Ragsdale To Head Eldorado Lions Club

The members of the Eldorado Lions Club held their election of officers to serve the 1973-74 year at their meeting last week in El Dorado Restaurant, and Pat Ragsdale was elected president after his name was submitted in a nomination from the floor. The nominating committee had submitted the name of Eldon Calk as president.

In the secret balloting which followed, Ragsdale emerged winner with 17 votes to Calk's 10.

The remainder of the officer slate was accepted by vote of the club.

The new officers will take office on July 1st.

Elton McGinnes presided at the club meeting held at noon Wednesday. The club is meeting again at the Memorial Building. The club members are conducting a ticket sale for the Dr. Kit show to be presented Tuesday night, April 10.

East. Seal Coffee Day Set For Saturday

Easter Seal Coffee Day, sponsored by the Eldorado Jaycees, is set for Saturday, April 7th, at El Dorado Restaurant.

All coffee money donated to the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

Make an extra effort to come in and have a good cup of coffee at Jerroll's, while at the same time donating to such a worthwhile cause.

The Jaycees want to thank Jerroll Sanders for making this possible.

Nat'l Library Week

All Texans are being invited to widen their world during National Library Week, which will be observed in Texas during the week of April 8 through 14.

This 16th annual observance of National Library Week has dual themes: Widen Your World—Read and Get Ahead—Read. It focuses attention on the year-round efforts of libraries to provide information and educational services to their patrons.

National Library Week provides an opportunity for all citizens to take a good look at the Library that serves them.

We would be so happy to have you come by the Library and look for a new book which we hope to have and to see the new shelves that we have gotten lately, and which was needed so much. We will be looking forward to seeing all of you during our Library Week April 9 through 13. —Gladys Gunn, librarian.

Highway Patrolman Assigned Here

Hervey Willis has been assigned to Eldorado as highway patrolman, moving here from Hallettsville in East Texas.

The Willis family has two children, a girl and a boy, both of pre-school age.

The family are in process of buying Mrs. Glowanda Smith's house on Lee Street, and they expect to move in soon.

Mrs. Smith and family were here last week end and removed their belongings to Llano, where the children have been in school since last fall.

Post Script

John Ed Meador of C. C. Lease Service Co., had a crew of men at work Sunday and Monday with a back hoe cleaning off the lot for Gene McCalla which joins his variety store building.

Eldorado and Schleicher county is happy to learn that once again we are to have a new and well-stocked dry goods store. We will be watching with interest as construction gets under way.

This building job is expected to take about 60 days to complete, which would set sometime in June for the structure to be ready for use.

For some time we have noticed Haley Transport trucks being parked and serviced at Jack Elder's former Phillips 66 station on Main Street. After inquiring we learn that Haley has leased the facilities of that station plus its adequate parking area.

Little by little it seems that vacant spaces on Main Street are again being put to use by others that need more space.

After an absence of many weeks I was back at El Dorado Restaurant Monday evening and enjoyed their special catfish buffet. As usual it was generously patronized.

We've noticed this week that Mittel Texaco and Griffin Gulf both have heavy equipment parked on the area back of Mittel Texaco.

Months ago Griffin Gulf took over the A. T. Wright home lot across from Atlantic-Richfield and he has recently established an office and warehouse on the site.

But now Griffin and Mittel are moving their equipment on adjoining lots to the south.

How come?

Trenches continue to be dug by the city water department to connect the new water well to the water main near the woolen mill. They are proceeding steadily and now have only a block or two to go. The new well dug last year is rated at 1,000 gallons per minute.

The address of Mr. and Mrs. Rusty Meador is now 5248 Merrimac Dallas, Texas 75201.

S. N. Brad Roden is now stationed at: RUAH-1, NAS, Albany, Georgia 31703.

The L. D. Munds have entered a new subscription for Mr. and Mrs. Jay Halbert at 1300 Cotton Flat Road, Midland, Texas 79701.

Rain Totals 5.53 Inches For First Quarter

Lloyd Johnson of the Soil Conservation Service office reported Tuesday that this county had had 1.25 inches of rain in March. That amount added to 1.93 and 2.35 for January and February respectively totals 5.53 inches for the first quarter of the year 1973.

