Conference Set For ASC County Committee

County committeemen of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Executive Directors from all Texas counties will attend a State Conference in Galveston on February 9-10. Ronnie Mittel, County Executive Director of the Schleicher County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said that the meeting in Galveston is especially timely because of vital new farm legislation passed by the last Congress and recent announcement of the new Rural Environmental Assistance Program by Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

Featured conference speakers will be E. F. Behrens, Executive Assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, George V. Hanson, Deputy Administrator, State and County Operations, and Charles M. Cox, Assistant Deputy Administrator, State and County Operations, AS-SCS, Washington, D. C.; J. P. Jones, former Texas who is Southwest Area Director, AS-SCS, Washington, D. C., and Ray Wax of Illinois, president of the National Association of Farmer-Elected Committeemen.

Mr. Mittel said that group discussions with committeemen from other counties on farm programs and environmental problems will be an important part of the program.

In addition to Mr. Mittel, others attending the conference from Schleicher county will include Wayne Mikeska and Billy Williams.

Post Script

In this Success issue we are running Santa Fe's notice for the third and final time in which they set forth their proposal to abandon their 65-mile line from San Angelo to Sonora. The line passes through this county and along the east edge of Eldorado.

In checking this week with our taxing units we found that Santa Fe pays City taxes of $212.70, and school taxes of about $6,000 a year, and county and state taxes of about $3200 a year. Those amounts total nearly $10,000 in taxes that will be lost if the rail line is done away with.

Whether any protests have been filed as of right now is not known.

It was last Wednesday afternoon just as we'd finished printing the paper, that Mrs. Earl Dean Clark came in to report that their big friendly Collie, "Lassie" had been missing since the previous Saturday.

For the past several years Lassie has been as familiar on Main street as the three young Clark children she always followed. She was a friend, too, to the Success crew and on hot summer days often came in to lie near the open front door to rest in the cool breeze of our air-conditioner.

Dorothy's first impulse was to place a "lost" ad in the paper, but she also agreed that it would likely do no good. If Lassie were alive and anywhere in the county she would have come home. Did she run off with a pack of dogs and get shot? Did someone carry her off? We'll never know.

She has been gone now for a week and a half, and no doubt is gone for good.

Lassie was an important member of the Clark family and they all miss her—and we do, too.

If somewhere there is another young Collie, looking for a good home, I know just where it would be welcome.

Maps put out by the U. S. Weather Service showing the weather outlook from mid-January to mid-February, don't provide any encouragement for us in this part of West Texas.

Our temperature, it says, will be above normal, and our rainfall will be below normal.

Many of us have had a sinking suspicion all along that we are in the midst of another drought.

The month of January ended with another big fat zero as regards measurable rainfall. Last good rains we had were around the first of October.

On this our first issue in February we are reminded that three local elections are due to come up on the first Saturday in April.

There will be a city election for Mayor and several city aldermen.

Then there will be a school board election for perhaps three school trustees.

And last there will be an election for three Schleicher County Hospital District Directors.

Between now and next week we shall check with each of these three, to see whose terms expire and we shall be able next week to give the dates when the various candidates must announce—in other words the final date for announcing.

These are non-paying jobs and the people who have been holding them have been giving their time free for the good of the county and city. We'd be happy if they all appear on the April ballots for reelection.

Members and mamas have been out selling candy for "That Goin' Band From Eagle Land," ever since last Wednesday.

If you haven't been approached by this time you better get your dollar ready.

There is one thing different about the chocolate covered almonds that these folks are selling—they are darned good to eat!

—ps—

In last week's Devil's River News we read where the City of Sonora is calling a special election this month for the purpose of voting a 1% sales tax to be collected by their local business firms on their sales in addition to our regular state sales tax.

This city sales tax has been adopted in San Angelo and many other large towns. It is resorted to when a town's tax revenues are not large enough to meet their expenses. For example a demand for higher salaries by city employees.

