put off until next week (tolay) a decision on when to seek an djournment of Congress.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas (III.) said after a White House conference, President Truman will discuss administration legislative goals with his leaders next week.

The question of how soon Con-gress might quit to give its members an early start on re-election campaigns had been slated for discussion today when Lucas, Vice President Barkley and House Ma jority Leader McCormack (Mass) called at the White House.

They had planned to talk over with Mr. Truman how much of his so-called "fair deal" program he is willing to delay.

"We didn't get to talk much about adjournment," Lucas said. He said there were too many other matters to take up. McCormack, who is acting speaker, had to leave the conference for the opening of the House, which met an hour earlier than usual. Lucas said House Speaker Ray-

A Bible Thought For Today -

Infinite creative wisdom and love are working day and night to preserve our bodies, minds and spirits. We should violate none of God's laws for the body, mind or spirit. "O Lord my God I crid unto three and thou hast healed me."-Ps. 30:2.

Senate Spares A Re-Organization Plan, But Its Record Is Not Good

The Senate, which already has knocked off five of the proposed re-organization plans, got around to rejecting a proposal to kill another Monday. Spared by this action was the plan for the Federal Trade and Power commission

It had begun to look as if any phase of the general re-organization plan was doomed to rough treatment by Congress. The first five of 21 proposed had met an adverse vote in the Senate, and under procedure set up by President Truman's own Sist Congress, a negative action by either house blocked the proposal.

The reorganization plans were recommended by the Hoover Commission and submitted to Congress by the President, who strongly urged their adoption. The Hoover Commission was made up of equal numbers of Republicans and Democrats, who called in 300 experts to help. Reams of testimony was taken, millions of words set down, weeks and months of careful research carried out. The object was to achieve efficiency and economy by get --- a national scale.

ting rid of deadwood, shifting agencie from one department to another, aboliahing needless bureaus and commissions, adopting modern methods to end wante and inefficiency.

But any or all this painstaking work could be destroyed by the margin of a single vote in either branch of Congress, and much of it has been so destroyed.

If anything was completely nonpartisan or unpartisan, it was the work of the Hoover Commission. But when local selfish interests were involved, the ancient congressional custom of log-rolling came into play, and the plan went out the win-

After this performance, the continual congressional caterwauling about a spendthrift administration, about the need for less bureaucracy and fewer federal employes, is going to sound pretty hollow. Too many congressmen are incapable of thinking beyond their own state or district, They are not capable of thinking on

Depletion Allowance Reduction Tossed Out By House Committee

The administration's proposal to re- holes-and dry holes far outnumber produce the depletion allowance for oil pro-ducers has been rejected at the hands of the House ways and means committee. President Truman had taken special pains previously to get this allowance (a tax exemption to offset the using of resources) cut from the present 27% per cent to 15 per cent for oil and gas and from 23 to 15 per cent for sulphur, and from 15 to five per cent in the case of other non-metallic metals. The President had .cited the depletion allowance as a big loophole, one so big that one person was able to "develop properties yielding nearly $5 million in a single year without payment of any income tax."

Many oil and gas people scoffed at this, and doubted its authenticity. But even if it were possible in a single case, they pointed out, the depletion allowance for income tax purposes was essential to offset huge losses in the drilling of dry ducers-and to attract needed capital in carrying on the ceaseless search that is necessary to keep the nation's oil reserves in a healthy condition. People don't go round drilling dry holes for the fun of the thing, or the joy of throwing hard-earned money down 5,000, 6,000, 7,000 or even 15,000-foot projects in quest of new fields. Reducing the depletion allowance would put a halt to the wildcatting activities that are the lifeblood of the industry, and the hope of continued petroleum supplies. Besides, the oil industry is one of the heaviest-taxed of all, and rising all the time. On top of that, pinched-in production, occasioned largely by increasing forimports, has the independents scared stiff, and many of them in financial difficulties. Adoption of the depletion allowance reduction would create havoc in an industry that is already showing signs of distress

Today And Tomorrow-Walter Lippmann

Truman And Acheson Thinking Same Thoughts, But Not Score

Mr. Truman came back to Washington from his tour just as Mr. Acheson was finishing up his work in London. The President and his Secretary of State are no doubt thinking the same thoughts and are no doubt intending to follow the same policies. But the tunes they have been singing do not belong to the same score.

Mr. Truman has been inviting the people to dream the American dream of an ever better life in happy and peace-ful American communities. Mr. Acheson has made the people feel that they are so gravely threatened, that the resources of diplomacy are so nearly exhausted,

The two estimates cannot both be satisfied within the same budget, especially since it is the tendency both of the politicians, who have to please the voters and of the soldiers, who want to be very secure, to give themselves the benefit of all the doubts.

