County Receives Another Good Rain

While Eldorado received only a sprinkle, heavy clouds hung over Schleicher county all day Sunday and delivered a drenching to certain lucky ones.

The favored areas seemed to be southwest, west and northwest of Eldorado including the farming areas of Bailey Ranch and Reynolds.

A drive through these communities at 5:00 p.m. Sunday found all furrows in cultivated fields to be full of water and some small lakes standing in low places.

A number of phone calls on Monday revealed the following totals:

Northern Natural plant	3.50
Clemens Sauer	2.75
Parker Bros. Bailey Rch over	2.00
Peyton Cain, over	2.00
A. W. Keyes	2.40
W. C. Parks	3.65
Truett Stanford	4.00
S. D. Harper	1.50
Fred Case, over	2.25
Mary Davis Coupe	2.50
—and last:
Dick Preston Ranch	6.00

Late Tuesday, we still had some cloudy weather, with 40% chance of rain predicted.

Oil & Gas Important To County's Economy

Sale of Schleicher County oil and gas production accounted for $10,706,555 of the county's economic output for 1971, according to a study by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn.

In producing 1,999,899 barrels of crude oil and 24 billion cu. ft. of natural gas, the county ranked 100 in Texas. Value of its crude oil was $7,039,644; natural gas value was $3,666,911.

The county is among 190 Texas counties with oil and gas production value topping $100,000, although 211 counties produce oil and gas.

"Schleicher County oil and gas wells made a significant contribution to Texas' share of the nation's energy needs last year, but growing demand is sapping reserves in Texas faster than they can be replaced," Robert A. Buschman, Association president, said. "As fewer new fields are discovered, due to less drilling, the continuing strong economy and tax base of many Texas counties may now depend on updating Texas oil conservation laws to encourage wider use of new recovery techniques," he said.

The Association study showed that Schleicher County farmers, ranchers, and other royalty owners received $1,338,319 as their share of the production.

The county's wells generated $323,824 in crude oil production taxes for state government and $275,018 in state taxes on natural gas. Oil and gas producers spent $2,784,218 in drilling 44 wells in the county last year, $942,964 of which was lost in drilling 22 dry holes.

Texas Employment Commission figures showed 121 oil and gas industry employees in the county last year, with an annual payroll of $1,075,500.

Processing plants also added to the county's economy. The Oil and Gas Journal lists two natural gasoline plants, with a daily combined capacity of 61 million cu. ft.

Hobby Opposes Senate Seniority System

Houston, Tex.—Bill Hobby, Democratic nominee for Lt. Governor, today urged defeat of proposed rules changes which would establish a seniority system of committee assignments in the Texas Senate.

It was expected that such rules changes would be introduced in the special session of the Legislature which convened this week.

Hobby said the seniority system of committee assignments "has ill-served the nation in the U. S. Congress."

Although he is in favor of reducing the size and number of committees in the Senate, Hobby said the adoption of a seniority system hardly can be considered a "reform."

Hobby also questioned the wisdom and propriety of making such a major change at a lame-duck session, saying it might be viewed by some as an effort to bind a new Senate—almost half of whose members will be new in 1973.

The Whittens, Ike, Kathe, Trey and Tony were home for the class reunion of '62, from Irving, Texas. Buff Whitten from Corpus Christi, and Tom Whitten from Fort Dix, New Jersey, were also visiting. Del Rio, Tex.—The Amistad bass population got reinforcements in May.

Approximately 200,000 two- to four-inch fish were released in the huge Amistad Reservoir and more than 500,000 bass have been released in the waters this year.

Parks and Wildlife fish hatcheries also stocked 5,445 Rio Grande blue catfish in the lake last fall to add to the population of blues and channel cats.

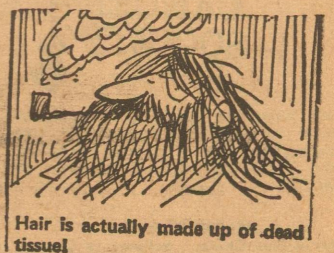

The lake is becoming a popular spot for trotline fishermen as well as rod and reel fishermen.

