Post Script

In mid-last week I took off for Cecil Williams' country store in Reynolds to find out if there would be a supply of shelled black-eyed peas again this year.

It was close to 8:00 p.m. when I arrived there and what I found was that Gertrude had just returned from Angelo, where she had visited Cecil in St. John's Hospital.

His address is: Cecil Williams, Room 233, St. John's Hospital, San Angelo, Texas 76901.

As far as Cecil is concerned, Gertrude said she expected him to remain there for another week, at least, and that when he returns he will still be unable to do the jobs he formerly handled.

So, Gertrude has full responsibility of the store, the livestock and the gardens. She said they have a good crop of black-eyed peas but that she would not have time to gather any. She also added that if people from town would be willing to come out and do their own gathering—they would be welcome.

Krueger To Address Lions Club July 24th

BOB KRUEGER

Democratic Nominee For Congress

At the meeting next week of the Eldorado Lions Club, the program speaker will be Bob Krueger of New Braunfels, Democratic nominee for Congressman of the 21st Congressional District. His appearance will come exactly one week after that of his Republican opponent, Doug Harlan of San Antonio.

The Lions Club luncheon meeting on Wednesday, July 24th, will start at 12:05, as usual.

Boss Lion Guy Whitaker stated that again any of the public who wish to come to the meeting at 12:30 that day and hear Mr. Krueger speak and participate in the question and answer session afterward, will be welcome to do so.

Krueger emerged tops among the six Democratic contenders for the 21st District post following O. C. Fisher's announcement last year that he would retire at the end of this year.

Democrat Krueger and Republican Harlan will be on the General Election ballot in November to determine Fisher's successor.

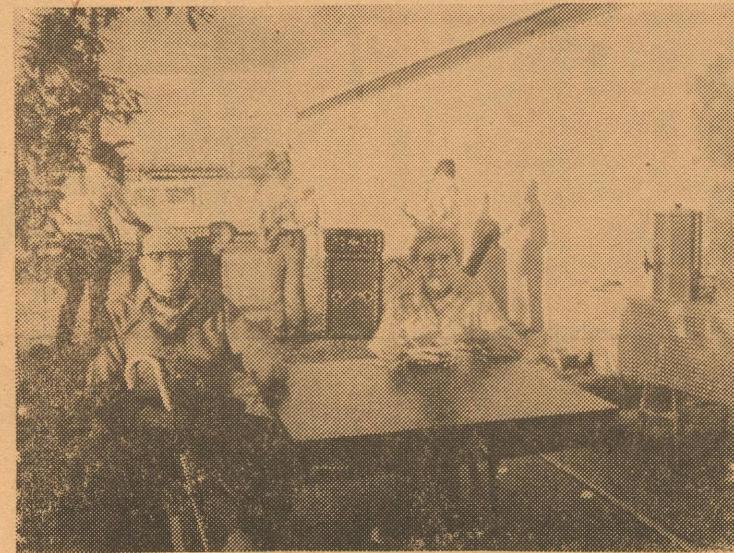

Additional Telephone Equipment Installed

General Telephone Company has announced that additional switching equipment has been installed in Eldorado and is now ready for use. According to Jack Goss, San Angelo division manager, the equipment will provide facilities for 200 new telephone customers. "The new equipment will also provide improved service to existing customers by eliminating problems associated with crowded facilities," Goss said.

Long distance facilities were also expanded with the installation of additional trunking equipment.

Such equipment additions are made on the basis of telephone surveys designed to determine future communications requirements and the immediate needs of our customers. Goss explained.

BARBECUE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS FRIDAY WAS SUCCESSFUL WITH GOOD TURN-OUT

Sam McGinnes, resident of the Nursing Home, and Mrs. Edwin Jackson Sr., member of the Hospital Auxiliary, were among those on hand at the Senior Citizens barbecue Friday night at the Medical Center.

If you happened to be in the neighborhood of Schleicher County Medical Center last Friday evening, it is possible that you wondered what was going on. It was a barbecue that the facility had for the Nursing Home residents and members of their families.

