Rigid Federal Control Of Credit, Currency Favored By Morgenthau

Board Would Be Similar To Supreme Court

Secretary Appears Before Senate Banking Committee Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rigid federal control of credit and currency through a strong board patterned along lines of the supreme court, was advocated Friday by Secretary Morgenthau.

He told the senate banking subcommittee he belonged to "that school of thought which believes the government should own all stock in Federal Reserve Banks."

Inclement Weather Brings More Rain

Big Spring awoke in a dense fog Friday morning as inclement weather which definitely broke the drought continued here.

At 8 a. m. the heavy fog began to turn to rain and a few minutes later the city area was covered with a heavy shower of about 15 minutes duration.

While the fall was estimated at about a quarter of an inch in the city, only .03 inches were recorded at the weather bureau at the airport and .08 inches at the U. S. Experiment farm.

Forecast for Friday night and Saturday indicated still more rain.

Strategy—

Democratic bonus strikers threw up their hands over Jesse Jones' statement that immediate cashing of veterans' certificates would not produce uncontrolled inflation. It landed on them while they were advising the President to sharpen the preliminary draft of his veto message and to dynamite inflationists, Long Coughlin and Thom-

But Mr. Jones supplied the missing key to inside bonus strategy. Everybody except professional agitators is scheming to erase the issue from the political calendar before the 1936 presidential year. They figure it would pass then even if headed off now. By his attitude Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to restore his waning prestige with some groups of bankers, business men, etc. Then Congress will go right ahead with the Vinson bill or a similar payment plan. Mr. Roosevelt is counted on to veto that proposal. Finally the boys on "the Hill" will get out of control and hand out Treasury notes or bonds.

Everybody will be fixed up, politically, if it works as planned. The President can "point to" his unyielding stand. Candidates running for office can make better time. They won't have to slow up for a scared glance backward to see if the bonus is catching up to them.

Advice—

The White House and Mr. Jones crossed signals badly in their interpretation of the consequences of the Patman plan. The RFC Chairman's cool dismissal of inflationary possibilities might have softened up enough Senators to put over Patman money even in the face of a veto. Worse still, it tended to take the sting out of the presidential warning.

But the unauthorized allayer of monetary alarms was wise to developments the rest of the crowd didn't know about. For several days during the Senate bonus battle his banker-friends in New York and elsewhere kept his phone ringing. They implored him for advice on whether to sell bonds and buy real estate. They were Coughlin-conscious, exhibiting the kind of panic that promotes inflation.

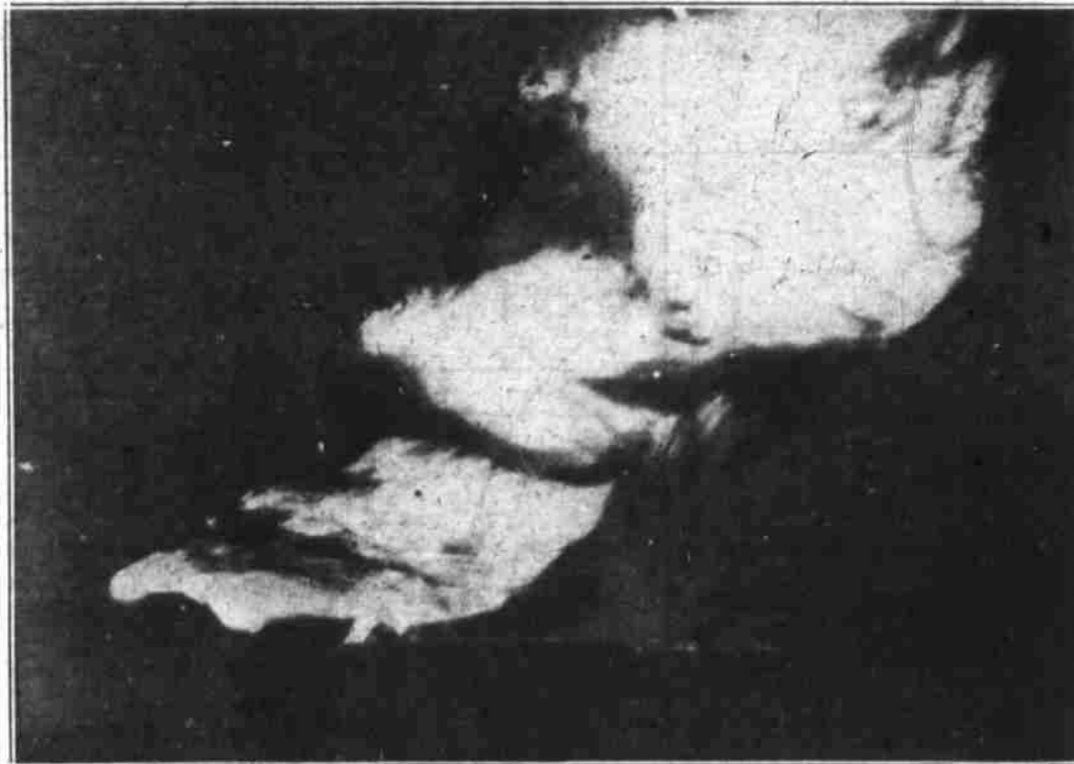

So Mr. Jones himself phoned from Pinehurst to order widespread distribution of his speeches. The Patman payment, he explained when called to account, might not have plunged us into the monetary stratosphere, but inflation psychology might have set us sky-rocketing unless checked.

Rehearsal—

G.O.P. impresarios have barred star-spangled-banner stuff from their eleven-state convention at Springfield next month. They have notified local and district aides to

80,000 Barrel Oil Tank Ablaze On Shell Lease

ing forth huge clouds of smoke Wednesday afternoon, following one of the three "boil-overs." The lower photo, which is perhaps the most remarkable, was taken at 8 o'clock Wednesday night following the last "boil-over" that resulted in the destruction of the steel

Photos by Thurman tank, releasing the oil into the pit, where it burned rapidly. Approximately 35,000 barrels of oil was consumed. The lower photo was taken at night, and the cameraman had to retreat several hundred yards because of the intense heat.

Social Security Bill Oked By Senate Finance Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's social security bill was approved Friday by the Senate Finance Committee, with two major additions to form in which passed the House:

1. Voluntary annuity system by which workers could provide up to $100 monthly for their old age.
2. Federal aid to the needy blind up to $15 monthly to be matched by states.

Big Spring Gets 90 Pct. Rating In Handling Of Milk

Big Spring was one of 100 cities which have been listed as 90 per cent or more for milk handling.

City Health Officer Mike Leeper has been advised of this rating by Leslie C. Frank, sanitary engineer in charge of the office of milk investigation.

Big Spring, said Leeper, was also one of the first 16 cities in the state to attain such a rating. Cities with rating of less than 90 per cent are not recognized by the state in making the lists, he said.

Since 1923 milk ratings here have shown a steady climb. Leeper disclosed.

Methylene blue tests then showed about an average of 5.8 for local dairies. On January 1 of this year the figure had climbed to 9.2

Roosevelt Is Preparing Veto Message

To Be Sent To Congress Probably Monday; Certain Veto Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Patman inflationary bonus bill was sent to the White House Friday for a certain veto.

The last congressional formality was completed when Vice President Garner signed the two billion two hundred million dollar measure.

