Workmen have the cement tile walls up with exterior of buff brick, and roof in place on the addition to the west side of the Medical Center.

When completed, there will be space for 16 more beds for the nursing home wing.

The exterior of the new addition will match architecturally the rest of the present building.

Oscar Wagner Construction Co. of San Angelo is the general contractor.

School Tax Board Is In Session Today

Property owners over the county were notified by post-card recently that the Schleicher County School District will have a board of equalization meeting in session starting today—Thursday, July 23, at 10:00 a.m. at the High School building.

It remains to be seen how many property owners, if any, will attend board meeting to protest the 21% tax increase proposed.

The projected budget for 1970-71 was printed in the Success last week. Main item increased was teachers' salaries. Tax re-evaluation problems are being experienced by Schleicher, along with other Texas counties.

Post Script

San Angelo is having water rationing again, as they did last summer.

Their City Commission last week passed an ordinance outlawing watering of plants and lawns except between the hours of 6:00 a.m. and 9:00 a.m., and between 7:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m.

Now there are rumors that their water engineers are investigating the possibility of buying water in Schleicher County from some of our prolific fresh water wells and pumping it all the way to Angelo!

If there is anything to that rumor we hope our governing bodies can find a way to put a stop to it. Surely we don't want our good fresh water pumped away to another county!

—ps—
We can sympathize with Angelo but the fact of the business is, they have more people now than they can furnish water for.

One obvious solution for them would be to send their surplus population out to where the water is. Eldorado, Menard, Eden and Robert Lee, for instance, could each comfortably use another thousand people.

San Angelo is the capital of this region and they would be better off if these satellite towns were all thriving and prosperous.

Let their Board of City Development start promoting new industries for their small neighbors and it would relieve some of the problems they have now.

Help us get the industries to provide the jobs and a lot of your people will be eager to move back out—to where the water is plentiful and pure—"and never is heard a discouraging word"—about water, that is.

My back yard up near the airport seems to attract stray animals of one kind or another. Sometimes in the past it has been unwanted puppies or cats, but now I have inherited a new one.

One evening last week I was looking out my kitchen door and discovered a strange small animal out on my lawn near my smoke house. He had a long tail, a corrugated back and a long "snoot" and seemed to be busy digging and eating grass roots. Each evening between 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock he usually appears, coming and going from a hole under the smoke house.

In my kitchen I have a 22 calibre Remington rifle as well as a 410 gauge Winchester. I've been wondering if I should unlimber one of these guns and take a shot at him, but I haven't.

As far as I know he is not doing any harm, and he is kinda cute. After describing him, I was told he is an armadillo. His body is about 6 or 7 inches in length.

Is this a baby armadillo or is he full grown? If left completely alone are we apt to develop a whole tribe of 'em up here right next to the golf course?

Tell me, then, what I should do—send him off to join his ancestors in that land where all good "dillos" go?

I sure don't want him for a pet. Do you?

Eldorado Geologist Bob Bradley tells this story—and you better believe it.

He was out at the D. C. Hill farm recently for the purpose of checking water level in an abandoned well. It was a well that had once been drilled for the purpose of providing water for an oil drilling operation.

Bob was using a rod and reel, and he attached a sinker to end of the line and lowered it into the hole.

It went down to a depth of about 220 feet where it encountered an obstruction—cave-in or something.

He then starts reeling back in, and says he soon felt he was pulling in something heavier than the original weight.

When it finally surfaced there was a LIVE lizard wrapped around the line!

"And I had a witness, too," declares Bob, "Jim Dan Hill was right there with me!"

—ps—
How did that live lizard manage to get in to that hole, some 200 feet deep? It's Bob's story and you can ask him.

"What was the cause of all the ambulance sirens?" was a question asked Sunday afternoon. "Car wreck or something?" Sheriff Edmiston explained it Monday.

First there was a Mertzon ambulance carrying a patient through Eldorado on its way to Sonora hospital. As they came through Eldorado they turned their siren on.

At that very moment a fire broke out in a small frame house in south Eldorado. There was a delay in turning in the fire alarm here, and when the fire wagons finally responded, they, too, came out with sirens sounding.

