

"Liberated" Jewels Cause Headaches For Army Who Must Dispose Of Them

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — The melodramatic recovery of the $1,500,000 Hessian crown jewel looted developed into a couple of headaches today for the War Department.

No. 1 was what should be done with the treasure trove of gems and priceless heirlooms.

No. 2 was the question of the first military trial for such high stakes in Army history.

Decision No. 1 was of prime importance to the royal family of Hesse. And decision No. 2 was even more vital for the Air Force Colonel, his WAC captain's bride, and the major now in Army custody for alleged participation in the bizarre "liberation" of the jewel hoard from a Rhineland castle.

Disposition of the jewels constitutes a knotty problem, War Department officials reported, with no decision yet reached.

It is for American legal experts in the European theater, they said, to determine whether the Hesse family treasures represent "public property" or are the personal property of the individual members of the family.

Col. A. V. Miller, of the provost marshal said should it be established the trove is personal property, the "presumption" was it would be restored to the family.

However, if the treasure is ruled "state property" or "public property" under the Army's Articles of War it would become the property of the United States, for the looted Kronberg castle lies in the American zone of Germany.

The War Department here reiterated that actual prosecution of the looting case was a matter for American Army headquarters at Frankfurt, Germany.

Col. Miller said formal charges were being drafted there against the trio now in custody: Col. Jack W. Durant of Hudson, Wis., his bride of two weeks, and Major David S. Watson, of Burlingame, Calif.

Watson's role in the case remained unexplained, but the War Department announced that both the Durants had confessed participation in getting the "liberated" jewels to this country, and recovery of the treasure followed their apprehension.

War Department officials say the charges against the trio will likely arise out of Article of War No. 80.

Under this article anyone subject to military law "who buys, sells, trades or in any way deals in or disposes of captured or abandoned property, whereby he shall receive or expect any profit, benefit or advantage to himself," is subject to court martial.

In Hollywood New Songs Ain't Like Old Ones, Perry Como Says

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, June 11. (AP) — They don't write 'em the way they used to. That's what crooner Perry Como has to say about today's songwriters.

Perry just came off the set of "You're for Me" where he spent the morning kissing Vivian Blaine. Tough work.

"The proof of my theory," he said, "are two recent records I made — 'They Say' and 'All Through the Day.' Those were new songs, but it was the oldies on the other sides that sold the records — 'If You Were the Only Girl' and 'Prisoner of Love.'"

The Cannonsburg, Pa., ex-barber said that most of his fan mail praised his work on such vintage tunes as 'Blue Skies' and 'Kentucky Babe.' And much of that is from kids who were unborn when those songs were first sung.

It's strange that the writers who produced the old songs are the same ones who are writing today's hits," Perry observed. "But they don't have the same heart in it now. Maybe they've gotten too commercial. Maybe they've become too old to 'feel' their songs." Maybe the answer is new and younger song writers.

Both Marriages, Divorces Climb

Dissatisfied couples who seek to terminate their marital contract in the divorce courts are providing a lucrative business for local barbers. The marriage rate through the first five months of 1946 was maintaining a high level—no less than 222 licenses to wed having been issued through May 31.

However, the divorce rate was on the upswing, too. A total of 142 parties had filed for hearings on divorce action during that period.

Whereas a marriage license could be obtained for $2, the booming cost of obtaining a divorce came much higher. Court costs, if the application for marital separation in uncontested, runs from $4.50 to $7.50.

Lawyer fees for such action runs from $25 up. If the divorce is contested, there are such items as the court reporter's fee (usually $3 a day) and the jury fee ($5 a day) to be considered.

The rocky crust of the earth is about 40 miles thick.

Work - Clothed Man Complains Of Lack Of Bread, Meat

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — A woodworker clad in work clothes appeared before a senate congressional committee, flourished a loaf of bread and complained he'd spent two hours and searched five bakeries to find it.

The unscheduled witness, F. L. Frillman of Washington, had a double tale of woe to relate to the Senate's small business committee, which is trying to find out the reasons for the bread shortage.

On top of the bread scarcity, Frillman lamented, it's getting so you can't find meat — "nothing but salami."

"And the only way to eat salami," he said, "is in a sandwich and the only way to have a sandwich is with bread, and you can't get bread now."

A bevy of bakers got their chance, too, to pass along the gripes they've been getting from bread-hunting housewives.

And a sugar broker, in tones far from sweet, complained that too many government agencies "have their fingers or hands in the sugar pie — and like it."

Coahoma Comes From Behind To Edge Motorists, 2-1

Scoring both their runs after two men had been retired in the final inning, the Coahoma Stanoil Oilers edged Big Spring Motorists, 2-1, in a thrilling softball game Monday evening to regain the lead in Mury league standings.

Glenn Bredemeyer, classy Ford hurler, had the Coahomans on his hip until the opposing hurler, Roy Weeks, faced him going into the fifth. Even after Weeks lined a single into left field and pilfered second and third, Bredemeyer seemed to have things going his way.

