FORTY-SECOND YEAR

MEDITATIONS

By The Editor

PULLING . . .

We can think of no more appropriate subject this week for this column than the above caption.

Pulling together a group of citizens can build a community as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar; where the best in school facilities, churches and retail and wholesale stores are equipped to supply the every need of the populace, are accessible to the public.

Few merchants, if any, would hesitate to stock merchandise that is available if they knew that after doing so people would trade at home and consume the stock so that it would not become obsolete in their shelves.

This would be pulling for a greater Eldorado if we all purchased the things we need and have as much work done as possible by home town repairmen and processors.

Another kind of pulling is pulling the wrong type from the right place, and otherwise. These "pullings" have been in evidence in this paper for several weeks now. In other words, an error may be made in one line of type and when a correction is made, the person doing the work gets the wrong line and supplements another making the "craziest" expression.

Of course, an editor has little to do outside of getting the news, setting it up into type, reading it for errors, setting ads, printing the paper, mailing out, etc.

Most any man can be an editor. All an editor has to do is to sit at a desk six days a week, four weeks to a month and 12 months a year, and edit such stuff as this:

"Mrs. Jones of Cactus Creek let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry. * * * John Doe climbed on a roof of his house last week, looking for a leak and fell, landing on his back porch. * * * While Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Sunday night, a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green on the courthouse square. * * * Jim Frang, while harnessing a broncho last Saturday, was kicked just south of his corner!"

When we get this straightened out we are going to start a rain campaign for this county and grow a Victory garden, and call in Ed Finnigan, who lives out on the Angelo highway, to help us in the planning of the campaign.

We want a "gulley washer" and are going to start off by getting the ground primed and ready to receive the precipitation. We picked Tuesday as a starter. If it rains too soon some will plant their Victory gardens and get them up and the Easter cold spell will kill them.

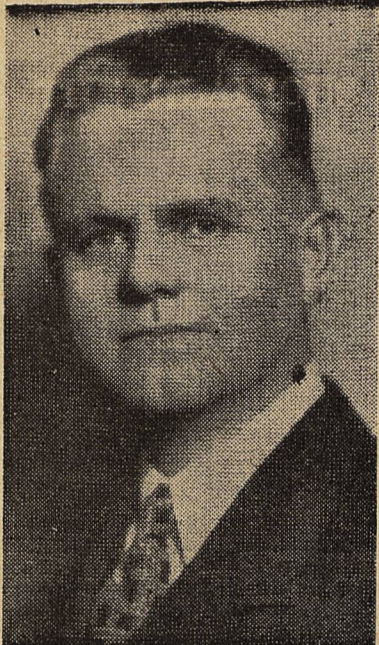

In regard to the Red Cross drive for funds, let's not be like the richest member of the church congregation, when the minister told of the need of money with which to repair the church everyone waited for the rich man to lead off the subscriptions.

He said, "I'll give $5." Just then, a chunk of plaster fell and hit him on the head. He said, hastily: "I mean $25." A brother in the "amen corner" said, "h. Loré, hit him again."

Rain: 1.12 inches.

Farmers Urged to Get Slaughter Permits Now

Schleicher County farmers who slaughter meat for sale were urged this week to obtain their slaughter permits before Thursday, April 1.

Individual permits will be issued by the county USDA war board at the local AAA office, Joe B. Edens, board chairman, said.

Under the new meat management program, announced several days ago by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, any person who slaughters animals for the delivery of meat must, in all instances, obtain a permit to slaughter. Farmers who slaughter animals only for home use need not obtain permits, but a permit is required if they deliver any of the meat to others. All slaughterers also must keep complete records of all livestock slaughtered.

The stamping of all meat is designed specifically to help stamp out the black market of meat. With every wholesale cut of meat sold in the retail market having a slaughter permit number plainly stamped on it, no illegally slaughtered wholesale cuts can be placed in the butchers' coolers or show-cases without being spotted immediately.

If black market operators can be kept from selling meat, then the only competition for livestock will be between legitimate slaughterers who sell meat within their price ceilings for civilian use, and who are helping to fill the Government's military needs for meat.

Mr. Edens also explained that anyone who buys and sells cattle, hogs and sheep and keep them for less than 30 days is considered a dealer and is required to obtain a permit from the county war board. He also is required to keep a complete record of his livestock purchases and sales, including the date he bought meat animals, their weight, the prices paid for them, to whom he sold them, and the price received.

Farmers are not required to obtain dealer permits but they are asked to keep records of their purchases and sales.

