Austin, Tex.—State agencies and institutions got strict fiscal down-hold orders from the top last week.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton served notice on nearly 1,000 board and commission members and agency head at a special budget conference the lid is on state government spending.

Briscoe said he will veto any legislation that requires new or additional state taxes.

The three top officials in budget matters left no doubt they are united in the effort to hold expenditures in line with revenue, and they claimed they are acting on a mandate from Texas citizens "tired of excess government."

Briscoe ordered a 5% reduction in the state government work-force through normal attrition and increased efficiency. He said he will return to the agencies any budget request which does not show "fiscal restraint."

Continued increases (appropriations have jumped 250% in a decade) will "bankrupt" the state, Briscoe stated.

House Speaker Clayton, echoing the governor's hard-line stance, suggested such admittedly-controversial economies as cutting one year out of the 12-grade public school curriculum.

About $1 billion more in additional revenue is expected to be available next year from present tax sources.

Spending Jumps

State spending is running 29% over fiscal 1975 levels, Comptroller Bob Bullock said.

The comptroller said salaries and wages are up 26%, medical care for the needy 32%, foundation school program grants 43% and grants to higher education 33%.

Tax revenues also are up—19%. Natural gas revenues are 40% above 1975, motor vehicle sales 27% and insurance occupation taxation 33%.

State revenues during January totaled $476 million, but spending totaled $528 million. So far this fiscal year, spending adds up to $2.8 billion and revenues $2.4 billion. State government's fiscal year began September 1.

Short Snorts

Atty. Gen. John Hill filed suit here to halt payment to Lower Colorado Authority by Houston Lighting and Power Company for Colorado River waters used in cooling a nuclear power plant near Bay City.

Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation will experiment with solar energy heating and cooling (in a small cottage for the retarded at El Paso).

Date of the big state Democratic party fund raising dinner in Houston has been postponed until June 17, eve of the state party convention in the same city.

Crude oil production in Texas last year totaled 1,185,682,816 barrels and averaged 3.2 million barrels a day.

The Texas Governor's Mansion, which was built in 1858, has been designated a national historic landmark.

Auxiliary Meets

The Hospital Auxiliary met March 4 with Mrs. Truett Stanford presiding. There were eight members present.

The treasurer reported a balance of $438.57 in the treasury with $52.77 from the gift shop.

Mrs. Ruby Dameron reported that mending had been done in February for the Nursing Home patients.

Mrs. Winnie Jackson reported from the gift shop that any gift items could be used.

A birthday party was planned for March 17 at 2:30 p.m. with a St. Patrick's Day theme. Those having birthdays in March are: Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Mercer and Mrs. Gauna. —Rep.

Post Script

Around the business district: RECYCLING seems to be the latest craze, and here in Eldorado some landmark buildings are being put to new uses.

The following statement was issued by personnel of the Neighborhood Center regarding move to new quarters:

"Notice, Schleicher County. The Neighborhood Center has moved to a new location. We are now located downtown in the old Western Auto building.

"The Community is invited to come in and visit with us, and see the new Neighborhood Center. —Peggy Ussery, Center Director; Ninfa Fuentes, sec. & aide; Cecelia Gauna, Food Stamp outreach worker; Tommy Factor, janitor."

They request visitors to please park around the corner to the south.

Some work was done to the McWhorter building to convert it to its new purpose housing the Neighborhood Center. Offices were partitioned off inside, walls were painted and paneled, and new electric wiring and heating were installed.

Just to the north, the Jones building, where the Ratliff dry goods store was operated for many years, is now being used as a dance studio. Another example of recycling.

On the nearby corner, the Eldorado Drug building had its south side painted last week and more work is set for later in the spring, it is understood. The building is now owned by Mrs. Ann Lauffer of Rockwall.

"Way down on South Main is the building known in Eldorado's early days as one of the Rock Stations. It was a service station and store for a long time, and was left behind when the highway was relocated a block west. Now the structure is being remodeled for new location of Anna's Drive Inn.

Anna's Drive Inn will have an Open House all day Friday in their new quarters. More details in their ad on page 5.

All these improvements help the appearance of the business district.

