100 Deputies

One arrest was made in the Jefferson county strike. Tony Bomliski, 37, was taken into custody on a charge of making threatening remarks to miners at Bradley Mine No. 2 of the United States Coal company. He was removed to Steubenville from Smithfield jail after threats to storm the jail were received by deputy sheriffs.

More than 100 special deputy sheriffs in Belmont and Jefferson counties were maintaining order.

The three alleged leaders of the Belmont county strike, Leo Thompson, 23, Pittsburgh; Tony C. Gizigna, 31, Pittsburgh, and Fanta Spontana, 50, New Lafferty, arrested in an attempt to storm the county jail to release the 11 arrested at the New Lafferty mine, continued their hunger strike started yesterday in an attempt to force officials to free them.

PRELIMINARY HEARING FOR HARMON TUESDAY WOUNDED IN KANSAS

OLATHE, Ks., June 13. (UP)—Preliminary hearing for J. R. Harmon, captured in an attempted automobile tire robbery near Stilwell, Kan., when his companion was slain, will be held next Tuesday.

Harmon was wounded and surrendered after officers killed Herbert S. Holliday, notorious train and mail robber. Holliday had served six years in the Leavenworth, Kan., federal penitentiary for a $6,000,000 train robbery in Illinois several years ago.

County Attorney Clayton Brenner released Holliday's wife, arrested in a motor car near the scene of the attempted robbery, on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Fishing Stream Calls President From His Desk

ORANGE, Va., June 13. (UP)—Swift running trout streams which course near his Rapidan camp claimed President Hoover's attention today as he sought a week-end of relaxation and rest in preparation for a strenuous speaking trip into the West next week.

Mr. Hoover expected to spend most of the day with rod and reel. He motored up to his mountain camp from Washington last evening. Not since early April, when he began the series of week-end economy conferences with various cabinet officials, has the president had an opportunity to go fishing, and on June 15 the Virginia trout season closes. No fishing is done at the camp on Sunday, so the executive had only until sundown tonight.

A little work remained to be done on the address that the president will deliver Wednesday at the rededication of the Lincoln Memorial, Springfield, Ill. The addresses he will make Monday at Indianapolis and Tuesday at the dedication of the Harding Memorial in Ohio are in their final form.

Allan Hoover accompanied the president and Mrs. Hoover to camp, and was permitted to invite a number of his Washington friends to come up during the day.

"So I hear," shot back Higgs.—Answers.

Three-Year Federal Attack Puts Capone Off Gangdom Throne

CHICAGO, June 13. (AP)—A perfectly planned and executed three-year attack by the federal government has forced Alphonse Capone from the throne of gangdom to the brink of oblivion.

Early in the summer of 1928 the offensive against the scarfaced overlord of the underworld was launched by United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson.

Link by link the chain of evidence was forged. Every obstacle became a stepping stone to success. Every raid strengthened the chain.

Then, last summer, the government finally "got to" Capone. He was sentenced to serve six months for contempt of court in delaying a federal grand jury appearance. A decision on the appeal is expected next month.

Last week, the government climaxed its income evasion campaign against gangland by indicting Capone for failure to pay $215,080 taxes on a six-year income of $1,038,645.

'Mountain Top' Reached

Yesterday the mountain top was reached. The same federal grand jury that lodged the income tax charge indicted the gangster for the offense that has brought him millions of dollars, conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. With him, 68 henchmen were also indicted on 5,000 charges of violating that statute.

Next Tuesday, Capone will be arraigned on both the income tax and liquor violations and at that time, District Attorney Johnson will decide what charge will be tried first.

And today, for the first time, the strategy that handcuffed Capone to the courts can be told.

In June, 1928, Capone decided it was time for the government to aid in the get rid of gangsters campaign.

From the outset, the "big shot" was the quarry. But Capone was something of a phantom, here today, somewhere else tomorrow. Rumors about him were legion; actual facts were few. Heavily guarded, he kept out of legal toils except when he voluntarily appeared in court to furnish bonds.

Chieftains First

Thus Johnson planned to convict Capone's chieftains first, with the knowledge in mind that evidence against these would be tangible to Capone. Two years were spent in investigating beer and gambling receipts, vice resort records, bank deposits and handbook payoffs. Then came the attack.

Frank Nitti, "the enforcer," Capone's treasurer, is serving an 18-month term in Leavenworth for income tax violation.

Ralph Capone, boss of the Cicero bailiwick, has appealed a three-year sentence for the same charge. Jack "Greasy Thumb" Guzik, Capone business manager, has appealed a five-year sentence, same charge. Sam Guzik, slot machine czar, is serving a year and a day at Leavenworth, same charge.

All's fair in war, was the government cry, and any charge was used to break through the wall around Capone. The Mann Act was used to haul "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, expert trigger man, into court. Deportation was the weapon used against Tony "Mops" Volpe, Capone's personal bodyguard. His return journey to Italy awaits only an appeal.

Bits of evidence in all these attacks were forged into the case against "Scarface Al." Every plan of the attack dovetailed.

Montana Papers Again Advertise Sale Gold Pans

BUTTE, Mont., June 13. (UP)—For the first time in 40 years Butte newspapers are carrying announcements that gold pans are for sale by local hardware stores.

Thus Montana has revived her oldest and most romantic industry—placer mining. Hundreds are taking to the hills in quest of gold.

A good living can be made panning the precious metal from old stream beds.

Ghost towns, abandoned in the 80's, are showing signs of life. An occasional prospector with a little bottle or bag of gold dust is encountered in town. Others return with him.

Dr. Francis A. Thomson, president of the Montana School of Mines, recently said that he and an unemployed man would strike into the hills and work on some of the old gold leads of the state.

The demand for gold pans, most necessary to the prospector's kit, has been insistent but manufacturers had quit supplying the pans, their manufacture having been relegated to an historic past.

ITALIAN TROOPS CLASH MOB OF DEMONSTRATORS TWELVE PERSONS INJURED

LONDON, June 13. (INS)—Twelve persons were injured at Nicastro, Italy, today when Italian troops clashed with a mob of demonstrators in front of the bishop's palace there, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome.

The mob stormed the bishop's residence in protest to the pope's recent prohibition of public religious processions, issued as a drastic measure to induce the Italian government to make concessions to the Vatican in the church-state controversy over the closing of Catholic youth organizations throughout Italy.

The Vatican had protested vigorously over the government's alleged laxity in protecting church property during a series of anti-Catholic demonstrations in Rome, and the prompt action of troops in quelling today's riot was seen as the government's answer to this protest.

SPUDDER DISCARDS TURN ON OLD MATES TO WIN 8 TO 4 GAME

Back in 1925 Rhino Williams, then a veteran outfielder with the Dallas club and, we believe, now retired, hit 70 doubles to establish the modern Texas league record for two-base hits. None has come close to that record in the last five years, but one George Stanton is likely to come mighty close to it in this season of 1931 if he retains his good health through the full stretch of the schedule. For the first 58 games of the season Buck was credited with 26 two-base hits. If he continues at that ratio he will end the season mighty close to the 70 mark. To set a new record, however, he cannot slow up in the remaining games. He must continue to make it almost a daily chore and every now and then get them in droves.

As impressive as is Williams' 1925 record, it falls far short of that held by one Lyman Lamb. This one-time Spudder in 1924 rolled up the unbelievable total of 100, while playing the outfield for Tulsa of the Western league. It is a record that probably stands for all of baseball, from the class D's through the majors. Lamb was favored that season by the old Tulsa park, a layout that was just a few feet bigger than Waco's famous bandbox. Numerous long flies that in a larger park would have been easy outs bounced off the fences for doubles. It was a park made to order for two-base hits. If it had been smaller too many of the drives would have been home runs, and if it had been larger too many would have been outs.

Stanton rightfully owns one more double than he is credited with in the books. Down at Fort Worth last Monday he socked a legitimate double, but was credited with a single only. It was a drive to left field, which McClanahan tossed into second too late for a play. Stanton slid into the base as clean as a whistle, but Shortstop Baker, after letting the throw-in bounce a few feet out of his glove, retrieved the ball and tagged Stanton out when the latter carelessly got off the bag in coming up from his slide. The Fort Worth scorer apparently was gazing out the window or somewhere, for it positively was a two-base hit and not a case of the runner attempting to stretch a single into a double.

The Panhandle league, if it really goes over, has two aces up its sleeve that may pull it through the season. First of all, President J. Alvin Gardner is insisting that each club put its cash forfeit on the barrel-head before the little thing starts. This will supply a surplus that will go far toward seeing the league through the short schedule it plans. The second ace is contained in the scheme of playing 100 per cent night baseball. Three of the four cities, Pampa, Amarillo, and Lubbock, have posted their forfeit, according to Gardner, and at last accounts the fourth city, Clovis, N. M., was having difficulty arranging that important detail. All are to install night equipment and start in with night games right at the jump. Night baseball, of course, will be making its debut in that entire section and the novelty of the thing, it seems, should assure sufficient attendance to carry the teams well into race, regardless of how interest is maintained after the new wears off.

Houston presents one of baseball's strongest arguments for night play. It is doubtful if the night game has been as successful anywhere as it is in Houston. It is true that the Buffs have a first place ball club, but that alone cannot account for the phenomenal attendance at the Bayou city. Houston has had other league leaders in far more prosperous times than these, but never before have the customers turned out in such numbers. Monday night the Buffs played a "ladies' day" double-header with Beaumont. The league lead was at stake and it was a perfect setting for the mammoth crowd that turned out. President Fred Ankenman in a letter to league headquarters declares he had 17,000 people in the park, turned away at least 2,000 because he didn't have room for all and refunded something like $50 to fans who couldn't find seats after buying tickets. Slightly more than half the total crowd represented paid admissions, the other half women who were admitted free. Houston seems certain to break all existing Texas league attendance records, and while some of the other cities are worrying about getting out enough fans to meet the payroll, Houston's problem is finding room for those who want to see the games. The Houston situation is one of the best arguments for night ball we've heard.

It is not difficult to recall the 1929 annual minor league meeting at Chattanooga, when Lee Keyser, the Des Moines owner, was spreading talk of night baseball around the convention floor and received only a chorus of guffaws from baseball men generally. Some of the owners, managers and business managers said Keyser was crazy. Others said he had to have his little joke. Not one in 20 would take him seriously. Now we find the thing spreading through the minor leagues like a contagious disease. Parks equipped with the lights probably are in the majority now and their ranks are gaining almost weekly. The knowing ones say it is only a matter of time until the majors will start talking it and that some of the big league cities will be playing under the klieigs. It is a cinch that New York and Chicago clubs, along with some of the others that know nothing of financial difficulties will never come to night baseball. Some say the night traffic problem could never be solved in these larger centers, but it probably could if the clubs wanted to play night ball. But these cities are not likely to consider the lights simply because they are willing to let well enough alone and prefer to sidetrack so radical an experiment. But in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Washington and possibly Boston and Philadelphia, where the cash customers are not so easily persuaded, the lights are likely to make their bow within the next year or so.

Cooney's Lack of Control Provides Opening for Tribe

Flynn and Estell Pool Mound Work to Win Second for San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, June 13.—Big Tom Estell came to the rescue of Roland Flinn after Southpaw Hubbell failed to hold the Spudders in the midst of a seventh inning batting rally here Saturday afternoon. The San Antonio Indians won, 8 to 4, their second victory of the series over the Spudders.

While Flinn held his former teammates scoreless with four blows until the seventh inning Bobby Cooney's control went out of gear in the third inning when he walked Nash, hit Robertson with a pitched ball and uncorked a wild pitch, which with an error by Allday prolonged the Indians' time at bat to enable Hamilton to come up with his three-bagger.

Cooney had another bad round in the sixth when again he hit Robble with a pitched ball after two were out and Edwards had singled when Flinn sent the ball to the scoreboards for three bases, bringing in Edwards and Robertson.

Then Flinn developed symptoms of trouble and when the Spudders came up for the seventh round Hungling, Cooney and Garms cracked out three hits in a row, Hungling scoring.

The first serious setback the Spudder club has received because of injuries in the current race has crippled Manager Carl Williams' lineup to the point where it was necessary for Catcher Art Bradbury to move into the outfield Saturday at San Antonio. Bradbury was used in right field, with Bob Fuss moving to center.

Ted Gullic has been on the shelf for the past two games nursing a blistered back as the result of too much swimming Thursday at Galveston. When Gullic was forced out, Red Badgro returned to the lineup, but only for a few innings, his injured leg again forcing him to the sidelines.

Gullic is expected back in the lineup Sunday or Monday, according to a report received at club headquarters.

Error Helps Cause

After Hamilton kicked Allday's grounder, filling the bases, Stanton struck out swinging at a wide curve, and Bradbury planted a single in center, scoring Cooney. Then Euller walked, forcing in Garms, and Merritt Hubbell was called to the hill, but the youngster was unable to meet the situation and walked Fuss, forcing in Allday.

With the bases full and two balls called against Hubbell, Estell came in and Sharein, grounded to DeViveiros, who shot the ball to Robertson to force Bradbury at the plate, Hungling retired the side in his second time up in the same round on a grounder to DeViveiros, forcing Scharein at second with the Indians still leading by one run.

Estell shut out the Spudders with two singles in the last two rounds while the Indians earned a run off Cooney in the seventh when Hamilton walked, advanced on Nash's sacrifice and scored on Edwards' single to center for his third hit.

Wilkins Takes Mound

After DeViveiros singled to put two on the sacks Wilkins relieved Cooney and struck out Heath, batting for Robertson, retiring the side.

The Tribe put over two more runs in the eighth when Flaskamper walked and Stebbins beat out a hit to Euller, and after they executed a double steal, Hamilton after swinging for two strikes and with three balls called met the next pitch for a two-bagger on which Flaskamper and Stebbins tallied.

The afternoon attendance did not come up to the Friday night crowd, which was about 700 Saturday against about 2,000 Friday night.

The Spudders and Indians will play a double-header Sunday afternoon to conclude the series.

TWO-MAN TRACK TEAM WINS NATIONAL MEET FOR ILLINOIS SCHOOL

CHICAGO, June 13. (AP)—Amsden Oliver, the long, lean hurdle star from Roosevelt high, Dayton, Ohio, and a two-man track team representing Maine Township high, Des Plaines, Ill., divided top honors Saturday in the 27th renewal of the University of Chicago national interscholastic track and field championships.

The two-man team, Bob Kennicott and Marsh Miller, popped up from nowhere to win the meet by amassing 31 points between them. Oliver set a new world prep record for the 220-yard low hurdles, winning the event with ease in 23.5 seconds.

The team championship battle provided almost nothing but upsets. Fort Collins, Colo.; Oak Park of Chicago; Huntington, Va., and Dipont Manual of Louisville, Ky., were expected to fight it out for the title, but the Louisville team was the only favorite to land in the first three. Dipont racked up 22 points to tie with Wyandotte high, Kansas City, Kan., for second place, with Oliver giving his school third place with 20 points.

Oliver's performances in both hurdles were as good as anything seen in the meet in recent years. The lanky negro star took the highs, by four big yards in 15.3 excellent time for the rain-soaked track. The situation was about the same in the low hurdles, except that he lengthened his winning margin to nine yards. The old prep 220-yard hurdle mark was 23.3 seconds, set by James Payne of San Bernardino, Calif., in 1926.

WILMER ALLISON WINS TEXAS SINGLES CROWN

MEADOWMERE COUNTRY Club, Fort Worth, June 13. (AP)—Taking 11 consecutive games before losing one, Wilmer Allison, third ranking tennis player in the United States Lawn Tennis association, succeeded Bruce Barnes, undefending titleholder, as the Texas district singles champion here Saturday.

Allison, playing a match of superb tennis on a baked court and under a blazing sun, defeated Jimmy Quick of Dallas, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. The conclusion of the match left both men virtually out on their feet.

Allison entered Saturday's final combat the favorite, and he played championship tennis all the way through. Quick played superb tennis against his redoubtable opponent, and several times aced Allison but the Dallas star had neither the endurance nor the tennis shots to rank with Allison. Today made the second consecutive time Quick has reached the Texas finals. Last year he lost to Bruce Barnes, University of Texas star who is playing in the East this year.

Vaughn Rings Up Ninth Victory of Year as Mates Rally

BEAUMONT, June 13. (AP)—The Exporters won a 4 to 3 game in the ninth from Dallas Saturday, evening the series. Hughes' infield single, a sacrifice and Holley's hard smash to Higgins' right did the mischief, although the run might have been averted had not Borrelli temporarily booted the ball in left. It was Vaughn's ninth win of the season. Score:

Wichita Falls Golfers Find New Ball 'Acts Up' Too Much in Wind

The "antis" have moved well into the lead during the last few days of voting in the poll being conducted by The Times in conjunction with NEA Service on the new golf ball. Majority of ballots received over the week-end was cast against the new lighter and larger ball, though sentiment is far unanimous against the "balloon."

Golfers of this immediate section apparently are affected by the new ball to a greater degree than those of most sections. The wind that sweeps over West Texas courses at all seasons of the year is second in its severity and its regularity to that of the famous old links of the British isles. That the new ball "acts up" in the wind to the disadvantage of not only the average golfers, but the better players, seems to be the consensus—at least among those who so far have cast their votes.

Few Calm Days

In practically every case in which the player has voted the negative side—against the new ball—inability to get distance or direction or both because of the wind is assigned as the reason. Incidentally, the past few weeks have provided an excellent chance for the golfers to give the ball a thorough test in the wind, for still, calm days have been few and far between.

J. H. S. Bonner, president of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club and one of the city's low handicap players, declares he does not like the new ball for these seasons: "It rims the cup too easily on putts. In the wind, such as we have here most of the time anything on the ball is emphasized and distance is cut down."

That the city's better golfers are not in complete harmony on the question, however, is disclosed in the opinion of Orion A. Daniel, another of the country club's most efficient players. He declares he likes the ball "because it is easier to hit in a bad lie and the ball 'squats' better on the green and is not as short as the old ball with the wind."

Adds Strokes

Some of the other opinions expressed in th voting follow:

J. A. Golden, Vernon—"Affected too much by wind."

Virgil Pettigrew, Wichita Falls—"I cannot control the ball when shooting into the wind as well as I could the small ball. It has also raised my score several strokes."

E. C. Jordan, Wichita Falls—"Too susceptible to wind and more difficult to putt."

T. P. Duncan, Wichita Falls—"Wind accelerates hook or slice. Lose distance, making a difference of four to six strokes on 18 holes. Does not putt right, rims cup and nearly always is short."

J. W. Caldwell, Wichita Falls—"For the average player the old ball gives him distance. On a windy day it is hard to work with the new ball."

O. D. McCoy, Eastland—"Has cut from 15 to 25 yards off all shots. I am using old ball when possible to get it."

Results of the ballot being taken by NEA Service are to be turned over to the United States Golf association for consideration of the ruling force of the game. If you have not yet voted, fill out the accompanying coupon, mail or bring it to the sports editor of The Times and your vote will be included in the national poll.

Those who like the new ball had best get busy, for the "noes" are steadily rolling up a commanding lead in the Wichita Falls section.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE TO OPEN SECOND HALF RACE MONDAY

Clubs Strengthen For New Drive to Start This Week

Closer Battle Than First Half Thriller Is Anticipated

With the wild first half pennant race at a close and Malone's Beauty shop declared the undisputed winners of the first half race, the second half of the Commercial league season starts Monday afternoon with the first half winners and the hard hitting, runnerup, Texas Electric Service company Frigidaires in the first important test. The game will be played on Harrison field.

Noble-Little and Dixon blow the lid off the second half Monday on Debus field. Both these clubs finished up the first half race in the second division, but much is expected from them for the rest of the way.

The Banker-Presbyterian opener is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon on Harrison field. The Bankers made a stubborn fight for first half honors and intend to carry their fighting spirit into the last half of the race. The Presbyterians have been building for several weeks to make a strong bid for the last half pennant.

Another Close Race

For the last half of the week the Presbyterians take on the Malone's Beauty shop club on Thursday on Debus field. Dixon Sign will take on the Texas Electric Frigidaires at Harrison on the same day.

The Noble-Little nine meets the Bankers Friday on Harrison field in the final game of the week.

One of the closest contested races ever staged in a Wichita Falls amateur league is expected for the last half, with every club strengthened for the drive and ready to go. The three second division clubs of the first half displayed some hard playing baseball ability in the closing days and if they can hold up under the strain they will make it an even tighter race than the first half.

Strikeout Leader

Last year's sensational hitting averages of Everett Blue and Glenn Coolidge faded before the faster brand of pitching of this year and the improved manner of fielding by each club. Late unofficial records for the first half point out a fact of interest that Howard "Rabbit" Gordon, Malone's ace, took the league leadership in hitting with a last day spurt which brought his average up to .455. Gordon hit three for four in the final game to put him over the top by a few percentage points.

One league mark which will be shattered with ease this year is the strikeout record. Harry Geyer can fall far short of his first half total of 111 strikeouts to hang up a new record. Pitching like Geyer has turned out and batting of the sort served by Gordon will show how the Beauties captured the first half title.

The last half schedule follows:

June 15—Electrics vs. Malone's on Harrison field; Noble-Little Hardware Co. vs. Dixon Sign company on Debus field.

June 16—Banks vs. Presbyterians on Harrison field.

June 18—Presbyterians vs. Malone's on Debus field; Dixon vs. Electrics on Harrison field.

The latter was also passed by a new challenger in Boroja of Beaumont with .367. Batting averages on the whole indicate a rising tendency and box scores last week for the first time since the start of the season resembled the ordinary batting sprees of a decade of hard hitting. Three clubs are closely bunched in club batting with the lead going to the Spudders with .288, this team also leading in hits and two-baggers. Beaumont tops in runs, triples, runs batted in and stolen bases. Shreveport leads in home runs.

Minogue holds the leading pitching honors, having won seven games and lost one, but Payne and Dean, both of Houston, lead in games won with nine each. Other pitching leaders, games pitched, Murray, Dallas, and Payne, Houston, 18; innings pitched, Payne, Houston, 120; strikeouts, Dean, Houston, 66; Chagnon, Fort Worth, 65. Leaders in City League Again to Play Lower Trio

By MACK TURNER

Again the three first division clubs of the City league face the three second division nines Sunday with the I. O. Booster-Sullivan Grocery company game slated as the feature contest of the day. The Booster-Sullivan game will be played on the Jalonic street diamond. The league-leading Bailey-Moline Hardware company club will play the Modern Woodmen on the Ball Brothers diamond while Star Transfer company and the P. D. Q. club play at Katy park. All games are carded for 3:30 p. m.

If the groceryman can hold up under the pace they have set for the past two weeks, the Boosters may have a tough time holding their neck and neck race for second place with Star Transfer. The Woodmen dropped a double bill week before last to Sullivan, then the grocerymen last week gave Bailey-Moline a severe scare before the hardware men nosed out by the skin of their teeth.

The Boosters will use either Henry Hatton or Cecil Stovall on the firing line Sunday, while Skipper Franklin likely is to depend on his veteran ace, Stanley Anderson to do the chunking.

Red Nichols is likely to get the call for Bailey-Moline against the P. D. Q. nine that is yet to win its first league game. It is rumored that P. D. Q. has been adding much new strength of late and may yet surprise somebody.

The Modern Woodmen hope to return to their winning ways against Star Transfer with Nig Bell, bespectacled southpaw, on the firing line. Lefty Marvin Robertson, the Texas Longhorn product, or the veteran Gabe Harris stand in line for the chunking duties of the Star nine. A recent addition to Star Transfer company of Elmer "Red" Winniger, one of the best little maskmen produced in this section of the country in many years, has been reported. Jim Janeway, first string catcher, injured a hand a couple of weeks ago, and the addition of Winniger will be a great help to the club.

No drastic shakeup is expected this week in the league standing, but the steady strengthening of the clubs, the second division clubs in particular, a much faster brand of baseball is expected for the City league in the closing days of the race. The race at present has not given the fans any too great a chance for excitement, with three teams pulling slowly but surely away from the rest of the field, but a faster brand of baseball from the second division clubs will do much to help attendance in the league and keep up the interest of the fans.

