Deer Kill Light So Far Account Of Weather

As the first week of deer hunting draws to a close, the harvest has been light so far on account of the warm weather. The nights and early mornings have been cool but not really cold enough to bring the deer out.

Coming into its own as a deer hunter's paradise, Eldorado business houses report that more transient hunters came here for this season than ever before.

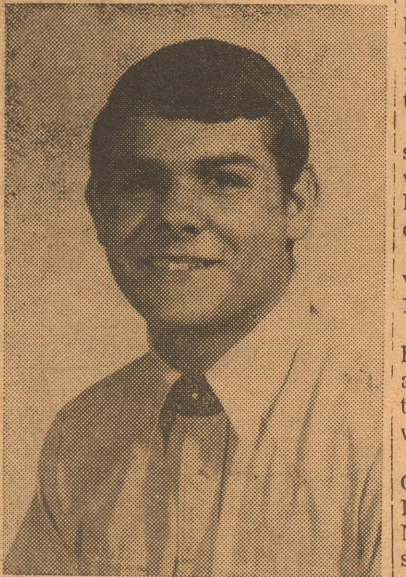

Commenting on the first two days Granvil Hext said there were less carcasses brought to his deer storage this time than last year. He attributed warm weather as responsible for the limited kill. But he added that all the carcasses were fat and in good shape.

Sofe grocery and package store is located at the edge of town on Menard highway, and was a stopping place for many headed for the deer country. They reported a steady stream of hunters coming by last week on Thursday and Friday.

Glynn Edmondson, proprietor of Top Package Store and a former ranchman, declared that Schleicher county was just coming into its own as a wild deer county.

Twelve years ago, on Oct. 22, 1959, the State Wildlife Department brought the first load of deer as part of the game re-stocking program, and turned them loose near here. Over 100 head were eventually re-stocked here. This was followed by several years of closed hunting so the herds could increase.

Thanksgiving Service Set For Sunday Night

The Ministerial Alliance is putting on their annual Community Thanksgiving Service this Sunday evening at 7:00 in the First United Methodist church. Most churches here will dispense with their own service that night in order for their congregations to attend.

The Rev. Gordon Garlington, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will preach. Pat Ragsdale, music-education director of First Baptist church will direct the Community Choir in an anthem, and he will also direct the other music for the service.

Others participating will be Doyle Morgan, Assembly of God; Kenneth Vaughan, First Baptist; and Fred Cox, pastor of the host church, First United Methodist.

Following the service, a fellowship hour with refreshments served will be held in the church educational building.

After that, the Community Choir will go back into the church where Ragsdale will direct the weekly rehearsal of the cantata to be given the night of Dec. 12.

Post Script

PS — rgmawasVerstepipnt E. TE I was one of the nine World War One veterans who enjoyed an early morning breakfast at the Memorial building last Thursday morning, Nov. 11, as honored guests of the Legionnaires of the local post of the American Legion.

We were served a delicious and satisfying man-made breakfast, with generous helpings of scrambled eggs, bacon, hot biscuits and coffee.

The occasion was the 53rd anniversary of Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918.

Bill Gunstead was present with his camera and posed the nine for a picture before the meal. (Pictures will be available later this week.)

The nine were: E. W. Brooks, George Long, Sam McGinnes, Jud Brannan, Clyde Keeney, Lawrence Neill, Lester Henderson, Fred Gunstead, and Russell Donaldson.

The local post claims three more WWI vets who were unable to be present. They are Don McCormick, Frank Meador and H. Leslie Jones.

The Eldorado American Legion Bev McCormick Post No. 257 is an active civic organization and is now directed by veterans of WW2. At the present time they are making plans for their annual Christmas Party for youngsters.

Some time during the past year they voted to make all WW I vets as honorary members, and we old-timers now no longer have to pay annual dues.

With our subscribers: John S. Williams has moved from Corpus Christi to 1002 Antoine Drive, Apt. 48, Houston, Texas, 77055.

On page 6 we have the complete basketball schedule for the season for both Boys and Girls teams, with local sponsors. Readers are urged to save the schedule for reference.

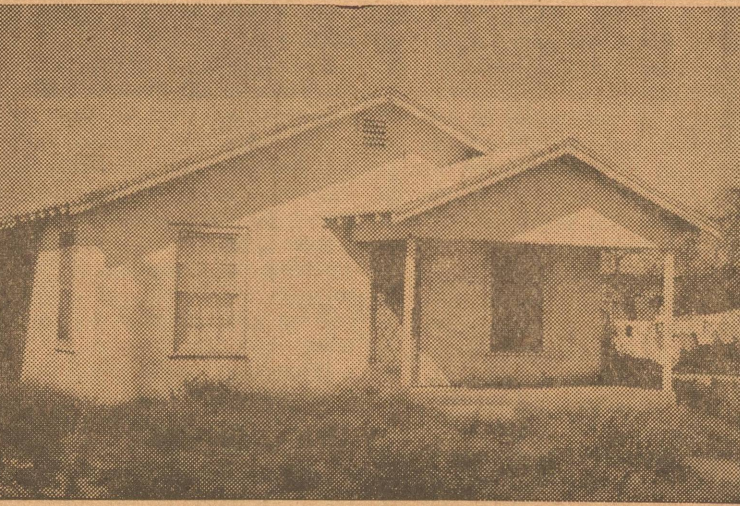

Next week we will print our annual Thanksgiving greeting paper. School dismisses at 2:30 next Wednesday afternoon for the four-day Thanksgiving holiday week end.

