20% RAIN FORECAST

Cotton farmers hope for continued dry weather in order to bring in the last of the crop, but as we went to press, the forecast gave a 20% chance of rain for this area of Southwest Texas.

Post Script

"There's a land where the mountains are nameless, and rivers all run God knows where—"

That was the way Robert W. Service described Alaska in the gold rush days some 70 years ago.

But today, while it is still a frontier, it is also a country with many modern cities and there is a boom on. The lure now is not for gold, but oil, and is attracting many experienced oil field workers, and a considerable number are from Texas. And now we learn that one from Eldorado will join them.

Mack McAngus went to work for C. C. Lease Service Co., in July 1970 and worked in the field until C. C. Lease acquired the Phillips 66 Station, which he has managed.

Recently he was offered, and accepted, a place with the C. C. Smith Drilling and Exploration Co., operating out of Anchorage, and plans to arrive there on Sunday, Feb. 6. McAngus is a brother-in-law of C. C. Smith.

In the meantime McAngus is helping John Edward Meador in closing out the retail stock in the Phillips 66 station, which will be closed after February 1st.

Mack's wife, Susie, and small son will join him later in the Spring.

A truck driver who lives in Sonora, delivered a ton of freight to the Success office Monday, and reported that Sonora schools were closed due to an epidemic of flu.

While there are a number of absences in Eldorado's schools, classes here continue and there was nothing here to even approach the term "epidemic."

The U. S. News and World Report which arrived in the mail Monday carried the following report on the flu:

"Epidemic proportions" is the term now being applied to an outbreak of Hong Kong flu scattered through states from New England to the Middle West.

"Schools in many areas have been closed. Businesses have suffered up to 30% absenteeism. In some hospitals, patients have overflowed into hallways."

The paper goes on to list the states hardest hit as: Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Colorado and Oklahoma, and the cities of New York and Washington, D. C.

Other states which haven't escaped are listed as: Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Maryland, South Carolina, Texas, Louisiana, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and the state of Maine.

What is the outlook in America? Says one authority at the Atlanta center:

"Probably it hasn't peaked yet. I suspect the flu still has a way to go."

—ps—

In connection with the Sonora flu we learn that our good friends, Dr. Tom and Margaret White are also among the "miserable ones" in that town. They are staying at home and doctoring each other.

A bombshell was thrown into the state political scene during the week end when a Federal District Court threw out the Congressional district set-up in Texas and substituted a plan based on population. Some incumbent Congressmen are now forced into the position of running against each other.

Our own Congressman, O. C. Fisher, is paired with Abraham Kazen of Laredo, in the newly drawn 21st district.

There actually have been considerable changes in our district since Fisher was elected to his initial term 30 years ago in 1942. Then, Tom Green county was the most populous county in the district which was fairly small in area. Adjacent counties were in the district which extended south to the border. Fisher unseated the late Charles South of Coleman.

In more recent years, the 21st has extended west to take in Ector county (Odessa) and southeast to include northern Bexar county and part of San Antonio.

Now Ector and Midland counties are paired together in the 19th district.

Northern Bexar county, from which base Republican candidate Dick Gill ran unsuccessfully against Fisher in 1970, is now a district in itself.

Fisher announced for re-election about two weeks ago. If Kazen does the same, they will have to run against each other in a large, sprawling district. It's about 500 miles from the northernmost counties of Scurry and Fisher to Webb county on the Rio Grande.

Kazen's home county, Webb, which has Laredo as the county seat, has a slight population edge over Tom Green county, Fisher's home base.

Webb has 72,859 to Tom Green's 71,047, as given in the 1970 census. Both Fisher and Kazen could be expected to carry their respective ends of the new district because of name association. How the less populous counties vote in the May Democratic primary could thus have a definite bearing on the outcome, and determine whether Fisher or Kazen emerges victorious.

Sheriff Orval Edmiston and his deputies remind all local citizens, 18 and older, who have not already registered to vote this coming year to do so during the next few days.

You must be registered in order to vote in 1972. This is an election year and it promises to be an active one. You vote for candidates "from the Court House to the White House."

As of Monday morning, there had been 895 voters registered. There should be 300 to 400 more.

Next week's issue of the Success for Feb. 3rd will be our annual salute to Boy Scout Week. As usual, we will have write-ups, booster ads, etc., all carrying out the theme of Boy Scout Week which comes each year early in February.