All the residents with blue and red bandanas on and their guests gathered on the patio and the lawn, where there were bales of hay scattered about for seating their guests. The serving table covered with a red and white checked table cloth was laden with all kinds of salads, desserts, pickles, onions, ice cold watermelon, iced tea and of course plenty of barbecue and beans. We were all entertained with good toe tapping country music and songs by Gene Nixon, Jimmy Deaton, Mark Thornton and their band. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves, eating, visiting with families and friends. We were chased into the dining room by a small shower, but this did not dampen anyone's spirits; we held forth until 9:00 o'clock. The nurses all wore bandanas on their heads, giving everything a very festive atmosphere. Approximately 150 guests and residents were in attendance.

Last week the local unit was called to a ranch fire in Sutton county, and on Sunday they were called to another grass fire 8 miles north of town.

With weeds three feet high and temperatures over 100 above, it behooves everyone to be alert. The season is right now.

Firemen are also cautioning all spectators to be careful not to get in the way when they are called to a fire.

three sprayings may be needed. Definitely do not use DSMA on St. Augustine.

Nutsedge or Nutgrass. This is the most frustrating weed problem for a lot of you fellow gardeners. Again, healthy turf is a good deterrent. In bermuda grass, DSMA will do an acceptable job if you keep after the problem. Remember, DSMA is deadly to St. Augustine. Fortunately nutsedge looks pretty much like St. Augustine, so it's not horribly obvious.

For nutsedge in flower beds and gardens, Eptam is good. It must be incorporated into the soil, so it's no good for lawn areas. Follow directions on the label closely and you should see some good results.

Crabgrass. If it weren't for crabgrass, there would be lawns everywhere left bare to the sun. If that fits your yard, try DSMA now on your bermuda grass. For St. Augustine, fertilize and water heavily to help it crowd out the invader. Crabgrass, of the three discussed, is the only annual weed. Since it does sprout each spring, pre-emergent weed killers can be used effectively. Dacthal is one of the best, giving good results when applied during mid-February before the seeds sprout.

SWEET-SOUR SAUCERY FOR TROUT

There's an old saying: "Trout are good in the creek, better in the basket, best in the frying pan." That's because pan-frying is the best way to cook trout.

Like other fresh water fish, trout do not require much seasoning as their natural flavor is sweet and rich. Sauces that are often served with pan-fried trout include mayonnaise, lemon, tartare and barbecue sauce.

An unusual sweet-sour sauce adds distinction to this trout recipe. The sauce is a delicately flavored, colorful combination of green pepper, onion, crushed pineapple and pimiento. It is served over crumb-coated pan-fried trout, with a garnish of coconut.

For rich buttery flavor when pan-frying fish, use Blue Bonnet Margarine. Not only does it taste like butter, but it produces the same crispy coating and golden brown color in frying. For best results, heat margarine slowly so it doesn't burn; add the fish when margarine is hot. Do not crowd the pan or the fish will steam, not brown.

Don't overcook trout. It pan-fries quickly, about 5 minutes per side, and is done when the meat is no longer transparent and flakes easily when tested with a fork.

- SWEET & SOUR TROUT 6 tablespoons Blue Bonnet Margarine 1/4 cup chopped green pepper 1/4 cup chopped onion 1 can (8-1/4 ounce) crushed pineapple

A delightfully refreshing new flavor combination is this sweet and sour sauce for pan-fried trout.

- 1 tablespoon sugar 1 teaspoon cornstarch 1 tablespoon vinegar 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento 4 trout, cleaned Flour 1 egg, beaten 1 cup flavored bread crumbs Shredded coconut

Melt 2 tablespoons margarine in a saucepan. Add pepper and onion. Saute until soft but not brown. Stir in undrained pineapple and sugar. Dissolve cornstarch in vinegar and add to mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Stir in pimiento; keep warm. Dust trout with flour. Dip into egg and roll in bread crumbs. Fry in remaining 4 tablespoons margarine until brown on both sides and fish flakes easily with a fork. (Approximately 5 minutes per side.) Serve immediately with prepared pineapple sauce and shredded coconut. Makes 4 servings.

Ingenious Triumphs Of Chemistry GOOD NEWS ABOUT SCIENTIFIC ADVANCES

JUST ABOUT EVERYTHING EXCEPT "CABBAGE AND KINGS" Chemistry Fights Disease

Take a billiard ball. Or false teeth. Or take the dishes from which you eat, the asphalt on which you drive, the paper on which you write. Look at the color of your drapes, the photos in your album. Listen to your radio, the records on your stereo. Smell the perfume in her hair or the after-shave lotion on his face. Feel the smooth wax sheen on your table or the rough nap of your rug. Taste the succulence of your steak or the sweet-sour olive in your martini.

