

House Slates Ballot On Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's $3 billion dollar foreign aid program passed by the House today after comfortably surviving all attempts in the Senate to reduce the total.

Senate passage last night marked the first time in five years a global aid authorization measure has won Senate approval without a money cut. Also defeated were attempts to require that a major part of economic aid be made as loans rather than grants.

The final vote was 59-18, with 11 Republicans and seven Democrats voting "no." The program is already under consideration by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The overriding approval recorded by the Senate, however, concealed a measure of strong dissatisfaction on the part of some senators who voted for the bill. They served notice they would fight to reduce the money total in the Appropriations Committee and later on the Senate floor when the forthcoming money bill is taken up. The legislation passed yesterday authorizes continuation of the seven-year-old aid program.

Actual money to carry it out must be voted separately.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), an Appropriations Committee member, put it plainly when he told the Senate that he considered the authorization a "maximum."

"We are not signing a promissory note and guaranteeing to redeem this amount" in the forthcoming appropriations bill, he declared.

Another matter that seemed certain to play a role in the measure's ultimate fate was Yugoslav Marshal Tito's communique joint statement with Russia yesterday favoring "satisfaction of the legitimate rights" of Red China regarding Formosa, the island stronghold of Chiang Kai-shek which this nation is pledged to defend.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) during debate yesterday mentioned the declaration of principles signed by the Yugoslav President and Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, but the news came last in the outcome.

But in interviews today, Senators Mansfield (D-Mont), Jackson (D-Wash) and Humphrey (D-Minn) all indicated the incident would be used by aid opponents in their efforts to reduce the program. The bill would permit Yugoslavia to receive 40% million dollars in defense support money in the year starting July 1 and an undisclosed sum in the form of military items such as planes and guns.

Major changes adopted by the Senate in the aid bill included: a provision earmarking 300 million dollars in the aid total to pay for surplus U.S. agricultural products for shipment abroad; an amendment requiring the use of 17 million additional dollars for economic aid for Bolivia, Guatemala and Haiti, to be taken out of a presidential contingency fund of 100 million dollars; and a statement of intention that European nations which have been aided by past U.S. assistance should bend their own shoulders to the task of building up the economies of free Asian nations.

200 Awaiting Signal Gun In Uranium Rush

HOBO HOT SPRINGS, CALIF. (AP)—About 200 men, some carrying guns, and several women camped in steep, rocky, Kern River Canyon during the night—the vanguard of an expected horde of uranium stampedeurs due to stake claims today.

Camping with the first arrivals near this mountain resort were 53 heavily armed members of the Kern County sheriff's posse. All had horses, all wore sidearms and most carried deer rifles. Many also had walky-talky radios. Several physicians with blood plasma, stretchers and an ambulance accompanied the posse.

"We're here to make a show of force, hoping that it will prevent any trouble," said Sheriff Le Roy Galien. "But if anyone wants trouble, we're ready to cope with it."

What the sheriff calls "an explosive situation" was to be highlighted today with the opening by the federal government of 2,314 acres of public land to staking of mineral claims. In the center of this acreage 160 miles north of Los Angeles is the Miracle Mine.

The rush is to start at noon EST. Although it is California's richest uranium strike, the mine has shipped only 4 1/2 tons of ore, for which its owners were paid $2,600. Despite this modest output, the mine recently was bought for one million dollars.

Up to three thousand prospectors may race into the canyon to file claims. Claim jumping is expected and possibly trouble.

The federal land is being thrown open to mineral development at the request of the original Miracle Mine owners, who developed the property unaware that it had been withdrawn from the public domain years ago as a possible dam site.

Although George Killmer, Taft, Calif. service station owner and five partners staked 20 claims covering Miracle's 400 acres in January, 1954, the Federal Bureau of Land Management ruled their claims now invalid.

They are restaking their property today. Killmer said "outsiders" also have staked Miracle land, but contends that the original partners and new owners have "prior rights."

"It will be up to the outsiders to prove any rights they think they have," said Killmer. "After all, we have an operating mine here."

The partners and new owner, the Wyoming Gulf and Sulphur Co., have put $100,000 into shafts, tunnels, chutes and buildings.

The other mine in the area, the Kergon Claims, also is being restaked by its owners.

Repeat Due For Rains In West Texas

Thunderstorms which poured up to seven inches of rain on West Texas overnight faded early Friday but were expected to boil up again by sundown.

Marauding storms ranged West Texas from the Big Bend to the Panhandle Thursday night, spewing heavy rain in spots, lightning, unconfirmed tornadoes and blowing dust.

Seven inches of rain reportedly fell near the South Plains town of Petersburg. The Harmony Community near Floydada reported six inches. The McCoy Community, also near Floydada, reported 2.50.

Lightning set a cotton warehouse on fire at Lubbock. Damage was estimated at $120,000.

$98 Million State Tax Bill Approved

AUSTIN (AP)—The House today passed the biggest taxing bill in the history of Texas, approving 72-67 a measure to raise $98 million dollars in the next two years.

The vote cleared the way for quick adjournment of the Legislature, which has been working without pay since May 10.

The bill accepted was the report of a Senate-House conference committee, named to work out differences in House and Senate ideas for raising the needed revenue.

Speaker Jim Lindsey agreed to lay out a resolution this afternoon calling for final adjournment of the session. Two are pending that would bring work to an end next Tuesday noon.

Debate of the tax bill raged most of the morning.

It was approved in spite of opposition charges that it was "100 per cent sales taxes except for one small item—the franchise tax increase—and it's one of the worst taxes ever devised." That statement came from Rep. Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde.

Backers of the bill, led by Rep. Stanton Stone of Freeport, said it would raise the money needed for the record-sized 1 1/2 billion dollar appropriation bill passed by both houses Monday.