Around The Rim-The Herald Staff National Guard Unit Is One Of City's Most Active Groups disturbance. Members are equipped to re-main " in the field' indefinitely should

By pointing out some of its potential roles and the steps it is taking to fill them, we'd like to help Big Spring get better acquainted with its National Guard

Without fanfare, Battery "B", 132nd Field Artillery battallon, is one of the most active organizations in the city. Members of the unit study and drill regularly, preparing themselves to assist in meetin any emergency-of local, state, or national significance—that might arise. The three reasons for its creation also dictate the training program which is carried out by local officers and Fourth Army representatives for the unit. The Big Spring battery, which observed its second anniversary as part of the Fourth Army and Texas National Guard recently, has a three-fold purpose. First, it would become part of this country's Mobilization Day force in case of a national emergency. Secondly, it affords a measure of local protection by standing ready to quell any disturbance not under the control of civil authorities, and finally, it enables Big Spring youth to receive military training "at home" Though its primary objective is to become a fighting force in case of war, training for other activities is not slighted by local Guardsmen

The Monday night soldiers receive po lice training that would enable them to break up mobs or discourage any other type of man-made violence. They learn how to act together as rescue or relief squads capable of swinging into action in case of flood, tornado, or other disaster, The battery has an "alert plan", as-suring prompt mobilization for asy local

Broadway-Mark Barron Bob Merrill's Chief Problem Now Is Counting Up His Money

NEW YORK, --- Bob Merill is a sturdy, good looking young man, with a multitude of problems which are rapidly etching the lines of troubled experience across his worried brow. His chief problem at the moment is counting his money; he has to all up until late hours adding up his royal-ties from that hit song, "If I Knew You Were Coming, I'd've Paked a Cake".

Seriously speaking, Merrill is a serious man and an artist despite the whimsical tone of that best seller "cake" song he wrote. And he has succeeded in a lot of serious achieve-ments other than his songs with the bakery trend.

director for Columbia Pictures in Hollywood, and he was also super-visor of an NBC writing staff there. He was on the production staff of CBS television, and he was stage manager television, and he was stage manager for Richard Bennett and other Broad-way stars at the Bucks County Play-house in Pennsylvania. Also, during the war, he was in the U. S. Navy. "My father is a candy and cake manufacturer in Philadelphia," he ex-plained. "So I suppose that is where I got the idea for "If I Knew You

Were Coming, I'd've Baked a Cake", I also wrote another song called 'Cam dy and Cake'. I can't seem to escape that 'candy and cake' idea in my songs. I wrote one song which 1 thought had a perfect title. I called it orisinally, 'It Was Written In The Rain bow'. But there one was line it the lyric which said 'watch the doughnut, not the hole'. So what happened? Bur Ives sang it and called it "The Doughnut Song'. And it's been known as that ever since, rarely by my orig-

that the situation cannot be righted except by a swift increase of American military power.

If Mr. Truman is right about the future, he ought to tell Mr. Acheson to relent just enough to let one faint ray of hope into the dark room. But if Mr. Aches on is right, then he ought to be asking the President to stop talking about a better life and, instead, to put the country into the opening phase of a war economy.

For Truman's happy promises at home and Acheson's grim and all but hope-less view of the world abroad are quite irreconcilable. The contrast is so wide that this nation and no doubt the nations abroad are confused.

The central and critical issue at the London conference was. in effect, how sach of the Atlantic nations was to recencile its Truman with its Acheson. In each country there is on the one long way through life and never meet a man whose nose was broken for the first time by Stanley Ketchel.

Naturally, as you bustle along through the world you bump into all kinds of peo-ple who have had their noses busted for the second or third time by Ketchel. And it gets to the point where you aren't sure whether people really had their noses busted by Ketchel or whether they just rammed their schnorrles into a brick and claimed that Stan did it to them. There are a lot of broken-nosed snohs in this world, you know, and a fellow can't believe every bruise he sees.

BUT THE MAN WHO BEALLY, HONest to the swearing book, says he is the human being he is sure of that had his nose broken for the first time by Ketchei is George Zigler. "I am 67 years old and I have outlived them all," said George. As a lightweight in his day he fought all the suys around the country that were pushing a punch for a dollar. "I lose more than I win," said George, and let If go at that. He has a feeling two estimates have to be compromised and resolved in each national legislature. But before that can be done the conflicts of estimates have to be resolved and compomised in each cabinet. In France, in Britain, in Belgium, and in all the others an agreement has to be, reached which-translated into American terms-unites Truman the Fair Dealer. Acheson the cold war warrior, Snyder the business man-as-usual and, let us say, Symington, the crussder.

To asist and to prod each of the cabinets to reach agreement on policies which they will then present to the legislature, the London meeting created a committee, of which the American member is to be the chairman. The recommendations of the committee should strengthen the hands of the soldiers and foreign office officials in their arguments with their own finance ministers , reconstruction ministers and their political leaders aind bosses.

that in his time he did well with his muscle and he still has a ripe old age in which to explore the distant worlds that live between folk's ears.

