74TH YEAR

ELDORADO—SCHLEICHER COUNTY, TEXAS (76936)

Thursday, June 5, 1975

by Lyndell Williams

Austin, Tex.—The 64th regular session of the Legislature wound down with a few bangs and several whimpers this week.

In five months of activity, it considered legislation touching almost every segment of the state's economic and social life.

Despite criticism, the session did turn out legislation of far-reaching importance.

Even before final last-minute decisions on a $12 billion record budget, school finance reform and utilities regulation, the session chalked up these accomplishments:

—Article-by-article constitutional revision, set for a statewide election November 4.

—Approval of Health Maintenance Organizations, a new form of fixed fee health care coverage, and two medical malpractice insurance bills.

—Provision for issuing certificates of need for hospital care facilities and reorganization of the State Board of Health.

—Adoption of a permanent voter registration bill and a measure to authorize primary election finance.

—Passage of a nine-counties House of Representatives bill which will assure single-member districts for the counties.

—Establishment of a 1976 presidential preference primary.

—Agreement on a "rape victims' bill" to aid in prosecution of sex crimes.

Revenue Rising

Comptroller Bob Bullock who raised his state revenue estimate more than $200 million, said he may boost it still another $200 million due to President Ford's oil program.

Bullock recommended lawmakers adopt a one-year budget and give him a chance to draw a sharper sight on tax income.

He said Ford's $1 a barrel oil import tariff proposal and recommendations to remove price ceilings from "old oil" (domestic crude oil produced at 1972 levels) would certainly bring further hikes in state taxes unless rejected by congress. It is taxed at market value by the state.

Short Snorts . . .

A new voter registration law will require all Texas voters to re-register between November 5 and March 1, 1976.

The governor has signed into law that bill banning smoking in many public places. It takes effect in September.

Decline in advance contracting for cotton crops reflects slumping demand, Agriculture Commissioner John White warned.

Recent spring storms caused an estimated $15 million in insured damage, according to Insurance Commissioner Joe Christie.

First City National Bank of Houston was successful bidder on the recent $15 million Water Development Board "clean water" bond issue.

Hexts Take Trip To Texas Hill Country

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Warnack of Albuquerque, New Mexico, visited Mr. and Mrs. Granvil Hext over the week. They and the Hexts visited in Del Rio and shopped in Old Mexico. On Wednesday of last week Mr. and Mrs. John Leslie of Albuquerque visited her aunt and uncle, the Granvil Hexts. The Hexts left on Thursday to visit the Herman Walkers of Kerrville. There they enjoyed the Fine Arts and Craft Trail held in Comfort, Kerrville, Center Point, Ingram and Mountain Home. She and Granvil both just enjoyed the Hill Country. They mostly enjoyed their grandson's Trey Walker's kindergarten graduation and granddaughter Michelle's dance recital at Dietert Chapel of Schreiner College. Trey Walker returned home with them for a two weeks visit and to visit Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walker Sr. of Sonora.

Schrank To Receive Degree At Galveston

GORDON SCHRANK

Galveston, Tex.—Gordon Dabney Schrank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schrank of Eldorado, will receive a doctor of philosophy degree in Microbiology from the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences at the University of Texas Medical Branch.

Dr. Schrank earned his degree after submitting a dissertation concerning The Mechanisms of Pathogenesis and Antibacterial Immunity in Experimental Vibrio Cholerae Infection.

Previous education included B. S. from Angelo State University.

"The curriculum at the UTMB Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences has been designed so that a student who is educated here will be prepared to enter a teaching and research career, or if he chooses, to conduct full time research leading to scientific advances in the medical sciences," commented Dr. J. Palmer Saunders, Dean of the Graduate School.

Graduate programs are offered in anatomy, biochemistry, human genetics, microbiology, pharmacology and toxicology, physiology and biophysics, and preventive medicine and community health.

In addition to the eight graduate programs, a non-degree sequence in behavioral sciences furnishes a basic foundation for any of the Graduate School course work. Classes include social organization and the contributions to behavior, human psychological growth and development, and an introduction to the objective assessment of human and animal behavior.

"More than 100 professors and researchers designated as members or associates of the Graduate School faculty, guide the 103 graduate students in pursuit of high quality medical education and research," stated Dr. Saunders.

