CHRISTMAS GREETING TO ALL READERS.

We think it, we breathe it, we sing it, this Christmas spirit, it comes to one and all, and it is up to each individual to use it as they see fit as long as they do not over step the law.

This is the 1921st birthday of the meek and lowly Natherine who came from God to man to bring peace to earth, we should rejoice exceedingly this year on account of the great peace conference now in session, also because 21 Nations of the earth are jointly united in a League of Nations, purportedly to bring a permanent peace between the Nations of the earth.

Come now and let us join the peace procession and have peace in our own midst, do unto others as you would have them do unto you, this will bring peace to the individual, to the community, to the nation and then to the world.

The first peace needed by the individual, is, peace in his own heart with God, if this be true the peace with others will rightly come, so let us make this the most pleasant and Godly Christmas occasion in the history of time.

The Success extends to its readers the best wishes of the season to our aged readers, we wish to our aged readers, we wish to me and others, the best should be yours.

To the middle age, we wish you much happiness, we are glad our lot is cast among you and have your co-operation and friendship.

To the young, the community and nation to be, we wish you a heartful of joy, may your mirth be free from vice and selfishness, and may God be pleased with every act of yours during the festivities of the week.

We again wish you all a merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. The Success,

HOLLAOD JEWELRY CO. HAS FINE DISPLAY.

While in San Angelo Saturday we visited the famous Holland Jewelry Co. Store, we say famous, because the House of Holland has been made so for fine quality of goods and them well advertised. For two years The Success has carried an advertisement for this house, along with numerous other papers in the San Angelo trade territory, and a visit to their house will convince you that it pays to advertise when it is backed up by goods of quality and courteous treatment from the management.

Col. Holland for many years owned the controlling interest in the San Antonio Express and learned the value of advertising while engaged in the newspaper business, he has worked for the country weekly to the metropolitan daily, and knows the art and has made a fortune there, and contributes freely to the press now, which returns to him two folds.

PROVOCATION

"I THINK Kersmith is the worst grouch I ever saw," observed the retired merchant. "I met him this morning and remarked that it was a fine day, and he told me to go to thunder and mind my own business."

"Kersmith is a fine citizen," protested the hotel keeper, "and as a general thing his temper is like sunshine with the bark on it. When a man says something disagreeable to you without provocation, it is pretty safe to assume that he has a secret sorrow."

"The other day I met Gooseworthy and asked him how he was feeling, and he growled at me and said it was none of my business, and intimated that I'd have more friends if I wouldn't always be butting in. Had I been given to jumping to conclusions, like you, I'd have insisted that Gooseworthy was a crank whose old should be bathed in harness oil. But I said to myself that the old man must have some trouble on his mind which led him to forget the ordinary by-laws and regulations of the game of etiquette, and before I had gone a block I met Farthingdale, who asked me if I had heard about Gooseworthy. "The old man bought a new automobile yesterday," said Farthingdale, "and before he had owned it an hour he ran it into a tree and crumpled it all up, so it wouldn't have fetched $5 at the junk yard."

"Then I was glad that I hadn't set Gooseworthy down as a confirmed sore-head. You may not know it, but Kersmith was moving from one house to another yesterday, and that job will ruin the disposition of the most enthusiastic optimist in the world. Unless you have moved, you don't know what a nerve racking experience is."

"When I was younger I used to be moving pretty often, having discovered, after much observation and research, that it was cheaper than paying rent. The moving itself is bad enough, but your experiences after the job is done are really drive you frantic. You can't find anything you want for a month afterwards. About a thousand things seem to be lost for keeps, but they come bobbing up in the most unexpected places. You find your tooth brush in the toe of a slipper, and your watch in a jar of sauerkraut, and your Sunday necktie in a stuffed dog. When you put on your Sunday suit, you find it half full of carpet bags. There never was such a dog-eat-business, and I hold that the man who can move, and still smile a faint smile, is yet to be born."

"Weatherly is one of the sunniest men I ever knew. His face just fairly radiates with happiness, so it would warm up an average room quicker than a furnace could do it. I always considered it a pleasure to meet him, and his joyous demeanor braced me up for the day, and made me feel that life was worth living."

"Two days ago I overtook him on the street and slapped him on the back and asked him how he stacked up. I had done the same a dozen times before, and he had always nearly swung my hand off in that enthusiastic way of his. And he had slapped me on the back, and told me I was a silly boy with a vitrified eye, on many occasions."

"So you can imagine how I felt when he turned around looking as mad as a group of wet hens. He shook his fist under my nose and danced around and said, 'You blamed splay-footed, sway-backed, knock-kneed imbecile, if you ever again take such a liberty with me, I'll wind your face around your neck and tie your ears together on top of your head.'"