Subject of Current Success Livestock Story

Shown above is "Catrina" four-year-old Palomino filly, recently sold to Missouri purchaser sight-unseen by J. E. Jones, local breeder of this strain of horses.

WHO WILL BE NEXT?

Success Asked For Interesting Livestock Story; Horse Breeder Furnishes Best One of Year

Recently The Success asked for the best stories of livestock industries in Schleicher County and now has one for its readers.

Recently J. E. Jones sold and delivered to John William Evans, Neosho, Mo., one of his Palomino fillies, "Catrina." The filly was a four-year old and out of "Golden Bobby."

But the thing that makes the transaction interesting is the fact that the sale was made sight unseen.

Now Mr. Jones brings us a letter from the Missouri purchaser expressing his complete satisfaction with the transaction.

The letter follows:

Mr. J. E. Jones, Eldorado, Texas.

Dear Friend Mr. Jones: Just a letter to tell you how pleased I am with my filly. She is as fine as you told me before. I think I will let you pick my next horse also. She is getting along fine.

Please send me the papers of registration as you promised.

Will send you our picture some of these days.

4-H Clubbers To Observe Mobilization Week Mar. 29-April 3'

Schleicher County's 4-H Club will observe Mobilization Week during the period of March 29 to April 2, stated Miss Mary Lewis, County Home Demonstration Club Agent, here this week.

During the time throughout the entire county, the importance of 4-H Club work and its greater production for "Food For Freedom" is to be stressed.

Climaxing the week is to be a 4-H Club assembly program at the Eldorado High School, Friday, April 2, 3:30 o'clock p. m.

Featured on this program will be a sing-song, style show, a team demonstrating the use of cottage cheese, and a skit, "Uncle Sam Worries."

Following the program Friday afternoon there will be a picnic supper held on the courthouse lawn in the evening. 4-H Club parents and friends are invited to come, and bring a basket full of lunch.

District Court In Session This Week

District court adjourned Monday afternoon to resume session Friday after they had disposed of two cases on the light docket for this term.

The two cases disposed of by the grand jury with District Attorney Ralph Logan in charge, was a divorce case and a wool theft case in which the defendant pleaded guilty and received a five year suspended sentence.

BULLETIN

The Schleicher County War Price and Rationing Board was informed by Eugene Kurtz, of District Office, San Antonio, that farmers and ranchers hiring shearing crews and seasonal laborers, may register for processed foods, sugar and college as Institutional Users and receive certificates from the local War Price and Rationing Board.

Plans have been formulated and erection of pens to care for livestock is being seen after by a special committee. A loudspeaker for the benefit of aiding the audience in better hearing the auctioneer is to be secured if possible, and all details for carrying out an auction of articles donated by the citizenship of the county to further raising the Red Cross War Fund quota of Schleicher Saturday afternoon beginning at 4:00 o'clock, it was announced by officials in charge of the funds committee here Wednesday.

Object of the auction is to secure donation from individuals, and firms, to be placed on the block and sold to the highest bidder; the proceeds to be applied on the quota assessed this county.

Already various and sundry articles have been donated to the committee in charge.

Solicitations are for livestock, poultry, handwork, canned goods, blankets, comforts, and in fact, anything that will sell under the hammer.

Site of the auction will be on the lot between the First National Bank and Finley's Shoe Shop on Main street. Bring your articles there. Someone will receive them and arrange to care for them.

Bidding to Run High

Anticipation is that bidding of the articles put up for sale will be good. Anyway, bring your change, your checkbook and your buying attitude and let's raise this fund needed desperately to help give our men in the midst of the conflict the things that they otherwise will be deprived of if this fund is not raised to the last dollar.

Remember, Saturday afternoon 4 o'clock, is the time for the auction — and bring your articles in as early as possible, so that ample time for arrangements can be made to care for them.

M. B. EMBRY DIES SUDDENLY IN BRADY

Word was received here by telephone Wednesday that M. B. Embrey, about 60 years of age, died suddenly of a heart attack at his Brady residence about 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mr. Embrey at one time resided here. He was engaged in the ginning business in Brady and McCulloch County at the time of his death.

Fun-Fest Ball Game Tonight School Gym

If you want a laugh that is a laugh, you will not want to miss the basketball "farce" tonight, Friday, at the high school auditorium when Coaches L. M. Hoover and H. T. Finley put their two "basket pitching" Lions teams on the court for a fun-fest.

Coach Hoover's team will come out in kid's array, while the ones under the tutorage of H. T. Finley will be garbed to look as near lady-like as possible for the harsher sex to appear.

