75TH YEAR

ELDORADO—SCHLEICHER COUNTY, TEXAS (76936)

Thursday, April 8, 1976

Number 15

by Lyndell Williams
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—Texas will be a battleground of presidential candidates this month.

Ninety-eight Democratic delegates and 96 Republican delegates will be selected in the May 1 presidential preference primary—among the top half dozen from any state. Democrats will pick another 32 delegates and their 70 alternates in the June 19 state convention. Republicans will name only four delegates at their June convention.

Republican Ronald Reagan, in addition to his Texas campaign swing this week, plans additional visits April 13-14 and April 29-30.

President Ford reportedly will spend this week end in Texas and return April 28-29.

Democrat front-runner Jimmy Carter will be in the state April 20 and probably again just before the May 1 primary. His son, Chip, tried the Texas water last weekend.

U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, seeking favorite son Democratic designation as well as re-election, is spending nearly fulltime on the campaign trail this month.

George Wallace's supporters say he will show up soon after this week's Wisconsin primary.

Democrat Fred Harris is expected April 27-30 and perhaps for a warmup visit earlier.

Session Pushed

Legislators continued to shower Gov. Dolph Briscoe with proposals for a special legislative session to curb skyrocketing utility bills.

They ranged from tax relief schemes of special low-low rates for small homeowners. Briscoe apparently encouraged the special session speculation, but made no firm promises.

Comptroller Bob Bullock warned that fiddling with the utility tax structure would save the consumer no more than "chicken feed" on electric and gas bills. Bullock suggested legislators concentrate on turning around the rate structure which now provides lowest rates to largest users and highest rates to homeowners.

Law Protested

Food and beverage "chains" are concerned about Alcoholic Beverage Commission plans to enforce strictly a law requiring liquor license holders to be three-year residents of Texas—or corporations to be majority-owned by Texans.

ABC Commissioners Luke Robinson has backing of the commission in enforcing the law, which may stop sales of beer, wine and whiskey in many national supermarket, hotel and restaurant chain outlets.

Short Snorts . . .

Directors of 65 state agencies said they support government economy measures, but feel employees should get inflation-fighting pay raises.

Texas unemployment moved up to tenth of 1% last month, bringing to 5.4% the jobless rate.

Texas Water Rights Commission has initiated the adjudication process for water rights in the Lower Colorado River Segment—below Mansfield Dam in Travis county to the Gulf.

A new Railroad Commission order would raise natural gas bills for the average residence in Whitesboro from $14.48 to $20.21 a month. The city had refused Lone Star Gas Co. permission to up rates. A Mineral Wells rate roll-back order also was invalidated by the commission.

Atty. Gen. Hill argued before the U. S. Supreme Court that the Texas death penalty statute is constitutional.

4-H CLUB MEETING SET

The Schleicher County 4-H Club will meet Thursday, April 8, at 7:00 p.m. in the Memorial Building. Some of the 4-H'ers who are doing method demonstrations will be presenting the program. 4-H Camp will also be discussed.

Remember When?

by Jannette Wilkerson

The Historical Society's board of directors met Friday, April 2, to discuss the painting and plumbing repairs on the Museum. A special "Paint Day" will be announced at a later date, so get ready.

There is a "Museum Kitty" at the El Dorado Restaurant, so if you can't find your pocket, just feed the "Kitty" your change. This will go for the trees and shrubs for the Historical Society's Bicentennial Park. By working together we can make Eldorado as beautiful on the outside as it is on the inside.

Our special Thanks go to the Eldorado Success for printing our membership cards . . . By the way, if you don't have one yet, contact Mrs. Ben Isaacs; she'll be glad to sign you up.

Last week a trip was made to Menard to visit the Museum. They have restored the old depot, and it is well worth a trip over to see it. It's a beautiful building and holds fond memories for area residents, when it was known as "Menardville." The 1911-vintage depot building was left when Santa Fe removed their line into Menard a few years ago.

REMEMBER WHEN?

This area has undergone many changes and has witnessed many interesting events, but according to the first settlers of the county, Mustang catching had its share of thrills and there was no period in the history of Schleicher county more interesting.