Roque Is Latest Sport to Thrive In Wichita Falls

Clark-McDonald and Ward-Fisher Teams Set Fast Early Pace

A new sport that is rapidly gaining a place of prominence in Wichita Falls is roque. Two leagues have been organized by the Wichita Falls Roque association and play is supervised by the city park department. In class A the team of Clark and McDonald is setting a fast pace, with 13 games won and one lost, while in class B Ward and Fisher are setting the pace, with eight victories and two defeats.

Class A league games are scheduled each Monday and Thursday night and class B on Tuesday and Friday. Courts are located at Scotland park and 1640 Lucile street.

The Wichita Falls Roque association is a member of the American Roque association, which entitles Wichita Falls members to participate in all state meets and in the national meet. The Wichita Falls association expects to send a large number of players to Fort Worth to the state meet which will be held on Labor day.

Cissell at Last Pays Profits on Huge Investment

White Sox' Expensive Buy Of 1928 Delivers in Early Games

CHICAGO, June 13. (AP)—Bill Cissell, the ex-cavalryman from the United States army, is back riding 'em high and wide with the Chicago White Sox this year after three disappointing campaigns.

When Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, startled the baseball world in 1928 by buying Cissell from Portland of the Pacific Coast league for $123,000, fans expected Cissell to do a lot of startling things.

He did them, but they all startled the White Sox instead of the opposition. He fielded poorly and his batting was under the .300 mark for his first three seasons.

So far this year, however, Cissell has come back in big style. He has been winning game after game for the White Sox with long hits in the pinches and has turned in some of the choicest fielding to be seen around the American league.

He looks like he has "arrived" at last to pay dividends on the large Comiskey investment.

Cissell's rise in the world of baseball was a story book romance. Back in 1926 he was with the United States cavalry, where he gained the attention of a scout from the Des Moines club of the Western league.

The scout talked with Cissell, learned that he would rather play baseball than ride horses any day, and forthwith purchased his release from the army for $50.

Cissell burned up the Western league in 1926 and Des Moines received a fancy dividend on its investment by selling him to Portland for $13,000. After two bright years at Portland, he was sold to the White Sox for $75,000 in cash and for players valued at $48,000—an astonishing total of $123,000.

The fighters met in the center of the ring. Hall missed with a left swing, and Fernandez crashed his right to the chin, ending the bout.

England Defends Japan

EASTBOURNE, Eng., June 13. (AP)—England Saturday defeated Japan in doubles, making the series three matches to none and advancing the English team to the final round of European zone Davis cup tennis play.

FARM LEADERS SAY CHANGES MUST BE MADE BY FRIENDS

Declaration Made in Connection With Amendment of Act

ORGANIZATIONS SERVE NOTICE AT CONVENTION

More Than 1,400 Leaders Attend Meeting at Manhattan, Kansas

MANHATTAN, Kan. June 13. (AP)—The organized farmers served notice today through L. J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio, master of the National Grange, that if the agricultural marketing act is amended "it will be done by its friends and not the enemies of rural welfare."

The grange master made his declaration at the closing program of the seventh annual session of the American Institute of Cooperation.

Viewing the agricultural marketing act and the farm board as "steps in the right direction," he said the machinery set up "should be of value through the years."

"Like all new legislation," Taber said, "amendments and changes may be needed, but the organized farmers serve notice on the nation that if and when the act is amended, it will be done by its friends and not the enemies of rural welware."

Many Leaders Attend

More than 1,400 farm organization leaders and educators representing 33 states, Canada, Egypt and Argentine registered during the six-day institute at Kansas State college. The institute next year will be held at the University of New Hampshire, Durham.

Addressing the institute last night, Chairman James C. Stone of the farm board said experience had convinced the members that crop prices stabilization activities can be resorted to only as temporary remedies and cannot cope successfully with continuous overproduction of a crop or steadily mounting surpluses." The farm board, he said, regarded adjustment of production to probable marketing requirements as fundamental.

In reviewing activities of the farm board, he said its stabilization operations in wheat and cotton had been "fully justified by the results" and that when the board stepped into the wheat market last November it averted a crash in prices of the grain.

Mother Finds Two Sons Dead in Bed Puzzle to Police

ST. LOUIS, June 13. (UP)—The aged and totally deaf mother of William J and Arthur Campbell, went to awaken her two sons today and found them side by side in bed, dead, bullets through their brains.

Circumstances of the slayings puzzled police, for the pistol with which the two middle aged coal miners had been killed was found on top of a wardrobe eight feet high, 12 feet from the bodies.

Arthur, who was 48, had a closed razor in his right hand, and a similar type of razor lay between the two bodies. Neither man was cut and the razors bore no blood stains.

The mother, a woman of 88, because of deafness and infirmities told a slightly incoherent story, but denied she had moved the pistol.

The suicide theory was supported by a discovery of a note written by William, which read "Will J. Campbell, 142 and Washington street. Have a deaf mother and an insane brother."

The mother explained that Arthur had always "been slightly off" and William, who was four years his brother's senior, in ill health a long time.

PRESIDENT INDEPENDENT PETROLEUM ASSOCIATION CALLS MEETING MONDAY

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—Tom E. Cranfill, president of the Independent Petroleum association, today called a meeting of all East Texas oil operators at Tyler Monday morning. At the meeting the new 20-acre unit plan of proration will be presented for general approval. Cranfill said 34 violators of present proration orders, or all but five in the field, had already approved the agreement.

The plan calls for an allowable of 300 barrels daily for each 20 acres, potential production being disregarded. It embodies the raising of the East Texas allowable from the present figure of 160,000 barrels daily to about 300,000 eventually; but for the time being, it was estimated that the new plan would allow about 230,000 barrels, less than is being produced in violation of proration orders.

OKLAHOMAN SHOT AND WOUNDED AFTER CHASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13. (UP)—A 25-year-old man giving his name as Lawrence Smith, was shot by Police Scout Leon Whalen early today after a mile chase.

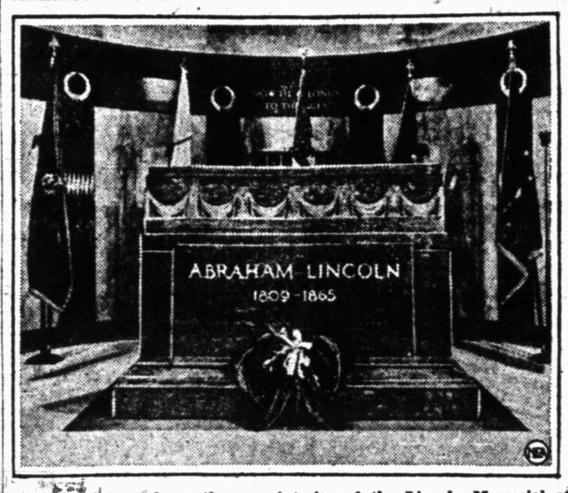
Smith was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported serious. Two companions, Bud Dean, Durant, and Marvin Byars, Oklahoma City, were held at the police station for investigation.

Whalen said the youth ran when he overtook the car in which the three youths were riding. Arms were found in the car, police said.

AUSTIN MAN ARRESTED BY OFFICERS AT DALLAS CHARGE EMBEZZLEMENT

AUSTIN, June 13. (AP)—Wanted here on two indictments charging embezzlement, Fred K. Fisher, well known former Austin insurance man and member of a prominent Austin family, was arrested yesterday at Dallas. Deputy Sheriff Frank Turner was on his way to Dallas today to return Fisher here.

LINCOLN'S TOMB AWAITS DEDICATION



This picture shows the new interior of the Lincoln Memorial at Springfield, Ill., which was recently rebuilt and is to be re-dedicated by President Hoover on June 17, the original dedication having been made by President Grant. The saracophagus of the great emancipator is of red Arkansas marble and is striking for its simple and dignified beauty.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 13. (AP)—The monument to Abraham Lincoln, dedicated almost three score years ago by President Ulysses S. Grant, and recently rebuilt to preserve it for future generations, awaits another president and another dedication.

When President Herbert Hoover comes to Springfield Wednesday he will find the emancipator's tomb and its surroundings appearing from the outside much as it did when Grant dedicated it to "the nation's greatest hero."

Piercing the sky from the topmost hill in Oakridge cemetery, the gray-granite shaft at thecenter of the monument presents a view almost identical with that the civil war hero beheld. But many of the details have been changed with an almost complete rearrangement of the interior.

The iron-barred door marked "Lincoln" which for 57 years had been swung back to admit kings, princes, potentates and statesmen, has been closed for the last time. It opened from the back of the monument and was seldom unlocked for it permitted a view of the sarcophagus through its iron bars.

In its place today is a stained glass window, and the view of the sarcophagus is from the other side. The entrance is from the front instead of viewing it from the foot through bars, visitors now may stand in the room of the sarcophagus and look at it full length from the side.

The approach is through hallways of marble, lined with reproductions of famous statutes of Lincoln. The sarcophagus of red marble holds a somber place of dignity in a circular room, alone with the flags of the states where the Lincoln's lived, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois.

Rebuilding of the monument cost $175,000, almost as much as the original construction. It was built in 1874 at a cost of $180,000.

A stand has been completed for President Hoover and his party in front of and to one side of the monument. Space has been cleared for 75,000 persons on the rolling ground which forms the approach to the monument.

EFFORTS TO UNIONIZE WEST VIRGINIA MINERS MEETING WITH SUCCESS

WASHINGTON, June 13. (US)—Efforts to unionize the coal miners in West Virginia, are meeting with remarkable success, the newspaper "Labor," organ of the railroad brotherhoods, declared today.

About 6,000 miners have joined the union in recent weeks with more joining daily, it was stated. A strike was called recently, it was said, in 43 mines which announced pay cuts. Since then 27 of the mines have decided against wage slashes and have decided to recognize the union. Labor added:

"A significant feature of the pact is that the miners have agreed with the employers to attend any conference looking to the stabilization of the industry called by the federal government."

JAMES STILLMAN TELLS REPORTERS HE'S STILL FRIENDLY WITH EX-WIFE

LONDON, June 13. (US)—James Stillman, millionaire New York banker, recently divorced, registered today at a London hotel after debarking at Southampton from the Olympic.

In answer to questions, he told reporters he was still friends with his former wife, now the wife of Fowler McCormick, 20 years her junior, and son of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago and grandson of John D. Rockefeller.

Stillman said it was possible he might fall in love again but never intends to marry.

Lady—Have you ever been offered work?

New Hope Negro Church Pins Hope On Outcome Test

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 13. (AP)—The hopes of the New Hope church negro congregation today were pinned upon the outcome of an oil test in Gregg county filed by the Manziel-Kourl interests, the New Hope church No. 1 on the Martha Dillard survey near Gladewater.

Recently members of the negro congregation held a special prayer meeting at which success for the well was petitioned in song and prayer. The congregation plans to build a new brick church with royalty money from the well.

That the congregation's prayers might be answered was not improbable, as the test is almost entirely surrounded by production and has derricks on every side. It is 700 feet west of the Moore well, which came in May 4 with output estimated at more than 35,000 barrels.

A thousand feet nortward is the Humble Oil company's Johnson No. 1, a big producer, and three-fourths of a mile southward is the Selby Oil company's Snavely No. 1, with production estimated at more than 25,000 barrels daily. Recently the Selby company disposed of half of its holdings at a price of around $1,000,000.

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR TO ISSUE FULL PARDON FOR WOMAN HELD BY CITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13. (AP)—The office of Gov. W. H. Murray announced today a full pardon would be issued for Lillian Brewster, 20, under an 11-day vagrancy sentence here.

On advice of Municipal Counselor A. R. McRill, police refused last night to release the girl on a telephoned order form the executive offices. She still was held today pending receipt of the formal order.

Governor Murray this week championed the cause of persons arrested here for vagrancy, pardoning a group of riverbottom "squatters." He took the position the jobless should not be penalized unless the city can offer them employment.

McRill today studied the city's legal rights in connection with the river bottom squatters, in the face of the governor's promise to pardon persons arrested for vagrancy. Numerous families already have been moved out on order of the city sanitation squad and others have been ousted from public property.

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 13. (AP)—More than 200 city officials are expected to arrive in Lubbock Sunday and early Monday morning for opening of the annual two-day convention of the League of Texas Municipalities, according to word received here today from Harvey W. Draper, executive secretary of the organization, who will be in Lubbock Sunday to clear up final details of the gathering.

Everything is in readiness for the civic leaders, Mayor Jerry J. Clements and City Manager W. H. Rodgers announced today.

NORTHWEST THREATENED WITH REPETITION OF LAST YEAR'S DROUTH

WASHINGTON, June 13. (US)—Drouth conditions in the northwest threaten to become as critical as they were last year, the Glasgow, Montana, Chamber of Commerce today advised Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

Walsh was urged to use his efforts to have Secretary of Agriculture Hyde make additional loans to farmers in Valley county, Montana, which has had no beneficial rains in two years.

Crop failures already are estimated at over 50 per cent and the chamber said there will be a total loss if there are no rains by July 1.

ATTORNEYS PLAN APPEAL IN BEHALF YOUNG CLIENT HELD IN MEXICAN JAIL

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Attorneys for Dee Ham, Weslaco youth, held in jail at Matamoros, Mexico, planned today to appeal to the supreme tribunal of the state of Tamaulipas in behalf of their young client, whom Judge Jesus Rojas yesterday ordered held for trial on homicide charges in connection with the fatal shooting Sunday night of Miss Mina Clark in a Rio Rico, Mexico cabaret.

Ham, under Mexican law, is ineligible for bail.

Evidence of the preliminary hearing was forwarded to the supreme tribunal for review, and Marvin R. Hall, Cameron county attorney, said an immediate appeal from the ruling of Judge Rojas would be carried before the supreme tribunal.

Mayor of Reno Shouts Defiance Defending State

RENO, Nev., June 13. (US)—Mayor John E. Roberts, Liberal, today shouted defiance to those who have criticised Nevada for the state's divorce and gambling laws.

"I think," the mayor declared, "That Nevada can manage its own affairs—I know Reno can—without the help of outside critics. But," and he shrugged his shoulders, "You can't make everybody see the good side of things."

Mayor Roberts is opposed to prohibition. He is somewhat militant, too, and was in a fighting mood today. He said: "A number of these longhair writers and speakers do not realize just how much Nevada has done for the other states and the union as a whole."

the city hall and watched the crowds and the scores of automobiles "from everywhere" as they passed along Center street, now known as gamblers' row. And as he watched the mayor smiled broadly.

"You see. . . ." he said.

OKLAHOMA MAN SERVING SENTENCE SEEKS RELEASE

M'ALESTER, Okla., June 13. (UP)—Roland Williams, serving a 10-year sentence in the state penitentiary for robbery at Shawnee, sought release today on a writ of habeas corpus filed in district court here.

Williams escaped from the Shawnee jail in April, 1925, with Ray Terrill and Ed Bailey after taking the jailor's pistol.

The petition alleged Williams was convicted for theft of the pistol, a crime, the petition says, never had been committed.

TEXAS COMPANY TO BUY 31,800 BARRELS DAY NORTH TEXAS

Oil Men Heartened by Announcement That Leading Purchaser Will More Than Double Its Daily Oil Takings

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

The Texas company will purchase approximately 31,800 barrels of crude oil from the various pools of the district and other North Texas fields per day, according to the announcement made by that company from its offices in this city.

The news, which is the most cheering received by the producers, operators and general public for a long time, has given a rosy hue to the darkened clouds that have hung over the district's most important industry for the past two years and indications are that further improvements in the industry are looked for at an early date.

The Texas company, which has been to a great extent the salvation of the operators in this section, with its purchasing powers, has, for the past period of proration, been purchasing 14,500 barrels daily, this figure being about 2,000 barrels in excess of its nominations according to the proration figures.

According to the information, the Texas company is purchasing a total of 14,500 barrels at the present time. To this will be added 8,000 barrels per day from new connections, 2,300 barrels will be purchased to offset the turnover of its 3,500 barrels of Wilbarger crude to the Waggoner refinery at Electra; 7,000 more barrels will be added to the purchases for the purpose of selling to the local refineries, which will be supplied at the posted price of 37 cents per barrel for 40 gravity and above, to which will be added 13 cents pipeage, or carrier charges. This charge includes the one cent loss in transit, the usual rate for close-in transportation. This has been reduced to one-half cent per barrel, making the rate 13 cents instead of 13½ cents per barrel.

The Texas company has also completed plans to take over all connections of the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Humble Oil and Refining company throughout the Cook county field, which will mean about 1,300 more barrels purchased.

In the Panhandle field where the Texas company has been taking ratably since the advent of proration, a total of 11,000 barrels daily increased buying will add another 1,000 barrels to that section of the state.

According to the weekly production report published in this paper, the total output as allowed by the proration umpire is approximately 55,167 barrels per day. With the Texas company, with its purchase of the greater part of the crude, and other buyers in the field, it may become necessary in the near future to bring a change from the marginal limit of four barrels to six barrels per well per day.

Well, anyhow, the past few days have seen the atmosphere throughout the district change from a pessimistic to an optimistic attitude on all sides, and with a small improvement in the ace wild development now under way in the East Texas field, no surprise would be occasioned by waking up to the fact that the much awaited boost in price had arrived.

Despite the depressed condition of the industry, the past week finds the Wichita Falls district accomplishing its usual amount of development. Several new locations were made in Young, Archer and other counties. A few wells were completed, both producers and failures being on the list.

While many spudders were drilling in the shallow areas of the district interest of the operators and others was centered on the outcome of several deep tests now nearing the interesting depths. Of these one is the Shappell Oil company No. 1 W. P. Ferguson, located two miles southeast of Kemp City, and a distance of three miles south of Deep Oil Development No. 1 Munger well. The test is drilling at 3650 feet and expecting to pick up a change in formation at any time in the next 50 to 100 feet. A well here at an average depth of 3800 feet would mean a big southern extension to the pay horizon of the Munger well to the north, and the next few days' progress is of vital interest to the operators in this border area.

Munger Deep Well

North of Kemp City the Deep Oil Development company No. 1 Munger placed a cement plug in the sand at 3950-57 feet to shut off water coming in from below and is waiting for it to set, when it will be drilled out and the well numbered among the district's deep producers.

James E. McKanna and associates Saturday spudded in on their No. 1 A. B. Edwards wildcat in block 20, Hunt survey, three miles north of Scotland in Archer county. This test is contracted to a depth of 4000 feet and is one of the most important to be started in this section of the county.

Six hundred feet west of the Deep Oil-Lindsay No. 1 L. F. Wilson deep well in block 76, A. T. N. C. L. survey, which is still producing 560 barrels daily, the Deep Oil-Lindsay No. A-5 Wilson, in block 75, same survey, is feeling for the 2200-foot pay and some definite report is expected in the next 24 hours. At present the test is drilling at 2178 feet.

Three miles southeast of the Deep Oil-Lindsay producer, D. L. Wolfe and associates' No. 1 W. O. Davis, located in the south 40 of west half of section 64, block 5, Clark-Plumb subdivision, is also feeling for the lime at a depth of 2160 feet.

Other deep tests are drilling along in a satisfactory manner and with any luck should bring forth some interesting news.

Pipe line runs from the district's pools for the week averaged 55,167 barrels per day, a gain of 224 barrels compared with the preceding seven days. Coupled with the four fields not under Proration Umpire Hull, the total output for this section averaged 60,970 barrels.

Big Rattler Killed

QUANAH, Texas, June 13.—Roy Dunham of the Star Valley community exhibited a rattlesnake killed on his farm which measured 5½ feet in length and weighed 8½ pounds. It had 12 rattles.

Several years ago a rattler was on exhibit at the Ford Motor company which measured seven feet, and was the largest snake of that species ever killed in this section.

NEW DIRECTORY SHOWS WICHITA TO ADVANTAGE

METROPOLITAN AREA 50,792 INHABITANTS

Wide Distribution to Be Given Facts Concerning City That Faith Built

Wichita Falls, June 13.—The John F. Worley Directory company, publishers of the Wichita Falls city directory, issued their 1931 edition today. It is a 422-page book, two columns to the page in certain departments, and three columns in others. Despite the business slump, it is practically as "fat" as previous numbers.

"The 1931 compilation is the result of our arduous house-to-house, office-to-office, store-to-store canvass of the entire city," a representative of the publishing company stated. "The belief of some that each edition is merely a revision of the one previous is a misconception of the scope and nature of directory work. The character of entire districts changes rapidly from year to year in the average progressive community, and especially is this true in a comparatively new city like Wichita Falls. This makes mere revision impossible," he said.

Facts exemplifying the "City That Faith Built," excerpts from the directory's statistical review and city write-up, are as follows: Population of city proper, 43,690; population of mertopolitan area, 50,792 (both quoted from 1930 U. S. census); 1930 assessed valuation of property, $51,171,690; total bank deposits March 25, 1931, $15,492,868; total bank resources (same date), $21,557,894; 1930 bank clearings, $99,914,133; 1930 postal receipts, $308,430; 1930 value of building permits, $919,885; annual industrial production value, $42,500,000; public school enrollment, 11,014; miles of paved streets, 55.3.

The Wichita Falls city directory is not a stay-at-home, the publishers explain, but is readily accessible to the public in several branches of the country-wide free directory library system operated by the members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers. Libraries in 25 Texas cities, in certain cities of adjoining states, and in the very largest cities of the country have the book on file. In exchange for the local directory, the directories of other cities are brought here, and there is a unit of the directory library chain at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

A significant feature of the Wichita Falls city directory is the system of indicating in the street guide (pink) section those homes owned by the occupants thereof. Another is the complete directory of Texas state officials, Texas courts, U. S. officers in Texas, officers of all Texas counties, and Texas post offices.

Marshaled between J. W. Aaron and Norman F. Zumwalt in the new directory are many monickers, which if names were keys to character, would be fraught with meaning. Among these are Fair, Fine, Earnest, Frank, Hale, Hardy, Noble, Human, Humble, Shy, Handy, Dear, Honey, Peach, Blank, Boring, Green, Looney, Vague, Black, Dark, Long, Gaunt, High, Low, Rich, Poor, Boozer, Craven, Close, Miser, Petty, Pigg, Lemon, Dowdy, Crabb, Cross, Moody, Savage, Lawless and Hellman. "Evidence" that the two-gun days have gone from the West appears in the one Gun among the names of Wichita Falls. There are five Horsmans and four Steeds.

Test Northwest of Wellington Finds Good Oil Showing

WELLINGTON, Texas, June 13.—Downey No. 1, located in section 102, block 21, Collingsworth county, and about 16 miles northwest of Wellington, late Friday encountered a good oil showing topped at 2498 feet. This was penetrated two feet when the drilling stopped on account of the caveins. Preparations to test the sand are under way. According to reports, the oil is standing at approximately 350 feet in the hole and further developments are being watched with interest.

QUANAH SEEKS TO AVOID PENALTY ON INSURANCE

QUANAH, Texas, June 13.—Appeals are being made by insurance men and other citizens for close cooperation in keeping down the fire loss in Quanah or a penalty of 10 per cent on premiums may have to be paid. Losses in Quanah since March 1 have amounted to $20,000.

Premiums paid annually for fire insurance here amount to about $40,000 and the 10 per cent increase would mean an additional $4,000 penalty for carelessness, it was stated.

OIL FOUND IN SEVERAL WARD COUNTY TESTS

Group of World's Deepest Wells Increases Oil Production

SCHLEICHER COUNTY WILDCAT BROUGHT IN

Shooting Benefits Cranfill Producer in Crane County

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 13.—The encountering of oil in more Ward county tests, increased production by Cranfill Bros. and Gulf's No. 1 J. B. Tubbs, west central Crane county discovery well, as the result of shooting and encountering of oil and gas shows in Landreth Production company's No. 1 Alley, southwestern Gaines county wildcat, were among this week's oil developments in West Texas.

