County Vote On Liquor Sales Is Called For February 29th

Court Acts On Petition For An Election

Question Of Legalizing Sale Of 'All Liquors' To Be Submitted

Howard county will vote on the liquor question February 29, county commissioners court decided Tuesday after considering a petition calling for a local option election and signed by the required number of qualified voters.

Won't Affect Beer
Given an option of submitting three propositions, according to a ruling obtained last week from the attorney general by County Attorney Wilburn Barcus, the court elected to submit the issue on "all liquors."

Defeat of the proposal to legalize sale of all types of liquor would not affect the standing of 32 beverages now sold in Howard county.

The petition, started here before Christmas, bore more than the required 30 per cent qualified voters of the total votes cast in the preceding gubernatorial election.

It contained the names of many ardent wet and dry who expressed a desire to see an expression from the people.

Big Vote Foreseen
With a voting strength of approximately 5,000, largest in the history of the county, the greatest number of votes ever polled in a prohibition election here are expected to be counted on Feb. 29.

According to the opinion obtained by the county attorney from the attorney general, the court could submit the issue on 4 per cent malt and vinous beverages, 14 per cent malt-or-vinous liquors, or all liquors. Result of the election would not affect prior approval of new legalized light wines and beer, it said.

With the advent of the Good Government League into the local picture, a lively pre-election campaign by the wets and dries is anticipated. Dry forces especially are expected to promote an active campaign.

Final Tribute Is Paid Curtis

Body Of Ex-Vice President Is Returned To Kansas For Burial

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 11. (UP)—Old friends of Charles Curtis who followed his political career from county attorney to vice-president of the United States, were here today to pay their final respects to his memory.

Curtis, who died Saturday in Washington, where he lived after his defeat for reelection in the democratic landslide of 1932, was to be buried Tuesday afternoon. The body was brought here from Washington, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight and Miss Lola Williams, Curtis' secretary for many years.

The service was to be held in the hall of the Kansas house of representatives. The funeral party arrived at 3 p. m. and from then until 3 o'clock the body lay in state in the rotunda of the capitol. State offices were closed and officials, headed by Gov. Alf M. Landon, were to attend.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Harold C. Case, pastor of the First Methodist church with burial beside the grave of Mrs. Curtis.

Oklahoma Panhandle Farmers Fear Crop Loss As Dust Storms Renewed

GYUMON, Okla., Feb. 11. (UP)—Oklahoma panhandle wheat farmers who had equipment and fuel bought a dust storm and bitter cold today to plow deep furrows in fields where the most severe wind of the year had wrecked crop prospects.

The hard-hit counties on the eastern edge of the 1935 "dust bowl" were in desperate straits again, with a revival of dust storms threatened. The farmers cried anew for federal aid. Crop prospects were estimated as reduced one-half from those held before last Friday.

United action to prevent spread of the drifts caused Friday and Saturday was pledged at a meeting of wheat growers here, but little real action was possible.

"Many of the wheat fields that promised a crop are ruined as a result of this disastrous storm," the Panhandle Daily Herald said.

"Those that had been terraced and contoured fared better but some of these were victimized by the lack of care on adjoining fields."

"Most farmers borrowed money to plant wheat. Some Texas farmers state that while about one-fourth to one-third of the fields were blown, they were left in such condition that future winds would soon destroy them."

"Those who borrowed money for seed are without funds for any kind of replacement or protective action. Federal help will be necessary for spring plantings and to the fight against wind erosion."

The federal soil conservation project established recently in Texas county were terracing and plowing today, but observers believed their equipment inadequate.

There was a dust storm, with 8-below-zero temperatures, Friday evening and Friday night. Dr. R. E. Hayes, pioneer Gypsum physician, was out all night and described it as "the worst night out I ever experienced."

Another American employee named Cockburn organized a rescue party, but Consul Winter said pursuit was delayed lest the kidnappers, finding themselves hard-pressed, kill their victims. The bandits made no immediate ransom demands, but associates of the mining men, waiting anxiously for the kidnappers to open negotiations, said demands probably would be presented soon through an intermediary.

Russia Charges Japan Is Massing Troops At Border

MOSCOW, Feb. 11. (UP)—A Soviet dispatch charged today that Japanese and Manchoukuo troops are being concentrated along the Outer Mongolian border, preparing for "new and more serious provocations."

A new border fight Sunday was reported between Japanese and Manchoukuo invaders and Mongolian troops.

Plans for the federal building in Big Spring will be completed within ten days, City Manager E. V. Spence said Tuesday on his return from Washington.

He said he had seen the plans which are nearing a finish and that it was estimated that little more than a week would be required for their completion. He predicted it would be three weeks before bids would be asked.

Mining Men Kidnaped By Mexican Band

Two Americans Seized In Surprise Raid On Company Office

ETZATLAN, Jalisco, Mexico, Feb. 11. (AP)—A band of Mexican kidnapers fled today into the mountains of northern Jalisco with two American mining men seized in a surprise assault on the Ampara Mine company's office.

The bandits descended upon this place yesterday, seized Samuel Saneaus, assistant manager, and Paul Avery, an engineer.

George Winter, American consul at Guadalajara, said he had requested military authorities to withhold troops from pursuit until ransom negotiations could be undertaken.