Some Moisture, But We Need Much More

Over the week end, we had cloudy weather conditions, with some moisture falling in form of a very heavy mist, and scattered showers. It brought the first measurable rainfall in many months, with Eldorado and area residents reporting one- to two-tenths.

The clouds were gone by noon Monday and the firemen were called out at about 1:00 p.m. that day to a grassfire out on the Menard highway.

The slight rainfall was welcomed here, but of course we need much more. Menard, it was reported, received an inch.

Historical Society

The Historical Society met Monday to discuss plans for the new park adjoining the courthouse square. The county commissioners have kindly agreed to fill in and curb the area. Also on the agenda were various projects concerning the museum and the June 26 Festival.

Highlights of the meeting were stirring renditions of "patriotic poems" read by Orval Edmiston and Elton McGinnis relating to the planting of our "Liberty Tree" recently on the court house grounds.

It's time to start thinking about getting your "duds" together for the Festival. The "genies" will probably wear something that would have been worn during the early days in Eldorado. We should start seeing a few beards, mustaches, etc., starting to crop up in the weeks to come. If, however, you have qualms about looking like "Honest Abe" you can obtain a "City Slicker's" permit, for a token fee, and this fee will also go into the "Museum Kitty."

You ladies will surely want to wear a "Frontier Frock" for at least one day. We hope to see a lot of bonnets, ribbons, and calico, on June 26. Plan to enter your early day fashion in our Style Show sponsored by the Women's Club and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Next time you lick a 13c stamp, you might think about the first Post Office in Eldorado. It was a wooden box attached to a tree in the yard of C. C. West. Mail was put into compartments inside the crate, convenient to Schleicher County residents on their way to and from town.

The West home was located on the block where the Baptist Church now stands. C. C. West, being the first Postmaster and Justice of the Peace, may well have been the first banker. Cowboys, coming into town for their Saturday night romp, made a stop by the West place to deposit their money and valuables they intended to leave with. These Mrs. West sacked into canvas bags with the owner's name written on the outside.

What better compliment to a man's integrity than to be trusted with a hard earned cowboy wage and your silver spurs? —Rep.

TV tips

SHOPPING FOR A TV

You and a color TV may make a pretty picture, but the experts at General Electric suggest you consider these things if you want a beautiful buy.

1. Sizing up screen size: Estimate your viewing distance and screen size at home and then view the sets at about the same distance in the store.

2. Comparing picture quality in a store: Many factors affect picture quality—the channel signal, the amount of room light in the store, the antenna system and the adjustment of the set controls. If these factors are equal for each set, then a side-by-side comparison will allow you to judge picture quality.

3. Before shopping: Think about the room in which you intend to use the television—the dimensions of the television area, viewing distance and angles, comfortable picture height, available counter space. Also consider what style and wood tone will best complement furniture, walls and draperies.

Take these tips with you when you go to shop for a TV set, and you should be better set to get the set you want.

Religious Overseas Aid Helps Feed World's Hungry

PROTESTANT ONE GREAT HOUR of SHARING CATHOLIC RELIEF SERVICES UNITED JEWISH APPEAL give through your faith

America's three major faiths are uniting again in an annual Religious Overseas Aid Appeal to carry on world-wide efforts to alleviate suffering and help people build new lives. The message to church-goers and the general public will continue through the Lenten season and culminate on March 28, the fourth Sunday in Lent. The three fund-raising efforts are the Catholic Relief Services, the Protestant "One Great Hour of Sharing" and the United Jewish Appeal.

In a world where disasters occur frequently, where over 15 million homeless and stateless refugees struggle for subsistence, and grinding poverty and hunger are the lot of half the world's population, the relief and rehabilitation agencies of the three faiths have joined together in the once-a-year fund-raising campaign for the past 24 years.

The three faiths reach millions in travail and teach those in need how to help themselves through developmental programs. These include agricultural projects, food-for-work projects and a host of other programs on nearly every continent. In all programs emphasis is placed upon aid to children, pregnant and nursing women and the aged. These and hundreds of other programs will be benefited and supported through the response of people in churches and synagogues to the interfaith appeal.

