Austin, Tex.—Texans may be selecting their presidential nominating convention delegates in a special primary next year.

A presidential preference primary bill was voted out of the House Elections Committee in spite of heavy opposition from a parade of witnesses.

Significantly, perhaps, the Committee vote came on the same day U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bentsen has acknowledged his interest in seeing a preference primary established in his home state, although he insists he is not making a major campaign for it.

Texans now choose delegates to presidential nominating conventions in state conventions of the major parties.

Under the proposal approved by the Committee, delegates would be elected on the primary election ballot. Presidential candidates would pick their own delegates in each of Texas' 31 senatorial districts.

Opponents assailed the bill advanced by Rep. Tom Schieffer of Fort Worth as a "winner take all" measure. Schieffer insisted that it is not, and claimed Democratic party rules authorize such methods of naming delegates.

Bentsen aides reportedly feel the primary will make it possible for him to get a bigger share of Texas delegates than he would win under the existing convention system, although this is subject to question.

Oil Allowable Still 100%

Texas Railroad Commission once more set the statewide oil production allowable at 100% for March.

For three years, the Commission has been directing all-out production, and at the same time imported oil is continuing to flow in.

Speed Limit Debated

House members found extending the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit hard to accept, and sent the legislation to accomplish it back to committee.

Some want to levy a minor $5 fine (not attributable to insurance rates) for speeding offenses between 55 and 70 miles an hour.

When all the fussing is over, the Legislature almost certainly will extend the present limit. To do otherwise would risk loss of $303 million a year in federal highway funds.

Short Snorts . . .

Texas National Guard will conduct 25 area disaster relief exercises during March, April and May in all parts of the state.

A controversial amended version of a bill to raise consumer finance loan interest rates received 5 to 1 approval of the Senate Economic Development Committee.

The State Senate approved a $153,709 supplemental appropriation to the Texas Department of Labor and Standards for mobile home inspection and $849,000 for continued adult basic education programs.

Eighty million dollars worth of emergency aid to schools will be mailed to 1,049 districts during the first week in March. Eighty-seven self-supporting budget-balanced districts will get none of the money.

A new round of hearings on proposals for revising the state constitution article-by-article are under way in House and Senate.

Legislation to reform rape laws ran into an unfriendly reception from some House members, although most witnesses testifying favored the measure.

Public Schools Week Coming Up

March 3-7 has been designated as Texas Public Schools Week this year. Locally, an Assembly and Open House will be held at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 4th.

It's a good opportunity for you as a concerned parent and citizen to take a close look at your local school district, and consider some important questions. Public schools take the single largest bite from your state tax dollar. Is this money being spent as wisely as it might be? Should methods of financing public schools be changed? If so, how? Are your child's teachers qualified? Just what is your child learning in school? Will he be able to live and work effectively in modern society?

Education is the foundation of society; it is through a consistently high level of public education that America has become the great nation that it is, and if we are to maintain and improve our way of life, we must improve our quality of education.

Do your part—observe Texas Public Schools Week, March 3-7.

PAR-TEE—

Guess what! Another cold, icy week end. The club has not been able to have over one or two Sunday Playdays all winter. Surely Spring is around the corner!

During the past week we had some lovely days and each afternoon the course was full of players. We welcome back Coach Terry and his golf team. It's good to see so many young boys interested in golf.

The club extends its heartfelt sympathy to Tony and Payla Cheatham and family in the loss of his sister and Ray and Lula Mae in the loss of her mother.

Mary Waldron was hostess for the Ladies Special Playday Thursday.

Ernestine Hext won low and Margaret Frost won high. I understand Carroll Ratliff is teaching several ladies now and we're looking forward for more women playing.

It was a nice surprise to see Agnes Hannes Sunday afternoon. She came by the club house and visited with the group that was gathered there. —Rep.

Market Report

College Station, Tex.—Current pork supplies are "high quality" and at relatively low cost, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

"Good values should be found on pork loins—roasts and chops, center and end-cut chops and some smoked picnics," the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service added.

At beef counters, this year's larger supplies are due to greater amounts of lower-grade beef, the Texas A&M University System specialist said.

"Good beef values include chuck cuts, ground beef, rump and rib roasts and a variety of steaks. Soup meat and liver are other features. "Some markets also have features on fryer chickens and turkeys—and eggs are a bargain at present prices," Mrs. Clyatt noted.

In frozen food sections, Lenten season promotions are centering on fish—consumers should consider cod, haddock, and ocean perch, the specialist advised.

Economical fruits and vegetables include grapefruit, oranges, apples, bananas, pears and pineapples.