Eagles Down Menard 24 To 12 To Close '71 Football Season

The Eldorado Eagles ended the 1971 football season last Friday night by defeating the Menard Yellowjackets 24-12 before a capacity crowd of Menard's "Century Anniversary" fans. The Yellowjackets were anything but cooperative and probably played their best game of the current season against the Eagles, one of their oldest rivals. They made a game of it almost to the final whistle, being within striking distance of a scoring lead almost all night. The Yellowjackets definitely held the attention of Eagle fans throughout the game as nearly all the way a Menard touchdown and extra point would have given the Yellowjackets the lead.

Statistics are as follows:

Eldorado:	Menard:
17	First downs	15
297	Yards rushing	203
37	Yards passing	65
334	Total yards	268
2 of 12	Passes att. & com.	3 of 12
2	Opponent's passes captured	0
0	Oppon. fumbles captured	1
2 for 20	Pen. & yds. lost	3 for 25
4 for 37	Punts & av. dist.	4 for 36
Score by quarters:
Eldorado	12	0	6	6—24
Menard	0	6	6	0—12

The Eagles who apparently have not won a peregme coin toss all season kicked off, held Menard on downs, forcing them to punt. Then Eldorado with the ball near mid-field put together four first downs to the Yellowjackets' two-yard line where the Jackets obsessed with Archie Nixon and Billy Doc Hubble, neglected adequate defenses against Terry Clingan who ran wide to score. The try for extra point failed. The Eagle score took just three minutes or 25% of the score board clock face to accomplish.

Then the Eagles repeated the process, holding the Yellowjackets for downs and taking the punt and marching down field; but this time Archie Nixon carried over the last 10 yards to raise the score 12-0, Eldorado. Again, the try for extra point failed.

Menard came back hard in the second quarter with their outstanding place kicker, 190-pound Tommy Decker, who booted a prodigious and record breaking 46-yard field goal, and shortly after another try for 16 yards to bring the score to 12-6, Eldorado. They frustrated the Eagle offensive efforts, holding the Eagles scoreless in this quarter.

After outstanding halftime performances by The Marching Band from Eagle Land and the Menard High School Band, the Jackets and Eagles went after each other again. This time Eldorado fans watched nervously from the narrow vantage of a 12-6 lead and with a man named Decker at large who made a somewhat unsettling state of mind hard to escape. In this crisis, Archie Nixon stepped up for Eldorado and destroyed the Yellowjackets' challenge on four separate occasions.

Eldorado scored again in the 3rd quarter with Terry Clingan's 12-yard sortie outside the Menard defenders. The try for extra point was wide but Eagle fans breathed easier—for a short time.

Archie Nixon kicked off following the touchdown and Tommy Decker took the ball deep and started running and running and running until he out-distanced ten Eagles. Then Archie Nixon who had kicked the ball cut Decker down on the Eagle 45-yard line and Eldorado fans sat back limply. The Jackets then launched a

American Farmer: The Great Emancipator

An Opinion Article by Del Deterling, reprinted from The Progressive Farmer.

People in this country have become so accustomed to having a varied and generous selection of wholesome food at a relatively low cost, that they pretty well take agriculture for granted. In fact, in this age of synthetic fibers and materials, when researchers glibly speak of manufacturing protein from petroleum, algae, and sewage waste, there are many who feel agriculture is diminishing in importance.

Some, in the name of ecology, even say our present systems of food and fiber production are a nuisance and a hazard to the environment that must be curtailed or eliminated.

But eliminating agriculture from the United States would have the same impact on the economy as removing one wheel from an automobile. It wouldn't run very far.

Regardless of how taken for granted, ignored, belittled, and even blamed for creating problems of pollution, migration of the masses to the cities, inflation, and diversion of public funds from more lofty goals, the production of food and fiber is still the most essential task of our nation.

People do, after all, need food. All other pursuits take on secondary importance to finding enough food to still a hungry stomach and clothes to repel the heat and cold.

The next time one of your city friends remarks about the declining importance of agriculture, ask him what he thinks would happen to the national economy if you suddenly eliminated an industry that:

—Has assets of $300 billion—more than two-thirds the value of all U. S. corporations, half the market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

—Employs 5 million people directly and supports 16 million more in associated businesses—more people than are employed by the steel industry, auto industry, the utilities, and the transportation industries combined.