It may have sounded alarming, but it was just two separate events.

—ps—
We had cool, cloudy mornings Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Showers teased this south-west Texas area, and a few individuals even reported receiving a tenth or so of moisture. But overall, it has continued hot and dry and it goes without saying that WE NEED RAIN!

Cover is high and dry on the ranges, posing a fire hazard, and the firemen have voiced their usual precautions to residents to be extremely careful with trash burning and other open fires.

The firemen have been called to a number of grassfires and others no doubt are in the offing.

Evangelist Wally Jonas To Conduct Services At Antioch Baptist Church

WALLY JONAS

Special Revival Services start this Monday night at 7:30 at the Antioch Baptist Church here in Eldorado and continue through the following Friday night. Services are set for 7:30 each night with Bible school each morning. Complete details are in the ad page 2.

Rev. Jonas has conducted services at the church here before and his father was former pastor of the church.

Rev. W. D. Jonas—preacher, singer, musician, gospel magician, and poet—is an ordained Baptist Evangelist. He is a native Texan, born in Greenville, and makes his home in Fort Worth, Texas where he resides with his wife and four daughters. Rev. Jonas received his Th. G. and B. B. degrees from Tennessee Temple Schools in Chattanooga, Tenn. During his first year of school he pastored the Martin Springs Baptist Church in Montague, Tenn.

Upon resigning this pastorate he became a member of the Street Corner Christian Crusaders Evangelistic Team. Their ministry took them to 33 states and two foreign countries, in the jails, prisons, hospitals, rescue missions, and open air campaigns.

After graduation Rev. Jonas was called as the associate pastor and minister of music and education at the Trinity Baptist Church in Rome, Georgia. He served in this capacity until he re-entered full time evangelistic work.

He has been used of God in revivals, Bible conferences, Mission conferences, vacation Bible schools, church camps, youth ranches, evangelistic crusades, and youth revivals in many states and in foreign countries. God has blessed his ministry with many thousands of conversions to Christ.

Skeet To Preach To Methodists Sunday

George Skeet of Water Valley will fill the pulpit this coming Sunday morning at the First United Methodist Church while the pastor, the Rev. and Mrs. Bobby Palmos and family are away on vacation.

Skeet will preach at the 11:00 a.m. service.

Patti Olson and Robby Joyce will be in charge of the evening service that day, starting at 7:00 p.m.

On August 2, the Rev. William Gaston of Christoval will preach.

Kirk Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, was treated in the Sonora hospital last week after involvement in a car accident. He was released and is now doing fine.

Did You Know That—

Prior to the organization of the County of Schleicher, the citizens living in the county were connected to the county of Menard for Judicial purposes. Schleicher Citizens decided to organize and this required a petition be signed by 150 citizens presented to Commissioners Court in Menard County.

The story has been told without confirmation, that the signatures were hard to get because of such thinly populated area. It was said that some horses names were added to the petition. If a man by the name of Jones owned a horse by the name of Charlie, the name of Charlie Jones was found on the petition!

The organizers secured enough names and the county was organized in 1901. The county was created in 1887, but not organized until 1901.

New Pastor Coming For Presbyterians

The Rev. Gordon F. Garlington is moving here from Pecos where he served for the past five years, to be new resident pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The Garlingtons' children are grown.

Rev. Garlington will be the first resident pastor of the Presbyterian church here in more than a year. It was in June of 1969 that Toney McMillan moved from here to Kingsville. Since then the church has been served by supply pastors.

"We Have A Good Thing Going"

In the memory of this writer the Schleicher County Medical Center is the only new business ever opened in Eldorado which got more business right from the start than it could handle.

The nursing wing was the first to have a waiting list and the lessee, Medica Diversified, is building a new addition at its own expense. They expect to promptly fill the new beds with paying patients, when it is completed about a month from now.

Now the hospital wing is being faced with the same situation. It is full up and running over, and with the recent arrival of Dr. Peterson, is expected to remain that way. A new wing will be demanded here, too, some time in the future, if the institution is going to be able to provide the service expected of it.

Schleicher County people should realize by now that we have a good thing going, and that it should be encouraged to grow.