Very few people out this way are in the mood now to vote for increased taxes, and it will be interesting to see what our neighbors to the south will do about it.

Recent fire alarms: Last Friday a run was made to a car at Redwine's.

Sunday morning at 10:40, a run was made to Conrado Saldivar's and at 3:30 p.m. that day another run was made to D. Martinez's.

Anniversary of Scouting

Every year the nation observes Boy Scout Week in observance of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America 61 years ago. This year, 4.5 million Boy Scouts and their 1.5 million adult leaders will observe the birthday of Scouting under a new banner. Instead of Boy Scout Week, there is now to be a Boy Scouts of America Anniversary Celebration during the entire month of February.

Presently, one out of four boys of Scout age is a member of the Boy Scouts of America and through a new long-range development plan called BOYPOWER '76, the Boy Scouts plan to involve a representative one third of all boys in the Scouting program. Parents are missing a bet when they overlook the good works of the Scouts. The age of Scouting begins at eight years and extends through 17. The 8-year-olds can enroll in the Cub Scouts. When a youngster reaches 11 years of age, he can become a full-fledged Boy Scout and participate in vigorous outdoor programs to teach boys concepts of honor, duty to God and country; service to others; and self-respect.

The Boy Scout organization had its inception on July 2, 1907, when a small group of boys and two men set up a camp in a sheltered bay on an island off England's southern coast. The group was led by Lord Baden-Powell, a British hero of the Boer War, and the boys were from the streets of England's cities—and from the most exclusive schools. Two years later, Boy Scouting came to the United States when William D. Boyce, a Chicago newspaper and magazine publisher, inspired by his acquaintance with Scouting in England incorporated on February 8, 1910, the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C.

A Federal Charter from Congress was granted on June 15, 1916. Today we owe a debt of gratitude to the vision of Lord Baden-Powell and William D. Boyce. There is no better way of expressing that gratitude than by furthering the cause of the Scouts at every opportunity during the month of February.

Hall To Head Easter Seal Drive In County

Mr. Raymond Hall will head the 1971 Easter Seal Appeal in Schleicher County, it was announced by P. O. Settle, Jr., of Fort Worth, president of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Residents of Schleicher County will receive the annual Easter Seal Appeal letters in the mail beginning March 1. The Easter Seal Appeal, conducted yearly to provide disabled persons and their families treatment and services, will continue through Easter Sunday, April 11.

He is one of 223 men and women throughout Texas who are serving in this capacity. The cost of the statewide Easter Seal program is over one million dollars, financed mainly by the Easter Seal Appeal. Almost 90% of all funds raised by the Easter Seal Appeal remain in Texas to support the growing needs of the disabled in the state.

Special emphasis is being given in the 1971-Easter Seal Appeal to the disabled citizen or his family in Schleicher County who may need assistance and not know where to obtain it. Any disabled person can contact Mr. Hall at the First Nat's Bank, Eldorado, who will refer the request for services to the Easter Seal Society. A determination of the extent and type of assistance needed and the most efficient means of obtaining that assistance will be made. Arrangements for needed treatment or service will be made by the Easter Seal Society.

Inner-City Ghettos Are New Target For Boy Scout Units

Almost from the moment the organization was founded back in 1910, the Boy Scouts of America became an integral part of the middle-class U. S. scene. They were adolescent Chautauquans in uniform, earnest of purpose if sometimes a bit rambunctious in performance. They provided Norman Rockwell with some of his finest moments and gave jawbreakers and bubble gum permanent places in the pantheon of national confect-

But then came the turbulent years from the mid-1950's on, and to youngsters in the nation's awakening ghettos, the Boy Scouts loomed as a phenomenon at least as anachronistic as Amos 'n' Andy—and just about as popular. There were a number of reasons for this. Perhaps the chief among them was that the traditional image of the Boy Scout was that of a white, middle-class lad, neatly togged out in his uniform ($13.50) and equipped with a sleeping bag ($20), a knapsack ($5), cooking kit ($3) and canteen ($2.50). But there also were other considerations, such as the Official Boy Scout Handbook's devotion to wildlife studies, Indian lore, bird watching and other pursuits that for the most part were as strange to ghetto kids as white middle-class Americans themselves.

