Nursing Home Notes

We had a nice week in the nursing home with the highlight being a Valentine and birthday party on Friday. The Hospital Auxiliary were the hostesses. Valentine cookies were served with a delicious punch. We were well entertained by Mrs. Bob McWhorter who sang old songs we all knew and appreciated. Mrs. Gene Stark accompanied her on the piano and a good time was had by all.

Bingo winners this week were Elva Daniels 3, Georgia Springstun, Erna Rexroat, Lizza McCalla, Lizzy McAngus, 2, and LaVita Brooks. We had a nursing home council meeting Friday afternoon and 14 members were present. There was no new business other than the election of Nursing Home employee of the month. This month the honor went to Rosetta Lozano who has been an employee here since the hospital opened.

Out of town visitors were Mrs. Charles Jackson from Big Lake to see Wren Jackson, Sherrill and Nancy Dannheim and Chase to see Frank Reed, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Barnett from Big Spring to see Mrs. H. L. Potter.

It's FFA Week In Texas

Once again the Future Farmers of America chapters of Texas are serving their special week: FFA Week In Texas.

It is a time we pause to salute the accomplishments of these young men, many of whom will, in the future, have the responsibility of providing this nation's food supply.

FFA Week includes the birthday of George Washington. In this Bicentennial year of our nation, we recall that Washington was Father Of His Country; but he was also a century ahead of his own time in advocating progressive farming methods and soil conservation.

In Washington's time, 95% of the population lived on farms; only 5% made their homes in towns and cities. Today these ratios have been reversed. This Bicentennial year finds that our 200-million-plus population depend on 5% to provide their food and fiber.

Several decades ago the trend began toward larger farms and this is likely to continue in the foreseeable future. Present-day farmers with their mechanized equipment and methods are doing an efficient job for the nation.

The FFA will continue to have a part in the future provision of food supplies.

Under a recent law, election ballots must be printed in Spanish as well as in English.

In this paper we publish a legal "Notice of School Trustee Election" which will be held Saturday, April 3. The notice in English is on page 2. Supt. Guy Whitaker had the notice translated into Spanish and that is on page 3.

Why? It is the law!
Lots of people here talk Spanish and School Superintendent and the County Sheriff are of the opinion that only about TEN can READ IT!
("I can understand it and can talk it, but I can't read it," said a mother of a Senior in high school.)

The law will eventually be changed.
In the meantime it is more for the printer.

Historical Society

The word "bicentennial" seems to be everywhere we look these days. We see it, or hear it, at least once a day. So before you tire of the word, think, for a moment what it means to us. None of us, or our children will live to see another. That in itself makes us special. In this lifetime we've seen inventions too numerous to name. There has been a span from covered wagons to a man on the moon. So to try to speculate what the next hundred years will bring, would be anybody's guess. Some think we've gone about as far as we can go. But, that's what some said when they saw the first automobile, light bulb, and indoor plumbing.

So you don't have to paint your house red, white, and blue. But if you feel that twinge of pride when you see 'em hoist Old Glory at the court house, "Yes Sir, Neighbor; You've Got the Spirit of '76."

REMEMBER WHEN?

Folk medicine was the only medicine? Here are a few collected home remedies: Croup, "Coal oil" or kerosene and sugar. Spring tonic: broom weed tea or sulphur and molasses. Insect stings: baking soda and vinegar; mix and apply to sting. Ring worm: moisten with saliva and rub ashes of a good cigar into sore spot. Nail puncture, cuts or scratches, soak with "coal oil." Snake bites had a number of remedies, ranging from whiskey—internally and externally, or both—to applying warm meat of a fresh killed fowl, or a poultice of green cockleburrs. Then there was the "Asafoetida Bag." It was to ward off everything, such as colds, nervousness, hysterics and sometimes even your friends. I'll say this for the home remedies, they often worked. They had to. There was neither time nor place for rest cures or any other therapy but hard work. —J Wilkerson.

Report To The Parent And Tax Payer

All school districts over the state of Texas are financed in the same manner. First they levy and collect taxes against property in their district, and secondly, they receive state aid.

This state aid arrives in two ways. A district receives PER CAPITA FUNDS based upon their enrollment. ALL DISTRICTS receive this aid, and the enrollment is computed by average daily attendance (ADA).

Did you ever wonder why the school administration works so hard to keep attendance up? Absenteeism lowers the ADA and costs your school money.