San Angelo Hatchery Stocks Fingerlings

The San Angelo Number One Fish Hatchery did a land office business in May, according to Al Pettit, hatchery superintendent for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The hatchery shipped 12,000 sunfish, 37,000 crappie and 44,000 bass fingerlings to public lakes and reservoirs in the West Texas area.

Crappie and sunfish are not available for stocking in private farm and ranch ponds but the hatchery stocked 20,575 bass in private waters last month. The bass were from three to four inches long.

Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

Austin, Texas.—"Leadership is hell."

That quote from a political leader came to mind during the 64th annual National Governor's Conference in Houston last week.

It's darned tough to serve as a public official these days.

Not just presidents, vice-presidents and candidates for presidents have their lives threatened—but governors and candidates for governor face physical threats these hectic days in America's political history.

This fact was brought to mind by the extremely tight security measures at the host hotel for the National Conference for state chief executives.

Security police, Texas Rangers, and state patrolmen almost outnumbered the governors, aides, newsmen and guests who were allowed to observe the proceedings at the important annual function of state heads of government.

Mrs. George Wallace, wife of the Alabama Governor, had six security men surrounding her when she moved around the corridors of the hotel.

When Vice President Spiro Agnew arrived, Secret Service men were all over the place. Even the hotel employees wore photo ident badges—reminiscent of defense plant and Navy installation days of World War II. We heard no complaints—except from one elderly hotel janitor who kept picking up walky-talky conversations between the security police on his hearing aid.

The three-day program of the state's chief executives was an "economic war" of sorts.

Principal topics of the conference revealed that financial problems are their top concerns—as they reviewed revenue sharing with the Federal government, financing of elementary and secondary education and funding the "war" against crime and drugs.

Host Governor Preston Smith and his staff and a hospitable Houston made the serious problems easier to study with a well-rounded entertainment program for the Governors, their families and staffs. An outdoor pool-side Texas western party, (appropriately by the world's largest swimming pool, according to the hotel staff), an excellent transportation organization delivering guests to all Houston entertainment and tourist facilities—and a formal ball with Duke Ellington's Orchestra completed the lighter side of the serious meet.

Other important topics of interest to Texans covered at the Conference were: diversification of industry to rural areas, a resolution requesting the appointment of a farmer as next Secretary of Agriculture of the United States; a NASA economic impact report for the states and the role of the states in national growth patterns. National political intrigue made the Conference more interesting with visits from Sen. George McGovern and Sen. Hubert Humphrey—and the appearance of Mrs. Wallace.

Special Session Meets

The Legislature convened in special session at midweek under lame duck leadership in both houses and the governor's office.

Gov. Preston Smith, defeated in his bid for re-election, pledged to offer a 1973 budget which would require no new taxes and, indeed, to allow no consideration of taxation.

It Gov. Ben Barnes, also defeated for governor, said Smith should show lawmakers how he proposes to trim appropriations.

House Speaker Rayford Price was defeated in his home district, as was Rep. Bill Finck of San Antonio, chairman of the budget-writing House appropriations committee.

Legislative Budget Board—which includes Barnes, Price and Finck among its members—calculated that even a "tight" 1973 budget would require $89.2 million in new revenue.

After a day-long session, the Board concluded its staff would just have to get together with Smith and see what he had on his mind.

The LBB staff-drawn budget called for $828.2 million in spending during the next fiscal year—or $89.2 million less than the revenue forecast.

Virtually certain to land on the special session agenda is new state officials' code of ethics legislation. Barnes said he will press for such a bill, and a House committee prepared its own version.

Legislature Altered

Primary elections assured a drastic shakeup among rank and file members of the legislature as well as the top leadership.