It is believed that most wild ponies originated from the Kickapoo Indians and were lost in the battle of Dove Creek in January 1864. In 1834 when the 80 section Vermont Ranch was fenced there were a large number of mustangs enclosed by the three-wire fence. They had evidently come in contact with barbed wire at some time, for they would not go near the fence, nor would they go be-

Answers For Newly Widowed Who Ask: 'What Do I Do Now?'

"What do I do now?" "This is one of the first questions a widow asks," according to Fred Volotta, CNA Insurance's director of life insurance marketing.

During the confusing and emotional period immediately following her husband's death, it becomes the widow's responsibility to deal with very pressing financial problems which are two-fold: an increased need for cash, and usually an immediate loss of income.

Volotta offers these suggestions to help ease some of the problems:

- Ask the funeral director to obtain multiple copies of the death certificate which you will need for insurance claims and legal transactions.
- Search in safety deposit boxes, briefcases, home and office desks, lockers, safes, etc., to locate all important documents. Do not discard any official-looking papers, especially insurance policies which appear to have lapsed as they may still be in force.
- Your insurance agent will explain benefits and the many settlement options available to you.
- If your husband was covered by Social Security, there is a lump-sum payment available, in addition to other benefits, but they must be applied for.
- A lawyer will be needed for such matters as recording deeds, disposition of stocks, bonds and savings accounts, assistance if your husband left no will, etc.

• Contact your husband's employer to inquire about group life insurance, pension funds and any other available benefits. Also, contact any organizations to which your husband belonged such as unions, service organizations, business associations, etc., as many provide group life insurance.

And finally, Volotta cautions that a hasty decision about life insurance proceeds is neither necessary nor advisable. Take time to think out your situation, carefully projecting your short- and long-term needs, before selecting a settlement option.

Turkey For Easter

by Martha Logan

Easter is a special kind of day, and a golden brown roast turkey will make Easter dinner very special. Giblet gravy and stuffing naturally go with a roast Butterball Swift's Premium Turkey. The stuffing may be placed in the body cavities of the bird or baked in a casserole or in a muffin pan with the turkey. The stuffing baked in the muffin pan makes a delightful garnish for the turkey platter. Just remember that a turkey roasted unstuffed will cook in 1/2 hour to 1 hour less time.

The balance of the meal will be governed by your family's favorite foods. Sherbet with fresh fruit might start the meal. Mashed potatoes, buttered asparagus, aspic salad, rolls and butter and lemon meringue pie make a springy, colorful and delicious meal.

Muffin Cup Stuffing

Yield: 8 servings

- ¼ cup chopped celery
  - ¼ stick (6 tablespoons) butter or margarine
  - ½ cup milk
  - ½ cup water
  - 7 or 8 ounce package cubed stuffing mix
  - 2 eggs, well beaten
- Saute celery in butter until soft. Add milk and water to skillet. Pour mixture over stuffing mix. Stir. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Add eggs, stir and spoon into very well greased large-size muffin cups. Press slightly to shape. Bake 30 minutes in a 325°F. oven. Use small spatula or table knife to remove individual servings from muffin cups.

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Doing 1975 Taxes? — Remember Your Bank

By Willis W. Alexander
Executive Vice President
American Bankers Association

You are probably aware that many banks provide customers with the most common forms for filing income-tax returns. But, there are other reasons for remembering your bank when that April 15 deadline draws near.

* Interest earned on deposits must be counted as income. You will receive a 1099 form or a year-end statement from your bank indicating the amount of interest paid or credited to your savings account or certificate of deposit.

* You may deduct the interest paid on a personal bank loan from your gross income if you itemize your deductions and file long form 1040. Some banks do not automatically notify customers of the total interest paid on them during the year. If yours is one of these, do not hesitate to call and inquire.

* Interest paid on overdraft or "line-of-credit" checking accounts and credit card finance charges are also deductible. All banks send total amounts for these, although the yearly finance charge on a bank card is usually included as a line item on your year-end statement.

* If you withdrew funds from a certificate of deposit before it reached maturity, you lost interest in the form of a penalty for early withdrawal. This amount is now tax deductible.

* Bank customers who opened an "individual retirement account" (IRA) during 1975 must file a separate form #5329 to claim the deduction for the amount contributed (15 per cent of your wages or earned income or $1,500, whichever is less.)