Come out, and if you can't get your money's worth, this scribe hopes the Lion Tail Twister has to mow your lawn all summer. The reason is he made a preacher pay a fine for us because of a spoon handle protruding from a delicious cup of coffee at the noon meeting Wednesday.

After you have had more than your money's worth in fun, entire amount of your small admission price will go toward swelling the Red Cross Fund!

Be out at 8 o'clock Friday evening and hear the band play until time for the youngsters and the "molls" to make their appearance.

Texas' Second Centennial

Texans have the unique privilege of celebrating two centennials. Seven years ago they observed with pomp and ceremony the one hundredth anniversary of the winning of Texas independence and the establishment of the Republic. Three years hence they will celebrate the beginning of the second century of Statehood.

On Feb. 16, 1846, President Anson Jones hauled down the Lone Star flag at the capitol in Austin, raised the Stars and Stripes in its place, and turned the government over to J. P. Pinckney Henderson, the first governor.

Plans already have been set in motion for the Statehood centennial. Obviously it will not be in order, even though the war may be over by 1946, for a war-torn Texas to attempt as pretentious an observance as was held in 1936, when the Legislature appropriated $3,000,000 for an exposition and commemorative works, and an equal amount was obtained from Congress. Indeed, the occasion, while momentous, the occasion does not call for so great a celebration, as did the centenary of the epochal launching of an independent Texas upon the sea of history.

However, there can be an appropriate and adequate observance without the expense of the eclat that marked the festivities of 1936. It can be a quaffing of deep draughts from the limpid springs of history, a hearty commemoration of the deeds of those who have made Texas great, and a rededication of ourselves to the noble principles that motivated their actions.

Since we devoted the 1936 celebration to looking back over a hundred years, perhaps it would be well next time to concentrate on looking forward—looking to Texas' future.

The prospect that greets the forward view holds promise of a future as glorious as the past. Already the Nation's leading agricultural State, Texas is now on its way to becoming an industrial and commercial empire. An expected epochal post-war era of aviation finds Texas an ideally situated center of development. The State is on the mainline of air and surface commerce between the United States and Latin America—a commerce which is expected to reach unprecedented proportions after the war. From every standpoint Texas is ready and ripe for unlimited growth.

During a century of Statehood Texas' population will have increased more than 6,000,000. It may grow that much more in less than half that time if the commonwealth realizes on its opportunities.

Therefore, while glancing back through the mellow haze of the years at the ancient land marks and guideposts, let us look forward to and prepare for the great future which beckons like a light.

The Wolf Mfg. Co. Was Next Door, Too

By IRVIN S. COBB

A GROUP of country negroes, seized with the desire to emigrate North—that same contagion, by the way, which is depopulating some of the cotton fields—got as far as Birmingham, Alabama, before their money ran out. In the hopes of raising funds sufficient to enable them to continue their journey, the stranded travelers sought employment.

One of them became acquainted with a white gentleman who threw several odd jobs in his way. But this scrappy employment, while it provided temporary food and lodging, did not serve to gratify the more pressing ambition.

Reaching his office on a certain morning, the citizen found his colored friend awaiting him at the door.

"Mr. Blank," said the applicant, "you's been so good to me already, I hates to keep on pestering you, but I suttinly does need wuk mighty bad ag'in, an' I'se hopin' you kin he'p me out ag'in same ez you's done two-three times befo'."

"Well," said his benefactor, "as it so happens, you may be in luck. Just now I heard that they were needing a hand down the street here, at the Eagle Laundry."

"Thank you, suh," said the negro; "but, Mr. Blank," he added doubtfully, "I ain't never had no 'sperience washin' eagles."

I Give You Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

When this observer was a mere youth, I used to attend the boxing matches occasionally in the old, barn-like Phoenix Athletic Club. One of the most skillful of the pugilists was Dixie Kid, a Negro, former welterweight champion of the world. He was unbelievably fast on his feet and—unusual for a speedster—he had a powerful punch. I recall one bout in which his opponent swung, Dixie Kid cucked and leaped under the other's arm, then whirled so quickly that he was facing the same way his opponent was, and hit him in the back from behind!

That was a long time ago. What called him to mind was a brief item a while past in the papers that the Kid was on the Pacific Coast, broken in finances and in health.

"I whipped 'em all 'cept liquor," he said.

Hollywood reminiscences:

The Egyptian Theatre, entrance ornamented with small sphinxes and a courtyard before you enter the theatre itself—and, in the courtyard, a wishing well, the printing press from "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," a cart from "The Good Earth" and a dugout used in "Hurricane."

