74TH YEAR

ELDORADO—SCHLEICHER COUNTY, TEXAS (76936)

Thursday, April 17, 1975

Number 16

by Lyndell Williams
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—Texans are going to get to vote on a new constitution this year after all.

Final legislative agreement on the article-by-article revision proposal will send it to the polls November 4 for a showdown decision by voters.

A major campaign is shaping up for the document, and several efforts can be expected against individual sections.

At least, the revision is shorter, simpler and better organized than the present patched-up constitution. I would give the governor needed fiscal controls, appointive power and agency reorganization authority.

The proposed unified court system is not without some strong criticisms, as well as backing. The finance article requires uniform standards and procedures for tax appraisal and countywide appraisals.

Counties, through the new local government article, would be able to change their governmental structure and adopt ordinances. Environmental protection would be mandated along with access to comprehensive health care and equal education.

Voters will decide earlier on two constitutional changes—on April 22. On the ballot then are recommended "emergency" improvement in state employees' and school teachers' retirement programs and a $600 a month pay scale and expense account increases for legislators.

Money Running Out

State revenues, rapidly shrinking in spite of a once-fat $1 billion "surplus" will be far short of needs for real school finance reform, two government officials maintain.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Legislative Budget Board chairman, predicted about $450 million to $500 million will be available after the general state budget is approved. LBB Director Tom Keel estimated the main budget "leftover" at $472.8 million. That's nearly $300 million below the most modest pricetag of major education finance bills backed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Hobby said the teachers will get a pay raise—less than they are asking—but many other provisions of the Briscoe and Texas State Teachers Association bills cannot be financed.

Primary Delayed

Presidential preference primary legislation went to conference committee with initial Senate instruction to retain a self-destruct feature which would make the legislation effective for 1976 only.

Sponsors are still trying to get rid of the mandate so they can make the primary a permanent election procedure, unless repealed, as is the case with most laws.

Short Snorts . . .

Comptroller Bob Bullock reported unemployment payments climbed 25% last month, to a March total of $20.4 million. The Comptroller said tax revenues will decline when unemployment payments exceed $1 million.

Health Maintenance Organization legislation, providing for a new system of pre-paid, fixed premium medical and health care services, passed the Senate and is expected to pass the House.

Texas Research League said a tax bill may be necessary this year, regardless of Gov. Briscoe's threats to veto one.

The Governor signed into law a bill assigning priority to in-state use of gas produced from state-owned lands.

School teachers plan a giant rally here April 26 to demonstrate support for public school finance reform—and $10,000 a year minimum salaries for teachers.

Light Voter Turnout Seen Tuesday

This coming Tuesday, April 22, Schleicher County voters will join others over Texas in voting on two proposed amendments to the state constitution. A light voter turnout is predicted on both the local and state levels, Monday morning, in County Clerk Jim Thornton's office, only TWO absentee ballots had been cast. Deadline for voting absentee in Tuesday's Amendment Election is this Friday at 5:00 p.m.

The two proposed amendments have to do with consolidating state pension funds, and with niking legislators' pay.

No. 1 on the ballot, with For and Against squares, states: "The constitutional amendment revising and consolidating provisions relating to state and local retirement systems and programs and providing for a maximum state contribution to state systems of 10 percent of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals."

No. 2, For and Against, states, "The constitutional amendment setting the salaries of members of the legislature at $600 per month and setting a per diem of $30 per day during legislative sessions and a mileage allowance at the same rate provided by law for state employees."

Texas voters over the past 15 years or so have rejected proposals for increased pay for legislators. Voter apathy could well affect the outcome of that proposal, as well as the one for pension consolidation.

Following the hard freeze which hit this area the night before Easter Sunday morning, the trees are putting out new growth again but most of this coming summer's fruit crop was lost.

People here are planting gardens. (Some had to re-plant following the late freeze.)

So it's Spring-time once again in Schleicher county. Showers teased this area early Sunday morning helping lawns and gardens along, but we need more.