Earl Reid was a strikeout victim and Paul Woodson rolled out weakly to the infield. There was only one man between Bredemeyer and sweet victory. That man broke the dice, however. It was Windmill Brown, who met one of Bredemeyer's pitches squarely and drove it through second base for a screaming double and Weeks trotted home with the tying run.

Prep Baseball May Get League Backing After Profitable Tourney

DALLAS, June 11. (AP)—The Texas high school baseball tournament has been held for the ninth time in Dallas and has now grown to the point that it realizes a profit. It, of course, has been on an invitational basis since there is no state-wide organization.

There is interest in high school baseball as attested by these facts: 1. There was an attendance of 15,000 (9,000 paid) for the six night and two day sessions of the tournament. Receipts, after federal taxes, were around $1600. Expenses, which included lodging for the visiting teams, came to $1406. The profit was prorated among the teams coming the longest distance.

Bell Gets Both Appeasements, Money From US On Texas Boundary Dispute

By PAUL BOLTON
AUSTIN. — Peter H. Bell was the third and last of the "soldier to the manner born" governors of Texas. Like James Pinckney Henderson and George T. Wood, Texas' third governor was a soldier-statesman, and he inherited a situation that made him just what the trigger-happy Texans of 1851 wanted.

When Bell took over as chief executive of empire-minded Texas, the boundary dispute was at its height. Governor Wood had promised Texas would fight to keep 93,380 square miles of New Mexico if it cost every soldier and left not even a messenger of defeat.

TEXAS STOOD FIRM
But Washington didn't seem too impressed; in fact Washington showed signs of a willingness to come down and take the land away from the brand-spanking-new state. Things got hot and in 1851, Bell called the legislature into special session. The legislature aligned itself behind him, declaring they would not sell or give a foot of the land so dearly bought. Bell threatened to send troops to Santa Fe and throw the federal authorities out if they didn't leave voluntarily.

PETER H. BELL

This was more than a gesture. Bell might have drawn upon a discontented and belligerent south-land and a civil war might have come a decade sooner. Washington decided on appeasement and as a current historian wrote, "the offer of treasure for the land which helped pay the debt inherited from the Republic, changed the whole aspect of matters."

A MINOR CLASSIC
The compromise was a high spot in Bell's career as governor; it brought forth the first Thanksgiving proclamation issued by a Texas governor. More versed in arms than in words, Bell produced a minor classic. His proclamation came on the last day of 1850, setting aside a Thursday in the following March as Thanksgiving and saying: "I congratulate the legislature upon the auspicious conditions under which it has assembled. In the language of the Holy Writ, 'Now is the Winter of our discontent made glorious Summer.'"

"Always a scrapper, Bell's early career would shame the modern Hollywood western thriller. He came from Virginia in 1836 to give Sam Houston a hand. Landing at Galveston, he couldn't find — in horry Texas — a horse, so he had to walk to join the general. He fought as a private at San Jacinto, but when the smoke of that battle cleared away, Houston appointed him inspector general of the Army of the Republic. And in 1840, he became inspector general in time to fight the Indians in the famed Plum Creek battle. Not long thereafter he inherited a battle that practically had no ending: As commander of a troop of rangers in the turbulent, bloody Corpus Christi district. That's where Peter Hansborough Bell put "the law in the chaparral."

EXTERMINATED BANDITS
The Corpus Christi district was hinfested with murder, plunder and robbery, at the hands of Mexican bandits, American cut-throats and savage Indians. Over this wild barren land rode trade caravans from the ports of Corpus Christi and Aransas Pass to northern Mexico. Bell's job was to protect the trade route.

Ordered to "exterminate" the lawless in the chaparral country, he took his orders literally, in a string of bloody exploits that would make pale a fictional romance of adventure.

MOVED TO NORTH CAROLINA
Bell's first election to the governorship was from 1849 to 1851. He was re-elected in 1851, but before his term ended, he was sent to Congress. He met and married Miss Ella Rives Eaton of North Carolina and never returned to Texas. Following his wife to North Carolina, there the Civil War left him penniless. He lived on a small pension from the federal government for his services in the Mexican war, until his friends in Texas remembered him. In 1891, the Texas legislature voted him a tract of 1,300 acres of land, and a pension of $150 a year for the few remaining years of his life.

How well did General Electric meet its objectives last year?

GENERAL ELECTRIC has a three-fold responsibility—to the public, to its employees, and to its owners. The 1945 annual report, just printed, gives some indication of how well we met these objectives last year.

General Electric's growth has come from new and better products for the public, continuously improved.

Out of production efficiency have come higher wages, increased jobs, and the earnings needed to continue these gains.

This year General Electric did not get off to as good a start as in 1945. But the objectives and aims of General Electric are the same and will continue to be the same—to keep wages as high as possible, to keep prices down as far as possible, and to earn a fair profit.