The other state aid is called "foundation funds" and only those districts which have an evaluation too low to finance an established dollar expenditure per student are entitled to this assistance.

School administrators refer to those fortunate districts whose local properties are able to generate taxes sufficient to educate their children without foundation funds as "budget balanced" districts.

Unfortunately most of our school districts over the state, including Schleicher County, are not budget balanced; they do receive foundation funds, and it is the DETERMINATION of how much of these funds each needy district is entitled to that is the crux of this report.

By March 15, 1976, all districts must submit a most detailed and comprehensive report of all taxable property within the district, its evaluation, and the rate of taxation.

Under this new system there should be little doubt in Austin as to exactly what property lies within the district, and how heavily it is being taxed.

Heretofore, Austin has used our COUNTY evaluation. Under the new system Austin will use its own evaluation. Unless the legislature should see fit to adopt some other form of taxation to finance school aid foundation funds, such as additional sales tax, property owners in Schleicher County are almost assuredly faced with a tax increase for the 1977-78 school year.

Just how heavy an increase will basically be determined as to how much Austin evaluates our land. The more Austin says we are worth, the less aid we receive.

Locally we are happy to report that we are almost completely out of debt, our plant is in excellent condition, and we are running a minimal deficit in the cafeteria, rural bus system, and athletic programs. Furthermore, we have been able to operate in a period of continuing high inflation without a tax increase.

You can help by seeing that your children do not miss school unnecessarily, and stress at home the unnecessary costs of vandalism.

Your trustees and administration are constantly striving to afford the best education for our children within our means. We appreciate the support of the community toward this effort and submit this admittedly oversimplified report that you may more fully understand the problems of today and down the road.

Sincerely,
Mort Mertz

Eaglettes Take District Cage Victory

Before a tremendous crowd of Eldorado fans, the Eaglettes downed the Robert Lee Steers 41-35 last Friday night in Big Lake to gain the District 9-A Championship.

The Eaglettes were trailing Robert Lee in the race for the district crown until last Tuesday night when the Eldorado girls pulled a 55-54 victory in a double overtime.

This win tied the local girls with Robert Lee and a play-off game was scheduled for Friday night at Big Lake.

Friday night's game saw the Eaglettes jump out to an early lead, having built up an 8 point advantage at halftime.

The Steers tried a come-back late in the fourth quarter, only to be thwarted by the Eldorado guards, Irene Garcia, Terrie Garlitz, Shirley Wilson, Cassie Morrison, and Cherie Niblett, who dominated the game. They allowed the usually high scoring Robert Lee club only 11 field goals in the entire game.

Charlene Warnock led the scoring with 20 points, followed by Jill Yates with 14 and Gynna Jay with 7.

This win, together with the win on Tuesday night, ups the Eaglettes' record to 27 wins and 4 losses for the season.

Thank You, Eaglette Fans!

You absolutely overwhelmed us last Friday night at Big Lake! Never have we played before such a large and enthusiastic crowd, and we sincerely appreciate your support. It is with great pride that we represent a town that encourages us with such loyal backing. Sincerely, The Eldorado Eaglettes and Coach Helmers.

AMERICAN LIFE

1608: Start Of Glassmaking
The role of industry in forging our nation's history stretches back long before 1776. It began in 1608 with the founding of America's first factory industry, glass-making.

Barely a year after colonists established the first permanent English settlement in the New World, at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607, glassmaking was under way beside the James River. Glass production began at Jamestown 13 years before the Mayflower dropped anchor.

Glassmaking was not a whimsical choice, for a first industry but a sound business decision, for several reasons.

The basic ingredients of glass—fine sand, wood ash and lime—were plentiful in Virginia; dense forests also furnished kiln charcoal. And glassmaking has a quick "start-up" time; the glasshouse turned out its first wares even before the first maize crop was harvested.

Glassblowers labored under arduous conditions, including Indian raids, bad weather and near-starvation. But in 1609 they shipped America's first exports, containers and windows to England.

Today, America's oldest factory industry accounts for more than $2.5 billion of the gross national product, including billions of glass containers yearly for foods, beverages, medicines and cosmetics.

For Safety & Economy

KITCHEN SAFETY

There's no safer place than the comfort of your own home—or so you think. Actually, danger lurks right in your kitchen! To help you avoid big accidents as well as little mishaps, follow these helpful tips.