The House rejected 70-68 the motion of Rep. Ben Atwell, Hutchins, to send the bill back to a conference committee and moved into direct debate on Stone's motion to accept the report.

It heard charges from Rep. A. R. Schwartz, Galveston, that the House had been "sold out by our own conference committee," which he charged bowed to the will of the Senate.

"I'd like to know who fought the battle of the House in that conference committee," Schwartz yelled. "They turned and ran from their obligations."

Rep. Otis Bristow, Big Spring, accused opponents of the tax bill of being afraid of "the beer lobby."

"I'm not afraid of the beer lobby," the burly ex-football coach said, "and I'll vote for any tax that will make the highways of Texas safer." Some 40 million dollars from the new taxes would go to highways in the next two years.

"When I go back to my district," Briscoe shouted, "I do not want to tell the people there that I had the 'courage' to vote increased taxes on the beer they drink, the gasoline they use and the cigarettes they smoke—but didn't have the courage to tax natural gas."

Both Briscoe and Rep. Charles Kirkham, Cleburne, challenged the action of the administration-dominated conference committee in striking a Senate-passed tax on natural gas dedicated for use in pipelines taking the gas to other states.

Briscoe said the natural gas tax was a point of disagreement between the two houses and urged that a conference committee be held to "put a tax on natural gas—where the wealth of the state lies—instead of more sales taxes."

The measure, calculated to raise $98,107,360 to balance the state budget and build new highways, was accepted by the Senate yesterday 18-13.

Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin told the Senate the bill was "the best we can do under the circumstances."

County Agent Is Optimistic On Crop Prospects

Farm Agent James Taylor is taking an optimistic view of Howard County crop prospects, following a survey of conditions in all sections of the county.

"I don't believe conditions are as bad in most areas as some observers have pictured them," Taylor said this morning.

The agent estimated that 40 per cent of the county's 81,000 acres of cotton is up to a good stand. Much more is "popping" out of the ground in the wake of showers which dampened a large portion of the county Wednesday, he said.

Taylor said that on an inspection tour Thursday, he found cotton that was up "looking pretty good."

A lot of feed also is up and thriving, the agent said he noted.

Worst conditions were encountered in the southwestern portion of the county, which mostly has been missed by spring rains which soaked the north part of the county.

Taylor described the situation southwest of Big Spring as "only fair."

Practically everyone has completed planting, with some cotton yet and the remainder not showing up yet. The agricultural agent said he believes most of the crops in that area will come up to a stand without additional rain, but that more moisture is to be needed soon to maintain any growth.

Across the north part of the county, Taylor said most farmers have plenty of moisture to carry crops for several weeks. A hard rain now would do more harm than good in that section, he said.

Taylor said he found some damage resulting from sustained winds in the western part of the county. However, he said he doesn't believe crops have been injured by blowing sand as badly as some have thought.

Some replanting will be necessary in the north central Howard where hard rains Wednesday evening beat crops into the ground and covered the plants with silt. This is not an extensive area, however, Taylor said.

In other parts of the county, light showers dampened the crust sufficiently to permit young plants to pop through the surface.

Luke Thompson is Hurt In Fall At Country Club Pool

Luke Thompson, lifeguard at the Country Club swimming pool, was released from Copper Clinic this morning after X-rays showed no indication that he received a concussion in an accident Thursday at the pool.

He hit his head as he fell and rolled unconscious into a foot of water still in the pool. C. A. DeWees, pro of the Country Club, and two members, Kent Morgan and Pete Harmonson, witnessed the accident and pulled him from the water. A Nalley ambulance took Thompson to the hospital.

Attendants report his condition as satisfactory on his release this morning. Thompson is a locally prominent golfer. He won the state championship this year for Howard County Junior College.

He was sped to the hospital. Dr. Robert P. Kelley, the osteopath, told newsmen the child, when born, gave every appearance of being dead. She weighed 2 pounds, 2 ounces, including the towel she was wrapped in, he said.

The osteopath said he spent 30 minutes giving artificial respiration and respiratory stimulants. But finally, noting no signs of heart beat or respiration, he pronounced her dead.

Shortly afterward — he was not sure how long — the funeral home was called, he said.

Dr. Kelley said that even though the artificial respiration and stimulants failed to induce breathing in the baby, the vibrations resulting from her being moved to the funeral home must have done so.

Such an occurrence is uncommon, but not unheard of, he said.

PLEA DUE Governor Orders Executions Delay

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Goodwin Knight ordered a delay today in the executions of Barbara Graham, John A. Santo and Emmett B. Perkins to permit presentation of the 11th-hour petitions to the California Supreme Court.

The governor acted after William Strong, Los Angeles attorney for Mrs. Graham, requested the delay, stating he wanted to present a plea.

The governor also was informed that Al Matthews, an attorney for Mrs. Graham, wished to present a writ of habeas corpus to the California Supreme Court.

The governor announced the delay in a press statement issued at 9 a. m., just an hour before the executions were to start.

The governor did not indicate how long the delay was.

All three were convicted of beating to death an elderly widow in a futile robbery.

For Santo and Perkins this was but one of at least six gallous murders, including the notorious Chester, Calif., slaughter of grocer Guafu Young and three small children for the grocer's $7,100.

Mrs. Graham had a record as a prostitute, narcotics user and vagrant dating back to the age of 13.

Four times married and three times a mother, she said she had wanted all her life to have money. "To give the appearance of being respectable."

The three were condemned for a money-seeking murder which didn't yield a cent.

The word got out that a Las Vegas gambler had hidden $100,000 in the Burbank home of his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Monahan, 63.

March 11, 1953, while she was reading "The Purple Pony Murders," she was beaten to death with a pistol.

Baxter M. Shorter, 44, a Santo associate, put the finger on Santo, Perkins and Mrs. Graham.