Canning Nutritious Baby Food At Home

Many mothers may enjoy canning baby food—and the process is easy and inexpensive. Select fresh, tender vegetables. Cook them in a small amount of water, then press them through a fine sieve or food mill. Use a blender to puree the vegetables.

Add boiling water if necessary to make the puree about the same thickness as heavy cream. Reheat to boiling and pour into hot half-pint or pint jars, leaving one-half inch head space. Insert a table knife into the jar to remove any air bubbles.

Adjust the caps and process according to the recommended time for pureed vegetables at 10 pounds pressure. Processing time for strained vegetables is longer than for chopped or canned whole, because the puree is thicker and slows the rate of heat penetration.

For older babies eating chopped vegetables, the process is even easier. Simply wash, drain and chop the vegetables. Boil three minutes in enough water to cover. Pack, leaving about one-half inch head space. Process as instructed for low acid vegetables.

Baby fruits such as peaches and apricots should be cooked. For strained fruits, follow recipes for fruit puree.

Extension publication "Home Canning Fruits and Vegetables" 194, contains a section on canning purees which is applicable to canning baby food. This publication can be obtained from the county Extension office.

Fashion—Is It Fitting?

Good fit in a garment should create an attractive, pleasing look—no matter what style garment it is. Diagonal or horizontal wrinkles, not a part of the garment design, indicate an improperly fitted garment. Consumers should avoid buying clothes with these characteristics unless they have skills in altering for fit.

When sewing a garment, try it on periodically during construction to make adjustments for fitting problems.

Steps in solving fitting problems: —Recognize the evidence: tightness or looseness, line out of place, off-grain or wrinkles.

—Determine the cause: body or pattern proportions.

—Decide a remedy: let out or take up a seam, raise or lower a dart, raise or lower hemline.

—Correct by the simplest, neatest method.

By a slight change in seams and darts, grain can be righted, wrinkles removed, balance created, lines straightened and ease restored.

Suggested pattern alterations for better fit are outlined in the Extension publication "Personalizing Patterns" MP 1037. Call the local county Extension office to order a copy.

"Old Fashioned" Medicine Bottle Caps Still Available

"Old fashioned" medicine bottle caps are still available for people who have difficulty opening the new child-proof caps.

Safety caps are valuable—but arthritic hands and poor eyeight are two conditions which contribute to difficulty in opening them.

Exceptions can be made under the Poison Prevention Packaging Act.

If you or your physician direct that a prescription be filled in a package fitted with a conventional closure, the prescription may be packaged that way.

But prescription may be filled this way only when directed by a physician or when requested by the purchaser.

Rotate Vegetables To Improve Production

A lot of things go into a successful garden, and one item that should not be overlooked is that of rotating crops.

Vegetable production often declines when the same crop is planted in the same location year after year. This is due to numerous factors such as soil borne diseases, nematodes, soil insects, organic matter, toxic chemical residues and the levels of essential mineral elements.

Each family of vegetables has unique effects on the soil and most kinds of vegetables within a given family fall prey to the same diseases and insects. Most vegetables planted in home gardens belong to nine distinct families, and care should be used to grow these groups in different locations within the garden from one year to the next.

The legume family includes all peas and beans. Beets, chard and spinach belong to the goosefoot family while the mustard family includes such crops as cabbage, collards, Brussels sprouts, kale, cauliflower, broccoli, kohlrabi, rutabaga, turnips, cress and radishes.

Carrots, parsley, celery and parsnip belong to the parsley family. The nightshade family includes such garden favorites as potatoes, tomatoes, egg-plants and peppers.

Another popular family of vegetables is the gourd group which includes all the vine crops—cantaloupes, squash, pumpkins, watermelons and cucumbers. The composite family includes lettuce, chicory, endive, salsify, dandelion and artichoke, and the lily family features onions, garlic, leeks and chives. Sweet corn, also a garden favorite, belongs to the grass family.

Timely rotation of vegetable families along with a preventive fungicide will control most common vegetable diseases. Where disease problems persist, home gardeners should select resistant varieties if available.