Dr. and Mrs. Schrank moved a while back to Memphis, Tenn., to continue further studies.

Local Boys To Leave For Camp Sunday

A free, one week vacation is in store for three boys from Eldorado this summer at the Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas according to Orval Edmiston, Salvation Army Service Unit camp chairman.

Boys chosen to attend the camp this summer are Henry Troy Hefner, Juan Arispe Jr. and Jimmy Eugene Lewis. They will leave for camp on June 8, 1975, and will be met there by a Salvation Army official who will drive or send them by Salvation Army vehicle to the camp near Midlothian.

"This will be a never-to-be-forgotten experience for these boys who have never been to a real summer camp," Orval N. Edmiston noted, "and Camp Hoblitzelle activities are comparable to those found at the most expensive and exclusive boys camps in the nation. Our boys will enjoy horseback riding, swimming, boating, fishing, hiking, archery, handicrafts, archery and group sports as well as worship services and Bible study.

Coaches and counselors supervise all organized activities. Campers are housed in brick and redwood cabins and well-balanced meals are served in the camp dining hall.

Each boy's trip is financed by the Salvation Army Service Unit Committee which is supported by contributions from citizens in the community," Edmiston said.

Located on 360 wooded acres with a 30-acre lake, Camp Hoblitzelle is completely equipped with recreational facilities. It is owned by the Salvation Army and operated by the organization for children who could not otherwise enjoy a camp experience. Over 900 boys are expected to attend the four summer camps which the Salvation Army reserves each summer for boys from Service Unit communities.

Teachers Attend Dairy Council Workshop

Nelson says, "Have a 3-2-4 Day!"

Who's Nelson?
Fifth grade teachers in Eldorado know that Nelson is a talking nutrient who will be helping their students learn nutrition the coming year.

The teachers learned about Nelson and other fun ways to teach their students about nutrition during a Dairy Council, Inc. "Big Ideas" workshop held in Eldorado Elementary School on May 27. The lessons are designed to provide fun for teachers and students while stimulating them to understand and practice sound dietary habits.

Intermediate level students will learn that selecting a balanced daily diet depends on choosing the right number of servings from each of the Four Food Groups (Milk Group, Meat Group, Fruit and Vegetable Group, and Bread and Cereal Group). And Nelson reminds, in servings, it's 3 Milk, 2 Meat, 4 Fruits and Vegetables, and 4 Bread and Cereal.

"Big Ideas" in nutrition education for primary students centers on learning about foods and how to select a balanced diet. The Four Food Groups system is used to classify foods and to practice balancing meals.

Second grade teachers from Eldorado learned many of the techniques of teaching nutrition in their classrooms, and how to use materials the Dairy Council provides to help them in reaching their students.

The goal of Dairy Council's nutrition training for children at the elementary level is to help them to be able to judge whether the food they eat supplies the nutrients they need daily. This training is sponsored as a public service by the dairy farmers in the state, and was presented by Mrs. Miriam Curry, Dietitian for Dairy Council, Inc. Mrs. Curry serves 29 counties, one of which is Schleicher county, from a Midland-based office.

Auction Set At Kerrville Event, July

Kerrville, Texas.— The old-time country fair atmosphere of the Texas Arts and Crafts Fair will be continued by the addition of the First Arts and Crafts Auction. To enable fair-goers who can stay at the fair only one day to participate, the auction will be divided into three sections. One section will be auctioned at 10:30 a.m. each day of the fair. The fair will be held July 4-5-6 on the campus of Schreiner College in Kerrville.

Arts and crafts for the auction are donated on a voluntary basis by the artists and craftsmen who participate in the fair. Several of the pieces will be from the Traveling Exhibit of Texas Arts and Crafts which just completed a very successful first year. A percentage of the selling price will be returned to the donor and a percentage will be used by the fair to expand the Pioneer Village. The Pioneer Village is a special section of the fair devoted to searching out and exhibiting lost or dying Texan arts and crafts.

Support of the auction by the artists and craftsmen has been excellent. Many participants have shown their enthusiasm by requesting the entire price of their work to be applied to preserving native arts. Others have advised us that they are crafting special works for the auction and some will be engraved by the artist immediately after purchase.