Then Shorter was kidnaped from his home. He hasn't been reported since. Police believe he was done away with to silence him.

ON CONSOLIDATION Lomax, Stanton School Vote Set

Voters in the Lomax and Stanton districts will decide Saturday whether their schools shall be consolidated as proposed by a group of Lomax residents.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. in both places. The Lomax election will be held at the school with Ralph Coates, Mrs. L. H. Batton and Lehman Rawls in charge of the voting.

In Stanton, the high school gymnasium has been designated as the polling place. Jack Jones will serve as presiding judge, Martin County Judge Jim McCoy reported today.

Qualified voters in both the school districts must approve the move before the schools can be consolidated.

The Lomax elementary school has been inoperative for the past several weeks, and under a provision of the Gilmer-Alken law, either patrons or the county school board must make some decision as to its future.

A petition proposing that the district be consolidated with Stanton was circulated several weeks ago following a meeting of school leaders and residents of the district.

The Lomax district had received "welcomes" from Big Spring and Elbow districts, as well as from the Stanton Independent School District.

During the two years the Lomax school has been closed, students from the district have attended classes in Stanton, Elbow and Big Spring.

Only one proposition will be up for a decision. Voters may express themselves as either for or against consolidation of the two schools.

Roaring Fire Levels El Paso Warehouse

EL PASO (AP)—A roaring fire burned a two-story downtown warehouse to the ground last night. No one was hurt, but damage was put at $750,000.

Occupants of a small hotel next to the Friedman and Bendall Co. warehouse fled, but the flames did not spread to the hotel.

Childress reported blowing dust and gusty winds.

To the south, thunderstorms also were reported around Salt Flat, Wink, Midland, west of San Angelo at Monahan's and Maria.

Good rain fell west of San Angelo. Fort Stockton had 1.95 inches. Pecos more than an inch.

A downpour estimated at 1/2 inch interrupted the opening of the Monahan's Junior Chamber of Commerce Rodeo. McCamey reported .77 inch.

Marfa got between .25 and .40 inch. The rain was preceded by a dust storm that cut visibility to 1/2 block for some 30 minutes.

Early Friday, however, the only rain reported was showers at Midland and Dalhart.

But the Weather Bureau said unstable air covering the state would form more storms as the day wore on. Showers were forecast for all sections of the state at least through Saturday.

Temperatures at 4:30 a. m. ranged from 57 at Dalhart to 75 at Brownsville.

LAMESA—Someone or something broke up an intended burglary of the Walford Grocery in the Welch community northwest of here last night.

Southwest Dawson Gets Showers, Hail

ACKERLY — This "wet" country got another shower last night. In Ackerly, the shower which started at 11 p. m. produced 4 1/2 inches. Coming as it did on the heels of 3 1/2 inches the previous evening, the rain was enough to send water running from fields into the barrow ditches again.

Seven and eight miles to the northwest, near the Sparenberg area, the showers ranged up to .8 of an inch.

Heavy showers, accompanied by a rocking hail, took out crops in the Flower Grove Community midway between Lamesa and Stanton and set the stage for general replanting.

Last night's showers did not extend far to the south or east.

Fourth Of July Fireworks Ordered

Fireworks have been ordered for the annual Fourth of July celebration, said J. H. Greene, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Seth Lacy, electrician, will again be in charge of the display.

Plans call for the traditional beauty contest to be held at the amphitheatre in the park. The Business and Professional Women's Club is now making arrangements for the occasion.

Though the selection of Miss Big Spring and Miss Howard County will highlight the show, varied entertainment will be presented. Miss Lorena Brooks is general chairman of arrangements.

Freed Fliers Relax With Their Families On Hawaiian Holiday

HONOLULU (AP)—Four U.S. jet fighter pilots, shot down in the Korean War and jailed more than two years in Red China, relaxed today in the love and comfort of their families on a Hawaiian holiday.

The airmen planned picnics, sightseeing tours, beach parties and talkfests to catch up on family news between military interrogations in the next three or four days.

Their tears of joy were bright with new hope that 11 other captive U.S. airmen might follow them soon to freedom.

The airmen planned picnics, sightseeing tours, beach parties and talkfests to catch up on family news between military interrogations in the next three or four days.

They are scheduled to leave for their homes Monday.

Life has moved swiftly for them in the past few days. They were freed Tuesday at the Red China border near Hong Kong, flown to Hawaii in 35 hours, told of tribulations in Communist prisons, and were reunited yesterday with wives, parents and brothers in a joyous meeting.

Lt. Roland W. Parks of Omaha told a reporter his Chinese jailers gave him "every reason to believe" the other airmen would be freed soon.

"They used us," he said. "Now they're going to use them. The Reds want continual favorable publicity of an international nature now."

The fliers showed plainly at this time of joy that their thoughts and prayers were with the men still left behind.

Lt. Lyle W. Cameron, Lincoln,

Neb. spoke for Parks, Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, Wynnewood, Pa., and Capt. Harold E. Fischer, Swea City, Iowa, when asked what he wanted most now that he was free.

"I'd like to be there to greet those other 11 when they come out," he said.

There were indications that Air Force officials flown from Washington to interrogate the men were pressing primarily for just such scraps of information as Parks brought out.

Parks said in a private interview there was every indication the Chinese Reds were "building up" the 11 remaining fliers for early release.

"They're following the same pattern they followed with us," he said. "My jailers told me they have started letting them write home for the first time."

The 11 B29 bomber crewmen were shot down Jan. 12, 1953. Red China sentenced them to terms ranging from 4 to 10 years on spy charges.

The Air Force flew in Fischer's parents, Cameron's parents and brother Robert, Parks' parents and brother Richard, and Heller's wife.

The fliers, who had stood up against more than two years of red imprisonment, broke down at the airport when they embraced their loved ones.