—Spends $55 billion a year for goods and services to produce crops and livestock and for food, clothing, furniture, and other goods; pays $4 billion in real estate and federal and state income taxes.

—Consumes 23 billion kilowatt hours of electricity; 5 million tons of steel, 9% of the rubber, and $3.4 billion worth of fuel annually.

And if anyone brings up the subject of Government subsidies, ask him what other country he can think of where consumers need use only 16½ cents out of every dollar of income after taxes to pay for essential food, plus about an equal amount to pay for clothing and shelter, leaving two-thirds of each dollar to buy color televisions, a second car, boats, a home on the lake, a better education for his kids, health care for his family, and other things that improve the quality of life.

You might add that if the American producer hadn't developed the efficiency that enables him to produce food for himself and 50 other people, there would need to be many more people engaged in the production of food and fiber, and a lot fewer would be free to build color TV's and boats, keep the golf greens in perfect condition, operate motels and hunting lodges, and provide the other nonessentials to which we have become accustomed.

In contrast, in Russia 55% of the population is engaged in food and fiber production, and 50% of the disposable income of each family unit is required to pay for food. Red China must keep 75% of its manpower tied up with agricultural production. Even in Western Europe and Japan, consumers must shell out one-third or more of their income to buy food.

The question then justifiably could be asked: "Who is subsidizing whom?"

The American farmer, therefore, could rightly be called the "Great Emancipator" for freeing manpower, income, and time from the slavery of grubbing for enough to eat and to wear and for enabling our citizens to enjoy a quality of life never before experienced by any people on this earth.

Such recognition does not come easy nor by itself. The general public is not given to pouring out praise for those things it takes for granted.

Farmers and ranchers must take the initiative in calling attention to the important contributions of agriculture to the health and well being of the country and the world. Pleas for sympathy will not do the job. Producers must join hands with their agribusiness allies to develop positive programs to get the public to realize that America can be strong and free, that its citizens can enjoy the fruits of abundance, only so long as its food and fiber industry is strong and healthy.

How To Spot A Deceptive Guarantee

College Station, Texas.—Do you know how to spot a deceptive guarantee?

The Federal Trade Commission has set up guidelines to help consumers know what to look for in a guarantee and how to know if it is deceptive, reports Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

According to the guidelines, advertising is deceptive if it fails to state:

What product or part is guaranteed.

What characteristics of the product are covered.

What the buyer must do before the guarantee will be honored, such as returning the product to a certain location or paying labor costs.

How long the guarantee is effective.

How the guarantee will be carried out—if it promises repair, replacement or a choice.

The company or person responsible for the guarantee.

Good advertising will tell you what you need to know about products and services, Mrs. Myers reminds. Remember to buy from retailers you can trust—those who have an established reputation of standing behind their products. Also remember it pays to have guarantees in writing.

If you are faced with deceptive advertising or a firm that refuses to perform warranty service, the specialist says to report the details to the nearest FTC office or to the Consumer Protection Division of the Texas Attorney General's Office.

Schleicherites Invited To Sen. Snelson Event

Austin, Tex.—A special invitation is extended to all residents of Schleicher County to attend the ceremonies and activities honoring Pete Snelson when he becomes Governor of Texas on Saturday, December 4, according to Lewis Timberlake, chairman of the host committee.

Senator Snelson is President Pro Tempore of the Texas Senate and who under the provisions of the Texas Constitution becomes Governor during the absence from the state of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

"Since Schleicher County is in the 25th Senatorial District represented by Senator Snelson, it is particularly appropriate for its residents to be special guests of honor during the traditional 'Governor-for-a-day' festivities," said Timberlake.

The day's events will include the taking of the oath as governor at 9:00 a.m. December 4 in the Senate chambers. It will be followed by a reception in the offices of the chief executive and an inaugural luncheon at noon.

Sharing honors with Senator Snelson will be his wife, Susan, who becomes "Texas First Lady" for the day and their four children, Gene 11, Sandra 9, Steven 7, and Shane 3.

Texas Commodities For Thanksgiving

An all-Texas Thanksgiving feast is being suggested this year by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. "For your Thanksgiving meal this year, you can be assured of quality and quantity of Texas-produced commodities. No other state offers the consumer the opportunity to purchase so much variety of food to put into your Thanksgiving dinner," White said.

A typical Texas Thanksgiving menu would be this:
Baked Texas turkey with corn-bread dressing and gravy,
Fresh Texas green beans,
Texas candied sweet potatoes,
Texas fruit salad and Texas pecan pie.

"Texans can purchase fruit that is produced in the South Texas and Lower Rio Grande Valley areas; vegetables from west, east and north Texas; and pecans and turkeys from central Texas," White said.