And some really good news. If you are among the more than 808,000 bank customers with a trust account, your trust service package may include the preparation of tax return forms — though this would be more true of large banks than small banks. In addition, banks in at least five states now have contracts with professional tax preparation services to provide customers with the convenience of a location in the bank lobby.

A few final tips. Start saving and collecting your deduction and interest income records for 1976 now. If they are in one place next February, your job will be half done. To help keep track of charitable contributions and other deductible expenditures some banks now offer "tax-saver" check registers with spaces for deduction notations. And, finally, keep all cancelled checks for a minimum of three years after the year in which you filed the return. In a case of a dispute, you may need them to verify any deductions you claimed.

You can be lazy and use our "Drive Up" banking window.

It will save you time and steps.

Death and Taxes

WASHINGTON—Nothing is certain but death and taxes, and no taxes are more unfair or more counterproductive than the taxes on death.

Some amazing miscalculations have been made in tax law, but none have ever been wider of the mark than the federal estate tax.

The estate tax was supposed to keep the rich from becoming unduly richer through accumulating vast estates and passing them on, virtually intact, to their children.

But that isn't what's happening. The estate tax has had very little impact on the truly wealthy, who have the wherewithal to hire lawyers clever enough to circumvent its provisions.

But the estate tax is massacring the family farmers and the small businessmen who wish to leave their property to their sons and daughters.

For a long time, the estate tax did apply only to the truly wealthy. The middle class was exempted from its confiscatory bite. But the estate tax exemption hasn't been raised in 33 years, and its effect on the middle class has been devastating.

In 1942, when the federal estate tax exemption was raised to its present level of $60,000, it applied to only the top one per cent of all the estates in the country.

Today, thanks to inflation and the rise in real incomes, ten times as many estates—and fully 75 per cent of all Americans—now feel the bite of the estate tax. Even some elderly retired people who have never earned more than $4,000 or $5,000 a year in their lives have estates worth more than $60,000.

The effect on the family farmer and the small businessman is brutal. Frequently, the business must be sold off or the farm split up in order to pay the estate tax.

Meanwhile, the larger farmers and the big businessmen avoid the estate taxes by forming corporations, which live forever.

Thus, the estate tax in its present form doesn't tax the people it is supposed to tax, and taxes people it isn't supposed to tax.

The economic hardship the estate tax imposes on family farmers and small businessmen isn't compensated for by generating large revenues for the federal treasury. Last year it produced only $5.1 billion, 1.6 per cent of all revenues. In 1930, when the tax hit only the genuinely wealthy, it produced 1.8 per cent of all federal revenues.

Clearly, the time for reform is long overdue. President Ford has proposed raising the estate tax exemption to $150,000, to be phased in over a period of five years. I have cosponsored a bill to raise the exemption to $200,000. Congress should act soon on one or the other of these measures.

In England, "a 'silent partner' in business is known as a 'sleeping partner.'"

Consumer Scene

Consumers Warned: Watch Your Warranties!

Many consumers think they now have more protection against defects in their purchases thanks to a new Federal warranty law that went into effect last summer.

The fact is, however, that some manufacturers who formerly offered consumers a warranty on their products may now provide none at all.

"Consumers must be more alert than ever before to see that the products they purchase will be fixed by the manufacturer if they are defective," says Jane Butel, manager of the Consumers Institute for General Electric and Hotpoint. "You should not take anything for granted."

The new legislation, known as the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, is designed to make consumers more aware of the warranty on a product before purchases. All manufacturers of items costing $15 or more must, if they wish to comply with the new law, "make their warranties available at the dealers' store for the consumer to see, and warranties must state what is fully covered and what is limited or optional," says Ms. Butel.

Although some manufacturers have elected to offer no written warranty, most have opted to provide either a full warranty or a limited warranty.

A full warranty, such as GE is offering on its major appliances, says Ms. Butel, covers all parts and service labor for a specified period, e.g., one year.

A limited warranty, as the name implies, provides only limited coverage. It may, for example, cover parts but no labor. Or it may require that the consumer pay the cost of packing and shipping the product to a service location.

At the present time the retailer has the responsibility for seeing that the customer has a chance to compare product warranties before he buys. Manufacturers are trying to make the dealers' job easier. GE, for example, is providing its dealers with copies of its major appliance warranties on 9x12-inch cards for use at the point of sale.