Consider the bath tubs and boats, rain coats and soaps; gargles and colognes or transistors and telephones. Feast your eyes on the colors of clothes-or implants of silicone. Brush your teeth. Bake a cake. Write a letter. Stick a stamp. Polish your glasses. Mix a salad. Stamp out athlete's foot.

What are you doing? Using chemistry, because chemistry is not just mixtures with strange, exotic, frightening, tongue-twisting names that bubble up from contorted vials in a laboratory.

Nor is chemistry the white-froaked, bespectacled professor chalking endless equations onto a blackboard. Chemistry, the chemical industry and chemical engineering so pervade our lives that only energy and energy production are more important to us and to our life style.

The Need for Energy and Oil If it isn't a chemical end product, then somewhere along the line of manufacture, chemistry touched it or helped make it possible. However, without adequate energy for chemical processing or without adequate feedstocks based on oil and natural gas, none of this would be possible.

"Permanent anti-freeze," for example, is a chemical end product—it's primarily ethylene glycol.

The transistor, the portable television set, hearing aids that fit in the ear canal, heart pacemakers and a whole range of small and large appliances are the end products of electronics, which uses the techniques of chemical purification and crystallization, among others. Manufacturers of electrical equipment also depend on chemistry. A self-cleaning oven seems far removed from test tubes, but it depends on the chemical processes of pyrolysis and catalysis. The lightweight electric hand tools of today would be impossible without synthetic insulating materials developed by chemists, just as would man's trips to the moon. There is no room in a space vehicle for the insulating materials of old.

Nuclear energy relies heavily on chemistry and chemical engineering. Chemists and chemical engineers developed most of the processes used in petroleum refining; at its heart, the manufacture of iron and steel is a chemical process.

The food processing industry needs chemical knowledge of the basic structure of foods, and better, healthier foods demand knowledge of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals and how our bodies use them to stay healthy.

The food processing industry itself relies, of course, on the ready availability of food—the near-miracle productivity of the American farmers. And chemical fertilizers probably increase by a third the annual U.S. harvest.

Chemistry's contribution to a bigger, fuller market basket does not stop with fertilizers, however, because pesticides, insecticides and fungicides prevent much of the harvest from falling prey to a multitude of insects, weeds and diseases.

And the contents of our market baskets are not only healthier, but more attractive, fresher and are available the year round because of chemistry.

Even the healthiest person is subject to illness, but chemistry, through pharmaceuticals, has made such dread diseases as diphtheria, typhoid, paratyphoid and whopping cough medical rarities, as well as given us our everyday aspirin.

The fiber and textile industry has never been the same since chemists introduced nylon less than 40 years ago. Today one can dress completely in clothing made from chemicals, with a different wardrobe for both summer and winter—and all the seasons fashion designers have concocted in between. Drapes, upholstery and carpets surround our lives with color, and we worry less about the ravages of moths and mildew.

Industries seemingly far removed from chemistry are dependent on chemistry. Trucks and cars on synthetic rubber tires speed along asphalt derived from petroleum processing and upgraded by chemical additives. Airplanes land those tires on asphalt runways after control towers give the okay from plastic-housed radios, whose electricity flows along a maze of wires wrapped in plastic insulation. Ships are protected against rust by protective coatings made from chemicals.

The housing and construction industries use asphalt for roofs, plastic for piping and gypsum and chemically treated paper for wallboard. Our windows are clearer because glass has been treated with chemicals.

And none of this could we use without water, made clean and pure with the help of chemicals.

The chemicals and chemical processing industries are big business, too, giving employment to millions. Ten percent of the national income, in fact, is attributed to the chemical and chemical processing industries.

More importantly, chemistry is pervasive and irreplaceable. It touches every facet of our lives, from the time we crawl out of our durable-press sheets in the morning to the time we flick the plastic switch that turns out the lights at night.

It is a non-political, non-sectarian association with over one million members in 146 nations and geographic areas.

A former professional wrestler and World Light-Heavyweight Champion from 1947-49, Balbo has been a member of the La Grange, Illinois, Lions Club since 1952. Now a mobile home park owner, Balbo is a director of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness and a trustee of Leader Dog School for the Blind, Rochester, Michigan, and Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, Illinois.