A knowledge of the different vegetable families can be helpful when evaluating their performance. Diagram the garden plot and keep a record of where crops are planted this spring. Then attempt to rotate the crops regularly in coming seasons to improve production.

Starter Solutions For Transplants

After setting out vegetable transplants such as tomatoes, peppers and eggplants, many home gardeners become disappointed because the plants just seem to sit there. However, a small amount of "starter solution" will give them an early boost. A starter solution is nothing more than a fertilizer designed to dissolve completely in water. It provides young plants with nutrients early in their growth and insures vigorous and rapid plant growth.

For such crops as tomatoes, peppers and eggplants use a starter solution prior to the actual transplanting operation.

If commercial starter solutions are used, carefully follow label directions. Regular garden fertilizer can be used also to prepare a starter solution. Three to four tablespoons of fertilizer in a gallon of water is adequate as a starter solution.

When using a starter solution, pour a cupful into the hole dug for the transplant. Some gardeners prefer to place the plant in the hole and then apply the starter solution around its base. However, use care not to spill any of the solution on the leaves.

Use of a starter solution when transplanting can lead the way to a highly productive and rewarding home garden.

Many actors believe that if somebody wishes them good luck, they will have bad luck!

BIBLE QUESTIONS

EXPLANATION: As this is a religious "column," it seems necessary to state the intent of its publication.

The current appeals rampant through our world for religion range from the purely emotional to that of religious philosophy and scholarship. Each extreme is directly dependent upon an individual's ability, whether it is the powerful auto-suggestion so closely akin to hypnosis or the ability one has to manipulate words, ideas, and concepts into conclusions without regard to the declared and simple appeal of God to all men.

This appeal must go beyond the barriers of language, skin color, education, or lack of it. It must be an appeal to emotion, but not only that, it must appeal to the will of man, to provoke that action which his beneficial. Also, the appeal must have attraction to the ability of every person to understand.

God's message is to be conveyed from His mind to the mind of humanity. Notice the appeals of the prophets of God to understanding. Whether the great Moses, or the diminutive Obadiah, both spoke, "Thus says the Lord God." By the same type of appeal, Jesus of Nazareth or a poor fisherman from Galilee named Simon Peter spoke words whereby reconciliation could come (see Acts 2:40; John 17:20, 21).

One ancient writer, observing the soul-saving sermons recorded in the book of Acts said, "... they were not enthusiastic appeals to the passions. They were devoid of declamation, noise, tinseling, painting and miming" and were all "logic, reason, point, testimony, proof."

The trusting obedience to God's Will must come from the more noble characteristics of mankind. Anything other than this turns mankind into something less—subject to the whims of his flesh and the smooth persuasion of another having the same weakness.

Let there be a misunderstanding, there is an emotion which healthy—that which comes from KNOWING and understanding, leading to faithful devotion. It is the "all-emotion" concepts that lead some to deduce that redemption has occurred. Such cannot be the case, for confusion is always a result of self-delusion.

Those who sponsor this column desire that truth through understanding be the result, to God's Glory, without the interjection of opinions or bias of man-made organizations.

Questions are welcomed and encouraged. Perhaps there is a need for confidential treatment of a subject; that, too is welcomed. Bible Questions, Box 91, Eldorado, Texas 76936.

Joint Industry Study Shows Appliances Can Be Recycled

Benton Harbor, Mich. — The principal findings of an experimental recycling project conducted jointly by Whirlpool Corporation and Inland Steel Co., is that major home appliances such as washers, dryers, and refrigerators can now be recycled into new steel with minimal upgrading.

Traditionally, these appliances were abandoned or discarded in municipal landfills because their porcelain enamel coatings were believed to cause damage to the walls of costly steel making furnaces, and therefore, were excluded from all scrap metals used in making steel.

Dr. Donald Scherpereel, director of mechanical engineering research for Whirlpool Corporation, reports that the project, which began in 1971, was conducted to determine whether or not non-ferrous and non-metallic materials found in discarded major home appliances would have a detrimental effect on the steel making equipment and the newly processed steel. The primary concern, at the beginning of the project, was to determine if metal with porcelain enamel coatings could be recycled.