Trees are budding out, and gardens have been planted, and everyone hopes that Spring is finally here, but the month of April has come in with a dry dusty norther.

This year we have a late Easter coming as it does on April 22nd. A number of the old timers insist that we have to have one final pre-Easter spell of winter.

3 Elections Saturday

Saturday, June 7th is the date for the three local elections. Balloting for all three are from 8:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m., at the following locations:

Two aldermen are to be elected from a slate of six. These are:

- Granvil Hext, incumbent,
- Alvin Farris, incumbent, and
- Richard Kent, proprietor of Kent's Automotive;
- Jimmy Doyle, former alderman, now seeking election;
- Wm. Rieken, local superintendent of Atlantic-Richfield, and

This City election is the one that offers the most choices and will generate the greatest local interest.

Voter Eligibility

If you hold a voter registration certificate stating "Effective March 1, 1972" you are eligible to vote in these elections, as well as in elections through the year 1974.

HOSPITAL DISTRICT DIRECTORS

Balloting will be at the High School gym building with Frankie Short as election judge. This, too, is a county-wide election.

Three directors are to be elected and three nominees are on the ballot without opposition. They are

- Mrs. Edwin Jackson, for re-election, and
- Mrs. Bill McWhorter, and
- John Edward Meador.

In other years this election was held in the Memorial Building, but this year the building has been engaged for another purpose; therefore balloting will be in the High School gym.

While there is no competition in this election, the nominees deserve a full turnout of voters as a county wide endorsement of their services.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE

Balloting for school trustee will be conducted in the High School hallway (near the auditorium entrance) with Mrs. Jack Etheridge as election judge, and this is a county-wide election. Two are to be elected and voters have the choice of:

- Mort Mertz, incumbent, and
- Buddy White, incumbent, and
- Clay Meador, and
- Pat Ragsdale.

Dist. 9-A Boys Track Meet Set Friday

The District 9-A Boys District Track Meet will be held Friday, April 6 at the Eldorado High School stadium, beginning at 12:30 p. m. with the field events.

The preliminaries in the running events will begin at 2:45 p. m. In addition to the Eldorado team, the other school that will be represented are Sonora, Mason, Junction, Menard, Robert Lee and Wall.

The meet will be a three divisional affair. In addition to the Varsity Division there will be a High School "B" team Division, and a Junior High Division.

Last year's winners were Mason, in the Varsity Division; Eldorado in the "B" Team Division; and Sonora in the Junior High Division. In the Varsity Division this year, Sonora is the favorite to unseat Mason, especially after their victory over Mason and the other district contenders at the San Angelo Relays held last weekend.

The "B" team Division should be closely contested between Eldorado, Sonora, Mason and Junction; and Sonora is the definite favorite in the Junior High Division.

The Varsity Division will be highlighted by some of the top performers in West Texas.

The top sprinter at the San Angelo relays last week end was Steve Street, who won the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash. His best time in the 100 is 9.8 and he has a 22.2 for his best in the 220. He will be challenged in the 100 by Les Plagens of Wall, and Ken Peters and Mike Manning of Eldorado, all of whom have run 10.0 this year. Manning should be his closest challenger in the 220 as well as he has run a 23.3 for his best in that event. In the hurdles Bruce Kerbow should dominate as he has run the 120 yard high hurdles in 15.3, and he has run a 39.4 in the 330 yard Intermediate Hurdles. Kevin of Wall is the favorite in the 880 yard dash as he ran a 2.01, 7 for his season's best here at the Plateau Relays three weeks ago. His competition should come from Gilbert Ramon of Mason and Ray Rotge of Junction, both of whom have run under 2:05 this year. The 440 yard dash favorite is Wes Richardson of Sonora with a best of 50.3, and he should be challenged by Maren Martinez of Mason, who has a 51.1.

In the 440 yard relay, Sonora looks the strongest with a 43.9. Mason, Wall and Eldorado are all provide an adequate challenge. In the mile relay, Mason is the strongest with a season best of 3:30, and Sonora, Junction and Robert Lee all look strong as each of these teams have run under 3:30 this year.