—ps—

As we go to press, the local political scene remains quiet, with no other candidates making announcements, or throwing their hats in the ring.

Monday, February 7th is the filing deadline for candidates to get on the May 6 Democratic Primary ballot. That is just 10 days away.

Rash Of Fire Alarms Keep Firemen Busy

With cover high and dry on city lots and yards, and on the ranges out in the county, the firemen have voiced their usual warnings to local residents to be extremely careful with fire.

Burn trash in covered barrels and do not burn when the wind is high.

A rash of alarms this past week kept the firemen on the move, and most of them were for grass fires.

On Thursday afternoon, a blaze razed the vacant Garza house in north Eldorado.

At 2:45 Friday, the firemen answered a call to a grassfire on the football practice field.

At 6:30 Sunday evening, they answered a call to grass at Blake-way's.

At 10:30 Monday morning, they were called to a grass fire out in the county near the dump ground.

528 Bales Of Cotton—More Yet To Come

A visit to Mikeska Gin Tuesday afternoon revealed that the number of bales processed had grown to 528.

No one was willing to set a closing date for the Gin.

Jurecek Bros. had finished their crop as of Tuesday, but W. O. Faull and J. G. Pfluger still have cotton to be gathered, and Ross McAngus was mentioned as another having cotton to harvest.

As long as the weather remains dry, stripping will continue, but farmers now badly need rain and most of them would be glad to sacrifice the little remaining crop for a gully washing rain.

Ambulance Service Shows Improvement

A few years ago in Texas, emergency ambulance service was more or less a haphazard affair. Some communities and rural areas provided excellent coverage, but others provided only minimum equipment or less, and attendants with little or no emergency medical training.

Then the Texas State Department of Health moved to increase the quality and quantity of training and equipment, and the professionalism of emergency medical care personnel rose in Texas.

"Emergency ambulance care in Texas has improved considerably in the past few years and is continuing to improve," said Charles E. King, Director of Civil Defense and Traffic Safety, Texas State Department of Health. "The State Health Department is now responsible for assisting communities in the establishment and improvement of emergency medical care facilities, the training of ambulance personnel, and the maintenance of a State Registry, which encourages emergency medical care personnel to acquire and maintain a high level of proficiency."

The importance of properly trained ambulance attendants is evident from a study by the American College of Surgeons which reveals some 20,000 persons die each year because of inadequate care prior to reaching a hospital. Some 25,000 persons are permanently disabled as a result of improper handling.

After conducting a State survey to determine the need to upgrade the skills of ambulance personnel across the state, the State Health Department established an Emergency Care Attendant program designed to take the classroom as near to the student as possible. The first course was held in San Angelo in 1968. New courses are offered which involve up to 72 hours of intensive and specialized training.

As of the first of 1972, these training schools have been attended by 9,585 students, with 6,766 of those successfully completing the course. Some 89 schools have been conducted across the state with students representing 556 Texas towns and cities, thus providing many of those communities with their first highly trained emergency care personnel.

The methods and curriculum used in the Emergency Care Attendant school are applied, but magnified, in the Emergency Medical Technician School, a totally different training program of a more intense nature. The first such course was held in Austin in 1970, with six courses conducted in Houston since that time, three in Fort Worth, one in Amarillo and one in Dallas. Some 408 persons have enrolled in these schools with 330 graduating.

Houston and Fort Worth now require by law all ambulance attendants to have completed Emergency Medical Technician training and be certified by the State Health Department.

Food-Waste Chain Gains Some Support

College Station, Tex.—With the recent emphasis on ecology, the idea of an interlocked food-waste chain has gained more support, says Dr. David Mellor, Extension Service poultry marketing specialist at Texas A&M University.

A small farm near Sydney, Australia, may be the first to show that such a cycle is possible. Father Dominic Cremasco, a Divine Word missionary and director of the farm, learned the method in the United States but has put it into practice in Australia.

According to Mellor, the food cycle on Father Cremasco's farm works its way down through turkeys, cattle, hogs, ducks and fish. The fish are finally ground up and fed back to turkeys and hogs.

The turkeys after completing their laying cycle are slaughtered for market. Unsaleable parts are cooked and fed to hogs. Turkey feathers and droppings, both rich in protein, are ground into a mixture and fed to both hogs and cattle. Undigested food particles from the hog droppings are used as duck feed. Remnants from the duck yard provide food for the carp who live in nearby pools. After the carp have grown to full size, they are fed to turkeys and hogs.