In the past, steel companies would not purchase steel with porcelain enamel for fear that it would damage the furnace lining refactories and reduce the life of the steel making furnaces. Dr. Scherpereel said that in 1972, Inland Steel agreed to conduct a test melt of approximately 27 tons of clean porcelain enamel scrap supplied by one of the appliance manufacturer's facilities. This scrap, which accounted for 7.2 percent of the total melt, produced no detrimental effect. However, Inland researchers recommended a longer test series before conclusive results could be made.

Over 400 tons of discarded appliances were collected in the Chicago, Ill., area, baled and shipped to Inland Steel's East Chicago Works for a more extensive experimental program. In this second phase, the researchers were also concerned with the problem of copper because the entire appliance was used as a charge material. Between 45,000 and 85,000 pounds of bundled appliances were used as a part of the furnace charge in ten of twelve consecutive heats.

The metallurgical report by Inland of this extended run concluded that "unprepared porcelain scrap can be used in an open hearth furnace, if a copper bearing heat is to be made. Several characteristics of this scrap must be improved, however, before its widespread use can be practical." Scherpereel said the foremost problem is the copper bearing motors. If the motors were removed prior to processing, the scrap could be used for a wider range of steel products.

The second problem noted by the researchers was the bundle density. The bundled appliances did not meet the desired minimum weight of 6,000 pounds. However, this problem could possibly be overcome with more efficient compaction techniques.

In general, the report concludes: "Once these problems are solved there is no apparent reason why this scrap cannot be used to make any grade of steel, including enameling iron."

Scherpereel concluded by saying: "Even though the disposal of appliances is currently considered to be a minor problem, it is never too early to be concerned with recycling and reclaiming our natural resources."

Child Care Bill

WASHINGTON—Misleading information that is being circulated about the proposed Child and Family Services Act is making it more difficult for opponents of this misguided legislation to ensure that it will never be enacted into law.

Two bills—S. 626 and H. 2966—bear the name: "Child and Family Services Act." Their provisions are essentially similar. Each would establish an Office of Child and Family Services within HEW, and a Child and Family Services Coordinating Council to coordinate federal activity in the field. Each would require the Secretary of HEW to develop program standards for child care services and a uniform code for facilities to be used for child and family service programs.

The Senate bill also would authorize the HEW Secretary to make grants for child and family service programs and for training professionals in the field of child development.

I consider passage of either bill to be at best a frivolous waste of money, and at worst an unwarranted and potentially dangerous intrusion of the federal government into an area in which it has no business being. I intend to fight passage of the act.

Those of us who oppose this measure find that our hand is being weakened by pamphlets being circulated by an anonymous group. The inaccurate charges being made in the pamphlets are causing those on the fence to doubt all arguments against the bill. In addition, many citizens have been needlessly alarmed.

The Child and Family Services Act is a bad bill, but it would not take responsibility for rearing children away from parents and bestow it upon the federal government. Section 504(a) of the Senate bill specifically prohibits any practice which would infringe on or usurp the moral and legal responsibilities of parents or guardians. There is a similar provision in the House Bill.