There will be at least 76 new members in the House of Representatives—a majority. The turnover rate is the highest since 1953 when 88 freshmen representatives took office. The November general elections may remove a few more of the incumbents, and no more than 74 present House members are assured of returning.

The Senate turnover rate is almost as high. At least 15 of 31 senators will be freshmen next year, and Republicans conceivably could gain another place.

Former House Speaker Gus Mutscher was among the veteran incumbents defeated.

Defeat of Price in the House set off another scramble for speaker. Rep. Price Daniel of Liberty claimed he already had the job racked up with 89 to 100 votes. Rep. Frank Calhoun of Abilene challenged him last week, expressed doubt that Daniel had anywhere near a majority and said he will begin his own campaign with about 50 dependable votes from moderates and conservatives.

Primary Changes Urged

Primary election costs topped estimates by nearly $400,000 and, a better, cheaper system has to be found, according to Secretary of State Bob Bullock.

Bullock advocated future primary elections be held and financed through county clerks' offices, with single polling places serving both major parties.

Such a system, said Bullock, would reduce primary costs by at least a third and increase efficiency. Bullock said he distributed $1.6 million to Democratic committees and $396,709 to Republican groups to pay the bulk of local primary costs.

Attorney General's Opinions

A person can serve as a State Parks and Wildlife Commissioner and school district trustee at the same time but can't draw any type of compensation, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

—Texas Water Quality Board may distribute "clean water" bumper stickers.

—Texas Tourist Development Agency may draw vouchers favoring the Confederate Air Force, Lower Rio Grande Valley and McAllen Chambers of Commercials for advertising and promotion.

—Shell redeposited on bay floors as pads for drilling barges can be removed only on permit.

—County employees cannot buy with county funds goods from a store owned by a county commissioner.

—Real property foreclosed by tax judgment can be purchased by the owner at a Sheriff's sale at its adjudged value although this is for an amount less than the full judgment. The judgment may be enforced for the balance against the tax debtor.

—A county operating under the optional county road law may continue to employ services of a qualified road administrator rather than a licensed professional engineer.

—A university shuttle bus driver may be under 21.

Short Snorts . . .

More than $8.9 million in bonds for construction at state universities in San Marcos, Huntsville, San Angelo and Alpine were sold to Texas Commerce Bank of Houston and another $5 million will be sold later this summer.

The State Department of Public Welfare will conduct a recertification drive to survey every applicant for Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits in an effort to "cleanse" Texas assistance rolls of ineligible recipients, according to Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell.

An Austin district court ordered the State Democratic Executive Committee to apportion senatorial district delegates to the national Democratic convention, after its chairman made the allocations without committee approval.

The Parks and Wildlife Department outlined plans to spend $1 million for improvements, including a lodge, baseball field and tennis courts at Lyndon B. Johnson Park near Stonewall.

September and October trial dates have been set for two present and two former state legislators charged with wrong-doing.

Calvin Guest of Bryan was new gubernatorial nominee Dolph Briscoe's choice for chairman of the June 13 state Democratic convention in San Antonio.

The Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation approved allocation of $3.77 million for construction and renovation of facilities at Rusk, Terrell, Big Spring, Corpus Christi, Kerrville and Vernon.

Dr. Truman G. Blocker Jr. of Galveston was named interim dean at the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio after Dr. F. Carter Pannill was removed.

Revenue from cigarette taxes jumped from $15 million to $21.1 million from May 1971 to last month.

An application has been filed for a state bank in Presidio.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a death penalty in a Fort Worth murder case in which the defendant had refused to consent to a search of his business or home.

Freezing Greens

Have a garden? If so, spring and summer meals will abound with fresh greens, such as mustard and spinach. What are you doing with the surplus? Do you have a home freezer or locker that enables you to conserve these greens for future use?

Preserving food means money in your pocket if you have the time and know-how. Greens provide vitamin A which is needed for growth, normal vision and health conditions of skin and other body surfaces.