A little cafe serving Italian food, on Vine just off Hollywood Boulevard, room for only 25 people; long sticks of bread, imported cheese (grated) that you sprinkle on the platter of steaming, savoury spaghetti and meat-balls. The eating of spaghetti is an art: you coil the long strands around your fork, using the spoon to make it coil, unless you are one of the few who can lift the strings high in the air, put one end in your mouth and suck the lengths in, like a magnet grabbing a steel filing. On the cafe walls are pictures of celebrities who had dinner there: Major Bowes, Eddie Cantor, Ken Murray. Unfortunately, I didn't have one of my photographs along!

The hotel lobby bore was relating his experiences in the wilderness in winter when his horse wandered off and he was left on foot with a band of hungry wolves coming toward him:

"I drew my pistol and killed a wolf and the others stopped and devoured the carcass, then started toward me again. I fired and killed a second wolf and they consumed him, then came on. I killed a third, a fourth, a fifth and a sixth—each time the others stopped to consume their fallen comrade.

"And now my last bullet was gone and still there was one huge old wolf left. What do you think I did?"

A listener said, "I don't have any idea, but as he had eaten six wolves by this time, I wouldn't think you were in any danger."

Electricity helps make his "tin hat" TOUGH!

No soldier in the world today has a better, tougher helmet than our own fighting men. It's made of manganese steel—the toughest, strongest protective steel that science and industry together can produce. And it's made in electric furnaces at 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit!

By helping make steel strong, electric power makes West Texas and Uncle Sam strong, too.

One big basic reason for Uncle Sam's matchless war production is America's abundant power supply, over 90 per cent of which is supplied by electric companies like the West Texas Utilities... operating under well-balanced business management and manned by men and women with training and experience in production problems.

This power was ready when war came because these men and women already had the "know-how" and the freedom to plan and create—the initiative to invent and improve—for everybody's benefit.

This, too, is why the average West Texas home today gets twice or three times as much electricity for its money as just ten or fifteen years ago!

It's the reason why electricity will be on the job to help rebuild a battered world—after we have won the victory and the peace.

Farmers May Exceed Cotton Acreage in '43

Farmers of Schleicher County have been notified by the local A.A.A. Office that they will be permitted to exceed their 1943 cotton acreage allotments by 10 percent without loss of agricultural conservation program payment, without being liable for cotton marketing quota penalties, and without forfeiture of cotton loan privileges. There will be no payment made for the acreage planted in excess of the allotment and this does not change the provisions pertaining to achievement of war crop goals.

Federal Crop Insurance protection on cotton has been extended to include all cotton planted within 110 percent of the 1943 acreage allotments on those farms covered by crop insurance.

Bomb Sets Grass Fire At Milligan Farm

A call for help came from the Bob Milligan place Saturday morning about 10:30 o'clock, appealing to the local fire department for help in controlling a grass fire, set off when a ms-directed bomb fell near the Milligan residence.

The explosion, stated a member of the Milligan family, last Saturday fell about a quarter of a mile from the house and blew a sizeable hole in the ground, scattering debris and fire several feet.

A prompt response was made to the plea for help and the spreading flames were soon brought under control.

Rev. Curtis Gives Three Addresses Here Wednesday

Speaking here at three appearances, one at the Lions club, one at the school and one at the Methodist church Wednesday, was Rev. Roy Curtis, of Brownwood.

Showing pictures taken on an expedition which he and four others made to Point Barrow, Alaska, to erect a monument in honor of the late Will Rogers and Wylie Post, the minister spoke on habits of the inhabitants, geographical, and industrial activities of the land.

Interspersing his lecture with wit the entertaining lecturer held his audiences in high interest.

Reverend Curtis had with him many things of interest which he brought back with him from the expedition made in a small 25-foot boat through the frozen region.

CAPACITY LOAD LIMITS IN HANDLING OF WOOL AND MOHAIR TO BE OBSERVED

Under the rules of the Office of Defense Transportation common carriers, rail and truck lines, are required to observe capacity or certain maximum load limits.

Since the shearing season is approaching and taking into consideration the curtailed operation of trucks, scarcity, also gasoline and tire rationing, it will be of interest to the producers and wool trade to know that the railroad in this area will continue to move wool and mohair in less-than-carload quantities on a low any-quantity transit or concentration rate, which is more economical than any other mode of transportation from local stations to warehouses and concentration points. Under the plan an exception to the Office of Defense Transportation rule has been made, enabling the railroad to handle wool in less-than-carload quantities this season the same as in previous seasons; no delay anticipated during the heavy shearing and shipping season.