Census Reveals Facts About State's Growth

Austin, Tx.—New census figures are very much in the news these days. Some communities are not happy about the tabulations released, but to properly evaluate the phenomenal growth and development of Texas cities, it is necessary to make a long term comparison.

When John Ireland was Governor of Texas (Grover Cleveland was in the White House), San Antonio was the largest Texas city with a population of 30,000. Dallas ranked second with a little over 27,000 residents; Galveston boasted 24,500 followed by Houston's 23,137; Fort Worth 22,000; Waco 17,000 and Austin was just shy of 12,000.

At that time, Amarillo was a little hamlet of 400 people and Lubbock didn't even exist. Port Arthur was known as Aurora which vanished in 1887. Beaumont was the big city in the southeast part of the state. It had 3,000 people and eight sawmills and a shingle mill.

That was 84 years ago, the year that marked the formation of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas, one of the oldest non-profit associations in the Southwest. A few lumbermen met in Austin to form the organization which now has members in 413 Texas communities. The lumber dealer has played a big role in the growth and development of the Lone Star State.

The L. V. Newports are back from a trip to San Francisco where they visited his sisters. The things of interest they saw on the way there and back were Sequoia National Park, Las Vegas, Hoover Dam, Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert. There is just no place like home after two weeks on the desert.

Glowanda King has moved to the Lynn Alexander house.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Ting Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Screwworm cases confirmed during the week July 13-17 totaled 15 in Texas, with the Big Bend and Trans-Pecos area leading the state in cases.

With the increase in screwworm cases officials of the program are increasing sterily fly production and fly distribution to these areas. Schleicher county producers are urged to continue and strengthen the alert for screwworm cases. The time has come to observe the basic three principles—examine, collect and treat.

Many plants, such as Crepe Myrtle, Rose and Euanymus are showing signs of a fungal disease known as powdery mildew. This disease, as the name implies, gives the plant the appearance of being covered with a powdery substance such as talc.

Powdery mildew is difficult to control; however, if the homeowner will use the proper fungicide and make repeated applications, a successful job can be done.

Fungicides which can be used are Karathane, Actidone PM, and Folpet. Sulfur may also be used. However, use sulfur with care or burn may occur if environmental conditions are not optimal for its use. Other fungicides such as Captan and Zineb are not effective for powdery mildew; thus many homeowners do not get the desired control when using them.

Repeated applications of the recommended material should be made at 5-7 day intervals until a minimum of three have been made. Weather conditions may necessitate additional applications to keep the disease controlled. The secret to powdery mildew control is selection of the right material and its repeated use.

Knowing that you don't know much is knowing a great deal indeed.

Abnormal growth or galls are showing up on many ornamentals and shade trees in the county.

Certain insect species and mites cause the deformities which develop on the leaves, twigs, or stems of the plants. Immature stages of the pest can often be found inside the developing galls.

The insect eggs are laid in the tissues of the leaf, stem or twig usually prior to full development of the leaves. The laying and hatching stimulates the plant to form an abnormal growth at the point of the attack inside which the immature pests develop. Control of the abnormality cannot be accomplished after it has formed since it contains and protects the pest from insecticidal contact.

Most ornamental plants and shade trees can tolerate galls with no apparent injury; however, under certain conditions a sufficient number of the insects can damage the plant. Unhealthy trees are more susceptible than those in vigorous growth.

Preventive sprays applied early in the growing season may lessen gall infestations. Control is impossible after the gall begins to form. If a preventive spray program is needed, applications should begin with new growth and continue at weekly intervals until the leaves are fully developed.

Information is available at my office on many other insects and their control.

Although there is never a shortage of trouble, some people insist on time looking for it.

After deciding upon the size and location of a patio, the next important step is selecting the building materials and the method of construction. A little advance planning can greatly reduce maintenance and up-keep and make a patio more enjoyable to use, Everett E. Janne, Texas A&M University landscape horticulturist, noted.

"Factors generally influencing the selection of surface materials include the intended use of the patio, whether you build it yourself or hire it done, the aesthetic effect desired and the cost," Janne said. "Because of its durability, low maintenance requirement and ease to install, concrete seems to be more widely used as a patio surface; however, a plain concrete slab is somewhat lacking in visual quality or aesthetic beauty."

