ELDORADO—SCHLEICHER COUNTY, TEXAS (76936)

by Lyndell Williams

Austin, Tex.—Political campaigns are beginning to warm as the May 1 primaries approach.

Both Democratic and Republican executive committees last week certified names of candidates (including the presidential primary delegate contenders) for the ballot.

Republicans also decided to submit referendum issues on forced busing, denial of bail to repeat felons, non-parolable prison sentences for crimes of violence, use of oral confessions in trials and wiretapping to fight organized crime.

Texas lawyers, meanwhile, announced results of their poll on statewide judgeship races. Those responding to a State Bar poll favored San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals Chief Justice Charles W. Barrow for the State Supreme Court over Donald B. Yarbrough of Houston.

The lawyers also strongly preferred incumbent Court of Criminal Appeals Judge Truman Roberts for re-election over Dallas District Judge Jerome Chamberlain.

Texas AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) delegates took a look at the candidates and decided to endorse U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for re-election, State Rep. Lane Denton of Waco for Railroad Commission, Barrow, Roberts and congressional candidates Welby Parish of Gilmer, George McAlmon of El Paso and Bob Gamage of Houston.

Loopholes

A loophole in the sales and use tax law is costing Texas cities $16 million a year, the comptroller's office told a House subcommittee.

The loss is due to "direct pay" permits available to about 200 businesses which purchase $200,000 or more worth of items for their own purposes annually and pay taxes directly to the state.

Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown said he also believes the state is losing between $15 million and $200 million a year in taxes on cigarettes coming across the Mexico-Texas border through mail order sales.

The study of how to close tax loopholes is continuing, and ties in with orders of the governor, lieutenant governor and House speaker to hold down spending and avoid new taxes.

Anti-Crime Targets

A House task force studying crime mapped its key targets in its first meeting here.

Priorities include mandatory prison sentences for crimes involving firearms, denial of bail for repeat offenders, establishing the state's right to appeal in criminal cases, use of oral confessions and authority for use of wiretaps under restrictions.

The panel will meet again in San Antonio March 26.

Short Snorts

Texas is leading a national economic upturn, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

House Speaker Bill Clayton estimated his proposals to eliminate a grade from the 12-grade school system and hold kindergarten to a half day would save the state $100 million a year.

Texas Research League said state service agencies still don't know the number of employees on state payrolls—even in the capitol complex here.

A new Texas Industrial Commission program seeks to help match manufacturers' components output with buyer firms.

Spotted moisture in the Panhandle was too late for most of the dryland wheat, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Transit leaders will meet here March 23-24 for the 4th annual Texas Transit Conference.

LETTER & LEGAL rag bond paper is for sale in ream boxes at The Eldorado Success.

Post Script

Weather continue dry over the area, and the firemen were called out at about 1:00 p.m. Monday to a grassfire on the highway right-of-way between here and Sonora.

The tinder-dry grass and brush cover pose a fire hazard threat and residents are urged to be careful with fire.

Fruit trees have blossomed out and some mornings temperatures have dropped to the 20's; but it is too early to tell if the fruit has been affected.

The April 3 local elections have "squared away" and absentee voting is now under way in these.

Pat Ragsdale, Ben Joiner and Jimmy Doyle are City Alderman nominees, with three to be elected.

Hospital District Director nominees are Robert W. Page, E. C. Peters, Mike Moore and Curtis L. Andrews, with four to be elected.

School trustee ballots will be printed and delivered this week.

School trustee nominees are W. M. Ray, H. G. White, and Mort Mertz, with two to be elected. So that, apparently, is the only local contest.

After our local County ambulance was wrecked a while back, the County Commissioners had to consider procuring a new one.

It is understood that Emergency Service in San Angelo has one on loan here, pending purchase of a new one. That is expected to take a while.

Peggy Ussery of Eldorado was named Mental Health Chairperson for the May '76 campaign. She will recruit volunteers to go house-to-house during May, Mental Health Month.

Sheriff Orval Edmiston reminds everyone that the April 1st deadline for having new license tags on vehicles is fast approaching.

Take your three-part form with you when you go to pay your license tag fee. You will be given a little blue "76" sticker which is then affixed on your present rear plate on the vehicle.

If you traded vehicles during the past year, that makes for a different situation entirely and office personnel will help you fill out the proper forms.

