Football Booster Ads To Start Next Week

One week from today—Thursday, September 6th—the traditional series of football booster ads will start running in the Eldorado Success. The pictorial ads will continue thru the season which closes in later November.

We have already done some of the preliminary work such as taking the pictures of the varsity team members, coaches, and trainer and have them engraved ready for printing in the paper.

We will, as usual, each week carry the probable starting line-up, the schedule of coming games, and the scores of past games.

These booster ads for the Eagles serve several purposes: They give recognition to the player; they advertise each week's game giving time, date, place and season's result; through the sponsors of the ads, they demonstrate town-wide support and backing of the Eldorado Eagles.

We are now in the process of selling for this ad series, and have done the bulk of the selling. Any Eagle booster overlooked who wants on should call this office at 2600. While there may be few direct sales in getting on the series, it creates good will which is vital to any business enterprise.

Mike Quimby is starting his initial year as head coach of the Eagle team.

The Eagles launch their 1973 season of play with two home games: Rankin comes here night of September 7th, and the Ozona Lions will be here a week later, Sept. 14th. Subsequent games will be at Iraan the 21st and Winters the 28th, to conclude the four non-District games.

The six District 9A games start Oct. 5th when the Eagles go to Mason, and there will be subsequent games with Menard, Junction, Robert Lee, Wall, and Sonora.

The game here with Robert Lee the night of October 26th will be the Homecoming game, with the crowning of the Band and Football queens.

It is understood that after this year Sonora will be a double-A school, and thus will no longer be with us in District 9A, but this will not be definite until November when re-districting is done and all schools are assigned to districts.

USDA Commodities

will be issued starting on Tuesday, September 11th thru 14th. All recipients are asked to pick up commodities during that week.

Post Script

All homemakers have been familiar in recent weeks with meat shortages and high prices in the stores. They have had to plan family meals that stretch the available meat supplies and do their shopping accordingly.

But the same situation applies to institutional meal planning.

We went by the school Monday and picked up the lunchroom menus for the ensuing two weeks, as usual, and Miss Owens, the home-making teacher and lunchroom dietician remarked that she had had to plan meals somewhat different from those of the past.

The new menus for the school run more to sandwiches, fish, and peanut butter.

We have not heard how the Medical Center is affected, if at all.

They did too—to top it—Driving out the Big Lake road late Sunday I was surprised to find all the cemetery streets had been freshly black-topped.

There were barriers placed at the entrance of each street warning motorists not to enter since the final coat of pea gravel was still to come.

No doubt this final top coat will be applied well before this item appears in print, and visitors will be free to drive in and enjoy the new improvements.

As we have stated before, this work has been proceeding by the county road crew under direction of Thomas Richard Jones, County Commissioner of Precinct No. 1.

In the meantime the road crew have been re-surfacing the landing strip on the Eldorado airport.

And they say it is going to be black-topped, too.

Correction: County does hauling, grading and packing the caliche; City of Eldorado does the blacktop and application of pea gravel.

SAFETY INSPECTION STATION

By Bill Boykin
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—The Texas Constitutional Commission made key decisions last week on finance and legislative sections of the state's basic laws.

It will formulate recommendations September 6-8 on judiciary and education provisions. Sections on local government and general provisions will be reviewed September 13-15.

Final action of the 37-member body, which is studying changes needed in the state's basic laws, is scheduled September 27-29.

Meanwhile, a legislative planning committee for the January-May '74 constitutional convention of lawmakers is moving ahead with preparations for the historic gathering.

The planners have voted to spend $33,938 on new chairs and desks to place in the House of Representatives chamber during the convention. Chairs, costing $165 apiece, will be replicas of those used by delegates to the 1876 constitutional convention. The desks, considerably more economical, will be made by state prison system inmates at a cost of $22.50 each.

The revision commission practiced some economies (of language) in shortening the recommended general legislative tax power section of the constitution from the present lengthy statement of limits and exemptions to the following:

"Taxes shall be levied and collected by general law for public purposes only, and shall be equal and uniform."

The 181 legislators who will be delegates to the convention will convene here December 6-8 for a briefing on details of the commission's recommendations. The convention will open January 8.