J. D. Wesner's No. 1 W. R. Nicks, promising Schleicher county wildcat, which encountered oil and several hundred thousand cubic feet of gas at 4000 feet on May 25, cleaned out and landed 8⅝-inch casing at 4006 feet, with a packer 30 feet off bottom. It was scheduled to be swabbed again Saturday to determine whether or not the packer had excluded part of a bailer of water hourly from 2900 feet. When the bailer was run Thursday noon there was 1000 feet of fluid in the hole. Deepening next week is expected. No. 1 Nicks is 1¾ miles northeast of Eldorado, in section 77, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey.

With eight of the nine world's deepest producers, in Reagan county, on production again the flow of high gravity, sweet oil from depths ranging from 8525 to 8923 feet increased 48,894 barrels to 145,016 barrels last week. Deepening of Big Lake Oil company's No. 5-C University from 8806 to 8872 feet in five days from 2590 to 4492 barrels. The well produced a daily average of around 2,100 barrels before being deepened. Texon No. 4-B University, which recently drilled past cemented tubing to its old total depth of 8587 feet, was gaining steadily, although back pressure had been increased to 1,200 pounds. It had produced as high as 8,084 barrels, only 830 barrels less than its peak set April 5. Recompletion of the well had reduced its gas-oil ratio from around 10,000 to 4,000 cubic feet to one barrel of oil.

E. E. (Buck) Sturm's No. 1 Jones, one of Ward county's latest producers, flowed 200 barrels of 33.9 gravity oil in 24 hours from pay at 2466-73 feet. Simms Oil company's No. 1 Himmel topped the sand at 2245 feet and when drilled to 2515 feet in sandy lime had 500 feet of oil in the hole. White's No. 1 Owenby had gas shows at 2107, 2125 and 2135 feet and a showing of oil at 2171 feet and shut down at 2180 feet in lime. Gulf's No. 17 O'Brien, a producer for some time, bottomed at 2706 feet, was flowing a daily average of around 65 barrels of oil.

Cranfill and Gulf

Cranfill brothers and Gulf's No. 1 Tubbs in section 8, block B-27, public school land, in Crane county, flowed 102 barrels of pipe line oil the first 24 hours and 80 barrels the next eight hours, after knocking out a bridge that formed when the well was shot with 100 quarts from 4279 to 4319 feet. During the week preceding the shot, while cleaning out after shooting loose a 5 3-16 inch liner, No. 1 Tubbs flowed a daily average of 21½ barrels. It drilled to 5356 feet and plugged back to 4505 feet, shutting off sulphur water. Early last October the well developed brief, heavy production at 4301 feet in lime beneath two sulphur water levels and on its longest gauge flowed 1,315 barrels of 39.3 gravity oil. Production virtually ceased after gas increased at 4352 feet, and little, if any, oil was struck below 4301 feet.

Landreth No. 1 Alley in section 2, block A-30, public school land, in Gaines county, had a slight showing of oil from 2965-70 feet, a slight showing of gas from 2983-90 feet, a showing of gas from 3030-35 feet and another slight oil showing at 3040. It had drilled past 3130 feet in anhydrite. The first brown lime was logged at 2945 feet and some picked the top of that formation at at 2990 feet. Texas Consolidated and T-P No. 1 Jones, another Gaines county wildcat, resumed drilling at 3435 feet after being shut down for about two months and had reached 3820 feet in andydrite.

The weeks' failures included Galt-Brown and Penn's No. 1 Cowden, Ector county wildcat in the center of the southwest quarter of section 12, block 44, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, about 12 miles south and west of Southern Crude's two producers on the Cowden ranch and about eight miles north and three miles east of the Penn pool. It had a small showing of oil from 4384-87 feet and one bailer of sulphur water in three hours from 4387 to 4396 feet which increased to a hole full at 4430-35 feet. The test was to be plugged and abandoned.

Cosby Producing and Royalty company's No. 1 Humble-Tippett in section 40, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey, in Pecos county, had 1,000 feet of oil in the hole when drilled to 1415 feet in grey lime reportedly topped at 1306 feet. The oil was coming from pay reached at 1395 feet. The well is in the Toborg-Tippett pool immediately northwest of the Yates field, where 54 wells produce a daily average of 1,500 to 1,800 barrels of 19½ to 24½ gravity oil. Shell, which takes all the crude, cut the price last Saturday from 22 cents to 12 cents per barrel. Penn No. 1 Alvis, Pecos county wildcat 15 miles southwest of Fort Stockton, prepared to plug and abandon at 3915 feet in lime, having carried a hole full of sulphur water for a long period.

C. B. Mitchell and associates, No. 1. J. F. McCall, located in block 39, abstract 33, northeast of Wichita Falls in the Cherokee county school lands, Wichita county, is shut down at a depth of 976 feet.

NORTH TEXAS OIL MEN STRONGLY OPPOSED TO EAST TEXAS SOLUTION

North Texas operators are not in accord with the plan of proration put forward by the East Texas conference of producers. The local association asserts that if the plan is adopted it will mean a daily production of approximately 1,500,000 barrels. The following letter to The Times outlines the position of the North Texas Oil and Gas association:

"Wichita Falls, Texas, June 13, 1931.

"We have read with interest the plan worked out by the Tyler conference of producers who have been violating proration in East Texas. We are pleased to see that these gentlemen have at last given some thought to ratable withdrawals of oil from this great pool. But we think their vision has been confined too closely to the East Texas problem. It will be remembered that since August, 1930, we have been confronted with overproduction in Texas. The first order prorating the entire state was issued in August, 1930 and since that date there have been orders of the railroad commission curtailing every well in the state having a production in excess of six barrels and during a great portion of the period curtailing wells having a production in excess of four barrels.

"The great East Texas field has come into the production picture since state-wide proration in Texas but without any regard to the railroad commission's orders and without any regard to economic demands or ratable production, certain operators in this field have reverted to the law of the jungle and their production has only been controlled by their selfish desires and the capacity of their wells to produce. Their actions have broken the mid-continent price structure to one-third of the price existing when this field came in and they have broken their own price structure to one-tenth of the value of the oil, when the field was discovered.

300-Barrel Plan

"Now, these gentlemen at the Tyler conference have devised a plan which only has their selfish desires for their own preservation in view and they are asking for an outlet of 300 barrels per each 20 acres of area of the entire field, at a reasonable price, which would immediately start an unprecedented drilling campaign and the full development of the field at this time of overproduction. This is to be a voluntary arrangement and to be lived up to by the people who would not comply with the railroad commission's previous orders.

"Who in the industry is foolish enough to believe that those who have defied the orders of the commission and have violated the laws of the state and the rights of their neighbors, would abide by any voluntary agreement, when expedient to ignore it? It appears to us that it has cost the state of Texas and the industry as a whole enough millions already, without experimenting any further.

This 300 barrels from each 20 acres would mean an output from East Texas of 1,500,000 barrels per day, taking into consideration only the present proved territory, when developed, every one in the industry knows that 200,000 barrels would be the maximum quantity of East Texas oil that can be marketed daily at a reasonable price, over the next 12-month period. The Tyler plan would be asking for the entire mid-continent outlet.

"We think it is time for the oil industry as a whole to face the issue squarely and ask our lawmakers to give this question their serious consideration and come together in special session at Austin and write, for the state of Texas, a law that would compel ratable withdrawals, from all wells within a pool and equitable withdrawals from all pools within the state, so as to regulate the state production of petroleum, sufficiently as to make it bring a fair and equitable price to the people of Texas.

"P. B. Flynn, vice president North Texas Oil and Gas association.

"J. S. Bridwell, chairman legislative committee."

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13.(UP) Re-alignment in the operating structure of the mid-continent oil industry is near, according to current reports here today.

Consolidation and merger and outright sale of several large independent firms will be the result of the acute demoralized condition of the oil industry brought about by crude price slashes caused by unrestricted East Texas flow, oil operators believe.

With assets virtually frozen and credit strained, several independent companies, including several who lead in developing mid-continent fields, may be forced into merger or sale negotiations.

One prominent Oklahoma operator said that he anticipated such development soon. He also predicted crude prices would drop as low as 10 cents a barrel but this view was held by the minority of operators.

Stabilization of East Texas overproduction conditions may prevent a lower price for oil, oil leaders believed. A form of unit operation of the field and a special session of the Texas legislature to enact an adequate proration enforcement law were the two plans considered today by Texas oil men to alleviate the condition there.

While a half dozen new wells in the Joiner pool of East Texas were being completed this week-end and others neared pay levels, operations in Oklahoma continued at an indolent pace.

Eighteen new wells were started in Oklahoma this week. Because of lease expirations, operators in Pawnee county were obliged to stake four tests to protect their holdings. Creek county was second with three new tests. Grady, Noble and Osage counties each had a pair and Carter, Garfield, Haskell, McIntosh and Okmulgee counties each had one.

Test of Jameson & Grimes' No. 1 fee well in the Oklahoma City field showed 1,060 barrels in 35 minutes, with considerable gas. H. F. Wilcox's No. 1 Rinehart-Donovan flowed 8,515 barrels in four hours on the first official gauge.

Wells Forced Shut in to Await Proration Period

PREPARATIONS MADE TO CEMENT CASING

Land Heavily Saturated With Oil Encountered By K. D. Company

ARDMORE, Okla., June 13.—Two tests are nearing completion in the Tatums field of Carter county in Southern Oklahoma, both the tests have reached the pay sands and are shut down for proration time, now in effect in this area before being completed.

K. D. Oil company and Frank Gouin, Duncan operators, No. 1 J. W. Burton in the center of the southwest of the northwest of 30-1s-2w, three-eights of a mile south of production in the field, was preparing to cement casing on oil showing in broken sand at 2178-91 feet and solid sand topped at 2191 and drilled to total depth at 2214 feet. The latter sand was well saturated with oil and is believed good for a producer. This test is located one-fourth of a mile southeast of the Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Burton which was abandoned as dry several months ago after drilling to below 4000 feet.

The Carter Oil company has eight-inch casing cemented at 1761 feet in No. 2 Paul Robb in the southwest corner of the northwest of 19-1s-2w, on the east side of the field. It logged a series of sands showing oil between 1768 and 1898 feet. Total depth is 1948 feet in shale.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Wirt Franklin in the southwest of the northwest of the northeast of 15-1s-3w, three-fourths of a mile northwest of production, was drilling at 2220 feet in lime shells and had not as yet logged any showings.

The Trevlyn Oil company's No. 1 D. W. Ratliff in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest of 19-1s-2w, off the east edge of the field, failed to get circulation and operators are recementing surface casing. Total depth is 1300 feet in lime.

Batson, Starritt & Autry's No. 2 Dr. Autry in the southeast of the northeast of 27-6s-2e, seven miles northeast of Marietta, in Love county, was drilling at 695 feet in hard lime. The formation, which is reported as showing some oil, was topped at 684 feet.

Developments in New Mexico Area

MIDLAND, Texas, June 13.—First test on a 50,000-acre block near Baugn, N. M., is now drilling. The well is on the southwest quarter of the southwest 160 acres of section 24, township 5 north, range 1 east. Contract calls for a 4500-foot test. The acreage was blocked by Aaron H. Hover, who is secretary-treasurer of an oil concern headed by Hooper C. Dunbar.

At Grandfalls in Ward county is one field in the United States where the little fellow is still making some money. Grandfalls is called the little operator's paradise. The wells are usually drilled by giving the driller an interest in the hole. The lease owner can usually sell enough interest to do absolutely necessary financing, which isn't much as wells are brought in around 2100 feet and are in soft formations. Profits on these small 75 to 200-barrel wells are much better than wages, the independent operators say.

Suit for $150,000 damages alleged to have been suffered on oil lands in the Loving county pool have been filed by B. Ramsey, et al, against Frank B. Haddock, et al. The plaintiff alleged that Haddock and associates failed to carry out a contract to drill eight wells on 160 acres in section 30, block 1, W. and N. W. survey, and that oil is constantly being drained out by wells on adjoining acreage.

Charter has been granted the Jal Natural Gas company of Roswell, N. M. The authorized capital is 750 shares without par value, the company to begin business with only $2,100. Jal, N. M., is the center of one of the biggest gas fields in the mid-continent area.

Homesteaders of New Mexico lost an important decision in the verdict of the U. S. circuit court of appeals affirming the U. S. district court of New Mexico sustaining plaintiff's motion to dismiss in the case of Ivan L. Skeen vs. Beulah V. Lynch, et al. The decision is interpreted by landowners as meaning homesteaders do not own the oil and gas and other percolating fluids under their lands unless they have taken out permits to drill for oil and gas.

MAINTENANCE OF RETAIL SALES BRIGHT SPOT IN BUSINESS

Stimulation of Retail Trade Past Week Helps to Offset Usual Summer Contraction in General Business

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 13.—Further signs of seasonal contraction in general business activity were revealed during the past week. In addition, sentiment was depressed by a series of banking disturbances at Chicago.

Developing at the mid-western city, which resulted in the closing of 27 minor banks with aggregate deposits of less than $75,000,000, somewhat offset the better feeling aroused by the slight extension of last week's rally in security prices. The bank suspensions, while unsettling, were believed to be a potential favorable development in that another weak situation was eliminated.

Manufacturing lines continued to feel effects of the usual summer let-down, although retail trade was stimulated by warm weather with several stores reporting sales in excess of a year ago. Steel production dropped to 40 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate since the year-end shutdown and compared with 42 per cent in the previous week, 70 per cent a year ago, 96½ per cent two years ago and 75½ per cent three years ago. Automobile production slipped off from the seasonal peak.

Motor Sales Off

Dwindling motor production was the chief factor in the further loss in steel operations. Automobile production estimates for the year have been revised downward again, latest estimates placing the probable 1931 out-turn at 2,900,000 cars, against earlier estimates of 3,800,000 cars and actual output of 3,500,000 cars during 1930. June productions estimated at 275,000 cars, or approximately the march output.

Lessened activity in these major industries and their relative lines naturally has caused further wage reductions in some sections and an increase in unemployment in others None of the larger companies, however, has made any general wage cuts. Conditions in foreign countries are not so satisfactory.

Sharp wage reductions have been made in Germany, Australia and Norway. Conditions in Germany were aggravated by adverse political difficulties, which has resulted in a flight of American and British capital. Foreign trade during April continued its downward trend.

The principal bright spot in domestic trade was the maintenance of retail sales at levels not far under the satisfactory results of last year.

Another source of unsettlement is the real estate market. Tax delinquents have increased at a rapid pace and some distress property is being thrown on the market with a resultant decline in values.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13. (UP)—Conditions in various business channels throughout the Southwest district last week were reported as unchanged and in fair straits.

All classes of crops and fruits were in good condition. The long line of harvesters and combines began work in the wheat fields late this week, starting in northern Texas and Oklahoma and heading north.

It has been anticipated that farmers in the vicinity of San Angelo, Texas, who will harvest their greatest grain crop in history, were going to feed their wheat, oats and barley to lambs and calves this fall, due to the extreme low price prospect.

Instead of an increased movement of fat cattle, as was expected, a sharp advance in prices last week accompanied a further reduction in supplies.

Range and pasture conditions throughout the district remained fairly good, but were reported as under a month ago. This was attributed to light rainfall in western sections.

Retail and wholesale trade remained unchanged, but under a year ago. Stocks on hand in stores were smaller than last year, while department store sales ran under normal.

Building activity remained dull. A decrease was noted in the issuance of building permits in most cities in the district.

UNIVERSITY REGENTS TO SELL GOVERNMENT BONDS WANT HIGHER INTEREST

AUSTIN, June 13. (AP)—Looking towards higher interest returns from the University of Texas oil royalty fund, the board of regents today empowered its finance committee and the university comptroller to sell the government bonds in which the fund is at present invested and buy city, county and district bonds.

The university's investment field was broadened by the last legislature. The fund amounts to about $11,000,000.

No action was taken this morning on the recommended discharge of Fred Walker as head basket ball coach.

TRADE IN STOCKS LARGELY ROUTINE AND LOSS SLIGHT

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—Security and financial markets moved in routine grooves today.

The turnover in stocks, 500,000 shares, was the smallest for a Saturday this year. Traders accepted profits in the rail stocks, apparently on the theory that the good news for that group was out. Industrials and utilities found lower levels, but the resistance to selling reversed the trend in the last hour and prices closed above the lows with many pivotal issues off slightly. The loss in the average of 90 stocks was two-tenths of a point.

The German outlook seemed less disconcerting to Wall Street, for dispatches told of President Von Hindenburg's opposition to an extra session of the reichstag, of a slackening in the demand for foreign currencies, of a rally on the Berlin Boerse and of the probability that the discount rate would be raised. At the New York federal reserve bank $7,500,000 in gold was withdrawn from earmark, presumably for German account.

Net declines in U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Woolworth, Standard Oil of California, Standard Gas & Electric and General Electric ranged from a small fraction to about a point.

Germany's efforts to halt the withdrawal of capital found the mark's resistance considerably stiffer, although gold shipments to New York were still regarded as possible and one report from London said arrangements for a $10,000,000 exportation were being discussed.

RALLIES OVERCOME PART TRADE LOSSES IN COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under week-end realizing or liquidation.

The opening was steady unchanged to 2 points higher for all months except May which was 2 points lower. There was some buying on the steady showing of Liverpool after it had been supplied at the initial prices, the market turned easier. Following an advance of half a cent from Monday's low records, the technical position of the market was easier and a less active demand from the trade increased a disposition to take profits. October sold off from 8.63 to 8.49 and December from 9.23 to 9.10, making net losses of about 10 to 12 points. Reports of a steadier tone in the stock market brought in some covering later in the morning and the close showed rallies of 5 to 7 points from the lowest.

The report of the census bureau placed domestic consumption for May at 465,770 bales compared with 473,284 last year and an expected report of around 483,000 bales.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at U. S. ports, was 74,000 bales against 56,000 last year and 32,000 two years ago.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 13. (AP)—Trading was fairly brisk in the cotton market today considering the short week-end session. Prices fluctuated rather nervously and within a comparatively narrow range. The market closed steady at net losses for the day of 4 to 6 points.

The census bureau reported May consumption by domestic mills to have been 465,770 bales as compared with 508,000 bales in April this year and 473,284 in May last year. The showing was considered bearish.

Liverpool came in 7 to 8 penny points better than due and private cables stated that local shorts covered and Bombay bought. Manchester cabled that there was an improved cloth demand for South America. Large Lancashire mill closed affecting 1,500 operatives.

July closed at 8.56, down 5 points net for the day, October at 8.92, down 5 points net and December at 9.14, down 6 points net.

Port receipts 1,467; for the season 8,784,225; last season, 8,637,929. Exports, none; for the season 6,303,547; last season 6,396,123. Port stocks 3,168,195; last year 1,713,691. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston, 73,160, last year 47,670. Spot sales at southern markets 2,215; last year 1,840.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, June 13. (INS)—There was a fair demand for opening spots cotton today with prices steady. Sales amounted to 8,000 bales.

At midday, middling fair sold at 5.986, strictly good middling at 5.836, good middling at 5.186, strictly middling at 4.986, middling at 4.786, strictly low middling at 4.586, low middling at 4.33d, strictly good ordinary at 4.13d and good ordinary at 3.83d.

Futures were quiet and steady with July at 4.67d, October at 4.79d, December at 4.86d, January at 4.90d and March at 4.99d.

NOMINAL CHANGES CURB SHARE PRICES TWO HOUR SESSION

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—The dullest two-hour session the curb market has experienced in several years resulted today in only nominal changes in share prices. Sales totaled 110,000 shares or 20,000 less than the previous low record for recent years established several months ago.

Closing prices were in most instances a small fraction below Friday's final transactions but the narrow gains in a few issues principally in the industrial and specialty groups gave the market a slightly irregular appearance.

The lack of interest was apparent from the start when shares, particularly utilities sagged, but the declines were reduced before the close. Electric Bond & Share s

WINS YALE VIOLIN SCHOLARSHIP

MRS. KENNETH K NICKERBOCKER

Dorothy McDonald Knickerbocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McDonald of Henrietta, Texas, and this year a graduate of proficiency in theory and violin playing in the music school in Yale university, New Haven, Conn., was awarded the Louis Felsburg Memorial scholarship at the commencement concert in Yale university recently.

The scholarship is a paid tuition and the award reads as follows: "This scholarship is a paid tuition and offered annually to the student of violin playing who in the opinion of the faculty shows the most progress during the year and who gives evidence of great promise as a violinist. The recipient of the scholarship must furthermore be in high standing in his studies in the theory of music."

Mrs. Knickerbocker has been in Yale university the past two years studying violin with Hugo Kortachak. Mr. Kortachak is concert master of the New Haven Symphony orchestra and has asked Mrs. Knickerbocker to play in this orchestra next year.

One of Mrs. Knickerbocker's compositions was presented by the faculty of the school and played at a recital of original compositions by students of the Yale school of music.

Mrs. Knickerbocker was born in Henrietta where she went through the public schools receiving her diploma from the high school in Henrietta. While in high school she studied violin with E. A. Nelson having received her start in music from her mother who is now teacher and orchestra director in the public schools of Henrietta. After finishing high school, Mrs. Knickerbocker attended Brenau College conservatory, at Gainesville, Ga., three years where with her twin sister, Doris, she shared many distinctive honors. They were pledged Alpha Delta Pi, and also the national honorary music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilum.

Mrs. Knickerbocker is a sister-in-law of Mrs. J. A. Heyman of Wichita Falls, and her husband, Kenneth L. Knickerbocker, is working on his Ph. D. in Yale university, having received his B. A. from Southern Methodist university and his M. A. from the University of Chicago.

SAVE LAST THOUSAND OR TWO THOUSAND MILES OF TIRE MILEAGE—ZIHLMAN

"Don't try to get the last thousand or two thousand miles out of your tires," says J. E. Zihlman of the Zihlman Auto Supply company, local distributor of Kelly-Springfield tires.

"Tires today are so well built and cost so little that by the time any driver has used up three-quarters of the miles built into his tires he has had pretty low-cost mileage.

"The non-skid design on a tire is not put there as an ornament, but for protection. To drive on smooth tires is to invite a skid that may have serious results. To drive on badly worn ones, as so many people have been doing during the present business depression, is foolhardy at modern rates of speed.

"Smooth and worn-down tires are cause of many bad accidents. Tires today—even the best makes—cost so little that keeping first class rubber on your car is about the cheapest form of insurance I know of.

"One of the reasons so many of my customers come back for more is that the tread design on a Kelly-Springfield retains its non-skid effectiveness up to an advanced point in the tire's mileage life. I tell every customer that I am selling not merely mileage, but safe miles, and I am fortunate in that the make of tires I sell backs up what I tell them."

Your Instructions Before You Go

Careful thought must be given to your business—your desk must be left "clean"—instructions must be left to cover unusual conditions which might arise during your absence—these things must be done before you can go away with a serene mind.

But what of your personal affairs? There are many details, naturally, to be taken care of. There is one duty, however, as vitally important as getting your business in order, that is to make a sound provision for the future welfare of your family through a well-considered will.

We shall be pleased to tell you how this bank's services as executor and trustee can be of value to you and your family.

Anhow, I can thank you for making the book, and then after it has been made, seeing that it received such a suitable format."

RECESS TRIAL 'GIRL MARKET'

Defense Testimony of Pantages Interrupted

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 13. (AP)—A week-end recess today interrupted Alexander Pantages' defense testimony in the "girl market" case in which he and three others are charged with conspiracy and violation of the juvenile law by bringing minor girls to a hotel party here.

Testifying yesterday, Pantages said he had met Jesse H. Shreve and John P. Mills, co-defendants, at a San Diego hotel on the night of the alleged offense, but that as far as he was concerned there was no "wild party."

Pantages testified he came to confer with Shreve and Mills about an $80,000 note which all three had endorsed and which was about to be foreclosed. He was here for business only, he said, and when he was left alone with Lydia Nitto, complaining witness, and she began to express sympathy for him, he told her she had better go and she went.

Miss Nitto previously had testified Pantages was intimate with her, gave her $10 and told her she was "too young to be here." Pantages denied this.

Mills had testified the girls were brought here at the suggestion of Shreve who said Pantages "still likes to play around." They planned the party to get Pantages in a good humor about the note, Mills said.