Load your dishwasher with sharp utensils pointed down, and store kitchen knives in racks which don't expose the edges. When chopping food, use a cutting block and always cut away from you. Remember to put the canned food lids inside the cans before throwing them away. This way, you won't get a surprise cut as you grab the trash bag.

Store household cleaning products and chemicals in a locked kitchen cabinet. And avoid using hazardous chemicals when possible. For example, use non-chemical Drain Power instead of acid or lye drain openers which can cause serious injuries and burns if they come in contact with skin. Drain Power is safe to store, too, since it takes 30 pounds of pressure to discharge the contents and cannot be easily activated by children.

Never stand on a chair or a box to reach high places. Either one could slip out from under you—especially as you lean forward or to one side. If possible, take only one item down at a time, keeping one hand free to catch yourself if you lose your balance.

Follow these suggestions and mix them with a little common sense. It's a recipe for safety in your kitchen.

Beyond The Sundown Is Historical Drama

Indian Village, Texas.—The color and pageantry of an authentic outdoor drama complete with scenes of emotional conflicts, a touch of humor, dancing and a background of flowing music can be found right in the middle of the East Texas Big Thicket area. Eighty-five miles north of Houston is the home of the Alabama-Coushatta Indians who are now busy preparing for another season of Beyond The Sundown, a historical drama of the East Texas Indians.

The Alabama-Coushattas are not natives of Texas. The fast-moving historical drama recaptures a migration of these Muskogean Indians from its namesake state, Alabama. Until 1799, the peaceful Indians hunted and farmed the fertile soil of that state, later to be dominated by cotton fields and tobacco crops. However, the pressures of war, settlers moving in in droves and finally the cessation to England by France of that area, prompted the Alabama and Coushatta Tribes to move into Louisiana where France still ruled.

The tranquil lives of these Alabama-Coushattas were once again disrupted with the fight for the Independence of Texas from Mexico. Neutrality in war reaped the Alabama-Coushattas reward as they were granted an Indian Reservation in 1854 through the efforts of Sam Houston. Today the 4,600-acre Indian Reservation has some of the finest timber in East Texas. The Tribes do not actively engage in harvesting the timber, but direct much of their attention to a growing tourist business begun in 1965.

As an American Bicentennial salute, the Alabama-Coushattas built a 1,600-seat amphitheatre for the original drama, Beyond The Sundown.

Safety And Economy Hints

Installing an outdoor antenna can be hazardous and should be left to a professional antenna installer. To avoid the possibility of electric shock, outdoor antennas and lead-in wires should be kept well away from power wires. The antenna mast should be permanently grounded and a lightning arrester installed in the lead-in.

Seven simple checks, from experts at the Electronic Industries Association, which may help you avoid unnecessary service charges if your TV seems on the blink. 1. Make sure the power cord is plugged in. 2. Be certain the antenna lead-in wires are securely fastened to the terminals at the back of the set and that the bare antenna leads aren't touching each other. 3. If the set has no sound or picture, push the circuit-breaker button at the back. Refer to the instruction book to locate it.

OUR FLAG Historical Highlights HOME OF THE BRAVE

Not many Americans, according to the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves, are familiar with the third stanza of the Star-Spangled Banner. Here it is.

Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand,
Between their loved homes
and the war's desolation;
Blest with vict'ry and peace,
may the heav'n-rescued land
Praise the Power that has made and preserved us a nation.
Then conquer we must,
when our cause is just,
And this be our motto:
"In God is our trust";
And the star-spangled banner
in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