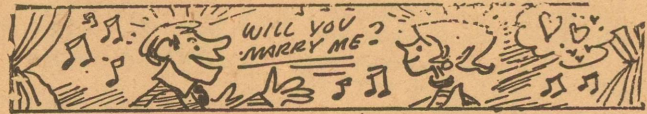

Ms. Butel suggests that consumers keep these points in mind in assessing warranties:

- Is it a "full" warranty or a "limited" warranty?
- For what period of time are you protected: for a year, or less or longer?
- Be sure you understand what parts are covered. Don't be deceived by a long-term guarantee on certain parts that rarely cause a problem.
- Is labor covered as well as parts?
- Check to see who will perform the repairs. Is it the store selling the product, or the manufacturer... or who?
- Must you take the appliance in for repairs or will the serviceman come to your home?
- Do you have to pay for the serviceman's travel expense? If the repair shop is far away, this can prove expensive.

"Make sure you know exactly what you are getting," counsels Ms. Butel, "and by all means keep all receipts of purchases and your written warranty."

The superstition that it's unlucky to wash blankets in May survives in some parts of England.

Courtship to marriage is but as the music in the playhouse till the curtain's drawn.

Garden Disease Control Must Be Season-Long

Since a plant is subject to diseases from the time the seed is placed in the ground until the edible portion is harvested, disease control in the home vegetable garden is a season-long practice.

To get off on the right foot toward a disease-free garden, select a site that is in full sunlight to aid in drying of the foliage in the early morning hours. Many diseases are caused by a fungal organism, water to move out of the root zone. A small microscopic plant which requires a certain moisture level to germinate to begin the disease process. Plants in protected, shady areas do not dry rapidly and, as a result, are more subject to disease.

Next, plant garden vegetables on raised beds (8-10 inches) to allow poor drainage in the root zone causes many problems, such as the yellowing of tomato plants.

Many plants require some method of keeping the fruit off of the ground to prevent fruit decay. Staking plants is still satisfactory, but the use of wire cages has become quite popular. Such cages should be about three feet high and about 20 inches across. Tomatoes, pole beans and cucumbers are well adapted to cages. Plants grown in cages are more upright and the fruit is kept off the ground, thus avoiding a number of soil-borne diseases.

When watering the garden, avoid wetting the foliage of plants, especially in the evening since it will remain wet during the night and provide an excellent area for diseases to develop. Instead, water at mid-day or early afternoon, and use furrow irrigation whenever possible.

When fertilizing plants, follow a well balanced program. Excessive levels of nitrogen will make a plant more susceptible to some diseases. Calcium, potassium, and phosphorus are important in developing healthy plant tissue which will to some extent withstand disease attack. Plants which are high in potassium and calcium can withstand a light nematode attack when compared to those grown in deficient soils. Of course, this does not mean that potassium and calcium can be used for nematode control. Soil fumigation is still the accepted method of controlling nematodes.

Fungicides for controlling diseases in the home garden last from 7 to 10 days. Thus, if conditions are still favorable for diseases 10 days after a fungicide is used, an additional application must be made. Also, plants are continuing to grow during the 10-day period and untreated leaves, stems and fruit are being exposed and must be sprayed. A rain after an application will also necessitate retreatment. If leaves have been dry for some three to four hours after spraying and rain does not exceed an inch, then retreatment is not necessary.

When applying a fungicide, make sure all foliage and fruit is covered with spray material. And always follow label directions carefully when using any agricultural chemicals.

Tomatoes—Popular But Fickle

Just about every home gardener has a few tomato plants that are his pride and joy. But there's more to growing a good crop of tomatoes than just setting out the plants.

"Tomatoes can be some of the most rewarding garden plants, but they can also bring frustration," points out Sam Cotner, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

For success at growing tomatoes, Cotner offers a few pointers.

"First of all, select varieties that are adapted to the area and that resist many of the common diseases. Such varieties as Spring Giant, Homestead, Porter, Terrific or Small Fry are excellent for most areas of Texas."

"When buying tomato plants, select those that are short, stocky and dark green—ones that are about as tall as they are wide."

"Be sure to locate tomatoes in an area that receives at least six hours of sunlight a day."