"Thanksgiving time is a time when we all give thanks for everything we have. Often, we overlook our bountiful agricultural production. This year as you enjoy your Texas Thanksgiving meal, give the producer a pat on the back, not a kick in the pants. He is providing for the consumer quality food at bargain prices," White said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is cooperating with agricultural producers in the state thru the Texas Agricultural Products (TAP) program to acquaint Texans with the quality and quantity of Texas-produced foods.

Student Council Donates Proceeds To Boys Ranch And Am. Cancer Society

The Student Council of Eldorado High School donated $200 to Boys Ranch and the American Cancer Society in memory of Jimmy McGinnes, former Eldorado High School student. The amount given represents the proceeds from their concessions sold at the last home district football game.

Archie Nixon, Student Council president, stated, "Boys Ranch has long been a cause to which the Student Council has subscribed through donations, and since Jimmy was an Eagle four-year football letterman, it seemed appropriate that the proceeds from an activity associated with football be designated for this purpose." Jenny Sue Martin, Senior Class Representative, presented the plan to the Council.

"This is a fine tribute to the memory of Jimmy," said Ken Thomas, Student Council sponsor. "The students wanted to do something for him, and their response in helping to carry out this project was overwhelming."
A victim of cancer, Jimmy McGinnes died in September of this year. He was a Junior student at Texas A&M. At Eldorado High School he was a member of the National Honor Society and served as president of his Senior class, the "E" Club, and of F. F. A.

Good Sportsmanship Necessary At Athletic Contest

The following quote appeared in the official Interscholastic League newspaper, "When the Sportsmanship in the stands equals that on the playing court we will be in good shape."

The U.I.L. Committee recognizes all Interscholastic League events are an integral part of the school system, and, therefore, places the responsibility for the behavior at such events upon participating schools. This responsibility includes behavior of fans and community as well as the school itself. Also, the committee recognizes the value of these events in teaching and practicing sportsmanship and character development.

Booing officials or opponents involves the danger of having the school placed on probation or of being expelled from the League and gives the school a reputation of poor sportsmanship.

All types of noisemakers are discouraged. Mechanical noisemakers will not be permitted in the gymnasium.

MENARD GAME

threatening passing attack; but, again, Archie Nixon intercepted on Eldorado's 25-yard line to snuff out the threat. The Eagles went on to score again midway in the fourth quarter when Hunter Henderson kept and sped over from 15 yards out to raise the score to Eldorado 24, Menard 12, the Jackets refusing to be denied late in the third quarter. But their extra point failed this time.

After Henderson scored, the Jackets launched a determined attack, completing a pass on Eldorado's 30-yard line to Yellowjacket Ricky Ashby who apparently was in the clear with open territory between him and the score; but again Archie Nixon refused to panic and caught Ashby and threw him out of bounds on the Eldorado 10-yard line.

Nixon then intercepted his second pass of the evening when Menard began their last dangerous endeavor, Nixon purloining the forward pass near Eldorado's 10-yard line. That was the fatal blow for the Yellowjackets as the Eagles held on the rest of the final period to end the game 24-12, Eldorado.

While Menard played a good ball game, so did the Eldorado Eagles. Ken Peters completed the two Eldorado passes for 18 and 19 yards totaling 37 yards, each pass completion being worth a first down and at crucial times.

Seven Eagles played their last high school football game in the contest. These were Gary Danford, Manuel Martinez, Terry Clingan, Oscar Martinez, Ricky Griffin, and Billy Doc Hubble along with Archie Nixon. All distinguished themselves in the night's festivities.

Mike Manning, a defensive standout for Eldorado all the current season, suffered a hurt ankle in the second quarter but still managed to rack up eight tackles.

Billy Doc Hubble, completely fit for the first time since the Ozona contest, led the way defensively with 10 stops while Ricky Griffin and Roy Lloyd came next with eight each. Gary Danford, Oscar Martinez, and Tim Farris racked up seven Yellowjackets each while Archie Nixon tabbed six, two of them touchdowns savers. Len Mertz and Ken Peters tabbed four stops each.

Terry Clingan ran for 14 yards and two touchdowns in the game. Billy Doc Hubble carried but for four yards but his role as an offensive blocker was exceptional. Hubble's blocking aided Hunter Henderson to tab 46 yards and a touchdown rushing as well as helping Ricky Griffin come within four yards of the 100-yard mark. Griffin tabbed 96 yards against the rugged Menard tacklers.

Archie Nixon for the third time broke the 100-yard barrier, rushing for a total of 137 yards against the Yellowjackets.

The contest was an excellent example of team effort on part of the Eagles and kept them in the top half of the District 9A championship race. The same can be said of the Eagles was said of the Yellowjackets: Had Eldorado been fortunate enough to be in some other Class A district other than "murderous 9A" the Eagles might have been a team to collide with Sonora on up the championship ladder.