Also, cabbage, carrots, dry yellow onions, hard shell squash, turnips, rutabagas and potatoes.

Consumer Watchwords: D'Anjou, the principal pear of the winter pear crop, is in unusually heavy supply.

Resource Conservation And Development Projects

In some 12 years, the RC&D Program has come a long way. Authorized by the 1952 Food and Agriculture Act, over 100 Resource Conservation and Development Projects now cover over 400 million acres.

These regional projects, sponsored by local governments and conservation districts, help build better communities, create new jobs through natural resource development. Typical projects include new recreational facilities, and actions to improve markets for agricultural products, and environmental enhancement measures.

With technical and financial assistance from USDA agencies, RC&D projects sponsors are writing a new success story across the landscape.

During these times resource conservation touches the lives of every person whether he lives in the city, on the farm or in the suburbs. As citizens of today we have a unique challenge and responsibility. It isn't enough to be concerned only with the most obvious calamities that destroy our resources. We should also be concerned with the everyday changes that are taking place all around us. When the city begins to creep out into the country, a field becomes an airport, or golf course—perhaps we should ask ourselves if these changes are for the best.

In this country of ours approximately 60% of the land is in private ownership. The responsibility for land use decisions rests primarily with the individual land owner, and the results of the decisions directly affect him. How do you decide whether one would use his land for crops, rangeland, or recreation? Perhaps the land should be used for an industrial site or housing unit. The land owner might consider how his decision affects not only his own interests but also those of his neighbors and community in general.

One of the first things the landowner might do is to work with other members of the community. Concerned leaders of the community at all levels must have knowledge about all their natural resources as well as the needs and demands for them. They need to have facts, and they must know how to interpret them for a better understanding of their environment.

The total development of the San Saba Valley RC&D Project area will proceed as effective leadership and local support for the program in the area develops. People, and especially the leadership, must become personally responsible for the development of our area.

Alternatives should be used to resolve problems based on an appraisal of resources and also review the probable consequences resulting from the adoption of alternatives. By this approach, people can decide on a course that will bring the greatest benefits from resource development of all of the people of the area.

We must recognize our problems so that we can attack them aggressively and with determination. The development of our own plan of action with assistance from all agencies and organizations in a position to help should then clearly set forth our vision of accomplishment.

The RC&D project can be an important part of the movement to conserve our renewable resources, give our rural citizens a chance to make a better living, make America more beautiful and make our rural areas more healthful and attractive as places to live, work and play.

New Offices Have Direct Contact with Washington

Congressman Bob Krueger's
 Weekly Report From Washington

A few people in the national press have referred to this past week as a "recess" for Congress, but the more accurate phrase might be "district first-hand communication." This week I've traveled more than 1500 miles across our vast district, and I suspect it's healthy for a Congressman to get away from those marble halls and plant his feet firmly in the ground. There are some concerns that people never write to you about in Washington. The St. Lawrence cotton farmer can tell you about his problems with 19c a pound cotton, while Fred Campbell and James Hunt can talk with first-hand knowledge about our wool program.

To keep in close touch with all parts of the district, I have opened offices in the four largest towns in the district, San Antonio, San Angelo, Del Rio and New Braunfels. Now three out of four persons in the district are no farther away from a Congressional office than from their county courthouse. We were tremendously pleased to have so many people come to our formal openings of these offices this past week. Almost a thousand people came to our San Antonio opening, 500 to San Angelo, and large numbers to Del Rio and New Braunfels. Beyond that, people were good enough to come from Big Lake, Menard, Eden, Garden City, Sanderson, Junction, and Hondo to the various openings. Now that they have come this far for the opening, I'm sure that they will be willing to contact these offices when they can be of help.

Each office has a direct line to Washington. That means that if you have an opinion you want to express to your Representative, you need only to call one of these district offices and it will be communicated directly the same day. Further, if there are matters regarding Social Security benefits, Veterans' programs, agricultural programs, or special programs, your district office is there to serve your needs. Your taxes help support three of these offices, and we want you to make full use of them. It is not a Congressman's task to ask special favors for anyone. He must serve the public good. But he can make sure that the people in his district get a full opportunity to get a fair shake from their government, and I hope that you will use those district offices, and me as your Representative, to let me assist you.