Farm Production Highs Set

Texas farmers and livestock raisers are setting new production levels this year, Agriculture Commissioner John White reported.

Records, according to White, are being tied or broken for wheat, cotton, grain sorghum, corn, peanuts, soybeans, oats, barley, rye and rice. Texas is first in the nation in cotton and grain sorghum and fourth in wheat production.

Texas cattle on feed total 2.3 million, said White, about 700,000 more than the second-ranking state, Iowa, and an increase of 9% over last year. White said cattle producers marketed more cattle during June and July than they did a year ago, proving that they are not holding back because of the price freeze on beef.

White predicted that removal of the beef price ceiling will not cause skyrocketing of meat prices and may even help bring them down.

He said there are warning signs consumer resistance to the rising prices of food products is stiffening.

Insurance Deals Targeted

New Insurance Board rules aim to halt rate discrimination and unfair competition in property and casualty insurance.

Board Chairman Joe Christie said some non-rate-regulated companies, including Lloyds and reciprocals, offer unrealistically low rates to prime risks with the intention of having ultimate liability assumed by a rate-regulated company.

Christie said the "brother-in-law" deals can result only in higher rates for the majority of policyholders.

"A farce has slowly but surely been perpetuated when a large company either forms a Lloyds, or even rents one by one scheme or another, for the purpose of evading this state's regulatory laws," Christie said.

The feed situation (demand, supply, outlook) will be among numerous subjects discussed during the second annual Sheep Field Day of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at San Angelo.

The Sept. 4 field day begins at 9:30 a.m., with time out for Dutch-treat lunch, and ends at 3:00 p.m. It is co-sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Worldwide Foods To Highlight Second Folklife Festival

Everything from Swiss Quiche Lorraine to good ol' Texas-style chili will be on the bill of fare at the state's grandest food fest, the Texas Folklife Festival, September 6-9 in San Antonio.

The festival, on the grounds of the UTSA Institute of Texan Cultures, highlights the many ways Texans of all races and national origins have fun. And food will be a stellar attraction at the four-day, statewide party.

Visitors to the second annual Folklife Festival on HemisFair Plaza can sample a world smorgasbord. Foods ranging from beef briskets barbecued by cowboys over open pits and cowboy stew served from authentic chuck wagons, Chinese tea and eggrolls, Jewish cabbage rolls and lox and bagels will be offered.

Available for the first time this year will be Belgian sausage, Cajun Shrimpboats, French Alsatian "paresa", Swedish Bif-Bistok (beef marinated 24 hours in dill, put on a stick and grilled), Spanish "Parella", Norwegian Berlin Krauser and Czech Klobasniky or Kolac (a sweet Kolache).

English Texans will serve sausage rolls and a special English brew in their own English Pub, where a pianist will lead friendly sing-alongs.

Danish Texans will serve four Danish pastries and coffee at one end of their booth and, at the other end, Aquavit (a wine meaning "Water of Life") and three cheeses—Northwest Jutland with caraway seed, Tybo cheese and Danish-Swiss.

If the visitor's taste is less exotic, there will be old-fashioned ice cream at the shady Pioneer Brush Arbor or the plain goodness of Negro soul food—okra, collard greens, spinach, corn, fried chicken, ham and peach cobbler.

At the festival, visitors will be tempted by simmering Polish Bigos Stew, Indian Jerky, sourdough biscuits, Irish stew, yam pies and Wendish pickled figs.

The four-day food fiesta will offer unusual items, such as Japanese Teri-yaki and Yakitori served with rice and soy sauce or finger lickin' peanut brittle made from syrup freshly made at the Pioneer Cane Mill.

TO CONDUCT SERVICE

The service this Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2nd, at the Nursing Home, will be under direction of the First Baptist Church.

In addition to the El Paso Tiguas' bread leaves baked in their unique dome ovens, the Alabama-Coushattas from Livingston will demonstrate how to prepare fry bread and Yak-Che, pounded corn and chopped ham.

And there will be rare treats, such as Greek Baklava (a layered pastry leaf covered with spices, honey and nuts) or the Lebanese Lahem Bi Ajeen (meat pie) or Lahem Mishwi (shish-kebob).