Select mustard and spinach with young, tender leaves that are easy to freeze. Freeze as soon after picking as possible for highest quality. Prepare the greens as you would for cooking. Wash and remove tough stems and imperfect leaves. It's necessary to heat greens before freezing to slow or stop the action of enzymes. Until greens are ready to pick, enzymes help them grow. After that they cause loss of flavor and color. If not heated, the enzymes continue to be active during the frozen storage. The greens then develop off-flavors in a few months and discolor and toughen. Heating also wilts greens and makes them easier to pack. Heating too long results in softening of textures and an unnecessarily large loss of water soluble vitamins and minerals. So, put the greens in a blanching basket or a large kettle or sauce pan that can be covered or into which a fine mesh wire basket fits. It's possible to use a large cheese cloth bag in a covered sauce pan. Lower the basket or bag into boiling water and cover. Keep the heat high and begin counting the time immediately. Heat the mustard greens in boiling water for two minutes, and heat very tender spinach for 1½ minutes.

Plunge the heated greens into a large container of ice water or into cold running water. When the greens are cool, remove them from the water and drain. Pack the greens into moisture-vapor proof containers, leaving a half-inch of headspace if using jars or rigid containers. When working with plastic bags, press out the air before closing with a gooseneck twist. Freeze the greens immediately and store at zero degrees Fahrenheit or below. Otherwise the greens will be no better when you take them from the freezer than they were when you put them in. So remember—use fresh, tender greens, freeze as soon as possible and keep the freezer temperature at zero or below. Fluctuating temperatures lower quality. So gardeners, freeze your surplus greens for garden fresh flavor long after the season. It means money in your pocket and nutrients important for health.

Giving A Spring Luncheon

The key to a successful, enjoyable luncheon is planning every detail in advance and making many of the dishes ahead of time. Last-minute storming about does not result in a shower of compliments. A buffet menu is particularly feminine and appealing. Serve chicken almond mousse as the main dish. Filled with chicken pieces and topped with creamy cottage cheese, it's delicately flavored and textured but hearty in protein. Buttered hot rolls and well-chilled milk round out the menu. For dessert, treat guests with strawberry tarts.

To prepare chicken mousse salad, combine one 3-ounce package of lime-flavored gelatin, one tablespoon (one envelope) unflavored gelatin and 1½ cups boiling water in a bowl. Stir until the gelatin dissolves. Blend in one cup warm chicken stock. Add three cups finely diced chicken, three-fourths cup finely diced celery, one-half cup chopped almonds, two-thirds cup finely chopped cucumber, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, one tablespoon lemon juice and two teaspoons salt to the gelatin mixture. Chill until jelly-like in consistency, then carefully fold in one cup whipping cream that's been whipped. Turn into a mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until set. Unmold in chilled platter. Spread top of salad with one cup cottage cheese and edge with parsley. Flowers made from white turnips tinted with yellow food coloring add a gay spring touch. Chicken, dairy products and strawberries, plentiful in supply, now carry attractive prices.

Time for forage production this year is fast running out. There is only 124 days left for summer growing plants to make their growth before the first frost. Management needed to produce the maximum amount of forage for use by livestock and wildlife, will be one of the most important factors involved.

Rainfall in the amount needed, will be one of the most important factors affecting forage production that is not controllable by man. The right management of the grass now on the land will keep the maximum amount of the rainfall received where it falls and is needed. A good vegetative cover at all times is one of the best tools that can be used to keep the water where it falls for maximum forage production. How much rainfall received is important, but it's the rain that is kept that counts.

Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting ranchers in Soil Conservation Districts have made numerous tests on moisture penetration following rains. Here are some interesting and revealing examples of moisture penetrations. From an article in The Cattleman, written by C. A. Rechenthin of the Soil Conservation Service.

On a denuded range near Robert Lee moisture from a badly needed 2.25 inch rain penetrated only three inches. This means that only about one-half inch of the rain soaked in; the other one and three-fourths inches, or 75%, ran off. Within four days, the range was parched and shimmering in the hot sun because the little moisture that soaked in had evaporated.