REDDY'S REFRIGERATOR SAVINGS TIPS

- Return fresh foods to the refrigerator and frozen foods, such as ice cream, to the freezer as soon as possible. Measure and remove the quantity needed for cooking or for the table, and refrigerate the remainder at once.
- Use cold controls efficiently by selecting the settings that provide about 36° F. in the refrigerator and 0° F. in the freezer.
- Fill the refrigerator with food, but be careful not to overfill. Make sure that food packages don't block air vents in the freezer or refrigerator section.
- Clean the condenser surfaces of the refrigerator; dirt restricts air flow and acts to insulate the condenser, forcing the refrigerator to work harder and longer to maintain proper temperatures.

that can in any way express our gratitude for the many kind and thoughtful deeds done for us during our loss. Home Safety Check List. It's nearly Spring! Take advantage of this time to check your home for safety:

- Living Room— Check electrical circuits for overloading. Replace all frayed cords. Make certain the fire screen is large enough to cover the fireplace opening—and then be sure to use it. Have the chimney flue cleaned out regularly. Legs of tables and chairs should be sturdy. Scatter rugs should be skidproof. (A backing substance or spray is available.) Bedrooms— No smoking in bed, ever, at any time!

There should be a light switch within easy reach of the bed. Closet shelves should be organized so that things won't topple down if you reach for an item.

Kitchen— Potholders should be immediately accessible to the stove. Don't use an apron corner or a towel to pick up hot items.

When cooking, turn the potholders in, but away from the flame or burner. If you have a gas stove, always strike the match before turning on the gas.

Be sure dangerous cleaning substances such as bleach and ammonia are out of the reach of small children.

Discard all broken or chipped glasses and dishes. Sharp knives should be secured in a knife rack or other protective device.

Mop up spills as soon as they occur, to prevent any chance of a fall.

Bathroom— A nightlight is a good idea to prevent mishap. Never take medicines in the dark. Keep labels on them, and read the labels for instructions on proper usage. Keep out of children's reach.

Bathtubs should be equipped with non-skid mats and handholds. Don't leave any electrical appliance (radio, hairdryer) near the sink or bathtub where a wet hand might be tempted to grab it.

Doors should unlock from both sides in case a youngster gets locked in.

Garage and Storage Areas— Throw away all paint-filled or oily rags that might be a fire hazard.

Keep on hand plenty of fuses of the correct size for the fusebox. Make certain that power equipment (lawn mower, hedge trimmer, etc.) is safely stored, and that gasoline is kept in an approved container, out of children's reach.

Store ladders by hanging them from wall brackets; don't rest them against the wall.

Don't overload storage shelves. Clean them out regularly.

Rosedown Plantation Gardens In Early Bloom

St. Francisville, La.—Unusually warm weather in February has brought the spring garden at Rosedown Plantation and Gardens in St. Francisville, La. into bloom about two weeks ahead of its normal season, according to General Manager R. O. Butler. Early azaleas will last until the first week of March when later blooming varieties will take over garden vistas.

Masses of pansies provide color throughout the 28-acre garden. Redbud and other blooming trees create a canopy of pink, and white camellia trees which were seedlings in the mid 1800's are still in bloom alongside modern hybrids. Native yellow jasmine tumbles high in the trees.

The camellias and azaleas at Rosedown were in full bloom when the late Catherine Fondren Underwood saw them in 1956. The ancient trees and shrubs inspired Mrs. Underwood to restore the grandeur of both Rosedown House and Gardens. Rosedown was restored in order to save one of the great gardens of the 19th century.

In April a collection of old fashioned roses will come into bloom. Many of these varieties are members of ancient rose families which were threatened with extinction a few years ago. A number of modern hybrid roses thrive at Rosedown, including the pink, Betty Prior and the rich red Europeans. For information on films documenting the restoration of Rosedown and the gardens, write Rosedown, Drawer M, St. Francisville, La. 70775, attention Ola Mae Word, Public Relations.

Easter Seal Services Reported Stepped Up

Because of the steady growth in numbers of crippled children and adults in Texas, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas has stepped up its rehabilitation services.

Raymond D. Hall, who is the Easter Seal Representative for the County, said 20,152 handicapped Texans received Easter Seal treatments during 1974.

"Despite medical scientific advances," Hall explained, "the rank of the crippled are growing. This is because of population growth, increased number of accidents and medical treatments which saves victims of crippling diseases who might not have lived in past years."

Quoting the annual report of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, affiliated treatment centers in Texas provide treatment and rehabilitation, speech and hearing and educational programs, and many other services required by the physically disabled to live normal lives.

The largest group served includes those with major deformities of bones and joints, severe speech defects, cerebral palsy, arthritis, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis and stroke. The Easter Seal Campaign, which provides funds for continuation of these services, begins February 24, and continues through March 30, Easter Sunday.