Pantages clung to his story under cross-examination, which was not completed as court adjourned until Monday.

Mahaffey Voice Studio Pupils Entertain Large Audience With Splendid Program Junior College

(By Times Staff Critic)

Consistent excellence in voice placement, and easy style of singing as well as marked progress in student voices heard on former recitals made the program given Friday night at the Junior college auditorium by pupils of the Mahaffey Voice studio a thoroughly satisfactory musical event.

Presented in a program whose numbers were tastefully chosen to hold the interest of the audience, the singers were favored with enthusiasm and warmth in the response of the large crowd present for the event despite the evening's heavy thundershowers.

Justifying his place as the last singer on the recital, Willard Underwood was outstanding in the finesse with which he handled a voice of pure lyric quality. "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" from Handel's "Semele" was given in a beautifully sustained tone, the breath control being at all times adequate to voice the long classic phrases with rare legato. In the ever-popular Liszt-Schipa "Liebestraum," Mr. Underwood used lower tones of surprising roundness and warmth for a voice of such high register, while the upper notes were easily made to furnish a ringing climax in the middle movement of the song. Particularly in this latter number, with its interesting cadenzas for the piano, Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, accompanist for the entire program, gave the voice beautifully effective support.

One of the most pleasing voices revealed in recent years in Wichita Falls was used by Mrs. Robert Park in a brilliant interpretation of Dell'Acqua's "Villanelle." The lyric airiness with which the delightful salute to spring was voiced had the embellishment of a charming stage presence. In addition to splendid breath support, clear enunciation, and artistic phrasing, Mrs. Park revealed a genius for flute-like delivery of exacting coloratura passages. The lengthy staccati passages in the highest soprano register were incisive as they were clear, were easily produced, and had that thrilling correctness of pitch when the piano returned at the close of unaccompanied passages.

Jack McWilliams Sings

Conspicuous on the latter portion of Friday night's recital were the two songs given by Jack McWilliams of Burkburnett. The sotta-voce tones used by this tenor voice are not to be forgotten, even when one hears similar passages sung by professional singers. An instantly winning personality supported pleasantly a skillful interpretation of Clarke's "The Blind Ploughman," and the fascinating Spanish melody, "Princesita," by Padilla.

Heard for the first time in recital here, Mrs. George Kelley revealed a contralto voice which vibrates in its lower register with true contralto richness, but which mounts to mezzo-soprano passages with delightful effect. Her "Caro Mio Ben," never-failing recital test for contralto voices, was an excellent example of deep feeling voiced in an easily flowing tone, skillfully phrased. Mrs. Kelley's other number was Oley Speaks' "Morning," allowing a brilliant demonstration of the unusual high register.

Those who have heard Ted Williams, baritone, intermittently during the past two years found expectations of a brilliant upper register fulfilled Friday night in his two numbers. The first, "God Give Me the Sea," words and music written by Mrs. W. L. Underwood of this city, found excellent contrast between the slower, meditative phrases and the robust, exhilarating declarations to the bounding sea. Using Densmore's "Roadways," also a song of the water, for his second number, Mr. Williams obviously thrilled his hearers with the brilliant unfolding of vibrant, rich tones on notes usually shunned by a baritone voice.

Exquisite Feeling

Exquisite feeling and a satisfying stage presence, particularly on her second number, enriched Miss Lillian Hyenck's singing of "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah," and Kreisler's beloved "Cradle Song." A voice of excellent quality and a comprehensive interpretation of both songs was held from their best effects only by an occasional slight inaccurracy of pitch, which apparently was a momentary nervous defection rather than a technical one.

Satisfying assurance, remarkable evenness in tone quality, and a wealth of feeling in the voice characterized Mrs. C. H. Evans' singing of Schumann's "Dedication," and Richard Kountz' "Come Thou, My Love."

Seasonal brightness in her songs, a brilliant clarity and flexibility, and an unusual endowment of graciousness before an audience marked the singing of Mrs. J. W. McCutcheon, soprano.

Mrs. J. E. Stratten, contralto, again delighted her audience with a buoyant interpretation of the airy "Maiden's Wish" by Chopin, and a gay melody by Scott, "Hedgerow and Meadow." Marked development of even quality from the lowest contralto tones to a good upper register was revealed in Mrs. Stratten's singing.

J. L. Anderson, Burkburnett tenor, displayed a most appealing simplicity of style, combined with a convincing sincerity of feeling. Dr. Carl Morrison, also of Burkburnett, introduced a pleasing baritone-tenor voice to Wichita Falls in his presentation of "Invictus," the stirring Bruno Huhn number.

Miss Helen Engle and Odell Arnold, also making their initial recital appearances, sang commendably and revealed much promise. Both used voices of good quality, edge of phrasing and interpretation and reflected an adequate knowledge.

Friday night's recital opened with two numbers by a quartet composed of Messrs. Underwood, McWilliams, Williams and Bond. It presented one of the best balanced quartets of male voices thus far heard in this city. The voices being of the same placement, the blend is well-nigh perfect, and there was a noticeable cohesion in the spirited interpretation, attacks and releases. One could wish these four singers might give an entire concert in ensemble.

Representatives Inter-County Federation Women's Clubs Plan Program for October Meeting

Officers of the Inter-County Federation of Women's clubs including presidents of each of the affiliated county federations, Wichita, Wilbarger, Clay, Archer and Montague, met at the home of Mrs. Ben G. Oneal Friday to formulate plans for the fall meeting to be held the latter part of October. It was decided that the theme for the meeting will be "County Markets."

The constitution and bylaws recommend for the use of the county federations was revised and adopted for use in the inter-county meeting when a prize will be given to the county federation having the largest attendance. The meeting will be held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse in this city, as the building has been offered by the local organization for the purpose.

Each county federation will have a part on the day's program and visitors will attend, one of whom will be Mrs. C. S. Hutchins of Greenville, chairman of county markets in the national federation, an office created by Mrs. Sippel, national president at the biennial held in Denver. Mrs. Hutchins has had active work with the Texarkana market which has made in one year, a sum amounting to $19,000. It is believed that Mrs. Hutchins will lead other clubs to follow the plan adopted by the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum and county federation in establishing a market for the sale of home products of the farm woman.

Mrs. Oneal stated at the meeting held Friday, that the Wichita Falls market is the first market so far established in the first district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, for which the local women deserve much credit and praise.

Summary Made

When in November at the state meeting of the federation in Lubbock for the past two years, many splendid achievements will have been accomplished both by clubs and chairmen. Earnest, sincere women have bent every effort toward the accomplishment of that which is worth while. It is difficult to estimate the results of these efforts. Often results are intangible qualities which are difficult to measure in words, according to officers of the district.

However, first district must ever look with pride upon the accomplishment of three distinct things in the present administration—accomplishments which will have distinct bearing upon the lives of many in the years to come. To touch the life of one human being means much—to touch the lives of many human beings is inestimable.

The three are the establishment of a scholarship and loan fund, the creation of a fine arts scholarship within the district and the organization of an inter-county federation.

The scholarship and loan fund started last year under the leadership of the scholarship chairman, Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, of Wichita Falls, has reached a sum sufficient to send one girl to school.

Next week the committee, Mrs. Julian Oppenheimer, Mrs. David Warren and Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, chosen at the Graham convention to handle the affairs of the Bewley fine arts scholarship, will meet and lunch at the home of Mrs. B. H. Trammell at Breckenridge. The fund was created at the Graham meeting. Already they report $95 subscribed out of Fort Worth, with $40 subscribed from Breckenridge clubs, making a total of $135. Their goal is $300 by the end of the summer.

Those in attendance Friday at the luncheon given by Mrs. Oneal were Mesdames St. Andrew Myers, Henrietta; E. C. Richards, Jacksboro; E. H. Trigg, Archer City; Miss Robbie Castleberry, Vernon; Mesdames John Barbour, Iowa Park; W. R. Covey, Montague; A. S. Hodges, Henrietta; W. R. Poteet, Vernon, and W. H. Taylor, Archer City.

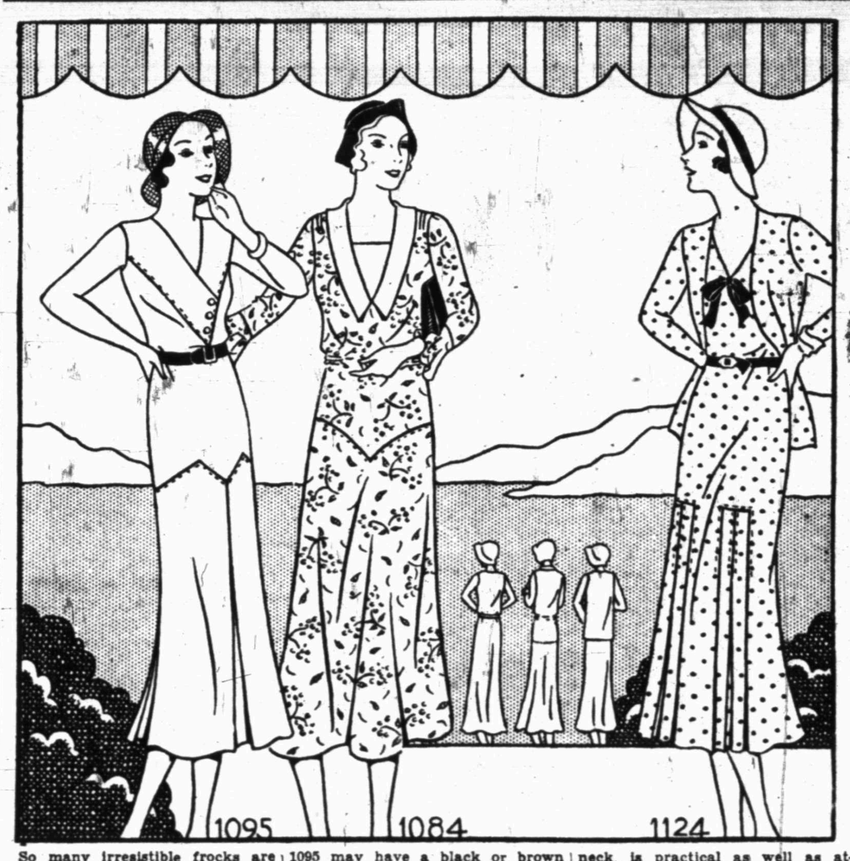
GERMAN REICHSBANK HAS RAISED REDISCOUNT RATE

BERLIN, June 13. (INS)—The German Reichsbank raised its rediscount rate today from five to seven per cent as a measure to halt the "flight of the mark" from Germany.

The action of the bank, it was hoped, would improve conditions for capital within the reich which, in turn, would bolster the German mark on the foreign exchange markets and strengthen Germany's whole financial structure.

It was estimated that the Reichsbank had been compelled to expend more than $150,000,000 during the past few days to support the mark on foreign exchanges.

WICHITA FALLS RECORD NEWS PATTERNS



So many irresistible frocks are shown for the coming summer months that the home sewer's wardrobe will surely be filled with a charming variety. Not at all expensive, either, since the cottons contribute chiefly to the smartness of the mode. For afternoon frocks the lovely, sheer fabrics include batiste, lawn, swiss, voile, dimity, georgette and chiffon printed in small motifs or scattered designs. For morning and sports wear, smart women favor pique, shantung, percale, cotton broadcloth, linen and meshes, in white, solid pastel shades or tiny prints. The separate jacket is really a necessity, and it may be fashioned of any fabric you choose. A solid color may be worn with several frocks, or if you've time, each frock may have its own jacket.

Pattern 1095

Pointed seamings and inverted skirt pleats make this model a complete success. It is extremely slenderizing, too—a feature welcomed by every woman. There are only four parts to the pattern, so you can imagine how very easy it is to put together. In white, china blue, yellow, rose or light green, model 1095 may have a black or brown leather belt and shoes and hat to match. A stunning outfit! Sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 3⅝ yards of 36-inch fabric.

Pattern 1084

In large sizes, too, there are delightful frocks for warm weather. Model 1084, with shoulder and waistline tucks for well placed fullness, boasts a becoming narrow collar and a skirt flare joining in downward point, that lend slender effects to the figure. The three-quarter length sleeves, too, are kind to stout arms and make them appear slim below the graceful flares that finish them. Any of the above mentioned afternoon fabrics will be suitable for this frock. Sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1124

Here's an ensemble you'll wear any time of the day, and feel chic. The sleeveless dress gains grace and fullness through two inserted skirt sections, pleated and stitched part way. Of course the leather belt and pert bow in vivid color add a smart touch. The jacket with straight lines and collarless neck, is practical as well as attractive. Picture white shantung dotted in red, white Panama hat, white shoes, and red hat band, bow and belt. Isn't it lovely? Sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 14 reqdires 4⅞ yards of 36-inch fabric.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Contrasting Shades Summer's Smartest Style for Women

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—Summer beaches and boulevards will be as pied with color this year as Joseph's coat.

Women are beginning to realize the effect of color on their personalities. A striving to bring out the individuality of the wearer is becoming a fascinating business.

Never has such daring in the combination of two or more shades been attempted. The monotone ensemble is passe. Suits show skirt and coat of contrasting colors. Gowns of a solid color are sharpened with hats, shoes, and accessories of another shade.

Dress fabrics are brightly keted. It has been found that women can wear vivid colors with great success in wools because this fabric absorbs light and does not reflect in the face.

Bathing suits are reliably smart when of jersey. The one-piece suit is good, but it is more generally worn with short pants, fastened sailor-fashion with contrasting buttons or laced in the back. For beach-lounging, circular or pleated pajamas are worn. The "pants skirt" is evidenced in a white wool serge spectator sports costume.

Flannel suits and angora wool dresses are most acceptable in the summer wardrobe. Short and three-quarter length coats will be worn in the bright or extremely light shades such as white, biege, cream or the pastels.

CHINESE GOVERNMENT ORGANIZES TO SUPPRESS COMMUNIST MOVEMENT

TOKYO, June 13. (AP)—Dispatches today from Kiukiang said the Chinese government was massing 25 divisions of troops in Kiangsi province to suppress Reds whose object was the capture of Nanchang.

Reports from Hankow Wednesday predicted Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province and with a population of 750,000, soon would be captured by Communist armies. Government troops were demoralized.

Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist generalissimo, was said to be preparing to go to Nanchang's assistance from Nanking.

Nanching is in the center of the extensive Kiangsi plain, and has been menaced by Reds several times the past two years. Kiangsi province has suffered greatly from Communist and bandit armies, many thousand people being killed, cities burned and the country devastated.

The theoretical strength of a division in the Chinese army is about 11,000 officers and men. In practice the number is smaller.

Not a Happy Home

"Dear Zoe: I am a widow of a few months and am troubled about my home. If there such a thing as a house being unlucky or hoo-dooed? It seems every piece of furniture I bought had to be changed, and nothing is right. I am not contented here and am so troubled. I have two daughters 17. Ought we move?—E"

I once visited May Sinclair, famous English novelist, in her house near London. She called it a "happy house" and told me a pretty incident: One day a man came, a stranger, and asked to see the interior. Miss Sinclair invited him in and he explained he had lived there as a boy, gone to Canada, where he had made his home for 30 years, and was in England for a vacation. He told her about his grandparents who had lived in the house happily for many years, and made the childhood of himself and brother and sister a real joy.

ZOE BECKLEY

"I was so glad to learn," Miss Sinclair told me, "that it is a happy house, with a happy history. I have loved it more ever since."

It may be there are "happy houses" and those not so happy. But I think it is more a physical matter than one of evil influences. Some houses are built with a cosy, livable character—conveniently planned, attractive of line, simple and somehow sweet. The folks who have lived there loved them and left an atmosphere of love behind. We have all seen such houses. They fairly breathe peace and contentment. Even when they are deserted and have fallen into decay they are charming—like an old, old lady in lavender silk and a cameo brooch.

If you do not like your house and cannot feel at ease in it, by all means move. A woman's life is built upon her home. Find one you love and know intuitively is your little house. But don't base your unrest on superstition or anything of the sort. It is merely unrestful and not homey.

Those Moods

"I am a girl of 19 and feel 100. Life holds no interest since I have found out so much about it. There is nothing for which I care a snap. I feel cynical and go round with curled lip, I am afraid. I go nowhere, do nothing and feel that nothing amounts to anything.

—WANDERING AND DESPERATE."

When I was 19 I felt the same way. Heaps of us do when we are learning about life and grow suddenly disillusioned. Don't worry; the pendulum will swing back and in time move rhythmically. Your great need is to find an interest. I found several. The first was work, the second travel, the third a few scattering love affairs. These pretty much fizzled, so I went back to work again—and how! Do take my tip, dear, and get interested in work. Make it the foundation. Everything else can be built upon it. I know.

In the course of my newspaper life I met a girl who had worked her way three-quarters round the world as a milliner. She hailed originally from Norway, got a job in a hat shop in a distant town, then went on her way, further and further, earning and saving and having all sorts of adventures until she at length struck New York. She found a place in a milliner's shop and worked up to being designer and buyer and was on the point of sailing for Paris when I saw her. She had been in all the big capitals of the world.

I met another girl in Bucharest, Rumania, a few years ago. She was born in a Texas town and spent years as a stenographer. Next she took civil service exams, got a job in Washington, was switched to the diplomatic service and had responsible posts in Germany, France, China, the Philippines and Italy. Now she's in Portugal.

Don't, I pray you, stay cynical and bitter. Nothing so ruins a girl's life and chances. The world's full of beauty and adventure. Find them!

Hardly Enough

"Dear Zoe: A young man 22 is deeply in love with me; I am 26. I don't know that I love him but am very fond of him. I believe if I quit it would break his heart. Could I learn to love him through his kindness and goodness? I hate the thought of going out and trying to find someone else.

—INTERESTED READER."

There are cases where affection goes further than mad, mad, love. It depends on the girl's desires and disposition. A quiet girl who longs for a home and a good man to fuss over is sometimes happy even though this mad, mad love is missing. But in general I warn a young girl not to miss it.

You, my little friend, are more mature and possibly would get along without the high romance. I could not tell for sure unless I knew more about you, about him and about his circumstances. At all events I can assure you it will not break his heart if you quit. Hearts are strong, serviceable old muscles and don't break as easily as we think. Specially men's.

Tough Problem

"Dear Zoe: I am 46, English, in this country 10 years, a professional babies' nurse. I so loved children that I married a man with five. I loved their father, but he turned out to be a chronic drinker and does not care for me anyhow. The boys are unmanageable and the girls so wild I tremble for their future. My home is desolate and miserable and I cannot have friends. What can I do?

—GEORGIANNA B."

You cannot cure a drunkard. I think you had best go back to self-support and possibly make a place the more tractable of the children might learn to call home. Why not get advice from the children's court?

Hard on the Mate

"Dear Zoe: I am 33 and have had great financial reverses. Left my home and came to a small southern town to start at the beginning. Am lonesome and blue. Can you make any suggestions as to how to find a mate?

I hope you won't find one, old kid, or even look too hard for one until you have got upon your feet again. When I read that the business depression had lowered the number of marriages in New York City to a point never before reached I whooped with joy. For I know only too often that when poverty comes in at the door, love flies out of the window.

Try friendships in lieu of love-stuff, son. Make acquaintances where you work. The boys will introduce you to their sisters, cousins and aunts. Build up a circle of friends. Join whatever your town affords in the way of social clubs, golf clubs, dance groups, anything and everything that brings you social contacts. Be a joiner and forget your blues and depressions.

SOME MERE ECONOMISTS OFFER A PLAN

The amazing ease with which the treasury department disposed of the recent bond issue has renewed interest in, and strengthened the demand for, a new bond issue to be used for federal road construction. Such an undertaking at this time would go far toward relieving unemployment. The time to borrow money is when interest rates are low, as they now are. There are more than a few valid arguments for the plan.

It has the indorsement of such men as Dr. Leo Wolman, professor of economics at Columbia and Dr. John Ryan and Dr. W. B. Donham of the Harvard graduate school of business administration. These men are, of course, theorists rather than business men. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reminds us that the verdict of economists on the tariff bill was of no weight with Mr. Hoover, and wonders if a verdict by a like group is of any weight now.

"As the economists see it," says the Post-Dispatch, "something must be done. In behalf of their public works proposition, through the expedient of a bond issue, they claim that employment would be provided for 750,000 workmen; that all business would be stimulated; that government revenues would be increased; that such a program would be equivalent to starting an industry almost the size of the automobile industry. They argue that 'all the odds favor the success of such a plan.' So say the professors. Officialdom may not be listening to them. The people are."

Perhaps Mr. Hoover will find that the way out of Valley Forge lies along the route the professors suggest.

THE TRUCK REGULATION BILL

The governor's approval of the truck regulation bill would be disheartening if one were to believe that it was the last word on the subject. There is no basis for such a belief. Even if the measure survives the attack that will be made upon it in the courts, the operation of it will reveal so many injustices that material changes will be demanded two years hence.

There was need, when the legislature met, of more stringent regulation of the truck business. Abuses which short-sighted and selfish truck operators had permitted had developed a sentiment that demanded legislative action. A shrewd and powerful railroad lobby capitalized this sentiment into an outcry for a law that went far beyond the public's need; a law that meant, in a word, strangulation instead of regulation.

It will be found, we confidently believe, that the railroad lobby overplayed its hand; that the subservience of the legislators to it wrought a law which, even if it is not found to transgress the constitution, will be found so unfair and so infeasible that it will back-fire vigorously when the legislature meets again. The legislature had the opportunity to do a piece of constructive work; instead, it wrought destruction.

The doubts which the governor voice will be justified by a little experience with the measure. Perhaps it is not too much to hope that a just and sensible regulatory bill eventually will be enacted; one that regulates without destroying.

TUESDAY'S INSPECTION TRIP

Business men of Wichita Falls have been invited to inspect the irrigated valley, now luxuriant with the greatest variety of crops it has ever produced. The inspection trip will be made Tuesday, lasting all day, and covering 80 to 100 miles. Those who take part will come back with a happier conception of the valley and a fuller realization of the opportunity it offers.

We have said it many times before, but it will bear repeating now, that one big trouble with the irrigation project is that most Wichitans do not think of it except at tax-paying time when they groan at what it costs them. There is no minimizing that cost. It is heavy and irksome. The purpose of this inspection trip is to help taxpayers to see the way to reduce the burden by making the valley more profitable.

If the start had been made in the right way, eight years ago, Wichita Falls could by now have developed the project to a point where it would be very nearly paying its own bills. Until it can pay its own bills, Wichita Falls is going to have to pay them. The sooner the valley's development is recognized as a major, dominant problem rather than an incidental one, the sooner will the tax burden be lightened.

That is why business men should make a special effort to get away Tuesday and obtain a close-up view of the project. It should be an enjoyable outing, but its purpose is not to provide a holiday; its purpose is to bring Wichita Falls nearer to solving a problem that bears vitally on its future.

TWO KINDS OF DEFICITS

One of the horrendous dreams that beset the sleep of a governor is of leaving the state treasury empty when he goes out of office, of having to pass a deficit on to his successor. The problem of keeping expenditures within the limit set by revenues is one of the sorest with which a governor must grapple. Somehow or other, the public's estimate of a governor is based on his skill as a budget-balancer.

One result of this has been an indiscriminate slashing of appropriations from the legislature's money bills. Such bills almost always reach the governor after the legislature has adjourned, so that there is comeback; the governor's decision is final. And with the specter of a deficit haunting him, he usually prunes and prunes ruthlessly.

He may avoid a money deficit. That is a matter of arithmetic. But he leaves a deficit of another sort. Governor Campbell, for example, set his sights for an ad valorem tax rate of unprecedented smallness, held the appropriations down, and obtained it, and went out of office leaving a surplus in the treasury. But he left a deficit, and a ghastly one, just the same. For on the day that he turned his office over to his successor, the county jails of Texas were crowded with persons mentally ill, for whom there was no room in the state hospitals. The tax rate had been cut to the bone. Appropriations for new hospital buildings had been vetoed out. A money deficit was avoided. But the state was left in debt, and that debt had to be paid in the suffering of those who needed the protection and treatment of state hospitals.