Dr. Nathan, who first applied 2 1/2 years ago, sought court aid to get the passport in time for a scientific meeting in Bern, Switzerland, opening July 11. He said he wants to arrange for release of Einstein's unpublished manuscripts.

Dr. Scheele said the full report will do so.

That could go a long way toward answering the primary question in parents' minds—should they have their children vaccinated? Equally important is their question, does vaccination reduce the risk of getting polio, and how much?

Dr. Scheele and numerous other experts have repeatedly expressed confidence in the safety and effectiveness of the Salk vaccine. The coming report will presumably tell the public the facts and reasons for their confidence despite the on-again-off-again aspects of the inoculation program.

The report may include a significant time-table of when polio developed among children vaccinated with different makers' vaccines. Polio occurring less than a week after a shot could have come because the child already was incubating the virus from natural exposure, and the vaccine didn't have time to protect. If it developed later, it could mean the possibility that the vaccine caused polio. If it developed a month after a shot, it could mean that the shot simply failed to protect.

The report can tell what has been learned so far about suspected batches of vaccine from one manufacturer.

For a time, other vaccine was still being released, then all release was stopped. The public wonders why, and what this meant.

Dr. Scheele said the report will cover the history of the Public Health Service's role in the vaccine from a year ago to the present.

Health Service Sets Report On Polio Vaccine

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—Most or all your questions about the polio vaccine could be answered in an official report soon.

The U.S. Public Health Service is preparing this report, and it may be ready this weekend, Surgeon General Leonard Scheele said today.

He said it will tell why release of vaccine was held up, and why some changes were made in testing regulations. It will also tell what "new knowledge" was learned during scientific discussions and studies recently.

President Eisenhower says scientific work during the delay period in vaccinations produced "new things about the way viruses behave in large-scale manufacture" and brought "new safeguards."

But little of this has been spelled out.

Dr. Scheele said the full report will do so.

British Rail Strike Enters Sixth Day

LONDON (AP)—Britain's nationwide railway strike ground into its sixth day today with labor peacemakers reporting "no progress at all."

Industrial plants were slowing down for lack of materials from warehouses jammed with finished products.

Talks between leaders of the striking Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and the General Purposes Committee of the powerful Trades Union Congress broke down last night.

Nine of the nation's top trade union leaders left the meeting to report to Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton "no progress at all has been made."

Factories and workshops began to cut operations, with widespread unemployment in prospect if the strike does not end quickly.

Six major Welsh steelworks announced they would bank their furnaces today and put 2,700 workers on odd jobs.

No new moves came yesterday from Prime Minister Eden's government, which has declared a state of national emergency.

The 70,000 ASLEF members, who man the bulk of the nation's locomotives, are demanding a raise of $1.12 a week over their present base pay of $27.30.

The ASLEF strike is strongly opposed by the 400,000-strong National Union of Railwaymen (NUR) which includes about 17,000 engineers and firemen and the rest of Britain's rail labor. But the NUR says if wage talks are reopened for the other union, its men also must be considered.

The British Transport Commission, which manages the state-owned rail lines, has been trying to get the two unions to submit a joint wage proposal. It repeated its offer last night for a round-table consideration of "additional rewards for special responsibility or skill."

However, the commission stuck to its demand that the strikers must return to work first.

London's metropolitan police force reported traffic in the carboated metropolis was a little easier yesterday than in the early days of the strike.

Overshadowed by the rail walk-out, some 20,000 stevedores continued their 72-day-old strike at six major ports. Yesterday work was held up on 170 ships at Hull, London, Manchester, Garston, Liverpool and Rochester.

Most of these strikers are members of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union (NASDU), which is demanding bargaining rights outside London now held only by the Transport and General Workers Union representing 80,000 dockers.

The TGWU accuses NASDU of "poaching" membership and refuses to give ground until it gets those members back.

Widow Won't Change Date Second Time

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Elenor O'Leary, 36-year-old widow who is hospitalized with a fractured hip, isn't going to change her wedding date a second time.

She will be married Saturday to Ray Roberts, 51, a widower, in Delnor Hospital in suburban St. Charles.

The couple last Christmas decided to be married July 31. In February Mrs. O'Leary fractured her right ankle and while convalescing she and Roberts changed their wedding date to June 4. Friends warned them of the superstition that it's bad luck to change the wedding date.

Three weeks ago, when Mrs. O'Leary's ankle was about healed, she fractured her right hip when her car ran into a ditch near her home. But she refused to postpone the ceremony a second time and got the hospital's permission to be married there.

'Non-English' Here's Margaret Rowe, 19-year-old "Miss England," whose selection has stirred up something of a row in London. Her contours, some say, are non-English. Her measurements are 37-24-37, and the judges say her selection was prompted by a desire to compete seriously for the Miss Universe title in Long Beach, Calif., this year.

Supreme Court Ruling Defied

Georgia Attorney General Eugene Cook, left, and Governor Marvin Griffin discuss the Supreme Court's latest ruling on segregation after their arrival at Dobbins Air Force Base in Marietta, Ga. The two Georgia officials had been on a trip sounding out legislators on the possible need of a special session of the legislature for raising taxes. Gov. Griffin said, "the high court is trying to sugar-coat its bitter pill of tyranny and the people of Georgia and the South will not swallow it." Cook said the tribunal "neither gave a formula for integration nor established machinery for enforcement."