With a little imagination, concrete, nevertheless, can be used very effectively as a patio surface. A redwood grid system used with an exposed aggregate concrete provides an attractive surface. Usually a three or four-foot square grid is constructed of 1 x 4 inch or 2 x 4 inch heart redwood lumber. This is especially handy for the do-it-yourself type construction as it allows one to pour and finish the concrete one square at a time, Janne noted.

"The exposed aggregate surface provides one of the most attractive patio surfaces available," Janne said. "It gives color and texture to the surface which is lacking in finished concrete, yet it provides the permanence and durability of concrete; however, exposed aggregate surfaces do not lend themselves easily to the do-it-yourself projects and are best handled by experienced concrete contractors."

A practical yet very attractive surface for the do-it-yourselfer is the brick-on-sand patio, Janne said. This is especially suited to a house where brick is part of the exterior structure and it provides a desirable design continuity through a repetition of materials, he added.

A good sand base is essential for the brick patio. First step is to excavate the area designated for the patio to a depth of five to six inches. Fill in with three to four inches of builders sand, level and compact. The brick are then laid as close together as possible on top of the compacted sand surface.

"There are numerous patterns one can use in laying the brick; the important consideration, however, is to keep the upper surface of the brick at ground level," Janne noted. "If the patio area is to be higher than the surrounding area, it is essential to hold the brick in place with a concrete or redwood curb."

The brick should be carefully leveled as they are laid, then as an area is finished, sweep fine sand into the cracks and sprinkle the surface with water, he added.

Other materials suited for a patio surface include wood, slate, tile, cut stone and flag stones.

According to Janne, the important consideration in choosing a material for a patio is that it should blend with or repeat material used in the house or elsewhere on the landscape site. It should also be attractive as well as durable and usable, Janne said.

Common sense is not so common.

Peach Trees Are Being Damaged By Nematodes

College Station, Texas.—A very small worm-like parasite, commonly known as root knot nematode, is playing havoc with peach trees in some Texas orchards.

Symptoms of the parasite include stunted trees and yellowing of the foliage and a close examination of the roots reveals the presence of small diameter galls, Jerral D. Johnson, Extension plant pathologist, said.

"There are two methods of controlling the nematode problem in peach trees," Johnson said. "The first is the use of resistant rootstocks, Okinawa or Nemaguard. Homeowners who are planning to plant trees this fall should contact their nurseryman to assure that the varieties they want will be available on either of these two rootstocks."

The next method of controlling nematodes is the use of soil fumigation, Johnson said. This is required on trees that are already planted and on which nematodes are later found, he explained.

"Nematicides containing DBCB such as Nema-X, Nematode Killer, Fumazone, Nemagon or Oxy-BBC-12 can be used," Johnson said. "These materials should be applied in a basin around the drip line of the tree and then watered in with about a three inch layer of water to act as a water seal."

"This will force the fumigant down around the root system of the plant, which will result in the death of the nematodes."

Not all nematodes cause galls; therefore, soil tests are sometimes required to determine if other nematodes might be involved in the decline of the fruit trees, Johnson noted.

If you suspect nematode damage, it is suggested that a soil sample be sent to the Plant Nematode Detection Laboratory, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas. Your local county agricultural agent, according to Johnson, has the sample bags, sheets, and mailing containers for these soil samples.

Nematodes can be controlled on fruit trees if the problem is properly diagnosed and corrective action is taken, whether it be thru the use of resistant rootstocks or the use of a soil nematicide, Johnson said.

Best Food Buys Of Week Suggested

College Station, Tex.—Fryers remain a bargain in most retail meat departments, and Grade A large and medium eggs are nip and tuck in offering the most in quality and economy for the egg dollar, Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, reports.

"Look for best beef values on round steaks, chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, boneless rolled roast and liver," Mrs. Clyatt said. "A few of the popular steak cuts are offered at moderate prices. These usually include sirloin and T-bone steaks."

Best pork values, according to Mrs. Clyatt, include hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, end-cut loin roasts and chops and all kinds of lunch meat.