Tuesday, April 15th, marked the deadline for taxpayers to send in their income tax returns for 1974. No doubt, some waited until that time to take care of the matter. And with passing of April 15th, we no longer have to watch the H&R Block commercials on T.V. They started in about New Year's Day.

Clean Spring

It's That Time Of Year Again

As every homemaker knows, the first hint of warm weather means it will soon be time for the annual Spring cleaning. This year, make a resolution to use some of these economical tips to make your cleaning chores easier.

If you plan to use a floor polisher, be sure to check the felt pads for signs of wax buildup. If a lot of wax has accumulated, this can easily be removed.

First, remove the pads from the machine. Place the pads between several layers of clean, white ScotTowels and go over them with a warm iron.

The old wax will be absorbed into the paper towels in a matter of seconds and the felt pads will be ready for use again.

If mirror, windows and picture glass are part of your agenda for Spring cleaning, here are a couple of important tips.

When cleaning mirrors and picture glass, be sure to keep water from getting inside the frames. This can be done by holding a piece of cardboard against the frame on the inside edge when washing.

A cure for streaky windows —when washing windows, wipe them dry with a squeegee or clean paper towel.

Then, shine them up with a soft rag or another ScotTowel. Wipe up and down on the inside and crossways on the outside, so if you have a streak, you'll know which side it's on.

Before vacuuming rugs, place a few drops of oil of cinnamon, lemon or peppermint in the vacuum cleaner bag. This will fill your house with a fresh, Spring-time scent while you clean your carpets.

Money Earning Schemes
Are Now Proliferating

(by John L. Hill, Attorney General)

Austin, Tex.—As the number of unemployed workers rises, so does the number of deceptive offers urging "make money at home in your spare time."

While such gimmicks are not new, they are especially unwelcome during a time when many consumers are searching for ways to earn enough to pay their bills, and when they may be counting on earnings from the advertised "work at home" plan.

Lawyers in our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division say that although there are legitimate offers for persons to make money from work done in the home, at present the fraudulent plans seem to be proliferating.

Fraudulent work at home schemes are usually advertised in magazines and newspapers. They can often be identified because they almost always promise high profits for little work and because they require the respondent to pay money to get further information or to get the items that must be sold to make a profit.

The main thing to remember about fraudulent work at home plans, say our attorneys, is that they are SELLING SOMETHING rather than OFFERING EMPLOYMENT.

For instance, the U. S. Postal Service, the agency charged with enforcing mail fraud laws, recently reported on the "idea man" behind a number of deceptive work at home schemes. His latest gimmick is selling scraps of fur and instructions on turning them into earrings to be sold at high prices to persons on mailing lists which are supplied to the consumer.

Unfortunately, most persons who responded to the advertisements have no profits to show and, in addition, have been out the expenses of the materials, mailing lists, and postage.

Another typical aspect of the fraudulent work at home scheme is that the consumer either has to sell the finished product himself or he is led to believe the company will buy his product if it is "up to our standards."

Typically, the goods are not acceptable, the company refuses to buy them back, and the consumer winds up with a garage full of furry earrings, metal flowers, or any of a number of other items.

Other deceptive tactics include companies that offer for sale instruction booklets and other materials to be resold for profit. Sometimes the consumer may not receive the publication after he has sent his money; other times he may receive publications that he could have obtained free, usually from the U. S. Government Printing Office.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys urge persons who are tempted by work at home advertisements to be cautious about paying money for information about plans, materials, or equipment. They also point out that there are no sure-fire, effortless ways to get rich through work at home programs, in spite of what the ads say.

For assistance with a consumer complaint about deception in work at home plans, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your Better Business Bureau.

Time Spent In Housework — 1920s vs. 1970s

Have you ever wondered what happens to all that time that your time-saving appliances save you?

Well, relax, homemaker. You're not inefficient; you're using appliances and other modern conveniences to do more than ever for your family.

Time Use Surveys reported in Scientific American show that today's homemaker who is not employed outside the home actually spends more time in family-related tasks than women did in the 1920s—55 hours a week now as opposed to 52 hours then.