The POWER of PRINT in AMERICAN HISTORY 1776-1976 WILLIAM PENN AND AMERICAN CITIES This article is adapted from a program of historical monographs created by the St. Regis Paper Company in an effort to rededicate our heritage and renew our pride in our country's achievements. Although cities had been built in what was to become the United States since the 1500's when St. Augustine was erected, the turning point in American urban planning wasn't reached until 1682 when William Thomas Jefferson liked Philadelphia's geometric order so much that as Governor of Virginia he planned a major extension of Richmond in an equally symmetrical grid pattern and hoped that the same system would be used in designing the new national capital at Washington. In a letter to President Washington in April, 1791, Jefferson mentioned a number of European cities, adding that "they are none of them comparable to Philadelphia." Since Philadelphia was the national capital during the last decade of the 18th century, it attracted many visitors and it also served as one of the principal points of departure for settlers bound west to the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes frontiers. It was almost inevitable that founders of new communities elsewhere in the country drew on their knowledge of Philadelphia and used it as a model in laying out their own towns. The publication of many maps of the city also helped popularize its design. Founders of countless communities in the 19th century adopted the form of Philadelphia's Renaissance-type central square. The heritage of Penn's plans for the development of urban property in uniformly measured lots and the even frontage of buildings were additional influences on American urban design. The regular lot size and building lines became the residential pattern for central cities. Penn's promotions of the sale of his Pennsylvania property to Englishmen and Europeans initiated a method which was to be repeated many times over in brochures and newspapers as new American territories and states sought to attract immigrants to their lands. The ideas of William Penn, spread through the lasting power of print, have continued to be one of the primary moving forces in the physical development of the cities and suburbs of the United States. Schleicher Lamb Champ At Zavala County Fair

A Schleicher County lamb, bred by a local rancher and exhibited by Rodney Lloyd, was selected as the Grand Champion Lamb of the recent 1976 Zavala County Junior Fair. The Fair was held February 5 through 7 at the South Texas town of Crystal City. Rodney is the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd of Batesville and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Lloyd of Eldorado.

Rodney, along with his sister, Angela, purchased three finewool cross lambs for their 4-H projects from local rancher, Billy Williams, in September of 1975. Following a regulated feeding program of four months, the lambs were entered in the Fair with the one winning championship and the other two being chosen prime and choice.

Safety And Economy Hints

If you're switching from a black and white to a color set, your old antenna may be all right, or it may not. Often a worn antenna, particularly one designed for black and white reception, will deteriorate the picture or cut out some of the color signal. The best solution is to connect your new color set to the old antenna, and if you don't get a good picture have a new one installed.

The type of television stations in your area should be considered in your selection of a set, say experts at the Electronic Industries Association. If there are several UHF stations, you'll probably want to consider a set especially designed for UHF tuning.

TV sets are provided with ventilation openings in the cabinet to allow heat generated during operation to be released. If these openings are blocked, heat build-up within the TV may result in a fire hazard. So never block the bottom ventilation slots of a portable by putting it on a bed, sofa or rug, and never place a set in a built-in enclosure unless proper ventilation is provided.

BICENTENNIAL AMERICA

The National Bicentennial Medal—the first gold medal in the history of the United States to be authorized by Congress for sale to the public will be available to collectors and the public on January 1, 1976.

The announcement was made today by John Warner, Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and Mrs. Mary Brooks, director of the U.S. Mint. The medal is a joint project of the Mint and ARBA.

The three-inch gold medal will sell for $4,000. The gold is .900 fine and comes from U.S. Treasury reserves. The 3" gold medal is serially numbered and struck only on order.

The medal is available in smaller sizes and in silver, gold-plated bronze and bronze. Prices range from $5 to $4,000.

All revenues will be used to support national, state and community Bicentennial activities.

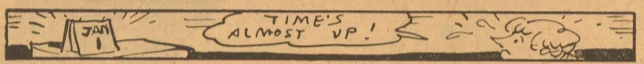

"This medal is the major commemorative of our Bicentennial activities," Warner explained. "It is the official commemorative of the Bicentennial and will be directly used to support the celebration. At a time when the overcommercialization of this celebration has been attacked by many, this medal stands as a tangible symbol to citizens who want to remember our 200th birthday and help fund its celebrations at the same time."

"In addition," Warner continued, "the medal is available in a wide range of prices and sizes in order to give every American the opportunity to afford this valuable investment in America's past and its future."

Frank Gasparro, chief engraver at the U.S. Mint, designed the medal.

The medal is available only to those people whose letters are postmarked January 1 through July 31, 1976, and is limited to five of each medal. Requests for order blanks should be sent to ARBA, P.O. Box 1976, San Francisco, California 94101.

FAITH... UNLIMITED

In our nation's infancy, it was George Washington who showed us the power of faith. Faith gave him the courage to fight on while others fell in despair. Faith sustained him through the dark days of Valley Forge. He never doubted that right would ultimately prevail.

In our own troubled times, we too need the same deep, abiding faith.

The Church now—as in Washington's day—is eager to ease our doubts and to sustain our spiritual needs. With God's help, we shall persevere.