President Roosevelt set aside Friday afternoon to start writing his veto message, which probably will be sent to congress Monday.

The veto message will go to the house first, where leaders concede it will be quickly overridden. The real test is to come in the senate, probably by middle of the week.

Ramon Harrell Dies Friday

2-Year-Old Son Of Mr. And Mrs. Walter Harrell Buried Friday

Ramon Earl Harrell, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Harrell of the Moore community, died 4 a. m. Friday at 509 Benton street, Big Spring. He was born on Dec. 31, 1932. He had been under treatment here for about a week.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 4:30 from the Eberley Funeral Home chapel, with Melvin J. Wise, minister of the Church of Christ, in charge. Burial was in New Mount Olive cemetery.

Besides his parents, deceased is survived by three sisters, Mrs. A. E. Holland, 500 Benton street; Pauline Harrell and Rubie Lee Harrell; one brother, Eldon Harrell; Mrs. Mary Harrell, grandmother, of Midland and an uncle, W. D. Harrell of Midland, were here for the services.

NEW OUTBREAK IN PHILIPPINES

3 FIREMEN LOSE LIVES IN QUEBEC

Fire Destroys Convent At Joliette, Quebec, Early Friday

JOLIETTE, Quebec, (AP)—Three firemen lost their lives Friday as they fought flames destroying the convent of Sister of Congregation of Notre Dame here.

An aged nun, Sister Ste. Elaine Desseurs, died of heart attack shortly after the fire broke out in the kitchen of the convent.

All other occupants, 53 children, 50 aged pensioners and 50 nuns, escaped.

Firemen led them to safety.

The firemen dead: Louis Charlier, Quibert Fleury, Oscar Furlong. Fireman Jean Leguyer was seriously injured.

Imperial Crown Wins Verdict In Monogohela Case

A verdict for the plaintiff was returned by a 70th court jury in the case of Imperial Crown Royalty Corp. vs. Monogohela Oil Co. et al Thursday evening.

Among other things, plaintiff had charged usury had been exercised by the defendant in making a loan and also that royalties on certain leases had been lost through exacting terms of the loan.

The case required four days for trial.

Bernie Thompson was assessed a two year sentence for theft from person after he had pleaded not guilty to the charge. Fixing of the two year term had the effect of forcing Thompson also to serve a 3 year term previously suspended, thus giving him in effect a total of five years.

C. W. Gunn pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicating liquor for purpose of sale and was given a one year suspended sentence.

Case of Gordon T. Avery was to come before the court Saturday.

Civil cases are to be tried before the court during next week.

Tetanus Proves Fatal To J. R. (Bob) Hull, 54

Tetanus (lockjaw) proved fatal to Jim Robert (Bob) Hull, aged 54, in a local hospital Friday morning at 6:40. He was brought here for treatment of infection following an injury to a foot while working on his farm about eight days ago. A piece of sharp weed stem penetrated the foot while he was walking over the field. An infection set up several days later, followed by tetanus. He was given the tetanus serum, but to no avail.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at Salem church, with burial to follow in Salem cemetery. Pallbearers will be nephews of deceased: Joe Brittain and J. W. Hull, J. C. and Henry Robinson and Clifford White.

Mr. Hull was born in Comanche county, Texas, on September 17, 1881. He has resided in Howard county for about thirty years. His wife and two daughters have preceded him in death, all being buried in Salem cemetery.

He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Billie Huff, Denton, Texas; Mrs. J. C. Brown, McComas, Miss.; Maxine and Dorothy Lee Hull, Midway. Five sisters, Mrs. Charlie Robinson, Mrs. Walter Robinson, Mrs. J. W. Haggard, Mrs. M. B. New Field Opened In N.W. Ector

Gulf No. 1 Goldsmith Wildcat Comes In On Section 10, Block 44

A new field was opened in northwestern Ector county Thursday by Gulf Production Co., No. 1 Goldsmith, wildcat located in section 10, block 44, T-1-S, 7&P survey, Ector county. Many oil observers consider it one of the major strikes in the West Texas area in several years.

This is especially true since northwestern Ector county has been looked upon with little than passing interest since the showing of the Red Davidson wildcat.

Total depth of the test is 4,172 feet in line with pay being topped at 4,170 feet. The test came in flowing by heads, making 75 barrels in three hours with an accompanying show of 3,000,000 feet of gas per day.

The test is about 3 miles southeast of the Landreth No. 1 Schaeffer producer for about 40 barrels with a little water. Level on pay ran about the same in each test but the Goldsmith well has a much more encouraging show of oil.

Besides the Gulf well there are three more tests being drilled on the trend.

George Black, Colored, To Be Buried Saturday

George Black, colored, died at 11:30 Friday morning at his home at 15th and Gregg streets, after an illness of two weeks. He had been a resident of Howard county for fourteen years. Burial will take place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE PUBLIC PLANNING BOARD

In spite of opposition in the legislature, the recent enactment of a law creating a State Planning board was a sound and constructive move.

It will be the duty of this newly created board to take into consideration all resources of the state, natural and otherwise, and to determine the best manner in which these resources shall be utilized.

Any move of this sort is a step toward restoration of the government to the people, and is thoroughly in keeping with the spirit of the times.

The next step toward the efficient operation of the state board should be the formation of county and city planning boards to cooperate with the state body.

Local planning boards, after having thoroughly familiarized themselves with community problems through research, could determine what they might consider the best policy to pursue.

The Alignment on the Eccles Bill

The decisive debate on the Eccles banking bill is now beginning and it may be useful to fix in our minds the several points of view which will be represented.

The controversial section of the bill is known as Title II. This proposes to centralize in the Federal Reserve Board at Washington the control of the supply of money.

By moving the reins of the bill mean cash currency which people carry about in their pockets plus checking accounts or demand deposits.

These demand deposits are much the most important part of the supply of money. In 1929, for example, the country was using about $4,000,000,000 of cash currency and a little less than $23,000,000,000 of deposits money.

The Eccles bill seeks to control the quantity of deposit money by controlling the reserves that banks have against deposits.

The method of managing the reserves is through three technical operations known as the open market policy, the discount rate and the reserve requirement.

There are a number of opinions being voiced about the bill which, in the interest of a clear debate, it is necessary to distinguish.

Those who hold this view are in a very small minority. Thus, for example, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Miller, Mr. Mellon, Mr. Meyer, Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank could not, unless they repudiate their whole practice, take the fundamentalist view that it is not necessary or possible to deal with the supply of money.

The position of those who accept the principle of control but think that the Eccles Bill puts the control too near to the politicians is best expressed by the Special Committee of the American Bankers' association. It has said that "many of the changes proposed in Title II, are of a constructive nature and should have the support of the bankers, if the method of appointment and the tenure of office of the members of the Federal Reserve Board, in whose hands it is planned to concentrate greater power than ever before, could be so altered as to insure, as far as possible, the absolute independence of the Board from partisan or political considerations."

On the conservative side of the argument there are thus several questions to be answered: 1. Is it necessary and desirable to control the supply of deposit money? 2. If it is necessary and desirable, are the open market operations, the discount rate, and the legal reserve ratio the best instrument of control? 3. Should these instruments be placed in the hands of a central board acting for the whole country or should they be decentralized among the twelve Reserve Banks acting for their respective regions? 4. If the control should be centralized, should the Board be directly responsive to Congress, or to the President, or to the Reserve Banks, or shall it be a government agency which, like the Interstate Commerce Commission, is independent of Congress, of the President, and of private bankers?