It is too early to say whether the end of Governor Sterling's first term will find any money left in the state's coffers. The governor has tried hard to reconcile the appropriations, made by a legislature that had no clear conception of the state's needs, with the revenues provided by a legislature that did not even try to get a clear picture of the taxation problem. It has been an enormous task. The governor's solution of it is going to bring criticism of him from many quarters. Cutting out the summer schools for 1933 was a drastic measure and a painful one.

But the governor will not leave any deficit to be expressed in terms of suffering human beings. He approved the appropriations for new hospital buildings, saw to it that the state institutions were enabled to keep pace with the increasing demands upon them. There may be, despite his pruning of educational and other items, a money deficit. There will not be a deficit of the other kind.

Auto junk shops may not be doing such a rattling good business these days, but the turn over is high.

States' Rights or States' Racket

By GLENN FRANK
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

This slogan has quite taken the place of let George do it.

The old passion for states' rights has given way to a passion for states' relief from anything that the federal government can be wheedled into doing.

The states clutch for federal aid in all sorts of enterprise.

The states and cities within the states now turn to the federal government even for police aid in corralling gangsters.

There is a vast and vital job that the federal government can do.

It should play impresario to the vitalities of the varied commonwealths that comprise it.

It has a great task to bring to the nation unity without uniformity.

But we are in danger of forgetting that the quality of national government cannot, in the long run, rise higher than the quality of government back in the constituent states.

I am quite aware that many of the issues that are vital to the lives of men and women in the states cannot be solved by states alone.

But I am daily impressed with the tendency of the states to lean on the federal government as on a crutch.

We need a renaissance of responsibility in the states.

The states can wisely resolve not to ask the federal government to do anything the state can do alone.

For instance: If one great state should just now pull itself together in a central planning of its total life for the next 25 years, it could give the nation as a whole a needed reminder of its biggest and most challenging duty just now.

Lines to a Lady Who Was So Much Amused at Seeing Us in a Bathing Suit That She Took Our Picture

Full well I realize
My shape is one at which to be amused,
And if it's one for laughter, in your eyes,
My feelings are not bruised.

But tell me this—
Your husband's shape is—well, not quite divine;
How can you laugh at mine?

A target for your ribaldry and fun,
Remember that in this city of 43,690 folks,

The New Golf Ball

In our capacity of a seeker after truth, we set out the other day to ascertain just what is what about the new, and larger, golf ball that is creating so much argument among golfers just now.

We had a theory of our own about the new ball. It was that it was being blamed for everything that was wrong with the game of every golfer who used it. The golfer has to have an alibi for his mistakes. Golf is almost as bad, in that respect, as fishing, baseball, matrimony, bridge, traffic violations and politics. Our belief was that there was nothing really wrong with the new ball, that it was simply having to bear the burden of the average golfer's ineptitude.

And so we went out to learn about it, at first hand. Our experience abundantly justified our theory. There is nothing wrong with the new ball.

For example, let us relate what happened on the first hole. We made a clean, sweet drive, fully 75 or 80 yards, and only a few rods off the fairway. Using our spoon and a few irons we were soon out of the rough and presently were within easy approaching distance, about 20 yards. The approach shot, we realized, offered a more accurate test of the new ball's qualities than driving or middle distance shots. We were gratified to see our approach take the air beautifully, rising to a height of three or four feet, and, after hitting a couple of trees, coming to a stop right on the edge of the green. From there it was a simple matter to hole out with only four putts.

It Isn't the Ball

The subsequent holes were like unto the first. Playing our accustomed steady game, we were unable to discover anything at all wrong with the larger ball. We shot an easy 79, which is about as good as we ever did with the old ball. We were sorry we didn't have time to give the ball a further test by playing the other nine holes.

We did find time to do a little practice driving, which further served to confirm our theory. Again and again we smacked the pellet for 85, 90, 95 and, on one shot 103 yards.

These golfers who blame the ball for their game are simply all wet. We gave it a thorough try-out and found our game fully as good as it ever was. We don't play very often at that. We are an unusual type of player. We can lay off of golf for a year or more and then go out and do as well as if we had been playing as often as a banker.

The agitation against the new ball is due in part to a mistaken attitude toward golf. The object should be to get fresh air and exercise and to develop one's self-control, rather than merely to make a low score. We have never been one to put the emphasis on a low score. We go out for exercise and we get it; so does our caddy, if we have one. We use golf to develop our self control, and it does it, even though our game has the opposite effect on those with whom we are playing.

Improvements

If a low score, rather than exercise and self-control, is one's objective in playing, we are ready to concede that there is room for improvement. In the days when we looked on golf merely as a game, we thought of a number of changes that might be made in it, to add to its enjoyment and enlarge its appeal to one's sporting proclivities. Some time ago we worked out a program of these changes, which we are going to submit to the association at the first opportunity. Briefly, they include:

Fewer and smaller hazards.
Larger greens.

We have never taken any part in the movement for larger cups. The cup is amply large, as it is. There is need, however, of a different way of laying out the greens. Instead of making them flat or sloping, they should be concave, with the hole at the bottom of the depression. Our idea is, roughly speaking, to have the greens shaped like doodle-bug holes, with the cup at the bottom.

A somewhat different idea, the merits of which will be readily recognized, is to leave the greens just as they are, but to have the ball made with a steel center and then have a good strong magnet installed at the bottom of each cup.

We're not right clear as to when Mr. Coolidge will resume his writings. One report says it will be in the fall, but another says that it won't be until he has an idea.

East Texas' position seems to be that that section has troubles enough without an extra session of the legislature.

Still, we doubt if even a Texas legislature could make it any worse.

Health and Diet Advice

Learning From Experience

You will find the experience of others to be of great value in your study of health problems. Millions of people have lived, made mistakes in living habits, and developed diseases which you can prevent in your own case if you will but profit by their costly experiences.

Most of the truths I am giving you in these lessons have been gathered from the experience of thousands of patients, the benfit of which you may have without being forced to live through the same mistakes and suffer the same bad consequences.

Personal experience is a great teacher, but knowledge procured that way often costs more than is necessary. For instance, if we learn to eat the right foods only by making mistakes, it will take all our lives to learn how to live.

Moses knew centuries ago that milk and meat made an indigestible combination, and yet how few have profited by the teaching of such a simple and easily proved fact.

It should not be necessary for a child to grow up repeating bad habits over and over again until he becomes debilitated and enervated at maturity, when he first learns that he has been making serious mistakes all his life.

People who are smart enough in business, and even those who are philosophers or inventors, will readily admit that overeating is harmful and yet, perhaps, they have gone through their whole lives without once having tried to curb their appetites or cut down their food to a sensible amount.

Overeating is equally as bad for one as for another. The only difference is that some people do not notice the bad effects as quickly as others. Those who are not troubled with digestive disturbances from overeating during early life will surely reap the harvest of bad effects later on.

How often people refer, in this way, to some friend who has just died at the prime of life: "It was so surprising—he had never been sick before in his life, and seemed such a healthy man." That "seemed such a healthy man" brings out an important point. No man can be truly healthy who is daily committing dietetic errors and under-exercising. Disease will insidiously develop in the body of such a man, whether or not it shows in outward symptoms.

When your doctor tells you that gluttony is the source of all of your infirmities—the fountain of all of your diseases, he is not only giving you his own private opinion, but the accumulated wisdom of the ages.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Indication of Heart Trouble

Question—G. M. writes: "At times my fingers get extremely cold, then they start swelling first in the joints, then working up to the fingertips. Small lumps form under the skin, then become red. By touching anything cold my fingers get blue and numb. Would like to find a cure, as I have to work for a living."

Answer—Possibly you are having some kind of functional heart trouble. Your physician should be able to tell you whether or not my guess is correct. I will be glad to send special articles on heart derangements and poor circulation if you will forward large self-addressed stamped envelope with request for them.

Rhubarb

Question — R. asks: "Is rhubarb good in the diet?"

Answer—If rhubarb could be made palatable without the addition of so much sugar in its preparation, my answer would be "yes," but as it does require this excessive amount of sugar, I never recommend it.

Sinus Trouble

Question—B. F. S. writes: "Four years ago I was operated on for frontal sinus trouble. All went well until this spring, when the incision in the nose and part of the eyebrow has been breaking open about every week, with a discharge of pus and bloody serum. What causes this and can it be stopped?"

Answer—Operations for sinus and antrum trouble are usually disappointing, as one operation follows the other in an attempt to get rid of the pus condition which can be cured only through cleaning up the blood stream. A 10-day fast should clear up your trouble, and if you will then live on a suitable diet it should not return.

Petition Will Ask Commissioners to Appoint Wichita County Dairy Expert Plan Free Testing of Dairy Cattle

A petition requesting that the Wichita county commissioners appoint a dairy expert will be presented at the regular Monday meeting of the commissioners court, according to Dr. Fred Gross, local veterinary.

The petition has been signed by officials of the Wichita Dairy association, the Wichita Valley Poultry association and the North Texas Rabbit Breeders association and by many citizens of the county.

Free testing of dairy herds would be one of the duties of a county expert and would save the farmers much money on this item alone, Dr. Gross pointed out.

"We, the membership of the Wichita Dairy association, the Wichita Valley Poultry association and the North Texas Rabbit Breeders association, respectfully ask that the court appoint a local veterinarian as dairy expert for Wichita county, as provided by law. We should like for this appointment to be made immediately.

"We believe such an official is needed at this time for the following reasons:

"All the milk cows in this county to be tuberculin tested.

"Treatment of all ailments that might be necessary for dairy cows, poultry and rabbits.

"Under present conditions the owners of livestock in this county are not in financial position to secure the services of a veterinarian as needed.

"We as taxpayers in this county believe this appointment would fill a real need. The proposed services of such an official would be beyond the things our present county agent has the time or the authority to perform."

Signers were as follows: E. M. McGrath, H. C. Fitzgerald, and Dr. Gross, committee from the Dairy association; Ira D. Brown, president of the poultry group; Frank Wolf, president of the rabbit breeders; J. C. Burks, C. C. Hudson, H. K. Averbey, George Reeves, T. J. Pace, B. L. Bradford, E. C. Knox, Dr. Gordon G. Clark, Gayle Park, Curtis Sewell, James A. Griffin, T. E. Hill, G. W. Russell, A. J. Taxman, C. H. McDowell, W. A. Asbill, Deever Moorhead and W. R. Bradford, all of Iowa Park; J. T. Harrell, J. N. Sherrill and J. Solon Downing of Wichita Falls; G. R. Gilson, W. T. Billingslea, H. C. Preston and R. L. Gregg of Burkburnett; and A. H. Fusche, H. J. Fiusche, Lee's dairy, G. M. Reich hatchery, S. Hartmansgruber, Nortside dairy, J. R. Preston and Fred Keller, all of Electra.

A Tough Situation

SEATTLE.—Ralph Wilson, brought into court on a charge of being drunk, told Judge Crehan this strange tale. He had been invited into a hotel guest's room, and while in there the man had taken out a bottle of "hairtonic," and requested Ralph to take a drink. Ralph, pure soul that he was, refused. Whereupon the man pulled a gun and made him drink until he "passed out." The tale was so strange that the judge gave Ralph five days in jail.

Wife Saves Mate

FORT FRANCES, Ont.—Archie McGinnis owes his life to his wife's ability to paddle a canoe. Archie shot himself when he accidentally got off his gun while sitting in his canoe. He fell in the river after being shot and his wife dove in after him and pulled him out. She paddled the canoe 20 miles in six hours to get him to a doctor.

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—Until recently, I have never taken my spine in hand and summoned enough courage to walk through the portals of one of Manhattan's many temples dedicated to beauty and to beauty's by-products.

Somehow, I have never managed to live down a sad experience in youth when I was caught by the neighborhood gang in possession of my sister's fancy perfume atomizer.

The assurance that "no one will bite you" has not been sufficient to lure me into this world of ultra-modernistic furniture, or languorous lights and more languorous lady attendants of mirrors and cabinets filled with cosmetics; of charming and ingratiating hostesses who rustle past in silken pajama-gowns; of pungent aromas and subtle aromas. It's all been too lady-like for the likes of me, and too foreign.

But the other day Elizabeth Arden, one of the more successful high priestess of this fabulously rich industry, took me in hand, assuring me that it would be "after hours"; that "the worst would be over for the day" and that I would not encounter any woman running about in face cream and kimonos.

I have known, of course, for some time that whether the times be good, bad or indifferent, the beauty industry goes on running up its millions. Miss Arden reaps in something like $700,000 a year, according to reports. Helena Rubinstein and others also can reveal vast incomes even in years of depression.

And so I am now able to reveal that Miss Arden started out in life as Miss Graham. She was, to be exact, Florence Nightingale Graham as she was born in Canada. Her features indicate a mixture of Scotch and British.

When she came to America to find work, she carried with her a copy of the immortal "Enoch Arden." She had already determined not to use the family name "in trade," so she took the name of Arden.

But before she established her own business, she got a job with a big chemical concern and thus got her first experience in "mixing things." The chances are she might still have been in Canada, but for the fact that her family wanted her to marry a man who didn't happen to interest her. She left without telling her family where she was going.

Nineteen years have elapsed since she opened a small place "on the avenue." She married a New Yorker, Thomas J. Lewis, and automatically became an American citizen.

One of the most spectacular incidents in her business career was her insistence upon a brilliant red door, as part of the modernistic scheme of her present building front. The architects all but collapsed at the idea. She made one architect walk all over town criticising other doorways, and finally he gave in. She got her doorway.

She spends as much time as possible on a farm in Maine, which she calls the Maine Chance. She keeps an English butler who designed a uniform to match the store — a flaming red tie and a slick white coat.

Her estate is near the water and she keeps both aquaplanes and motorboats at hand. When she first took over the old farm, she kept 60 men at work until she arranged the grounds and house to suit her tastes. It is now, two years later, one of the Maine showplaces. She finds the attention it gets somewhat embarrassing, since long lines of motor cars are routed past the grounds.

After hearing which, I felt a bit more at home in a beauty salon.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The war department's plans for the "next war" do not contemplate another powerful food administration or fuel administration. Neither is it proposed that the government take over the railroads, as it did in the last war, unless full government control seems to become unavoidable.

Food and fuel will be handled by a director of war industry, who would serve on a dominant advisory war council with the secretaries of war and navy, a director of selective service, director of public relations and an administrator of labor.

The army has worked out a definite plan for wartime operation of railways, under which a central committee of railroad officials would be able to put the rail system at the disposal of the government under unified management within 24 hours.

Plan Staff of Experts

The director of war industry obviously will be a most important person and if you happen to be convinced that we'll be having a major war before long you might have some fun guessing who he will turn out to be. He will be appointed by the president and will act as his confidential representative. He will function with headquarters here, aided by a staff of experts engaged, as the war department envisages their job, in "continuous studies of such matters as price movements and their causes, substitutes for critical materials, conservation and business practices." The main body of his office will consist of two branches—one to coordinate demand, or requirements, and the other to coordinate supply, dealing with industry as a whole and its efforts to meet the requirements. The branch which will handle organization of demand includes representatives of the army and navy along with civilians. Under the director, in a so-called industrial branch, there will be a coordinator of war industry assisted by an industrial advisory board consisting of several prominent industrialists who will be drafted by the president for official government service.

Each member of the advisory board will be assigned general supervision over a group of war service committees. Industries, groups of industries or component parts of industries will be asked to select for themselves, executive committees and to empower them with definite control over the industries, or groups represented so that they may act on designated matters connected with the emergency. Any association or organization might appoint a war service committee, the war department says, but they will represent primarily manufacturers, distributors, transportation, labor, power and shippers. The war service committee will not be governmental organizations as the advisory board will be, but will exercise only the powers delegated to them by the industries which elect them.

Speed Essential

To insure speed of organization when a big war emergency comes the war department will keep a list of names of men specially qualified, so that the director of war industry and his principal assistants may be promptly chosen by the president. Officers engaged in peacetime study of the wartime industrial problems will be ready to step in and facilitate matters of office organization, plans and specifications at any moment. Meanwhile, the army industrial college is making intensive studies involved in the prompt organization of industry for war emergency.

Before the war department submitted its plans to the war policies commission there was considerable discussion of the question of conscripting labor in wartime—a measure strongly opposed by the unions. Thus interest attaches to the proposed functions of the "Administrator of Labor." Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, says enforced labor would not be supported by public opinion or be conducive to morale and efficiency. But the full cooperation of labor is anticipated and the war plans are professedly designed to "protect labor from oppression under color of emergency" as well as to guide it into useful channels and keep it therein as far as possible. "Labor control" will be based entirely, it is promised, on voluntary cooperation.

The labor administration will undertake to assure war industries and essential civilian industries—including agriculture and transportation—of sufficient qualified labor for adequate operation. The administrator of labor, appointed by and responsible to the president, will be aided by an advisory council made up of employers and employe representatives in equal numbers. Proper guidance and the force of public opinion, the war department believes, can be depended upon to enforce decisions of the labor administration. The administration will attempt to determine labor requirements, operate an employment service to bring jobs and workers together and maintain an agency for conciliation and adjustment designed to keep workers on the job.

Large Number in Swimming Class At Westmoreland

Eighty-eight children took free swimming lessons at Westmoreland park swimming pool last week in the "learn to swim" campaign sponsored by the park department. "Big Bill" Curren is in charge of the beginners and Tom Beaty is in charge of the advanced pupils.

Otto Lazenby, manager of the pool, stated that he would have two additional swimming instructors Monday morning, as the size of the classes would demand additional instructors so that each pupil may receive personal attention.

The next swimming lesson will be given Monday morning at 8 o'clock. All that wish to learn to swim and have not registered should register Monday morning at Westmoreland park swimming pool.

Air Budget Increase

LONDON.—Moneys appropriated for aviation activities of the English government during 1931 will total $30,500,000, an increase of $1,250,000 over the appropriations for 1930, it is reported. Military planes and research get $38,360,000 of this amount, or more than one-third of the total.

The Story of Sue

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Sue wanted to leap up and strike the cool smug face of the woman who had just accused her of being interested in Phil Banning. Instead she leaned back in her chair and waited for Marion Banning to produce what she considered testimony that Sue liked her husband.

"Last night, late, very late, you called my husband. And you left word for him to call your number. I checked up on that number and found that it was your residence. You are the only girl at home now. The matter was easy enough. You are the girl who called him."

Now Sue was beginning to see what it was that Marion Banning meant. Sue remembered the number that Sarah had called the night before and the manner in which she had instructed Mrs. Banning to have her husband call the number of the house where she was. That house had been Sue's home and the telephone number had been her number.

Sue knew that she could slip out of the suspicious entanglement. But if she did she would complicate Sarah. Sarah would take her medicine, head and heart high, rather than have any one who was innocent suffer. But there might be a way of solving the problem without making Sarah suffer, Sue reflected. What it would be she didn't know. But there was the ghost of a chance, and since there was she had to take it.

"You certainly are on the wrong track. I didn't call your husband. Someone might have given my number, thinking to put you on a false clue," Sue said. "But I'm going to marry Jack Thornton."

"You don't need to think that I am through with you," Marion said, "just because this particular insinuation has a loophole. I'll not give up so easily."

"You will apologize to me before you are through," Sue flung back, standing. "You can't accuse me of stealing anything or any one, and get away with it. And besides, your views of life are all wrong. If you loved your husband you couldn't talk things over with the other woman. You would be trying to find a way to keep him instead of getting rid of him. It appears to me that you want some alimony!"

"How dare you!" Marion Banning jumped up swiftly. "You don't know what you are saying! You act as though I want money! Oh, I think you're dreadful!"

"The shoe pinches, doesn't it?" Sue said quietly now. Through a reflected glass door she could see her own crisp blue and white ensemble, and her face was young and lively with its flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes. And she could see Marion Banning, too, and her face was flushed but it looked older and coarser and her eyes had no vibrancy when they flashed. The sight of the contrasted appearances gave Sue new courage.

Sue eyed her steadily as she talked on. "You said that you were staging a scene. You were. The yellow roses are lovely, but there certainly isn't anything else about your room that is. You're cheap and shoddy. You hadn't any proof at all that I so much as knew your husband. But you jumped at conclusions and you certainly bumped your nose when you jumped. You are going to apologize, and do it soon. Is there anything else that you want to say?"

The woman didn't answer. Sue opened the door, stepped out, and banged it after her. That bang seemed to release some pent-up emotion in her.

"Boy, you look as though you've had a battle," he said. "But it's becoming. Darned if it isn't."

"Oh, shut up! Sue snapped. "To think any one could get an idea I wanted a fool like you!"

She almost ran down the street to Sarah Slade's.

Sue realized that sooner or later . . . and probably very, very soon . . . Marion Banning would discover that Sarah Blade was the girl with whom her errant husband, Phil Banning, had been seen.

Sue knew that she could readily prove that she had never paid any attention to the blond young architect. Marion would have some apologizing to do. But Sue also realized that Sarah was going to have a mighty uncomfortable time over something which, after all, was very petty and unimportant, unless something happened quickly.

There was only one thing that Sue could do. That was to go to Sarah and talk the matter over with her.

Sarah was still in her rooms when Sue reached them.

"I was starting after you. You had promised to take a drive with me, you know," Sarah reminded her. "What in the world has happened? You look as though you had tried to kick over the rock of Gibraltar and it wouldn't budge."

"Let's get in the car and I'll tell you," Sue said. "Drive fast, too. I want to let off steam. I have a horror of being near telephones where voices can reach you. I want to be away."

The car was taking a road that led away from the city when Sue spoke. She told Sarah of her encounter with Marion Banning, omitting nothing. When she finished Sarah leaned back as she slowed down the car, and laughed softly.

"Oh Sue, that was rich! I'm so glad you told her what you thought of her. But you don't think she would really use my name. . . . Why, she couldn't! Just because I went out to lunch or dinner a few times with her husband. I did go motoring, too, but nobody knows that. Every one does such things. You know they do. Besides, I thought he was single then." She stepped on the gas and the car went faster.

"Sue, I didn't know I was getting into such a crazy mess. But I shouldn't have called him last night. That's the only move I've made since I learned that he was married. I haven't seen him since Ted told me. Phil canceled an engagement and I was just as glad, although I didn't understand why he canceled it at the time."

The car flew down the road for a few minutes. Then Sarah spoke.

"I have an idea, Sue. I'm going to scare that Banning woman right out of her own tricks. I'll pretend that I'm going to seek damages for the things that she has said and the accusation she has made. She'll be glad enough to leave me alone. It's just that call last night. . . . And I only did it to show your brother that he couldn't influence me."

"You can pretend that you had just discovered that Phil is married . . . it's true you had . . . and you wanted to tell him that he needn't call you any more," Sue told Sarah. "Of course that's ancient. It sounds like a 16-year-old Cinderella talking, but you have to put up with a few inconveniences. But what did you want with him last night, Sarah?"

Sarah's eyes were puzzled as she looked at Sue. "Honestly, Sue, I don't know what I would have said if he had been at home. I was hoping hard that he wouldn't be. I just wanted to do something to make Ted angry. He makes me so provoked."

"And you make him provoked," Sue said wisely. "When two people make each other as provoked as you two do . . . Why are you turning the car around?"

Lindbergh's Plane Equipped With Improved Safety Devices Including Two Radio Sets and Rubber Boat

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP)—If Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife should crash at sea during their projected flight to the Orient, they will swim to the surface to find a bundle already floating there in which are means of sustenance, transportation and even communication with the world.

Undoing this bundle, which is automatically released from a tail compartment when the plane submergers, they will inflate the outer wrapping which is a collapsible rubber boat. Inflation is effected by a bottle of compressed air.

Climbing into the boat they will find a mast and sail, emergency rations and a radio set capable of communication about 500 miles in the day time and 3,000 miles at night. The set is both crash proof and watertight.

Two Radio Sets

The Lindberghs will carry two radio sets, one for use in the plane with a range from 3,000 to 7,000 miles, and the other the emergency set for use in case of accident afield or afloat. The emergency set was built a little more than a year ago at Miami and was tested by being dropped from the top of a hangar onto a concrete runway and then submerged for 24 hours. Still dripping, it was tested and found to be in perfect condition.