Fresh fruit items in good supply at the most economical prices include nectarines, apricots, bananas, peaches, cantaloupes, watermelons and plums, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"Purple hull and blackeye peas, corn, carrots, squash, dry yellow onions, celery, potatoes, head lettuce, cabbage, okra, cucumbers, radishes, green onions and tomatoes are also in good supply and are available at economical prices," she said.

Coke Stevenson Given Award By TS&GRA

San Antonio, Texas.—The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association honored its only living charter member here at the 55th convention by presenting former Texas Governor Coke R. Stevenson with the Fred Earwood Memorial Award.

Created some two years ago by TS&GRA directors, the Earwood Award is the highest award of distinction given by the association. Following the death of Fred Earwood, friends and associates formed a special fund to memorialize him. Each year some deserving person whose contributions exemplify Earwood's dedication and efforts for the welfare of all sheep and goat producers is recognized.

Coke Stevenson of Junction was singled out for his continued support and aid to the sheep and goat organization for over 55 years. Since the first meeting in Del Rio in 1916, his services and advice have aided in the building of the Association.

Oil News

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., San Angelo, and T. C. Meador No. 2 Myrtle Williams, et al, section 42, HE&WT survey, a location south extension and second producer in the Williams Ranch Strawn reef lime pool of Schleicher County, 18 miles northwest of Eldorado, was flowing seven to nine barrels of oil, plus two to three barrels of water per hour through 20-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,280 1/2 to 7,283 1/2 feet, after treatment with 375 gallons of acid.

Austin, Tex.—Eighteen-year-olds will be registered to vote in Texas this year unless the U. S. Supreme Court, in the meantime, invalidates the new federal voting rights act.

State officials plan to give federal authorities this assurance in reply to an inquiry of U. S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asking all governors to report on steps they will take to comply with the new provision and other sections of the federal bill effective January 1.

Texas, reportedly, already is in compliance with the act, except for the lowered voting age. This state has no literacy test and "good character" requirements for election participation such as those outlined by a bill signed into law by President Nixon on June 22.

When the Texas voter-registration period opens on October 1, 18-year-olds will be signed up if the expected court test is not settled by then. Local registration officials will be advised by state election authorities to register them pending a court decision.

According to election division director Randall Wood, the Secretary of State's office proposes to suggest that teen-age registrations be kept separately from those of voters 21 and above. This would simplify subsequent invalidation in the event the Supreme Court should rule the federal act unconstitutional after state registration is under way.

Test case probably will be in Washington State. There is 18-year-old vote-referendum already is set for the November ballot. Washington officials are in a better political position to state that they will not comply with the federal law until their voters voice approval of the lowered age proposition.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. figures the federal act would add about 395,000 under-21 voters to Texas' registration rolls—if it survives the court test.

Oil Production Raised

Oil production for August will be boosted 335,263 barrels a day, due largely to the high cost of shipping petroleum from foreign sources.

Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said the increase was brought about by high tanker rates as well as a demand for more cheap domestic oil. He noted that the Commission had disregarded recommendations of some to shut stripper or marginal wells, therefore the state has additional capacity.

Statewide allowable was pegged at 62.9% of potential for August after a three months' decline. July allowable was 55.5%. Maximum estimated production for August is 3,602,296 barrels a day, up from 3,267,033 in July.

Courts Speak

Federal court suit has been filed against the City of Tyler by the U. S. government to end school segregation by this fall.

Court of Criminal Appeals held that a driving while intoxicated conviction is invalid if the defendant was on private property at the time of arrest.

State Supreme Court refused to upset a lower court denial of damages to the widow of a man killed in an auto-train crash near Edna. Jury found negligence on the part of both the man and Southern Pacific Railroad employees.

High Court also held that a Potter County couple was not entitled to damages from a doctor because the woman could no longer have children after an operation.

Harris County district court granted an injunction against Good-year Tire and Rubber Company, prohibiting it from discharging industrial wastes into Sims Bayou in greater amounts than that permitted by the Water Quality Board. Court ordered a $20,000 fine, the largest civil penalty in Texas pollution case history.