The real issue in the Eccles bill is in the question of who shall exercise control. For the preponderant informed opinion of bankers and economists is that control must be exercised by some one—that automatic money does not and can not exist under modern conditions.

The unorthodox critics of the bill who, if should be noted, are more numerous in Congress than the orthodox critics, are fighting on two lines.

The most radical would like to substitute for government control of the supply of money government ownership of the whole Reserve System and its management by a representative body which would be frankly political.

The less radical but more influential group would like to have Congress state in the law that the powers of the Eccles bill must be used to increase the supply of money until the general price level is somewhere around that of 1926 and that thereafter the Board must deflate or inflate to maintain that price level.

When the issues are clarified, it will transpire that the main controversy that really matters is over the amendments proposed by the American Bankers' association. In this controversy the bankers recognize the fundamental monetary philosophy of the Eccles bill; the administration had any such insane intention, it would not need this political philosophy of the banker critics in that it professes to desire what they desire—the absolute independence of the board from partisan or political considerations.

Another vague criticism is to the effect that the bill enables the Administration to have a "planned economy" and to say what industries and what corporations and what individuals shall be granted loans. There is no foundation for this criticism. The bill seeks to control the total volume of money; it does not control or direct or plan or create any new powers for determining what specific loans the banks shall make.

"Broke" With $100 Check CANTON, Ohio, (UP)—A man with a $100 check in his pocket still may be "broke." A well-dressed young man approached Addie K. Barthelme, County Home Demonstration Agent, as she entered the post office building here.

"I'm wondering if you could use nine three-cent stamps," he said, "I'll sell them for a quarter."

Miss Barthelme frowned. "I have a $100 check in my pocket," the young man went on. "But I can't get it cashed, and 25 cents will buy breakfast. I'm hungry."

The sale was completed. Depression in Church Lifts SALLEM, Ohio (UP)—Depression in the church is lifting, too, Dr. Charles L. Zorbaugh, of Columbus, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio, told a synod meeting here.

MONTANA RIDER, 86, MAY ENTER RODEO RED LODGE, Mont., (UP)—J. W. (Jim) Blakesley is toying with the idea of coping some of this easy prize money when the Fourth of July rodeo rolls around.

And his friends think he'll probably go home with the cash, too, if he decides to "do his stuff."

Jim is 80 years old, but maintains he can still hold his own with the youngsters when it comes to tipping "rough ones."

Recently he rode into town on a spirited horse to see friends. He primed himself with a man-sized "chaw" of cut plug, turned a couple of cartwheels, a back-flop and a hand-spring, then offered to "lick any man in the house."

There were no takers. 55, In Office 53 Years CADIZ, Ohio (UP)—William H. Lucas, venerable Cadiz village clerk, who is believed to hold a national record for continuous service in one elective office, is circulating his petition for another two-year term.

If served, it will bring Lucas' total to 50 years. He will be 85 in September, but is alert and active daily on his job.

MOLLY-O LAPPED TOO MUCH ALE, FELL IN SEWER BROCKTON, Mass. (UP)—There was plenty of gossip going on among the cat neighbors after Molly-O, pet cat of the Center Street Tavern, fell down a catch basin—drunk.

Molly-O didn't know her capacity and lapped up too much ale, then staggered into the street.

Down went Molly, over and over, finally rolling into the sewer. This sort of sobered her up and she cried for help. She was imprisoned by the iron grating. The grating was removed and Patrolman Everett Varium made the rescue.

Freed Molly nonchalantly walked into the tavern and took another lap—for medicinal purposes, no doubt.

15 Year Old Fire Put Out PLENTYWOOD, Mont. (UP)—Fire, which has been raging in the McCoy coal mine here for approximately 15 years, finally has been extinguished. The task was accomplished by a crew of 14 men working since May of last year. Cost of the project was about $10,000.

WEST COAST WHEAT GROWERS ARE HAPPY SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UP)—California wheat growers are looking forward to a profitable year. Because of the destruction of grain in the middle west due to dust storms, the state's 88 per cent normal crop is expected to bring farmers the greatest return in depression times, state agriculturists say.

Probable production is estimated at 11,250 compared with 8,354,000 last year. Barley acreage will total 1,160,000, a 100,000 increase over 1934.

East Ward P.T.A. Has Final Meet

Mrs. J. J. Throop's Room Wins Prize For Biggest Attendance

The East Ward P.T.A. met Thursday afternoon for the final meeting of this term. Due to sickness several officers were absent. Mrs. Long presided over the meeting.

Mrs. W. S. Garnett offered a short prayer. Mrs. Throop's room gave the program, after which the members held a business session. It was voted to give Mrs. Porch charge of the cafeteria for next school term.

Clever "last call" programs distributed by the children announced the following program numbers:

Play, "Recapitulation" by the first grade.

Reading, "Going Fishing" by Bob Chamberland.

Reading, "Bill Thuy" by Doris Jean Glenn.

Mrs. Throop's room won the contest prize for the month.

The following were present: Mmes. Geo. W. Neill, H. D. Drake, Tom Cantrell, Floyd Flood, E. H. Sanders, D. P. Thompson, Dick Ross, John A. Bode, W. R. Newsum, J. O. Newsom, Paul Morrison, C. R. Chamberland, Granville Glenn, Cecil Long, Reece, J. J. Throop, Guy Tamsett, W. S. Garnett, Bob Weaver; Misses Ione McClendon, Audrey Phillips, Charlene Handley.

Good Cast Selected For Senior Comedy

Ordinarily there is a great difficulty in selecting a proper cast for an amateur production but in the case of the play chosen for this year's Senior play, "Apple Blossom Time," the entire cast fill their roles with ease.

Perhaps one of the hardest characters in this play is the part of Loretta Harris; yet Agnes Bugg, who has that part, has already shown much ability in portraying such a character. Loretta Harris is the small-town beauty who gets her way in every matter. She has a pretty baby face, big eyes, and is the helpless-doll type, always affecting a childish accent. She is spoiled, due to the constant attention paid her and always manages to secure the dislike of everyone—except the boys who always seem to like her.

On May 24 at the City Auditorium this play will be produced and all who see it will be greatly entertained. For it is truly a very enjoyable play.

spike in advance any discussion of candidates or any demand for framing a hard-and-fast set of principles. The resolutions committee will be chosen with care, and the only formal mention of Republican occupants of the White House will be the eulogies of Abraham Lincoln.

Boosters of some 1936 hopefuls are snubbing the get-together for fear that it may be run or used for the benefit of rival candidates. The party's bigwigs don't dare draft a platform now because, according to the writer, "we are facing a dancing master who won't stand still."

A nationally known but anti-Roosevelt Democrat expresses this idea in his always picturesque phrase: "It's damn hard to nail a custard pie to the wall."

The leaders admit they have no assurance that the 3,000 delegates won't spoil prearranged plans for

Posterity Honors Progenitors

A week ago Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wolf of Vincent were honored by their children and offspring in a Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration. There were fifty-three persons present for a dinner given in their honor, and fifty of them were relatives. In this number were 26 grand children and three great grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Wolf were married May 16, 1885 at Gatesville and have harmony. But they prefer to have differences of policy aired now rather than sprung on the national convention in June of 1936.