Northern Methodist Hits Alabama Integration Stand

ATLANTA (AP)—A northern Methodist leader has criticized the Alabama Methodist Conference for opposing integration. Bishop John Wesley Lord last night described as "unfortunate and a black mark on the church" a proposal adopted by the Alabama Methodist Conference demanding retention of separate churches of white persons and Negroes in the South. Bishop Lord is presiding bishop of the Southern New England Conference of Methodists now meeting at Manchester, Conn. He said the attitude of the Alabama Methodist delegates probably is "a hangover of resentment to the Supreme Court decision (banning segregation in the public schools). "However, the principle is still wrong. We are moving away from discrimination and the church should lead the way. The days of the second class citizen are ended." The Alabama Methodist Conference at Montgomery adopted a resolution asking the General Assembly not to pass any legislation that would "interfere with the right to maintain separate racial customs in churches, schools, colleges, assemblies and conferences within the Methodist Church."

Police Probe Into Death Of Indian Priest

CHICAGO (AP)—Police had few important clues today as they continued their investigation of the slaying of the Rev. John Chiramal, 40-year-old Roman Catholic priest from India. Father Chiramal died in Mother Cabrini Hospital at 9 a.m. yesterday from stab wounds which extended across the left side of his chest and into his left arm. Three hours earlier he had staggered into the Little Sisters of the Poor residence on the near West Side and collapsed. Father Chiramal, founder and director of Boys Town in India, came to Chicago Tuesday to solicit funds from among prominent Indians in the city attending the Rotary International Convention. He had been in the United States about four years, traveling extensively to raise funds for the Boys Town in India. Police said that Albert Dismaracia, caretaker at the sisters' home found the priest near collapse at the door yesterday morning. He said the priest told him, "I am hurt and I have to get to bed." Dismaracia summoned Mother Emily, sister superior, and Father Chiramal told her, "I have been attacked. I've been robbed." He also told her, police said, the scene of the crime was "far away." Policeman Espy Knox said the priest also had told him he had been robbed and attacked "far away" from the sisters' home. Police said, robbery appeared a likely motive. About $22 was found in the pockets of the plaid jacket he wore but his wallet was missing.

No More Believed Trapped In Buildings

DALLAS (AP)—Rescue workers believe no more persons are trapped in the debris of two collapsed buildings. The toll stands at three dead and eight injured. A vacant three-story building crumbled Wednesday night before wrecking crews could finish tearing it down. It smashed onto a next-door cafe and music store. A 22-hour search for victims was halted late yesterday.

New Mexican Governor, Solon Take Dim View Of Postal Error

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa, Tex., would be very happy to welcome Hobbs and Roswell, N. M., into Texas, but, says the West Texas congressman, don't let New Mexico take Odessa. The lawmaker's fears for Odessa were expressed in a letter to the Post Office Department and—surprise—carried a back door appeal for a new post office. Writing to Postmaster General Summerfield, Rutherford noted that a department press release mistakenly listed Hobbs and Roswell as Texas cities. The release concerned emergency mail service. John Simms, governor of New Mexico, also took a dim view of the press release. He flew in yesterday from Denver and: 1. Alerted the New Mexico National Guard to "preserve the integrity of our borders." 2. Instructed the geography division of the Department of Education to "send General Summerfield a map of the state of New Mexico with the communities of Hobbs and Roswell circled in red."

Rutherford told Summerfield the mistake over Hobbs and Roswell had created certain fears in his own breast concerning Odessa, a true Texas town. "Since you have misplaced Hobbs and Roswell... I wonder if you would be kind enough to check your files for me and determine if you are carrying Odessa in Ector County, Texas, as it should be?" he asked. "The thought enters my mind that perhaps you are under the illusion that it is elsewhere and have constructed a post office for the benefit of Odessans, but have located it in some other state by mistake. "If this is true, please have the post office moved as quickly as possible to Odessa, Texas, for the facilities are certainly needed," he said. "As a matter of fact, the post office building is the only inadequate structure in the entire city, to my knowledge."

Rutherford's letter said of Hobbs and Roswell: "We would welcome them to the Texas fold if and when the citizens express a desire to join our fortunate citizens as Texans but at the present time the Boundary Commission considers them in New Mexico, much, I am sure, to the disappointment of these residents." Rutherford added, "for the compliment you paid to the New Mexico cities of Hobbs and Roswell for elevating them to the status of Texas locations. "Like all true Texans, I am generous by nature and I find it within my heart to invite you to place any other towns or cities in Texas at your convenience, if they are not fortunate enough to already be included in the boundaries of the Lone Star State."

It's the new kind of hardtop—
The 4-Door Riviera!

THERE seems to be some confusion about what a hardtop really is, and we'd like to set the matter straight. A hardtop is a car that looks like a Convertible with the top up—but has a solid steel roof overhead—and no center posts in the side window areas. Up until just recently, it could be built in volume only with two doors—not more—because it would take wholly new structural principles to hinge another set of doors without floor-to-roof center posts. But Buick came up with those new structural principles and is now building—it in volume—hardtops with four doors.

You see one pictured here. It's the 4-Door Riviera. And it's taking the country by storm... Because here, at long last, is an automobile with the sleek and sporty styling of a true hardtop—but with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus the added room of a full-size Buick Sedan. On top of that, this beauty is all Buick—with the buoyant ride of Buick's all-coil springing—the wallowing might of Buick's record-high V8 power—the whip-quick getaway and sizable gas-savings of Buick's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflo. And it's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the budget-tagged 188-hp SPECIAL, and the high-performance 236-hp CENTURY, illustrated here. Come visit us for a first-hand meeting with the 4-Door Riviera—and see how quickly and how easily the last word in automobiles can be yours. *Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Of old hast thou laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the work of thy hands. (Ps. 102:25)

Editorial

Opinion May Have Sobering Effect

The Supreme Court's opinion on the public school segregation cases is a model of brevity and clarity. It ran to no more than a column and a half of newspaper space, and its general tone was calm, moderate and in essence modest. There was no arm-flailing, no intemperate dogmatism. The opinion might well serve as a calming influence on extremists in both camps.