The kidnapers apparently had advance information as to the identity of their victims, for they picked the pair out from several persons in the mining office at the time.

Surprised by the attack, mine employees were unable to combat the bandits who escaped into the mountains immediately with their victims and an undetermined amount of money from the mine office.

Another American employee named Cockburn organized a rescue party, but Consul Winter said pursuit was delayed lest the kidnappers, finding themselves hard-pressed, kill their victims. The bandits made no immediate ransom demands, but associates of the mining men, waiting anxiously for the kidnappers to open negotiations, said demands probably would be presented soon through an intermediary.

Agent Meets Boys' Clubs

Terracing, Contouring Work In County Is Near A Close

With the running of terrace and contour lines nearly complete, County Agent O. P. Griffin this week is meeting with the boys 4-H clubs in nine rural communities.

Monday he contacted clubs at Elbow, Lomax and Knott, checking work and assisting in making plans for the year. Tuesday he was to meet with boys at Highway, Moore and Gay Hill. Wednesday he goes to Center Point and concludes the series Thursday at Coshoma.

New requests for the service have prolonged the terrace and contour line work in the northeastern part of the county but Griffin's aides are able to finish the work remaining.

PWA Project For City Must Await Funds

Water Supply Application Approved, City Manager Reports

Final approval of the Big Spring PWA application for funds to be used in the creation of a surface water supply has been given by all six divisions of the agency in Washington and as soon as more money is available, an allotment will be made to the project.

Must Go To Vote
This was the substance of the information brought by City Manager E. V. Spence Tuesday on his return from Washington where he has been working to expedite action on the application.

When an application is made, the proposition will then be referred to the citizens of Big Spring for a vote, said Spence.

"The people will have the final say as to whether the project is to be followed through," he commented.

In an effort to give the Big Spring application preference over others approved by PWA, the city commission is expected to pass a resolution Tuesday evening asking PWA only for the 45 per cent grant of $225,000 and offering to finance the remaining 55 per cent by a bond issue. This, explained Spence, is favored by PWA since it puts private money to work.

If the resolution is adopted, when the allotment is made the commissioners will order a bond election, it was predicted.

Congressmen Help
The Big Spring application was approved in every detail and was supplemented by letters from Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard, Representative George Mahon and other Texas congressmen.

Spence said he was able to speed his work at the capital by virtue of his good fortune in arriving in Washington on the day of the bi-weekly Texas delegation meeting. As a guest at the meeting he made his appointments without delay.

Plans for construction of an artificial lake call for an earth dam 1,250 feet long and 67 feet high, at the channel of the creek below Moss Spring. The application includes expenditures necessary for purchase of land, construction of the dam, laying a pipeline to Big Spring and the erection of a 500,000-gallon capacity elevated reservoir.

The lake to be impounded by the dam would be approximately 1.4 miles long and half-mile at the widest point. It would have a depth ranging from about 20 feet to 50 feet.

NYA Program Is Near Peak

Over 8,000 Youths Put To Work In Texas In Past Thirty Days

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (UP)—Texas National Youth administration program was near its peak today, Director Lyndon B. Johnson announced after a check-up with district supervisors.

In the last thirty days, 8,371 youths have been put to work, including 6,551 on straight NYA jobs and 1,820 on joint WPA projects. The Houston district listed the largest number of employees with 1,535 followed by San Antonio with 919; Fort Worth, 806; Dallas, 707; Abilene, 581, and Amarillo, 558.

In addition to the number already at work, jobs have been made available for a total of 17,825 youths on 467 projects. Other NYA workers will be chosen soon. Approved projects will cost $417,378 of the $458,000 allotted Texas for NYA work. The remainder will be used on projects not yet approved.

Improvement of 150 "pocket-sized" tourist parks on Texas highways is included in the program. Other jobs include improvement of school grounds and playgrounds, library assistance, and building school bus stops.

Auto Drivers Soon Must Get Licenses

New State Statute Becomes Effective Friday

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (UP)—Texas major experiment in the field of motorist safety, designed to reduce the huge toll of human life on its high-speed roads will get under way this week.

L. G. Phares, acting director of the department of public safety, has announced that his organization would start issuing motor-vehicle drivers' licenses when the law making them mandatory becomes effective Feb. 14.

The law will be administered through a separate bureau under supervision of Capt. J. D. Moffatt, veteran highway patrol inspector. The patrol will form the chief field force, co-operating closely with local officers and jurists.

April 1 Deadline
All drivers of motor vehicles must obtain licenses before April 1. They will be issued by county tax collectors and may be obtained simultaneously with the registration of motor vehicles.

Phares calculated that approximately 2,500,000 Texans would be required to obtain licenses. He said there were approximately 1,250,000 vehicles with an average of two and two-tenths drivers of each.

Licenses, which will be valid for three years unless revoked for traffic code and law violations, will be issued free.

Must Carry Permits Always
Phares warned motorists to carry their licenses with them at all times to avoid embarrassment.

"There will be plenty of time for all to obtain licenses," he said. "I hope all officers will enforce the law from a reasonable, sensible standpoint and not attempt to harass the public. It was not the intention of the legislature to curtail."