Junction's Mike Jacoby is the favorite in the Shot Put, with a season's best of 49'8" and in the Discus with a best of 145'. In the Long Jump, Les Plagens of Wall and Gene Nixon of Eldorado are the favorites as both of them jumped 20'4" at San Angelo last weekend. Kody Kothmann of Junction is the favorite in the high jump with a best of 6'2". In the pole vault Wade Richardson is the favorite with a best of 13' 6".

Green Revolution Bears Watching

College Station, Tex.—An agricultural revolution that could mean the end of hunger and starvation is taking place, according to an economist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, but must be closely watched if it is to be successful.

Termed the "Green Revolution," the change was once acclaimed as the solution to the world food crisis: Groups of international experts developed new strains of wheat, rice and corn thought to be so highly productive that they could meet the current demands and future population growth requirements for food.

But despite the phenomenal success of the plant breeding program, very few people have concluded since 1967 that the crisis has been averted or even pushed far into the distant future. Dr. Clive Harston, a professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University, said.

The "Green Revolution" did come about, India and Pakistan—both nations with famine ever present—doubled their grain production with little increase in cropland. Other nations that had traditionally imported grain to meet their needs began exporting grain.

Yet, population growth, drought, wastage, poor distribution and other factors prevented the revolution from reaching its goals, Harston said. Though agricultural production increased 50% world wide in the last 15 years, the increase per person was only 10%. Population growth, for the most part, ate up the other 40%.

Today, only one-third of the world's population lives in an area where the food supply is good—that is, where the average calorie consumption exceeds basic bodily requirements by 5%. Eighty percent of these people are in North America and Europe.

One-seventh live where the supply is fair-to-average, or where the calories provided fall within a range of 5% of the basic requirements.

The rest of the world, comprising more than one billion people or more than half the world's population, live in countries where the calorie supply is between 67 and 95% of what it should be.

Calories are not the only crisis, Harston added. About two-thirds of the world is underfed in terms of protein—the substance so vital to mental and physical growth and health.

Despite the discouraging statistics, Harston remains optimistic about the ultimate success of the "Green Revolution" in solving world food shortages.

He points to such continued efforts of the "Green Revolution" like the recent development of a new maize that is not only resistant to disease and highly productive but also high in protein—something no maize has ever been before.

But such successful pushes are not without their dangers, Harston said. The thrust of effort that solves the problem often brings a relaxing of attitude and effort that creates even bigger problems.

Ignoring population growth and concentrating on food production is a major problem, he said. Population, he feels, must be controlled to the point of balance with food production or the effort is wasted.

Getting the food to the people is another problem. Without effective distribution, the first step of increasing supplies is futile. This applies not only to moving surpluses from developed nations to underfed ones, but to transferring supplies within the country itself.

The most permanent solution, Harston said, is to increase the incomes of the people in developing nations through improved production and effective systems within the country to distribute the production. With this they will be able to purchase their needs in free markets and break away from depending on handouts or starving when there are none.

Preparers' Numbers To Go On Tax Returns

Dallas, Tex.—Anyone who prepares a Federal income tax return for a fee is required to enter his social security number or employer identification number on the returns he prepares, W. T. Coppinger, IRS District Director for North Texas, said today.

This information is required on income tax returns for the first time this year. Mr. Coppinger said taxpayers should insist that a preparer sign the return and enter his address and social security number or employer identification number on the return.

The IRS added the requirement to the 1972 income tax return so that it can identify the tax returns filled out by a particular preparer.

The IRS is making a major effort again this year to identify unscrupulous income tax return preparers. IRS agents in Texas will observe the preparation of returns in the preparers' offices by posing as clients, Mr. Coppinger said.

The IRS is not condemning every return preparer. The industry as a whole provides an important service to the taxpaying public, Mr. Coppinger said.

A similar program which the IRS conducted last year revealed that many return preparers were counseling taxpayers to deliberately understate their income tax. He said the findings confirmed the need for a similar program this year.

Last year, the IRS found some preparers included on returns fictitious dependents and omitted income. This year agents will not only look for these methods of understating income tax, but new methods or schemes, he said.