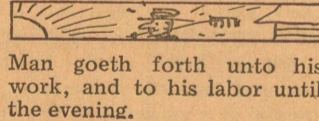

Further fair information and brochures can be obtained by writing Texas Arts and Crafts Foundation, P. O. Box 1589, Kerrville, Texas 78028.

Market Report

College Station, Tex.—Beef prices jumped up a bit this week, and poultry is holding last week's price levels or creeping a "shade higher." One observer cites lighter weight cattle coming to market for the beef increase.

"Lighter weight cattle mean less meat is available," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

She termed chuck roasts and steaks, some boneless roasts, and ground beef and liver "best values."

"Also, some economical buys still may be found on turkeys, and canned tuna, particularly at sale prices, is another good protein buy."

At vegetable counters cantaloupes are more plentiful with lower prices. Items with "attractive" price tags include bell peppers, okra, some salad greens and snap beans.

"Watermelon prices remain relatively high, and dry onion prices are holding to high levels due mostly to a reduced supply."

"High-quality vegetables on the market are squash (yellow, zucchini and white), potatoes, corn, cabbage, beets, collards, mustard greens, cucumbers, green onions and radishes," Mrs. Clyatt said.

Fruit buys this week range from lemons and oranges to bananas, strawberries, pineapples, avocados and apples.

Consumer Watchwords: Ice cream packed in an ordinary waxed-cardboard carton will keep quality longer in a home freezer if you wrap the carton in heavy aluminum foil. Also, be sure the freezer is holding a 0 degrees F., or lower, temperature.

REDDY'S HELPFUL FREEZER TIPS

Lock in flavor: Use moisture and vapor-proof materials especially designed for freezers to wrap your foods. Tightly sealed, these lock in flavor and moisture and prevent "freezer burn" (surface drying) on foods. Don't use wax paper, bread paper or regular cellophane for freezer foods.

Label packages: Date and identify freezer packages so (1) you don't accumulate a lot of mysterious shapes and (2) you'll be able to pick out foods that have been in the freezer longest.

Take advantage of sales: Avoid overstocking with commercially frozen food that's always available; use your freezer as your own bargain counter and store foods you can buy on sale. But do allow space for short-time baked goods, leftovers and special party foods.

Steps For Disease-Free Gardens

Although more vegetable varieties are becoming available that have resistance to common diseases, disease control is still a major part of home garden vegetable production.

Proper cultural practices play a major role in the prevention of disease problems. These practices will reduce the need for fungicides later in the season. We list the following steps to a disease-free garden:

1. Choose a well-drained area.
2. Prepare the soil properly.
3. Plant disease-resistant varieties if they are available.
4. Use disease-free transplants where available.
5. Use fertilizer wisely to encourage maximum growth.
6. Plant crops when the soil temperature is correct to reduce losses from seeding disease.
7. Water properly to reduce foliage diseases.
8. Use mulches around plants to prevent fruit rots.
9. Control weeds as they often serve as hosts for vegetable diseases.
10. Use the proper row spacing to improve air circulation and reduce foliage disease.
11. Alternate plantings of the same crop to prevent buildup of a disease.
12. Rotate crops to prevent a buildup of soil diseases.
13. Control insects as they spread virus diseases.
14. Harvest vegetables at the proper stage of maturing to avoid storage decay.
15. Keep the garden clean of trash and debris where diseases can build up.
16. Use fungicides to control diseases that have become established.

Following these practices will go a long way in keeping disease problems to a minimum in the home vegetable garden. A new publication, "Disease Prevention in the Home Garden," is available at the county Extension office and provides additional information on diseases in vegetable gardens.

Rotoriculous Is Now In Use At Six Flags

Arlington, Texas.—The Rotoriculous, a new attraction described as a "thrill ride that's a light and sound show too," opened at Six Flags Over Texas, May 10.

Housed in a huge, octagonal building in the Arlington park's Good Time Square section, the 13-speed ride is the brainchild of Six Flags' own creative staff.

Riders spin at high speeds in an undulating circle as their senses are "bombarded" by electronic sound effects, rapidly changing visual effects and a succession of flashing light patterns.

General Manager Dan Howells said, "The number of new rides on the market today is rather limited, so we decided to take existing hardware and turn it into something truly unique. The result is a ride that you won't find anywhere else in the world."

The ride is themed as an "invention" of Six Flags' eccentric new costume character Prof. Cyrus Cosmo.