President Balbo's theme for his year in office, "Lionism: a Heritage Challenging Tomorrow," exhorts Lions everywhere to build upon their strong history of service to meet the future needs of the handicapped, the lonely and the under-privileged of the world.

Austin, Tex.—Fitting together an acceptable constitutional revision package proved to be fully as thorny a job as the most pessimistic forecasters maintained.

Constitutional Convention delegates limped back to Austin this week to try again for a showdown two-thirds majority vote after rejecting 91-86 the initial submission proposal which they had stitched together piece-by-piece earlier.

Hang-ups ranged over a wide area—from the separate right-to-work proposition (which is bitterly opposed by organized labor) to internal provisions of the basic revision document.

Some persistent critics argued special interests had too big a hand in drafting the revision. Members of all factions disagreed over sections of the education article—including guaranteed equal opportunity and ear-marked college building funds.

First approaches at compromise centered on efforts to eliminate some of the five "separate submission" items—that is, proposals not included in the basic revision.

$72 Million Texas Share

Texas received $72 million in federal revenue-sharing funds for the final quarter of fiscal 1974.

The state government's share is $24,260,347—the same as third quarter of fiscal '74.

Checks will go to all levels of government which are eligible for revenue-sharing funds. About $48 million will benefit cities, counties and other local units.

Texas Dominant

Texas still dominates the livestock industry on the basis of 1973 statistics.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said Texas last year produced more than twice as many cattle and calves as the second place state, Iowa—16,250,000 head, compared to Iowa's 7,660,000.

Sheep and lamb production in Texas also topped the nation, and Texas ranked among the nation's top 10 dairy cattle states. Hog production in the state totaled 1,050,000 head in 1973.

Hearings Begin

First of 14 Texas Water Quality Board hearings began in Ft. Worth and Dallas last week in an effort to find a suitable way to dispose of toxic industrial wastes.

Testimony will also be taken in Beaumont, Port Arthur, Mexia, San Antonio, Pasadena, Corpus Christ, Brownsville, El Paso, Midland, Amarillo, Longview and Austin.

Attorney General's Opinions

Financial records and information on employees' salaries in a school district are subject to public disclosure, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:—The public has a right to examine and duplicate lists of registered voters who participated in a school board election.

—Hospitals will not lose their tax-exempt status due to incidental operation of a blood bank for public charity where no rent is charged.

—Information provided by banks to local tax assessor-collectors identifying stockholders and size and value of their holdings is public record.

—State employees must complete 15 or 20 years of employment to qualify for 10 and 14 hours vacation time for each month on the job. Sick leave can be accumulated without limitation.

—Surplus maintenance tax receipts of school districts and junior colleges may be pledged as payment for certificates of indebtedness under law, whether or not the tax election occurred before or after effective date of the act.

—How student service fees are to be charged is decision for governing boards of each institution of higher education.

Courts Speak

The Third Court of Civil Appeals upholding an Austin district court, said the Railroad Commission can force Lo-Vaca Gathering Company to apportion gas to Austin, San Antonio and Lower Colorado River Authority in the public interest.

Courts can enjoin picketing by strikers only where there is violence or a threat to order, the Supreme Court held.

In other new cases, the High Court held:

—Denied right of a Dallas developer to build a high rise apartment building on Swiss Ave.

—The doctrine by which negligence can be shifted from one party to another applies only to commercial enterprises.

—Two San Antonio lawyers should not be reprimanded by the State Bar for writing letters to a newspaper editor criticizing a district judge and each other.

—A contested 4,500 acres including a large part of Pleasure Island and part of Lake Sabine's bottom belong to Port Arthur (surface rights) and the state (mineral rights).

—Its May 29 decision that radio evangelist Lester Roloff can operate homes for teen-agers 16 and over without a license will stand in spite of a challenge by Hill.

Short Snorts . . .

Alabama Gov. George Wallace is soliciting funds from Texans for the new "Wallace Campaign," and polling as to how voters would cast their ballots if 1972 presidential candidates (including himself) were running today.

A pool by a state representative showed legislators don't really want a special session on school finance and other matters although many are calling for one publicly.

Attorney General Hill has been called on to write an opinion on whether Constitutional Convention delegates can legally draw reimbursement for chartering airplanes for official travel.

Four top candidates for House Speaker have spent nearly $100,000 in their quest for the magic 76 votes needed for election.

Secretary of State Mark White Jr. estimates up to a million names probably should be stricken from voter registration lists due to changes of address.