You had to count that 2.25 inch rain as a total loss on bare rangeland. Rechenthin's statement concluded.

Ranchers throughout all America have learned by experience that they can do many things that will assure maximum forage production.

One of these important conservation practices is deferred grazing. Deferred grazing promotes ree vegetation by increasing the vigor of the forage stand and permits desirable plants to produce seed. Feed reserve for fall and winter grazing or emergency use and the improvement of hydrologic conditions are more of the benefits of deferment.

"Another system of deferment known as rotation—deferred grazing system is now being used throughout this area" states Lloyd B. Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service. Some of the many advantages of a rotation-deferred grazing system are: the vegetation improves in mulch cover, plant vigor, and spread of the better species of plants. Forage has more variety and yield. Many more advantages of this system will not be mentioned here. However, this last one should be of interest to all ranchers, more net return per acre.

Proper grazing use is another of the practices needed to produce the maximum amount of forage per acre for use by domestic livestock and wildlife. Proper grazing use is leaving 50% or more, by weight of the annual growth at the end of the grazing season on the grass species selected to judge proper use (the Key species) on the key area in each pasture.

The principal target for ranchers should always be the most efficient livestock production possible.

In striving to accomplish this goal the right use and treatment of all rangeland must be carried out. By applying and maintaining all the needed soil, water and plant conservation practices on rangeland the maximum amount of forage can be produced. Without any doubt the most net income should be achieved when maximum potential forage is produced and properly utilized by domestic livestock and wildlife.

Honey Peach Muffins

Feeling the urge to return to basics? Satisfy that longing with Honey Peach Muffins.

Bread is basic — as old as civilization. These muffins team with honey and fruit for a wholesome treat. Sweetened with honey and laced with golden nuggets of fruit, they will liven up any breakfast, especially for those problem eaters who often skip that important first meal.

Honey Peach Muffins are a nice way to end the day, too. Split them and fill with billows of whipped topping, and you have a dessert. You can stir practically anything into a muffin — chopped nuts, fruits, spices, herbs, crumbled bacon, what-have-you. At the same time, you'll serve the basic nutrition needs of your family, too. Enriched flour contributes the B-vitamins — thiamine, niacin and riboflavin — and the mineral, iron — all nutrients needed for good health everyday.

HONEY PEACH MUFFINS

- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tablespoon oil
- Whipped topping, optional

Fill greased muffin cups 2/3 full. Bake in preheated 425° oven 20 to 25 minutes or until done. Serve warm with whipped topping, if desired.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.
NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

Cheeseburgers Diners' Choice

Looking for a change-of-pace entree for tonight's dinner? Take a clue from the famed cheeseburger and treat with Fried Cheeseburgers Deluxe. They vary from the standard burger as the bun is replaced with a crisp bread crumb coating; the cheese is ladled atop in a creamy sauce.

A meatloaf-type mixture of seasoned ground beef is shaped into patties and coated first with eggs, then with bread crumbs. Instead of pan frying or broiling, these burgers are deep fat fried to a golden brown. Count on the burgers being extra flavorful as they're made with quick or old fashioned oats that lock in natural juices. Served with a generous topping of cheese sauce, these hearty burgers will deliciously revolutionize your family's whole concept of cheeseburgers.

FRIED CHEESEBURGERS DELUXE
 Makes 4 servings

Cheese Sauce:	1/2 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
1 tablespoon butter or margarine	1/2 cup tomato sauce
2 teaspoons all-purpose flour	1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/2 cup milk	1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shredded process American cheese	1/4 teaspoon pepper

Burgers:
 1 lb. ground beef
 2 eggs, beaten
 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

For cheese sauce, melt butter in a small saucepan. Stir in flour until smooth. Gradually add milk. Bring to a boil and simmer 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in shredded cheese until melted. Keep warm until ready to serve.