Comical "scientific instruments" line the walls of the structure which is taller than a two storey building.

After guests are seated in the ride's 24 cars, Prof. Cosmo's cartooned image lights up the eight projection screens which encircle the building's ceiling.

Cosmo's voice welcomes the riders aboard and the character explains how he intends to propel his guests forward into the unknown; at which point the ride begins to move backward.

After a brief, verbal battle with the backward-moving ride, Cosmo gives up and the show begins.

Images on the screens change constantly and vivid, colored "blobs" spread over a dome in the ride's center. As the Rotoriculous hits top speed the "blobs" disappear, to be replaced by a battery of strobe lights striking a huge mirror ball.

From beneath the ride come sound effects much like a human heart beat, increasing in intensity and speed. The effect literally shakes the building.

From overhead, through a sophisticated quadrasonic sound system, come electronic effects which also increase in speed and impact. The Rotoriculous becomes a blur

SAVE MONEY, TIME AND TROUBLE

If you're looking for a family-pleasing food that's convenient, inexpensive and nutritious, there's a vegetable that might help save your skin: potatoes, particularly in one of their many frozen forms. So many American homemakers are discovering this that over the last 20 years the per capita frozen potato consumption increased from one pound to more than 30 pounds a year!

Perhaps one reason is that some of the hottest ideas in food planning come from the frozen potato. For instance, a nifty idea in hors d'oeuvres is French fries in cups served with spicy dips; and frozen hash browns make a great breakfast fried into cakes and topped with poached eggs.

Another reason, in these tight budget times, might be potatoes' economy. You only use what you need with prepared potatoes, and, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the cost per serving of frozen French fries is less than homemade. As much as 30 percent of a fresh potato can go to waste in spoilage, peeling and trimming.

As for quality, frozen potatoes aren't out in the cold there, either. Varieties grown especially for processing are used to assure year-round goodness. Freezing keeps the potato at the peak of its perfection.

For taste, convenience or economy, the frozen prepared potato is the potato perfected or, as the frozen potato folks say "we took a good thing and made it better."

The U.S. produces about one-half million tons of nails a year. As many as 1,200 different shapes and sizes, according to World Book Encyclopedia.

The nickel subway fare disappeared in New York City in 1948.

The Fiber Story

Because of changes in eating patterns, some nutritionists believe that there may be a shortage of fiber in the American diet today. Bran, the outer coating of cereal grains, is one of the richest sources of food fiber, and the wholesome wheat bran which is used in Post 40% bran flakes makes it a convenient and good tasting way to add fiber to your diet. Try this tasty cereal cookie recipe—one delicious way to insure your family is adding fiber to its diet.

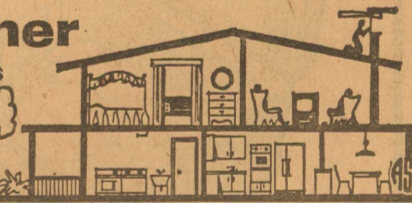

Orange Drop Cookies

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup butter or shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 2 cups 40% bran flakes

Mix together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream butter. Gradually blend in sugar, creaming well after each addition. Thoroughly mix in eggs. Alternately add flour and orange juice, mixing well after each addition. Stir in orange rind and cereal. Drop by rounded tablespoons onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 350° for about 13 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Note: Recipe may be halved.

How To 'Kid-Proof' Your Kitchen

To a small child, the kitchen is an important part of his universe—ranking right up there with the bath and his bedroom.

It's a warm, cheerful place where mother spends a lot of her time, where the family gathers for meals, and where one can smell the aromas of cookies baking, french fries sizzling, hot chocolate simmering and bacon frying.

And then there are drawers and doors, and pots and pans and jars and bottles and a host of interesting things to play with, bang on and maybe even taste test.

The kitchen is a fascinating room to the curious toddler—but it also can be one of the most dangerous to him, for most kitchens are designed for adults, not children.

"Kid-proofing" your kitchen so that you don't have to keep a watchful eye out every second is a necessity for the mother who expects to have any peace of mind or to get any family meals prepared.

Here are nine tips on how to do it from the General Electric Consumers Institute, which has been helping homemakers in the kitchen for more than half a century.

