Edmiston Named To Ross Volunteers

College Station, Texas.—William E. Edmiston of Eldorado has been selected for membership in the Ross Volunteers, Texas A&M University's elite honor military unit.

The Ross Volunteers Company was formed in 1887, 11 years after the university enrolled its first class, making it the oldest student organization in Texas. Juniors in TAMU's Cadet Corps are selected on the basis of character, military achievement, disciplinary and academic records and extracurricular activities.

Ninety cadets were selected from several hundred applications.

RVs form the honor guard at the inauguration of the Governor of Texas, serve as honor guard for King Rex during the annual Mardi Gras Parade in New Orleans, escort distinguished guests at TAMU and represent the university at a variety of special functions.

Edmiston, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Edmiston of Route 1, is a 1970 graduate of Eldorado High School. He currently is scholastic sergeant in the 1st Brigade of the Corps and is enrolled in range science studies.

Edmiston also is a member of Alpha Zeta fraternity, Range Science club, and American Society for Range Management.

Standard Time To Come Back Sunday

The last Sunday in October, coming up the 29th, will mark the semi-annual change from Daylight Saving Time back to Standard Time.

Clocks move back officially one hour at 2:00 a.m. Sunday to 1:00 a.m., but unless you are working a night shift for an oil company or hospital, the easiest way to take care of it is to simply set your time pieces back an hour before going to bed Saturday night.

Standard Time will remain in effect in Texas and over the nation for the coming six-month period, until the last Sunday in April, '73.

So this week end, everyone will get an extra hour of sleep. If you forget to re-set your time pieces, you will be an hour early for church services Sunday.

Lions To Meet At Restaurant Nov. 1st

The Eldorado Lions Club will meet in the El Dorado Restaurant this coming Wednesday, Nov. 1st, at 12:05 Noon.

Boss Lion Elton McGinnes said that the District Governor would make his official visit that day to the local club.

All Lions are urged to make special effort to attend the club meeting next Wednesday.

Social Security Man To Be Here Today

Johnny Grammer, Field Representative for the San Angelo Social Security Office, has scheduled his October visit to Eldorado. He will be at the County Courthouse on Thursday, October 26th (today) from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.

Post Script

Here as elsewhere, interest in the upcoming General Election continues to be rather low key. If there is much active campaigning going on, we have not heard about it.

Monday morning, the County Clerk's office here had processed 48 absentee votes. But they expect about 200 by the Nov. 3rd deadline for voting absentee.

Sample ballots, printed on colored paper, are available, free for the taking, at the County Clerk's office and here at the Success.

Voters may pick them up and are urged to study them carefully ahead of the time you go to vote. But remember that you CANNOT take a Sample Ballot with you to consult when you go to the polls to vote. To do so would be a violation of the Election Code. That rule applies whether you vote absentee ahead of time, or whether you go in person to vote on Election Day—the 7th of November.

The old abandoned car mentioned in this column two weeks ago disappeared from its place on Main Street some time Sunday morning.

It was hauled off by Scooter Paul Jr., operator of Shamrock service station in the south part of town. His plans include either salvage or restoration.

The old derelict mentioned in this paper two weeks ago, had recently acquired a new brand. It was a legal notice attached to the windshield by the City of Eldorado and signed by the Mayor. It stated that the old inoperative car was a nuisance and would be disposed of after a period of 10 days.

Notice was dated October 17 and the 10-day period would have been Friday, Oct. 27.

Mr. Paul hauled it off on Sunday, Oct. 22.

Building going on:

Johnny Mayo has torn down an old garage and added a new large carport onto his house, which is the former Joab Campbell house near the court house.

Coy Bishop has re-built the awning on the front of his building on South Main, which now houses his B&B Campers enterprise.

Foundation work has been started on Dr. Brame's new house on his acreage to the north of town.

Around the business district:

Lee's drive in across from the school has been remodeled and repainted in recent weeks. Lee Halbert announces that she will have the drive-in open again for business on Monday morning. More details are in her ad on page 5.

Work continues on the Kwik Thrift store (former Earl Parker building). Workmen were installing the ceiling this week. The store is to be open for business about the first week in November.

Peters' boot was the only score either team could manage in the hard defensive game. With only 11 seconds left in the fourth quarter, Gene Nixon saved the win for Eldorado intercepting a pass on the last play of the game.

Junction dropped its fourth game in seven tries while Eldorado moved to a 3-4 on the year. In District 9-A play Eldorado is 2-1 and Junction is 0-3.

County in Good Shape From Additional Rain

From 2 to over 3 inches of moisture fell over the county during the past week and was hailed as great benefit to winter feed crops and native ranch land.

As far as the cotton farmer is concerned the rains have delayed harvest but at the same time have not hurt the crop.