'The Messiah' Will Be Given In Brownwood

The Messiah by George F. Handel will be presented by the Music Ministry of First Baptist Church, Brownwood, Texas, April 7th at 8:00 p.m. and April 8th at 7:00 p.m. The 75-voice chorus, six soloists and 23-piece orchestra will perform the Easter portion, parts two and three, under the direction of Duane Blakley, Minister of Music.

The public is cordially invited by Logan Cummins, Pastor, to attend the Saturday evening presentation, if possible; however, everyone will be welcomed Sunday evening as long as space is available.

The guest bass soloist will be Dr. James C. McKinney, Dean of the School of Church Music at Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth and nephew of B. B. McKinney, the late, beloved hymn writer and gospel singer. Jack Coldiron, Associate Professor of Voice at the seminary will be the tenor soloist. Both are widely known for their appearances in recital, oratorio, opera and church concerts.

Soloists from the choir include Mrs. Rex Bessent, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. James Bunnell and Miss Ann Adams. The last three are also on the music faculty of Howard Payne College. The orchestra will include personnel from the University of Texas Orchestra and the Howard Payne Symphony Band. Mr. Euel Belcher is the church organist.

The Consumer Alert

by Attorney General John L. Hill

The other day, a couple from Cass county, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Allen of Linden, came to Austin to ask for help from the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

They weren't asking for anything for themselves.

They wanted to help their son, Randy, recover the $2,000 he had lost to a fraudulent promotional scheme—"Dare To Be Great."

Randy had just returned from a year and half's duty in Vietnam in April, 1972, the Allens told us, and was "looking for a break" in business when an acquaintance of his recruited him for "Dare To Be Great."

He was told that if he "invested" $2,000 in a "motivational sales course," he could be assured of a $900 commission for each "salesman" he recruited. Allen borrowed $2,000 from the bank, and made his "investment."

But two days later, at a "motivational" meeting in Dallas—before he had received the tapes or books or anything that was to have been part of the bargain, the young veteran heard that the Attorney General of Texas had won a temporary court restraining order to halt "Dare To Be Great's" activities in Texas. The court held that the scheme was a violation of the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

The recruit was assured by the "Dare To Be Great" spokesman in Dallas that all monies invested after 12 noon on April 24, 1972, would be refunded.

Allen had paid his $2,000 at 5 p.m. on that April 24. So, he waited for a refund . . . and waited, and waited.

The State of Texas won $10,000 in civil penalties from "Dare To Be Great," but that money went to the State Treasury.

The defrauded "recruit's" bank note is due now, his parents told us. What can the Attorney General do to help him?

Unfortunately, under existing state law, there is nothing my office can do. There is no legal route for the state to follow to recover an abused consumer's losses. And, if he ventures into court on his own, the cost of seeking damages often is higher than what he might stand to recover.

That is why I have recommended to the State Legislature passage of a Deceptive Practices—Consumer Remedies Act which would offer real relief to the consumer.

If the Senate version, S. B. 75, or the House bill, H. B. 417, had been law when "Dare To Be Great's" violations were being attacked in the Texas courts, the Attorney General could have sought restitution for all individuals defrauded by the company, and they would have had a chance to recover their money that way.

Or, under the law we proposed, the consumer himself could file suit for triple damages, and if he won, the court would order the defendant to pay the victim's attorney's fees and court costs as well.

When the Allens were told how the proposals before the Legislature would help to stop abuses like this, Mr. Allen urged that I use his name. "If there is a way to prevent frauds such as the one perpetrated on my son," he said, "I want people to know about it."

Market Report

College Station, Tex. — Citrus fruits and green leafy vegetables highlighted produce counters this week.

"Navel and Valencia oranges, tangerines, grapefruit, collards, mustard, turnips and greens, and cabbage are in good supply at the most economical prices," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, noted.

Other produce values include apples, bananas, potatoes, acorn squash, carrots, rutabagas, broccoli, dry yellow onions, radishes and green onions.

"Although fryer chicken prices are up considerably, they remain a good meat buy considering quality, price and nutrition," the specialist maintained.

"Egg supplies seem adequate for demand—with large sizes in best supply. Grade A large-size eggs remain the best combination of quality and economy for the money."