A SOUP TO COME HOME TO

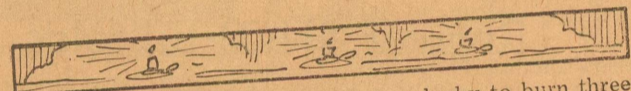

The word homemade evokes fond memories in most of us—memories of Mom, apple pie and the other good things which came from her kitchen. In winter, she knew there was nothing better than a warming soup to come home to. Now we don't often take the time for made-from-scratch soups. Here's a soup recipe that's so easy there's no reason not to make it. The creamy soup gets its delicious flavor from a blending of mixed vegetables—peas, carrots, corn, lima and green beans. Serve with PREMIUM Saltine Crackers which have been a favorite since they won a prize at a county fair back in 1876.

CREAMY MIXED VEGETABLE SOUP

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1 (10-ounce) package frozen mixed vegetables, thawed
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 3/4 cups water
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 3 chicken bouillon cubes
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- Few dashes ground nutmeg
- Snipped parsley
- PREMIUM Saltine Crackers

In saucepan melt butter or margarine; add onion and sauté until golden. Stir in vegetables and sauté a few minutes. Stir in flour; then next five ingredients. Bring to boil; then simmer, covered, about 15 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Blend in electric blender until smooth. Sprinkle with parsley and serve with PREMIUM Saltine Crackers. Makes 6 (about 2/3 cup) servings.

In Europe some people believe it is unlucky to burn three candles in a room at once.

Serve High Protein Meatless Meal

Keeping the family food budget in balance has become a regular juggling act. Many homemakers make ends meet by serving meatless meals from time to time. What's needed is an inexpensive way to increase the protein content of a meal without meat.

This is precisely where Carnation instant nonfat dry milk comes to the rescue. By using liberal amounts of this "penny-pincher's protein" in cooking, you can greatly increase the protein content of such standard foods as cream sauce.

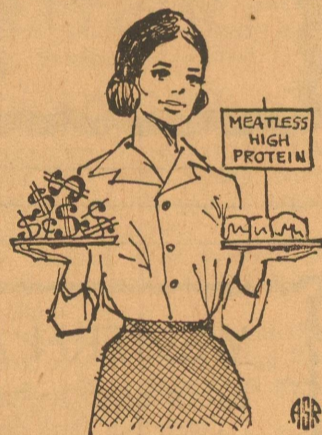

The next time you make cream sauce, make it with instant milk measured with a lavish hand. This same protein-fortifying technique can be used for any sauce made with milk, such as onion or even curry sauce. These make vegetables or leftovers into richly satisfying dishes.

Another area for protein enrichment at little cost is gelatin used for salads or desserts. Prepare a 3-ounce package of flavored gelatin as directed. When chilled to the consistency of unbeaten egg whites, add 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals and beat until foamy. Fold in fruit as desired.

When you want to treat your family to a meatless meal that's extravagantly high in taste appeal and protein, make this Polenta Alla Roma. It's a thrifty casserole that gets its protein richness from two kinds of cheese and eggs and plenty of instant milk.

Polenta Alla Roma (Makes 6-8 servings)

- 3 cups cold water
- 1 1/4 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 cups yellow corn meal
- 1 1/3 cups Carnation instant nonfat dry milk crystals

- 3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 3/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 cups (two 8-ounce cans) Contadina Tomato Sauce
- 1 cup water
- 1 package (1 1/2 ounces) spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella or Jack cheese

Combine cold water, salt, corn meal and instant milk crystals in saucepan. Cook over medium heat, until thickened (10-15 minutes); stir frequently. Pour onto a piece of well-buttered foil and spread into square 1/2 inch thick. Cool. Cut into 36 squares. Arrange 20 squares in bottom of well-buttered 12 x 7 1/2 x 2-inch baking dish. Sprinkle half of Parmesan cheese over squares. Stack remaining squares on top; sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Sauté onion in oil. Add tomato sauce, 1 cup water, spaghetti sauce mix and sugar. Simmer 20 minutes; stir occasionally. Pour over corn meal squares. Top with mozzarella or Jack cheese. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 minutes.

OPENING DOORS

A jigsaw puzzle of a church was Billy's project for the afternoon. He worked diligently as the church took form. But one section was missing—the door. "A church has to have a door," he said. At last he found it.

As Billy grows older, he may discover that the Church has many doors which can open to him:

Gratitude for his home, his family, his friends
Knowledge of God, his Creator
Sensitivity to spiritual life
Inspiration from Bible accounts of dedicated lives
Experiences in sharing his beliefs with others
Development of his character
Foundations of a sustaining faith

Open these doors to your child so that he may grow spiritually. Take him to church each Sunday.