Father Cremasco's system seems to be working as he produces annually 4,000 turkeys, 250 hogs, 25 head of cattle and 500 ducks for market on only 10 acres of land.

Poultry is an excellent animal to be a major part of this food-waste chain, points out Mellor. The feed to food conversion for all poultry is among the best of any animal species. Presently poultrymen in the United States utilize a part of this chain. Poultry offal and feathers are processed into high protein feed ingredients which are utilized in manufacturing poultry feeds.

Experiments have been conducted over the past 15-20 years at Texas A&M on the possible utilization of poultry manure as a feed ingredient for poultry, hogs or cattle. This practice is not utilized commercially at present, however, because of restrictions by the Food and Drug Administration, explains Mellor.

At present overriding economic and esthetic considerations deter development of most food-waste chains, adds the specialist. Technology is presently being developed for more complete utilization of resources. Thus, as conditions change, resources will be conserved and man's welfare will benefit through a nutritious diet and a balanced ecology.

Shopping Efficiency Improves With List

College Station, Tex.—"When going to the grocery store, most people can improve their shopping efficiency by making a list of food items they need," said Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Mrs. Clyatt said to include these items on your shopping list this week: cabbage, potatoes, dry yellow onions, carrots, bulk turnips, rutabagas, hard shell squash, eggplant and cauliflower.

"Some salad ingredient cost a little less this week than they have," Mrs. Clyatt claimed. "Head lettuce prices are down a bit."

Citrus fruits dominate fruit counters, with Texas-grown grapefruit an excellent choice, according to Mrs. Clyatt. "Grapefruit of medium size, sold by the bag generally offers the best value. Oranges, tangelos, tangerines, apples, bananas and pears are also good choices price-wise."

"Many markets feature fryer chickens, both whole and cut-up parts. Beef prices remain about the same as the past few weeks. In general, the best values are round steak, chuck roast and steak, ground beef and beef liver. Pork prices are good, and best values may be found on picnic ham, Boston butt roast, shoulder steak, pork liver and loin and rib chops."

"Eggs continue to be a good buy," the specialist said. "Grade A large eggs offer the best value."

A Working Prescription For Fighting Inflation

While President Nixon is battling the high cost of living, the independent retail pharmacist has been doing the job for years. It may come as a surprise, but as the cost of medical care is going sky high, the price of prescription drugs sold through your retail drugstore has actually dropped.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Consumer Price Index rose 24% for all goods and services and 68% for medical care from 1960 through 1970. But prescription drug prices went down 10% during the last decade. It's true that the cost of the average prescription rose about 20%, but that's because physicians are now combining larger doses and larger quantities of drugs in a single prescription than before. If prescriptions had remained at the size and potency levels of 1960, their cost would have declined 6%.

Add to this the remarkable improvement in the effectiveness of the newer drugs and it becomes obvious that — at least here — the consumer is getting a better buy for his dollar. The drug manufacturers have done their part, of course. But as the dispensers of these medicines, we have done more than our share to hold the line on costs. Your retail pharmacist has always served his community in every way possible, as we are pleased that we have been able to do so much in the fight against inflation. And we intend to pursue the battle just as hard in the decade to come.

GOD SPEAKS TO YOU

God speaks to you today if you will listen. He has never spoken to me directly as he did to Moses, but he has a message for all who will listen. Psalms 19:1.

"God speaks through the power, the splendor, and the many voices of nature."

Knits For Men

The password to men's fashions this spring echoes easy-care, wrinkle resistant knits. Today's knit garments resemble conventional woven material but boast the advantage of give. Men can bend, stretch and sit freely in knit clothes. And knits are immune to travel fatigue since the fabric will not bunch or bind.

Knit garments for men are available in almost all types and sizes. Markets are stocked with knit ties, dress shirts, tailored shirts and sport coats and suits. And manufacturers promise even more knits for future styles.

When shopping for knits check the fabric. Double knit fabrics offer built-in give, while knits bonded to other materials limit natural give. Knit fabrics also vary from sheer nylon tricot to heavy, bulky sweater knits of acrylic or wool, or from loose lacy textures to firmly knit fabrics.

If a knit garment is lined, you should check the lining fabric. A single knit or tricot is best. A woven lining reduces the knit's natural ease.

Handtags indicate fiber content of knit fabrics and often suggest quality. Some labels name the licensed trademark of a material such as Avril, Fortrel, or Kodol. These trademarks mean that the fabric used in the garment has passed difficult tests to meet specified standards.