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Applicants should be able to prove their yearly income because the old-age assistance law provides that $360 yearly for single persons and $720 yearly for married couples must be the total of revenues received by applicants from all sources including the state aid.

Section 7, subsection (e) of the new law reads that the application shall contain the following information:

If receiving aid from any source, the amount received and from whom, or if such aid is not in cash money, then a description of such aid tendered, together with the name of the source of such aid and from whom; the amount received from the United States government, state or county, public or private charitable organizations, corporations, or private individuals.

Applicants will be able to get blanks in their own locality Feb. 14. These forms may be filed as soon as filled out by applicants.

Sum Needed May Be Close To A Billion

Special Levy Considered To Cover Processing Tax Lost By Ruling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP)—It was reported today that administration experts were considering tax sources estimated to provide for a half-billion to nine hundred million dollars revenue for the new farm program.

McNary Offers Bill
Receiving attention were: an excise tax on processing of farm and retroactive excess profit or special income taxes to recover the two hundred million dollars returned to manufacturers under the supreme court's decision on the processing taxes.

While the tax study was underway, Senator McNary of Oregon, republican leader, introduced a new farm measure, providing increased tariff payments to farmers based on the domestic allotment plan, the use of customs receipts to encourage production of new products and to find new markets.

McNary said George Peek, who resigned as the administration's export trade advisor, drafted the bill.

Leaders of the American Farm Bureau Federation visited the president, meanwhile, to give their endorsement of the subsidy-soil conservation farm bill as the senate wrangled over it.

Early Vote Foreseen
Although the administration farm bill is under fire from members of both major parties, senate leaders expect to bring it to a vote by mid-week. They are confident of passage. The house plans to take up the bill about Wednesday.

President Roosevelt is expected to send a tax message to congress soon, possibly this week. He has indicated it will call for about $500,000,000 to finance the farm program.

Because of the supreme court ruling in the AAA case that congress cannot levy taxes on one class for the exclusive benefit of another, the bill may include some slight revenue for other purposes, observers believed.

Congressional leaders said a farm tax bill would be speedily approved. They expressed the personal opinion—not confirmed by Mr. Roosevelt—that no new taxes would be asked to finance the $2,37,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

In the meantime, congress turned its attention to early adjournment in response to word from the president that he will not have an extended legislative program.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was learned, has informed his aides at the capitol that he would like to see adjournment as soon as appropriation bills and a few emergency measures are enacted. Leaders talked on May 1 as a possible adjournment date.

Making the adjournment date more uncertain was the possibility of substitute legislation if the supreme court declares additional new deal measures unconstitutional. Possibilities include the TVA and the Guffey soft coal regulation measure.

The legislative slate now includes:

1. Farm bill substitute for the AAA.

2. A substitute tax bill to replace AAA processing taxes.

3. Neutrality legislation.

4. Appropriation measures.

THESE FACTS ABOUT BRAN HAVE BEEN PROVED BY TESTS

Supplies Gently Acting "Bulk" to Aid Regular Habits

Now and then, in talking with your friends, the subject of bran has come up. So that real facts might replace unsupported opinions, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading nutrition laboratories.

Studies made on a group of healthy women showed that two tablespoons of bran daily continued to relieve constipation over a period of months.

Another series of tests on men indicated that, with some people, the "bulk" in bran was much more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Further tests showed that Kellogg's All-Bran provided vitamin B and iron as well as "bulk." This "All-Bran" absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system—the right way to correct constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Either as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. It is a natural laxative food. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PIRATES FACE MANY 'IFS' IN MOLDING A WINNER

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11. (UP)—When the Pittsburgh Pirates go to the post against Cincinnati April 15 their chances in the National league pennant race will depend on many things.

The most important will be the showing of at least one rookie and several irregulars, including Bud Haffey, Harry Lavagetto, Floyd Young and Manager Pie Traynor.

The Pirates were strengthened with the acquisition of Al Todd, catcher from the Phillies, and Fred Schulte, veteran outfielder from Washington.

Count on Browne's Hitting If Browne, who batted .344 for Little Rock last season, can continue the pace he set at the close of last season, he is almost certain to replace Gus Suhr at first.

Hafey, a former White Sox outfielder, and just 23, has a weakness for bad pitches. He played a few games with the Pirates last year and found the left field fence at Forbes Field a great help in getting home runs.

Should Browne and Hafey click, Manager Traynor has only his pitching staff to worry about then. Traynor still has two of the best pitchers in the league last season—Darrell (Cy) Blanton and Bill Swift.

If Hafey makes the grade, the Pirate outfield will have Hafey, Paul Waner, who batted .321 last season, and Forest Jensen, who batted .324.

The catching department, a weak spot on Pirate teams for years, will be in good hands this season. Todd figures to hold down the regular assignment.

Tommy Padden will be available as second man with Aubrey Epps in reserve.

Cagers Play At Lubbock Tonight

Two local high school basketball teams journey to Lubbock tonight. Coach George Browne's young and inexperienced Steer squad to battle Goobar Keyes' Lubbock high school Westerners and Ben Daniels' Calves to mix with the Cowboy Lubbock high school junior court aggregation.