Adapted: Lately, these barriers have become a source of increasing embarrassment to Scout officials who want to organize troops in the slums, and at least some of this embarrassment stems from the fact that 60% of the Boy Scout budget ($62 million in 1969) is provided by the United Fund on the understanding that the Scouts are helping the poor. This was a difficult claim to sustain as recently as five years ago, when a bare 3% of inner-city kids were involved in Scout troops. "We realized," says chief Scout executive Alden G. Barber, "that the Scouts had not adapted some of their techniques enough to be utilized by ghetto people."

As a result, the BSA embarked on a crash program to become more citified. As a part of the Boy Power '76 program—aimed at reaching one out of three American kids by 1976—hundreds of organizers streamed into the slums to begin organizing troops. Along with them they are taking money—some $15 million this year. Blacks were hired to spread the word from scoutmobiles that jangled through city streets and from storefronts that sought to make Boy Scouts of gang members. More important, the Official Scout Handbook was replaced for city kids with a shortened, comic-book-style manual called "How." Gone are the endless passages on flag etiquette and obsessive lectures on clean thought and in their place is reasonably straight talk about how to be a Scout in the city, illustrated with pictures of blacks and Puerto Ricans, as well as whites. "Helpfulness" is illustrated by a boy wheeling a baby carriage down slum tenement steps; Jackie Robinson is honored as the first black in baseball. There is even a stilted attempt to introduce "black talk." "Soon's you make Second Class," one First Class Scout says to a Tenderfoot, "you start workin' on First, hear?"

So far this turnaround has achieved at least some success. In Boston, Scout executive Ralph Darian sent three-quarters of his staff into the slums of Roxbury and Dorchester and within a year came up with a 20% increase in troops. To solve the uniform problem, he ordered "seconds" from the national office, which were then sold to Scouts at $2 apiece. To provide camping equipment, he is raising money for a central supply depot to lend each boy a sleeping bag and knapsack. Where male leadership was absent he persuaded women to drive kids to meetings and campouts. Even the requirements for merit badges were gently tinkered with. To earn conservation badges, the Scouts planted trees in Roxbury and went over to the effluent plant to get a firsthand look at sewage. Their "good turn" in 1968 was cleaning up after that spring's rioting. "Scouting has done a great job in suburbia," says Darian. "But we think it can have relevance to the core city too."

On a national basis, Scout leader Barber thinks the program has already accomplished its task, citing a fourfold increase in ghetto Scouts to prove his point. "The image of Boy Scouts as irrelevant is mainly our fault," says Barber. "We have allowed the public to think Boy Scouts go around in short pants helping little old ladies across the street. It's now our job to 'tell it like it is' through a better public relations program."

Defection: But for all this putative progress, it seems clear that winning the slums over to Scouting will take a lot more effort in the future. To start with, many of Barber's new black Scouts come from "paper units"—troops formed hurriedly under severe pressure to fulfill area quotas, then abandoned to fall apart for lack of community involvement. "They measure everything in terms of numbers and not quality," says one Harlem organizer, who estimates the defection rate of new troops in his area is about 40% within a few months. In 1968, he says, 110 boys from Harlem were taken on a 10-day camping trip. At the end of their stay, they were made into full-fledged Scouts, but on returning home, they found the troops formed to receive them were already dissolved.

There are other problems, too. Scout accoutrements themselves—revised as they are—still seem out of touch with the city. Accordingly, the caps have been abandoned by at least some black troops in favor of more militant-looking berets. Bucolic-sounding animal names for patrols have been changed to names like "Black Panthers" or "Soul Brothers." Even much of Scouting's liturgy is still a stumbling block. "They don't even know what any of the words mean," says the organizer. "And in Harlemese, words like 'thrifty' are damn hard to pronounce." —Newsweek.