"Beef prices, on the other hand, are about the same as the past couple of weeks—with most markets featuring some cuts at special prices," Mrs. Clyatt added. In general, look for best values on chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and roasts, ground beef, and beef and calf liver.

Mrs. Clyatt also reported pork prices steady at the past few weeks' higher level.

"Best buys consist of end-cut loin roasts and chops, sliced quarter loins, shoulder roasts and steaks, hams and picnics."

'Fishy' Family Meals

College Station, Tex.—Fishing is a popular sport—and fish and shellfish are favorite meal-time treats.

Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, of Texas A&M University, stressed the protein value of fish.

"Classed as meat group foods, they contain high quality protein essential for growth and body tissue repair. They also supply fats, minerals and vitamins necessary for good health."

Besides the fresh form, fish are available canned, frozen and dried—offering consumers variety.

"Canned tuna and mackerel are generally inexpensive yet versatile. "Frozen shrimp and fish sticks, on the other hand, are quick and easy to prepare."

"For attractive and appetizing family menus utilize a variety of fish and shellfish, use new recipes and vary serving techniques," Miss Reasonover suggested.

The specialist discussed four areas critical for best cooking and eating results.

—Avoid overcooking. "There's no such thing as tough fish. Hence, long, slow cooking is not necessary."

—Just cook fish until it flakes easily when tested with a fork. Flaking indicates the protein has coagulated and connective tissues have broken down.

—Cooked beyond this point, fish becomes increasingly dry and chewy," Miss Reasonover explained.

—Handle fish as little as possible during and after cooking.

—Fish flesh is tender and delicate. Excessive handling—such as turning it repeatedly during cooking or moving the cooked fish several times before serving—tends to make it less attractive."

—Cook fat and lean fish basically the same.

—However, lean fish require added fat during cooking to keep them moist and flavorful."

—Utilize improved cooking techniques.

—Oven cooking, preparing and serving fish in the same utensil, and other new procedures help simplify and guarantee successful fish cookery," the specialist concluded.

YOUR BUSINESS WILL BE APPRECIATED

Austin, Tex.—The complex job of rewriting the 97-year-old State Constitution began officially last week with initial work sessions of the new Constitutional Revision Commission.

Commissioners outlined plans for a series of public hearings in 18 areas.

The hearings will be held between now and next fall in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, McAllen, San Angelo, Lubbock, Longview, Wichita Falls, El Paso, Amarillo, Abilene, Midland-Odessa, Laredo, Tyler, Lufkin, Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange, and Austin.

Chairman Robert W. Calvert, former Texas Supreme Court judge, said the hearings may "determine largely whether people accept the final product."

The 37-member Commission heard advice from a large group of experts, then divided into seven sub-committees to study specific areas of the Constitution which one of the advisors labeled an "appalling" document.

Revision Commissioners received these key bits of advice:

—Do the best job they can of streamlining the Constitution, but be prepared for the Legislature to "water down their recommendations."

—Don't try "to solve the problems but make clear who solves the problems."

—Sweep out detailed property tax provisions—get rid of the grants and loans prohibition and provide "home rule" for counties.

The Commission will be backed up by a statewide advisory committee.

Revision drafts must be completed by November. The Legislature will convene January 1 as a constitutional convention.

Open Meetings Bill Passes

An amended version of legislation to strengthen state laws requiring that the business of state government be conducted in public has been finally passed by the Senate.

A much-revised version of the bill to shield newsmen's sources of information, meanwhile, advanced to the Senate calendar with Jurisprudence Committee blessing.

The Texas Joint Media Committee representatives and "Common Cause," the people's lobby, termed the open meetings bill as passed by the Senate an improvement over both present law and the Jurisprudence Committee bill.

One controversial section of the letter was amended to allow closed sessions on "negotiated contracts" only for gifts or donations to the government. The bill would allow private sessions of governing bodies to discuss purchase, exchange, lease or value of real estate—but not the sale of property. Also stricken from the Committee bill was a provision for closed sessions with attorneys on "possible avoidance of litigation."

Remaining as exemptions from open meetings guarantees are a wide range of discussions of personnel matters including "employment evaluation."

The revised shield bills would allow forced disclosure of information and sources on mandamus by the State Supreme Court which could be sought by any individual to prevent "substantial harm or injury . . . or substantial injustice."