On the average, homemakers spend five hours a week less preparing meals and cleaning up afterward than they did 50 years ago. One appliance manufacturer, General Electric, points out that clean-up appliances, such as dishwashers, and convenience foods probably account for most of this gain.

More time is spent today, on the average, in child care, shopping, and other managerial tasks, and—very surprisingly—in doing the laundry.

In spite of the fact that automatic washers and dryers have come onto the scene and ironing has been greatly reduced by modern fabrics and fabric coatings, the average time spent doing the laundry has increased in the last half century, if only by a little. Presumably the reason is that people have more clothes now than they did in the past, and they wash them more often.

Of course, doing laundry today with the aid of automatic washers and dryers is far less uncomfortable and physically demanding than in the days of washboards and clotheslines, the General Electric spokesman notes.

What about women who do work outside the home?

In the 1920s it was unusual to find married women employed outside the home. Today, however, about 40 per cent of married women are in the labor force. In contrast to the 55 hours a week nonemployed women spend on housework, employed women spend just 26 hours a week.

One would expect that employed women, in an effort to "catch up" on housework would spend more time at it on the weekends than do non-employed women. Not so. Nonemployed women spend about an hour a day more on weekend housework than do employed women.

Several possible explanations for this could be:

—Nonemployed women may have larger families and/or younger children.

—Employed women may get more help from other members of the family.

—Employed women may be able to use their earnings to buy labor-saving devices or services of others.

At any rate, the old adage seems to remain true. While modern appliances, fabrics, and foods have made it less demanding, "... A woman's work is never done."

Spices Spark Thrifty Beef

Bone-in chuck, cooked sauerbraten-style, shows how spices can help make budget foods tastier. Thinner than the usual beef cut, bone-in chuck steak needs about 24 hours in a marinade richly spiced with mixed pickling spice, instant minced onion and brown sugar. Beef bouillon makes the gravy and about 45 minutes simmering cooks it to fork-tenderness.

SAUERBRATEN CHUCK STEAK

- 1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
- 1/2 cup white vinegar
- 7 tablespoons water, divided
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 pound bone-in chuck steak
- 1 cup beef bouillon
- 3 tablespoons flour

The mixed pickling spice in a cheesecloth bag. Place in a small saucepan. Add vinegar, 4 tablespoons of the water, minced onion, brown sugar and salt. Heat to boiling point; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 5 minutes; cool. Place steak in a snug-fitting bowl or baking pan. Pour cooled marinade over steak. Cover and refrigerate 24 hours, turning once. Place steak and the marinade that clings to steak in a large skillet. Add bouillon. Cover and simmer until steak is fork-tender, about 45 minutes. Remove steak to a heated platter. Blend flour with remaining 3 tablespoons water. Stir into skillet. Cook and stir until thickened. If desired, add 1/4 teaspoon bottled browning sauce to gravy. Pour over steak. Serve with cooked noodles, if desired.

By Jack House, The Director Teacher's Scotch Information Centre

THE WAY OF AN EAGLE

Every keen golfer has heard of the famous Scottish golf centre, Gleneagles. It consists of a luxury hotel, a club and three golf courses - the King's and Queen's for the "tigers" and the Wee Course for the "rabbits."

Sportsmen fly to Scotland from all over the world just to play over Gleneagles and sometimes there are so many American, Japanese, Swedish and French golfers on the three courses that the Scots can't get a game!

The insignia of the hotel shows a Golden Eagle, the great bird of prey which the Scots consider peculiarly their own. But Gleneagles, in fact, has nothing to do with eagles, even though Golden Eagles have been seen flying above the hotel and in their eyries not far away.

Teacher's Scotch Information Centre can reveal that the name of the hotel and its golf courses comes from the Gaelic, the ancient language of Scotland. "Eagles" is a corruption of the Gaelic word "eaglais," meaning a church, so the name is really "the glen of the church." The true glen runs up into the mountains south of the hotel.