In telling of the radio equipment H. C. Leuteritz, head of the communications department of Pan-American Airways, for which Colonel Lindbergh is technical advisor, revealed that the Lindberghs had been practicing the wireless code for about three months.

When they started, he said, Lindbergh could send and receive about 10 words a minute, having had to learn something about wireless in the army. His wife started at scratch. Now they both can receive 17 words a minute and send a little faster.

During all his flight Lindbergh will keep in touch by air with Pan-American Airways. The company will keep him informed of ships in his course so that he may ask them before he reaches them about weather conditions.

The cost of the world war in money has been estimated at about $186,000,000,000.

Loses 16 Pounds of Fat—Eats As Usual

Fat Folks—Here's More Proof—One Bottle of Kruschen Salts and Sixteen Pounds Gone—Eats As Usual—Sleeps Better—Costs 85 Cents

Modern Science now makes it possible for you to easily and what's best, to SAFELY obtain a bewitchingly lithe, free-from-fat figure and actually enjoy exhilarated health and increase your attractiveness while doing so—

Simply take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—you can hasten the reducing action of Kruschen by going lighter on potatoes, fatty meats and pastries.

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. I feel so good in many ways. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat too. I have told 2 of my friends about Kruschen and they find it as I do."

Unlike other salts, Kruschen doesn't aim to reduce by rushing food through the system—rather it's a superbly blended combination of SIX separate mineral salts which help glands, nerves and body organs to function properly—it drives poisons and harmful acid from the body—Kruschen strikes at the usual CAUSE of fat—that's why it's so amazingly successful in cases where everything else has failed!

And just stop to consider how inexpensive Kruschen is—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks and offers the same marvelous reducing and health-giving properties which hitherto wealthy people paid thousands of dollars to go to the famous mineral Spas of Europe to obtain. Allison Drug store and all druggists the world over sell Kruschen and will give your money back if you don't obtain the results you're after.—Adv.

It Does Three Things For Your Child

Which No Other Food in the World Can Do

A Food Concentrate from Switzerland . . . Developed by a Special Method of Processing Which Gives it the Power to Stimulate Appetite . . . Correct Nervousness . . . and Add a Pound or More Per Week to a Child's Weight

1 APPETITE

1 I could never get my little girl to eat and she was very thin and restless. Since drinking Ovaltine she has not only gained an appetite, but gained weight and become more restful. I tried cod liver oil for the same purpose but noticed no such rapid improvement. I feel contented now when meal time comes, just to see her eat with pleasure—with her cup of Ovaltine alongside her plate.
Mrs. John Oakes, Lenni Mills, Penn.

2 NERVOUSNESS

2 My five-year old daughter, Mary Joyce, used to tumble and fret in her sleep. She was losing weight and would not drink milk. Her appetite was very poor. Then I started giving her Ovaltine four times a day—at meal times and before she goes to bed at night. She's no longer a nervous, underweight child. She sleeps well. Her weight has increased, she has gained four pounds and she's the very picture of glowing health.
Mrs. Adeline Weaver, 2800 N. Lamé Ave., Chicago.

3 My little boy was underweight, very nervous, had no appetite and his stomach was not strong. I began to give him Ovaltine three times each day and after a few days I could see the change. He was less nervous, slept better, had a decidedly better appetite, digested his food better and began to gain weight. Now he is well and strong and I'm sure Ovaltine played a big part.
Mrs. Eleota McCombs, Ft. Bayard, N. M.

3 WEIGHT

SWITZERLAND now offers to the children of America a food concentrate developed by a special method of processing which gives it most remarkable powers.

First, it has the power to nourish a child—at the same time it actually creates the sensation of hunger.

Second, it usually adds a pound or more per week to a child's weight, when given regularly.

Third, it contains elements which have a definite effect in curbing nervousness.

So remarkable are the results obtained, that we believe all mothers will like to read the story of just how this creation was developed and how it accomplishes its unusual results.

38 years ago, in Switzerland, a young food chemist developed a remarkable method of processing certain natural foods. A method of processing which gives to these foods certain values, which none of them have when taken alone or when put together in an ordinary mixture. It created world comment at that time, for it solved the problem of feeding invalids. Its use has spread all over the world. And today it is also solving for modern mothers the problem of child feeding.

The name of this product is Ovaltine. It is made by a unique process—prepared under vacuum, to preserve all vitamins and enzymes. Further, it is processed in such a way that it digests almost at once, without effort. It will digest when nothing else seems to "agree." And constitutes in itself a complete food.

You mix it with milk and drink it as a beverage. And when mixed with milk it will break down the curds and make the milk digest twice as easily. (For milk alone, as you know, turns to solid curds in the stomach.)

It also contains a natural but vital property called "lecithin", which is the important part of nerve and brain tissue. A few days' use of Ovaltine usually curbs nervousness noticeably.

Increased Appetite

Ovaltine has a high content of the appetite-producing Vitamin B. But of greatest importance is its high proportion of the remarkable food element known as "diastase." (A substance that gives one food the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach.)

Ovaltine is so processed that it contains enough diastase to digest from 4 to 5 times its own weight of other foods! It is this digestive power which chiefly distinguishes Ovaltine from any other health food in the world, and is the main reason why Ovaltine actually stimulates appetite.

Quick Digestion

By breaking down the curds in the milk, by digesting the starches in the stomach, Ovaltine speeds up digestion and empties the stomach sooner. This makes a child hungry. For the sensation of hunger is caused by the walls of an empty stomach pressing together, and hunger is the basis of appetite. Child specialists will tell you that usually when a child refuses to eat, it is because he hasn't fully digested his previous meal—"poor eaters" invariably have slow digestion.

World-Wide Use

Ovaltine today is used in thousands of hospitals and sanitariums. It is used today in 54 nations. It is prescribed by over 20,000 doctors. It was used as a standard ration by the Red Cross during the World War, for nerve-shattered, shell-shocked soldiers. In short, it is time-tested.

For the sake of your child we urge you to try it. Results will surprise you. Note the almost immediate difference in your child's weight and nerve poise, and in greater strength, energy and appetite.

Give it at breakfast always. At meals and between meals. You can get Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store. Or, if you like, send the coupon for a 3-day test.

(Note) Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine, on physicians' advice, to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also widely prescribed for sleeplessness, nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

Famous Ovaltine Oatmeal Test

Put 3 teaspoonfuls of Ovaltine into a full glass or cereal dish of cooked, warm oatmeal. Stir a few times to mix. Then watch and you will see the oatmeal liquefy before your eyes. You will see how a small amount of Ovaltine digests the entire starch content of the oatmeal in the same way that your own digestive organs should. It is a perfect demonstration of how Ovaltine, if taken with a meal, digests the starch content of other foods in your stomach. And why it speeds up digestion and creates the sensation of hunger.

Cheap Grain and Low-Priced Cattle Provide Opportune Combination for Many Farmers of Northwest Texas

By FRED L. HASKETT

Cheap grain, and cattle at low prices, bring a combination that should interest farmers or grain growers who will have a surplus amount of grain on the farms this season. Those who have given study to feeding believe that better prices can be obtained for wheat and other small grains by marketing it "on the hoof" than by delivering to the elevators.

Few farmers have made a success of feeding. The reason is that few of them study feeding and learn that by giving the animals plenty of feed the latter will put on fat and gain weight. Plenty of feed will do that but there may not be a profit.

Feeding should be done on a scientific basis. Correct feeding charts have been prepared and if the farmer will follow instructions and give study to the stock being fed, it is possible to earn a fair margin of profit as well as to receive a good price for grain. This is more especially true if the grain ration has been raised by the feeder.

This season there is an abundance of small grain. Wheat and barley have a feeding value 12 per cent greater than corn. Most farmers have stacks of straw that will supply roughage. The cattle to be fed should be given access to the straw stack and not permitted to have too much pasture in which to roam about.

Should Feed More Cattle

G. C. McGown, farm agent of Wichita county, gives as his belief that more cattle should be fed on the farms in Wichita county. The range animals can be had with low delivery price and most range herds have been built up to good blood lines. The quality of the animal is very important, as high grades will take on more weight in less time with no greater feeding requirements than cold bloods.

Another who is interested in seeing more cattle finished for the market is W. M. McGregor, president of the First National bank of Wichita Falls. Mr. McGregor has a good ranch south of Wichita Falls in Archer county and is giving the feeding of cattle thought and study.

"I believe that many of our farmers who have an abundance of wheat and barley should try feeding a few high grade calves," says Mr. McGregor. "The farmer should buy young animals, weighing about 400 pounds. The capital investment will be lower and these calves, with good treatment, will grow into real beef animals that command a fancy price at the packing house and local markets.

"I do not see how a farmer can lose by feeding quality calves if the calves are purchased at the present market price. The only chance for loss is for the calves to die, and that is unlikely."

Feeding Period for Calves

Calves weighing 400 pounds should be fed for a period of 180 days and during that time if handled correctly the average gain should be two pounds per day. The finished calf at the end of the period should weigh 760 pounds. A fair price for baby beef now is between seven and eight cents per pound. There is always a demand for this class of meat as it goes to the high class trade. Good range calves can be had now for not more than $25 per head, or even less. A few dollars extra per head for quality animals is a good investment.

For the first 15 days the calves are on feed they should be given hammered wheat, barley or grain sorghums of 2.75 pounds per head per day, cottonseed meal 0.75 pounds and 12 pounds of roughage.

The second 15-day period the ration is increased to four pounds of grain, one pound of cottonseed meal and 12 pounds of roughage. This completes the first month of feeding and from now on the grain or concentrate ration is increased and roughage decreases.

The fifth 30-day period 9.5 pounds grain, 1.8 pounds cottonseed meal and 8.5 pounds roughage.

Good Attention Necessary

A farmer who is inclined to give attention to his stock will usually make a successful feeder. Pampering of calves makes them take on flesh, fat and bone more readily.

No farmer need go to much expense in preparing to feed a small lot of calves. A mill to prepare the grain is inexpensive and will last through many feeding seasons. Wichita Falls has a splendid consuming market for fancy beef, and there are also four excellent outside markets—Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Dallas and the Pacific coast packers.

Feeding of grain on the farm means that the farm lands can be restored to fertility. It is usually profitable to run a few good shoats with the feeders, as the hogs will grow out with practically no expense, except the capital investment.

During the harvest festival this coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 18, 19 and 20, which will be held in the J. C. Penney company building, Mr. McGown will be in attendance and will be pleased to advise with any farmer relative to the feeding of calves. Don't start feeding until an informed man is consulted.

Wichita, Clay, Archer and Baylor farmers should give more study to feeding, more especially farmers who do dry land farming. A fortunate thing for feeders in this section is that water is abundant and the feeder stock can be purchased from local ranchers, whose calves are as fine as any grown in any state.

CHICKASHA, OKLA., BANKER DIES OF HEART ATTACK

CHICKASHA, Okla., June 13. (AP)—B. P. Smith, president of the Citizens-Farmers National bank here, died today of a heart attack. He was 70 years old.

Coming from Texas in 1877, Smith engaged in the cattle business in what now is Grady county. His herds roamed the prairies for years and joined caravans over the Chisholm trail to Kansas.

He had an active part in the development of Chickasha, and in 1898, six years after the city was founded, became interested in its first bank. The bank has been in operation since.

'Siege of 1918' Spectacle Climax For Fourth of July Celebration to Be Given Here by Local Legion Post

"Siege of 1918," the world's foremost war spectacle, will be the climax attraction for the Fourth of July celebration to be held in Wichita Falls, according to Milton Gaines, general chairman of the celebration committee of Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, the organization sponsoring the event.

Saturday, July fourth, will be a day to be long remembered in Wichita Falls. The day will be crowded with events that will hold the interest and attract men, women and children in every walk of life and every age. The day will open with a big parade in which hundreds of soldiers and ex-service men will take part. The forenoon and afternoon will be devoted to sports of various kinds. These events will be held at Spudder park.

At night "Miss Liberty" will be crowned at Fair park, and following this number comes the great war spectacle—a drama of the late world war, vividly painted in fire, showing actual scenes during the siege of Paris in the spring of 1918 when the enemy startled the world with its hectic feat of sending a missile 75 miles into the heart of Paris and advanced to a point within 45 miles of the French capital.

The "Siege of 1918" reproduces scenes of no man's land, with its trenches, dugouts, machine gun nests, during the appalling zero hour, together with hundreds of soldiers, in full war regalia, manning the mighty field "arms of death," all highly illuminated by spectacular star shells. The "Siege of 1918" will be a display of men, death machines, munitions and fireworks that will be remembered.

Many prominent young women of Wichita Falls are now disposing of tickets for every event to be held on the Fourth of July. The young lady who sells the greatest number of tickets will be awarded a beautiful sport model Chevrolet automobile.

"We hope the citizens of Wichita Falls will remain at home for the Fourth of July," says Mr. Gaines. "We are going to lots of expense to give entertainment that is wholesome and educational. The funds received from the celebration will be used to defray expense of sending the drum and bugle corps of Pat Carrigan post to the state convention of the American Legion to be held in El Paso during August.

"We are after the 1932 state convention and feel confident Wichita Falls will win by sending the drum and bugle corps. It will mean 5,000 visitors for the city next year."

Flying Fort

NEW YORK.—A single engine, high-speed military plane has been tested by the air corps here for use as a flying fort. The low-wing carries a crew of two, a quarter ton of bombs and six machine guns. It is of all-metal construction, and four of the guns are buried in the leading edge of the wings. It is said the plane has a top speed of 200 miles an hour.

Originally the thimble was called the thumb bell, because it was worn on the thumb.

LOAD OF OATS TO BE USED IN SHOW WINDOWS

A truck load of oats will be delivered Monday morning for show window decoration purposes by the retail merchants of Wichita Falls, according to Jack C. Barnard, general chairman of the retail merchants division of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

The oats are being obtained from the J. S. Bridwell farm, in the valley northwest of Wichita Falls. The sheafs of oats will be given to local stores that plan harvest display windows for the harvest festival to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 18, 19 and 20.

The oats will be brought to town and left at the display building, the former location of the J. C. Penney company store, on Eighth street between Scott and Indiana avenues. Merchants should call to secure their requirements Monday afternoon and get the windows decorated by Tuesday evening.

The harvest festival display contest closes Thursday morning, June 18, at 9 o'clock. All farmers who expect to make exhibits should get them in Wednesday if at all possible. The bundles of grain are to be displayed with leaves removed from the straw and the bundle to be not less than three or more than five inches in diameter.

G. C. McGown will be in attendance at the display room for the three days and will be pleased to meet all farmers and discuss with them the feeding of wheat or barley to calves or older cattle. Wichita county is producing a record grain crop and due to low prices many farmers contemplate feeding calves this summer and fall.

Britain's Rum Row Outgrowth of Heavy Increase in Tariff

LONDON, June 13. (US)—A long, scattered line of foreign ships, laden to overflowing with liquor, tobacco, scent and other dutible goods lying just outside the three-mile-limit, off the east coast of England, represents Britain's "rum row."

It is a serious menace to the the British excise authorities, for like all "rum runners" the captains and crews of the contraband carriers are well armed and desperate.

The vessels take up their position just before nightfall. They also take care to be just outside the three mile limit, and that prevents a search from the excise cutters.

At nightfall, speed boats put out from the coast and take away the cargo. There are many small coastline villages in Norfolk and Lincolnshire, where liquor and cigars are sold below the British duty itself.

Rumboats from continental countries, especially Holland, have always traded with the British ships in the North sea, but their numbers have increased greatly in recent years.

Many now carry no ordinary provisions which usually supplied the small ships, but instead they are filled with liquors, Scotch whisky, brandy and cigars, all designed for British bootleg consumption.

The increase began in the traffic when the duty on a bottle of brandy or whisky rose to $2.50, and when the coast guard service, in the interests of economy, was reduced.

Most of the liquor which changes hands in the North sea is crude and powerful. Raw and unmatured grain alcohol, much of which is 90 per cent overproof, is sold for half a dollar a gallon. This is rushed ashore, broken down, sweetened and flavored with a little juniper essence to be sold as gin.

Mortimer Schiff Gives to Charity Total of $1,001,000

MINEOLA, N. Y., June 13. (INS)—The will of the late Mortimer L. Schiff, financier and philanthropist, was filed for probate today. Charitable bequests totaled $1,001,000 but there was no estimate of the amount of the estate.

The bulk of the estate which consists of "more than $100,000 in real and $10,000 in personal property" was distributed to his widow, Mrs. Adele Gertrude Schiff; a son, John Mortimer Schiff; and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Schiff Hall.

Cash bequests were made to each employe of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. as well as to all the servants of the Schiff family. The principal charitable and philanthropic bequests are: Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, $500,000; Boy Scouts of America, $100,000; Amherst college, $50,000; Hampton Normal and Agricultural institute, Hampton, Va., $10,000; Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute, Tuskegee, Ala., $10,000; and numerous New York institutions.

BUS LINES TO REDUCE RATES

Agreement Reached at Kansas City Friday

KANSAS CITY, June 13. (AP)—New reduced transcontinental rates on 10 motor bus lines were in prospect for July 1, as a result of an agreement here yesterday between representatives of the lines.

H. H. Morgan, vice president and general manager of the Pickwick Greyhound lines, with headquarters here, said the proposed reductions in some cases would amount to as much as 20 per cent. The amount of the reductions, he said, would vary in proportion as the various lines are effected by contemplated railroad rate cuts.

The bus lines involved are Dixie Greyhound lines, Memphis; Teche Transfer company, Texarkana; Southland Greyhound Lines, San Antonio; Greyhound Management company, Cleveland; Missouri Pacific Transportation company, St. Louis; Pacific Greyhound lines, San Francisco; Tristate Transit company, Shreveport, La.; Interstate Transit company, Omaha, and the Pickwick Greyhound Lines, Kansas City.

Morgan said the bus lines believed rail cut were unjustified. But that bus cuts were necessary to meet the competition.

Einstein Admits Relativity Theory Requires Revision

BERLIN, June 13. (INS)—Prof. Albert Einstein, whose theory of relativity, startled and puzzled the world, admitted today that new discoveries have made a revision of the theory a necessity.

The famous German physicist will confer with Prof. Erwin Freundlich, head of the Einstein observatory at Potsdam, before announcing the result of his further calculations, he said.

It was Professor Freundlich who made further study necessary. While heading a scientific expedition in Sumatra, he made studies, the results of which were at variance with Einstein's formula. Whereas Einstein's calculations were based on the deviation of light by the sun at 1.3 ohm seconds, Freundlich took pictures during a total eclipse of the sun, which were said to prove the deviation actually is 2.2.

The Prussian Academy of Science heard the results of Professor Freundlich's observations, after which Einstein admitted that his theory was based only on the influence of gravitation.

He said, however, that a theory combining the gravitational and electro-magnetic fields had yet to be evolved.

Freundlich said that he was enabled to make his researches with the aid of a modern and remarkably accurate camera.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE ALLEGED UNAUTHORIZED WITHDRAWALS OF FUNDS

LOS ANGELES, June 13. (AP)—Alleged unauthorized withdrawals of funds of the Richfield Oil company of California by certain of its officials will be investigated by the new county grand jury under plans announced by chief deputy district attorney, R. F. Stewart.

No further action will be taken, he said, on charges made by the state corporation commissioner, R. L. Haight, that $3,500,000 worth of stock was issued in violation of the corporate securities act and that there had been a false statement in an application for a permit to issue stock in 1927.

Stewart said the statute of limitations would apply to the first charge June 16, or before investigation possibly could be completed, and that the second had been barred by the statute of limitations for more than a year.

Stewart said this elimination left the major statement with regard to unauthorized withdrawals of funds, changes in company records and other alleged violations of the corporate securities act open for investigation.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Robert L. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON—Heinrich Graf von Bruhl: Graf Heinrich von Bruhl, Saxon prime minister (1700-1763) was probably the vainest man who ever lived. From 1731 until he died he wore a different suit of clothing (garments, watches, laces and slippers) every day. With this great vanity he combined colossal avarice and greed. To satisfy these three passions he wrecked the treasury of his country, appropriating a total of over $10,000,000, of which $6,000,000 went to pay for 12,000 suits of clothes which 12 tailors turned out for him in a lifetime. Altogether he was a most sinister character in the history of his country. The Flying Perfume: The "Papilio" (Gray's Swallowtail) was so named after its classifier, the English entomologist, George Robert Gray. The chocolate odor which the butterfly exudes is pleasant as well as permanent, and deserves well of the name of "flying perfume" which is applied to it.

Salvage What You Can From the Wreck

By Kathleen Norris

What would you do if you were Molly White?

MRS. NORRIS

Molly is thinking of cutting her wrists, and letting the red life-blood drain away from them. She would, she writes, if it were not for her twin daughters, Sonia and Patricia, aged 12, and her son, Lee, aged 5.

The wretchedness, the failure of her life has so overwhelmed her, she feels so completely unable to deal with its difficulties and problems, she is so alone, so heart-sick, so furious, so "thick"—by which perhaps she means "stupid" . . . that she can't see any other way out than death, taking the children along with her.

Women get themselves into these jams, and then rave and weep over the injustices of life. We will do it, it's human nature.

"If I had known its cruel weight
Was to be laid on me,
I should have made a lighter cross
To bear up Calvary."

Which is Christian Rossetti's beautiful way of saying that we all make our own burdens, in the careless early years, reaching out for them jealously, boasting because the wood is so heavy and the nails are so sharp.

What this woman Molly White did was not sensational at all. She fell in love with Joe Ross, at 21, and they were immediately married. Joe, like most boys of 21, had had no training for marriage and he and Molly proceeded to destroy any small chance of permanence and happiness that their ill-disciplined union had.

They went right on at the old pace with the old crowd. There was no time of serious planning, of changing their ideals and their habits. Mollie continued to think $2 a fair price for transparent stockings, and Joe liked to make a dashing impression with the car, and at night clubs. The twin daughters were unwelcome, and the new little craft was launched into a sea of debts.

Wretchedness followed, with Joe selfish, childish, aggrieved because he was rushed unwillingly into parenthood, and Molly nervous, slatternly, extravagant, overtired. When she got an inefficient girl to watch the babies for an hour, the house always caught fire, or a twin swallowed a brass picture hook. When she left Joe in charge, and went off with a woman friend at night, Joe sulked and gloomed, and when he went out in his turn, to play poker, Molly raged at the thought of good money wasted, and at his lack of appreciation and affection.

Anything like thrift, system, plan, was completely unknown to them. They wasted to the fighting point, every month, they ate the wrong things and got sick, squabbled over disciplining the children, resented this and "got even" for that like a couple or squalling cats. They never spent a quiet, harmonious evening together; Joe never helped Molly with the house, as any casual sympathetic friend might have done.

Wretchedness followed, with Joe selfish, childish, aggrieved because he was rushed unwillingly into parenthood, and Molly nervous, slatternly, extravagant, over-tired.

When Patricia and Sonia were 3, Molly got a divorce and $200 a month, and went to her mother. This didn't work, because Molly's mother had gotten a divorce, too, and was remarried, and the young stepfather didn't like the twins, and did like Molly. Then the little girls went to Joe's people for six months, and Molly married again. This marriage lasted two years, but it was an acknowledged failure at the end of two months. Lee was born. The second husband seemed a fine fellow, and had plenty of money, but he was impossible, she says. He drank, and there were other women—Molly would have gone mad if she had stayed with him five more minutes.

Two years ago she married for the third time a quiet, nice fellow who never could have been suspected, she says, of being as harsh as he turned out to be.

"I'm crying as I write you—I'm crying all the time these days. Fred wants me to send Lee to my mother—it would be a terribly lonely place for him. Joe, my first husband, has married a very smart older woman, and they run a boys' school; Fred says we could send Lee there. But Fred can't stand having him so close to me—having him as near as Fred is himself.

"I love Fred—love many things about him. But how can I fail the faithful, loving, little-boy heart that trusts me, and pull Lee's little arms away from my neck, and send him out into the world?

"What shall I do?"

"Well, what can she do? It is shipwreck, no matter which way she turns, poor Molly. One contemplates her problem in a very rain of "ifs."