The 1972 season sees re-alignment of District 9A but hardly relief as both Mason and Sonora remain assigned to 9A and Junction is added along with Menard, Wall, Robert Lee, and Eldorado. Bangs is shifted to District 10A.

Prepare Now For Thanksgiving Meal

College Station, Texas.—Prepare for Thanksgiving this week by taking advantage of food supplies and harvests abundant in many markets, suggests Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, stew meat, ground beef and beef livers.

Pork supplies are abundant, and good values include Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks, one-half or one-fourth loin cut into chops, loin roasts, smoked hams and ham portions, picnics (whole or slices) and canned hams.

Fryer chickens are special features in many markets this week, so buy extras for freezing if you have adequate storage space. Grade A large size eggs still offer the best combination of quality and economy for your egg money. Frozen turkeys are coming to market in greater numbers

Austin, Tex.—Hearing of major interest to insurance policy holders are scheduled here Dec. 8.

The State Board of Insurance slated for that date public airing of new regulations to prevent insurance companies from arbitrarily canceling coverage and a proposal to lower auto policy rates through "shock-absorbing" bumpers.

Allstate Insurance Company of Illinois recommends a 10% premium for new cars equipped with the tough bumpers beginning next year. Rates would be reduced to 15% if cars can be demonstrated to take a five-miles-per-hour front-end crash and a 2½-miles-per-hour rear end wallop. Rates would drop 20% if the bumpers can absorb a five-miles-per-hour blow fore and aft.

New federal regulations call for the shock-absorb bumpers with 5 fph (front) and 2½ mph (rear) capacity by 1973 models.

Proposed regulations would prohibit cancellation of hazard and liability insurance which has been in effect 60 days or more unless holders fail to pay premiums or lose a driver's license (auto coverage).

Under the rules to be examined at the early December hearing, companies would have to give at least 30 days written notice if they do not intend to renew a policy at the end of a year. Unless the notice is given, renewal would be required for another year. Firms which violate the rules could lose their licenses to operate in Texas.

The latter regulations resulted from special legislation passed this year following repeated complaints of motorists who claimed policies were canceled without advance notice.

A hearing was scheduled earlier for December 7 to consider all aspects of problems in operating the new catastrophe property insurance pool in 14 coastal counties.

Pay Raises Ordered

The state proposed to begin the last half of this month granting state employees and school teachers pay raises approved by the Legislature unless stopped by the Federal Pay Board.

Governor Smith said an application has been sent to the Pay Board requiring permission to make retroactive raise payments to September 1 when the new state budget took effect.

The Pay Board set a 5.5% salary increase guidepost on expiration of the wage-price freeze. The Legislature approved a 6.8% pay raise for state employees. Texas was the only state government in the country blocked by the freeze from employee pay raises this year. Hikes in other states took effect before the president's order.

Courts Speak

A state law declaring desecration of the flag a felony was upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals in a Dallas case where a 20-year-old flag burner got a four-year prison sentence.

The Court's opinion called such acts "an invitation to violence" and said they are not protected by constitutional guarantees of free speech.

The State Supreme Court said it had no jurisdiction in a damage case involving a contractor's suit for damages over failure of metal rods used to raise the "top house" of the famous Tower of the Americas in San Antonio to its lofty place.

Smallpox Vaccination Out

Compulsory vaccination for smallpox has been lifted by the State Board of Health as a requirement for entering school.

Required immunizations effective next January 1 include for grade school pupils diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, rubella and measles (if the child hasn't had measles). The U. S. Public Health Service recently held compulsory smallpox immunization is no longer necessary in the U. S. since risk of the disease is so small here. Last known cases were in 1949 in the Rio Grande Valley.

Short Snorts . . .

Atlantic Richfield Foundation gave Texas Conservation Foundation $5,000 (its first major cash gift) to buy and preserve public lands.

The 26th amendment to the U. S. Constitution lowering the voting age will have enfranchised 664,646 new Texas voters by November, 1972, according to the University of Texas population research center. Projections see a total of more than 1.4 million young Texas voters who were not old enough to vote in the 1968 general election.

A $23.3 million textbook order, largest in history, was placed last week.

Governor Smith is calling for a "take crime out of Christmas" campaign to curb the crime wave which frequently accompanies the Yule season.

State Board of Public Welfare met Monday to discuss revisions in the food stamp program and policy changes required by lawsuits.

Gubernatorial candidate Dolph Briscoe demanded an investigation of use of state employees to turn out mailing lists for campaigning Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, also a candidate for governor.

Boneless Meats Are Cheaper Per Serving

College Station, Tex.—Consumers rejecting meat with bones removed because of the product's per pound purchase cost are overlooking an important consideration, according to Frances Reasonover, Extension foods and nutrition specialist.