Most golfers, however, don't worry much about the church or the eagles as long as they can achieve a "birdie" or two.

NORWAY SARDINES FOR THE HOME TEAM

Norway sardines have been man-pleasing snacks since the days of the robust Vikings. Then, they smoked their sardines to preserve them. Modern Vikings still smoke them over slow burning oak embers—but now it's done for that special smoky flavor that no other sardine has.

Sardines are one of the best low-cost sources of protein, according to the U.S.D.A. A 3 3/4-ounce can of Norway sardines contains as much protein as the same weight of ground beef, with less fat and fewer calories. That same amount of Norway sardines also provides more calcium than a cup of milk.

Isn't it wonderful that such a nutritious food is not only convenient and low-cost but delicious as well! Smoky sardines are great in combination with other good-for-you foods such as eggs, cheese and vegetables.

Here are two ideas for mini-meal sandwiches with savory sardines - healthful foods to nourish the home team. Great for armchair sportsmen, too!

Beef 'Defies' Rising Grocery Price Index

College Station, Tex.—Beef is "defying" the rising grocery price index, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

"Consumers are finding now that many cuts—once considered 'budget strainers'—are, in fact, more economical," according to the consumer marketing information specialist.

"Across-the-board beef features include chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, rib and round steaks and liver," the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist added.

In poultry departments, some markets have special prices on fryer parts and whole birds, while egg prices are steady or slightly lower than last week, Mrs. Clyatt said.

"Pot toes are quite plentiful — in many markets they cost less than half of last year's prices.

"Cabbage, carrots and cooking greens are other economically priced vegetables, along with celery, broccoli and rutabagas.

"Onion prices, however, are up a bit—due partly to a late crop in the Texas Valley area," the specialist noted.

At fruit counters, grapefruit supplies are dwindling with prices edging upward. Steady prices appear on oranges, bananas, apples and pears, while strawberries and pineapples are more plentiful, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Consumer Watchfords: Ready-to-serve cereals in multi-packs of individual boxes may cost two or three times more per ounce than the same cereal in a larger box.

Pre-sugared, ready-to-serve cereals cost more per ounce than many unsweetened ones.

SHRIMP, EGGS IN NOVEL DISH

If the egg and you are beginning to look at each other with increasing interest, could be a sign of Spring. But before you color them (or even after) add a small can of shrimp to your plans. The combination in this luncheon or late supper dish is a novel, delightful one in which the eternal hard-cooked egg is fluffed and stuffed with shrimp, then baked in a savory sauce.

SHRIMP TEASED EGGS

- 1 can (4 1/2 ounces) shrimp
- 6 large hard-cooked eggs
- 3 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs softened in 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1 tablespoon grated fresh onion
- 1 tablespoon finely minced fresh parsley
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 raw egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Drain shrimp, reserving liquid in the can. If shrimp are small or tiny, reserve 12 or more for garnishing. Chop the rest coarsely and set aside. Peel and halve the eggs. In a bowl, mash yolks and combine with shrimp liquid, buttered crumbs, onion, parsley, and chopped shrimp. Separately, combine sour cream with raw yolk, mustard, and salt; whisk together thoroughly. Stuff egg whites with shrimp mixture; garnish with any reserved shrimp. Arrange in a shallow baking dish and cover with sour cream sauce. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven 25 minutes or until sauce is set and delicately browned. 6 servings.

Do you waste your money when you shop? You do if you don't plan ahead and buy wisely, particularly when you're food shopping.

For example, are you aware of what you've been doing to drive store prices up? Handling the fresh fruits and vegetables hastens spoilage, increases the costs of the store, and so increases prices.

Do you buy better things than you should? Things that are going to be mixed or chopped or hidden don't have to look as good as otherwise. A can of ragged tomatoes is a better investment for spaghetti sauce than a can of whole fancy ones.

Do you go food shopping at the wrong times? If you're hungry or hurried, you're more susceptible to more expensive, impulse buying.