If she and Joe, in the first place, had had different ideals of marriage, had started in more simply, more quietly, with some pre-marital training in the matter of expenses and management. If Joe's mother hadn't spoiled him, and Molly's father hadn't over-indulged her. If they had stuck together.

Obviously, for one last "if," if Molly hadn't made that silly second marriage she would not have had the adorable Lee to complicate today's puzzle. Poor, passionate, restless Molly, she has scuttled the ship, and her life happiness is going to the bottom now.

"Every time he comes into the house he calls out, 'Love me, mum?' Every time he goes away for half a day he brings me back a gift. He is so happy, so good, he loves so to have me help with his bath, do his lessons with him, cook things he likes. Every night I go into his room, to kiss him, the last thing—

"I'm crying as I write you—I'm crying all the time these days. Fred wants me to send Lee to my mother—it would be a terribly lonely place for him. Joe, my first husband, has married a very smart older woman, and they run a boys' school; Fred says we could send Lee there. But Fred can't stand having him so close to me—having him as near as Fred is himself.

"If I tell Lee he has to be one night away from home, for any reason, he says, in alarm, 'You're coming, mum?'

"How can I tell him that he is to go away for months—perhaps years, at a time? It would break his heart.

"Meanwhile, Fred is anxious for a child of our own. I don't want it. My heart isn't in any plan for having more children, with my two lovely girls growing up under influences that, to my thinking at least, are anything but ideal, and my splendid boy already unwelcome in my own home. I want Fred, Lee, my garden, my books, and sometimes a place big enough to have Sonia and Pat with us, for a part of the time at least.

"I love Fred—love many things about him. He is prosperous and thrifty, and he wants to take me to his own home, in Scotland, some day—we might have a wonderful life together. But how can I fail the faithful, loving, little-boy heart that trusts me, and pull Lee's little arms away from my neck, and send him out into the world?

"Discussing it, I was angry enough to threaten divorce the other night. Fred said he would fight it, and refuse me one cent of alimony. I have no other cause, except that I want my boy, and he wants to place him, comfortably, safely, elsewhere.

"What shall I do?"

If I had known its cruel weight, was to be laid on me, I would have chosen a lighter cross to bear up Calvary.

Well, what can she do? It is shipwreck, no matter which way she turns, poor Molly. One contemplates her problem in a very rain of "ifs."

If she and Joe, in the first place, had had different ideals of marriage, had started in more simply, more quietly, with some pre-marital training in the matter of expenses and management. If they had been willing to invest a few years of domestic devotion and hard work in a future of business success, and happy marriage, and proud parentage. If Joe's mother hadn't spoiled him, and Molly's father hadn't over-indulged her. If they had stuck together.

He sounds decent enough, this Joe who runs the boys' school today. He and Molly and Patricia and Sonia might have had a lot of fun, sticking it out.

Obviously, for one last "if," if Molly hadn't made that silly second marriage she would not have had the adorable Lee to complicate today's puzzle. She might be welcoming the idea of a new baby, in that case. Poor, passionate, restless Molly, she has scuttled the ship, and her life happiness is going to the bottom now.

It's an old, old truth, this connection between character and fate. Socrates knew it, Paul knew it. Shakespeare put it neatly when he said:

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings."

Series of Talks Five-Year Plan To Be Continued

Second in the symposium on the Russian five-year plan which is being broadcast from Europe over the WABC-Columbia network, will be an address by Dimitri Bogomoloff, counselor of the Russian embassy in London, scheduled for 10:30 a. m. central standard time, Sunday, June 14.

Bogomoloff, who will speak from the British capital, will devote his talk to a description of labor conditions in the Soviet union, in answer to the accusations which have been made that convict and other forced workers are employed, so reducing production costs to a point at which countries with definite wage scales can not compete.

Last Sunday the Duchess of Atholl, also speaking from London, presented the viewpoint of capitalist industry with regard to the Russian undertaking, and next Sunday an impartial summing-up will be presented from Berlin by Hubert R. Knickerbocker, correspondent in the German metropolis for a group of American newspapers, who recently was awarded the Pulitzer prize for a series of articles on the same subject.

HITS FROM COMEDIES OF PAST TO BE SUNG DURING STAR REVERIES

Song hits from musical comedies of yesterday will be sung by Helen Gilligan, soprano, and Milton Watson, tenor, during the broadcast of Star Reveries over the Columbia network, Sunday, June 14, beginning at 8:45 p. m., central standard time. They will be assisted by Mark Warnow and his orchestra, which also will play a medley of Sigmund Romberg tunes as the overture.

The duet, "Babes in the Wood," from "Very Good Eddie," and "Auf Weidersehn" will be among the numbers to be sung by the young musical comedy entertainers. Miss Gilligan also will sing with Watson a song gem from "Hold Everything," in which she was starred on Broadway.

WILLIAM SIMMONS TO SING PROGRAM SUNDAY EVENING

Because a big business man—a big collar and shirt business man—decided he would not want his own son to bury an artistic talent in the collar and shirt business, William Simmons, baritone, became one of the greatest American concert artists. He will sing Sunday evening June 14, with the concert orchestra under the direction of Josef Pasternack over WGN at 7:15 p. m., central standard time.

Despite his desire to be a singer, fate juggled young Simmons into a Troy collar factory—because it was not so far from his birthplace in Albany, N. Y., and because it appeared to be an excellent business to get into. But singing claimed the young man's attention more and more and one day he bluntly asked the president of the concern if he would permit a son of his to work in the factory when the world of art and its conquests beckoned him.

The president, who loved music, admitted he wouldn't permit a son of his so to waste a talent but advised Simmons to get the opinion of experts as to whether or not he had a talent before severing connections with the factory. Simmons did, and the experts agreed there was much of promise in the embryonic baritone.

Thus Simmons was transferred to the collar company's New York office and started studying music, winning the Metropolitan Opera school scholarship. Launched as a concert artist, he gained steadily in the affections of the music loving public and the esteem of music critics. Six years ago Simmons, then hailed as a great musical find, sang his first radio concert.

The program of his concert, June 14, will be made up of ballads, not the least important being the old, old favorite, "In the Gloaming." He will also sing the traditional Irish ballad, "Bendemeer's Stream," and the popular modern Indian song, "Pale Moon." There will be special arrangements for the orchestra by Josef Pasternack.

Ceremony Honor President Tyler To Be Broadcast

Ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of a bust of John Tyler, 10th president of the United States and a native son of Virginia, will be broadcast from the state capitol building in Richmond over an NBC-WEAF network Tuesday, June 16, from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m., central standard time.

John Garland Pollard, governor of Virginia, will preside. Invocation will be asked by Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, D. D., and benediction will be pronounced by Rev. J. S. Burks.

Claude G. Bowers, editor and author, of New York will deliver an address on John Tyler. The bust will be unveiled by Lyon Gardner Tyler Jr., grandson of John Tyler. The former president's son and daughter also will be present.

Mrs. Alfred I. duPont is the donor of the bust.

The June 16 broadcast will be heard through WENR, WREN, WDAY, WSM, WSB, WAPI, WJDX, KOA and WJR.

Gaucho Orchestra

Characteristic and varied types of Spanish music including the tango and serenade will be presented by Vincent Sorey and his Gaucho orchestra on Sunday, June 14, at 8 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network.

CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION TO BE BROADCAST BY NBC

The opening ceremonies for the Canadian national exhibition at Toronto will be broadcast over facilities of the National Broadcasting company, Tuesday, June 23, from 8 to 8:30 p. m., central standard time.

R. B. Bennett, premier of the dominion of Canada, and Samuel Harris, president of the exhibition, will speak. A chorus of 2,000 voices, assisted by a 50-piece orchestra, will present a musical concert including the national anthems of Canada, the United States and Great Britain.

The ceremonies will originate in the transportation building, park of the Canadian national exhibition, near Toronto, and will be heard over an NBC-WJZ network. Plans for the broadcast have been arranged through the cooperation of station CKGW, Toronto, and NBC.

Symphonic Music

Toscha Seidel, concert violinist, will present a program of symphonic music by Mendelssohn, Kreisler and Novacek, on Sunday, June 14, from 1 to 3 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network. Seidel will be accompanied by Herbert Jaffe. A symphonic orchestra will contribute three numbers to the program.

EASTERN REGATTA TO BE BROADCAST IN CHAIN PROGRAM

The Poughkeepsie intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson on Tuesday, June 16, will be broadcast over a nationwide network of the Columbia Broadcasting system from 2 to 4 p. m., central standard time.

Four announcers, headed by Ted Husing, and Herbert Reed, writer and sports expert who has been heard on several sports broadcasts in the past, will give a stroke-by-stroke description of the race from observation points along the bank and from the Columbia motor boat, Robesan III.

On the boat will be Husing and Reed, who will trail the competing shells from start to finish of the race. A short wave transmitter aboard the craft will relay their voices to pick-up points along the shore.

At the starting point on the New York shore will be Don Ball, who distinguished himself recently with his work in broadcasting an account of the army air maneuvers. Downstream, Announcers John Mayo and Harry von Zell will be stationed at the finish line on the west and east banks of the river respectively.

All observers will be constantly in touch with each other by telephone and by ordinary long wave receivers, with which they will listen in on each other's reporting.

The broadcast will go on the air at 2 p. m., central standard time, and continue, with intermittent switchbacks to key station WABC for musical interludes, until approximately 4 p. m.

HOOVER AND COOLIDGE TO DELIVER ADDRESSES AT SHRINE OF HARDING

Dedicatory addresses by President Hoover and former President Coolidge at the Ohio shrine immortalizing Warren G. Harding will be broadcast over the combined networks of the National Broadcasting company Tuesday, June 16.

Coolidge, as chairman, will present the memorial to the state of Ohio. Gov. George White of Ohio will respond. President Hoover then will deliver an ddress. The Columbus glee club will sing. Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of the Harding home church, will pronounce the benediction.

CHORUS OF 1,000 WILL PARTICIPATE IN RADIO PROGRAM FROM COAST

A chorus of 1,000 voices will be heard when NBC presents a coast-to-coast broadcast of the opening session of the National Federation of Music Clubs convention in the civic auditorium of San Francisco, Calif., Saturday night, June 20.

The broadcast will be heard in the midwest over an NBC-WJZ network from 11:30 to 12 Saturday night.

The great chorus will sing "Unfold Ye Portals," and other musical selections, and the convention, state and city officials present will speak to the radio auditnce.

Stations in the midwest to broadcast the programs are WIBO, Chicago; KOA, Denver; WGAR, Cleveland; WJR, Detroit; WREN, Kansas City; KSTP, St. Paul; WMC, Memphis; WSB, Atlanta; WFAA, Dallas; KPRC, Houston.

DRAMA OF WORLD WAR TO BE TOLD IN RADIO PLAYLET

Drama in a telephone dugout behind the German lines during the world war will be heard over an NBC-WEAF network Saturday, June 27, from 9:15 to 10 p. m., central standard time, when the National Broadcasting company presents an adaptation of "Brigade Exchange." This war story by Ernst Johannsen, is the German equivalent to the more famous British "Journey's End."

The characters are the non-commissioned officer of a telephone exchange on the western front and his five operators, revealed in the grim humor and horrors of trench life.

The story concerns the return of a wanderer to the scene of battle, now a field of waving corn with a brook nearby where children are playing. Although all marks of the monstrous, four-year drama have been effaced, the strip of country remains a vast cemetery. The wanderer recalls what took place in the summer of 1918. Stations in the midwest to broadcast the program are WOW, Omaha, and WSB, Atlanta.

GOTHAM FLAG DAY CEREMONIES WILL FEATURE CHORUS

The voices of several hundred school children, accompanied by the New York Fire Department band, will be heard over the WABC-Columbia network on Monday, June 15, from 2 to 3 p. m., central standard time, when the 14th annual Flag day ceremonies of the Sons of the Revolution are held at City Hall park.

This year's celebration marks the 154th anniversary of the adoption of the flag by congress. Although Flag day actually falls on Sunday, June 14, the ceremonies have been put over to Monday.

The climax of the patriotic rites will occur when a stone from the battlefields of North Carolina will be placed at the foot of the liberty pole by John Boddie Crudup of Henderson, N. C., who has been designated by Gov. O. Max Gardner as the official representative of state. Six such stones from an equal number of the original thirteen states have been placed at the pole on previous Flag days.

Mayor James J. Walker is also expected to be present and to address the gathering.

NUTCRACKER SUITE TO BE GIVEN OVER RADIO

As a special feature of a half hour of classical music, Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra will play the Danse des Mirlitons from Tschaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite," during the pastorale program on Sunday, June 14, at 3:30 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network.

In addition, there will be special solo presentations by Catherine Field, soprano; Crane Calder, bass; Charles Carlisle, tenor, and Mildred Johnson, contralto.

Negro Spirituals

Toscha Seidel, eminent violinist and his continental string quartet, will present a special arrangement of two negro spirituals, "Go Down, Moses" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," in addition to three major classical works, on Sunday, June 14, from 2 to 2:30 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network.

1,000,000 in less than 4 years
. . . a Record Unparalleled

OVER one million General Electric Refrigerators now serve more than a million enthusiastic owners—one million complete General Electric self-contained Monitor Top refrigerators purchased by home owners in less than four years. This phenomenal record further justifies the leadership General Electric has enjoyed continuously since the first few months of its introduction.

Month after month new sales records were established, only to be overshadowed during the ensuing months as the demand for superior refrigeration service exemplified by the Monitor Top continued to increase.

Aged are the purchasers of the million& General Electric and today there are more than a million actually installed in as many homes enjoying perfect service to more than four million people. Many thousands of this number are in better homes in Texas and often proud Texas owners will be glad to know they are included in the first million.

This unparalleled installation record was only made possible by an unparalleled performance record in the homes. Such performance unquestionably certifies the correctness in design of both the refrigerator and the Monitor Top. The fact is that these million General Electrics are still rendering service—free refrigeration and during these three years it has not been necessary to make a single major mechanical change. The General Electric of today is basically the same as the first one offered to the public—a splendid tribute to the company's engineering and research laboratories which spent fifteen years on the product before it was placed on the market.

Fifteen years of labor on the perplexing problem incident to the production of the ultimate in refrigeration . . . an electric refrigerator that was simple in operation, free from mechanical worry, and economical in operating cost . . . one that could literally be installed and forgotten . . . except for the freedom, the convenience and the economies it would bring the housewife.

The General Electric Refrigerator fulfills every promise . . . to its first million owners and the millions to come.

The million& General Electric Refrigerators has been finished in gold . . . symbolic of leadership, and inaugurating June as Golden Jubilee Month.

Rev. E. F. McGaughey Accepts Pulpit Of Presbyterian Church in Houston Rev. John W. Wright Will Come Here

Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church, will leave the city this week to assume pastorate of the Westminster Presbyterian church in Houston.
Rev. John W. Wright, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Cooper, Texas, will succeed Mr. McGaughey as pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church here.
Mr. McGaughey has made an enviable record since he has been in Wichita Falls, and since entering the Presbyterian ministry. He attended Cumberland college at Leonard, Texas, and then took two years work in Southern Methodist university at Dallas. He graduated from Presbyterian Theological seminary at Omaha, Neb., in 1928.
Before coming to Wichita Falls in 1925 Mr. McGaughey served as pastor of a rural church near McKinney, one of the largest rural charges in the state.
When he came here there were approximately 50 active members in the Floral Heights and East Side missions. The Sunday school enrollment was less than 100. At his first service at the Floral Heights mission, for which he served as pastor for a short time, there were 12 adults present. At the first services in the East Side mission there were 15.
The East Side was an afternoon appointment at first. Dr. Nat Grafton, pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, moved the old scout hall on the lot on Oriole street donated by the late J. A. Kemp.
The present manse was built in July on a lot adjoining the church, and donated by August Starbeck. Rev. W. D. Johnson came as pastor in November, 1926. Mr. McGaughey remained as pastor for the time being of the Floral Heights mission.

Back Here in 1928

The following year Mr. McGaughey left for a year when he graduated from the Theological seminary in Omaha. In May, 1928, he was called back to East Side. At that time there was 32 members. In August a revival was held at which time there were 80 additions to the church. The success of this revival was a great stimulus to the new church. Immediately following the revival campaign plans were started on the new church building. The church was completed in 1929, and was ready for occupancy about May 1 of that year. When the new building was first used there were 87 in the Sunday school and the church membership was 110.
The present membership is 200, while the Sunday school has an enrollment of 309.
Mr. McGaughey declares that he could have never accomplished what he did at the East Side church without the loyal support of the

Christian Endeavor

Mr. McGaughey was instrumental in laying the foundation for the Floral Heights Presbyterian church. He was in charge of the church building work, and was instrumental in shaping the work to be taken up by the present pastor, Dr. Nat F. Grafton.
The East Side Presbyterian church was well represented in Christian Endeavor activity. There are seven societies in the church. This church claims the distinction of being the first church in the district with an adult society, and probably one of only a few in the state.
The endeavorers of the city, county and district could always count on Rev. McGaughey. His efforts were tireless in the advancement of the Kingdom for Christ and the church. He served as pastor counsellor of the first county union in the district. At the organization of the union in October, 1928, Rev. McGaughey pledged himself to "go wherever my endeavorers go" and that was the dominant characteristic of his life. He was always ready and willing to serve the youth of his own church, and the county and district.
Mr. McGaughey served as vice president of the Ministerial Alliance of the city, and was active in promoting the work of the community chest, Red Cross, and other civic organizations. He had the interests of the city at heart, civic, moral, and religious, and enjoyed his work.

DOMESTICATION OF MICROBES MAY PROVE AS IMPORTANT TO MAN AS DOMESTICATION OF COW

Pitting germs against germs is one of the amazing developments in bacteriology. A virus-like agent called bacteriophage, which destroys bacteria, is described by S. Bayne-Jones in the following article—one of a series on "What's Going on in the World Today." Mr. Bayne-Jones says the "domestication of microbes may in time prove to be as important to man as the domestication of the cow."

By S. BAYNE-JONES
Professor of Bacteriology, School of Medicine, University of Rochester
(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 13.—In comparison with some of the venerable sciences, bacteriology is a recent development. This section of the science of living things is still in its first century and many men who knew its founders, Pasteur and Koch, are still living.
During this time, bacteriological knowledge has been of great practical value in the diagnosis, cure and control of disease, in agriculture and in the industries.
The useful as well as the harmful activities of microbes are now taken for granted by people who formerly regarded germs with curiosity or terror. While a great deal of practical bacteriology is applied every day, we know very little about the real nature and doings of this invisible population of microbes.
A significant recent development is more intensive study of the bacteria for themselves, as well as for what may be done to use them or combat them.

Cause Many Diseases

There is a large group of contagious and destructive diseases of man, animals and plants caused by microbes which no one has seen or cultivated on the broths and jellies used by bacteriologists as culture media. Among these diseases are smallpox, hydrophobia, infantile paralysis, yellow fever, foot and mouth disease, and mosaic disease of tobacco and other plants.
Recently it has been shown that parrot-fever or psittacosis and distemper of dogs belong in this group. The agents which cause these diseases are called filterable viruses. These get their name from their ability to pass through the pores of unglazed porcelain tubes which hold back ordinary bacteria.
A great difficulty in deciding whether the viruses are alive and in finding out just what they are, is due to the fact that they seem to multiply only in association with a living animal or plant cell.
The existence of these filterable viruses has been known since 1899. In the past few years, however, a general attack upon them has been made in laboratories in this country and in Europe. These newer studies give promise of obtaining reliable vaccination methods against yellow fever, distemper of dogs, and possibly against infantile paralysis and other diseases in this group.

Destroys Bacteria

A peculiar agent, somewhat like a filterable virus, is an apparently self-perpetuating thing called bacteriophage. It destroys bacteria. Some think that this germ-destroying agent comes from the bacteria themselves; others that it is a virus which infects bacteria and produces a disease fatal to the susceptible germs. In France, India and in some places in this country, this bacteriophage has been used successfully to stop typhoid fever, cholera, boils and several other infections.
Tuberculosis is receiving a great deal of attention. A tremendous cooperative research by chemists, bacteriologists, cytologists and physicians is under way to attempt to find out how the germ of tuberculosis is made up chemically and what effects the substances obtained from the germ have upon animal bodies. The results should give valuable new chemical knowledge and show how to make a new attack upon germs of disease.

Cash Registers in Reno Make Music Delightful to Ear

Conditions have improved generally in this "capital of liberalism" since the new six-week residence law went into effect along with wide-open gambling something more than a month ago. Washoe county (Reno) revenue has picked up so much that the salary of practically every county executive will be paid this year out of divorce receipts.
The same is true to a lesser degree elsewhere in the state, although principally in the counties bordering on Washoe county. Many divorce seekers, wishing to avoid the publicity attendant on their filing, leave Reno to get their decrees.
Every time a divorce complaint is filed the cash register in the county clerk's office rings up $20. It did that 517 times in Washoe county during May, the first month of the new residence requirement, to make the county $10,340 richer. The clerk says he believes approximately 3,000 complaints will have been filed with him by Dec. 31.
The county gets an additional $10 for every answer to a complaint, and averages $1.25 for every certified copy of the divorce decree. Altogether, it figures to average about $26 on every divorce action brought in Washoe county, or about $78,000 for this year.
Eventually the county hopes divorce receipts will mount to the point where creation of a fund to enlarge the courthouse will be possible.

Plumbing Bill Is Less Than 10 Per Cent of Cost of Home; Heating to Add Only Small Percentage to Cost

Building contractors have found that the cost of plumbing fixtures and installation is 9.9 per cent of the total cost of a home.
The cost of the heating plant and its installation in the average home is 8.3 per cent.
Thus the total cost of those two items is less than 20 per cent of the price the owner pays for his home. In view of this comparatively low cost and the importance of plumbing and heating, the home builder should not try to cut down, it is likely that he will have to spend money on repairs in a few years.
Plumbing repairs are among the most inconvenient operations required for the upkeep of a home that has been unwisely planned. If the roof leaks, a bundle of roofing material and a few hours of carpenter-labor are, likely, all that will be needed to make things right. If cheap hardware has been used, it may be replaced with little nuisance and cost. Even if a poor job of plastering has been done, it can be fixed without disturbing the whole household.
But if inferior plumbing fixtures are installed by an irresponsible plumber, sooner or later they will break down under the strain of daily use. Not only will the fixtures have to be replaced. It also will be necessary to go into the walls to make changes in the fittings. This may necessitate tearing out the tiling or flooring. All this requires labor and time, and it is disastrous to the routine of the family.
First cost is last cost if excellent plumbing accessories and fittings are bought and installed by a reputable plumbing contractor. With wise selection, the 9.9 cents of the building dollar allotted for plumbing will buy beauty, permanence, convenience, and satisfactory performance of the most vital functions of a home.
It is poor economy, too, to have too small a bathroom or an inadequate number of bathrooms. While some families may not be able to afford the ideal arrangement of one bathroom with every bedroom there should be at least one bathroom for every two bedrooms in every house. Nothing adds so much to the salability of a house as an adequate number of modern and colorful bathrooms.
There is no better time than when a house is being built to plan for the proper number of bathrooms. While it is true that bathrooms can be added later, if necessary, it is best to have the full number included in the original contract.
Other conveniences, too, such as a modern compartment sink or an electrical dishwashing sink, a downstairs lavatory, and possibly an extra closet combination or a shower in the basement should be included in the plumbing fixtures of a house steps in a house for all members of the family.

Do Just These Two Simple Things —Fat Melts Away

NO tiring exercise, no starvation. Instead, a full stomach and never a hungry moment! Yet fat melts away. You can easily lose from four to seven pounds weekly, see the coarse lines of fat replaced by the refined lines of slenderness—and feel better than you ever felt before in your life.

WHAT YOU DO

There are just two simple things you do: Clear your system—and keep it clear of waste matter, toxins and depleting poisons with ordinary JAD SALTS obtainable at any drug store. Start with a teaspoonful in a full glass of water tomorrow morning—a sparkling and pleasant drink.
Then EAT YOUR FILL—as much as your appetite can stand—of meals consisting of the following foods:
At breakfast eat two oranges, or the juice of two oranges. Eat also two slices of toasted whole wheat or bran bread. Eat rolled oats (with milk, not cream).