Steers suffered their worst defeat of the season here last week in a game with the Westerners, and Brown has little hope of holding the towering plainsmen in check tonight.

A last minute spurt gave the Calves a victory over the Cowboys here last week.

The league season is divided into two parts. At conclusion the winners play off for the championship. The title holders since the league's formation have been:

1925-26—Cleveland Rosenblums. 1926-27—Brooklyn. 1927-28—New York Celtics. 1928-29—Cleveland Rosenblums. 1929-30—Cleveland Rosenblums. 1930-31—Brooklyn. 1931-32, 1932-33—league did not sanction. 1933-34 —Reorganized. League season divided into two parts, winners and second team each half in playoff, and eventual winners meet for world's pro championship.

The Winning Golf

By Lawson Little

Sarazen's "never say die" attitude makes him one of golf's most feared competitors—has habit of calling his shots—scores and making good.

One of the most important features of a fine tournament player's temperament is that "stick-to-itiveness"—that never knowing when to say "die." Great little Gene Sarazen is one of the most feared players in competitive golf today.

He is that he keeps the other players worried about him. He has a way of announcing before he plays what he is going to do. Maybe he is just psychic but the fact still remains that he backs up his statements remarkably well.

His sensational win from Craig Wood in the master's tournament at Augusta last year shows the kind of player he is. He was apparently well out of first place with only four holes remaining.

Another Shot Heard Round the World He promptly selected a spoon and without a practice swing or hardly a wobble, smashed into the ball. It started slightly to the left of the p.m. As it reached the top of its flight, it began to take the drift which Gene had allowed for the wind.

Into The Cup The pin was tucked in behind a trap and as we were playing a better-ball match, I was undecided about taking too much risk, unless Horton was sure of his par. We had heard that Fred Morrison was burning up the course so I decided to take the chance. The result was a good shot about eight feet from the hole.

Gene Sarazen has taught the golfing world a good lesson, and it can be applied to drives or putts as well. Gene talks himself into being confident and at the same time makes the other players worry about him. When I was playing those last two rounds at Merion with Olin Dutra, he kept asking "What's Sarazen doing, what's Sarazen doing?" He didn't appear worried about the other leaders.

Robinson Was the No. 1 Half-Miler In 1935

By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor

In the excitement attendant on the return meeting of Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venke and Joe Mangano in the Baxter Mile, one of the features of the annual New York A. C. meet in Madison Square Garden, the half-mile duel between Chuck Hornbostel and Elroy Robinson was over looked.

On his record of performance, Robinson, who is attending Fresno State College in California, was the No. 1 half-miler of the country in 1935, and was selected as the all-America 500-meter runner.

Robinson was undefeated in his campaign through Finland and other foreign countries. The high spot of his trip abroad was his winning the Finnish national 800-meter title in 1:51.3—the fastest 800-meter time of the year.

In all this successful campaigning, however, Robinson did not cross the path of Hornbostel. The Indiana star, having completed his college career, was not a contender in the N.C.A.A. meet, and he did not compete in the National A.A.U. championships.

Hornbostel has won the half-mile feature at the New York A. C. games for the past three years. Cunningham holds record.

The Baxter Mile, which has attracted the cream of milers in America since the trophy was first awarded in 1910, has done much to help popularize the mile distance.

The eminent personality behind the Baxter Mile is Hugh H. Baxter, a member of the New York A. C. since 1880, and 50 years ago considered the leading figure in pole-vault competitions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (UP)—Helen Wills Moody is busy these days with oil paint and canvases, and between times, she's writing a book on tennis.

Art Critic Approve Art critics who have seen three or four of the new oils say they show marked progress and promise.

She has been painting in oil for two years. For awhile she had a teacher, but now she is teaching herself; and she works as hard as she did to perfect her tennis game.

Among her new oils are several studies of San Francisco bays, one of her favorite subjects; a still life of eggplant, tomatoes and celery painted in brilliant colors on a pink background; and another of brown pottery bowls with bulbs and green shoots.

She likes oil best, and splashes it on with a bold hand, but she won't classify herself as a "modern" or of any other school.

Let the critics say, is her answer to that.

Mrs. Moody's first sortie into the art world was a collection of drawings in black and white, portraying tennis stars. They were exhibited in London, Paris and New York.

After their New York showing, every drawing was sold.

Later, she turned to watercolor and etching; but now she says, "I like oil much more than any other medium."

Critics are expecting the tennis champion to "find herself" artistically in oil. Erwin Barrie, manager of the galleries where her show will be held, says, "The little drawings and watercolors she used to do weren't enough to express her vitality."

Art inspired by Mrs. Moody also is attracting the attention of New York art circles.

She is the subject of a new sculpture in terra cotta made by Wheeler Williams. The piece, a study of her head, will go on exhibition soon at the Kaufmann gallery.

Williams calls the tennis champion's head "Gretchen," and says she is "tops" as a model.

TCU Football Hopes Report

Dutch Meyer Starts Training; To Have Sammy Baugh Back

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11.—With the 3-0-2 Sugar Bowl victory over the L.S.U. Tigers less than six weeks behind them, Coaches Leo R. Meyer and Raymond B. Wolf of Texas Christian University yesterday began the work of building a formidable football machine for next season.

