Eaglettes Winners Of Own Track Meet

The Eldorado Eaglettes track team outscored the nearest opponent by 33 points to win their own track meet on March 15, 1974. The McCamey girls were second with 93 points while Iraan had 78.

The Eldorado cause was helped by the relay wins in all three of the relays. However, many points were added in the individual events by various members of the track team.

During the course of the event Sarah Valentine of McCamey broke two records. She broke the triple jump record that she set in 1973 and placed the new mark at 34' 2 3/4". She also reset the broad jump record that was set in 1968 by Linda Derrick of Eldorado. The new record is 16' 8 1/2". Peggy Louwein of Sanderson also set two new records. She set a new record time of 11.4 in the 100 yard dash and 25.5 in the 220 yard dash. M. Burns of Ballinger broke the 440 yard dash record and set the new time of 62.7. The old record was held by Leanne Waddell of McCamey. Bambi Mims broke the hurdle record held by Martha Slaughter of Menard. The Junction girls set the new record at 11.4 seconds.

The Eaglettes travel to Big Spring this week to run in the Permian Basin Belle Relays.

Further Reports On Last Week's Rainfall

By the time this is read it will have been about a week since this county has had any rain, so the figures we give below are all about a week old.

From the people called Monday only six reported totals of over one inch for the two rains last week.

One was Lester Nixon for 2 inches.

James Williams farm, 1.60.
R. D. Johnson for a total of 1.50.
Parker Bros. estate place, 1.40.
Floyd West for over 1.00 inch.
Aaron Steward for 1.40.

After that the next highest were: City of Eldorado, 9-tenths.
Parker Bros. Ranch, 9-tenths.
Truett Stanford, 9-tenths.

Reynolds community apparently received very little moisture. Northern Natural gas plant guessed about 4-tenths, and Billy Jack Reynolds could only claim a sprinkle.

Two others were the A. A. Baugh ranch with a disappointing report of only a quarter of an inch.

And Mrs. Jimmy West with only 3-tenths. But she was happy to report that Floyd had gotten an inch.

DEAR FRIENDS:

We have not moved. Just discovered the rumor is around and we want our many friends to know it isn't correct. Harry's job with Atlantic-Richfield is at Big Lake (he worked in New Mexico three weeks in Sept. 1972 and three weeks in Jan. 1973). We still live at 105 Brooks Ave., Eldorado, Tex., and we plan to retire here. We appreciate your concern and value your friendship.

Schrewd Consumers Have fewer Problems

by John L. Hill, Attorney General

Austin, Tex.—The best way to reduce consumer problems in the marketplace is to have a state full of knowledgeable, shrewd consumers.

My office's Consumer Protection attorneys tell me that people who are on guard against possible deception and who are determined to get the most for their shopping dollar are less likely to fall prey to unscrupulous business tactics.

Consumer problems that are headed off before they develop could save Texas citizens money and grief and could save the state time and money by settling more cases before they reach the courtroom.

Many cases now are settled before they reach the litigation stage by our Consumer Protection Division staff's efforts to improve communication between consumers and merchants.

It has been said that consumer protection is essentially negative, while consumer education is essentially positive. I believe the two are intertwined, and both are needed to adequately safeguard the rights of consumers.

With our tough Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act, the Attorney General's office now has the tools needed to fulfill our obligation as the chief protector of the consumer.

District and county attorneys have responsibility under the act, too. And an even more important and innovative feature of the Act means private attorneys who represent individual consumers can collect triple damages for them, plus attorney's fees and court costs.

New trends are now developing in consumer education that we feel will complement the consumer's rights under the law.

One example is the new Consumer Information Center set up in Fort Worth by several local consumer interest groups and our Consumer Protection Division.

But adults are not the only ones interested in consumer information. School children of all ages are beginning to investigate the "how to's" of consumerism.

Last session, the Texas Legislature voted to allow the Texas Education Agency to develop programs of study in consumer education. The TEA is authorized to begin classes as early as 1975. Even now, some math and home economics courses feature consumer-related material.