Knits also top the list of fabrics in popularity because of their minimum care qualities. Depending on fiber content and lining, most knit garments can be washed at home. Since static electricity is inherent in man-made fibers, use a fabric softener in the final rinse.

When drying, use the permanent press cycle and low heat; man-made fibers soften when heated. Don't overdry.

Sorting is also important for proper laundering. Sort by color because new knits may bleed the first few washes. Sort by weight so that each load consists of garments requiring similar drying times. Overdrying can then be avoided.

Removing oily stains, such as body oils, lipstick or salad dressing, requires only a few simple steps for knits. Turn the garment wrong side out over an absorbent towel. Apply a small amount of dry cleaning solvent to the spot. The towel underneath will help draw the stain away. Follow the solvent with an application of liquid detergent to keep the solvent from forming a ring. Then follow regular laundry procedures.

Food Additives

Consumers wary of food additives may shun processed foods and make everything themselves.

But they're still using food additives. Some ingredients not commonly thought of as additives have been safely used for years. Spices, pectin, sugar, gelatin and salt, which are used to flavor and preserve foods fall into this category.

Iodine was the first commercial food additive when it was added to salt to prevent simple goiter. Today we buy fortified bread, cereal products, milk and other foods to prevent vitamin and mineral deficiencies.

Preservatives that retard growth of mold and bacterial spoilage are another group of additives. For example, salt is used as a curing agent in meat preservation. And sugar is used in preparing jams and jellies for canning and freezing fruit.

Another additive is pectin, a natural thickener. Since many fruits don't contain enough natural pectin to form a gel, additional pectin is needed to make certain jams and jellies.

Food manufacturers add synthetic or natural food colors to processed foods when unwanted color changes occur. Many food colors are made from natural food substances. For instance, carotene, a source of vitamin A found in yellow vegetables, may be used to color dairy products such as margarine.

Although an additive may come from food or other substances, it's chemical by nature. The word "chemical" doesn't mean something unnatural or dangerous. Don't let any food faddist tell you there's a difference between vitamin C in an orange and that made in a chemical factory and added to grape or apple juice. They're both good for you.

Work-At-Home Schemes Often Bogus

Austin, Tex.—Attorney General Crawford C. Martin today issued a warning for Texas citizens to be on the alert for bogus home employment schemes. Elderly people and housewives who are anxious to supplement the family income, but because of children or other obligations find it impossible to hold a part time job, are usually the victims of such operations, Martin said.

Martin pointed out the companies engaging in this practice typically place advertisements in the "want ad" section of newspapers which tell of the chance to earn money at home. "Normally there is no disclosure of the type of work, but the pitch is made to send in a small sum of money, usually less than $5, to show good faith or cover expenses. The work generally turns out to be addressing envelopes or some other similar activity," the Attorney General added. While the "work" offered may vary, a common theme found in all of the plans is that the prospect is required to buy something from the advertiser. This purchase by the consumer is the gimmick, and this is what the company is interested in, not in providing employment, Martin continued.

Recently the James Bliss Company of Pennsylvania has been enjoined by the Attorney General of Pennsylvania from using such false advertising practices, Martin said. "The Court decree provided that individuals that have been victimized by this scheme may obtain refunds of their money from the company," he added.

Martin asks that anyone who has paid money to the James Bliss Company and desires a return of the money to contact his Consumer Protection Division at P. O. Box 12548, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711. Martin said these requests will be forwarded to the Attorney General of Pennsylvania for processing.

Further, Martin asks people who have been victimized by other such ploys to forward the information to his Consumer Protection Division. Martin noted that many people do not complain to his office since the amount of money involved is so small. "Unless we are made aware of the vicious rackets, however, such activities on the part of unethical promoters may go on for some time before they are stopped," Martin concluded.