"I expect as good a team in 1936 as we had in 1935," Coach Meyer said, in spite of the fact that nine lettermen who have completed their eligibility are missing from the ranks.

Among these nine are such men as Capt. Darrell Lester at center, Jimmy Lawrence and Dutch Kline at halves, Taldon Mantan at full, Wilson Groselock at tackle and Tracy Kellow at guard.

But the T.C.U. coaches have 17 lettermen left over from last season's strong aggregation, as well as 11 squadmen. Then there are 23 players from the freshman squad, several of whom will be a real factor in the 1936 drive.

"And," Coach Meyer grins, "we still have Sam Baugh!"

Several outstanding problems confront the Frog coaches, and some indication as to their solution will undoubtedly be worked out during the weeks of spring practice.

One of these is the development of a man for the fullback position. Lucy McClannahan, letterman of '35 and outstanding candidate to fill the shoes of Manton, is scholastically ineligible.

Two fullbacks, Glenn "Donkey" Roberts, a letterman, and Horace Carwell, up from the freshmen, are listed, but Coach Meyer plans to do some experimenting. Meyer has already announced that Charley Needham, letter end, and Ki Aldrich, freshman center, will be tried at the position.

HELEN WILLS TURNS ARTIST

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUM-MER

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (UP)—Helen Wills Moody is busy these days with oil paint and canvases, and between times, she's writing a book on tennis.

An artist's smock just now is the favorite costume of the world's woman tennis champion.

She is working to complete the collection of paintings—15 or 20 still lifes and landscapes in oil—which New York's Grand Central art galleries will exhibit sometime in the spring.

Her first "one-man" show of oils is the most ambitious undertaking of the tennis star's active life of the courts. Most of the pictures to be shown were begun after her victory over Helen Jacobs at Wimbledon last summer.

Art Critics Approve Art critics who have seen three or four of the new oils say they show marked progress and promise.

The head of one gallery has predicted that she will be, eventually, one of America's leading artists.

Almost every afternoon, Mrs. Moody dons her smock and paints in her San Francisco studio, which is connected with the apartment where she and "Freddy," her husband, live.

She has been painting in oil for two years. For awhile she had a teacher, but now she is teaching herself; and she works as hard as she did to perfect her tennis game.

Among her new oils are several studies of San Francisco bays, one of her favorite subjects; a still life of eggplant, tomatoes and celery painted in brilliant colors on a pink background; and another of brown pottery bowls with bulbs and green shoots.

Baylor Forward Goes To First Place With 63 Points

(By The Associated Press) T. Alford, Baylor university basketball forward, continued his scoring spurt last week to jump from second place in the scoring to first with a total of 63 points.

Blanton, who led last week, went to third place, with Poole of Arkansas moving into the second slot. Taylor of Texas dropped from third place to fourth.

Leading Conference Scores: Player—g fg ft ip av Alford, Baylor—7 26 11 63 9.00 Poole, Ark.—6 27 6 60 10.00 Blanton, SMU—6 21 15 57 9.5 Taylor, Tex.—5 23 9 55 11.00 Gilliland, Ark.—6 20 8 48 8.00 Bastin, Tex.—5 16 10 42 8.4 Wray, Baylor—7 17 8 42 6.0 Kelly, Rice—7 17 7 41 5.9 Haren, SMU—6 17 6 40 6.6 Saam, TCU—5 11 16 38 7.6 Collins, Tex.—5 11 15 37 7.4 Seale, Rice—7 14 8 36 5.2

Among these nine are such men as Capt. Darrell Lester at center, Jimmy Lawrence and Dutch Kline at halves, Taldon Mantan at full, Wilson Groselock at tackle and Tracy Kellow at guard.

But the T.C.U. coaches have 17 lettermen left over from last season's strong aggregation, as well as 11 squadmen. Then there are 23 players from the freshman squad, several of whom will be a real factor in the 1936 drive.

"And," Coach Meyer grins, "we still have Sam Baugh!"

Several outstanding problems confront the Frog coaches, and some indication as to their solution will undoubtedly be worked out during the weeks of spring practice.

One of these is the development of a man for the fullback position. Lucy McClannahan, letterman of '35 and outstanding candidate to fill the shoes of Manton, is scholastically ineligible.

Two fullbacks, Glenn "Donkey" Roberts, a letterman, and Horace Carwell, up from the freshmen, are listed, but Coach Meyer plans to do some experimenting. Meyer has already announced that Charley Needham, letter end, and Ki Aldrich, freshman center, will be tried at the position.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (UP)—The question of the center jump in basketball continued to provide arguments among followers of the game with Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen of the University of Kansas and his onetime pupil, John Bunn, Stanford's coach, taking sides.

Bunn, who learned the game under Dr. Allen 10 or 12 years ago, advocates elimination of the center jump, but Dr. Allen is against it. The jump is retained in the Middle West and most other sections, but in the Far West many teams have eliminated it.

The Big Six conference plan, under which eight foot rings mark the center jump over which non-jumping players are not permitted to step until the ball has been tipped, is cited as one measure to eliminate the wild scramble for the tipoff.

"Or, if the opponents of the center jump think the present rules puts too much premium upon tall centers, why not adopt a rule of rotation," said Dr. Allen. "Let the centers jump the first time, then the visiting forward and his home town guard and so on. That would bring together players of unequal height, but that is the case now on hard balls."