Boneless products are usually slightly higher in per pound purchase cost than meat with bones due to labor involved in removing bones, Miss Reasonover says. But there is little difference in the per pound serving cost of boneless meat as compared with bone-in-meat, she points out.

When buying meat, purchase 1 pound for 2 servings if there is a large amount of bone. With a medium amount of bone, buy 1 pound for 3 servings. One pound of boneless meat is adequate for 4 servings.

Flavor differs little in boneless and bone-in products except where moist heat is used in cooking, as in the case of a pot roast.

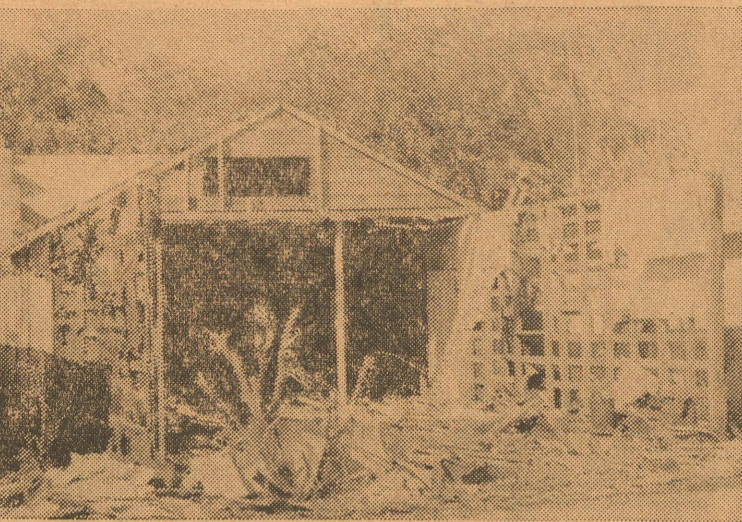

When freezing meat, use aluminum freezer foil or some other moisture-vapor-proof wrapping. Wrap the meat tightly, since air that enters the package draws moisture from the meat's surface and results in "freezer burn." When "freezer burn" occurs, meat turns white and is tough and tasteless.

Fresh beef can be kept frozen up to nine months; pork, 6 months; and processed items, such as bacon, ham (cured and smoked) and frankfurters, one to two months.

It's best to thaw frozen meat in the refrigerator or cook it frozen rather than thawing it out uncovered on the kitchen cabinet. Although it takes longer to thaw out meat in the refrigerator, less moisture is lost and the product will be juicier, the specialist explains.

If meat is not frozen after bringing it home from the market, keep it in the coldest part of the refrigerator for quick use, or freeze it.

Waterways Present Problem Of Pollution

By LLOYD BENTSEN
United States Senator

We have always been proud of the beauty of our nation. It has been a source of deep and abiding pride to all of us. A primary example, of course, is our magnificent network of waterways. They have helped us, we have fun on them, we enjoy seeing them, and they have contributed to the economy of this great country of ours. But they have also spawned some mills and factories along their banks.

Rivers Are Filthy And Polluted

Tragically, our rivers & streams today have become filthy and polluted, serving as conveyors of waste flowing to the oceans. Many examples exist to show how serious the pollution problems have become:

—The Cayahoga River in Cleveland is so filled with oil and other pollutants that it actually caught on fire and is now considered a fire hazard. Imagine, a river on fire! —Only a short distance from where I am sitting now, Washington's once beautiful Potomac river is now a health hazard. Fifteen million gallons of raw sewage pumped into it every day.

Large Bodies Of Water Polluted

There is no shortage of examples or proof that we have a job to do in cleaning up our country's navigable waters. Major waterways near industrial and urban areas are useless and too polluted for any purpose. The pollution which rivers bring to lakes and the ocean is rapidly poisoning these large bodies of water, as well. We have come to the point where many waterways are nothing more than open sewers, and we mustn't allow this to continue.

I serve on the Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution here in the Senate. We have devoted many weeks this year to devising a bill which will effectively and realistically set about cleaning up our waters.

Price Of Pollution Battle Is High

We know the price will be high and the problem will be great. The economic implications have to be considered. We know that cities and industries are going to have to make some sacrifices in the fight against pollution. I was especially concerned that we not create some false expectations, some things that really can't be accomplished and that we not try to put this country back in the Stone Age in the process of cleaning up our rivers.

Businesses will need to have workable regulations which will not be ruinous and cities and towns must have a clear understanding of what is expected of them and, in addition, they are going to have to have some help from the Federal government in order to fund these things. Now, with these realities guiding us, we have set some goals:

—The discharge of pollutants into the navigable waters be eliminated by 1985; —In the meantime, a goal of water quality for 1981 will be set to provide protection for fish, shellfish and wildlife, and for recreation in and on the water.

—The discharge of harmful pollutants in damaging amounts be prohibited.