Do you buy the right foods? Some homemakers make their families go almost entirely without the benefits of butter, an important food in today's diet. Butter is a rich source of vitamin A, vitamin D, aids in the absorption of A, D, E and K, and can make practically anything, even inexpensive meals, taste better!

Shopping properly can go a long way toward helping you spread your money around!

Some people believe that losing a bunch of keys is fatal.

Try Caging Your Tomatoes

A proven method of growing tomatoes is by using cages to support the plant rather than staking and pruning.

Cages are nothing more than cylinders made of reinforcing wire, hog wire, or similar material used to support the plant and keep the fruit off the ground. The cylinder should be 18" to 20" in diameter and 2 1/2 to 5 feet tall. Concrete reinforcing wire is generally considered best and available in rolls of various lengths, but most commonly in 5' widths. It takes a length of about 5 1/2' to make a tomato cage 18" in diameter. The cages are held together by bending and crimping the ends of the wire around one of the vertical wires.

The cages should be placed over the tomato plants about when they start to bloom and set fruit. One plant inside each cage is recommended. For support, the bottom ring of the cage can be snipped off so that the cage can be pushed into the ground. It is highly advisable to support the cage with wooden or metal stakes to keep the cage from falling over later in the season.

The plants are allowed to grow naturally within the cages. No pruning of the plant is necessary.

The cages can also be used to protect the plants from cold temperatures or high winds. If the weather looks bad, the gardener can take a plastic trash bag and put it over the cage. The bags can be fastened to the cages using common clothespins. The bottom of the bag (top of the cage) can be cut out or left as is. If the plants are to be protected for a considerable length of time, use a bag light in color and open at the top. The top of the bag can be fastened shut in case of extreme cold weather. When good weather occurs, the bags should be removed.

Several reports have been heard that tomatoes can be successfully grown on the outside of the cages. A larger cage, perhaps 3' to 3 1/2' in diameter is used and four tomato plants are evenly spaced around the cage. The cage is filled with compost. When the plants are watered, the water is applied down through the compost, leaching the compost "tea" into the soil around the plants. Additional fertilizer can be applied to the compost and to the soil around the plants as needed.

As the plants grow, they are tied to the cage for support. Pruning of the plants to a single stem will be necessary.

This system will no doubt work and is presently being tried by Extension horticulturists. You do have to prune the plants and tie them to the cages, which requires more time and labor than the conventional cage method. Expenses will be reduced due to less money spent on reinforcing wire.

Words fail to express how much your thoughtfulness has meant to us during the recent time I had open heart surgery in Houston, and since my return home where I have continued recuperation. The donations of blood, and the gifts of food, along with all the cards, letters, and phone calls were much appreciated by my family as well as myself. Everyone has been most kind and thoughtful and we can only say, again, thanks for everything.

Slow Cookers That Do Many Tasks

Now there are electric frypans that also are slow cookers.

If you are interested in the great tastes and tenderness slow cookers offer but concerned about investing in a single purpose appliance or about space for storage of a product that is limited, this version is worth looking into.

Electric frypans are probably the most versatile of kitchen appliances, doing tasks from baking cakes to roasting meat, making stews, or, as the name indicates, frying foods.

They lower your electric bill in most of these uses. For example, it takes 2.47 times as much electricity to bake a cake in an electric oven as it takes to bake it in a frypan. Making pizza from a mix takes three times as much energy in an oven as the frypan uses.

Now, through addition of a ceramic slow-cooking liner, the versatile electric frypan becomes a slow cooker, too. The lid fits the ceramic liner as well as the frypan and the entire unit stores as a frypan.

One maker, Sunbeam, even sells the ceramic liner separately so that present large-size frypans of that brand can be converted to slow cookers at much lower cost than purchasing the entire crocker frypan.

Fiber—A New Nutrient?

Whether or not "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" is true, the saying points to the role of dietary fiber in human nutrition, a topic under much discussion with a few definite answers.