Attorney General Rules

Wichita Falls school board is without authority to adopt a resolution or policy providing for recall elections of its members, says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Martin ruled in other recent opinions that: —A county treasurer is the proper official to make delivery of county warrants to payees.

—County attorney who resigns as of a future date may not withdraw his resignation after it is duly accepted by the commissioners court even though the effective date has not arrived. However, until a successor is appointed, it is his duty to serve.

Martin said a Spring Branch real estate developer (Cypress Lake Gardens) gave assurance of voluntary compliance with directives to discontinue misleading advertising and sales practices.

Draft Quota Drops

August draft call for Texas is 560. That's 257 less than the 817 in July. No man will be inducted with random sequence number higher than 195.

State quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Those called for these examinations will have random sequence numbers one to 215.

Deferred or exempt men may be forwarded for examinations if they are likely to lose deferred or exempt status within the next six months. No men with random sequences higher than 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. All volunteers at draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for draft by r.s.n. National call is for 10,000 men, all for the army.

Appointments Announced

Barney McCoy Davis was named by Gov. Preston Smith to the Board of Regents of Pan American College at Edinburg.

Jerry Brock and Lynn Scott were appointed assistant state consumer credit commissioners. Allo B. Crow Jr. is the new general counsel to Commissioner Sam Kelley.

Members of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Commission are the most Reverend Francis J. Furney of San Antonio, George Ozuna of San Antonio, William D. Cox Jr. of Dallas, Dr. Edward W. Guinn of Ft. Worth, Thomas J. Murphy of Dallas, Lee A. Lewis of Houston, Willard H. Green of Temple, Raymond D. Nasher of Dallas and Bernard Rapoport of Waco.

R. L. (Bud) Reed, formerly of Paris, will be the East Texas region consultant for Texas Industrial Commission.

Budget Requests Soaring

Major state agency budget requests continued to prompt speculation of a huge tax need for next year—perhaps as high as $700 million.

Board of Public Welfare finally officially approved a $2.1 billion biennial spending plan which is $347.6 million above present spending levels. Mental Health-Mental Retardation request of $314 million is $139.7 million above the current level, and colleges and universities want an increase of $258.9 million. Combined with public schools biennial operating proposals of $377.1 million, major agencies of education, mental hospitals-retardation schools and welfare want more than $1 billion more than they now are getting.

Short Shorts . . .

State Banking Board approved charters for Bank of Commerce at Point Comfort, Seaport Bank at Seadrift, Colonial Bank of Greenville and Hillside Bank and Trust Company of Dallas; declined charters for American Bank of Lovelady and Citizens Bank and Trust of Iowa Park.

Veteran newspaperman and state capital correspondent Harry Benge Crozier died here June 14, at age 78.

Texas will get $1.6 million in federal funds to expand its driver training program and provide simulators and driving ranges.

Contract has been let for $6.7 million 14-storey oceanography & meteorology building at Texas A & M University.

Amistad Airlines application to provide service between Brazoria County and Houston met no opposition.

Allegations of sex abuses, drinking, drug taking and patient mistreatment at Austin State Hospital were confirmed in part and refuted in part by a staff investigation report.

Lion Governor Wisheart Addresses Local Club

Harry C. Wisheart Jr. of Junction, governor of Lions District 2A-1, made his official visit to the local club at noon Wednesday. He addressed the meeting and his speech was well received by all present.

Lion Wisheart has succeeded A. E. Prugel of Sonora as governor. He is connected with the radio station at Junction and formerly was with the San Angelo T-V station as weathercaster.

Boss Lion L. D. Mund presided at the meeting.

The club will not meet next week on Wednesday, July 29th, that date being a fifth Wednesday. Next club meeting will be on August 5th.

I'm sure you've all been reading about the new Spiro Agnew wrist watch which has been selling like hot cakes.

OUR ULSTER HERITAGE

It will be open house in Ulster—the traditional name for Northern Ireland—next year with an invitation by Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark to "businessmen, tourists and our own kith and kin from all over the world to come to Northern Ireland in 1971 and see and learn about the Province at first hand." A year of festivals, exhibitions and other events are planned for "Come to Ulster '71."

Ulysses Simpson Grant (1822-85) of Ohio. President, 1869-77.