But he is still awful proud of having had his nose broken by Ketchel, and he doesn't mind telling how it happened. "I really sin't sure now just how many times my nose has been broken," said George.

"BUT THIS FIRST TIME I WAS cleaning bricks with young Stanley Ketchel and another triand. We got less than a pen-ny a brick on this job a schoolhouse had blown down, and we were putting the bricks back together. The other fellow and I did a little drinking and when I and I did a little drinking and when a got back, Ketchel had taken away my bricks. He was cheating me out of about 80 cents. When I asked him about my bricks he hauled off and broke my nose. Later he felt sorry or something and gave me my bricks back."

Effects Of Imported Oil Here fierce argument about oil, or rather about what imported oil is doing to some parts of the American oll industry, the coal industry, and railroads. A Senate subcommittee began hearings on this Monday under the chairmanship of Senator Neely, sharp-spoken Democrat of West Virginia, a coal state. He's had some strong things to say about imported

Roughly, there are three kinds of oil: Crude, which is the oil from the ground before it's refined into things like gaso-line; refined; and residual oil, left-over line: refined; and residual oil, jett-over product of the refining process. This residual oil is one of the very sore points in the argument. It's used in homs-heating and industrial plants where, other-wise, coal might be used. This country, the most highly developed oil country in the world, produces crude oil, refines it, and, of course, turns out residual oil foo.

residual oil, too,

BECAUSE IT HAS SUCH A VAST REfining set-up, the United States can export refined oil. It doesn't have to import any of that, But it does import the crude and residual oil.

Some of the biggest oil companies do the importing from the Middle East and Vete-zuels, where they have oil interests and where the oil can be produced cheaper where the oli can be produced cheaper than in this country. They bring it in and sell it here at prices which are tough for its American competitors: American coal and the resid-ual oil turned on by the smaller, independ-ent oil commanies.

al off turned on by the smaller, independent off companies.
On May 10 Senator Neely complained to the Senate bitterly about this. He said of the imported stuff:
"It is depriving American off producers and coal operators of their markets and diminishing their profits. It is constantly closing mines in such coal-producing states as Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama, Indiaza, Illinois, Tennessee.
"It is causing widespread usemployment, importationes," and distreas in the coal, of-refining, and railroad industries of the mation. (The railroads make money carrying coal) American bulloesamen, miners, railroaders, and refutivery workers

> CHE DIDN'T NAME THE SIX GIANTS but six of the biggest companies with boldings in the Middle East and-or Venezuela are: Standard of California, Standard of New Jersey, the Texas Company, Socony Vacumu, Gulf, and the Atlantic Refining Company.)

The tariff on the imported stuff is 10% cents a barrel. The imported residual oil for homes and plants can be sold for about $2 a barrel. About four such barels ($8) equal about one ton of coal which is sold for a little more. And American residual

LOOKING 'EM OVER Gillihan Wins With Tommy Hart

The WT-NM league's longest hitting streak, authored by Pedro Santiago of Lamesa, came to an end Saturday night when Bill Rosin of Clovis blanked the Puerto Rican, Santiago had hit in 30 consecutive games and seemed capable of going on forever. His feat recalls that of Orlando Moreno, then with Big Spring

Spring won the game, 11-6. GREENBERG'S EFFORTS ARE APPLAUDED

Baseball fans everywhere should applaud Hank Greenberg's efforts at Cleveland to speed up games. Greenberg laments that players take fans too much for granted, that they waste time in too many different ways. The baseball rules committee could help by letting the umpire wave a man to first base, if he's being given an Intentional pass. It's senseless for a pitcher to throw four balls, if a man is to be deliberate ly walked. Pitchers themselves could cooperate by taking their turns in the

'on deck' circle, while awaiting their times to bat. Too often, a play will have been completed before a hurler over makes a move from the dugout. Then he must shuck his jersey, ease over to the bet rack and spend a couple of minutes picking out the mace he'll swing. After that, he'll amble plateward dragging the bat as if it weighed 350 pounds, then step in and out of the box a dozen times before he's ready.

Managers could help the situation, too, by putting their beefs on ration. We know of very few pilots who ever won an argument with in arbiter.

A wit down South, commenting on the prolonged losing streak of the Little Rock Travelers, suggested a more fitting name for them would be the Little Traveler Rocks.

Al Duarte, the ex-Lubbock baseballer who has been playing in the Valley circuit, was lined up to go to Sweetwater rece Instead, he wound up with Abilene.

WILCOX HAS FOUND BATTING EYE AGAIN

A young fellow who could never get going in the Longhorn league Jackie Wilcox, is clouting WT-NM league pitching at a .379 clip. He's now with Lubbock but spent most of the 1949 season with the Roswell Rockets.

E. H. Lane, the Odem rancher whose horses copped most of the prize money in the recent Big Spring Futurity, says he may bring from 12 to 14 gee-gees here for the 1951 show.