1. Starting at the bottom, put plastic insert plugs in all floor level electrical outlets when they are not in use. This will prevent anything metallic being inserted into the outlet and reduce the possibility of the child receiving an electrical shock.

2. Do not allow electric cords to hang below the counter or table top, where a child might grab them, try to eat them, or could fall on the prongs. (And keep such cords in good condition for your own protection—no cracked or cut cords should be allowed in a well run kitchen.)

3. When cooking on range surface units, always keep pot handles turned toward the rear so that little ones cannot reach up and tip or spill a pot of boiling water or a pan of scalding grease.

4. Keep knives and other sharp utensils out of sight and out of reach.

5. Don't store soap, bleach or other laundry chemicals where they are easily accessible to play in or drink. And insulate any undersink hot water pipes so that touching them will not result in burns.

6. Set up a "play area" for the child well away from the range and ovens. A child playing where food is being prepared runs the greater risk of injury.

7. If you have a trash compactor, keep it locked when not in use so that junior cannot fill it with your china, silver or the family cat.

8. Try to locate your refrigerator or freezer so that the back coils are not accessible to touch, as they do become hot.

9. The dishwasher door should always be kept securely latched so that a toddler trying to stand up with the help of the handle won't pull the door down on himself.

If you adopt the point of view of the child, many kitchen accidents are preventable. Removing temptation is half the battle in making your kitchen kid-proof.

Congressman Krueger Reports On Visit With Area Constituents

(from office of Bob Krueger)

Washington, D. C.—While standing under the pecan trees behind the Court House in San Angelo last week, I was asked the same question that had been asked earlier at a meeting with the San Antonio Personnel Management Association: how accurate is the President's comment that the Congress is moving too slowly? My answer is; not very accurate. If anything, the Congress probably moves too fast, and doesn't consider legislation carefully enough.

Let's look at the facts, (1) The last session, when Mr. Ford was Minority Leader in the House of Representatives, the House did not get organized, and did not make committee assignments until March. The 94th Congress was organized in January and had passed a number of major bills by March.

(2) This House has worked more days, been in session more hours, taken more record votes, and passed more major legislation during its first 20 weeks than any Congress since World War II.

(3) In the Executive Branch, one person, the President, makes final decisions. Once he has decided, wheels can be put in motion. But a legislative body like the Congress if different. It must be slower and more careful in the making of laws than the President can be in executing them.

A President can decide for a nation. A Congressman can only decide for himself, after listening to his constituents. He must then work to convince his colleagues of the rightness of his position. There are 435 Members of the House and 100 Members of the Senate. This group must reach some general agreement on policy before it can make laws. Even then, the President can, by a veto, overturn a decision of the Congress.

It is in the very nature of democracy that people must convince one another and work together to form policy. That is what Members of Congress do: hear testimony, listen to constituents, weigh various suggestions, convince one another, and then pass laws.

Our Constitution decrees that we should have separate and equal branches of government. The Congress legislates, the President executes, the Judiciary arbitrates.

Any expectation that a legislative body can or should act hastily and without careful consideration of policy alternatives is misguided. It shows a misunderstanding of the very tasks of Congress and the President as defined by the Constitution.

I disagree with a good deal of the legislation passed by this Congress. But comments that this Congress is inactive and unresponsive are simply erroneous. I would not, by and large, want the Congress to act more hastily, but rather more carefully. That would be in the national interest.

Joy cometh in the morning.

Learning without wisdom is a load of books on an ass's back.

Every one who has been in love knows that the passion is strongest, and the appetite weakest, in the absence of the beloved object, and that the reverse is the case in her presence.

It is said that when English settlers and explorers arrived in Australia they were puzzled by a large pouched hopping creature. When asked about it, the natives replied "I don't know" in their native tongues, which sounds like "kangaroo."

If she has kept up with the course all term, she'll not flunk because of this nap. BUT—if she is counting on the midnight oil to pull her through the exam... Too bad!

You've heard of people being converted to Christianity on their deathbed. True! As Christ promised salvation to a penitent thief on the cross, so God's love reaches out even in the final hour to those who call on Him in faith.

But don't live your life on the dangerous principle that last-minute cramming will satisfy all your religious needs.

There will be millions of adults and children in church next Sunday. They are seeking spiritual truth, gaining Christian convictions... not because they need some religion to die with—because they need Faith to live by.