Elimination of the jump apparently results in high scoring games and speeds up play, but Dr. Allen believes it also results in a more slam bang type of play with little emphasis on ball handling and team work.

From the player's standpoint, the moment of relaxation between a field goal and the jump is a safety measure, the Kansas coach feels. The period of "time out" already has been cut from two minutes to one to speed up the game, he said.

On the committee that selected the candidates were Charles Williams, Ralph Cathey, Margaret McNew, La Fern Dehlinger, Jamie Lee Meador, Austin Burch and Bobby McNew. The committee will meet again later in the week and the leading students will be voted on for the position they are to fill.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators. Thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

IT'S FALSE ECONOMY TO TURN OFF YOUR REFRIGERATOR

Your electric refrigerator is so constructed that it adjusts itself instantly and accurately to changes in temperature without your assistance. If the weather is warm, it buckles down to hard work and keeps the inside of the box at its proper temperature. If the weather is cold, it automatically turns itself off as long as the temperature remains in safe bounds. That's why we say it's false economy to turn your refrigerator on and off according to your ideas of the weather—your electric refrigerator catches temperature changes quicker and more accurately than you do.

PENNY WISE SAYS:

"The cost of electricity is so small that an electric refrigerator keeps food fresh and appetizing for only a few cents a day."

WASHINGTON—William Edgar Borah has one of the toughest hides, politically, in the senate. But it was a basketful of cabbages hurled in his direction which finally goaded him into entering the Ohio primary.

POSITION OF THE BANKS Asserting that the gradual retirement of the government from the lending field and termination of "deficit financing" by bond flotations would speed up recovery for the banks of the nation, the copyrighted weekly letter of the Administrative and Research corporation points to the paradoxical situation of the banks: they are suffering from an excess of funds.

The letter shows that from the period since the closing of the banks in 1933, demand deposits of members of the federal reserve system have increased by more than 48 per cent. In the face of rising deposits, loans and discounts have declined, the decrease from the 1928-29 levels being more than 54 per cent. The unemployment of these funds in normal banking channels has naturally resulted in unusually low money rates.

"In order to earn some return and still retain liquidity," the letter asserts, "the banks have been forced to invest their increasing deposits in government and high grade short-term securities." It is shown that the increase in deposits has been matched with increased investments, and, the letter continues, "By far the greater portion of these investments has been in government bonds which have in turn further added to deposits and created an endless chain. Reluctance to continue to invest in low-yield securities has caused many banks to hold idle cash or build up excess reserves at the Federal Reserve banks, forming the basis for a potential credit inflation of gigantic proportions."

NEW YORK—Rembrandt of a stay-up-late columnist campaigning for a quota of copy: 11-27. Brisky out of bed, breakfast, glance through morning papers. 12-37. Decide to stroll up Madison avenue to office. Walk two squares, decide walking isn't such a good idea but stick it out and arrive at office in a bloom of frost-bite.

1-03. Thumb through morning mail which includes 17 blubs from press-agents, four letters, and one Please Reinit! Miriam Hopkins writes that she will wing into New York any hour now. Sally Sanderson writes that Central park looks just like St. Moritz in winter. Where does she think I've been all winter—Miami?

1-49. Ted Saucier telephones that Kaye Don, the speed king, is explaining locomotion to a gang of convivial souls at the Waldorf. Decide to drop in, and do. Sandwiches, cigars, brandy and ale are in promiscuous quantities. I don't like sandwiches or cigars, but a tankard of ale is just what my doctor prescribes. Finally, I inquire after Don, but he isn't there. He just went out a door—to catch a boat for London.

3-07. Interview Franz Wagner, Czechoslovakian pianist, who plays a piano that doesn't make sound (which doesn't make sense) but he does, and this will—when I interpret. The trick piano is for finger exercise, very essential, while he plays Beethoven concertos in his imagination, Beethoven, being deaf, composed strictly in his head, he points out. He likes hitting the silent keys and playing in his imagination. The concentration is good practice, and it fixes the music more firmly in the brain.

4-36. On to the Rivoli for a preview of Charlie Chaplin's new picture. 6-50. In 7th avenue I meet Owen Davis, father of Donald, who collaborated with him in dramatizing Edith Wharton's novel, "Ethan Frome," for the stage—a corking hit.

7-10. Dinner at the Ritz bar (men's) and a savory item is the fried trout, swished down with old Madeira. Chat with James Melton, the lyric tenor, who explains that summer is better than winter, if you've got a yacht, for then you can go yachting. James has a yacht, and I see his point.

8-50. Attend Broadway premiere which establishes no precedent for excellence. By taxi to Tony's and then to Buddy's where a cool aloof lady in red is causing much anguish to Georges, the bar-captain. He's afraid she'll drink herself into a stupor and give the place a black-eye. But after several hours of steady imbibing, she moves sedately out to a limousine where a smartly livered chauffeur has been waiting all the time. He leaps out, salutes, hands her into the car, and away they go into the night.