—Federal grant assistance be provided to any community which builds a plant for treating sewage or garbage that is in line with the program passed by Congress.

—A major research and demonstration effort be started to find the technological methods necessary to eliminate the discharge of waste and pollution.

—Regional, overall management treatment programs be developed and begun to assure adequate control of all sources of pollution in each state.

One of the reasons that we have to have this on a regional basis, and that we have to have some Federal standards involved, is that dirty water and unclean air doesn't stop at state boundaries; it goes across those state lines. The other problem we have is of states competing for industry, so they would really have some very lax laws to try to encourage industry to come in. A progressive state that was trying to clean up its environment would find itself punished for that kind of an attitude. It sounds like a tall order, and it is. But our nation's future well-being demands it.

Better Enforcement Methods

Our bill proposes to change the enforcement mechanism from one which is based on measuring water quality to one which is based on measuring how much pollution is being dumped into the waters. We found that after five years, the old method was not working. This new measurement of pollutants at their source will be more accurate. With limits on pollutants, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency can require the best control technology, without having to figure out the exact cause and effect relationship between pollutants and the polluted water. The Administrator will be responsible for controlling discharges and he must move against polluters. There will be penalties.

Cotton Production

Both larger acreage and increased yields are giving the United States an 8% larger cotton crop this year than last. The September 1 estimate put the crop at 10.9 million bales. Indicated average yields at 453 pounds per acre are only 4% above 1970's poor showing because early season growing conditions were not favorable. However, harvested acreage of 11.6 million acres is almost half a million more than last year.

Pecans

Pecans are falling early this year. It is now time for growers to select nuts for pecan show entries. Tom Green Co. Pecan Show is not far away. And the West Texas Regional Pecan Show is at Midland, December 16, 17 and 18.

Schleicher produces better products than any other county around. Pecans are no exception. Enter your pecans in competition this year and prove the quality of our pecans.

Feeder Cattle

Feeder cattle are currently running above their high spring levels of 34.50 cwt. Although feeder prices often weaken in the fall, they are likely to remain steady this year.

Feeder Cattle Prices per 100 lbs. Ave., 33.70 for 1970; $34.97 for September, 1971, for Choice feeder steers.

Choice feeder steer calves: Average $38.76 in 1970; $39.33 in September, 1971.

Prussic Acid Poisoning

(Hydrocyanic acid poisoning.) Under certain conditions some plants cause the death of stock from prussic acid poisoning. Of the several species of plants which may cause such poisoning the most important are the sorghums, johnsongrass, chokecherry, blackcherry, arrow grass, velvet grass, christmas berry, and sudan grass.

The poison may be set free in the digestive tract of an animal eating the dangerous plants, and it may also be set free in the plants on wilting or being bruised. Cattle and sheep are affected by the poison, but horses and swine are apparently not injured, or only very rarely.

The poisonous property usually develops in dangerous amounts only when the growth of the plants is checked or stopped by drought, frost, trampling, mowing, or wilting. Freezing that ruptures the plant cells causes a rapid liberation of free prussic acid. Young plants generally contain much more of the poison than when growth is well advanced.

Sudan grass is much less apt to cause poisoning than the sorghums, and is therefore much safer to use for pasture.

Stock affected by the poison often die in a few minutes after eating only a small amount of the dangerous forage, perhaps only a few mouthfuls. Therefore, there is usually no time for treatment.

In pasturing sorghums the only safe way is to turn an animal of little value into the field first. If no poisonous effects are observed, the rest of the stock may then be allowed to graze the crop.

If a poisoned animal is discovered in time, a drench of molasses diluted with water may be helpful, but a veterinarian should be called at once to give additional treatment.

Homeowners

Homeowners should be cautious about using firewood that may contain troublesome insects.

Some insects such as bark beetles, powder-post beetles and several of their relatives may hibernate in firewood stored outside for the winter.

Homeowners should keep the firewood outside until it's time to put it on the fire. The insects, if left long enough to adjust to the warmth indoors, may become active and start looking for food.

These insects make their home in tree trunks and under bark. Wood-dwelling beetles usually do not attack painted or varnished wood, such as clapboard or mill-work of a house.

Controlling these pests while the logs are stored outside usually is not practical, as there are too many of them.

4-H Clubs

About 110 individuals attended the 4-H Square Dance, Saturday night. Joel Wilson, Promotions assistant of West Texas Utilities Co., called and taught the square dancing.

The dance began at 8:00 p.m., and ended at 11:00, with 96 4-H'ers, friends, and parents Square Dancing at one time. Twelve squares filled the Auditorium of the Memorial Building almost to the brim.

Refreshments were furnished by 4-H members and parents.

Reynolds H. D. Club

Each was given a folder with colorful pictures of 50 Texas wild flowers and asked to write the name of as many as she knew.