A photographer will be at the Kwik Thrift Grocery all day this coming Saturday, March 20th. More details on hours, etc., are given in the ad on page 3.

There will be a Bingo game April 7, at the Golf Club House, with lots of good home baked goodies to be given as prizes, plus a few "surprises." The proceeds from the bingo game will go toward the planting of the Historical Park. Everyone come out and join in the fun.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Back Yard Supermarkets? The wild game population in Schleicher County has always been good, but the early residents say the White Tail deer, antelope, wild turkey, and wild hogs were as close as your Winchester 30-30 saddle gun. However, there was also other "good eatin'" running around. Squirrel, rabbit, coon, quail, dove, and even armadillo.

The art of preparing and preserving these wild meats has been passed down for generations. It may not have been U.S.D.A., but the promise of fried squirrel, black-eyed peas, fresh onion, biscuits, and gravy, kept many a cowboy in the saddle on those long Texas summer days. —Jannette Wilkerson.

BICENTENNIAL BRIEFS

SAFETY TIP

It's a glaring error to overlook the many dangers of fireworks during the Bicentennial Year. Celebrations will bring about an increased use with many licensed public displays and more children playing with fireworks.

The Better Vision Institute points out that many serious eye and body injuries, including blindness, are reported as a result of fireworks after each July 4. Although some 22 states ban fireworks, contraband fireworks often cross state lines. In the interest of eye and body safety, many organizations have urged federal regulation of fireworks. The Better Vision Institute urges all Americans to remember that vision—like freedom—is a precious gift.

Some people believe that if you put on your right sock and shoe before you put on your left sock and shoe you will have a good day.

For maximum nutrition when preparing mashed potatoes cook them in the peel and peel before mashing.

Keeping fingers crossed to ensure against disaster, comes from the superstition that making the sign of the cross will avert bad luck.

In the Book of Matthew, Jesus asked a question that we could all benefit from asking ourselves: "Is not life more than food and the body more than clothing?" For a true Christian, life means much more than simply physical life.

The Holy Spirit gives Life, and also creates fresh motivation for goodness. Psychologists say that people do what they do to satisfy basic drives. Christians believe that the Holy Spirit introduces a new drive from God: the power to love with God's own love and to grow in doing God's will.

To better understand what is really meant by the Christian way of life, you can read a booklet entitled, "The Meaning Of Life." Send 25¢ to International Lutheran Laymen's League, 2185 Hampton Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri 63139.

Superman of the Revolution

Often called the "Samson of the American Revolution," Virginian Peter Francisco is known as the man who "killed more British soldiers than any ten men in the Continental Army."

Both in stature and deed, the 6-foot-6, 260-pound hero was a true giant of the Revolution. A U.S. Bicentennial stamp commemorates his strength and bravery during the Battle of Camden in 1780, when the 20-year-old Francisco is said to have hoisted to his huge shoulders a 1,100-pound cannon barrel that had been mired in mud and carried it behind American lines.

Swinging a 5-foot sword that George Washington ordered made for him, Francisco distinguished himself at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse by killing 11 British soldiers despite bayonet wounds that pierced both his legs. After recovering from these severe wounds, Francisco rejoined American forces at Yorktown, Va., where the British ultimately surrendered. A Goliath of the battlefields, his amazing Revolutionary feats became legend around Virginia camps.

Mystery and romance pervaded the life of the good-natured Francisco who could lift a man in each palm until their heads touched the ceiling and once lifted a saddled horse over a four-foot-high fence. As a child of 5, not knowing his parentage or country, he was dropped by longboat oarsmen on Virginia shores — his only identification being a pair of silver shoe buckles marked P and F. The orphaned child was given a home by Judge Anthony Winston, who raised him on his Buckingham County, Va., plantation. Recent examination of 200-year-old records has led historians to believe that Francisco was kidnapped by seamen from his home in the Azores Islands.

After the war, Francisco was named sergeant-at-arms in the Virginia House of Delegates. During that time, it is said, the assembly was a model of decorum.

The spirit of the Revolutionary period permeates Virginia, which, with its ocean and river resorts, Blue Ridge Mountains, Shenandoah Valley, and hundreds of historical attractions such as Mount Vernon and Jamestown, is a major vacation destination for people from around the world. Providing further depth to the state's historic, scenic and recreational appeal are the beautiful Old Country at Busch Gardens theme park near the colonial capital Williamsburg and the exciting Kings Dominion theme park outside of Richmond.