1-23. Drop by Leon & Eddie's for Mexican chili and encounter Jim Thurber, who is edifying the stay-ups by doing weird sketches on the backs of the menus. 2-09. Back to Tony's to see if I left my hat there and encounter John Emery who is going to do a hat play for Ed Wynn. The place is a jibber with high and low talk, but just then a bush comes that is strange for Tony's at that hour. I look up, which is what everyone else is doing. Eureka! It's the lady in red again!

A few weeks ago Borah passed out the word that he would stay out of Ohio. To enter meant a categorical announcement that his hat was in the ring. For Ohio is the only state in the union where a candidate must sign his own filing papers.

Borah's negative decision brought forth considerable kidding. The senator from Idaho was accused of "being too old," of "having cold feet," of "not being a serious contender," of "never going through with what he starts."

"This is old stuff to Borah. But this time it got under his usually indifferent skin. He sent word to Ohio backers that he had changed his mind.

Later, Borah encountered a newspaperman who remarked: "Well, Senator, I see you have finally decided to become a candidate."

"What do you mean, finally decided to become a candidate?" shot back Borah. "I've been a candidate all along. I guess I'll have to wear a sign on my back saying 'I AM A CANDIDATE!'"

The securities and exchange commission is secretly plotting to crack jail sentences on the heads of promoters attempting to register deceptive statements in selling securities.

The law provides a jail sentence up to five years. Hitherto the SEC has been lenient, has been content to send misleading financial statements back to promoters, giving them a chance for corrections.

But now when flagrant attempts to deceive the public are submitted, E. B. Bane, forthright chief of the registration division, proposes to move for criminal prosecution immediately!

Note—Two such cases are pending now. Here is one told by members of the Roosevelt family on their father.

Young John Roosevelt was home from Cambridge on a brief vacation. Arrayed in a necktie which outdid the crimson of Harvard and with socks to match, he went "n" to see his father.

"Good heavens!" wailed the president. "Where did you get that terrible color combination? Take them back to Mexico!"

A few minutes later Mrs. Roosevelt came in, eyed her youngest-son, and perhaps remembering the debonair Harvard days of his father when she first fell in love with him, she remarked:

"Well, John, you're getting more like your father every day."

If you are worried about currency inflation during this session of congress, here are two fairly positive trends to keep in mind.

1. Some kind of a greenback bill is almost sure to pass the house and probably will get by the senate.

2. Almost any kind of an inflationary measure will be vetoed by the president. His veto will be sustained.

Therefore, since one from one still leaves zero even in these topsy-turvy days of the new deal—there will be no inflation. This does not mean, however, that it will not be debated back and forth perhaps more than any other question.

The Frazier-Lemke greenback bill, for refinancing three cool billions in farm mortgages, has 214 signatures on a discharge petition to take it out of the ways and means committee, where it has been gathering dust, and make it a red-hot issue on the floor of the house.

Only four more signatures are necessary. Actually 235 members have signed, but under pressure from Speaker Byrnes nineteen have withdrawn their names.

If the Frazier-Lemke bill comes to a vote in the house, it is certain to pass. Its fate in the senate is less sure.

However, it is certain that neither it nor the Patman proposal to pay the bonus with greenbacks can override the president's veto.

Foreign diplomats are still critical of Cordell Hull for giving a left-handed apology to the Persian minister who was handcuffed by Maryland police for speeding.

Chapter Two
THE STRANGER

But it was the arresting quality of the face Bobby saw in the photograph rather than the beauty itself that seized upon the boy's imagination. It was the kind of face, he thought, not easy to forget.

Gently and reverently, he replaced the photograph in the pocket from which it had come. Then he sat down, again to await the doctor's return.

The time passed very slowly—or at least so it seemed to the waiting boy. Also, he had just remembered something. He had promised his father to play the organ at the evening service at six o'clock, and it was now ten minutes chicken!"

He sat there thinking of his father with mingled affection and exasperation. His life at home seemed to him to be one long sacrifice to his father's peculiar ideas. To Mr. Jones, the same life seemed to be one long sacrifice on his part, ill understood or appreciated by the younger generation. So many ideas on the same subject.

What an age the doctor was! Surely he might have been back by this time?

Bobby got up and stamped his feet moodily. At that moment he heard something above him and looked up, thankful that help was at hand and that his own services were no longer needed.

But it was not the doctor.

Bobby replaced the photograph in the man's pocket.

to six.

Naturally his father would understand the circumstances, but all the same he wished that he had remembered to send a message by the doctor. The Rev. Thomas Jones was a man of extremely nervous temperament. He was a fussy, and when he fussed, his digestive apparatus collapsed and he suffered agonizing pain.

Bobby, though he considered his father a nuisance, was nevertheless extremely fond of him. The Rev. Thomas, on the other hand, considered his fourth son a pitiful young ass, and with less tolerance than Bobby sought to effect improvement in the young man.

"The poor old gov'ner," thought Bobby. "He'll be ramping up and down. He won't know whether to start the service or not. He'll work himself up till he gets that pain in the tummy, and then he won't be able to eat his supper."

"He won't have the sense to realize that I wouldn't let him down unless it were quite unavoidable. And anyhow, what does it matter?"