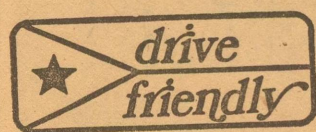

In some states, even children at the pre-kindergarten age are learning how to shop wisely. In classes that deal with items of great interest to children (such as toys, cookies, and punch), young consumers learn that a small bag of cookies may cost them more per cookie than a larger bag.

Older students may be figuring whether it's less expensive to buy or rent ski equipment for vacations or learning what to look for when purchasing a product or service.

All of these efforts should result in a new generation of alert, informed consumers who are aware of their legal rights.

We feel this will make the business climate in Texas better not only for the consumer, but for that large majority of businessmen who are honest and conscientious.

For assistance with a consumer problem, call my Consumer Protection Division, your local county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Schleicher Draws Wildcat

Lamar Properties, Abilene, will drill a 2,000-foot wildcat in southeast Schleicher county, 11 miles southwest of Fort McKavett and five miles south-southwest of the depleted Tillery, Southwest (Strawn gas) field. It is the No. 1 D. C. O. Wilson.

Location is 1,430 feet from the south and 2,510 feet from the west lines of 10-10-V14 Neuendorf, Abstract 534.

It is also 1,500 feet east-northeast of a 5,410-foot Ellenburger failure, abandoned Nov. 9, 1952.

I H Hearings Set In Abilene, San Angelo

Austin, Tex.—A series of informal meetings to discuss the possibility of extending Interstate Highway 27 southward from Lubbock has been scheduled in six West Texas cities by the Texas Highway Department.

Meetings have recently been held at Lubbock, Lamesa, Big Spring, and Snyder. The last two meetings presently scheduled are as follows: Abilene, 7:00 p.m., March 22, Abilene Civic Center; San Angelo, 7:00 p.m., March 27, City Auditorium.

The IH 27 extension is one of 10 routes nationwide for which Congress directed feasibility and necessity studies as part of the 1973 Federal Aid Highway Act. Two other studies will include routes that cross parts of the Texas Panhandle.

The IH 27 meetings, as part of the study, will provide citizens with the opportunity to discuss and make recommendations regarding the feasibility, necessity and possible routing of a route extending from Lubbock or vicinity southward to IH 20 and IH 10.

Mr. Phil Wilson, Engineer-Director of the Highway Department's Planning and Research Division in Austin, stressed the importance of the meetings.

This study could be most important to the future transportation network of West Texas, Wilson said. All interested persons or organizations should make every effort to attend and participate in one of these last two meetings.

SIX FLAGS HEADS LIST

THE DALLAS/FORT WORTH METROPLEX GETS IT ALL (CLOSELY) TOGETHER

Arlington, Texas—In this year of the "energy crunch" vacation planners are searching for destinations where there's a lot to see and do with a minimum of driving.

The answer for thousands of vacationers is the Dallas/Fort Worth region, with one of the most compact and exciting recreation complexes in the country.

The two cities are only thirty miles apart, and the area between the metro centers boasts millions of dollars worth of entertainment facilities.

The hub of the family fun complex is SIX FLAGS Over Texas, the sprawling theme park located in Arlington, midway between the two cities.

A trip to SIX FLAGS tops the "must" list for those who choose the region as their summer destination. A visit to the big park will fill a twelve-hour day. SIX FLAGS boasts more than 95 rides, shows and other attractions spread over 145 lavishly landscaped acres. Since its opening in 1961, SIX FLAGS Over Texas has provided fun and relaxation for nearly 22,500,000 visitors from throughout the world.

The facility, staffed by more than 1,700 young hosts and hostesses, is open weekends in the spring and fall and daily in the summer.

Attractions range from thrill-a-minute rides like the 55 mph Big Bend to glittering shows. The largest of the shows, a full-scale musical called "Great To Be Here," features a cast of fourteen and a fourteen-piece orchestra.

SIX FLAGS also features big name entertainers in special concert performances at various times during the season.

Less than a mile from SIX FLAGS is the Seven Seas marine life park. It's the largest inland facility of its kind in the world.

At Seven Seas visitors can see a performing killer whale, dolphins, sea lions and other creatures of the deep. There's also an exciting underwater show and you can watch skilled divers as they leap from the rigging of a full-size sailing ship.