It gives the case of effectuating desegregation to local federal courts "as soon as possible." One paragraph is especially significant: "In fashioning and effectuating the decrees," it says, "the courts will be guided by equitable principles. Traditionally, equity has been characterized by a practical flexibility in shaping its remedies and by a facility for adjusting and reconciling public and private needs. These cases call for the exercise of these traditional attributes of equity power."

While the opinion does hold that the affected districts must make "a prompt and reasonable start toward full compliance with our May 17, 1954, ruling" that is, that segregation is unconstitutional—it holds that "Courts of equity may properly take into account the public interest in the elimination of such obstacles in a systematic and effective manner."

School districts which have provided genuine equality of facilities for colored people as well as white are obviously on stronger ground with regard to equity than those which have neglected this principle. Districts which have been careful to provide colored students with facilities on a par with those enjoyed by whites could hardly be expected to mix the two races in all existing facilities just for the sake of mixing; it would be impractical from a geographical standpoint if from no other. But in many parts of the Deep South equal facilities do not exist, and one effect of the desegregation decree may be to hasten school construction for colored pupils in hopes of delaying or staving off eventual commingling of the races at the public school level.

Be Careful, General. What You Said!

Unless our old eyes deceive us, the boss of the U. S. Air Force, General Nathan Twining, said in Norfolk, Va., this week that the U. S. maintains a narrow advantage over Russia in long-range bomber superiority, but the Soviets do hold an edge in fighter aircraft. Watch it, General; the Pentagon'll get you if you don't watch out. Lesser men have been rebuked for hinting at what you just said. It ain't healthy to go round hinting that we might be no better off for air power than the Russians.

The General also dared the wrath of the budget-cutters by voicing "deep interest" in the recent statement by Rep. George Mahon of Texas that he would ask for an additional $200 million to step up bomber production. The reporter quoted General Twining as saying, "That would be a big help."

As this was written the General had not put in a claim of having been misquoted, so maybe he's going to get away with such rash statements — which is more than Adm. Carney did.

But the General's "big help" comment on George Mahon's $200 million upping of bomber construction is subject to a rather startling thought: one of those big babies costs $8 million, so the extra money would create hardly more than a couple dozen of them.

Since our chief reliance for national safety has been placed on the Air Force, any weakness in that arm is of concern to every American. We could be well ahead of Russia in all categories and still be fatally weak with respect to the total Communist strength, for Russia's satellites and bedfellows, particularly "Red China," are relatively stronger in the air than any of our allies and friends with the exception of Great Britain. Germany has no air at all, Italy only a token force; France is little better off. Sweden probably has the most powerful air force in Western Europe except Britain, but Sweden is neutral.

Billy Graham's Great Impact On England

LONDON — The big news of the month of May in Britain was not the general election. It was the phenomenon of the Billy Graham meetings, as hundreds of thousands of persons sat in Wembley Stadium in cold weather and listened to his simple and direct exposition of the doctrines of Christianity.

For a full week Billy Graham had audiences every day far in excess of those that attended the political meetings. At times it rained, but the people stayed on. What is the secret of the man who is swamping England? He was invited to Windsor Castle to preach in the private chapel, as Queen Elizabeth and the members of the royal household listened with intense interest. He has attracted the largest crowds in all history, even exceeding sporting matches. Maybe the best answer is the one given by the "London Daily Star":

"Here is a man who knows the innermost need of his fellows and can abundantly satisfy it with his old but ever new evangelical answers."

"No one can doubt that when they see, while great political leaders bemoan election apathy and empty meetings, people flocking to Wembley — nearly half a million of them — to stand in rain and blow to hear an old, old story told punchily and sincerely by an up-to-date American. Elections are concerned with a man's bread and Wembley usually with his games. But one lesson to the observer of this week's crusade is that men and women do not live by either or both alone. As spiritual beings they are hungry for something more."

The "London Daily Telegraph" had this to say: "This closing meeting had a cupful of crowd without the roar and hysteria, a crowd whose silence and attention gave the impression more of reasoning than emotion."

The "London Evening News," the world's largest evening newspaper, made this comment: "Never before have so many people come to one place to hear in so short a space of time as a week the word of God. It can truly be called the phenomenon of the mid-century — one which is all the more remarkable because fifteen months ago it would have seemed impossible. It may not be too much to hope that it may be the start of a spiritual renaissance."

Billy Graham is not the usual sort of evangelist who depends on elocution and gestures to win his audience. He talks in simple, easy-to-understand sentences. He doesn't preach about questions of politics and economics, as do some clergymen who justify their digressions into such subjects by arguing always that some moral issue is involved. Billy Graham doesn't talk politics at all. He talks about the Bible in terms that mean something to the individual. He has a good voice and an easy manner. It is, after all, the thought he expresses that counts most — not his method of delivery. He has learned how to teach people the meaning of the things that Jesus said centuries ago and which remain a basis for guidance in human affairs today.

There is no doubt that the people of Europe are hungry for a deeper understanding of God's influence in their lives. They are shellshocked by wars and frightened by threats of more wars. They are searching for a means of living which shall bring satisfaction and peace of mind. They go to hear Billy Graham, because they think he can give them a cue to a way of life that will be better than what they have experienced. So he appeals, not to the emotions of his listeners, but to their common sense and their instinctive respect for the spiritual power that has changed the lives of many persons.

Always at the end of the meetings Billy Graham asks those who are willing to make a commitment for a better life — he calls it a "Decision for Christ" — to step forward. Thousands of people have done so — in fact, the number counted for the big crusade in London was 77,348. Naturally the question arises as to whether they maintain their changed position of dedication to a new way of life. Recent surveys have been made and the number who have slid back or away since the meetings a year ago is a very small percentage.