VEE Revaccination Urged

Texas Veterinary Medical Association called for immediate revaccination of all horses for Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE).

The Association said 100% immunity can be established and reservoirs of the disease eliminated. It urged revaccination of all horses vaccinated in 1971, vaccination of all newborns, those six months of age and older and those coming in to the state. Length of immunity is uncertain.

Courts Speak

Persons who have sexual relations with wives or husbands of others can be sued for damages, the State Supreme Court held.

The High Court turned down an appeal of a Dallas lawyer who lost his license after a jury found he asked a client for $500 more than his legal fee, allegedly to prosecute an assistant district attorney.

The Supreme Court set a hearing April 25 over whether Austin could sell 32 acres of park land to a school district without an approving vote of local residents.

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned convictions for sale of heroin (an 1,800 year sentence from Ector county) and possession of marijuana (25-year sentence from Tarrant county) due to judicial error.

A Lipscomb county youth ordered fined and jailed for aggravated assault on a deputy sheriff he called a "pig" won a new trial on appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals, which held the boy's contention that he was resisting what he considered unlawful arrest should have been presented to the trial jury.

Attorney General's Opinions

A bill (HB 168) proposing to give the governor budgetary authority over state agencies and require submission of quarterly expenditure plans is unconstitutional, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Hill said, however, the legislature might confer on the governor's discretion to approve or disapprove expenditures of funds appropriated to restructured agencies discharging only duties which could be constitutionally discharged by the governor.

In other recent opinions, Hill held:

—A district judge has discretion to grant a prisoner credit for pre-trial time spent in jail between trial and final conviction and must give credit for time spent in jail awaiting determination of appeal. However, he cannot reduce a sentence due to good behavior and prisoner reform.

—Hunting club employees can carry firearms but unless they are law enforcement officers have no more right to enforce the law or to protect the club property than any other individual.

—An individual convicted of a felony three years ago, and is now on probation, is not qualified to be appointed a deputy sheriff.

Firms To Be Honored

Five industrial firms will receive the governor's industrial expansion award for 1972 at a conference here May 10.

Selected to receive the 1972 awards at the Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion are Stenco Manufacturing Company of Longview, Redman Mobile Homes Inc. of Burleson, Lanchart Homes of Childress, Can-Tex Industries of Mineral Wells and Weber Aircraft of Gainesville.

All were named by local chambers of commerce and selected by Texas Industrial Commission based on economic and civic contributions to their communities during last year.

Appointments . . .

James F. Ray was named executive director of the Constitutional Revision Commission, taking a leave of absence as staff director of the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Mrs. Donald E. Redmond of Austin was selected as Texas Mother of the Year for 1973.

Short Snorts . . .

Gov. Dolph Briscoe went to Washington to protest that new federal regulations would destroy the social services program in Texas for non-welfare recipients and increase welfare rolls.

A bill to set up a "little Hoover commission" on reorganization of the executive branch of state government finally won Senate approval and now goes to the House for consideration.

New state bank charters are being sought in Houston, Austin and Comanche.

Of 7,572 roadside park facilities in the nation, 1,059 are located in Texas, according to a U. S. Department of Transportation survey.

The Sabinal Canyon area (1,280 acres) in Bandera and Real counties has been purchased by the Parks and Wildlife Department for $512,000.

August and September primary election dates received Senate approval.

City officials are urging Governor Briscoe to recall a bill granting collective bargaining rights to policemen and firemen for amendment.