Just three miles down the Dallas/Fort Worth Turnpike is Lion Country Safari. Your car becomes your "cage" as you drive through Lion Country's huge animal preserve.

Exotic creatures from the plains of Africa roam freely around your car. Your windshield may be nuzzled by a lion, elephant, giraffe, rhino, cheetah or any of dozens of other species.

Lion Country Safari also features an entertainment area where you can pet small animals or enjoy any of several unusual rides.

Located in the same, general area are the Southwestern Historical Wax Museum and a number of other "walk through" attractions including collections of antique vehicles.

In Dallas, vacationers can visit Fair Park, home of the Texas State Fair. Numerous year-round museums and other attractions dot the grounds.

Dallas' famous shops, restaurants and night spots make a trip to "Big D" a memorable journey.

In Fort Worth, visitors discover a wealth of both fun and culture. That city's complex of art museums has become known as "The Acropolis of the Southwest." Some of the world's most famous works of art can be seen during a walking tour of the three, specialized art museums clustered around the Will Rogers Memorial Center.

For sports fans there's also much to see and do. Depending on the season, visitors can take in a major league baseball game at Arlington Stadium, home of the American League's Texas Rangers or watch the Dallas Cowboys in NFL football action at Irving's Texas Stadium.

At nearby Mansfield a weekly, indoor rodeo is staged.

For golfers there are numerous courses throughout the area. One, Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth, is the site of one of the PGA's new "super tournaments" each May.

For water sports fans and fishermen the region is an ideal destination, with major lakes located within minutes of the metro areas.

The new Dallas/Fort Worth Airport, opened in January, is a tourist attraction in itself. The huge facility, located midway between the two cities, covers some 17,500 acres of land. It's slightly larger than Manhattan Island.

For those taking "fly-drive" vacations, the futuristic aviation center is an impressive first stop. It's the Jet Age gateway to one of the nation's most exciting and interesting vacation destinations.

Middle American Indians try to cure the effects of the evil eye by rubbing the victim with an egg and burying it under a stream. It seems as effective as anything else!

There was once a Northern European belief that it was unlucky to meet an animal while on a journey. No doubt it was even more unlucky if the beast ate you!

In Bohemia, hot oil of camomile is dropped into the ears to cure toothache. No doubt the earache takes the patient's mind off his teeth!

The referendum and election will be held by mail ballot which will be provided to all eligible voters not later than 15 days prior to the election. Ballots must be mailed to the polling place at Sherman, Texas before midnight on the date of the election.

Any person within this state engaged in the business of producing, or causing to be produced slaughter hogs for commercial purposes is eligible to vote, including owners of farms and their tenants and sharecroppers, if such person would be required to pay the assessment proposed.

Any person qualified to vote at the referendum may place his name in nomination for membership on the proposed commodity producers board by application to the above organization signed by himself and at least ten other persons eligible to vote in the referendum. Such applications must be filed at least 30 days prior to the election date.

Any person qualified to vote who does not receive a ballot prior to April 30, 1974 may obtain one at his local County Agent's Office.

Baling Wire Shortage Expected To Be More Severe This Year

Kansas City, Mo.—Farmers who had trouble finding baling wire for their hay harvest last year are in for some bad news: the baling wire shortage is expected to be even worse this year.

The U. S. has only four baling wire producers, which partly explains the shortage. Several years ago there were 11 producers, but in the fierce competition with foreign mills, seven of them closed. And now even the foreign suppliers have retreated because of their own price increases and because of strong demand for steel on their shores.

To make matters worse, baling wire is not a big profit maker — and hasn't been compared with other fabricated steel products. Because of this, one major producer halted production of baling wire in October of 1973. That company appealed to the Cost of Living Council for an exempted price increase, and last week the Council agreed to grant some relief. Presumably, production for that major producer will be resumed soon, but the four-month shutdown is bound to be felt by farmers for it will represent a 15% reduction in industry shipments during the coming season.

Additionally, of the 85,000 or more tons of baling shipped during 1973, some 20,000 tons of it was inventory that had been produced the year before. This year there is no inventory. "We don't have a box on the floor," says William O. Buffe, manager of merchant wire products at Armo Steel's Kansas City Works. "Everything we make goes onto a truck. I don't think a box stays here more than seven or eight hours, if that," he added.