At luncheon eat a good size piece of lean meat, then see how much spinach, lettuce, sauerkraut, boiled cabbage, green peas, broccoli or fresh turnips you can eat. EAT ALL YOU CAN COMFORTABLY HOLD of these foods. For dessert eat any fresh fruit; cantaloupe, berries, apples, sliced oranges, pears. Substitute turnips for potatoes. Substitute lean meats—beef, chicken, veal, white fish, trout, bass, etc.—for pork or any fat meats.
At night, have another FILL-UP-FULL meal as above. Cut down on butter and sweets—eat half of what you eat now. That's easy. For with your stomach full of other foods, you'll never notice it. Drink water or not as you like.

4 TO 7 POUNDS GONE IN WEEK

At the end of a week, you'll see the scale down four to seven pounds—according to how much overweight you are—from what you weighed the day you started. Your health, too, will be better. You'll be more active, more vigorous than perhaps for years. Your friends will soon begin to notice your increasing slenderness. You'll soon avoid the embarrassment of being called fat or bulky. And—you'll do it with NEVER A HUNGRY MOMENT!
If in doubt about this safe and simple way, ASK YOUR DOCTOR. Show him this article. Ask him whether or not it is safe and sure. It marks the latest findings of scientific men in the field of weight reduction. For it performs two necessary and important functions.
The JAD SALTS clear the bowels and system of the excessive toxins most overweight people have. *The change in diet—the FILLING OF THE STOMACH TO ITS LIMIT—with foods that turn to energy instead of fat, decreases the weight day by day. The salts build up your health. The change in food eases off the fat.
*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.—Adv.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

Annual Inspection Trip of Valley to Be Made Tuesday, to Visit Twenty Farms on Route Covering 85 Miles

The annual get-acquainted inspection trip of the irrigated valley, for Wichita Falls business men, will leave the courthouse at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday and return late that night, after an 85-mile ride.

About 20 farms will be visited. Some of these will be inspected closely, others will merely be viewed from the road.

The trip has been planned to show off practically every phase of the valley's agriculture and those in command promise that it will be revealing and instructive to all who take part. Truck farms, alfalfa fields, dairies, poultry farms, melon patches—all these are included in the itinerary.

The dinner-time stop will be at the experiment station near Iowa Park. The meal will be served on a Dutch treat basis, each excursionist being expected to pay for his own.

The purpose of the trip is to show Wichita Falls business men what the valley is doing and to give them a larger idea of its possibilities. The committee urges all who can do so to make the trip.

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well folks! It seems that the article I had in The Times a couple of weeks ago about capons stirred up quite a lot of excitement and interest which Mr. McGown, our county agent and I appreciate very much.

Mr. McGown has threatened to make me answer a lot of the inquiries about capons but I persuaded him to let me off from answering the inquiries. I am glad to know that so many people are interested in my articles.

However, I do intend to assist Mr. McGown by acting as secretary of the capon club so all you folks who want to caponize your chickens please drop me a card. Address your letters to "The Tenant Farmer's Wife" in care of The Times Publishing company. Be sure to tell me how many birds you will pledge to caponize and any other information that you think will be beneficial to the club. In about two weeks I will let you know through The Times how many capons have been pledged and any other news that we have about the capon club. Everyone in Wichita county and the trade territory of Wichita Falls is invited to join, provided, of course, you have chickens that you will make into capons.

We had a caponizing demonstration down at the Central Seed and Feed store Thursday and Mr. McGown and I have decided from the crowd it drew that we have enough people interested to produce a car of capons. We will have a caponizing demonstration at or near Iowa Park soon and we hope to have even a larger crowd than we had in Wichita Falls. Please everybody who is interested try to be there.

Now folks, come on and help us out on this project. We have got to have 1,500 or 1,600 birds pledged. Do not let other people say that Wichita county fell down on its capon project.

INTRODUCING ALFALFA BILL

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I happen to run onto. Run onto a queer mess out here in California the other day. You know California is made up of every ingredient in the World but Californians. Well these various emmigrants from their various sections of the Country have a habit of holding a Picnic. The State of Iowa started it, and theirs got so big they had to hold it in Arizona, then the other States got to holding what they called State Picnics, and then the Countries, and then the various towns, all over the U. S. their Rufugees that were here would hold a Rogers, Ark., Picnic. My Wife would be up at daylight so she wouldent miss that old home town one.

Well the other day Oklahoma had one, and I am sorry to say that it was a success. I had no idea there was that many Renegades had left, but from the looks of things half of Los Angeles come from Oklahoma. Our Governor, "Alfalfa Bill" Murray come all the way out here to speak to us at this gathering, and they asked me to introduce him. Well its kinder of a tough job introducing an Oklahoma Governor. You never know before you get through speaking but what he has been impeached while you was singing his praises. But it looks like they are going to get even with Bill, and let him serve his time out, and maby sentence him again.

So I think I will just jot down a lot of junk that I used at Camp Meeting, held in Sycamore Grove. As well as I can remember it it run not to wit, but to length, something like this. This is Memorial day, established for two reasons, one to commerate the passing of our loved ones who have gone before, and the other reason, to try and cheer up in some small way, the misguided Oklahomans, who were missled by a California Chamber of Commerce. Our loved ones past, are dead and gone, so we need say no more for them. They were fortunate, they passed away before the last Republican Administration. But its for the living, (or rather existing) Oklahomans, who are also dead but living in California, we are gathered here on this beautiful sunshiny day, with a rain coat on every arm, to console with them.

Our Governor, or that is he was our Governor when he left, has come to bring us solace from the Homeland. He has come to pray with us, not for divine guidance, but to find in some way means of getting us back home. Here today are twenty-five thousand souls, who thought that Climate was dijestable, and not a Real Estate Ad. are here doing Penance today. 25 thousand is a lot of folks to escape the Insane Asylum of their native State and reach one place. But forgive em Govenor, for they knew not what they were doing, and they have found nothing to do since they come.

You musent, Govenor, take this great gathering as a tribute to your drawing power. Los Angeles folks will burn five dollars worth of Gas, and burn out four bearings to reach anything given free. Anything free here can get a crowd. This enemic looking gathering you see here, just proves you cant live on Orange Juice and look like anything.

These are Pioneers, Govenor, they are some of the first people to cross the Desert in a Ford. They know what hardships are, you can see Punctures and blowouts written on every face. You, Govenor, crossed in a beautiful Private Car, belonging to the Rock Island, (they want something, and will perhaps get it). But these poor Devils had to Chervolet their way across.

I will give em credit though, they left Oklahoma at a time when it looked like a Democrat would never get in. They had no idea the old State would ever return to Christianity. They havent lost touch with the Home State, they write home and touch everybody they can think of. They are only now waiting till you make the State so prosperous that their kin folks can send out and get em. But in talking to em Govenor, dont believe all they say, some of them have been here so long they lie like a Native.

Now, Govenor, I wouldent have taken the job of introducing you here today, for it really should be done by some Scholar, some learned person, but I got to thinking over the occasion, and the audience, and I figured that it wouldent take a very bright man to talk to a bunch of people who had left a State like Oklahoma, (with all its natural resources, and oppurtunities) and come clear out here to see a Lemon grow, and get in the Movies. Bill Murray threw down a chance to go to Claremore this same week, they were having their annual, "Take a Bath Week," and he was invited, and come clear to California to keep from going. He wired em, "Will come and speak, but will take no part." I wired em, "Will come as a Spectator only."

Murray sympathises with you exiles, he knows what it is, he started one time to California, took the wrong road at Woodard, and landed in Bolivia. He knew what it is to be out of touch with Vicilization, even before he got into the Oklahoma State Capitol. He has been in a Spanish Country, he knows what it is to live on Frejolles, like you all do. I am sorry our Mayor of Los Angeles is not here to welcome you Govenor, but he is making friends with France. Nothing worth while has passed into his lips since he got there and nothing worth while has passed out of his lips.

But you would like our Govenor, he is a regular Guy, but he is from Frisco. Frisco is the place that keeps this end of the State in the Union. Its to California what the Cherokee Nations is to Oklahoma, its the Aristocracy of the commonwealth. Its the Tulsa of the works. So I take great pleasure, and pain, (for I had a broken leg at the time), I take great pleasure and pain, in introducing the only man in this entire twenty five thousand who is fortunate enough to have a Ticket back to Oklahoma.

FLASHES Of LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON.—There have been a lot of presidential bees at the White House. A swarm came from a hollow tree when it was felled on the grounds. There will be wild honey on Mr. Hoover's table.

LONDON.—Gabriele D'Annunzio writes so that he who runs can read. A letter read at a banquet of Kaye Don and other speedboat racers was in characters an inch and one-half high. It covered 20 pages, one sentence to a page.

NEW YORK.—Love laughs at steamship schedules. The departure of the transatlantic liner Conte Biancamano was deferred two hours in order that William Wilson Wood III, and his bride, the former Frances Elizabeth Otley, might catch the boat. Wedding festivities delayed them.

JOPLIN, Mo.—Mrs. Sadie Carter, 71, of Quaker Valley, has some 400 cousins. They attended a party she gave. Several hundred nieces and nephews were unable to be present.

NEW YORK.—The number of women arrested for murder in New York City in the last year is disturbing to Richard C. Patterson Jr., commissioner of correction. The number is 28. "I hope sincerely," he said, "that it does not indicate that women are trying to enter in competition with men in the field."

COVENTRY, England.—Lady Cynthia Mosley is alarmed over what will happen in the next war. In a speech she said a small bomb containing "dew of death," which could be carried in a lady's handbag, could raze London.

OTTAWA.—An estimate by the dominion bureau of statistics is that motor tourists from the United States spent $202,409,000 in Canada last year. What for? They don't say.

It is said that nine out of every ten girls in Sweden are natural blonds.

THE CROSS TIMBERS COUNTRY ISN'T THINKING ABOUT COTTON PRICES

A group of more than 100 Montague county truck growers who met to discuss shipments and prices. They are raising cabbage, potatoes, beans, blackberries, cantaluopes and watermelons.

Wise and Montague Points Get Ready To Ship Record-Breaking Yield of Cantaloupes and Other Vegetables

Wise and Montague counties, where diversified farming has become the rule, are getting ready to market a record-breaking yield of cantaloupes and other vegetables this summer. Packing facilities are being provided, crates purchased, cars arranged for, and some buyers are already on the ground in readiness for the season.

The cantaloupe acreage in the two counties is estimated at 2,000, with Parker county to the southward having 1,500 acres more. Chico, on the Rock Island in Wise county, will probably ship more cantaloupes than any other one community, although Bowie, Sunset, Alvord and Decatur will participate.

Arrangements have been made with a Kansas City concern which handled last year's crop, to handle that of this season. Shipments are expected to start late this month.

The development of the cantaloupe industry in the Chico section is due largely to one man, John R. Hester, agent for the Rock Island at Chico. Mr. Hester believed that by raising cantaloupes, that section could rehabilitate its agriculture, which seemed to be going on the rocks. He got into the habit of talking cantaloupes to the farmers he met, principally those whose cream shipments he handled for the railroad. Two or three years ago his plan began to show results. Last year the market took all the cantaloupes that could be shipped. The farmers plant a uniform variety, known as Hall's best, and strive for uniformity of size and grade.

An interesting development has been the increase in the use of commercial fertilizer. Almost without exception, cantaloupe growers apply it to their plants.

Last year shipments were made as far distant as Wichita, Kan., but are expected to reach Chicago this year. The Chico shipments go on the market at a time when the California and South Texas melons have about ceased to appear, and earlier than the Colorado melons.

Plans for carload shipments of beans, cabbage and potatoes were formulated at a meeting of growers in Bowie last Monday. B. E. Watson, buyer, polled those present, about 100 in number, and found that not enough produce was ready to make up the first carload, so another meeting was called for June 15. Meantime, a good rain has greatly improved the crop prospects.

Alvord will also ship a quantity of vegetables, particularly tomatoes. J. R. Adcock, Alvord merchant, had a conspicuous part in the development of the tomato industry there. Last year heavy shipments were made of tomatoes and watermelons, and although prices were low, returns were substantially higher than for field crops.

Parker county, as usual, will make heavy shipments of watermelons. G. A. Remington, J. N. Sherrill and Paul Tyson of the Wichita Valley Growers association visited Wise and Parker counties earlier this month to study marketing conditions. They were told that Parker county has 5,000 acres in watermelons, 1,500 in cantaloupes and 2,000 in tomatoes.

STEPS ARE TAKEN TO MAKE SHIPMENT OF CAR OF CAPONS

With about 30 poultry raisers attending, a caponizing demostration was held Thursday afternoon at the Central Feed store, and steps were taken to make up a carload of capons to be shipped next spring.

G. C. McGown, county agent, who conducted the demonstration, explained that it was difficult to market capons locally, and that it would be necessary to prepare enough birds, about 1200, to make up a carload in order to be fairly sure of a market.

It was decided that all who are willing to join in the movement should write to the Tenant Farmer's Wife, care The Times, and state how many birds they would be able to caponize. If enough are pledged to make up a carload, announcement will be made.

Mr. McGown caponized several fowls, explaining the process in detail.

Air Safety Confab

NEW YORK.—To increase the safety of airplane operation and protect the lives of air passengers, the aeronautical chamber of commerce has formed an aviation safety conference. TEXAS RANGES IN IDEAL CONDITION REPORT REVEALS

AUSTIN, June 13.(AP)—The monthly livestock report of the United States department of agriculture, released today, said Texas range conditions were ideal and all classes of livestock were fat. General rains fell the latter part of May supplying the needed moisture to start grass, it stated. The report covered conditions up to June 1.

"The calf crop is smaller than last year. There is a large crop of lambs that have made unusually good growth. Sheep shipments during April and May have been the heaviest on record. It is expected there will be heavy movement of spring lambs during the summer season. The cattle movement has been light with a light run to Oklahoma and Kansas pastures.

"Weeds were beginning to die the latter part of May, and rains were needed to start grass. There was an abundance of subsoil moisture, but the weeds had sapped the surface moisture. The latter part of May good grass rains fell over most of the state, and practically all areas now have sufficient moisture for present needs. The reported condition of ranges shows a decline of one point since May 1. However, the 90 per cent reported reflects the deficient surface moisture before the general rains fell. In reality the condition of ranges could hardly be better."

The report said ranges in 17 western states varied from fair to very good. However, their condition was considerably lower than that of a year ago.

Since the world war, France's shipping has increased more than a million tons.

Alfalfa Shown to Be Coming Into Its Own in This County as Reports From Season's First Cuttings Come In

Reports from the first cutting of fall-sown alfalfa in this county show the extent to which this crop is now being grown here and the excellence of the yields.

The best yield reported was from a non-irrigated farm, that of B. F. Preston of Burkburnett, whose 17-acre patch cut 3800 pounds, nearly two tons, per acre.

Jess Aston, also of Burkburnett, cut 1500 pounds per acre on 8½ acres of non-irrigated land.

The best yield from irrigated land was on the farm of J. M. Isbell, whose three and one-third acre patch yielded 3300 pounds per acre. Second best was B. F. Greer's 10-acre patch, 3000 pounds per acre.

Next best was on the John Yarbro farm, where a three-acre tract yielded 2500 pounds per acre. This three-acre tract was deep-tilled last fall. An adjoining three-acre tract which was not deep-tilled, made only 1500 pounds per acre, a difference of half a ton.

On Rivercrest farm, owned by Francis and Drake, an 18-acre patch cut 2000 pounds per acre. This land had been deep-tilled and treated with one ton of lime per acre.

A yield of 1722 pounds per acre was produced on the Hartsook and Downing tract of 36 acres. The G. A. Remington 25-acre tract cut 1200 pounds per acre.

A 39-acre tract on the C. E. Birk farm yielded 500 pounds per acre, plus a volunteer crop of barley estimated at 22 bushels per acre.

On the Bridwell farm, a 75-acre tract yielded about 400 pounds per acre and a volunteer oat crop estimated at 50 to 60 bushels per acre.

Most of the fall-sown alfalfa is remarkably free from weeds and cuttings at 30-days intervals are expected from now on during the summer on the irrigated tracts.

Only one cutting of spring sown alfalfa in the Times and Record News alfalfa growing contest has been made so far, but a number of growers expect to cut within the next ten days.

W. E. Page is attempting to establish himself as heir to the estate, valued at $7,000,000, of the late philanthropist and oil man.

Several depositions were read into the records. Chief of these was that of William La Voice, 85, now a resident of Montesano, Wash. La Voice, according to the deposition, is the father of W. E. Page.

Two years later, he received a message that the boy had been left with a relative for him. When the boy was 8 years old, his wife informed him she had obtained a divorce, was married and in a position to care for the boy. There followed a meeting with his former wife's husband, Charles Page, who convinced La Voice he should be allowed to care for the boy as a father.

The deposition said La Voice consented.

State Theater to Reopen Thursday New Low Prices

State theater will be reopened next Thursday and will feature among the best of first-run pictures, changing program twice a week, on Thursdays and Sundays. The opening bill will be "Mr. Lemon of Orange," with El Brendell and Fifi Dorsay, aided by a cast of noted screen funsters.

The State is noted for its splendid acoustics and the theater is exceptionally cool during the summer, with wonderful lighting effects and comfortable seats. The house will be opened at 12 o'clock week days and at 1 o'clock on Sunday.

The management announces new low prices will prevail at the State. From 1 until 6 p. m. week days the charge will be 10 and 30 cents; after 6 p. m., 10 and 40 cents. Sundays the charge will be 10 and 40 cents afternoon and evening.

Dorothy Jordan, as the admiral's daughter, plays opposite Montgomery and offers a sparkling performance. Ernest Torrence heads the supporting cast as Montgomery's nemesis-guardian and Hobart Bosworth is ideally cast as the admiral. Cliff Edwards and his famous ukulele bring forth a new song hit in "Shipmates."

There are other subjects of interest on the program which include a comedy skit by Burns and Allen, favorite vaudeville funsters in "Once Over Light." There is a scenic showing "The Sultan's Camp of Victory" and the Majestic talking news.

Clara Bow in "Kick In"

Clara Bow, herself, is the big kick in "Kick In," which comes to the Majestic next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. This play will be remembered as one of the most successful presented by the Little Theater in Wichita Falls the past season.

"Kick In," Clara's first dramatic vehicle for the talkies, is a mighty, punchful story of love versus the law. It deals with the struggles of an ex-convict, Regis Toomey, to go "straight," in spite of the houndings of a vicious detective, the pleadings of his underworld friends, and the temptations of the "easy road." Clara is the motivating force in the story, as the sweetheart who opposes her charms to the forces that try to drag the man she loves back to a life of crime.

There are other units of entertainment which include a Chester Conklin comedy, "The 13th Alarm" and a Bruce scenic, "Climate Chasers."

"DADDY LONG LEGS" SEEN STRAND THEATER FOR WEEK

One of the best Cinderella stories ever written (and the whole world loves a Cinderella tale) has reached the talking screen in "Daddy Long Legs" now playing at the Strand with two of the most popular stars and a strong supporting cast to put it over. Janet Gaynor does her best job since "Seventh Heaven" and Warner Baxter gives another of his smooth, satisfying performances as "Daddy Long Legs" to Miss Gaynor's Judy Abbott. This story was made famous on the stage by Ruth Chatterton and on the silent screen by Mary Pickford.

In addition you will see a Paramount comedy, "Cab Waiting," a Mickey Mouse cartoon, "Traffic Trouble" and Paramount sound news.

"MR. LEMON OF ORANGE" FOR RE-OPENING STATE THEATER

This is a story of El Brendel, an innocent hard working Swede who loves children, and then gets fired for entertaining the neighborhood kids. As the story goes on he plays the part of Mr. Lemon, who is a gang leader. You can just imagine Brendel going into a camp of gang leaders innocently, and what he gets into and out of, how he saves the rival gangster and gets the real crooks, is a subject of thrilling, interesting and laughable incidents.

In addition you will see the latest news events of the day and selected short subjects.

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY IN "CRACKED NUTS" AT GEM

Leading film funsters including Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, contributed directly to the rollicking success of "Cracked Nuts," yet no two of them agree on why people laugh or what constitutes screen humor.

"This very difference of opinion has given 'Cracked Nuts' a variety of laughs which makes it the outstanding fun film of the year," says Douglas MacLean in summing up the fine points of the picture.

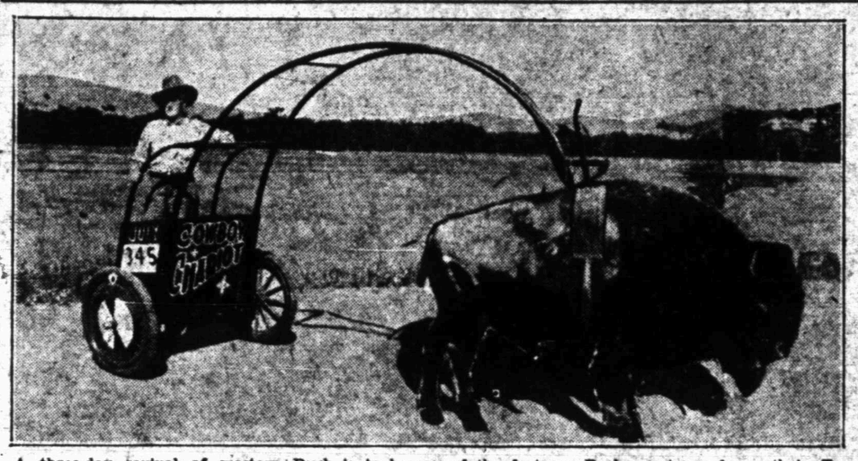
RODEO AND INDIAN FAIR AT CRATERVILLE JULY 3-5



A three-day revival of western sports that will rival the Cheyenne exposition is promised by Frank Rush and son for the eighth Indian fair, rodeo and races at Craterville park near Lawton, Okla., July 3-4-5.

Tommy Kirnan and his wife of Fort Worth, both of whom are nationally recognized rodeo performers, will ship a carload of bucking horses and show horses to Craterville for the event. Both of these performers do trick riding, trick roping and Roman race riding.

The Lyon brothers of Byers, Texas, will ship a carload of wild Brahma steers from their Texas ranch for the wild steer riding contest. John Lindsay of Byers and his trick mule, Tar Baby, will perform during the rodeo.

Daily features will include calf roping, bell calf roping, wild cow milking, steer riding, bronc riding, trick horses, high jumping horses, Roman riding races and other rodeo stunts.

The first two days of the race will include Indian and white races for three-eighths of a mile, half mile, five-eighths and Roman standing.

On the last day a cowboy barrel race and a Roman race will be staged.

'Napoleon' Given Term in State Training School

Napoleon, a 10-year-old negro boy whom Judge P. A. Martin calls "Huckleberry Finn in ebony," was ordered committed to the state training school at Gatesville as an incorrigible juvenile because he refused to stay at home.

Napoleon was brought before the judge several days ago and charged, with leaving home for days at a time and sometimes taking along his 8-year-old brother. Napoleon is the eldest of five children.

Judge Martin received the young defendant's promise to go home with his mammy and stay there. On the way home Napoleon ran away from his mother and spent the night out. The next day, Friday morning, he walked into the county jail and said he had rather stay there than at home.

Boa in Bananas

FORT WORTH.—Jack Roache got a surprise when he went to cut some bananas from a fresh stalk in his store, but it wasn't a pleasant surprise. It was in the form of a young two-foot boa constrictor, shipped with the fruit all the way from South America. Roache made a couple of stabs at the reptile with his knife and succeeded in killing it.

Horses! Horses!

MIAMI, Fla.—Mr. and Mrs. Sea Horse announce the birth of 12 baby colts, all doing fine, thank you, even Mr. Horse, who brought the infants into the world. The sea horses were born in the Miami aquarium. Mr. Horse took care of hatching the eggs after Mrs. Horse laid them. He took them and placed them in an abdominal pouch of his until they hatched.