Nineteen minority business loans totaling $286,677 and 12 grants and contracts worth $1,419,605 were approved by the Texas Office of Minority Business Enterprise.

Common Cause charges lobbyists with "flagrant contempt" for a new disclosure law on their financial outlays for influencing legislation.

San Saba Valley Resource Conservation and Development

The San Saba Valley Resource and Development Project was organized to assist a Four County wide Area take care of their natural resources, improve their communities' economy, and enhance the economic, environmental, and social well being. It is a local project covering some 2,761,600 acres. Projects often include building health clinics, a school, or a road. They can include training programs or historical preservation.

The utilization of the resources at hand, both natural and human is central to the RC&D approach. Many of our resources are renewable—that is, they continue to replenish themselves if given good management.

The RC&D is a local program. County governments, Conservation Districts sponsor these projects. Additional sponsors can include state agencies, and comprehensive planning agencies and local non-profit organizations. By improving the economy, the environment, and the community facilities, an RC&D project area becomes a place where people are able to work and want to live.

RC&D is a local program. Decisions are made by local sponsors. The project area should be a natural unit in terms of physical and economic conditions. The RC&D approach can help any community where resources have not been developed to their fullest. It is not limited to low-income areas.

At the present time the San Saba Valley RC&D application is in Washington, D. C. awaiting authorization for assistance. After authorization is approved, then we will need to complete our project plan. Financial assistance for measures is not available until this is done.

The RC&D Council establishes resource committees to inventory and evaluate special areas of interest. One committee may deal with community facilities and decide what additional facilities are needed, another may be human resources, industry, and whatever use the council decides is needed.

The Council requests advisory assistance from local, state, and federal agencies; private organizations; and individuals.

Project plans include decisions reflected in a plan of action containing specific measures, priorities, and a timetable for accomplishment.

Whether or not private citizens are member of one of these committees, they can contribute their knowledge and opinions. They can explain what they see as their problems and opportunities and what they want to do about their community's future. Local residents know best what they need, want, and can achieve. It's their Community!

Once the project plan has been authorized agencies of the USDA can be called on to help project sponsors in carrying out their plan of action.

New opportunities will become apparent and new problems will arise. RC&D measures can be added or dropped after the project is authorized for operations. Priorities can be adjusted and objectives can be expanded or revised. The RC&D project approach is flexible. Planning is continuous and project plans are open-ended.

RC&D projects fit into the "Rural Development Thrust." By helping local residents conserve, develop, and better utilize their natural resources by bringing about: quality in the natural resource base for sustained use, quality in the environment, and quality in the standard of living based on community improvement and adequate income.

Achievement of these three goals for all of us is the mission of RC&D.

Succumb To Spain

Countless visitors have succumbed to the mystifying beauty of Spain's Basque country. Among its loveliest spots is La Rioja, a lush valley tucked into the foothills of the Pyrenees. Bullfighting was born in Basque country and some think great wine was born here, too.

Fragrant breads, succulent lamb, and exotic fish dishes are Riojans staples—and they are made especially delicious when complemented by fine wine. Americans can now savor these wines, thanks to the distinguished firm of Bodegas Bilbainas.

Most popular is Brillante, a soft, medium-dry white wine which goes with many foods. Also medium-dry is Brillante Rosado, a fruity rose. Vina Paceta and Capa d'Oro are drier, delicate whites. Vina Pomal and Vina Zaco are robust reds. And those deep ruby reservas, aged in oak at least 12 years for maximum richness with full body and bouquet, are superb, as well.

Ancient Egyptians believed that bees were born in the tears of the sun god.

To cure a man of drunkenness, some Europeans recommended skinning a live eel and dipping the skin in his drink. That should sober anyone up fast!

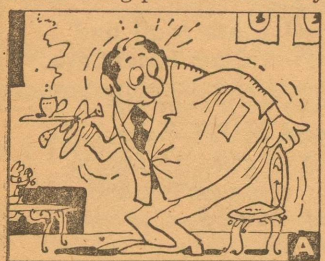

A pair of silk stockings produced in 14th century France sold for the equivalent of $3.86-2 1/4 times a laborer's annual wage.

Avoid These Common Decorating Blunders

Because home decorating is something you live with a long time, affects you psychologically, and is costly, you don't want to make irreversible errors in judgment.