For Mexican or Spanish tastes, the chili kings of the Chilympiad, San Marcos, will prepare their specialties, and in the Night in Old San Antonio's Mexican Market, over a dozen Mexican foods ranging from crisp bunuelos, tortillas con frijoles, or tortillas with cheese and hot sauces, chalupas or tamales will be available.

There will be Italian meatball sandwiches and pizza, German sausage-on-a-stick, apple strudel, hush puppies made by the Lufkin hush-puppy champions, Cajun boudain and shrimp balls, Polish placki (potato pancakes) and even Scottish parlies.

Visitors can wash it all down with a great variety of beverages, including pink lemonade, soft drinks, coffee, Irish green beer, Czech "pivo", Mexican "cerveza", English ale and Danish, Greek and Spanish wines (the beer still at the inflation fighting price of 25 cents a cup).

Transportation from San Antonio's downtown parking lots to the Institute grounds will be provided by the festival's free shuttle buses.

42 May Be Traffic Victims Labor Day

Austin, Tex.—Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today warned that 42 persons may lose their lives in Texas traffic during the long Labor Day week end.

The holiday officially begins at 6:00 p.m. Friday, August 31 and runs through midnight Monday, September 3.

Speir said the DPS is making preparations to cope with increased holiday travel. "Every available Department of Public Safety patrolman will be on duty during this three day week end, utilizing all resources we can put our hands on to prevent accidents," he added.

The DPS director noted that special attention will be paid to hazardous traffic violations normally associated with a high holiday death toll. Patrolmen will be especially watchful for such offenses as speeding, driving while drinking, improper passing and driving on the wrong side of the road.

In addition to stepped-up enforcement activities, the DPS will also work with local law enforcement agencies and the news media of Texas to conduct an accident prevention program called "Operation Motorcide."

During "Operation Motorcide," tabulations and pertinent facts about all fatal holiday traffic crashes will be compiled three times daily and released to the news media. Notation will be made as to where and why accidents are happening.

Speir called the holiday program "a life and death struggle for the lives of our citizens," and he urged every motorist to cooperate in the effort.

Lightweight Lunch To Pack And Carry

Counting calories can be a real picnic! Do it with carry-along salads that practically serve themselves and cool desserts made and served in pretty paper dessert dishes.

Here's how it's done. Core a whole large tomato and cut into six wedges, not quite through. Press wedges open and fill with a combination of chopped onion, chopped green pepper, chopped celery, chunk-style tuna and low calorie French dressing.

To carry your salad to the office or to a picnic-in-the-park, place the stuffed tomato on lettuce on a 7-inch Dixie paper plate. The bright red and yellow Pennsylvania Dutch pattern named "Fireside" is a good color complement to the salad. Cover snugly in plastic wrap.

The dessert's even easier to pack because it's made and served right in a matching paper dessert dish that's easy to wrap. As a final filip, make the beveraged iced tea, spiced with a cinnamon stick stirrer.

BANANA WHIP

1 envelope low calorie orange gelatin	1/4 cup nonfat dry milk crystals
1 1/2 cups boiling water	1/4 cup ice water
1 ripe banana, mashed	Nutmeg

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Cool and then chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in banana. In a small bowl beat dry milk and water until thick and it holds soft peaks. Fold whipped milk into gelatin. Spoon mixture into four 7-ounce Fireside pattern paper dessert dishes. Chill until firm. Serve dusted with a little nutmeg. If desired, garnish with additional slices of banana, kept fresh-looking by dipping in lemon juice or your morning breakfast orange juice. Makes 4 servings.
Dixie products are made by American Can Company.

Time To Plan Fall Gardens

Fall gardens can produce as many delicious vegetables as spring gardens. In fact, cucumbers, cabbage, squash, tomatoes, broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, turnips, mustard greens and spinach all relish cooler fall temperatures.

The time to start a fall garden is mid-summer. Vegetables such as tomatoes and peppers should be started from transplants then since they must mature before frost.

Broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage should be started from transplants in late summer so that they will mature during cool weather in late fall and winter. Frosts and light freezes generally do little damage to these crops, so in southern counties, they can be started later.

Onions may be seeded from early September to late October and thinned for use in the green stage. Plants left over can be carried through the winter for production of mature bulbs.