Hints For Homebuyers

Shopping for a new home? It can be a lot easier if you have some basic guidelines to go by.
Since the kitchen is where many homemakers spend most of their time, and is such an important factor in making everyday living easy and enjoyable, the following pointers from the General Electric and Hotpoint Kitchen/Laundry Planning Service can help you determine if this all-important room is planned for top efficiency.
The layout of the kitchen is one of the most important considerations, so first check the location of major appliances, the planners suggest. Often what appears on the surface to be an attractive floor plan is in reality poor utilization of space and equipment.
The sequence of work in a kitchen moves from storage to preparation to cook and then to serve. The logical arrangement then has the refrigerator and its storage areas for foodstuffs near the outside entrance, followed by the sink (or mixing) center, then the cook and serve area located as conveniently to the dining room or breakfast nook as possible.
Studies have shown that more than half of the work done in the kitchen is performed at the sink. Therefore, in the ideal situation, the sink center is between the refrigerator center and the cooking center.
Without exception, GE kitchen planners agree that each major appliance center must have some working counter available. Under the most desirable conditions, the refrigerator should have a minimum of 15 inches of counter top at the opening side for loading and unloading, and the range serves best if counter space is available on both sides. The sink must have no less than 24 inches of counter on one side to provide the space needed for a dishwasher.
Placing unrelated appliances side by side, such as the refrigerator and oven, is a common planning error which overlooks the need for functional counter space. If there is a built-in oven, the open door of the highest oven should be lower than the user's elbow. Mounting too high can make it difficult to remove roasting and baking pans.
Also, check the doors of cabinets and appliances to see if they block traffic aisles when open. This is especially important in a corridor-type kitchen arrangement where appliances face each other. The width of the aisle should be a minimum of 42 inches, and preferably 48 inches. A narrow aisle can result in many clumsy, uncomfortable work patterns.
If there is a separate dining room and breakfast area, the ideal location for the kitchen is between the two, as this will eliminate many tiring extra steps.
By keeping these hints in mind as you look for a new home, you can more accurately evaluate which one is best suited for your needs.

"Immersible" Appliance Care
Don't mistreat "immersible" electrical appliances. These appliances can't be soaked for long periods of time—or be run through a dishwasher. Although their working parts are sealed so water can't get in, prolonged exposure to water may cause the seal to leak. Damage to the parts can result.
Life of this convenient, easy-to-clean appliance depends on how well it's cared for. Therefore, follow instruction book recommendations carefully—and instruct family members and other users on its proper use and care.

Weekend Specials
Weekend food specials influence family budgets in varying degrees. Although week end specials are good values money-wise, whether they're good values for the family is something else.

Each family is different — so evaluate specials on terms of the family. As a rule of thumb, if specials fit family "likes," other eating plans and time schedules, they're good money values. As such, work them into the week's menus. Plan menus well enough to make up a shopping list.

A "real special" — a good food investment—is an often-used item, which keeps well and can be stored at home. When shopping, read labels carefully, compare brands, grades and sizes. Also keep in mind each item's use. As for a store's other prices, they aren't raised to compensate for the specials. Its overall pricing structure is designed to include weekend special prices on a few items. How many featured specials a shopper buys will vary from week to week—depending on whether or not they can be used. One week he or she may buy several special items—another week none. Therefore, overall effect on a family's food budget isn't continuous: On weeks when specials are bought heavily, the budget is stretched considerably—whereas when few or none are purchased, it's affected little.

Shopping Wisely

Plan shopping purchases before going to the store—no nutritious yet economical selections can be made which consider the likes and dislikes of family members.

First, know how much money can be spent on food. Then make food choices within that budget. The human body requires certain nutrient to meet its health needs. Some foods provide protein at low cost. Dry beans, cheese, peanut butter and eggs are examples. Utilizing low-cost nutritious foods can help cut expenses.

Certain foods are important sources of various nutrients. For example, milk is an economic source of calcium and riboflavin (a B vitamin). Other foods such as citrus fruits, tomatoes, cabbage and potatoes offer Vitamin C economically, and Vitamin A is contained in dark green and deep yellow vegetables. Whole grain and enriched breads and cereals, macaroni products and rice provide some of the B vitamins and iron at low cost.

Knowing how much food to buy is important. Each family member may require a different amount of food for good health—depending on his age, sex and physical activity. Wastes can be avoided by simply buying the needed amount.

Consider the time required in preparing the different foods. The best balance may be a combination of convenience foods and home-prepared ones. It usually helps to spread the cost of staple goods over several shopping trips—buying some each trip. Also, it's wise to use up the foods on hand, especially perishables, before buying new ones. Keep a pad handy to jot down items that need to be purchased. These reminders aid in making shopping lists. When preparing lists, shoppers should arrange foods into groups, keeping the store's layout in mind. Put perishables and frozen goods at the end of the list to maintain their quality as much as possible. All these things play important roles in shopping wisely and economically—without endangering the family's nutrition.