"But he'll never see it that way. Nobody over fifty has got any sense—they worry themselves to death about little things that don't matter. They've been brought up all wrong. I suppose, and now they can't help themselves. Poor old Dad, he's got less sense than a was a man in plus-fours whom Bobby did not know.

"I say," said the newcomer. "Is anything the matter? Has there been an accident? Can I help in any way?"

He was a tall man with a pleasant tenor voice. Bobby could not see him very clearly, for it was now fast growing dusk.

He explained what had happened, while the stranger made shocked comments.

"There's nothing I can do?" he asked. "Get help or anything?"

Bobby explained that help was on the way and asked if the other could see any signs of its arriving.

"There's nothing at present."

"You see," went on Bobby. "I've got an appointment at six."

"And you don't like to leave—"

"No, I don't quite," said Bobby. "I mean, the poor chap's dead and all that, and of course one can't do anything, but all the same—"

He paused, finding it, as usual, difficult to put confused emotions into words.

The other, however, seemed to understand.

"I know," he said. "Look here, I'll come down—that is, if I can see my way—and I'll stay till these fellows arrive."

"Gratified," said Bobby gratefully. "You see, it's my father. He's not a bad sort really, and things upset him. Can you see your way? A bit more to the left—now to the right—that's it. It's not really difficult."

He encouraged the other with directions until the two men were face to face on the narrow plateau.

The newcomer was a man of about thirty-five. He had a rather undecisive face which seemed to be calling for a monocle and a little moustache.

"I'm a stranger down here," he explained. "My name's Bassington-French, by the way. Came down to see about a house. I say, what a beastly thing to happen! Did he walk over the edge?"

Bobby nodded.

"Sit of mist got up," he explained. "It's a dangerous bit of path. Well, so long. Thanks very much. I've got to hurry. It's awfully good of you."

"Not at all," the other protested. "Anybody would do the same. Can't leave the poor chap lying—well, I mean, it wouldn't be decent somehow."

Bobby was scrambling up the precipitous path. At the top he waved his hand to the other then set off at brisk run across country. To save time he vaulted the churchyard wall instead of going round to the gate on the road—a proceeding observed by the Vicar from the vestry window and deeply disapproved of by him.

It was five minutes past six, but the bell was still tolling.

Explanations and recriminations were postponed until after the service. Breathless, Bobby sank into his seat and manipulated the stops of the ancient organ. Association of ideas led his fingers into Chopin's funeral march.

Afterwards, more in sorrow than in anger (as he expressly pointed out) the Vicar took his son to task.

"If you cannot do a thing properly, my dear Bobby," he said, "it is better not to do it at all. I know that you and all your young friends seem to have no idea of time, but there is One whom we should not keep waiting. You offered to play the organ of your own accord. I did not coerce you. Instead, faint-hearted, you preferred playing a game."

Bobby thought he had better interrupt before his father got too well away.

Governor's Home Needing Repairs

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (UP)—Gov. James V. Allred today issued an SOS for repairs to the roof of the executive mansion. Winter rains are dripping into tubs and buckets. An appropriation was made by the last legislature to fix the roof. Today Allred asked the board of control when it will be done. He also suggested that the mansion's reception room receive its fixing up before the Texas Centennial is over. It was refurbished to receive visiting officials.

Local Decorated Window Awarded Contest Prize

Big Spring shoppers who during December admired the above Christmas fruit display at Burrus Grocery & Market were viewing a decorated window which received second prize in a Southwest contest.

The Burrus firm has been advised that its display was given this ranking in an event sponsored by the Ben E. Keith company in which there were more than 1,000 entries from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. A check for $10 was presented as second prize, and the local company received congratulations from the judges and sponsors on the beauty, attractiveness and sales value of the display.

May Question Bruno Again

Hoffman Plans New Attempt To Get Information On Case

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 11. (UP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman may visit Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his death cell again and attempt to wring from him new information about the Lindbergh kidnaping case, informed sources said today.

Hoffman was encouraged by the outspoken support of the young republicans of New Jersey. The old guard republican state committee faction has threatened Hoffman's political life since he saved Hauptmann from death last month.

Reports said the governor had asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann for the Lindbergh kidnaping, to accompany him to the condemned man's cell and help him obtain information he thinks Hauptmann may have.

Wilentz' cooperation in the plan was considered more than improbable.

Hauptmann will be re-sentenced to death next week. The date of execution, by state law, must be not less than four weeks nor more than eight weeks after the day he is re-sentenced. Hoffman, however, has approximately six weeks to complete an investigation of the case and perfect his plans to question Hauptmann.

Vessel Floated After Two Weeks

CORPUS CHRISTI, Feb. 11. (UP)—The freighter, Texas Banker, which ran aground in twelve feet of water 500 feet off Mustang Island near Port Aransas almost two weeks ago, was floated yesterday.

The coast guard cutter Saranic and several tugboats had been working to free the vessel for more than a week. The Texas Banker was in the Port Isabel-New York service. The ship was towed to Port Aransas and later probably will go to Galveston for inspection and dry dock.

Meanwhile the tugs probably will go to the Rockport channel to aid in releasing the tanker Agriworld from a sand bank on which it was thrown by a flood tide current last Thursday.

Going to town with Luckies A LIGHT SMOKE of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes. They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product. All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke. Luckies are less acid. Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