It isn't this number of changed persons alone but the hundreds of thousands who took the trouble to go to the Billy Graham meetings which is so impressive — about 3,147,000 persons in England and Scotland. How, it may be asked, are they attracted to the meetings in the first place? How do they hear about them? The churches, of course, cooperate by making announcements in advance. The newspapers carry front-page articles about the meetings right along. But the fact is the story is conveyed by word of mouth from one end of the country to the other.

Already the people on the continent of Europe are beginning for a chance to attend some of these crusades. Billy Graham moves shortly to France and Germany. He has been told by some ministers from Eastern Europe that he might have an opportunity to preach behind the Iron Curtain. This could result from a Soviet gesture for propaganda reasons. It would be more important and helpful if all the Christian churches in the Communist countries were opened to their ministers and not just one evangelist admitted. This would be true religious freedom instead of the token representation which is permitted today.

Billy Graham feels deeply that Communism has misled many innocent persons in the world, but he prefers to talk about Christianity as a positive force. For this, he thinks, can change the lives of men everywhere when they put into practical application in their daily relations with other human beings the principles that Jesus taught 2,000 years ago in an era not less turbulent and not less dangerous to human life just because there were no atom bombs.

No Swimming

EL PASO — Now it comes out that one of the Southwest's favorite outdoor diversions is illegal, at least in this city. Ordinance No. 1 after the city's incorporation in 1873 — just brought to light — specifies it is a misdemeanor for any person to wade, paddle, swim, dive or duck in the waters of any irrigation ditch within the city.

Hungry Memory

GLENN, Mich. — This Banquet celebrates Pancake Day every year. It is a memorial to a day in 1937, when a snowstorm caught citizens with sparse food reserves. There was little to eat but pancakes until roads were cleared.

Just Too Easy To Make A Guess

WASHINGTON — This is one case—the Russian-Yugoslav declaration of principles—where it's just too easy to make a guess: it's a terrible news and it's ominous and suspicious or it has no meaning or it is a victory for the West.

What you read into this one at this time probably reflects your own state of mind more than anything else. The real meaning will become clearer later when the State Department shows its attitude toward Yugoslavia.

It's a pretty good bet the American ambassador in Belgrade will have a quiet talk with Marshal Tito to find out what he had in mind when he signed the document yesterday with the Russians. Perhaps he has already been told.

The first reaction of State Department people—they didn't want to make any flat statement until they had read the declaration carefully—was that it was vague and nothing to be alarmed about.

There may be those in Congress who will find a sinister significance in the document and want to shut off aid to Tito. The State Department's stand on future aid to the Yugoslavs will be revealing.

Tito is a Communist, but he broke with the Russian Communists in 1948. This country handed him thereafter millions of dollars in economic and military aid.

There was good reason for the help: Tito was the first Communist leader to break with Moscow. Helping him survive and prosper might encourage other Communists to do the same.

Besides, Tito has insisted he is neutral between the West and Russia. If he didn't join the Western alliance against Russia, it was at least worth plenty to keep him neutral and out of alliance with Moscow.

The Russians went to Belgrade to win him back. No one can say flatly they succeeded, judging by the declaration of principles. On the contrary, judging from the generalities in the declaration, it could be said they had failed.

What is not known is what agreements, if any, the Yugoslavs and Russians made secretly. The declaration itself said the two countries would take further steps toward getting along even cooperating.

This seems to mean further negotiations. But the reports from Belgrade this week, both before and after the declaration was announced, indicated the Russians didn't get to first base with Tito. Those reports also have to be taken with a grain of salt—because there may have been secret understanding—until Tito's future actions can be watched or the State Department learns more than is publicly known now. One thing seems clear: since the Russians tried to destroy him after his break in 1948, any man in his position would have to think: Would I be a sap to get tangled up with them again, particularly since I've been "doing fine" by myself?

Don't Feed Your Kids Bananas

NEW YORK — "Is this vaccine really safe for my child?"

Many American parents are still haunted by doubt over whether to let their children be inoculated in the 1955 national polio campaign.

In London, more than 150 years ago, parents were asking themselves the same question: "Is this vaccine really safe for my child?"

The vaccine had been developed by Dr. Edward Jenner to rid the world of what is perhaps the deadliest infectious disease ever to afflict mankind—smallpox.

Although separated by a century and a half, there is a distinct historical parallel between the introduction of the polio and the smallpox vaccines.

Both stirred public doubt and medical controversy. But whereas the nation's health agencies today have moved swiftly to establish new tests to assure the safety of the polio vaccine, Dr. Jenner's smallpox vaccine had to fight against ignorant fears — and even religious prejudice — for many years, before winning complete acceptance. It still has its diehard foes.

There are some interesting parallels between Dr. Jonas P. Salk, discoverer of the polio vaccine, and his great predecessor, Dr. Jenner.

Both were dedicated scientists who liked to follow their own ideas.

Dr. Salk found the answer to polio in infected monkeys. Jenner found the answer to smallpox in a mild relative of the disease in cows.

Dr. Salk felt so certain of his polio vaccine he inoculated his own children with it. The second person Dr. Jenner inoculated with his smallpox vaccine was his only son. Dr. Jenner had had the disease in youth, and therefore could not test it on himself.

Dr. Salk has shown no interest in profiting personally from his vaccine. Neither did Dr. Jenner, who at one time was inoculating 300 people a day at his own expense. Years later he received two substantial government grants.

The mepace of polio is minor compared to the ravages of smallpox, which during the 18th century in Europe alone, taking two million lives in Russia in a single year.

It was still a scourge more dreaded than war when Dr. Jenner began investigating an old country saying, "Those who get cowpox never get smallpox." His own boyhood suffering had left him with a life's dream: To find a way to wipe out the disease, which sometimes had a death rate as high as 35 per cent, often left the faces of survivors—including the face of George Washington—deeply pock-marked.