Armo hopes this year's shipments will equal those of 1973. "It won't be easy with no inventory," says Buffe, "but we're asking" for all the steel we can get. "If we're lucky on repairs and maintenance, if we're lucky on weather and fuel availability, we might make it. But I think we ought to be honest with the farmers now. It's going to be mighty tight—tighter than last year." The company sets no relief in production until at least a year from now.

Armo stated that in the four large hay-producing states—Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska—it will ship a disproportionately larger share of its baling wire production according to harvest time. The earliest large harvest usually begins in Texas in March.

Twine is still being used in some balers, but its price is higher than domestically produced wire and it often breaks on large bales during truck transport. Therefore, interstate truckers require wirebound bales. A few farmers stack their hay and bring cattle to the stack for feeding, but for the majority this is not practical—the distances and costs are just too great. Others buy wire on the black market for up to three times the going price.

The reason there are no baling wire inventories, of course, is that farmers have been buying ahead in anticipation of the seasonal shortage. Possibly that hedge-buying practice will offer some relief later on. But it isn't expected to get farmers through this season.

What about expansion programs to increase domestic capacity?

"There's not much hope for that," says on industry spokesman, echoing a fear that foreign suppliers could return with substantial price cuts if their own domestic markets soften. "We lost 70% of our baling wire producers the last time that happened," he states.

"Legislation to protect domestic producers would go far to encourage expanded production."

Armo's Buffe doesn't know where the answer lies. "Our sympathies are with the farmer," he states, "because he is catching the brunt of this problem. We are producing at full capacity, and we are trying to distribute in such a way that we get the most wire to the farmers who need it the worst—and it isn't easy to do."

Market Report

College Station, Tex.—Red meat prices are leveling off this week, one authority reports.

"Consumers can save 6 to 10% a week on food costs—if they'll study meat ads and build menus around the specials, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, predicted.

"Look for best beef values on arm and blade pot roasts and steaks, ground beef, round steaks and roasts.

"Best pork values generally appear on hams, picnics, shoulder roasts and steaks, along with end-cut loin roasts and chops."

Mrs. Clyatt cited fryer chickens as "the food budget balancer for many families," noting that they are bargains in comparison with some other popular protein foods. She advised shoppers to check special prices on chicken hens, turkey and turkey parts.

"Egg prices are generally unchanged, with supplies ample in all but small-size eggs. Grade A, large-size eggs offer the best combination of quality and economy.

"During the Lenten season, fresh fish specials will be more numerous, and frozen packs are in good supply, while canned tuna and salmon will be featured in some stores."

Fresh fruit and vegetables in good supply at the most economical prices include grapefruit, oranges, apples, bananas, pineapples and tangelos.

Also, head lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, rutabagas, acorn squash, mustard greens, collards, turnips and greens.

Consumer Watchwords: If you're high on natural foods, milk is an ideal companion.

To stretch the day's protein, team milk with fruit-in-hand, crisp apples, mellow pears or bananas. Also, you can add a handful of nuts to the fruit.

Krueger Wants More Support For Sr. Citizens

Speaking to a group of senior citizens in San Antonio at the Retired Senior Volunteer Program last Thursday, congressional candidate Bob Krueger announced his support for two inaugural programs that will aid retired persons living on a fixed income.

"As we move in this world of ever-faster change, we must not forget those who passed on to us the land and traditions we value," said Krueger.

Cost-of-living raises for retired persons living on a fixed income, such as social security, was one of the programs the congressional hopeful outlined. Another program that Krueger announced his support for was more adequate medical care for the elderly.

"Our older citizens are most hurt by inflation and the rising cost of living," Krueger explained. "Congress must work to see that our citizens who have already put in their working years for this country maintain their dignity and self-respect once they no longer hold regular jobs."

The Desana Corp. and R. M. Wright, Midland, No. 1 Baugh, in 7-M-GH&SA, Schleicher County wildcat, one location south of the marginal one-well Baugh (Strawn lime) field and 6.3 miles northeast of Eldorado, flowed to tanks an unreported time, making 12.5 barrels of oil and 67 barrels of water.