For more information on Virginia's vacation opportunities, write or call Virginia State Travel Service, 6 North Sixth Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219 (804) 786-4484.

BIBLE QUESTIONS

QUESTION: "Isn't everyone entitled to his own interpretation?"

ANSWER: The very concept of INTERPRETATION implies some knowledge and the manipulation of it toward a conclusion. Herein is the weakness of the "Have it your way" philosophies. Men try to establish concepts, then publish them—conditioning the minds of others to these concepts and thereby guide the resulting conclusion.

As Jesus prayed in John 17 for His Apostles, He made one statement that this whole world must center its attention upon: verse 17b, "... Thy word is truth." This, then, is the basis—Knowledge of God's Will and the understanding of it. Notice that there was not "an" understanding.

There must be a QUALITY of this knowledge—though quantity may vary in the individual. The quality is what is uniquely God's—for He has established a PURPOSE—(Eph. 1:11) and with that purpose or plan has come method and expected result.

If God allowed mankind to establish a standard, then every individual would only have his standard to be the basis for judgment. This would be eliminating justice from the universe—men such as Attila, Hitler or Domitian could be vindicated. Mercy itself could be eliminated, for it is a quality that exists only with regard to God's standard—His WORD!

God, in giving His Word, is reaching toward mankind, who, in utilizing His Word as knowledge, without the inept, futile, self gratifying "interpretations" can arrive at an acceptable relationship both with God and fellow-man.

The divisions that exist due to men's intervention it dealt with in 1 Cor. 3. Paul asks the question, "For since there is jealousy and strive among you, are you not fleshly, and are you not walking like mere men? For when one says, 'I am of Paul,' and another, 'I am of Apollos,' are you not mere men?" (vs. 3, 4). Bible Questions, Box 91, Eldorado, Texas 76936.

Women In The News

Margaux Hemingway, famous granddaughter

Gelsey Kirkland, ballet's young star

Patricia Hearst, woman of mystery

Squeaky Fromme, would-be assassin

Four very different young women were among the newsmakers of 1975. Novelist Ernest Hemingway's 20-year-old granddaughter, Margaux, became model of the year and won a $1 million contract to promote perfume. Ballerina Gelsey Kirkland at 22 was the youngest American ballerina to make it to the top. A third was Patricia Hearst, whose disappearance and ultimate discovery kept all America interested and whose motives are still a mystery. And there was Lynette (Squeaky) Fromme, who pointed a pistol at President Ford.

These are just four of the many faces you can see and the many stories you can read in the LIFE Special Report, "1975—The Year in Pictures." It's the fourth in LIFE's annual series of retrospective glances at the events of a year just past.

One thing it shows us is that the year before the Bicentennial was memorable for some of the women who made news!

Union Power Grab

WASHINGTON—The bosses of Big Labor are trying to grab a stranglehold on the American political process.

Behind closed doors, the highly skilled, highly paid lobbyists of the AFL-CIO and the major unions are quietly pulling the strings that may give them near monopoly control of partisan political activity.

The labor bosses have a lot of IOUs to cash in. Labor contributed more than $4.3 million to House and Senate candidates in 1974, dwarfing business contributions of $1.6 million.

The number of dollars contributed is only the tip of the iceberg as far as Big Labor's political activities are concerned. "In kind" contributions—many of them financed from compulsory dues—total many times that amount.

The goal of the bosses is a new election law that would bar non-union employees from making major campaign contributions. Big Labor alone would be left to spend big money on elections.

The Federal Elections Campaign Act of 1974 must be rewritten because the Supreme Court has declared major parts of it unconstitutional. Congress is tailoring a "reform" bill that meets Big Labor's specifications.

The thrust of the bill is to sharply restrict the activities of Political Action Committees (PACs) set up by businesses and their employees without similarly curbing the activities of Big Labor's myriad political committees.

The proposed bill would discriminate against Big Labor's competitors in at least nine ways—some of them direct and open, some deviously circumspect.

Examples of the hypocritical standards used by the bill's drafters are:

—Employers could be required to pick up the tab for most union fund-raising costs.

—Unions could freely solicit funds from their members, but employers would be forbidden to tell all but a handful of their employees about the existence of a company PAC.

—In the House version of the bill, no restrictions would be placed on labor political committees, which are organized at the national, state, and local levels. But crippling restrictions would be placed on the number of PACs that could be set up by business.