There is no definite evidence that fiber is required for life. However, fiber—including indigestible substances in plant food, like cellulose and pectin, do provide bulk and contribute to regular elimination.

But is isn't known yet which components of fiber are responsible for this effect—or how much may be needed. The crude fiber content of our food supply has decreased by about one-third since the early part of the century.

This decline in dietary fiber is largely related to a decrease in the consumption of potatoes, whole-grain cereal products and raw fruits and vegetables, which are high in bulk and roughage.

Some research links diseases of the bowel—such as diverticulosis and cancer of the colon—and many other health problems prevalent today to diet low in dietary fiber.

However, more research is needed before these correlations are firmly established.

Fusible Interfacings Save
Sewing Time

Fusible interfacings are a big timesaver for homesewers. Professional looking tailored garments can be achieved without time consuming hand or machine stitching to apply interfacing.

To make interfacings fusible, tiny dots of a fusible product are placed on the underside of woven or non-woven interfacing fabrics. Then the interfacing is simply bonded to the fabric with heat and steam—no stitching necessary.

The newest non-woven fusible interfacings have stretch in one direction for flexible, soft shaping. These interfacings are suitable for knits or wovens to give body without stiffness.

But it's absolutely necessary to carefully follow directions on the instruction page which comes with the yardage. When correctly fused, the bonding will withstand machine washing and drying. Failure to follow directions exactly will result in unsatisfactory fusing.

If the interfacing can be pulled apart from the fabric after it has cooled, not enough heat or steam was applied for the specified time.

Refer to the instructions for pattern placement to determine direction of stretch. For best results, check the manufacturer's instructions to see where to apply the

Bi-Centennial Participation Promoted

A meeting of the Schleicher County Historical Survey Committee was held at which time it was decided that Eldorado and Schleicher County should participate in the nation's Bi-Centennial Celebration during 1976.

Several suggestions were offered including a long range goal of establishing a Schleicher County Museum. Other activities in the planning stage include the possibility of a pageant based upon themes depicting early United States, Texas and Schleicher County history. Also in the planning stages are parades, folk dances, concerts and a county wide barbecue and homecoming.

Various local clubs and organizations have been and will be contacted to meet in the near future to complete detailed plans for participation in the Bi-Centennial celebration.

interfacing—such as on the under collar or upper collar.

Although fusible interfacings can be used on most fabrics, it's best to test for feasibility on a small swatch of fabric. Sheer fabrics, for example, may allow the fusible product to show through.

A few "popping" sounds are normal when cooking in a microwave oven. It's frequently caused by grease contained in the food being cooked. This can be stopped by turning off the oven, stirring the food, then continuing to cook by resetting the appliance. These sounds also may indicate that the food is being overcooked.

WHITE HOUSE SILVER

The New White House silver service by Gorham is in the "King Charles" design first introduced in 1894. In the style of the popular English Kings patterns imported during the 18th and 19th centuries, this original Gorham design was reproduced for the White House silver service from original dies.

WASHINGTON—The new sterling service to be used in the White House is Gorham's beautiful "King Charles" design.

According to Raymond J. Artabasy, Sr. Vice President of Gorham, the much needed new sterling was ordered by the White House last summer and has been delivered. There are 3,434 pieces in the "King Charles" design which will accommodate as many as 180 persons for luncheons or dinners.

The new service is in the English Kings style similar to flatware imported from England in the 18th and 19th centuries. Gorham created their own variations of the style for many American families. It can still be seen in the inherited silver displayed in several historic houses in Charleston (S.C.) and other early American cities.

The White House silver was made from the original dies found in Gorham archives in Providence (R.I.) and is available nationally in leading jewelry and department stores.

According to Curator Clement Conger, the White House needed new sterling.....a prestigious service historically correct to the period of the House. It will be used in place of the silver originally bought by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, no longer sufficient to accommodate present needs.

Greek and Roman mythologies claim that the movements of giants imprisoned by Jupiter under high mountains caused earthquakes.

The Romans called the ring finger the "medical finger" because they thought a nerve ran directly from it to the heart. With this belief at hand, they used the fourth finger to stir medicines.