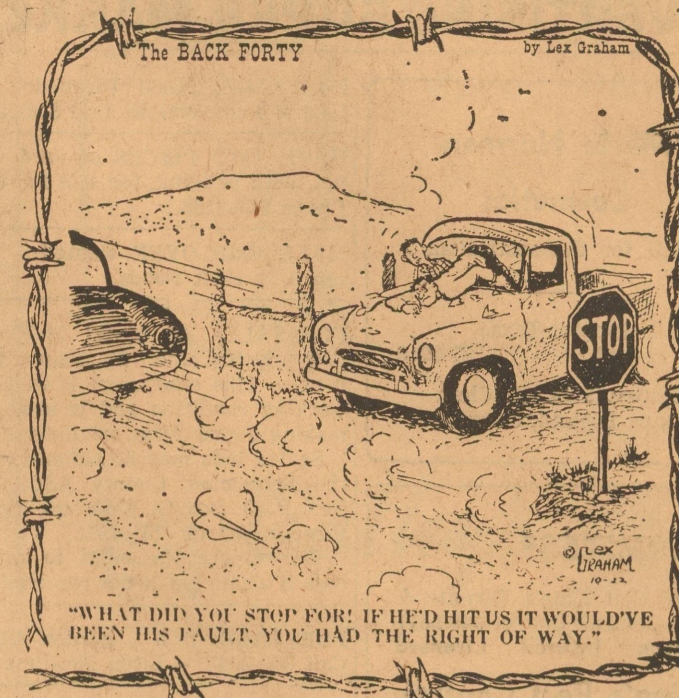

Nor would the Child and Family Services Act permit the federal government to take children away from their parents. The programs that would be established are completely voluntary. No child could participate in them without the permission of a parent or guardian.

The Child and Family Services Act is fiscally irresponsible and administratively unworkable. The projected cost of $2 billion over the next three years is no doubt greatly underestimated. The bill would duplicate many existing federal, state and local programs, and swath them all in red tape. It provides dangerous latitude for federal incursion in state, local and family affairs. While it is not the nightmare some opponents claim it would be, it is a bad bill and should be defeated.

Reddy's Helpful Tips

- ★ Operate your dryer with a full load.
- ★ Do not over-dry. Over-drying any fabric increases wear and tear and causes yellowing, in addition to using more energy.
- ★ Use leftover heat to dry light synthetic garments and only partially dry items which are to be pressed immediately.
- ★ Keep lint filter clean. A dirty lint filter can lengthen the drying time and present a fire hazard.
- ★ Vent your dryer to increase its efficiency. Occasionally check the vent to make sure it is not clogged. A clogged vent can cause your dryer to consume needless energy and presents a potential fire hazard.

Continental Beef Popovers. When you want to stage your own "VIP" dinner, but can't afford extravagance — Continental Beef Popovers meet all the criteria. They stretch the meat dollar — but with an elegant difference. This recipe makes six large or eleven small popovers — to be filled with beef strips in a rich, dark sauce. The sauce, made with coffee and red wine, creates an unusual explosion of flavor. Remember that VIP's deserve the best. You serve the ultimate with enriched flour, providing the added goodness of three essential B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin — plus iron.

Continental Beef Popovers 6 servings. 2 pounds round steak 1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained. Oil 1 1/2 teaspoons salt. 2 cups sliced onions 1/2 cup enriched flour 1/4 cup strong coffee 3/4 teaspoon pepper. 1 cup red wine 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder. 1 tablespoon horseradish Onion Popovers. Slice beef into narrow strips. Brown in hot oil. Add onions and saute until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until tender. Serve with Onion Popovers. Onion Popovers: 2 eggs, beaten 1/2 teaspoon salt. 1 cup milk 1/2 teaspoon onion powder. 1 tablespoon oil 1 cup enriched flour.* Combine eggs, milk, oil, salt and onion powder. Blend in flour until smooth; beat 1 minute with electric mixer or 3 minutes with rotary beater. Fill greased popover pans or custard cups half full. Bake in preheated 425° oven 20 minutes; reduce heat to 350° and continue baking 25 minutes or until brown and firm to touch. *Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Martha Washington: A Hostess For All Seasons. Everyone knows something about our first president, George Washington, but how much do you know about his wife, Martha? The Home Service Center of Scott Paper Company has uncovered some little known facts about Martha, and with the Bicentennial upon us, this is an appropriate time to learn more about her. Martha Washington was renowned in her time for her graciousness and hospitality. But what difficulties she must have had behind the scenes, without the use of a modern stove, refrigerator, paper products, or other conveniences that we take for granted. Her accomplishments in those difficult times win her ever-increasing admiration and respect. Every year, dauntless Martha made long journeys from Mount Vernon to her husband's winter camp. Sometimes, their quarters were only a two-room log cabin. But she never lost heart. Even in the snow at Valley Forge, Martha went from cabin to cabin, bringing the soldiers baskets of food and friendly conversation. All winter, she and other ladies knitted and sewed garments for the soldiers. General and Mrs. Washington often invited young officers and their wives to dinner, with their friend, Alexander Hamilton carving the roast. Good times eventually followed, though, and social life resumed a happier pace. Dinners for the Washingtons at Mount Vernon once again became lavish affairs, with roast beef, smoked Virginia ham, home-grown vegetables, and an 18th century American creation — the apple pie. The saying, "American as apple pie" is true! But home dinners weren't the last of Martha's claims to fame. Our First Lady set many of our new country's social traditions, with her tasteful, though not extravagant manner. The Washingtons hosted numerous official state dinners and every Friday, Martha held a public reception, where she served her famous plum cake, coffee and tea. Parties then, as today, were a combination of work and fun. But a social event 200 years ago meant cakes to be baked in brick ovens, and delicate linens to be laundered and ironed. Today's hostess can use a permanent press tablecloth or paper placemats, and set her table with Scotkins paper luncheon or dinner napkins. That offers an economical way to change the color theme. And just think how revolutionary and helpful a roll of Viva towels would have been to Mrs. Washington, making clean-up so much simpler. True, Martha Washington could afford a large staff to help run her household. But with 1976 conveniences, today's homemakers thrive, setting new traditions that Martha Washington and her contemporaries never imagined 200 years ago.