—Sharp restrictions would be placed on the fund-raising and fund-transfer powers of business PACs that would be set up after passage of the law, but these restrictions would not apply to what labor PACs already have done.

Organized Labor represents less than one quarter of the American work force, and many union members oppose the political policies of the labor bosses. Yet if this bill were to become law, the labor bosses would have a hold on the political process that would have made the robber barons of yesteryear green with envy.

To cloak this naked power grab in the pious language of election "reform" is perhaps the greatest affront of all.

In England, "a 'silent partner' in business is known as a 'sleeping partner.'"

Money Saving Tips

IT'S TIME TO BE A METER GREETER

Say hello to the meter because you're going to be seeing more of it. And to save money it's smart to buy tools now that have both meter—the metric system unit of measurement—and feet—our English system unit of measurement.

How long is a meter? Approximately 39.37 inches—a little more than a yard. But when it's time to divide a meter into smaller units, it's not a matter of threes and twelves, as in the system we use, but simply division by ten. One hundred centimeters make a meter, and one hundred millimeters make a centimeter (which means that one thousand millimeters make a meter).

Many experts believe that we should switch over to metric measurement for the sheer logic of it all. But on the other hand, it would require a whole change in our system of thinking.

That's why measuring instruments that offer inches and centimeters side by side help ease the pangs of conversion. The people who make Lufkin measuring tools knew that when they designed tapes and rules with the two systems together on one side.

The Lufkin Meter Stick, tomorrow's yardstick, is a useful tool in helping us to understand the metric measuring system. It also has tables showing equivalents and conversions on the reverse side.

Measuring tools like this will help us get ready to be a nation of meter greeters!

PAELLA CASSEROLE

There's no need for calorie-counters to count rice out of their diet. Rice provides only 82 calories per half-cup serving. Compare that with a cup of skim milk at 90 calories or one slice of white bread at 70, and you can see that rice has a place in a reducing diet.

Here's a delicious way to serve rice with low calorie chicken and shrimp for a hearty but not fattening meal.

PAELLA CASSEROLE
3 tablespoons olive oil or vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 chicken breasts, split and boned
1-1/2 cups chopped onions
1-1/2 cups tomato juice
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas
1 teaspoon oregano
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 pound peeled and deveined raw shrimp
4 cups hot cooked rice

Heat oil with garlic in a heavy frying pan; add chicken and brown; push to one side; saute onions in pan until tender. Stir in tomato juice, peas, and seasonings; cook, covered, over low heat 15 to 20 minutes. Add shrimp and cook 10 minutes longer. Spoon rice around edges of 6 individual casseroles. Fill centers of casseroles with paella mixture. Or serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings. Each serving provides: 403 calories.

Rice gives good nutrition, too. Its protein content provides all eight of the essential amino acids, making it superior in this respect to all other cereal grains, and it contains iron, calcium and B complex vitamins. It's easily digested and its bland goodness makes it acceptable for being served often. Perhaps best of all, it's "filling," so important when you're making every calorie count.

From the C and H Sugar Kitchen

Easy-to-Make Fruit-Nut Bread!

All the ingredients for this delicious Fruit-Nut Loaf can be mixed in one saucepan. Then into the baking pan and into the oven. For variety, use any one of your favorite dried fruits or a mixture of several.

The finished loaf can be served plain or with butter. For an extra treat, serve it with soft Danish cheese or sharp American cheddar, as a delightful dessert after a soup and salad dinner.

Great with cheese in your lunch box or picnic basket, too. It's a C and H Sugar Kitchen favorite!

FRUIT-NUT LOAF

1 cup C and H Golden Brown Sugar, packed
1 cup water
1 cup dried fruit, cut-up (apples, dates, apricots, figs, prunes or raisins)
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 egg, beaten
2 cups all-purpose flour

In a saucepan mix together first six ingredients; stir over medium heat until butter melts. Set aside. When cooled, stir in soda, then beaten egg, then flour. Bake in greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan at 350 degrees about 1 hour. Cool on rack.

Farina Fiesta Instead Of Potatoes

When meal planning gets to be a chore, add a new dish to your repertoire. For instance, instead of serving rice, potatoes or pasta, try this tasty side dish made with iron-enriched CREAM OF WHEAT Cereal. You probably keep the cereal on hand anyway. Farina Fiesta is easy to prepare. After the cereal is browned, the recipe needs only 5 minutes cooking. It's seasoned just so with onion, green pepper, pimientos and mushrooms.