"At first I was mad and inclined to tell him what I thought of him, but just then a man came up and said, 'Weatherly, I'm sorry you didn't get the appointment as postmaster, and then I understood.'"

Succeeded.

The timid doughboy, on his first day under fire, left his company unceremoniously and fled rearward. He had covered a lot of distance before he pulled up at the command of a portly soldier: "Halt, there! Where are you going?"

"Oh, I'm just going. Who are you?" "I'm General Richardson."

"Holy smokes! I didn't know I'd run as far as that!"—American Legion Weekly.

Abraham's Oak Tree.

When Abraham was promised a possession of the land of Canaan, it is recorded, he was commanded to walk through the land, whereupon he removed his tent, and came and dwelt in the plain of Mamre, which is in Hebron, and built there an altar to the Lord. It is stated that this spot is still marked by a great oak tree generated alike by Christian, Jew and Mohammedan. Its preservation in a region cleared of almost all trees by the improvident Turks is attributed to the protection by all religions.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XLII.—IDAHO

THE year 1889 saw the stars in our flag increase from thirty-eight to forty-two, for four states were added to the Union in that year. In 1890 two more states were admitted, the first of which was Idaho, so that during these two years the manufacturer must have been kept busy turning out new flags with the proper number of stars.

Idaho is very mountainous and the name is derived from the Shoshone Indian word meaning "gem of mountains."

The first white explorers were undoubtedly Lewis and Clark on their memorable trip in 1804-5.

Idaho was a part of Oregon territory, which was jointly occupied by British and Americans until the Treaty of 1846 definitely turned over to the United States the country south of the 49th parallel. In 1863 Idaho was organized as a territory, with an area three times the size of the present state, as it included Montana and part of Wyoming. The next year Montana was set off for a territory by itself, and in 1868 Wyoming was organized so that in 1890 when Idaho was admitted as the forty-third state of the Union, its area was reduced to 83,888 square miles. Even so it ranks as the eleventh state in size.

The rapid settlement of Idaho was due to the discovery of gold, the same cause which so rapidly built up the adjacent states. It was in 1882 that gold was found at Coeur d'Alene in the northern part of the state, and miners immediately flocked to the state in great numbers.

There was serious labor trouble in the Coeur d'Alene section in 1892 and again in 1899, when martial law was established until peace between the miners and mine owners was effected.

Idaho is fifth from the end in the list of states according to population, and accordingly has but four presidential electors. But the state is developing rapidly.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XLI.—WASHINGTON

THE story of Washington, the forty-second state of the Union, is tied up with two of our presidents. The first is obvious, for it was in honor of our first president, George Washington, that the state was named, as a lasting memorial to this great soldier-statesman. But the actual fate of this region was due to President Polk, and formed the main issue in his campaign for election in 1844.

Previous to that time, the country north of California and extending to Alaska, which was then owned by Russia, was called the Oregon territory. Claim was laid to this region by both Great Britain and the United States as has been seen in the story of Oregon. In 1818, when the boundary between Canada and the United States was settled, this line was definitely placed from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. But no agreement could be reached west of that, and it was left under an arrangement whereby this territory was to be jointly occupied by the British and Americans.

Settlers from the United States began to come into the Northwest in such numbers that the United States felt that they should own this section, which included the present states of Oregon and Washington, and British Columbia, through the right of possession. Agitation in favor of actively pushing our claims became so strong that when Polk was nominated by the Democrats in 1844, one of the main planks in the party platform was the famous one popularly called, "Fifty-four forty or fight."

In 1846 a peaceful settlement was made with England on a compromise basis.

In 1853 Washington territory was separated from Oregon. It did not, however, become a state until 1889, and then only after thirteen years petitioning for admission.

ELDORADO DOING FINE WORK SAYS J. E. PIRIE.

J. E. Pirie, division engineer of the State Highway Department, gave out the following in interview in San Angelo, after his visit of inspection here a few weeks ago, according to the Standard.

"Schleicher County is doing its own highway building and E. N. Stanley, county engineer, directly in charge, is attaining excellent results.

A sixteen-foot macadamized road is being built and so far 4 miles of pike north of Eldorado and two miles south of the town have been finished. Owing to the fact that prices on materials have declined, the county is now contemplating the placing of an asphalt surface on the entire stretch."

Virgin Islands Export Sugar.