A Mother's Farewell To Her Children

When I must leave you for a little while, Please do not grieve and shed wild tears And hug your sorrow to you through the years, But start out bravely with a gallant smile; And for my sake and in my name Live on and do all things the same, Feed not your loneliness on empty days. But fill each waking hour in useful ways, Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer And I in turn will comfort you and hold you near; And never, never be afraid to die, For I am waiting for you in the sky!
—Helen Steiner Rice

Mothers Never Really Die— They Just Keep House Up In The Sky

Death beckoned her with outstretched hand And whispered softly of "An Unknown Land"— But she was not afraid to go For though the path she did not know, She took Death's Hand without a fear, For He who safely brought her here Had told her He would lead the way Into Eternity's Bright Day . . . And so she did not go alone Into the "Valley That's Unknown" She gently took Death By The Hand And journeyed to "The Promised Land" . . . And there, with step so light and gay, She polishes the sun by day And lights the stars that shine at night And keeps the moonbeams silvery bright . . . For Mothers really never die, They just "Keep House Up In The Sky" . . . And in the Heavenly Home Above They wait to "welcome" those they love.

SKIPPY SAYS

Wake Up To Peanut Butter Toast

One way to get the children in the family to eat a nutritious breakfast is to serve something they like. Nutritionists agree that everyone needs something to eat in the morning, not only to help him get going but to keep him mentally and physically alert until lunchtime. Breakfast, in fact, should provide a fourth to a third of the day's requirement for calories, protein, vitamins and minerals.

If the kids like peanut butter and jelly then let them have it for breakfast. A peanut butter and jelly sandwich with fruit and a glass of milk is an easy yet nutritionally sound breakfast whether mother prepares it or the kids get it for themselves.

Take a look at the facts. Two tablespoons Skippy peanut butter contain at least as much protein as a medium size egg or an ounce of cooked hamburger or three slices of crisp bacon or 3/4 glass of milk. It's a high energy food and an excellent source of niacin, a B vitamin. Important, too, is the fact that the oil in Skippy peanut butter is a good source of the essential polyunsaturated fatty acids. So don't keep peanut butter just for the kids. Put a jar on the breakfast table and encourage everyone to dig in.

Consider a variety of breads for peanut butter toast. Rye toast is especially good, also raisin bread, whole and cracked wheat. For sophisticated peanut butter toast, use English muffins. Split the muffins and toast them lightly, spread with peanut butter and jelly, or jam or marmalade, or apple butter. For the small fry, top with split marshmallows and broil until golden.

Apple Cobbler Rates A's

"A is for apple" is one of the basics of nursery school learning. . . . And one of the basics of home baking is fruit cobbler — apple in particular. Here's one of the easiest, tastiest apple cobbler recipes ever.

Apple-Raisin Cobbler starts with canned apple pie filling. Raisins contribute natural sweetness, while grated lemon peel heightens the overall flavor. The topping couldn't be simpler. A mixture of complete pancake mix and sugar is sprinkled over the fruit, then melted butter is drizzled over the top.

Serve the warm cobbler topped with vanilla ice cream and you'll rate A's for approval!

APPLE-RAISIN COBBLER
Makes 6 servings

- One 1 lb. 5-oz. can apple pie filling
- 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
- 1-1/2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 3/8 cup complete pancake mix
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted

Heat oven to moderate (375°F.). Combine pie filling, raisins and lemon peel in 8-inch square pan; blend well. Place complete pancake mix and sugar in small bowl; blend well. Sprinkle evenly over apple base. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake in preheated oven (375°F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

A CHINESE PUZZLE: PEKING AND POPULATION

A lot of tea has gone over the dam since the famous "Believe It Or Not" cartoon showing there are so many Chinese in the world they could go marching on forever. Communist China's population continues to grow, however, so that even today Peking is still alarmed.

Many of China's ancient customs may be falling under Communism. But the old taboo against a man's speaking affectionately to a woman in public still stands, and a kiss—even if the lady were your wife—might attract interest by the police. For after all, who knows where such a thing might lead? Not even the wise Confucius.

In his day, the Chinese believed that pregnancy could be prevented by such strange methods as swallowing live tadpoles, mercury or quicksilver.

Modern China is well aware of more scientific contraceptives like the birth control pill. In fact, telling Chinese women about the blessings of this way to prevent pregnancy is one of the main duties of the so-called "barefoot doctors," first-aid assistants who travel through China's countryside and bring simple health care to millions of peasants who never, ever see a real doctor.

There's an old chestnut that for a woman to be happy, she should be kept "barefoot and pregnant." China's barefoot medical aides are trying to make women happy by keeping them un-pregnant, but the Communists are not satisfied with the results so far. The free pills are used by many women in the big cities, but by relatively few in the smaller towns, which may be why dictator Mao-Tse-tung has ordered the health ministry to "Put stress on the rural areas!"