FARINA FIESTA

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup Regular or Quick CREAM OF WHEAT Cereal
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 (10 1/2-ounce) can condensed chicken broth or beef broth
1 (4-ounce) jar DROMEDARY Diced Pimientos, drained
1 (3-ounce) can sliced or chopped mushrooms, drained, optional
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper

Melt butter in large skillet. Add next three ingredients; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until cereal is lightly toasted. Remove from heat. Very gradually stir in broth. Add remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and cook over low heat, 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Makes 6 (about 2/3 cup) servings.

Grow Your Own Tomatoes

To many, gardening means just growing a few tomato plants. This can be a fascinating and rewarding venture, or it can be a frustrating one. A sickly tomato plant with no fruit doesn't help anyone's gardening spirit. So, if you are growing tomatoes for the first time, we have some advice to help avoid common pitfalls.

First of all, don't grow tomatoes unless they can be placed in an area that receives sunlight for more than half the day. Tomato plants between tall shrubs, under tall trees or between buildings just don't have a chance.

Next good soil is essential. Often poor soil can be improved with liberal amounts of organic matter and proper fertilization. A dark heavy clay or even a fine sand can be improved by working in three or four inches of organic matter. For only a few tomato plants, dig up a space at least two feet square to a depth of about 12 inches for each plant. Add liberal amounts of organic matter and mix it well with the soil.

Variety selection is of utmost importance for successful tomatoes. Select varieties that resist common diseases. We recommend Spring, Giant, Homestead, Porter, Terrific or the small fruited Small Fry as tomato varieties for Schleicher county.

Plants can be grown at home or purchased at local retail outlets. When buying plants, check closely for suspicious spots on the leaves which could be one of the many foliage diseases that are common to Texas grown tomatoes. Short, stocky, young plants are best. Tall spindly plants that already have blooms are no bargain.

Transplants should be planted somewhat deeper than they were originally growing. Plants in peat pots or peat blocks should not be removed; the entire container should be planted. The peat pots must be kept moist so the roots will penetrate them as the plants grow. It is sometimes helpful to break out the bottom of the pot.

Use a starter solution with tomato plants to assure adequate fertility for the young plants during their early growth.

All tomato varieties should be staked, trellised or caged for best results. Any method is good if it keeps the fruit off the ground. Fruits allowed to contact the soil often develop fruit rot.

At first bloom, dust or spray tomatoes weekly for both insects and diseases. Once the plants start to set fruit, apply small amounts of garden fertilizer every three to four weeks to insure continued production.

Caged Tomatoes For Greater Use

Instead of staking and pruning tomatoes this year, we suggest using wire cages to support the plants.

Caging rather than staking and pruning offers home gardeners in Schleicher county several advantages, including less sunburn of the fruit, fewer disease problems, and higher yields, all with much less work.

The cages can be constructed from concrete reinforcing wire, hog wire or any other sturdy wire mesh that has openings of at least four to six inches and is 3½ to five feet tall. Cut and bend the mesh material into cylinders 16 to 20 inches in diameter, fasten the ends together, and snip off the bottom ring so that the cages can be pushed into the ground about six inches deep for support.

When using wire cages for growing tomatoes, space the plants about 2½ to three feet apart in the row and allow four to five feet between rows.

We suggest planting a vining or semi-vining type tomato variety when using cages although bush-types can also be used.

After tomato plants have been set in the garden, place a wire cage over each plant and make sure it is well anchored in the ground. The plant will grow up through the cage and the wire mesh will support it. No suckering, pruning or training will be necessary. Ripe fruit can be picked through the openings.

Cost of the cages will vary from 30 to 50 cents each, but they can be stored and used for several years. Certain other crops such as cucumbers and pole beans can also be grown using the wire cage method.

The scene from the Hill. It's up to him to inform the rest of us, and in these complicated times, that isn't easy. But his job is communication, to get the facts, to give them to us straight.

He represents a Freedom . . . one of those precious gifts guaranteed to us under our Constitution. The Church represents another Freedom.

These *Freedom*s, and the word itself, have special meaning just now when we're celebrating our Bicentennial. Let's not lose sight of them.

It's a birthday present we owe ourselves.