For burgers, combine ground beef, oats, tomato sauce, minced onion, salt and pepper. Shape to form 4 patties. Dip patties in beaten eggs; then coat with dry bread crumbs. Dip in eggs and bread crumbs a second time. Fry in hot fat (375°F.) about 6 minutes for medium doneness. Drain on paper towels. Serve with warm cheese sauce.

Crop Reports From Farmers Needed

In early July, some 22,000 Texas farmers will receive an acreage and production questionnaire from Charles E. Caudill, Agricultural Statistician for the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin, Texas.

This information will be the basis for determining harvested acreage and production of early harvested crops for the State of Texas and for each county. There are 254 counties in Texas, and reports are needed from many farmers so that each county will be well represented. Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketings and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture.

The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that state totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry—agriculture. This is a cooperative effort of USDA's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Screwworm Fly Quality Is Discussed

Mission, Tex.—The quality control phase of the Mission Screwworm Eradication Program undergoes rigid security measures at all times, a spokesman for the U. S. Department of Agriculture facility said today.

Dr. M. E. (Cotton) Meadows, Jr., program director, emphasized that security measures are accelerated during major screwworm outbreaks including the present epidemic.

"We are constantly checking the quality of flies we produce to make sure that we are getting 100% sterility," Meadows said.

The quality control section has the day-to-day responsibility to determine that the fly quality remains uniformly sterile. Irradiated flies are tested for sterility by a sampling method. Fifteen pupae from each canister irradiated are caged, and when the flies are seven days old, they are provided with suitable conditions for egg laying.

"Throughout the program, irradiated females have not been capable of developing and laying egg masses. Occasionally, a female will lay a single or several deformed eggs that never hatch. The inability of irradiated females to produce viable eggs is the same now as in the past," Meadows said.

Quality control workers also check on fly emergence, longevity and condition of flies at time of release. Fly emergence continues high with about 97% of all pupae producing flies.

Meadows explained that under controlled laboratory conditions, from 50 to 75% of the flies live for seven days.

Present-Day Cowboy Battling Old Enemy

College Station.—The art of being a cowboy has changed over the years and many hardships of yesteryear have long been forgotten. But there's an old enemy back on the scene after having laid low for a few years. He's a destructive creature that is causing many livestock producers to cringe at the thought of how things were a decade ago. The old enemy is the screwworm.

"Times have changed and so has the life style and working habits of the modern cowboy," says L. A. Maddox, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Furthermore, the aging process must be dealt with. The top cowboy of yesteryear isn't as agile as he was a few years back, and he's probably lost some of his roping and riding expertise."

That cowboy has relied heavily on the Screwworm Eradication Program to keep the destructive flesh-eating insect under control during the past 10 years. The program has been highly successful until this spring when a multitude of circumstances brought on the worst screwworm outbreak since the program began in 1962.

So now the call goes out to all cattlemen to get out of the pickup or jeep, saddle up the horse and ride the range to check all stock regularly for screwworm infestations.

"This is a job that must be done if herds are to be kept free of the pest or if infested animals are to be treated," emphasizes Maddox. "However, labor has become a problem as many ranches no longer can afford to keep the bunkhouse filled to capacity. Also, the weekend rancher from the city is generally unaccustomed to checking his livestock regularly or does not have the means to do so.

"Unless individual animals are checked regularly and frequently, the screwworm situation will continue to worsen," points out the specialist. "In order for the sterile fly drops to be effective, screwworm infestations must be pinpointed. This can only be done by the cattleman."

Maddox also cautions cattlemen to put off all operations such as dehorning, castrating and branding until the fall when cold weather arrives. "A wound is an open invitation for a screwworm fly to lay her eggs. Officials of the Screwworm Eradication Program report that almost 90% of all confirmed screwworm cases are from man-made wounds and the navels of young calves."

If infested wounds are found, worm samples should be collected and the wound treated with a recommended material. The worm sample should be sent to the Screwworm Lab, Box 969, Mission. Containers for mailing worm samples are available at any county Extension office.