Big city or small town, it's a Chinese puzzle why Peking should push the pill so hard when women also have several other ways to practice birth control. The diaphragm, Lippes Loop intrauterine device, and various spermicides are among the other good methods women can use. And spermicides like Conceptrol Birth Control Cream or Delfen Foam are even available in drugstores without any prescription from a doctor—barefoot or otherwise.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By The Ministerial Alliance of Eldorado

The Cardinal Virtues of Christ's Kingdom

"Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other." Psalm 85:10.

In life we find that these virtues are opposite one another. They are contrary to one another. In life mercy and truth, or justice, do not meet but clash. In Shakespeare's play, "The Merchant of Venice," the merchant Shylock will have justice. He will have his bond, the pound of flesh, from his enemy Antonio. Portia the young lawyer pleads with him for mercy, "an attribute to God himself," for her client. However, Shylock demands strict justice until he finds that such justice will cost him his life also.

In the courts of law the judge must always decide whether the letter of the law must be carried out and strict justice served and the punishment fit the crime, or whether the best interests of the state and the rehabilitation of the criminal will be furthered by mercy and clemency.

There is a contrast between righteousness and peace. There are those who say that unrighteousness and aggression must be resisted even if it is necessary to use force and go to war. Appeasement, they say, will not work and leads only to further aggression and tyranny. Good men must be prepared to fight to maintain righteousness in the earth. On the other hand many say peace is the only answer. Violence only breeds violence. They say that war is no longer useful as an instrument of national policy. In order for war to work you must win and nowadays in order to win war must ultimately be enlarged to nuclear war which would mean destruction for all.

The contrasts between these virtues is a problem in the divine government as well as human government. If God is just and true and man is a sinner, how can God forgive man? God's holy law is just and true. If man has broken the divine law and rebelled against God must not man suffer the consequences in misery and eternal death? How can God be merciful to man? How can a righteous God be at peace with unrighteous man?

The answer is in Jesus Christ. These virtues are reconciled on the Cross of Calvary. In his atoning death Jesus Christ satisfied the demands of the law. He is the One altogether righteous who died for the unrighteous. In Him, "mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other."

So these virtues which we find so hard to achieve in our human life are the cardinal virtues of Christ's kingdom. In Him we attain these virtues which are so indispensable for our personal and civic happiness and felicity.

—Rev. Gordon Garlington, Jr.

Everybody and his cousin too . . . notice the lone man in the foreground of the picture. He must be wondering if he will ever get his shopping done. Even with his back to us he looks confused and bewildered.

Most of us have felt the pangs of loneliness in the midst of a crowd. Surrounded by people, we couldn't escape that feeling of utter desolation. It may engulf us in a busy department store, a crowded supermarket, a jam-packed subway, but suddenly it strikes . . . this feeling that no one cares about us or about our burdens.

When our hearts cry out for assurance that somebody cares, we can always turn to the truth and love revealed by the Holy Word of God: "Lo, I am with you always."

At the heart of the universe there are great resources of strength. Discover them for yourself by worshipping each week in the church of your choice.

National Tests Set

Eldorado High School will administer the National Development Tests, a testing program that helps professional educators, parents, and students plan together for the educational and vocational future of the students.

Guy Whitaker, principal, says that the NEDT Program is being used because it will give the school the type of information it needs to help the students make realistic decisions. "The NEDT will help us to help the student plan wisely for his future education and for his future career. It is a sound investment in sound planning.

"The program will reveal how well the students can apply the skills they have acquired since entering school. It will help us recognize the strengths in each student's educational development and, at the same time, will pinpoint weaknesses. This information will enable us to know how we can help a particular student while he is still in school, and will guide us in improving our program so that other youngsters can be helped earlier in their education.

"Since every cent invested in education should be spent effectively and efficiently, the administration is interested in choosing devices that bring the best results. The fact that thousands of schools throughout the nation have used the NEDT Program—and have continued its use year after year—attests to its effectiveness."

SHOWER SET

Reynolds H. D. Meets

The regular meeting of the Reynolds H. D. Club was held in the home of Mrs. Frank Williams on Jan. 18th. We had 11 members, one visitor and our agent, Miss Diane Durrett, present. After being without an agent for so long, we really appreciate having Miss Durrett with us. We had planned to elect new officers, but after discussing the matter it was decided that our present officers would serve for a few more months until the clubs and council can be organized.

After the business meeting, the program was turned over to Miss Durrett who discussed the buying and care of china and tableware. She also gave some helpful hints on the sewing of double knit material.