The most important agriculture in the Virgin islands is sugar, of which approximately ten thousand tons was exported in 1919. In 1919 the government succeeded in opening the Porto Rican market to cattle from the islands. About $30,000 worth of cattle were exported, and it is thought that the cattle-raising industry will eventually become an important one. Exportation of cattle to Porto Rico formerly was prohibited on the ground that the Virgin islands were in the tick-infested area.

Many Times.

Young Col. Theodore Roosevelt was taken to task at a dinner in Albany, by a young matron.

"I should have thought," she said, reproachfully, "that you'd have stuck to the army, colonel."

"But politics is so much more exciting," the young legislator retorted.

"Politics more exciting than war?"

"Yes, indeed," said Colonel Roosevelt.

"In war, you see, you can be killed only once, but think how many times you can be killed in politics!"

BAD HABITS

"YOU would be a much more agreeable man," observed the professor, "if you would abandon the disgusting tobacco habit. Your aroma taints the breeze to such an extent that I know you are coming before I can see you!"

"I'm glad to hear that," said the low-browed man. "Some people go to great expense engaging advance agents, but I never believed in useless extravagance. If a ten cent package of tobacco will do as good service as a high salaried advance agent, I'd be foolish to keep the ten cents."

"People are always asking me why I don't quit tobacco, and I've always noticed that the people who regard my little innocent habit with disgust, have worse ones of their own. Why don't you quit wearing sidewhiskers, when you must know that they jar the nerves of the fastidious, and make you look like something that should be in a museum? What sense is there in wearing sideboards? I'd be the last to speak slightly of an infirmity or deformity. If you had a game leg or wry neck, my heart would be full of sympathy for you. Such afflictions should not be mocked or held up to scorn by any man; but nobody needs to wear sidewhiskers. It's something that can easily be helped. You shouldn't make caustic remarks about the tobacco habit until you have had those fire escapes removed."

"Old Doolittle asks me about three times a week what pleasure I find in using tobacco. I have explained the matter to him repeatedly, but nothing I say seems to make any impression on him. He clings to the belief that smoking is on a level with robbing a church or defrauding a widow."

"He doesn't use tobacco, but he has about every other bad habit you can think of. When it comes to spilling the truth he could give cards and spades to the whole Ananias family. I try to be reasonably truthful, I never spring a fish story unless it will serve a good purpose. But Doolittle will go to all sorts of trouble to hand you a falsehood. If he says he has the toothache, you may rest assured it's a sprained ankle that's bothering him. I contend that it's worse to sit on the truth and hold it down than it is to load a good old briar and blow out a few reams of smoke."

"Aunt Julia is always lecturing me about the tobacco habit. I have said it a hundred times, and I say it again, that my aunt is all wool and a yard wide, and you would travel far before finding a better female, but if you think she has no bad habits you have another guess coming. Two or three years ago she read some English society novels. Those stories are full of tea parties. A man reading them would think the Britishers spent all their time at tea fights."

"Aunt Julia thinks that anything British is entirely proper, and she got the idea that you can't be fashionable unless you consume a certain amount of tea. So she blew herself for the herb, and began drinking it. At first she said it tasted like colic medicine, but she persevered, and now she's the champion middle weight tea drinker of this burg. I won't say anything about the money it costs. She insists upon having imported tea, and won't be satisfied with any home grown substitutes, although sage tea is far better and costs next to nothing."

"She gets on a tea jag every time she has company, and then for two or three days she has a hangover, and her nerves are a sight to be seen, and I just wish you had to live in the same house with her at such times. Then you would be willing to admit that there are worse things than smoking?"

"Talking, for instance," sighed the professor.

Can't Trust Calomel at All
 It is Mercury, Quicksilver, Salicylates, causes Rheumatism and Bone Decay
 The next dose of calomel you take may knock you out. It may stop your liver, cause bone necrosis. Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.
 If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your drugist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasy calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.
 Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tonic which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