Flow was through a 24/64-inch choke and perforations at 5,770-75 feet. Testing continued.

The Baugh opener, Merit Oil Co., San Angelo, (formerly Ohio Oil Co.) No. 1 Baugh, was finalized May 28, 1949 to pump 49.8 barrels of 39.8 gravity oil, plus 80% water through perforations at 5,790-800 feet. It was drilled to 6,700 feet and plugged back to 5,812 feet.

ENGINEERING FOR A BETTER WORLD

NEW ENERGY SOURCE: MUNICIPAL REFUSE

You are sitting at home watching television and your spouse reminds you that it is time to take out the garbage. You grumble about this thankless job once again. However, it might not seem such a bother if you were to realize that this same garbage might help to provide the electricity that would keep your television running.

Several situations are currently coming to the surface. First, Americans are using more and more electricity. Secondly, fossil fuels such as oil, coal, and gas are becoming scarce. As a result of these two factors, engineers are working to find new sources of energy. At the same time, municipalities are finding it increasingly more difficult to find new places to dispose of the refuse they collect on a daily basis without causing environmental problems. To draw together all of these problems to the common good, perhaps we could somehow use the refuse to produce energy. Is this idea the dream of a science fiction writer? No! In fact, such operations have existed in Europe for over twenty years. Recently there have been several efforts to adopt this principle in the United States.

The process is simple. Refuse is burned to produce steam. This steam can then turn generators that will manufacture electricity. The refuse is burned at very high temperatures so there is no odor and an air cleaning system prevents any significant smoke pollution. Glass and metal can be removed for recycling. After burning, sterile ash is left that can make a high-grade road material. Besides producing a useful product, energy, this use of refuse removes the need for unsightly dumps that sometimes pollute our water supply.

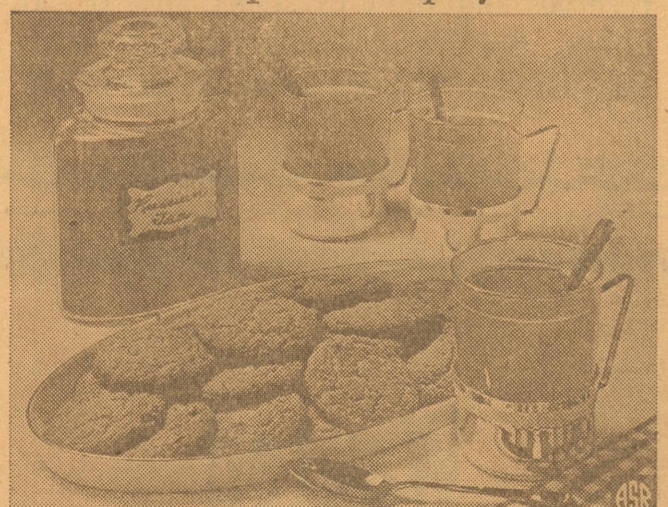

There are several different methods of burning the collected refuse. One plant, currently under construction near Boston, burns refuse without the need of additional fuels. Another method, already being used in St. Louis, uses a mixture of refuse and coal in its burners.

Estimates of effectiveness vary. One expert has claimed that up to 20% of New York City's electricity needs could be met by using this process with the amount of refuse collected daily by the metropolis. Even the lowest figures indicate that if all the refuse collected in the U.S. were used in producing energy, 290 million barrels of oil could be saved yearly. This equals about 2/3 of our former direct imports from Arab countries.

The need to become self-sufficient in energy production is becoming readily apparent. This will require large scale increases in research and development in order to find new and better sources of energy as well as marked increases in recycling of our present precious resources. The concept of burning refuse is just one of many possible alternatives. The Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and six other engineering societies have urged the passage of legislation to create a federal Energy Research and Development Administration. Their statement noted that "governmental attention must be devoted to areas of research and development which have heretofore been ignored."

Shop For Insurance; Cost Not Best Guide

Insurance for the home and auto are critical purchases. Consumers should select their insurance and their agent as carefully as they select their home or car.