Wound Treatment Vital In Screwworm Battle

College Station.—Farmers and ranchers across Texas can play a big role in battling the present screwworm outbreak by treating any and all animal wounds. That's why it's so important to check animals frequently during the next few months until cold weather reduces fly activity.

A number of approved commercial screwworm remedies and wound protectants are available, says Dr. Weldon Newton, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These include coumaphos (Co-Ral) as a 5% dust and 3% aerosol, ronnel (Korlan) as a 5% aerosol, and lindane as a 3% smear or aerosol.

"All of these materials should be used in strict accordance with label instructions and restrictions," emphasizes the Texas A&M University entomologist. "These precautions are necessary so as to avoid possible residue hazards in meat or milk."

Local farm supply stores should have one or more of the approved materials on hand. If not, they can order them from their wholesale distributors, points out Newton.

The entomologist also encourages all producers to spray their herds regularly to keep down fly numbers. This should be done about every two weeks with ronnel or coumaphos. Again, label instructions and restrictions should be followed carefully when treating meat or dairy animals.

Newton urges all farmers and ranchers to especially check newborn calves and to apply a wound protectant to the navel. "Almost 90% of all confirmed screwworm cases are from calf navels and man-made wounds caused by dehorning, castrating, branding, docking or other surgical operations. All wounds should be treated as soon as possible. However, it's best to delay any animal surgery until this fall after cold weather arrives," adds the entomologist.

GOD SPEAKS TO YOU NOW

DO YOU DESIRE TO IMPROVE, OR MAINTAIN YOUR PHYSICAL HEALTH? GOD HAS GIVEN PLAIN INSTRUCTIONS THAT ARE THE FOUNDATION FOR BUOYANT PHYSICAL HEALTH. THE KEY NOTE OF WHICH IS TEMPERANCE, WHICH MEANS SELF CONTROL.

First Corinthians 9:24-27 gives simple instructions on this point. The great Apostle Paul found it necessary to keep his body under control. Appetites, passions, strong drives are all good under control, but out of control, like fire or water, they are terribly destructive. You, and you alone, can control, and direct these drives for your good health.

Another important factor in good mental and physical health is freedom from worry. It is a proven scientific fact that many diseases, and ailments have been traced directly to mental attitudes as a cause. That cause can be cured by you when you believe God's word and follow its divine instructions. Listen to Philippians 4:6-7: "Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the Peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." What did he say?

Don't worry about anything, instead pray about everything, tell God your needs, and don't forget to thank him for his answers, and the peace of mind that only God can give will keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. Freedom from worry, peace of mind does promote good health. —J. Loyd Rice

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By The Ministerial Alliance of Eldorado

"A Meditation On Prayer"

Many centuries ago a group of young men came to their Master Teacher and made a request, which many repeat today. There is a universal need for prayer, (Ps. 65, 2). "Lord, teach us to pray," was their request. "Teach us to pray" is vitally essential in the know-how of Christian living. Prayer is associated with watchfulness, (Matt. 26:41 Mark 13:33). Many of us would like to pray more effectively. Prayer is treasurer in Heaven, (Rev. 8:3-4).

What is prayer? We know, of course that there has been thousands of attempts to define prayer, but, actually, prayer cannot be defined, even as life cannot be defined. Prayer is as wide and as deep as life itself. It is vaster than human life, because it transcends humanity and reaches to the heart of God, (Acts 4:31).

We may illustrate prayer, but we cannot define it. Prayer is expressing one's self to the promptings of God. Prayer is taking hold of God's willingness. Prayer is the mind spirit in the presence of God. It is helplessness casting itself upon divine power. It is surrendering one's heart to God. Prayer is to the soul what blood is to the body. Prayer is the mirror into which we look to see a true portrait of ourselves. Prayer is giving God an opportunity to do for us what He has always wanted to do. Prayer is not asking God to do what we wish, but asking Him to help us do what He desires us to do: Prayer is opening the windows of our souls to let in the sunlight of God's power. Prayer is obedience to Christ who gave us ways, places and attitudes in which we should pray. Men should think and pray.