R. F. C.

The New South will not be denied. Politically modest—except when a Democratic administration rules the roost—it now proclaims its economic superiority over century-old industries in the North.

More modern methods of manufacture, lower wages and proximity to raw materials from New England to below the Mason and Dixon line. Now southern interests seek an RFC loan to develop a pulp industry, thereby competing with several established industries in New England and other northern states. Much the same reasons which revolutionized the textile setup apply to pulp, and the consequences may be similar.

The political results interest long-headed Democrats. The administration cannot lose in the South in 1936, but it can drop several New England states. But long-term political planners suggest that a South more deeply interested in the issues involving capital, labor, the tariff and further industrial development may not remain so solidly Democratic as in the past. The RFC, in passing on this request for funds, may upset political as well as economic dynasties.

Sore

Congressional philippic against Executive employes' inactivity are camouflage. It is part of the old patronage fight. That feud has grown more acute because of jobs and contracts resulting from the $4,000,000,000 work-relief program. Messrs. Walker, Ickes and Hopkins are listening to Governors, Mayors and state delegations instead of to the political spokesman in House and Senate.

Relations between Congressmen and the Departments were never more sugary. Every Executive Department has issued orders for tender treatment of the men who handle bills and appropriations affecting downtown Washington. All Congressional requests and letters must be answered within forty-eight hours under pain of disciplinary action. Every Cabinet member who has cut his political teeth knows that molasses produces larger appropriations than vinegar.

What the Congressmen are sore about is patronage. Since they don't like to appear as job-and-contract mongers they set up a holier-than-thou telephonic curtain.

Twins

There is one paragraph in the Supreme Court's decision upsetting the Real Pension Act which bothers both FDR and "Kingfish." Long more than they admit. It is the first time they have been united in a long time, even though it is a betwixt-and-between which brings them together. Here is the paragraph:

"There is no warrant for taking the property or money of one and transferring it to another without compensation."

Whether they seek to accomplish their social ends by the power of federal taxation or interstate regulation, this much-read dictum appears to strike at the President's program for redistributing wealth and Huey's scheme for resharing it. It may leave both the "forgotten man" and Huey's king men behind the eight-ball—or right where they used to be.

Filibusters

With less than a month to go NRA is the subject of betting on Capitol Hill. Friends of NRA believe that Donald Richberg has solved the riddle by revising his bill to eliminate intrastate business and then getting House support for a two-year extension. Foes of the law hold that one filibuster after another in the Senate will kill off NRA by preventing a vote before June 16, thus making way for a Supreme Court decision which these foes hope will be adverse.

It's admitted by both sides that an adverse ruling on the test case now pending would make it more difficult to extend NRA either ten months or two years. But thus far the opposition has operated through filibuster and has not dared to take a vote. Senate and House are in disagreement—and thus an opportunity may be opened for conferees to do a little filibustering of their own in case the two houses should act before June 16.

Notes

Anti-AAA men in the House assert that they have affidavits from western farmers asserting that the production committee of AAA organized the Farmers' March on Washington. Wisconsin Progressives opposing AAA demand an investigation. Bonusites say they will tack a bonus bill on every must bill that comes up until they get what they want. "You have an absolutely sound dollar," Morgenthau's statement, is hailed as a slogan by Congress Democrats. On all sides it is agreed the Secretary of the Treasury made the most convincing statement of Roosevelt financial policy that has yet appeared.

Unprovable

Well-posted New Yorkers figure the veterans might as well start planning to spend their bonus. They look for it to be pushed through in a form which FDR will accept soon after he has squelched the Fatman paper money proposal with a resounding veto.

The statements by Jesse Jones and Marriner Eccles to the effect that immediate payment wouldn't do any harm are rated the lip-off. Reports that Jones "faux pas" was annoying to the White House are taken with plenty of salt. Apparently unauthorized remarks by ad-spend it—mostly the latter. In this case it would also come back to the banks very shortly. There would be no fresh demand for currency which would call on them to pay it out again. So the net result—instead of an increase in the circulating medium—would simply be an addition to the mountain of excess bank reserves.

Other factors are already operating to pile up these reserves still more. The quiet but steady flow of gold imports and large Treasury disbursements have this effect. The base for the biggest credit expansion in history continues to spread.

Financial conservatives are really more bothered by the possibility of unchecked credit inflation than they are by the paper money talk. There are brakes designed to keep it under control, such as limiting the reserve requirements of member banks or having the Federal Reserve Banks sell their government securities. But they've never been tested on a machine of such huge potential horsepower and there are some who doubt their holding power when it gets rolling in high.

Wisp

Bang goes another pet illusion of anti-New Dealers.

A few months back New York was crabbing about the artificiality of low money rates. Critics insisted that the Treasury was playing the market to keep bond prices up and the cost of federal financing down. You don't hear that squawk any more.

Experts are now convinced that cheap money is due to a plethora of funds clamoring for investment and that Mr. Morgenthau has little or nothing to do with it. It used to be charged that the Treasury's stabilization fund was being used to buy—and strengthen—federal securities. Bankers lately admit there's no evidence that this fund ever bought a bond. The Federal Reserve Bank actually own less long-term government bonds than they did a year ago. Official support for federal issues has been confined to small purchases by minor government agencies—a wisp in the haystack of general market demand.

Satisfied

In the midst of the agitation to abolish codes there's one business which intends to hang onto its New Deal rule book come hell or high water. Investment bankers contracted plenty of headaches framing their code, but now that they've tried it they wouldn't part with it for anything.

Furthermore they don't much care whether the administering is done by NIA or the Securities Commission or the Marx Brothers.

Credit

There are several ways the bonus could be dished up in cash besides those already mentioned in Congress. But the belief that there would be two billion dollars more currency in steady circulation is a fallacy. The recipients would either deposit the money in banks or

All that matters to them is that a gentleman's game has been substituted for old-time cutthroat. It's so much easier on the nerves—and overhead—when you know you're protected against back-stage knife.

This attitude will be confirmed at the current convention of the Investment Bankers' Association. About 90 per cent of investment business is handled by I.B.A. members so what they say carries weight.

Smaller

Retail trade in New York City is running below a year ago and local merchants are in something of a lather, especially as stores in other cities are making better showings. Everything is blamed from the weather to the city sales tax.

Keen observers remark that the storekeepers do not realize how much local spending power has shrunk with the decline in industrial activity. Manufacturing payrolls in New York City are 73 per cent below their 1929 peak. Moreover they are still dwindling and there appears to be no chance for a substantial comeback.

It's predicted that New York retailers will have to readjust themselves to a volume of business permanently much smaller than what they have considered normal. The readjustment is likely to involve casualties.

Forgot

A year ago the mighty Mussolini—in order to make a general 10 per cent wage cut more palatable to Italians—announced that his government would find a way to cut the cost of living.

This year on the same Roman anniversary he concentrated on the need for sacrifice in the interest of the state and warned the people they must be prepared to face hard times. He somehow forgot to mention that the Italian cost of living had risen by 20 per cent during the year. New Yorkers comment that even dictators can't make economic factors jump through hoops.