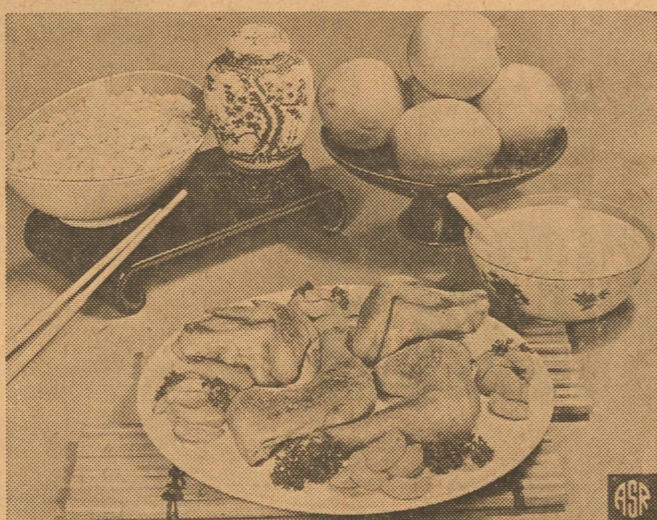

Your Favorite Chicken Recipe Could Be Contest Winner

It's National Chicken Cooking Contest time again. Each year this oldest of the major cooking competitions (the first one was held in 1949) inspires enthusiastic interest among creative people who like to cook and eat chicken.

Over the years there have been hundreds of lucky cooks who have brought home top prize money and many more who won expense paid trips to interesting American cities where the national cook-offs were held. In The National Chicken Cooking Contest there are 51 finalists — one from each state and the District of Columbia. In most areas preliminary cook-offs will determine the state finalists.

This year, historic Philadelphia is the site of the national cook-off. Here, on July 14, finalists will cook for one of the five major prizes — the $10,000 top prize and another $10,000 to be divided among 4 runners up.

Rules of the contest are simple. Each recipe (more than one may be submitted) must feature broiler-fryer chicken, at least 1/4 cup Mazola corn oil and 1 teaspoon Accent flavor enhancer. Include name, address, telephone number and birth date (entrants must be at least 18) on each recipe. Entries must be postmarked by April 1. Mail to: National Chicken Cooking Contest, P.O. Box 2200, Westbury, New York 11591. For a complete set of rules and official entry form, write to: National Chicken Cooking Contest, 614 Madison Building, 1155 Fifteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Judges will evaluate recipes on four points: Simple enough to appeal to most people; different enough to be interesting, flavor and appearance. Mandarin Spiced Chicken, adapted from the 1973 North Carolina finalist's recipe, meets all contest requirements.