Prayer is not a substitute for thinking. Do not leave your intelligence outside the door when you move into the realm of prayer, for prayer is the highest exercise of the human mind. It is in prayer that the mind finds its greatest fulfillment, work and pray, watch and pray, think and pray.

Prayer is a means of gathering strength for the task ahead, and strength to face the storm without turning back. Prayer is to the spiritual nature what food and water are to the physical body—it gives it strength and power. We should learn to pray wherever we are. Pray when you go for that evening stroll, before you retire. Pause often and give thanks to God for the beauty around you. Pray in the morning when you feel rested, and you go out to face the new day, face it with God. Pray in church when the choir is singing, and during the sermon.

Jesus said, "My house shall be called a house of prayer." Keep prayer simple; we are never too old to say, "Now I lay me down to sleep I pray Thee Lord my soul to keep."

Do not ask God to change His will; ask Him to keep you bringing your will in harmony with His.

"Lord teach us to pray." Let us make our prayer life real and thus we shall walk with God. —Fred Cox

HONEYMOON

The wedding bells rang, the bride was radiant, the groom's mother cried, just a little, and the maid of honor caught the bouquet. It was a perfect wedding, and the honeymoon has been ideal.

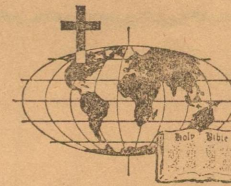

Tomorrow, this young couple will be going home to begin a new way of life. In it, reality will be combined with romance. There will be the blending of two temperaments under a single roof. There will be all the frustrations of daily living, and the pain as well as the pleasure that comes with just being alive.

How will they adjust? That depends on the basics that were taught to them years ago, in their own homes—and in church.

Dolph Briscoe Thanks Voters Of Texas

Austin, Texas.—Dolph Briscoe, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, thanked the people of Texas and reaffirmed his pledge to provide honesty and effectiveness in state government in his victory statement delivered here last Saturday evening.

Greeted at campaign headquarters by reporters, campaign workers and exuberant supporters, Briscoe, accompanied by his wife, Janey, and their three children, was immediately shuttled off to a press conference. Under the brightness of television camera lights, he issued the following statement:

"There are many people I want to thank tonight: First in my heart is my wife, Janey, and our three children, for the strength they have given me and for the confidence they have in my ability to serve Texas.

"I also want to thank the countless number of people throughout the state who have actively worked for my campaign, particularly those who came forward during the early days last Fall when some observers gave us little hope of upsetting the political power structure. It is those people in every county of Texas who put aside their own personal lives many times to do that extra bit of work which always makes the difference between a winning campaign and a losing one.

"And, of course, I want to thank the people of Texas, all the people who gave us their warm welcome to our great cities and our wonderful small towns. I want to thank the people who believed in me and who voted for me and who offered encouragement every step of the way. Our victory tonight and a victory in November will mean that Texas is going to have a new government. I am going to do everything within my power as a human being and utilize every resource of the Governor's office to see that ours is a government which is responsive to the people. I will work to make it a government which works openly and effectively for progressive change. It will be a government which will strive to leave behind it a mark of excellence and not the stain of irresponsibility."

Apollo 15 moon walking astronaut, Colonel James B. Irwin (right) receives a specially inscribed copy of "The Living Bible" by the Book's translator, Kenneth N. Taylor. Taylor was invited to the N.A.S.A. spacecraft center in Houston by Irwin to present a "Living Bible" to all 43 astronauts in the program. The one-millionth copy of the newly published, contemporary language Bible was received by Irwin in the Mission Control Room, where he was the capsule communicator during the Apollo 16 flight. Irwin carried and read a Bible while he was on the moon last August.