However, if onion plants grow more than one-fourth inch in size before freezing weather, many will develop seed stems in the spring. Some gardeners may prefer to buy southern-grown transplants and set them out from late December to February for bulbs.

To avoid disease, nematode and weed problems in fall gardens, consider soil fumigation. Be sure to follow manufacturer's recommendations, especially those on the time interval between application and planting.

Water is critical for fall vegetables, especially in the early stages when temperatures are still high. A good soaking at planting should be followed by lighter waterings until seedlings emerge, then regular waterings are needed to keep soil moist. A mulch of decomposed organic matter, grass clippings, sawdust or other material will help conserve moisture, keep weeds down and reduce cultivation.

As far as fertilizer is concerned, use a 5-20-10 mixture on silt loams and clay soils and a 5-20-20 on sandy soils. Broadcast it at a rate of 15 to 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet. After planting, sidedress stands with 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet, keeping the fertilizer out of contact with the seed.

After a heavy rain, sandy soils may need an additional sidedress in golf nitrogen. Ammonium nitrate should be used since nitrates are more readily available to plants in cool weather.

With the proper care and attention, a fall garden can provide an abundance of fresh, low-cost, nutritious vegetables. * * *

Save Vegetables, Flower Seeds

Next year's garden can be planted at a considerable savings with properly stored seeds left over from this year's plantings.

Proper storage includes placing the seeds in a tin, glass or plastic air tight container and storing through the winter in a refrigerator, deep freeze or in the coolest part of the home for a slow loss of viability. If left in the warm areas of the average home, the seeds may lose their viability quite rapidly.

Most all garden seeds can be stored for several years and will still germinate and produce successful plants. They have been classed in short, medium and long life spans according to their longevity under cool basement conditions.

Seeds with a short life span generally remain viable from one to two years. They include aster, cleome, candytuft, columbine, honesty, kochia, phlox, salvia, strawflower, vinca, corn, leek, onion and parsnip.

Those seeds with a medium life span, or a three to four-year viability, include beans, beets, carrots, Swiss chard, mustard, peppers, pumpkins and tomatoes.

Most other vegetables, as well as the alyssum, calendula, coreopsis, cosmos, marigold, nasturtium, petunia, scabiosa, sweet pea, verbena, viola and zinnia are long life span seeds, remaining viable for five or more years.

Before planting stored seeds, it is suggested testing their germination to determine the planting thickness. Place a definite number of seeds on moist blotting paper in a covered dish. Put the container in a warm location and count the seeds which germinate in 10 to 14 days.

Stored seeds may have to be planted up to twice as thick as fresh seeds. Scatter them in a band in the row rather than in a narrow, dense line.

"Linty" Laundry

Lint is a natural by-product of all laundering, but whether or not it clings to clothes may depend on the homemaker.

Normally, lint flows down the drain or collects on lint filters built into most of today's washers and dryers. When it persistently clings to freshly laundered clothes, the homemaker should recheck laundering procedures.

Five major factors cause clinging lint—improper sorting of laundry, too little detergent, insufficient water, overloading washer and dryer, and overdrying.

Concentrate on these areas to overcome lint problems.

—Check lint filters.

For peak efficiency, clean filters after each wash and dry load.

—Examine sorting procedures.

Separate lint "givers"—towels and flannel pajamas—from lint "attractors" such as linens, corduroys, dark cottons, man-made fabrics and durable press fabrics. Also, launder heavy linters, such as chenille bedspreads, alone.

Turning lint holders inside out may help too.

—Use proper amount of detergent.

Detergents increase the wetting of fabric surfaces. If too little is used, wetting action is reduced and lint adheres more readily. Proportion detergent to type of machine, water hardness, load size and degree of soil.

—Don't overload.

Loading too many clothes into a washer inhibits free movement of clothes—which normally flushes lint from fabric. Check instruction booklet to determine recommended load size and water level.

—Avoid overdrying.

When overdried, man-made fabrics magnetically draw lint due to static buildup. Correct timing and use of fabric softener help eliminate this problem.

In addition, certain durable press and synthetic fibers—such as polyesters and acrylics—tend to "pill."

Pilling—formation of small balls on fabric surfaces—stems from abrasion in normal wear. Lint adheres to pillled surfaces and is extremely difficult to remove.