Mandarin Spiced Chicken
 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
 1/4 cup corn oil
 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) chicken broth
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 1 tablespoon minced onion
 1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments
 2 tablespoons corn starch
 1 tablespoon cider vinegar

Heat corn oil in fry pan over medium heat. Add chicken and brown on all sides. Stir together chicken broth, sugar, onion, flavor enhancer, salt, ginger, nutmeg, cloves and pepper. Pour over chicken. Cover and simmer 30 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Remove chicken and keep warm. Drain oranges, reserving syrup. Mix syrup and corn starch. Stir into pan juices. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, comes to a boil and boils 1 minute. Add orange segments and vinegar. Pour over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

Insecticides For Gardens

Before planting your vegetable garden this year, take precautions against harmful insects. Wireworms, white grubs, mole crickets, cutworms, flea beetle larvae, fly larvae and maggots are among the insects that feed on the seeds, roots and other underground parts of vegetables.

Areas which have been in sod for over two years, that have had the same crops every year, or areas that have large amounts of organic matter are most susceptible to soil insects.

It's important to use the right kind of insecticide on your garden. Many insecticides may be harmful to certain vegetables and only a few can be used safely.

Diazinon and chlordane are two commonly used insecticides that are safe for gardens. However, root crops should not be planted in soil treated with chlordane.

Apply the insecticide about two to four weeks before the garden is to be planted. Work the insecticide into the top four to six inches of soil and make sure it is evenly distributed.

To cover 1,000 square feet of soil with diazinon, use six fluid ounces of 25% emulsifiable concentrate. Mix it with enough water to cover the entire soil area. If you use powder, use 1/2 cup of 50% wettable powder mixed with adequate water.

To cover 1,000 square feet of garden area with chlordane, use two fluid ounces of 72% emulsifiable concentrate mixed with water or 3/4 cup of 40% wettable powder mixed with water.

MARCH

The following events, selected by the Texas Tourist Development Agency, are but a few of the many excellent recreational opportunities offered by communities across the state. A more complete listing of Texas events may be obtained free of charge by writing TTDA, Box 12008, Austin 78711.

Feb. 25-March 7, Houston Livestock Show & Rodeo, Astrodome.

March 6, "Fall of the Alamo" reenactment, Alamo Village, Brackettville. The Texas Army and National Re-enactment Society, with members from Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas, will participate in this official American Revolution Bicentennial Event. The battle, punctuated by the roar of half dozen cannons, will commence at 3 p.m. The siege, involving flintlock rifles, scaling ladders and hand-to-hand combat, will be approximately an hour in length. A full range of other activities are planned for the day.

March 6-7 & 13-14, The 41st annual Azalea Trail, Houston. Sponsored by the River Oaks Garden Club, this event opens to the public seven of Houston's most outstanding gardens. Admission to all seven is $6, single admissions $1. For more information contact the River Oaks Garden Club, 2503 Westheimer, Houston 77006.

March 13-14, St. Patrick's Celebration, San Antonio. Two days of parades and a Sunday festival highlight this event, and the San Antonio River runs shamrock green. Continuous activities.

March 20, Admiral Nimitz Air Show, Gillespie County Airport, Fredericksburg. The Confederate Air Force joins the Admiral Nimitz Center in presenting this event. A number of World War II aircraft, including the P-51 Mustang, P-47 Thunderbolt, P-38 Lightning and F6F Hellcat, will perform. Starting time is 2 p.m.

March 27, Tyler County Dogwood Festival, Woodville. A parade, rodeo, dance and queen's coronation highlight this salute to the area's Dogwood trees. For a full schedule of events, write the Tyler County Chamber of Commerce, 118 West Pavillion, Woodville 75979.

The superstition that it's unlucky to wash blankets in May survives in some parts of England.

Courtship to marriage is but as the music in the playhouse till the curtain's drawn.

Religious faith is very much like a mighty mountain — its peak seemingly lost in the clouds. On the lower slopes all you can do is plod onward and upward. You cannot see your goal or even know the many turns of the trail as it rises through the mist. Yet on the high reaches, the brightness of the sun is everywhere. And with fascination you can look down on the clouds while pursuing your path to the peak. We are trying to say: Never get discouraged in your quest for Christian faith and strength. One Sunday in church doesn't answer all our questions. One earnest prayer doesn't set up a communications center with God. But every rising step brings us closer to that vantage point where the heights are clothed in brightness, and faith looks down on the clouds.