Plant Nutrients

Many elements and compounds are essential for plant growth. Have you ever wondered exactly why certain elements are needed, why we must fertilize our lawns, gardens and flowers? To describe the function of plant nutrients, let's start with a bag of 12-12-12 fertilizer. As you probably know, the designation on the bag means the material contains 12% nitrogen, 12% phosphate, and 12% potash.

What happens to the fertilizer when you apply it to the soil? It must first be dissolved before the nutrients become available to plants. As far as organic and inorganic fertilizers are concerned, each contains the same elements. Thus either can supply the needed plant nutrients if similar quantities of nutrients are used. Since the most important plant nutrient is nitrogen, let's look at how it affects plants. Nitrogen is primarily involved with chlorophyll and protein in the plant. Chlorophyll is the green coloring material in plant leaves that plays a vital role in photosynthesis, the process in which the sun's energy converts carbon dioxide from air and hydrogen from water into carbohydrates.

The production of carbohydrates by photosynthesis is probably the most important of all chemical reactions. This process provides the energy and substance for plant growth. And, since humans and animals secure their nourishment by eating plants, they likewise are dependent on photosynthesis for their livelihood. So, to keep plants green and growing vigorously, we must supply them with the necessary plant nutrients at least once a year. To find out how much fertilizer to apply, it is recommended having the soil in your lawn, garden and flower bed tested. Information on soil testing is available at the county Extension office.

Alternatives To Turfgrass Offered

Turfgrass may not be the best material for a landscape covering. It is suggested a ground cover of plants and non-living materials such as gravel, bark, pine needles and pecan shells to add interest and color to the landscape.

Ground cover plants are those with a sprawling or prostrate habit of growth. Such plants are useful in reducing erosion on slopes where turf would be impractical to maintain. Ground covers may be used under low branching trees or shrubs where large roots may protrude and in confined or shaded areas where grass will not grow. Ground covers may also serve as a mulch to conserve moisture and reduce weed problems.

It is suggested to fumigate the soil before planting a ground cover. Proper and careful use of a soil fumigant such as methyl bromide will kill most insects, diseases, weed seeds and roots and will simplify maintenance while the plant cover becomes established. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions in using soil fumigants to avoid personal injury or damage to pets and desirable plants.

To prepare the planting area, be sure to incorporate ample amounts of organic matter such as peat moss, compost or well-rotted manure. Well-planned use of living and non-living ground covers can add a new dimension to outdoor areas and reduce maintenance.

Further Requests Given For Support Of Easter Seals

A further request for support of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its program of services to the handicapped was issued today by Raymond D. Hall who is the Easter Seal Representative in Schleicher county.

The Easter Seal Society provided treatment and services for 16,572 physically handicapped children and adults in Texas last year, Hall said, and this program needs to be expanded. Many people are going without services that would increase the productivity of their lives and make them happier. With increased growth of the Easter Seal Society, more and more of these people will be reached, he added.

The Society is carrying out a continuing program to seek out the disabled who are doing without services and see that they receive the help they need. As Easter Seal Representative, Hall is the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society.

The Easter Seal Society of Texas helps support 1 treatment facilities in Texas where crippled children and adults who are not eligible for help from any other source are treated, regardless of their ability to pay.

... to see the Truth

"Heather here in Scotland is so common it grows everywhere. Why do you wish to study it?" I asked a botanist.

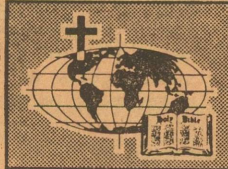

He then suggested taking a single flower from the cluster and looking at it through his microscope.

I was amazed at the delicate shading and breath-taking design of an individual bloom. I almost wished he hadn't shown it to me. I trample on thousands of them every day.

The beauty and blessings of life are enhanced by observing God's creation through the lens of Truth.

Consider the Church as a spiritual microscope. It helps you see the worth of single souls. It encourages you to call no man common or trample his capacities under the foot of indifference. It helps you discover and appreciate all the wonders of God's marvelous creation.