"Plant tomatoes in a soil rich in organic matter and containing adequate fertilization. Allow about four square feet of space for each plant."

"Set the plants somewhat deeper than they were originally growing. Apply a starter solution; one can be made by mixing one or two tablespoons of a complete fertilizer in a gallon of water."

"To reduce wilting, set out plants on a cloudy day or late afternoon. Protect them from adverse conditions such as high winds or excessive heat by providing some cover, such as milk cartons with the ends cut out."

"As the plants begin to grow, provide some sort of support to keep fruit off the ground, such as stakes, trellises or wire cages."

"At first bloom, dust or spray tomatoes for both insects and diseases. Once plants start setting fruit, apply small amounts of ferlizer every week or so.

"For tops in quality and flavor, harvest the fruits at peak maturity," suggests Cotner.

Used Refrigerators Still Good

A used refrigerator may answer the need for the family's second refrigerator. It won't be as expensive as a new one and many used refrigerators have lots of life left.

The total repair bill on refrigerators is smaller than for other major appliances—so they usually keep working. This means it may be easy to find a good buy on a still-useful appliance.

Look for a used refrigerator in stores that take them in as trades for new models. These stores often repair the used ones and sell them. Frequently such purchases are accompanied by a limited guarantee.

Also check garage sales or moving sales for used refrigerators. Many times people get tired of what they have and want new models. Other people don't want to move that heavy appliance so they sell it. But remember that a guarantee from a private seller is difficult to enforce.

A good question to ask is the age of the refrigerator—most usually last about 14-16 years. A refrigerator that has been stored without running for a long time probably will not be as good as one that has been kept operating.

Look at the gasket around the door. Will it have to be replaced? If it's worn and cracked, this may be a sign of the poor care the refrigerator has received.

Another place poor care shows up may be the condenser coils. See how much dust has collected on them.

Listen to the motor, checking for any unusual noises. Former installation on uneven flooring may mean future repair bills.

If the refrigerator has been running for a while, check the interior temperature. It should be around 34 to 40 degrees F., or slightly lower.

Consumer Food News

College Station, Tex.—Some Texas grocery stores are displaying fruits imported from South America, including grapes, pears and nectarines, but prices are very high since the consumer pays not only for the fruit, but also for transportation of the fruit, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported.

Currently, best fruit values, price-wise, are grapefruit, oranges, apples, bananas and pineapples, she added.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In vegetable departments, broccoli prices are down because of large supplies, and prices on yellow onions are more attractive, she said.

"Carrots and cabbage are in generous supply and quality—with low price levels, while other good choices are potatoes, spinach, hard-shell squash and rutabagas."

Lettuce prices are up because of cold weather, so consumers might economize by using other greens in salads—or cabbage for slaw, she suggested.

"In poultry departments, fryer chicken prices are a bit lower, and frozen turkey offers some good values. Medium-size eggs are featured in some stores, but egg prices in general are unchanged from last week."

"Pork prices are lower this week in some instances—with some attractive values on quarter-loin cut into chops. Other features include Boston butt roasts and smoked picnics."

Also, some markets are featuring lamb, Mrs. Clyatt noted.

At beef counters, "exceptional values are available on chuck roasts—and almost all the markets are advertising them," she added.

"Good values also will be found on ground beef, rib steak, round steak and liver."

Other grocery store features currently include processed tomato products, canned cling peaches, tuna fish and peanut butter.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: In turkey buying, save time and energy by choosing a large bird.

For a family of four, a 14-pound bird will supply the turkey for dinner—plus 8½ additional cups of diced, cooked turkey, which is enough for four more meals.

BIBLE QUESTIONS

Question: "Does Satan have any power in this present age?"

Answer: Yes, as much as human beings allow him to have. This question denotes a degree of Bible knowledge, for it is only in Scripture can one learn of Satan's influence, purposes, methods and goals.

A further pursuit in the Bible of his effectiveness in the lives of early Christians—perhaps even in the Old Testament would give more clarity to the picture.