Classic

Wall Street got a caustic chuckle out of the following item which came over the news ticker last week: "An amendment by Rep. Hollister, ranking Republican of the Banking and Currency Committee, to require that all members appointed to the Federal Reserve Board have experience in banking; was defeated."

Financial men claim that one belongs at the head of the New Deal's 50-foot shelf of classics.

Sidelights

$500,000,000 of corporate refunding issues have been offered in the past ten weeks. There will be $500,000,000 more by July 1st. New York banks are telling their Chinese correspondents that the Treasury's silver buying will be confined to domestic producers for the present. Sales of air-conditioning apparatus are lively, especially among hotels and movie houses.

HOW TO MAKE CHEESE AND PREPARE MEATLESS DISHES

By MRS. SIBYL HALLMARK (Director Home Economics Mary Hardin-Baylor)

Cheese, eggs, lima beans and navy beans contain the same valuable protein that is found in meat. Thus we find that a meatless meal may be planned around a dish containing one of these foods. Naturally in planning we would select the less expensive of these meat substitutes, if we could cut the grocery bill. If eggs or cheese should be as expensive as meat we should use them sometimes anyway to give variety to the diet. "Meat once a day" is the standard suggested by modern nutritionists.

Cheese
Cheese can give such an interesting variety in flavor—especially since many others are being used in addition to the plain American. Cottage cheese is usually less expensive than the others, and you can make it at home by pouring clabber milk into a cheesecloth bag and hanging it up to drain until water no longer drips from it.

When seasoned well, it makes delicious stuffings for fruits such as apricots, prunes, and tomatoes. Season with salt and with some finely chopped fruit or vegetable such as pineapple, green pepper, onion, pickle, olives, celery, cucumber, pimiento, or chopped nuts, or perhaps a dash of pepper or celery salt, or a bit of preserves or relish. Fill the cavity made in the fruit with the cheese mixture and serve on a lettuce leaf as the main dish salad in a luncheon or supper.

Poached Eggs in Baked Stuffed Potato Cups
Thoroughly scrub medium size

potatoes and rub with a little fat to keep the skins tender. Bake in a moderate oven for about an hour. Take from the oven and while they are yet hot, cut them in lengthwise halves. Scoop out the potato, mash, and season with salt, butter, and a little cream; whip until fluffy. Pile back into the shells and make an indentation large enough to put the soft, poached eggs in the top. Sprinkle a very little grated cheese on top and serve piping hot.

Bean Loaf
Dried beans are usually the least expensive of the meat substitutes and they make a delicious main dish for any meal when prepared interestingly—that is not just plain boiled. Use the boiled in a bean loaf.

March boiled beans, season with salt and a small amount of chopped onion or onion juice. Mix in a beaten egg for each three cups of beans. Add enough bean juice to make the mixture thin enough to pour into the well-greased loaf pan. Bake until firm—about forty minutes. Turn into a serving platter; garnish with chopped parsley, radishes, or pimiento, and serve with a cream sauce.

Strawberry Time in Ozarks
SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP)—Strawberry picking and shipping has begun in the southern Ozark region and is expected to be in full swing shortly.

INFANT IS ALASKA COLONIST

Youngest among the members of 67 Michigan families going to new homes in Alaska is Ronald, two-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milan Spencer of Sherman, Mich., photographed as they prepared to leave at St. Ignace, Mich. (Associated Press Photo)

Strawberries Are Here! Girl Scouts Begin At Once To Make Jelly And Jam

Cheered on by the knowledge that only last year 11,558 Girl Scouts won their cooks' badges, and more than 10,000 won them the year before, Girl Scouts are showing an interest in the traditional American art of jam and jellymaking. They are beginning at once by taking advantage of the season's first fruit, the incomparable strawberry. And fine little cooks that they are, they go to a famous home economist, Frances Lee Bartin, for advice.

As homemakers of the future, these Girl Scouts can make jam and jelly their grandmothers would envy. And without half the trouble! Instead of bending for hours over a steaming kettle, they use the sure-fire, modern short-bolt way, and in a fraction of the time their grandmothers used to take, make a delicious jelly, clear and firm. So many a mother is proud of her Girl Scout daughter these days.

In strawberry season, here are some recipes even a novice could make:

Strawberry Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) juice, 2 tbsps strained lemon juice, 8 cups (3 1/2 lbs.) sugar, 1 bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare jelly, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon.

Strawberry Jam
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit, 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, 1-2 bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries, or crush completely; one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. To reduce foaming, 1-4 teaspoon butter may be added. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

QUICK LUNCH IDEAS NOW INCLUDE GOOD ONION SOUP

By MRS. SIBYL HALLMARK (Director of Home Economics Mary Hardin-Baylor) FOR SHOPPING DAYS

It is not necessary for the home maker to plan "just any sort of snack" for the family's lunch when she has to spend the morning shopping. By planning ahead, she may even give the family a surprise and serve a rich, hot soup.

Cream of onion soup is an unusual one that is delicious and also easy to prepare. Before starting breakfast on shopping days, peel and slice four medium size onions into a pan with two tablespoons of butter. Cook until yellow—about five minutes—and then pour on about two cups of hot water. Set aside to simmer until tender—about twenty minutes. Then while breakfast is cooking, make a thick white sauce by melting a tablespoon of butter in the top of a double boiler, stirring in two tablespoons of flour, then gradually adding two cups of milk while stirring the mixture. Cook to the consistency of thick cream.

When the onions are done, slice them, and pour with the cooking water into the cream sauce. Season them with salt and set aside to reheat at lunch time. The recipe will serve four persons. Serve steaming hot with a sprinkling of finely grated cheese on top of each bowl.

French toast served with jelly, maple syrup, or a fruit sauce such as pineapple or apple, is a good dessert that can be prepared before lunch. To make French toast, dip medium thick slices of bread into a mixture of beaten eggs and milk, and saute in a small amount of butter until brown on both sides. Use one egg, three tablespoons of milk, and a fourth of a teaspoon of salt for three slices of bread. Keep the toast hot in a warm oven until ready to serve. Do not stack the slices because moisture collects between them, and they become soggy.

Always sift flour and K C Baking powder together at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter, finer texture the cakes, biscuits, etc. will be.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then, to this mixture, alternately add moisture and the flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding beaten egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

For cakes, have your oven slow to moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase the heat, so as to just brown lightly.

Here are a few choice recipes.

K. C. Everyday White Cake
1/2 cup butter (4 oz.) 1 cup granulated sugar (8 oz.) 1/2 cup milk 2 cups flour (8 oz.) 2 level tps. K. C. Baking Powder, whites 3

PREP. 1 tsp. vanilla extract.
K. C. Bran Muffins
2 1/2 cups uncooked bran 3 3/4 oz. 2 cups flour (8 oz.) 1 1/2 tps. salt 2 eggs 1 3/4 cups milk 3 1/2 level tps. K C Baking powder, 4 tpsps. sugar (2 oz.) 3 tpsps. melted fat (1 1/2 oz.)

Note: Permitting 1/4c bran to soak in the milk for 1 to 3 hours before adding the other ingredients, add greatly to its palatability. Bake 35 to 40 minutes at 350 to 375 degrees.