INEXPERIENCE

"YOUNG REIMENSNYDER'S wife thought she was going to get rich quick," observed the druggist. "She read somewhere that there is enormous profit in raising incubator chickens, so she bought an incubator and then filled it with storage eggs. All the women in the neighborhood are grinning over it, and they have joked about it so much that Mr. Reimensnyder files into a passion whenever the matter is mentioned."
 "I know just how she feels," said the village patriarch. "People are always sensitive about the mistakes due to inexperience. It is foolish to be so, but we can't help it if a man makes a break through his own chuckleheadedness, he can laugh over it and pretend he enjoys it; but if he makes a mistake simply because he doesn't know any better, he is full of mortification from the roof of his hat down. It seems to jar his vanity."
 "About the most humiliating experience a man can have is to get stung in a horse trade. The average man doesn't know anything about a horse. He can see if it has four legs and a tail and a pair of eyes, but he is oblivious to all the things that make a horse a good one or a poor one. If he gets the worst end of a trade he should be a philosopher, and say that while he isn't a success at swapping plugs, he can wind up a phonograph or stoke a furnace better than any man in the country. But he gets mad and the fact that he was stuck in such a trade leaves a sore place that never heals."
 "I can remember a break my first wife made when we were newly married. She invited some folks to dinner, and, after much deliberation, decided to have a roast duck as the chief dish, and told the hired girl to go ahead and prepare the bird. Now, a duck is mighty fine eating, what there is of it but there is mighty little substance to it. A duck is a mere shell. It doesn't run to meat at all. A good hungry man could eat three ducks at a sitting and look around for more.
 "My wife, who had lived at hotels and boarding houses all her life, supposed a duck was a solid chunk of meat, and thought there would be enough of the bird left, after the dinner, to keep us in cold meat for a week. Well, there were eight people at that dinner party, and each one had a piece of duck about the size of a one-cent stamp.
 "Everybody but my wife thought the mistake was funny, but the most superficial observer could see at a glance that her heart was broken. She tried her blamest to smile, but right in the middle of the effort she broke off with a yell, and left the room to weep a few stanzas and she never did recover from that humiliation. I tried time and again to convince her that there was nothing to be ashamed of in such a misadventure, but she thought the finger of scorn would be leveled at her as long as she lived.
 "I can't sit here and moralize in this strain all day, but I feel just as sick as anybody when I make a break. When the mayor was buried three years ago there was a big procession in his honor. A lot of mounted men led the parade, and if you were looking you doubtless saw me. I was riding a big black horse, when the big black horse wasn't riding me. I never supposed there was any trick in riding a horse, so when they asked me to sit on a foaming charger I didn't hesitate a minute. I got seasick before I was on the nag two minutes, and I let go the lines and hung to its mane and the fool horse cavorted all over the street, so that I looked like the idiot who tries to ride a trick mule at the circus.
 "My evolutions simply broke up that funeral parade and turned it into a joy ride. I really wasn't to blame in any way, but whenever I think of the episode a cold sweat breaks out on me, and I feel like offering myself to the first corner for seventeen cents."

Moral Agitation.
 "I understand you have been having a crime wave in Crimson Gulch."
 "It ain't that at all," protested Cactus Joe. "It's a great reform. The awbreakers all got suddenly impressed with righteous indignation and started in shooting one another up indiscriminately."

ON THE JOB.

Although getting up above the average working age John Griffin is still able to be on the job early and late
 Saturday morning as we left for San Angelo, an hour before day, we overtaken Mr. Griffin about a mile north of town going to the rock crusher which is 4 1-2 miles north of town, he was walking to his work, he is foreman of the rock quarry and has to be on the job early and late, and he is always there, he is about 53 years old and walks the 4 1-2 miles twice a day and does a hard days work. We have known him for a number of years and he is very seldom on the sick list, just a hard worker, being a stone mason has lots of heavy work, and having a large family he has to hit the ball without ceasing, and up to date he has not been on a strike, and his walkouts have all been to the job and not from it, work is his regular habit and you will find him at it early and late.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XL.—MONTANA
 THE mention of Montana history immediately brings to mind the Custer Massacre as one of the most dramatic incidents in Indian warfare. It occurred in 1876, the Centennial year, when special emphasis was being laid on the cause of peace throughout the world. The Sioux Indians had been driven into Montana by the gold miners, and the United States government took steps to force them back into their reservations. General Custer, with less than 300 men, set out to round up the tribes which were on the warpath, and at the Little Bighorn river, was ambushed by Sitting Bull and 3,000 warriors. Custer and all his troopers were killed. Soon after this massacre the Indians were defeated and many of them fled to Canada.

Gold was discovered in Montana as early as 1852 by the half-breed Francois Finlay near Hell Gate river. This, however, created little stir and it wasn't until five years later when John Silverthorn discovered gold in quantities, that mining settlements sprang up in the mountains. This region had been part of Nebraska territory, which in 1863 was subdivided and became a portion of Idaho territory. The next year it was organized as the separate Territory of Montana.

Virginia City was the capital and here in 1865 was issued the Montana Post, the first newspaper of the state. In 1874 the capital was changed to Helena and ten years later a state constitution was adopted. The state was not taken into the Union, however, until 1889.
 Montana comes from the Spanish adjective meaning "mountainous." Its area is 146,996 square miles, making it the third largest state of the Union.