E. M. Doty spent the week-end in Menton and Carlsbad, N. M., on business. He reports a dry region there as well as all the way there.

Volunteer Army, 3,000,000 Strong, Serves Nation Through Red Cross

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Five hundred thousand surgical dressings an hour—

No, that's not the production schedule of some gargantuan, highly mechanized manufacturing plant.

It's what 2,000,000 women—part of the army of 3,000,000 trained Red Cross volunteer workers—are accomplishing as their contribution to the war effort from the home front.

In cities, towns and hamlets up, down and across the country, women of all ages from every station in life are working side by side in Red Cross production rooms. They know that in field dressing stations and hospitals within the range of enemy guns, American fighting men are depending upon them.

The work of these women and the very existence of the American Red Cross Volunteer Special Services depends on public support of the 1943 War Fund appeal for $125,000,000.

In Chicago recently a soldier, wearing the Distinguished Service Cross walked into a production center in a department store. Thoughtfully he watched the Red Cross women work. One of them looked up, asked him about himself. He told them he was 21, had been in the Army three years and had been decorated twice after being wounded in action in the South Pacific. Then he added:

"I want to thank you women for supplying Red Cross surgical dressings. If two of you worked all day long you couldn't begin to make all the dressings I needed when I was in the hospital."

This isn't all Red Cross volunteers do, not by a long shot. They make knitted garments for the armed forces, clothing for war's refugees. They work in hospitals and camps as nurse's aides and Gray Ladies. They do clerical work for rationing centers and draft boards. They learn wholesale cooking and serving. They can nurse a balky motor as well as any man. They are indefatigable and steadfast. Proof is in this story from Monmouth County, N. J.

"A Red Cross chapter service especially requested by the Army and highly valued by soldiers and coast guardsmen stationed here is the daily visits of patrols along the beaches at Fort Hancock by the canteen corps' mobile kitchen.

Nightly, the Red Cross truck, driven by a motor corps girl and manned by two canteen workers goes out with its load of coffee and cocoa, stacks of doughnuts and open packages of cigarettes. In bitter winds, rain and snow, lone sentries or groups on bleak nights listen for the low toot of the canteen horn or watch for the feeble glimmer of parking lights as the truck makes its way through the dimout. This truck hasn't missed going out a single night since October 1 . . ."

Subscribers to Schleicher County Red Cross War Fund Drive are requested by officials to leave your donations with the bank in order that time, rubber and gasoline may be conserved.

Remember, only five more days to raise our quota.

Watch Your Social Security Cards, Plea Manager of Board

"Every time an American worker loses, destroys, or mutilates his social security account card, he is wasting as much money as it costs to provide 13 bullets to an American soldier," George D. Clark, manager of the San Angelo Social Security Board Field office said last week in an interview with a Success reporter. He asked that holders of security cards safeguard them as a wartime conservation measure.

Nearly 2,000,000 duplicate account cards were issued by the Social Security Board in the last 12 months, Clark said. They were issued to persons who had lost or destroyed the ones originally given them.

"The money spent for printing, processing, and mailing the 2,000,000 duplicate account cards could have purchased more than 550 jeeps for the Army, or 25,000,000 rounds of ammunition," Clark said, to illustrate the wastefulness of the failure to safeguard the original cards. "If taken care of properly," he added, "the social security cards will last a lifetime," and gave the following tips:

"Don't carry your card with you unless you must. Put it in a drawer, safe, or place where you keep valuable documents. Know where the card is. Before putting it away, place it in an envelope and mark it 'My social security card.' Then you will be able to find it in a hurry, if necessary.

"If you change jobs frequently, and need to carry your card with you, don't just stuff it in a pocket. Try to protect it against loss, wear, or mutilation. Never keep your card in your overall or shirt pockets. Many losses occur because the clothing—together with the card—are tossed into the laundry tub."

AAA Farm Program Gets Extension

The Schleicher County A. A. A. Committee has been advised that the Conservation Services and Materials Program has been extended to include the following services:

1. Eliminating pricklypear and cactus.
2. Eliminating mesquite and huisache.
3. Eliminating cedar.
4. Eliminating lechuguilla.

Eliminating noxious underbrush, bushes and shrubs. This is a plan whereby the contractor doing work under the AAA program can receive 80 percent of the payment rate for services rendered by him soon after the work is completed and approved by the county committee or its representative. In order to qualify for this service, however, the farmer or rancher employing the contractor must sign an order for the service and secure the approval of the county committee before the work is begun.