K. C. Baking Powder Biscuit
2 cups flour, 5 oz. 2 level tps. K C baking powder, 4 level tps. shortening (2 oz.) About 2-3 cup milk or water, 1-2 tsp. salt.

K. C. Doughnuts
3/4 cup granulated sugar (6 oz.) 1 cup sweet milk, 3 tpsps. melted butter (1 1/2 oz.) 5 cups flour (12 oz.) 1 tsp. mace, 1 tsp. salt, 2 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately. 2 level tps. K C baking powder.

CHILDREN SHOULD WORK FOR ALLOWANCES, EXPERT SAYS

LONDON (UP)—Children should earn their pocket-money, otherwise they will deteriorate in character, says Dr. Marie Carmichael Slopes, birth control pioneer.

Ever since he was four her own son, now 11, has had a "wages-book" which he signs when any payment is made. The book contains such items as:

"Cleaning white paint in drawing-room, 2d"; "Laying turf straight in garden, 4d"; "Chopping wood, 2d"; and "Felling a tree, 6d."

"The point is not that all help should be paid for," she said, "but that no payment should be made without some work being done in return."

SPEEDY WORKERS GET PRAISE FROM EXPERT

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (UP)—Those who have been called "erratic" because they do their work quickly, can do a little boasting.

Dr. Henry S. Gilbert, Harvard University psychologist, made experiments and discovered that speedy working persons showed more taste and originality in the quality of their work.

Dr. Gilbert put 25 through tests, having them make designs, condense passages of prose and poetry which was read aloud, write business letters and arrange pictures.

RENO, Nev. (UP)—Rustlers, using motor cars, are active again in Nevada.

These modern counterparts of the former bad men of the ranges are reported to be using fast motor trucks to slip out of various communities in the state to nearby ranches, kill several cattle and then return to their homes, usually to sell the beef to unscrupulous butchers.

The slain cattle are stripped of hides and then hidden under cover while the rustlers carry the carcasses into town.

Forsan Seniors Receive Diplomas
 Mr. L. L. Martin, superintendent, presented the Forsan seniors with their diplomas Wednesday evening before a large audience of friends and relatives. John Camp Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Adams of the Magnolia, gave the salutatory; and Aida Alston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Alston of the Continental, gave the valedictory address.

Minnie Lee Campbell, Maxine Thomson, Derris Sadler, Anita McDonald, B. O. Jones, John Camp Adams, Earl Adkins, Tommy Holloway, James Madding, James Thompson, Bobby Asbury and Lawrence Bee, Aida Alston and John Camp Adams each received scholarships.

Fifth and Sixth Grades Enjoy Picnic
 The fifth and sixth grades of Forsan enjoyed a picnic at the Big Spring city park Tuesday afternoon after school. Mmes: Kent, Barnett, Barber, Alf Wilmouth, Johnson, Erdham, Prescott, Shaw,

Sues Young Lord

London society gasped as love letters allegedly written by young Lord Prevaltoke to Angela Joyce (above), "Miss England" of 1930, were read during the latter's recent balm suit. (Associated Press Photo)

Tate, Patterson, and Dolan took the children over in their cars. The time was delightfully spent in playing outdoor games.

Mrs. Smiley Entertains Second Graders
 Mrs. T. D. Smiley, home room mother for the second graders, entertained them with a party in their school room. Various games were played and half the guests were given balloons for winning in one. Betty Jean Tucker received a bubble blower for hitting the center of a circle. Favors were tops.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to Mrs. Tucker, Billy Smiley, Dick Tucker, Irene Sarver, Wanda Nell Griffith, Bernice Streety, Duell Tucker, Vyrion Davis, Betty Jean Tucker, C. H. Short, Betty Mae and Tiny Hildreth, Hazelton Mungrove, Mary Frances Cowley, Buddy Norman, W. C. Filler, Helen Waldrum, and their teacher, Miss Turner.

Mrs. R. McKinley Honored
 Mrs. Jim Fulton honored Mrs. R. McKinley with a shower at the city hotel Tuesday afternoon. Refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served. The guests were: Mrs. Carl Ramsey, Bettilyn, Hale, Whisenant, John Noble, Jack Payne, Carl Madison, Retiff, Tennison, Ben Fulton, Hillyard, M. H. Davis, Lunceford.

Those sending presents: Mmes: Bob Kneer, Strand; C. H. Fleetwood, Drake, Kent, Wiles, S. J. Augspurger, Pete Cowley, Wash, T. E. Thompson, Florence Williams, D. R. Smith, Idella Alexander, Hood Williams, Myers and J. Sullivan.

Melba Dean Holt received a state honor and James Gardner a national honor at the music convention held at Abilene last week. They are both pupils of Mrs. H. D. Williams. Mrs. Williams visited in Abilene for several days following the convention.

SCHWAB PLANS MUSICAL SUMMER FOR ST. LOUIS
 ST. LOUIS, (UP)—Lawrence Schwab of New York, new director of the Municipal Opera, summer-time attraction to thousands in the midwest, is preparing to make St. Louis "the summer Broadway of the nation."

His casting plans for the dozen presentations to be made on the outdoor stage in Forest Park are being patterned after the manner of show production in New York. A new cast for each opera in Schwab's plan.

"In the three months during this summer," he said, "St. Louis will have a series of shows that New York waits years for."

The natural amphitheater in the park is being prepared for the opening of the season in June. A natural proscenium of trees will help to beautify stage settings.

COUPLE WEDS ON HOARDED PENNIES, GIVES JUDGE ONE
 ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O. (UP)—A Shadside, O., couple who saved their pennies to get married, gave Probate Judge Harry Albright a one-cent profit.

"We want a marriage license," said the groom, handing the Judge a bag of pennies.

Judge Albright counted 301 copers. A license costs $3.

"Oh, well, we were excited and miscounted. That's your profit and our loss; keep it," waved the groom.

BURROUGHS' VISIT AIDS DOCTORS IN HONOLULU
 HONOLULU, Hawaii (UP)—Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the Tarzan stories and comic strip provided business for Honolulu doctors when he arrived here for a vacation.

Inspired by his presence boys all over town began playing Tarzan. Flexing their youthful muscles, some of the youngsters tried to outdo Tarzan. Their efforts resulted in a fractured elbow for one boy, a cut head for another, a badly bruised body for a third. The total casualty list has not been tabulated since the first three accidents happened within 48 hours after the author's arrival.

Are you serving a MINUS MEAL?

Many wives, unknowingly, serve "minus meals." The food is good, and well cooked. But it has little or no "bulk"—needed to promote regular habits.

"Minus meals" frequently cause common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in the diet. Headaches, loss of appetite and dull, spiritless days too often follow.

Correct the "minus meal" by serving Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. Its gentle "bulk" does not break down in the body as much as the fiber in fruits and vegetables. So it is more effective. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly it is safer to use this natural food in place of patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If relief is not obtained, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN remains effective with continued use. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, waffles, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Wonderful News For JELLY MAKERS

SEE WHAT AMAZING NEW SURE-JELL DOES!

Gives two-thirds more jelly or jam... Perfect results with any fruit. Much better flavor and texture, too!

1 ONLY 1/2 MINUTE BOIL...
 for jellies; one minute for jams. Just think of the time you save! You can actually finish a whole batch of jam or jelly in less than 15 minutes after your fruit is prepared! That's one reason women everywhere are so delighted with this new powdered pectin product.