All are waiting for the ground to dry so they can get into the fields to defoliate after which a rush to the gin can be expected.

With the season already late, some are speculating: should they go ahead now and defoliate or wait until a freeze. Reynolds community seems to be the area that will come up with the bigger crop.

The following totals picked up Monday reveal that precipitation was general over the county and over 2 inches was reported by all contacted:

Parker Bros. Bailey ranch	3.00
C. C. McBurnett ranch	2.50 to 3.00
Forrest Runge ranch	3.20

Austin, Tex.—Competitive auto and homeowners insurance rating legislation failed to clear the special session, but Gov. Preston Smith claimed the gathering served a purpose.

Smith, disappointed at a logjam in conference committee on the session's windup night, declined to call lawmakers back to work as he had hinted he might. He said he and legislative leaders decided another session now would be fruitless.

The Governor announced he will make recommendations for "thorough reform" of the insurance regulatory system before he leaves office in January.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that because of the exposure and public attention that this issue has received during the past 30 days, competitive rates and other insurance reform can and will be approved."

He cited these accomplishments of this session in addition to those which had been wrapped up earlier:—Establishment of a Texas Off-shore Commission to define the role and responsibility of State government in developing a deep draft offshort port for supertankers.

—Relaxing of trailer and brake lighting requirements for trailers.

—An increase in funds by $1 million for the Anderson County junior college occupational extension center.

—Defining the legal age at which both male and female youth offenders can be tried as adults.

—Appropriation of $211,372 for a citrus and vegetable training center and improved beef production programs at Texas A&I University.

The Legislature also passed a bill to lower rates in the hurricane windstorm insurance pool for coastal areas. It petitioned Congress for a constitutional convention on an anti-busing amendment.

Allowable Maintained
 For the eighth straight month, the statewide oil allowable will be retained at 100% for November.

Production is expected to be slightly more than 3,500,000 barrels a day.

Major oil buyers requested 3,753,055 barrels of crude daily next month, a decrease of 23,538 from the October record.

Texas crude stocks totaled 97.6 million barrels on October 6, a decrease of 4.2 million from the October, 1971, level.

Death Penalty Restored Out
 A bill to restore the death penalty for certain cases of murder started too late to get through the Legislature in special session.

It was knocked out in both the House and Senate because it had not emerged from committees until the last 72 hours of the session. The legislation sought to permit the death penalty (outlawed by the U. S. Supreme Court) in cases of atrocity murder, murder by hired assassins, murder of prison guards, intentional homicide during kidnapping, rape, burglary, robbery or arson, murder of a policeman or fireman and killings during prison escapes.

Short Snorts . . .
 Presidential candidate George McGovern received an exceptionally warm welcome to the Texas capitol during his last visit to Texas.

Efforts to raise hunting and fishing license fees failed in the House of Representatives. Another try will be made next year.

Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville will head a national campaign for a constitutional convention to prohibit forced busing to achieve racial balance in public schools.

A $49,000 national grant will help Texas A&M Agricultural Experimental Station finance a study of the gulf shrimp industry.

Sen. John Tower advised Texas farmers and ranchers who suffered crop, livestock or property losses from natural disaster since June 30 they may be eligible for federal assistance.

A charter is being sought for Heritage Bank in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stovall of Fresno California, have been visiting relatives in Eldorado. Mrs. Stovall was formerly Elizabeth Griffin.

"Faith A Way Of Life"
 Galatians 1:23-24

Paul set an example to be followed. He preached Faith, and by example said that Faith should be preached. Other scriptures suggest that Faith makes unity in the Church.

There is a great need for Faith today. The word "Christian" is too loosely used: Is a Christian a person who is merely moral or decent? Or is a Christian primarily one who lives by certain great but simple and concrete affirmations about God, life, history, duty and neighbors?

The time is past to be ashamed of "Creed" or theology. It is not enough just to do decent things. It is important to believe the right things. A creed is a credo which people affirm, with life and verbal testimony, in the face of the world. The word "believe" means "by life." To believe is to live by what you affirm.

Everyone has a creed. We all live by certain standards, either good or bad. Life must have structure, guidance, direction. The person who has never taken a stand on anything has a creed. His way of life is an expression of the things he holds dear, and every man has a "theology," a set of intellectual reasons for the things by which he lives.

The great issue in life is not the possession of a creed or theology, but the great issue is whether our creed is right and our theology true. What do we believe? In whom do we trust? Is what we believe—and we must believe if we would live—really true? What we believe is more important than what we eat, drink or wear. We are what we love with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength. The love of our neighbor is determined by what we think of ourselves. "Love your neighbor as yourself." As we regard ourselves, so will we regard our neighbor. Our faith will determine what we think of ourselves, and what we think of ourselves determines our regard of our neighbor.