Frequently, consumers believe they can shop for insurance on the basis of cost alone. They think they can get a bargain with the lowest priced policy. This is a dangerous assumption and can be costly at the time of claim, according to the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau.

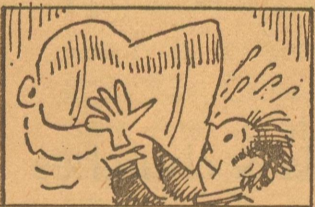

Consumers should be aware that the cost of insurance can reflect the scope of coverage offered by the policy. A rule of thumb that can be applied is that the wider the coverage the policy provides, the higher the price, but the wider coverage can be purchased often for just a few additional dollars. Comparison shopping for insurance should be done on the basis of coverage and service not price.

Probably the next most important consideration in buying insurance should be the agent himself and the service he can provide the consumer.

On selecting an agent, the following should be kept in mind. The "independent" insurance agent is a local independent businessman who represents several strong, reliable companies. He is not employed by any of them. The "exclusive" agent or "direct writer" is employed by one company and represents that company only.

By representing several companies, the independent insurance agent has the flexibility to place insurance with the company whose policy is best suited to the client's needs. As a local businessman, he is aware of local conditions and is available to his clients at all times. He provides personal service, especially in expediting claims settlements.

It is at the time of a claim that insurance proves its worth.

Since last year's crops were harvested farmers in the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District have been preparing their land for the 1974 crop. No doubt each farmer would like to see a good productive year in 1974. Dry land farmers will again be dependent on rainfall to supply needed moisture for good crop yields. Irrigation farmers will again have the advantage of having water to meet the needs of their crops. However, having water to meet the needs of crops does not always guarantee good yield or net profits.

The increased cost of producing a crop make it more important that each operation essential for good crop yields be carried out as efficiently and economically as possible. Unfortunately, these needed items don't just happen. They are brought about by wise planning and execution of that plan.

Efficiency and economy should begin at the irrigation well or other source of supply. The best use of all available irrigation water is essential if maximum production and good net income is the goal. Getting all the water from well to field is one of the essential items in attaining best use of irrigation water. Pipelines for delivery of water has proved most effective and popular in the District. Most pipeline used is portable line and some underground lines have been installed. The use of these pipelines has reduced the water loss that occurred in the earthen ditches from the 30% to 50% loss to very minor loss of water in the delivery system. Water pumped but not used means dollars lost.

Land that is irrigated must be suitable for irrigation and the crops to be grown. As a rule the best land on the farm is usually the land most suited for irrigation.

Austin, Texas.—Organized labor took a look at both major Democratic candidates for governor, found them friendly, and endorsed neither.

The AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, at its convention here, declined to choose between Governor Dolph Briscoe and Frances (Sissy) Farenthold.

To do so, said AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard, would risk a split in the ranks. Strengthening of the Democratic party in preparation for 1976 elections should be labor's "overriding concern," according to the formal COPE report.

COPE has declined to take a stand in the race for speaker of the House of Representatives, where two friendly candidates, Representative Carl Parker of Port Arthur and Representative Fred Head of Troup, are among the top prospects. A later meeting was authorized to take another look at the race.

These statewide candidates did receive COPE endorsements:

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Atty. Gen. John Hill, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, State Treasurer Jesse James and Bob Bullock for Comptroller.

Of the group receiving labor's blessing, only Bullock has more than token opposition.

Looking toward their top goal of electing a Democratic president in 1976 and a veto-proof congress in 1974, COPE signaled strong participation by union members in party convention activities this spring.

At a meeting in Amarillo, the Railroad Commission ordered a 100% oil production allowable for April—25th straight month of maximum production.

Some top oil industry officials blamed the energy crisis on government tampering with the market through excessive regulation. They called for a free market system, and said the industry is capable of supplying more energy than any other nation at "attractive prices."

The April allowable totals 3.9 million barrels a day, an increase of 106,309 from March. Crude production a year ago was 3.5 million barrels daily. It has now declined to 3,445,000, and crude stocks are nearly 2.9 million barrels lower than in 1973 at the same time.

Convention May Recess

The slow-plodding Constitutional Convention is expected to take a prolonged recess about the end of the month or soon after April 1 at the latest.