To remove lint, brush fabric carefully with a stiff bristled brush for best results. * * *

Wooden Furniture Label Language . . .

When purchasing wooden furniture, read the label—and understand what it says.

Knowing label language helps consumers find what they want in furniture woods. For instance, a label reading "walnut finish" means the wood has been finished to look like walnut—it isn't really walnut wood.

The term "genuine" indicates that only the exposed structural parts and flat surfaces of an item must be made of the wood named on the label. Furniture items with veneers fit this category.

On the other hand, "solid" denotes both frames and panels are constructed from wood stated on the label. When labeled "solid," veneer and plywood aren't allowed.

Another label often used is wood grain imitation—such as "imitation oak grain on hardboard."

Imitations include wood grain patterns painted or printed on hardboard, metal, plastic and lumber. Also, photographic wood grain on paper which is glued to another surface.

The Federal Trade Commission requires furniture manufacturers to meet these standards. * * *

Dangerous Toy Toys

Charming toys sometimes present danger—in the form of "swallowable" parts.

Often a young child's first impulse is to taste a toy. Should a small part on that toy break away, the child will likely swallow it.

With so many toys to choose from, it's important that parents and other consumers examine a toy thoroughly before purchasing it. Unfortunately, packaging partially prevents this—as with items enclosed in plastic or boxed up.

Responding to this need, the Food and Drug Administration has proposed to ban those toys meant for children under three which have parts small enough to swallow.

Concerning toys intended for older children, FDA suggested they carry or display warnings of potential danger if used by babies or toddlers.

Consumers finding toys which seem dangerous should contact their nearest FDA office. Interested persons can write the Food and Drug Administration, 3032 Bryan, Dallas, Texas 75204.

Labor Day
September 3, 1973

Labor Day is a unique holiday, observed as a national holiday only in the United States. The day was established by national law as a salute to the working person, and to Americans the holiday heralds a change in life style as it usually marks the end of vacation season, the start of another school year, and a seasonal change. These words from The Living Bible refer to work.

"What does one really get from hard work? I have thought about this in connection with all the various kinds of work God has given to mankind. Everything is appropriate in its own time. But though God has planted eternity in the hearts of men, even so, man cannot see the whole scope of God's work from beginning to end. So I conclude that, first, there is nothing better for a man than to be happy and to enjoy himself as long as he can; and second, that he should eat and drink and enjoy the fruits of his labors, for these are gifts from God. . . .

The man who works hard sleeps well whether he eats little or much, but the rich must worry and suffer insomnia. . . .

A lazy man is brother to the saboteur. . . . Remember to observe the Sabbath as a holy day. Six days a week are for your daily duties and your regular work, but the seventh day is a day of Sabbath rest before the Lord your God."

Not Far From Main Street

Just for a minute, think about the local places you have loved . . . the old swimming hole, the town park, the walk by the river, the view from the hill—your church! Life would be so much less without them; yet we tend to take them for granted.

What a beautiful world God has created for us! How much He must love us to have given us shaded valleys and sparkling waters! He planned for us the constant variety of the changing seasons. For our enjoyment, He made trees and grasses, flowers and fruits. Before such miraculous inventiveness, science stands baffled and incredulous.

It is obvious that behind all creation there is a power greater than we, a power constantly concerned with man's development. In the church of your choice you will find the opportunity to give thanks for the gifts of creation. Here, too, you will learn to understand better the complexities of our world. You will find a faith that will sustain you throughout life.

Check Proprietary Schools Carefully

(By John L. Hill, Attorney General)
 Austin, Tex.—While some 250,000 Texans are in the process of registering for college and university courses this fall, and thousands more entering vocational and technical training in public junior college, there are others who will be looking to private trade and vocational schools.

These private schools, which offer courses in a wide range of subjects—from stenographic or welding, to accounting or TV repair, can provide career training for the new high school graduate, as well as the person looking for a new field for his or her particular talents.

Prior to 1971, the prospective private vocational student was at a disadvantage when he began shopping for a school. Advertising claims frequently went way beyond what a school actually could guarantee. Misrepresentations of course offerings, job-placement capabilities, and payment plans were complained of.