But what is faith? Thick volumes have been written about it. There are many definitions of faith. One have called it obedience, others knowledge plus trust. Others have regarded it as confidence in a body of truth—such as the "Faith of our Fathers."

Faith is all of these and more. Faith is personal response to the highest we know. It is knowledge which has grown confident, knowledge that has become enthusiastic.

It is through faith that we allow God to enter our lives with His life-giving truth and love.

Faith is adventure with Christ. It takes Christ at His word. It is the open mind, the believing spirit and hopeful attitude. Such faith overcomes the world. It changes things. It gives God Glory. It moves mountains of difficulties. It sets the face forward. It dissolves fear and doubt.

Faith is losing ourselves in Christ that thereby we may really find ourselves anew in that which makes men truly children of God.

—Rev. Fred Cox

TB Christmas Seals Being Delivered

Christmas Seals are now being delivered to residents of Schleicher County. The mailing marks the annual Christmas Seal campaign kick-off throughout the 32 West Texas counties of the Big Country Area of the Texas Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

According to Mrs. Kaye Peterson, BCA Board Member from Eldorado, the slogan "There's More To Do—Give More To Christmas Seals," is especially fitting. Donations from the seals "give the gift of life and breath in the year-round fight against emphysema, tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases. In addition, the seals spread good cheer in the holiday season through their uses on holiday cards and packages."

Mrs. Peterson noted that monies received are spent generously in research and health education. Emphysema, a chronic respiratory disease, is second among disabilities for which workers are awarded Social Security benefits. Bronchitis, emphysema and asthma combined rank ninth among causes of disease deaths, with emphysema being the fastest growing cause of death in this country.

Headquarters for the Big Country Area—TTRDA are in San Angelo. Further information on the activities and program of the Christmas Seal association is available by writing P. O. Box 1022, San Angelo, TX 76901.

Is now the time to buy land?

Acquiring that farm might seem more practical with financing through the Federal Land Bank. Land is easier to pay off when costs are amortized over extra years with a long-term Land Bank Loan. Your total cost of borrowing, too, can be less. Ask us for help: We know land values; we will inspect the property. We will then try to make a loan that meets your exact needs.

Recycled Appliances? Maybe

Dr. Thomas Goodgame, Whirlpool Corporation's director of environmental control, inspects rail car loaded with scrapped appliances. The appliances, which have been compacted to reduce their volume, will be used in a pilot test to study the feasibility of recycling them into reusable steel products.

Now that paper, cans and glass as well as other material is successfully being recycled, industry is interested in determining if appliances can be also. This question is currently being studied by Whirlpool Corporation with the assistance of Inland Steel in a research project which will examine the practical feasibility of recycling scrapped major household appliances.

A pilot test program is being conducted to study various ways of processing worn-out appliances for reusable steel. According to Dr. Thomas Goodgame, Whirlpool's director of environmental control, the test project will study the "separation and compaction" process.

This process requires the removal of all metals from an appliance which are not desirable in the steel manufacturing process, such as large quantities of copper and brass. With most major household appliances, this would include the motors and compressors.

The appliances will then be compacted and shipped to Inland Steel for "test" melts to determine what steelmaking problems are encountered in the use of prepared appliance scrap.

It is hoped that the scrapped appliances can be reconverted into new steel mill products. According to reports of the U. S. Council on Environmental Quality, the disposal of appliances is considered to be a minor problem because they only amount to about one per cent of all U. S. solid wastes.

Goodgame stated, however, that "it is never too early to be concerned with problems that may affect our environment in the future."

Screwworm Cases

Screwworm cases in the county from October 11 to 19 numbered 19 cases.

National Emergency Declared On Hog Cholera

Swine producers in Schleicher county should take special note that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has declared a national emergency due to hog cholera.

To provide further protection, the USDA also recently banned imports of live hogs and fresh pork from countries where the disease exists. Recent outbreaks of the swine disease in a number of mid-western and southeastern states threaten the nation's $4.5 billion pork industry. However, there have been no outbreaks in Texas since July 28 and all state and federal quarantines have been lifted.

Yet, the USDA still lists Texas along with Nebraska, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, New Jersey, North Carolina and South Carolina as those states that are not "hog cholera free."

Garden Cleanup Reduces Plant Diseases

Gardeners can help hold down future plant disease problems by practicing some simple preventive maintenance this fall.

Plant disease organisms usually overwinter in infected plant parts such as leaves, stems and rotted or dried up fruits. Removal of such infested plant material from flower beds or the garden will help reduce diseases next year.