Particular focus will be on Ulster's "kith and kin" in the United States—the Scotch Irish and their descendants—and the broad historical links between this country and Northern Ireland.

Ulstermen note that famous American figures of Scotch-Irish stock include such varied individuals as Horace Greeley, founder of the New York Tribune; Edgar Allan Poe, Stephen Foster, Generals Sam Houston and "Stonewall" Jackson, Davy Crockett, and Harold Ross, founder of the New Yorker magazine.

Perhaps the best known contemporary Scotch-Irish Americans are former Secretary of State Dean Rusk, billionaire J. Paul Getty, the equally well-endowed Mellon clan, and Ulster-born actress Greer Garson.

James Knox Polk (1795-1845) of North Carolina. President, 1845-49.

Ulstermen also recall with pride that men from Northern Ireland were among those who signed the American Declaration of Independence (and that Ulsterman John Dunlap printed it), helped draft the Constitution and who formed a large part of Washington's Continental Army. They are even more aware of the fact that no less than one-fourth of all American Presidents have been of direct Scotch-Irish descent.

Three of the ten, Presidents Jackson, Buchanan and Arthur, were first generation Americans. Their parents were born in Northern Ireland. They are the only first-generation Americans to occupy the White House. Jackson barely made it to America, being born shortly after his parents landed.

Their ancestral Ulster homes have been restored or the sites marked with plaques.

Perhaps the best preserved is the thatched-roofed cottage near Strabane, County Tyrone. It was here that James Wilson, grandfather of President Wilson, lived before emigrating to the United States in 1807. The President's grandmother was Annie Adams of the same county; the couple met aboard the same U.S.-bound ship.

Through preserving the Scotch-Irish ancestral homesteads and showing them to the world through "Ulster '71," Northern Ireland hopes to strengthen the links she has with the United States through our common heritage.

HOW TO ROAST TURKEY ON A BARBECUE GRILL

For a turkey that's roasted to a ruddy, rich, brown color, skin crisp and flavorful, meat moist and with more flavor than any you've tasted before, try roasting this wonderful bird on an outdoor barbecue grill.

You'll need a grill with a dome type hood to close over the turkey. The heat will be reflected down on the bird, making an oven out of the grill. You can make a hood from wire coat hangers and Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap.

The grill should be at least 24 inches in diameter if the round brazier type. If rectangular in shape, it should be about 14 inches wide by about 24 inches long. These will accommodate turkeys up to 14 lbs. ready-to-cook.

1. Set up the grill on a terrace, in a carport, or the doorway of the garage, out of the wind.

2. Build the fire at one side of end of the grill using about half a 5-lb. bag of charcoal briquets. At the other side of the grill place a shallow foil-lined pan.

3. Place the grate in position over the charcoal, and when the fire is burning enough to create considerable heat, place the turkey on the grate over the pan. . . not over the fire. The turkey is stuffed and trussed in the usual way.

4. Cover or place a foil hood on the grill, adjust the damper so fire burns moderately. Don't try to rush the roasting. Brush the turkey once or twice with melted shortening or a basting sauce of wine or cider and herbs.

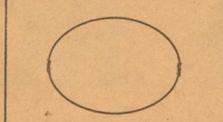

Should the side of the turkey closest to the fire tend to brown too quickly, protect with foil. Add additional briquets once or twice during the roasting, a few damp hickory chips towards the end.

5. Roast the turkey about the same length of time as for oven roasting. A 14-lb. turkey should take about 4 hours. The usual tests for doneness can be used. . . the drumstick and thigh joint should move easily; press the meat of the breast with the fingers, it should feel soft. An oven thermometer inserted in the thickest part of the thigh should read 185°.

Drippings in the foil-lined pan will make wonderful gravy.

1. Clip off hooks of 6 or 7 coat hangers with wire cutters; straighten wire with pliers.

2. Form 2 or more lengths into a firm circle, using picture wire to bind ends together. This is the base of hood and should fit just inside grill.

3. Loop remaining wires umbrella fashion and attach to base circle, using pliers to twist ends. Fasten together with picture wire at top.

4. Cover with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Leave small portion of foil loose at top to open for draft.