Witnesses told a legislative fact-finding committee of experiences involving educational disappointments, such as signing up for training which was not in fact available, as well as economic frustrations, such as being required to pay out allegedly worthless contracts.

Legitimate trade and vocational school operators became concerned, and urged that all the private schools be regulated.

As a result, the Texas Legislature passed a Texas Proprietary School Act, which took effect in 1972. The act, administered by the Texas Education Agency, requires T.E.A. certification of the private career schools; requires state approval of the courses they offer, and prohibits misrepresentations in course sales and advertising.

As of now, some 240 proprietary schools have been certified by the state, and applications from about 30 newly-organized schools are pending approval.

This has been an obvious benefit to the young Texans seeking to further their educational opportunities, and increase their earning capacities, in institutions apart from the college and university systems.

The Texas Proprietary School Division of the Texas Education Agency maintains a list of all certificated schools, and their approved courses, as well as all institutions qualified for veterans' training.

And the T.E.A. also works with my Consumer Protection Division in the investigation of charges of unauthorized "career schools", as well as any complaints of misrepresentations by authorized operations.

I am told that an average of one complaint a week is received, and that most of these have been found to relate to misunderstandings, rather than violations of the act.

But my office has had occasion to file suit as legal representative of the T.E.A., primarily when we have uncovered violations by pyramid sales schemes which offered as part of their marketing plans some "schools" which were not schools at all, but merely part of the sales pitch.

If you or your child encounter any problem which you consider to be a violation of the Texas Proprietary School Act, do not hesitate to contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, or the T.E.A.

But since it's always better to be safe than sorry, keep these precautionary measures in mind when you start talking about private trade or vocational education:

—Beware of high pressure sales methods.

—Look out for exaggerated promises, such as "easy" courses, or "guaranteed" job placement.

—Read every word of the contract offered, and determine the refund policies of the school in the event of illness or some other event that could prevent you from completing a course.

—Visit the school. Talk to the faculty, and talk to persons who have graduated from the school.

—Be certain that the operation is certified by the Texas Education Agency, and if you still want reassurance, check with your local Better Business Bureau, and with major employers in your community.

Once you have found the right school, the rest is up to you. Good luck to you.

Market Report

College Station, Tex.—Optimists in consumer-nutrition ranks these days point to the fact that most people eat more meat than they need for good nutrition anyway.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, is one.

She advocated this week that shoppers sharpen food buying habits—keeping in mind the improbability that all meat will vanish from diets.

"Simply plan meals with less meat," the specialist said.

"Combine meat and vegetables to make a little meat go a long way—beef stew, hearty hamburger soup and ground meat extended with grated potatoes and onion are a few familiar examples.

"Teams of vegetables, such as zucchini, tomatoes and onions with a small amount of ground beef, ham or cheese make appetizing main dishes."

In poultry sections, fryer chickens took a small price dip with turkeys showing no change, this week, she noted.

Also, other protein foods serve as meat supplements. A smaller portion of meat served with milk, nuts, cooked beans or peas provides necessary protein at somewhat less cost than a larger meat serving.

"Although eggs, cheddar and cottage cheese show price increases, they still provide high-quality protein at a relatively moderate cost."

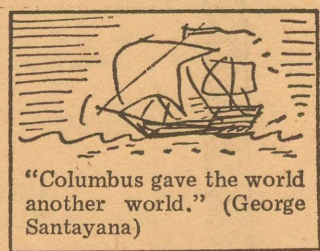

Noting bread in menus, Mrs. Clyatt advised buying by weight and looking for lower-priced "store brands."

Turning to desserts, she predicted "no problems these days with such an abundance of fresh fruits—cantaloupe, watermelon, peaches, seedless grapes, bananas, pears, new-crop apples, plums, prunes, nectarines and pineapples—all tasty nutritious offerings at various price levels."

At the vegetable counter head lettuce shows price decline, but quality isn't always tops, the specialist said.

"Generally, dry yellow onion prices are a bit lower, so use them generously to flavor more bland foods.

"Russet potato prices are on the high side. Carrots, cabbage, cucumbers, bell peppers, corn, squash, okra, corn, collard greens and celery are among the most economical items currently on the market."

This Labor Day you have a choice. You can build memories or become one.