Delegates are convinced there is no way to meet the 90-day completion schedule originally laid down by Convention President Price Daniel Jr. They will take off until after the primaries and check back in to try and finish up the job later.

Tax Study Done In

An intensive statewide school property tax value study requested by the governor, in effect, has fallen through.

The Legislative Property Tax Committee gave up hope for the study and voted to take up with two firms' proposals for studies in only 35 districts, due to money problems.

A committee staff member estimated cost of a statewide study at $8 million, and the LPTC has just $350,000 on hand.

The State Supreme Court upheld a 1973 statute which requires bail bondsmen in major counties to put up cash bond and property deposits.

Attorney General's Opinions

Texas laws requiring premium pay for women working overtime and limiting their hours are invalid, Attorney General Hill held in a new opinion.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A majority vote is required in local option liquor elections. Contributions to defray Southern Governors Conference expenses are not subject to the campaign reporting act. Neither do contributors have to register as lobbyists.

An officer in a state agency appointed "at the pleasure of" the governor or other authority is not one appointed for a term specified by the constitution or a statute of the state.

Funding Of Schools Up

Texas foundation public school program funding is expected to reach nearly $1.3 billion by the end of this year, and total school operating costs will be an estimated $2.7 billion, the State Board of Education estimates.

Local school districts' share of the foundation school program for 1974-75 is expected to be about $296.9 million

The local fund assignment represents 20% of the 1973-74 foundation school program cost plus allowed credits.

Short Snorts

Governor Briscoe appointed Norman Moser of DeKalb to the Texas Animal Health Commission, succeeding Joe Finley of Encinal.

Buddy F. Kirk, Houston real estate salesman, dropped out of the state comptroller's race, leaving it a two-man contest.

Hugh Edburg, former no. 2 aide to Comptroller Robert S. Calvert, and a candidate for his boss's job, is predicting no new tax bill in 1975. (Calvert is home from the hospital—resting after a minor operation.)

Rep. Henry Sanchez of Brownsville is giving up his salary as a Constitutional Convention delegate until after the May 4 primary to help keep his political race (for state senate) free of revision work.

Rep. Dale Kubiak of Rockdale is urging a special legislative session to give all local school districts a $40 per student emergency allotment to meet crisis inflationary conditions.

Governor Briscoe has requested the Federal Energy Office to increase fuel allocations for the Permian Basin area of West Texas.

The fifth annual Republic of Texas Chilympiad will be held in San Marcos September 19-23 to pick the chili-cooking champ.

Fun With Flowers This Summer

Flower growing is fun! It is a particularly challenging hobby for garden club members who raise flowers to exhibit in shows. It is not difficult to produce really fine specimens if a few simple rules or practices are followed.

Begin now to make plans for a beautiful flower garden next summer. Look through the garden magazines and seed catalogs for the colors and varieties you want. You can spend many delightful evenings admiring the colored pictures and reading about all the exciting new and old flowers available for your garden.

For prize-winning varieties, select only the best seeds or plants when making your purchases. The flower must be a fine showy type to win in competition with other new introductions of modern plant breeders. Some of the new varieties may be a bit expensive, but the extra investment will pay high dividends in satisfaction and blue ribbons. To determine the best selections for your area secure suggestions from successful local gardeners, and visit flower shows where you can record the names of the prize-winning specimens. New and improved varieties are described in garden magazines and in catalogs of nurseries and seedsmen.

A fertile, well-drained soil is needed to promote healthy vigorous growth. Sandy soils dry out quickly and are quite infertile, if you have such soils in your garden, you will need to irrigate during dry weather and apply several applications of fertilizer as side-dressing during the growing season. If you have a heavy clay soil in your garden, it may be poorly drained and be difficult to work when wet. Such soils will be improved by the addition of organic matter to make them lighter. The addition of organic matter will also aid sandy soils in retaining moisture.

Spring's The Time To Prepare For Colorful Fall Chrysanthemums

Chrysanthemums in the spring? Well, they're certainly not blooming yet, but if you expect flowers this fall you'd better give them some attention now.