2 TWO-THIRDS MORE JELLY or jam... Because of this extremely short boil, none of the juice boils away. So you actually get two-thirds more jam or jelly... as much as 10 glasses from the only 6 glasses the old, "long-boil" way. What a saving in money!

3 PERFECT RESULTS with any fruit—no "boiled-down" taste!
 No fruit finer flavor, too... No more worry about failures. Sure-Jell eliminates uncertainty. With this wonderful new pectin product, all fruits jelly perfectly. The flavor is much finer, too. Short boiling retains all the real flavor of the ripe fruit—no "boiled-down" taste!

MONEY BACK OFFER
 Buy two packages of Sure-Jell. Use one. If it does not do all we claim for it, just take the other package back to your grocer. He will refund the full price of both packages. (Sure-Jell is a product of General Foods. You can buy it at any grocer's.)

ENEMY'S KISS

CHAPTER ONE THE HAIRLESS SKULL

ALISON REDE, brushing her teeth in very cold water, raised her head from the basin to listen. Night, in an empty house, is always liable to produce strange and alarming sounds, but surely that had been a footstep? It must be her father at last!

Her mouth was full of pink soap flavored with aecia nut, so she could not call out, but the flooding sense of sheer relief was wonderful; never had she been through such a nerve shaking experience. Rede was the most precise and of her father, usually so careful punctual of men, and he had al-

With the glass still in her hand, Alison stiffened. The muscles of her throat grew tight as she stood motionless, listening. Someone was coming up the stairs outside the bathroom, but that was not her father's brisk short, rather jerky tread—

Slow steps, stealthy, with a marked pause between each as though the person outside was afraid of being heard—

"Creak!" Then a rattle and a faint, sharp squeak. The girl stared into the looking glass above the basin, stared across her own shoulder, unable to move, paralyzed with fear.

The door was opening! Then she saw. Her mouth stretched wide to scream, as she spun around, but no sound came but a dull click, fast back in her throat. At the same instant she flung herself bodily against the door.

There was no key; she herself had seen all the house-keys hanging, tied with string, on a hook in the pantry; left hanging there, no doubt, by the last tenants. There was no furniture in the small tiled bathroom except a light stool and Alison, although tall, was very slight.

She was shaking so much that the door rattled as she pushed herself against it and she felt appallingly sick. She found herself wondering whether she could go on holding it against that thing which was trying to force the door open.

Thing: for the face which had showed for a moment in the door-

with the aid of her pocket torch she had managed to find a window near and with some difficulty get herself and her small attaché case through it into the pantry.

But thankful as she was to be under shelter, a hurried search of the house had failed to discover the main switch of the electric light.

By the pale beam of her small torch the empty house seemed strange and eerie. Waiting, expecting every moment to hear her father's car arrive, she had tried to keep her spirits up and to pretend that the whole affair was a vast joke.

To fill in time, she had unpacked her brush and sponge bag and had started to wash off some of the clinging dirt of Swis and French trains. But now, rinsing her mouth, she could afford to admit that she had been scared!

Creak . . . With the glass still in her hand, Alison stiffened. The muscles of her throat grew tight as she stood motionless, listening.

Thing: for the face which had showed for a moment in the door-to her that he was leaving London and was looking for a country place, yet it was totally unlike him to ask Alison to meet him at this lonely house at eleven at night, still more so to add "if I am late, wait there for me": for Robert been worse. The hired car which had brought her here from Warley Station was already halfway down the road before Alison had realized that the bell produced no answer. Dropping her way to the back she had grasped at last that the whole place was dark and empty.

Tired, cold, very wet and rather frightened, her first instinct had been to try and find some cottage near by. But it was late; no friendly light showed anywhere along the dark road; her father's telegram had been explicit—"wait there for me"—and if she went exploring she might miss him when he arrived.

At ten minutes to eleven on a pouring wet autumn night, it seemed silly to attempt to walk a matter of six miles back to the station. Soaked and shivering, she had waited for ten minutes in an open porch that gave her no protection from the driving rain. Then way had looked barely human. Skull-shaped and hairless, leaden-grey even to the lifeless eyes which had stared at her from deep hollows and the mouth which gaped at her with toothless gums, it had been like a corpse, and for a moment Alison's commonsense had wavered. She did not believe in ghosts but—

Creak!

That came from a distance. Was the creature going?

The pressure on the door had relaxed but the girl did not dare to yield an inch. Suppose it was waiting for her to do that? She wanted to scream yet felt that if she did the thing outside would know that she was frightened, might take heart.

She glanced at the window. It was shut and an old-fashioned Venetian blind with wooden slats hung over the curtainless panes. Below the window was a drop of twelve feet or more on to the macadamized road, for she had looked out, hoping to see the lights of her father's car, before she started to wash. But there was ivy on the wall and Alison Rede, eight-ten and a half, straight from school and fit, would have risked a scramble down the ivy.

What kept her squeezed against the door was not a fear of breaking her neck on the road but the thought that if she turned her back to get out of the window she would be momentarily helpless if the door should open; at the mercy of those lean, greyish-yellow claws if they came clutching at her from behind!

Even the bare thought made Alison's scalp tingle and little cold shivers run down her spine. For those hands had added the final touch of horror—one on the door, the other groping forward—hands without any nails. . . .

"I can't stand here all night!" she thought desperately. "Oh, if only father'd come!"

But though she strained her ears to catch the sound of a car coming along the road, there was nothing but a faint creak-creak within the house as though the thing outside was creeping away.

The sharp edge of the door-panel was cutting into her knee and the tense interval of silence played on her nerves. At one moment it seemed as though something were moving away along the passage, at the next she fancied that she could hear breathing just outside which changed a moment after to the scuffling of mice.

Dared she open the door, make a bolt for the safety of the open road?

But the thought of that capricious face waiting for her, perhaps, at dark turn of the passage daunted her courage, usually firm, and she shifted her weight to the other foot as she pressed hard against the door.

"Don't be a coward!" she scolded herself sternly. "There aren't any ghosts! It was a man, must have been a man. Probably some poor wretch of a tramp or something, looking for shelter from the rain and weary of his finding you here in an empty house! Take that stool and go on down and telephone to the police! Go on!"

But it was much easier to scold herself than to force her panic-stiffened limbs to act. Logical argument, generally a potent weapon which Alison used on herself with good effect, failed her. Another faint, more distant creak made her hurl her body freshly forward, pressing on the door. A tramp, she to her grimly, would not try to force his way in! Then suddenly a new wave of sick horror caught her just below the breastbone. The light inside the bathroom was fading! Her electric torch, lying on the glass shelf over the basin, had turned yellow—the battery was giving out! There are moments when the human mind works at amazing speed. Allison, in the second while the orange-glowing wire inside the torch dimmed from yellow to red, thought with the swiftness of light. While one part of her mind argued, smugly, that she was safer inside the bathroom, even in the dark, than in the passages beyond, another part of her brain knew with complete certainty that she could not do it.

Team Drops Out Softball Loop

Due to conflict with the camp baseball activities, the CCC softball team will drop out of the local league. They will, however, play through next Tuesday, which will give them our complete round on the league schedule. In other words they will have played each team in the league one game.