Here are six decorating pitfalls to avoid:

1. DON'T over-accessorize. Lamps, ashtrays, vases, mirrors... it takes only one too many to go from charm to chaos. When in doubt, don't.
2. DON'T try to force co-existence on a variety of non-coordinating patterns. It's very unsettling to live in a battle of clashing designs.

3. DON'T hire just anybody who says he or she is an interior decorator. Even reputable stores label sales personnel "decorators." To be sure you're working with a true professional, look for AID or NSID after the designer's name. It's a designation used only by those who have passed rigid qualification examinations.
4. DON'T use monochromatic color schemes in rooms with a northern exposure. Correct dull lighting with vibrant colors — yellows, oranges, reds cheer best.
5. DON'T buy chairs for charm alone. "Sit-test" for comfort and see that they literally measure up for weight and girth.
6. DON'T buy something expensive because it's drop-dead-different or the very latest fad. You may grow to loathe it and feel you can't afford to unload it.

NEWS OF HEALTH

IMPORTANCE OF VISION CARE

"Children's eyes must be thoroughly checked before they are of school age. Education about the eye cannot begin too soon." (Dr. Morris Fishbein, Medical Editor)

"Nearly half of our population have some degree of impaired vision. Americans go blind at the rate of about 50,000 a year. Nearly a quarter of the very young, those under 20, suffer some visual deficiency and, of course, nearly all of those over 60."

"Nearly all children who fail in the first two grades of school do so because of reading troubles. Vision is very probably the single most important health factor in the conduct of American industry." (Eric Sevareid, CBS TV Commentator)

"School board members and school administrators must be convinced of the importance of vision if adequate budgets and personnel for vision screening programs become a reality."

"It is routine for parents of some pre-school youngsters to have their general health and teeth checked and to purchase school clothing before school starts. However, the majority of these same parents do not have their children's vision checked at that time! And 80 percent of our knowledge comes to us through our eyes." (Melvin D. Wolfberg, O.D., Past President, American Optometric Association)

"I assure you that it is a demoralizing experience to the ophthalmologist to diagnose the first symptoms of a brain tumor; they show up first in the eye... It's not a pretty job to have to tell a patient who came in for a routine eye examination that he is dangerously ill. But our compensation is that our early diagnosis may provide the patient's only hand-hold to survival." (John R. Fitzgerald, M.D., Ophthalmologist, Rochester, N.Y.)

"...people must be trained to wear their eyeglasses, and they must like wearing their eyeglasses. Glasses not worn do not help people to see..." (H. Lyle Duerson, Jr., President, Opticians Association of America)

"Man's vision, his eyeballs, his brain were vastly better than we in our wildest guesses had hoped. Man's eyes, in some cases, were better than the film we had!" (Astronaut-Scientist William B. Lenoir of NASA reporting on vision problems in space work)

"Failure to take good care of their eyes costs the American people billions of dollars in real, hidden, and delayed costs."

"It is alarming to think that America's productivity is being hampered by poor vision, because in the United States we have the science, art, and technology to correct wholly or in part something like 90 percent of all vision deficiencies." (Better Vision Institute audio-visual report)

* These comments were made at the 1974 Better Vision Institute Washington Conference on Vision Care.

Some think that crocodiles lure people into their mouths by sounding like others in distress.

No Need For Advertising?

- Preachers don't preach just once a year even though people are against sin.
- Teachers review lessons. They know that children do forget and often have to be told more than once.
- Highway patrolmen drive up and down the highways, and caution drivers although motorists know the law and should obey.
- Mail order firms continue to send out catalogues.
- Not all of us know what is sold in stores in the home town, and we need to be invited continually to trade in your place of business.
- The Notre Dame cathedral has stood for centuries, but still they ring the bell every day.

Where are You Going?

"Look, Daddy! A stopped freeway!"
 Eight-year-old Kristen pointed at the span of concrete that soared over the road ahead of us and then ended abruptly as if it had encountered an invisible wall.
 Two months later, we took a hike in the country. A small trail led us through green fields of waving grass and wildflowers. There the trail ended, gradually, as if reluctant to stop.
 Is your life like a freeway—fast, impressive, known to many? Or is it more like a trail—plain, but comfortable, less well-known, but quite adequate?
 It really doesn't matter.
 The important question is: Does your life have a goal?
 A freeway or trail can end, gradually or abruptly, without ever reaching a specific destination.
 In God, your life can have a goal. In church, He'll tell you how to reach it.