An initial mistake many make is to set Satan aside as a mysterious, mystical creature who forces himself upon humanity. To allow him the tool of this type of deceit and delusion is to allow danger to be a bosom companion. The most effective tool against Satan is a faith born of knowledge, Romans 10:1;

Ephesians, 3:1-13, and a devoted, obedient growth in truth. This will provide frustration of Satan's workings, and his goal—to deceive any who will listen. To know of God's Will and purpose for man will provide a stark contrast with that of Satan. To learn of God will eliminate an interest in the Accuser (as Satan is also known) and deprive him of that attention. When God and His Will pervades our whole lives—as in Deut. 11:18-25, there can be no room for an influence from evil, either from Satan or one who works for him.

Free Bible courses are available for those who will request them and use them.

Bible Questions are encouraged. Write to Box 91, Eldorado 76936.

NEWS OF SCOUTING

Bicentennial Opportunities For Scouts

Scout puts up Revolutionary era flag.

Almost before everyone started to get involved in the Bicentennial, America's largest youth organization pledged to "deliver to the nation on its 200th anniversary a great gift: a new generation of prepared young citizens who are physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

With that pledge in mind, the Boy Scouts of America — and don't let the name deceive: there are girls aplenty involved, too — designed a program stressing meaningful activities, participation in local community events, and showcase highlights depicting the best of Scouting in an atmosphere often rich in historical significance.

Packs, troops, and posts from California to the New York Island, from the Redwood forest to the Gulf stream waters—and in Alaska and Hawaii, too—began directing their energies toward some aspect of the three Bicentennial themes: Heritage '76, Festival '76, and Horizons '76.

Scouts in Montana marked the Lewis and Clark trail through their state and have walked every foot of it. In Salina, Kan., one troop stayed up all night cooking meat for a citywide celebration barbeque. A Cub Pack in Mankato, Minn., has developed a play depicting the creation of the national anthem. Bicentennial license plates were distributed in Oklahoma City by BSA members.

Citizenship will be demonstrated in Schenectady, N.Y., by ballot counting and messenger service at fall elections. In Cullman, Ala., Troop 144 will help produce an Avenue of Flags along a main street on every holiday during 1976. A Civil War cemetery has been restored thanks to Scouts in Joplin, Mo. And in Bettendorf, Iowa, and many other communities, once drab fire hydrants sport a patriotic theme.

Major national events will offer Cub Scouts, Scouts, and Explorers opportunities to demonstrate the value of Scouting.

Eagle Scouts will camp at Washington, D.C., assisting visitors there and demonstrating skills at a Scouting/BSA Center. From throughout the country Explorers will be drawn to a National Bicentennial Olympics at Ft. Collins, Colo. Cub Scouts will demonstrate their concern for safe biking, safe swimming, physical fitness, and parental voting.

Merit badges on "American Heritage" and "Colonial Philadelphia" are now offered. Patrols of foreign Scouts will visit in a Bicentennial Exchange. Stories in BSA publications will tell about young men during the Revolution. As the wagon and freedom trains roll, Cub Scouts, Scouts, and Explorers often will participate. There is even hope that a Paul Revere III flight will wing Explorers around the nation's boundaries, ending July 4 in Philadelphia.

As the nation kicked off its celebration early in the year, representative Scouts and Explorers spoke on the "Spirit of '76 - Our Heritage," bicentennial theme of the annual Reader's Digest-BSA Public Speaking Contest. A Report to the Nation brought a representative young Cub Scout, Scout, and Explorer face-to-face with their National Chief Executive, Eagle Scout Gerald Ford, and with the many members of Congress who have been Scouts. This interest in government is being duplicated on local and state levels.

Yes, Scouting, 66 years young this year, is helping America celebrate its 200th—with a new generation of prepared young citizens. If you'd like to be one of them and are not, your local Scout Service Center can help.

IT'S IN YOUR HANDS NOW

Here was the symbol of torture and death . . . during the Roman Empire . . . until that Friday when they crucified a Galilean carpenter.

Then it became the symbol of God's love . . . because the Son of God had died for the sins of mankind.

Except for that one fact there is no more reason to revere the Cross than there is to revere the guillotine, the electric chair, the gas chamber.

And there is no law, no police power, no military force that requires millions of families to revere the Cross and worship the One crucified.

The deepest meaning of this Lenten Season is that Christian believers voluntarily respond to the Sacrifice of Jesus Christ. This Act of Love that changed the destiny of humanity . . . it's in your hands now . . .