Garden mums don't bloom until fall because they're light sensitive. When days get shorter and nights longer in September, they cease to grow vegetatively and begin flowering. Right now, when the situation is just about the opposite, you should give some thought to clump division, new plantings and general plant care.

If you have established beds and haven't divided the clumps for two years, thin them now. Mums divided regularly are more vigorous. Divisions may be used to expand beds or start new ones.

Buy new or different varieties as small, established plants from your local garden center for planting from April to late May.

Spring planting allows you to groom and care for the plants thru the summer in order to obtain a stronger plant and more flowers in the fall. Plants in full bud may be purchased and planted in early fall, in case you have a small garden or you don't care to work with them all summer.

Provide a Good Foundation For Landscape Plants

Don't set a $10 plant in a two-bit hole and expect it to grow. Plants will perform only as good as the foundation provided.

All home gardeners and commercial nurserymen prepare a hole in the ground, of one sort or another, to plant seed, bulbs, ornamental plants, and fruit and nut trees.

Perhaps more mistakes are made when planting trees, shrubs and woody vines than at any other time. Here are some simple but important guidelines to follow when preparing the hole:

—Dig the hole large enough to accommodate the root system with room to spare on all sides.

—Dig the hole deep enough so that the plants can be planted as deep as they stood in the nursery row. Observe the soil mark near the base of the stem. If in doubt, it is better to plant too shallow than too deep.

—Set balled-and-burlapped and potted stock so that the ball surrounding the roots will be covered with about one inch of soil when the hole is filled.

—If you have good topsoil, place it in one pile and the subsoil in another when digging the hole. Place the topsoil around the roots when filling the hole.

—When your topsoil is not good, you may wish to bring in other soil and mix it with equal parts of well-decomposed compost or peat moss. As you fill the hole, firm the soil well around the roots with your hands and feet. Water the plant thoroughly, stake if needed, prune back the top if bare-rooted, and you will usually have a strong healthy plant.

Careful Planning . . .

A Necessity In Small Yards

If you live in a town or city, your garden and lawn areas may be limited in size so that you can not plant all the trees, shrubs, and flowers you would like, so make every bit of space count.

Even in a small yard, you can make use of a small tree. A flowering crabapple, redbud or evergreen yaupon might be used in the center of the patio area or at the edge of your garden. Plant the tree on the southern or western side of your lawn so it will provide some shade during the summer months as well as delightful patterns of shadows on the lawn.

For summer patio color, you might want to plant bulbs, flowering annuals and perennials to provide a sequence of bloom from early spring until late fall. Daffodils, narcissi, tulips, forsythia, yacynth, and other spring blooming plants will give color in the early spring months.

Try annuals like petunias, zinnias, and marigolds, and perennials such as gaillardia, perennial alyssum, or even woody shrubs such as the rose for mid-season color. For flowers late in the fall, plant chrysanthemums, dahlias, autumn crocus, and tuberoses.

Dwarf Plants: Small Maintenance

Rainshowers and warm days — it must be spring. After a long cold winter the avid gardeners are anxious to welcome spring.

The trees are leafing out. Red buds are blooming, lawn grass is coming to life, and even though the groundhog did see his shadow, surely spring can't be far off.

Spring means planting time. It is one of the best opportunities you have during the year to plant trees and shrubs.

If you deplore the thought of planting shrubs because of the tedious pruning that they require, you may want to consider dwarf plants. Dwarf plants are just about the nicest thing to hit the nursery trade in recent years. And they are great news for the homeowner as well.

Texans are noted for their love of things big; but when it comes to shrubs, big, overgrown specimens mean work and problems. Dwarf, compact, low-growing plants can be the answer to your landscape problems.

The wide versatility and adaptability of dwarf plants add to their popularity. There are dwarfs adaptable to fully-shaded areas, open sun, partial shade, clipped borders, ground covers, and for formal and informal plantings.

We, too, often seem trapped on a similar conveyer belt, caught in a cadence which carries us step by step through life. The carefree days of childhood swiftly wane once schooling begins. Then come jobs, marriage, family, a home.

The list—and the responsibilities of mature life—seems endless. No wonder we long to escape—to "get away from it all."