The Concho Co. Planning Meeting will be in Lowake on Feb. 2nd and the district meeting at Angelo State University on March 29th.

Our next meeting will be on Tuesday, Feb. 8th, in the home of Mrs. H. A. Belk.—Rep.

Grass Tetany May Affect Beef Cows

College Station, Tex.—If you've noticed beef cows in your herd acting rather nervous, irritable and belligerent, there's a good chance they are suffering from grass tetany.

"The condition results from a mineral imbalance and especially occurs during cold, cloudy wet weather," notes Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"If it is prolonged, muscular spasms, convulsions and death will occur."

Grass tetany often affects cows in late pregnancy or those nursing calves. During that time cows give up a great deal of their nutritional intake and reserves to support their calves. Unfavorable weather conditions put additional strain on the cows.

"A lack of magnesium and calcium in the animal's diet is the main cause of grass tetany," points out Armstrong. "A low energy diet also contributes to the condition."

To overcome conditions that may lead to grass tetany, the veterinarian recommends the use of mineral blocks containing magnesium oxide and supplemental feeding that will provide cows with additional energy.

Additionally, Armstrong urges livestock owners to reduce the animals' exposure to inclement weather as much as possible and to maintain some legume pastures. Legumes contain up to three times as much magnesium as most grasses.

"If animals are acting in an unusual manner or appear to be under stress, it's always a good idea to call a veterinarian at once," suggests Armstrong.

1971 Worst Screwworm Year Since 1968

Although 1971 with 444 cases confirmed was the worst year the Screwworm Eradication Program has suffered through in Texas since 1968, a backward glance to the beginning of the 10-year-old project shows just how much progress has been made.

In 1962 when the organized effort to rid the southwest United States of this warm-blooded animal pest began, nine different months had more cases reported than did all of 1971. A record of 49,494 infestations were identified at the Mission Center that year.

During 1968, the worst year recently, there were 9,268 cases counted, including more than the 1971 total in five separate months.

An increase last year was almost inevitable after the program had recorded the two previous years the lowest totals it had ever experienced, 161 cases in 1969 and only 92 in 1970.

Two hundred fifty-five of the screwworm cases identified by Dr. M. E. "Cotton" Meadows' team in 1971 were submitted in September and October in contrast to the two previous low-incidence years when the worms were most active in May, June and July.

January was the only month during '71 without a case of screwworm reported, although February had but one.

New Mexico had no cases for the second time in its history and California scored its first shutout, although records are complete only to 1965 there.

Oklahoma also reported no cases, (for the seventh straight year),

Lions Met Yesterday

The Lions Club met at noon yesterday in the Memorial Building with Boss Lion Bill Gunstead presiding at the monthly business session.

Lions Elton McGinnes, Walter Wallis, Bill Rountree, and Guy Whitaker recently attended the Mid-Winter Conference in Colorado City and they gave reports on the event.

The old Scout hall in the north part of town is to be sold for removal and proceeds used to help remodel and renovate the new hall.

The queen's contest for this Spring was also discussed and the committee will soon recommend a date. Details will be announced at a later time.

and Louisiana continued its longstanding record as a screwworm "oasis." Also among the eradication area states Louisiana has never reported a case of screwworm.

Arkansas, on the other hand, had 25 cases of the livestock pest in 1971. Arizona had four infestations.

The nation's total screwworm incidence in 1971 was 473 cases.

Austin.—A referendum on a proposed predator control program in the sheep and goat raising area of West Texas was authorized by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White after a public hearing here Friday.

The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association was granted the right to hold the election under provisions of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law. Bill Sims, executive secretary of the association, testified at the hearing that balloting will be by mail and will end at midnight March 28, 1972.

No opposition was voiced at the hearing to the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association being certified to conduct the referendum.

Sheep and goat producers in 73 counties of West Texas will vote on whether or not to allow deductions of 20 cents a head for sheep and 10 cents a head for goats to be used in the predator control program. Nine members of a board to administer the fund are also to be elected.

Sims said that coyotes are now the Number One enemy of sheep and goats. He estimated that the total loss to predators in 1967 was $3,089,985.

Sutton Allison, Fort Stockton rancher and president of the TS&GRA, spoke in behalf of the petition for the certification. Ben Baisdown, director of the Texas Department of Agriculture's Marketing Division, conducted the hearing for Commissioner White.