Washington's Birthday State

George Washington celebrated just about every one of his 67 birthdays in Virginia. And 243 years since his birth, Virginia continues the party with Washington Birthday parades, banquets and open houses in tribute to the "Father of Our Country."

Mount Vernon, George Washington's estate near Alexandria, Virginia.

Born at Wakefield near Fredericksburg, Virginia, in 1732, Washington spent most of his childhood in northern Virginia. Although desiring a seafarer's life, he was persuaded to accept a surveyor's position at age 16 under Lord Fairfax. In succeeding years came the French and Indian War, his leadership of the Virginia Militia, his marriage to Martha Custis, the inheritance of Mount Vernon, his election to the Virginia House of Burgesses in Williamsburg, and his political and military involvements in America's fight for independence.

In 1775, he was selected Commander in Chief of the Continental Army. Six years later, he accepted Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown and advanced to become the nation's first president in 1789.

To retrace Washington's life is to tour Virginia. Ferry Farm is near Fredericksburg where he spent his early childhood and where a marker denotes the site of the legendary cherry tree. His hometown was Alexandria which features Gadsby's Tavern, frequented by Washington, and the cobblestone streets in restored Old Town which he helped to survey.

Eight miles from Alexandria lies Washington's beloved plantation and mansion Mount Vernon overlooking the Potomac River. He once wrote, "No estate in United America is more pleasantly situated than this." Mount Vernon and its spacious grounds are open to the public every day of the year.

The reconstructed colonial capital of Williamsburg, once the seat of the Virginia House of Burgesses, offers visitors a delightful peek at the past with its craft shops, 18th century homes, taverns and the Governor's Palace. Nearby is the new Busch Gardens scheduled to open in May.

The Yorktown Battlefield National Park and the Yorktown Visitors Center are a short drive away. Yorktown is the site for one of three Virginia Bicentennial centers to be completed by 1976. The Alexandria Center has already opened, and a third is planned at Charlottesville, near Thomas Jefferson's estate Monticello.

To the west of Charlottesville is Winchester near Skyline Drive in the Blue Ridge Mountains. From his office in Winchester, Washington surveyed much of the countryside including Natural Bridge. He used the log cabin from 1758-59 as his headquarters while defending the frontier against the French and Indians.

Complementing the Virginia tour are such attractions as famous Virginia Beach, the Eastern Shore with its natural beauty, and the family entertainment center Kings Dominion near the capital city of Richmond.

In old England, it was the custom of the ruler to wash the feet of several beggars on Maundy Thursday. Queen Elizabeth I, however, would only do this if they had first been washed by her servants in scented water.

During the reign of Charles I an edition of the Bible was printed in which the text of Psalm xlv, 1 read "The fool hath said in his heart there is a God." For this mistake the printers were fined 3,000 pounds and all copies were suppressed.

The first Bible printed in Ireland was dated 1716. John v, 14 reads "sin no more." The mistake was not found out until the impression of 8,000 copies had been printed and bound.

(Famous Brooklyn Bridge later patterned after it—both built by John Roebling of New York.) For more information, write Mrs. Burke Reynolds, 4201 Morrow Avenue, Waco 76710.

Sacred kings and priests in Polynesia were once not allowed to touch food with their hands, and had therefore to be fed by others.

Many Malays firmly believe that their king possesses a personal influence over the works of nature, such as the growth of the crops and the bearing of fruit trees.

Smile the Clouds Away

It's a line from an old gospel hymn, "Sing and Smile and Pray."
Our little lady with the checkered raincoat and umbrella has a most engaging smile. We're not sure whether she's happiest about her "storm gear" or her puppy dog or perhaps where she's going on this rainy day.
But this is certain—it takes preparedness to smile the clouds away.
Every Sunday in our churches millions of youngsters are learning with Christian conviction to sing and smile and pray. Their religious training is preparing them for all-weather living.
The darker the sky, the brighter the gleam in the eyes of faith.