At a manager's meeting Thursday night it was decided that the open dates left by the CCC withdrawal would be reserved for the playing of postponed games. Several such games must be played soon to bring the schedule up to date and correct the standings.

SULLIVAN TO BAER A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

IV. CORBETT VS. FITZSIMMONS—1897

The solar plexus punch was born as Bob Fitzsimmons' freckled, spindly-legged, knocked out Jim Corbett in 14 rounds at Carson City, Nevada, to win the world's heavyweight championship March 17, 1897. Fitz, lanky Australian with tremendous punching power, chased Corbett for four years as the champion, following his triumph over John L. Sullivan, toured the world with a vaudeville troupe.

Corbett could no longer evade Fitz after the Cornishman knocked out Peter Maher in one round. In the title battle Corbett easily handled the challenger through the first nine rounds, then the tide started to turn. Fitz was down for a count in the sixth. But he came back, and in the 21st knocked out Corbett with the punch that added a new weapon to ring armament. Shifting suddenly, after feinting with his left, Ruby Robert buried the fist deep in Corbett's body just below the juncture of the ribs in the chest. Corbett went down gasping, the breath knocked from his lungs, and though he claimed foul, he was counted out after the first recorded solar plexus punch in ring history.

Tennis Has Its Vines, But So Has Golf—Or Soon Will Have!

DETROIT (UP)—The name of Vines, long famous in the tennis world, soon may cut quite a figure in another sports field.

Edward Vines, long and lanky and with a likable boyish personality, hopes some day to achieve as much fame in golf as his brother Edworth has in tennis. Frank Williams, professional at the Bobo-link Country club, believes Eddie has a good chance of becoming a top ranking golfer.

Williams should knock a golfer when he sees one. Back in 1924, Williams took a 16-year-old girl in hand and taught her golf fundamentals and corrected faults in her game. Today she is the greatest woman golfer in the country. Her name is Virginia Van Wie.

Young Vines followed Williams all the way from Pasadena, Calif., to continue his golf education. Eddie is just 18, stands 6 feet 2 1/2 inches, and weighs 185 pounds. He was a four-letter winner at Pasadena high school, starring in football, playing center on the basketball team, swimming backstroke on the tank team and putting the shot for the track squad.

CHICAGO (UP)—The team that keep its men off the injured list will win the American league pennant this year—that's Joe Cronin's claim.

"It's all a question of who keeps from getting injured," the Boston Red Sox pilot says. "All the clubs have the same problem. There is no reserve strength in the league."

"Another requisite, says Cronin, is for a club to get a winning streak going and keep it going."

Cronin, who once led the Washington Senators to a title, is by no means sure Chicago's White Sox aren't going to cause a lot of real trouble.

"If they should happen to be the club to miss the injuries, they could finish up there," he says. "But take out Sewell, Simmons, Appleby or Bourne and there would be a lot of difference."

C.C.C. Teams To Abilene

Brownwood, Big Spring To Stage Boxing Bouts; Play Baseball

ABILENE, (Sp.)—CCC companies from Brownwood and Big Spring will play a baseball game here Saturday at 3 p. m. on the North 13th street field. Both teams are members of the West Texas CCC league.

Members of the boxing teams from the two detachments will appear in matches at the West Texas Athletic association open air arena Saturday night. There will be no admission charge for either the game or the boxing bouts.

The following baseball players from the Big Spring camp will make the trip: Greer, Young, Powell, Garza, Mendez, Statler, Singleton, Rhoton, Williams, Barnett, Morgan, Camp, King, Moody, Fonder and Kemp.

The five Big Spring boxers and weights: Knox, 177; Garza, 145; Powell, 155; Reed, 129; Corning, 145.

BUSINESS ON THE WING

The importance of scheduled air transport service to any city is immeasurable in the additional facilities and service it affords the residents. Not only is the widening of its trading area, but in the opportunities for pleasure and educational travel. American Airlines links the city of Big Spring by air with the entire length and breadth of the United States; with 34 countries in the western hemisphere, and shortly there will be a connection with the Orient!

The adverse economic situation of the past few years failed to block achievement of commercial air lines. On the contrary, stimulated by the rapid growth of travel, the lines forged ahead in strides never before achieved in any industry. New, luxurious fast planes were developed, which gave the American air passenger flying equipment superior to any in the world. As a matter of fact, air lines in the United States are carrying mail, passengers, and express on an average of forty miles per hour faster than air lines in Europe, and American air fares are the lowest in the world for the highest type of service.

American business men and women are availing themselves of air transportation in greater numbers all the time. American business has found itself up—up in airplanes. The slogan of American business has always been that Time is Money, and why waste it. Time en route is usually time lost, or at best time marked, and the airplane so drastically reduces time schedules that good business judgment simply demands its use.

For example, from Hartford, Connecticut, to Memphis, Tennessee, takes approximately 35 hours by surface transportation. American Airlines takes the passenger from Hartford to Memphis via Newark, in seven hours—exactly one fifth of the time—and this is only one example of the superiority of air travel.

Live communities not only travel by air but they ship by air. Air express is becoming an increasingly important item in the economic structure of American business. Heavy gains in air express were registered in 1934, and the first three months of 1935 indicate there will be further advances this year. Newspapers, news photo services, and news relay companies, to whom time is money in a more apparent manner than to many other businesses, are among the largest users of air express. They have speeded up their own services an appreciable extent by its constant use.

The vacationist may achieve his dream more readily by flying, not only because he can travel greater distances and get more out of his vacation, but because flying itself is a joy. Modern airplanes are luxurious and quiet, and the ever-changing terrain, fascinating to watch from above, especially for the first-trip passenger. Seated air travelers read, or drowse in the comfortable adjustable chairs high above the dust and grime of the earth.

The time is here when a city of any size which has not a good airport and scheduled air mail, passenger and express service, will find that it is going to be left behind in the upward trend business throughout the country is experiencing.

Most of the prophecies made five or six years ago, and which were thought excessive at the time, regarding aviation, have all come true, and American Airlines Inc. have contributed a great deal to their realization. The company not only developed the first sleeper plane to be put into scheduled service, but also has developed the fastest transport plane in the world—the VULTURE, a ten place, single engine plane which holds the transcontinental passenger plane speed record of 11 hours and 34 minutes from Los Angeles to New York.

American Airlines, the coast to coast, Canada to the Gulf air transport system, has assumed a definite place in this community and is unquestionably an asset without which our commercial life would be seriously retarded.

IMAGINE YOURSELF on an unfamiliar highway at night in the country. You want to go to Allison. You come to a forked road. No signs! Which way? You turn left and come to a cross-road. No signs. You turn right. You come to a town. It proves to be Liberty. You go back to the fork and turn left. A mile or so farther on you come to another cross-road. A sign pointing right says "Allison three miles."

But for that sign-post you might have traveled miles—spent hours, and come short of your destination.

Imagine yourself in need of hosiery, clothing, breakfast foods or anything else, and this newspaper without advertisements!

Advertisements are sign-post. They are information. They save you from wandering aimlessly from store to store. They keep you advised of the newest products;—of the latest values. They save you time, and put greater buying power in your dollars. They assure you of quality and service in merchandise, for only honest goods honestly advertised can stand the spotlight of publicity.