Remove infected leaves and fruits from the plant, and prune back stems below the infection site. When pruning, cut back branches six or more inches before the last sign of infection. A disinfectant dip for the pruning instrument, such as a 10% solution of household bleach, is recommended to avoid mechanical spread of the disease.

Fall plowing can follow this clean-up. Deep burial of plant residues is one method of disease control that has been successfully utilized by farmers for many years.

Diseases can't be completely eliminated by clean-up practices, but a homeowner who cleans up his garden in the fall will have fewer plant disease problems next year.

Plastic Hanger Hazard

Plastic hangers can be a hazard to clothes—under certain conditions. Clothes cleaned in a coin-operated dry cleaning establishment may smell of cleaning fluid and actually have an excess of fluid still in the fabric. Sometimes enough solvent is left in heavy or dense fabrics to soften the plastic hangers—even though the fabric doesn't feel damp. Then the hanger sticks to the fabric so that it's difficult to remove without damaging the garment. To prevent this, air the clothes thoroughly before use or storage. It's a good idea to hang them outdoors or in a well-ventilated room on metal or covered hangers other than plastic.

Sticking also can occur if garments are hung on plastic hangers and then exposed to fumes from moth preventatives such as paradichlorobenzene.

Buying Insurance By Mail

Mail order insurance policies can be worthwhile if the consumer is fully aware of what he is buying. If he isn't, later he may find that his insurance doesn't pay for things he mistakenly thought it did.

Four points are important in studying an insurance policy.

First, the buyer should understand what happens if he has any "pre-existing" health conditions.

Second, he should know how much his policy will pay per day.

Third, he should check time limitations on collecting money from the company.

Fourth, he should learn how much he must pay in premiums.

Check with the Texas State Insurance Board at 1110 San Jacinto, Austin, Texas 78701, to determine whether the mail order offer is from a company licensed to sell insurance in Texas and whether the company is financially sound.

Mrs. C. W. Sudduth of Dallas visited here recently with her mother, Mrs. Thelma Childers.

Sybil Blair visited in Austin recently with her daughter, Ann, the Kenneth Penningtons and family.

Eldorado-Divide District News

The time of harvest is the time of the year that all farmers look forward to with hopes of good yields. Since yields are dependent on many factors, they can vary considerably from one year to another. One of the most important elements that affects crop yields each year is the amount of water crops receive and when the water is received.

During the drouth years of the 1950's numerous wells were drilled for the purpose of irrigating. With the irrigation water, farmers planned to supplement rainfall received whereby a good crop could be produced each year.

With irrigation added to the farming enterprise, many new farming operations were also added. One of the most important operations was getting the water distributed evenly throughout the entire field without loss of water. This proved to be similar to the management of rainfall received. Something had to be done to make the best use of both rainfall and irrigation water.

Since irrigation first began in the District there has been 500 acres of land leveled. The purpose of land leveling was to alter the topography of the land whereby efficient use of irrigation water could be achieved; to make efficient use of rainfall, prevent erosion, and facilitate proper soil and water management.

Land leveling eliminates the side movement of water permitting the water to be applied to the same depth across the area being irrigated. This eliminates the waste of water that occurs when the lower side of each area being watered gets too much water and the upper side doesn't get enough water.

With little or no difference in the elevations in land leveled fields, water depths will be nearly the same throughout the entire width and length. A more efficient application of irrigation water can be obtained on level land. Also any rainfall that is received is held where it falls evenly distributed over the field. Thus better use is made of rainfall.

Probably one of the most important factors effected by land leveling is the opportunity time of irrigation water as well as rainfall, states Lloyd B. Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service. The opportunity time is the time water has to go into the soil at each location along the area being irrigated. To get a given amount of water in the soil water must be held on the area for the time required to get the water into the soil. Soils that take water slowly and are not leveled, need more time to apply the water needed to reach field capacity. Most soils in the district require a long opportunity time to get the needed water into the soil.

The best crop production possible is what most farmers strive for. Leveled land, whether it is irrigated or dry cropland, is one of the main factors that helps farmers attain this objective. In addition to top yields, many other advantages are brought about by land leveling. One of the advantages that is very important is: land properly leveled is easier to irrigate. Irrigation water does not take off down the hill across the side slope or in the direction of irrigation. Knowing the length of time required to get the water needed into the soil, the irrigation set can be left until about time for change to next area to be irrigated. In most cases the inlet end of field irrigated receives a little more water than the opposite end. The amount of water that goes into the soil can be kept more nearly the same throughout area irrigated on leveled land. Uniformity of crops throughout the area irrigated are more nearly the same and therefore harvesting is easier and more efficient.

Irrigation to be profitable requires good yields consistently. To attain good yields all the needed factors that effect yields must be considered. To attain maximum potential yields all needed conservation practices must be applied and maintained.