For the demonstration we made Mexican food, flour tortillas, frijoles refritos a la Mexicana. Waffle cookies, coffee and cold drinks were served for refreshments. The December meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Bob Reynolds. Since this will be our annual Christmas party, each is asked to bring a gift to exchange with a $1.00 limit on the cost. —Rep.

Eldorado-Divide Soil Cons. District

Lake filled with water from drainage area cropland and rangeland.

Contour rows and level closed-end terraces holding & storing water for future use.

The times have been few and far between that farmers and ranchers in the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District would say they had received enough water from rainfall. The year 1971 has been one of those rare years that some have said they had received too much. Much water in too short a time.

Rainfall for the first 3 months of this year was 1.41 inches. That was received in February. At planting time farmers did not have enough moisture to plant their crops and get up a good stand. In April the county rainfall average was 3.31. Some crops were planted. However, over a big area of the county there was not enough moisture to plant on. Above terraces, where water had been held from rains in 1970, was the only place some farmers got a stand of what was planted.

Rainfall for May gave farmers and ranchers little hope that 1971 would be a good rainfall year. The county rainfall average for May was a meagre 0.45 inch. June started out like another dry hot summer was in store for Schleicher county. Then about 11th of June is started raining some. By the end of October the county average was up to 27.89 inches of rainfall. Rainfall records for Schleicher county since 1936 show only four years that received more than the 27.89 this year to date.

Water, one of the most important elements needed to produce crops, has been beneficial to some crops this year and detrimental to others. As a result of the good rains, farmers have probably harvested one of the biggest hay crops in the county's history. While the estimated cotton yield for this year is well below that of most all if not all, years past.

How much the rain received this year will benefit farming and ranching is yet to be seen. Next year's yields will be affected by water held and stored in the soil from this year's rainfall. Fields throughout the district have good bottom season, as a result of conservation measures applied and maintained to hold the water on the land. Some terraced fields have held all rainfall received to date.

In 1972 and all future years "Water" will continue to be one of the important factors in crop production throughout all America. Whether the rainfall for future years is more or less, it will be count.

Social Diseases Are Now Epidemic

Texas is in the midst of an epidemic, say State Health officials. Polio? Rubella? Diphtheria? No, it's an epidemic about which little is said because the public holds the disease itself to be taboo—a silent epidemic called "venereal disease."

Nationwide, more than two million Americans had VD last year—either gonorrhea or syphilis. Gonorrhea is the nation's number one reportable communicable disease. Syphilis trails not far behind as number three. More Americans are affected by gonorrhea than by measles, whooping cough, encephalitis, and tuberculosis combined. Only the common cold occurs more frequently.

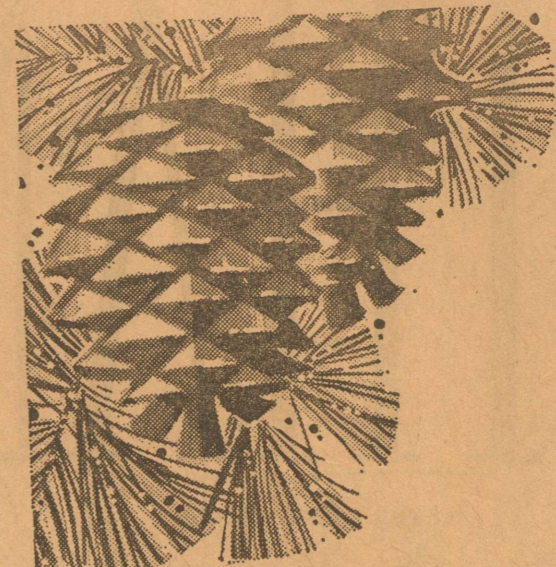

Texas last year reported 6,527 cases of syphilis. That's 7.2% of the 90,495 cases reported in the United States. Yet, Texas actually showed a decrease in syphilis this year, compared to the 18 states that had increases.

There were 43,601 cases of gonorrhea in Texas in 1970, or 7.2% of the 600,072 cases officially reported nationwide. Texas' high ranking in the occurrence of both diseases is due primarily to the State Health Department's intensive case-finding efforts.

These figures do not represent the extent of the epidemic nationwide, for public health officials say less than one-half—some authorities say no more than one in 10—of all VD cases are reported. In many instances, the social taboo of the disease keeps individuals from mentioning suspicious symptoms to their doctor.

The overt symptoms eventually clear up, but the disease never goes away without treatment. It continues to wreak its damage on the body's vital centers—the heart and central nervous system, as well as a reproductive tract.

Syphilis, if untreated, can cause mental illness, paralysis, blindness, deafness, heart disease and death. Untreated, gonorrhea leads to the development of scar tissue in the fallopian tube of the woman and in the seminal ducts of the male, leading to damage of the sex organs, and if severe enough, even to sterility. Gonorrhea, too, can cause paralysis, blindness, and death.