In 1796, some 16 years after he had made his first private test, Dr. Jenner publicly demonstrated his vaccine. It was greeted with hope and fear, anger and vituperation.

A leading surgeon denounced it. Some pulpitiars thundered it was against the will of Heaven to cure God-imposed smallpox by an inoculation of man-made cowpox. One minister's verdict: "The most degrading relapse of civilization that ever disgraced the civilized world."

It was whispered about that one boy after being vaccinated took to bellowing like a bull and a girl grew hair all over her body and moomed like a cow.

This Rebel Holiday Wins Approval

I noticed that the banks were closed today in observance of Jefferson Davis' birthday anniversary.

Now those banking fellows take quite a few days off during a year's time, and some of their holidays appear to be pure nonsense. But the Jefferson Davis holiday I heartily approve.

It is one day that people of the South can look back to their period of glory — the years of the Confederacy.

Jefferson Davis, who is listed in the encyclopedia simply as an American statesman, was born in Christian County, Ky., on June 3, 1808. Nearly 33 years later, on Feb. 9, 1861, he became the first and only president of the Confederacy.

Though born in Kentucky, Davis was raised in Mississippi. He went to school in both states, and he was graduated from West Point Military Academy at the age of 20.

After serving seven years as an Army officer, Davis married the daughter of Gen. Zachary Taylor and retired to Mississippi as a cotton planter. He soon entered politics and eventually became a United States senator.

He was made chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and became the accepted leader of the South in national affairs. When California was allowed to enter the Union as a free state, however, he resigned as senator and demanded secession.

The Southern states did not secede at the time, and Davis went on to become Secretary of War under President Franklin Pierce. After enlarging the Army and surveying the Rocky Mountain region, he re-entered the Senate.

When Mississippi followed South Carolina in withdrawing from the Union, Davis resigned again from the Senate. His resignation was with reluctance as he no longer favored secession.

His earlier advocacy of secession made him the favored choice as leader of the Southern states, however, and he was elected president of the Confederacy.

As president he had the thankless job of merging the radicals and conservatives into a workable unit, and he somehow managed to hold the two factions together until total defeat.

Davis found early that there were too many chiefs and not enough Indians in the Southern army. However, he managed to create great armies and a considerable navy. He set up arsenals, built salt works, laid railroad tracks and encouraged manufacturing.

"Zeal and energy characterized his administration from the start and the positive blunders of serious magnitude of which he was guilty were few," said William E. Dodd of the University of Chicago.

Population of the Confederacy was seven million white people. Armies raised numbered near a million men, and it took two million union soldiers some four years to suppress them.

When Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered on April 9, 1865, Davis fled south but was captured at Irwinville, Ga. On release he became president of a Memphis insurance company, which later failed in the panic of 1873. He died at New Orleans.

Davis' life is perhaps no more important than the lives of others, but his life was the life of the Confederacy.

For this reason I think that the anniversary of his birthday should be a widely observed holiday — especially in this part of the world. Perhaps some other business concerns should have followed the example set by the banks.

Good Old Summertime In Manhattan

Any resident of New York knows that he lives in the biggest, best, most exciting, glamorous, challenging, beautiful, diverse, momentous and all-round interesting city in the Western Hemisphere.

He will also readily and modestly admit that it is the national center of art, theatre and finance. Only one facet of the city's innumerable charms completely baffles him; he finds it incredible that New York continues to be the nation's favorite and largest summer resort.

In the good old summertime, the native or adopted son spends all his waking hours trying to get out of the city; it beats him that hundreds of thousands of other Americans rush for the sidewalks of New York when the concrete is at its melting.

No matter how many hundreds of thousands of Americans go to Europe this summer, more will come to New York by boat, train, plane and jalopy. By the time the city's Summer Festival gets under way officially on the 21st of this month, everybody and his kids and his dog will already be here and in command.

The million visitors expected here in 1955 will find the natives friendly and eager and willing to trade. The exchange rate is pegged to the 49-cent dollar in all other parts of the country. And almost everyone speaks some form of English, so there should be no language difficulties.

New Yorkers are a glibulous lot, and it is not regarded as sporting on the part of visiting firemen to try to sell them the riparian rights to Old Faithful. The visitor who meets a shy native is probably encountering a local boy who bought uranium stock last summer from a Canadian tourist or a part of the Petrified Forest the summer before from an Iowa hill.

There is so much to see and do in New York that it would take a lifetime to live it up. However, the city's Convention and Visitor's Bureau has discovered that of all the city's sights, five are a MUST on the agenda of every vacationer. They are, in order of popularity, the Statue of Liberty, Rockefeller Center, the Empire State Building, the United Nations, and Times Square.

Landmarks come and go in popularity as the city changes, but Miss Liberty retains her popularity year in and year out. She is just as much a shrine today as she was when Grant's Tomb, the Woolworth Building and the old Aquarium, now gone but not forgotten, were other tourist favorites.

The average vacationer spends 57 days and $113 in New York, proving that one doesn't have to be a millionaire to have fun here, although it would be nice.

Many of the city's greatest beauties and treasures are free. This list includes Riverside Drive and the wondrous George Washington Bridge, one of the great art works as well as engineering feats of the first half of the 20th Century.

For the kids, there are the American Central Park Zoo and the American Museum of Natural History. The Hayden Planetarium will take space cadets of all ages right out of this world on a trip to the moon from July 1 to Sept. 30.

And remember, anyone trying to sell a visitor a slice of Brooklyn Bridge is undoubtedly another visitor. New Yorkers wouldn't dream of parting with the stock they constantly buy in it.

Noel Coward Sticks To Own Songs

HOLLYWOOD — You won't catch Noel Coward strumming a guitar and warbling "Davy Crockett" when he appears in Las Vegas next week.

"I will sing only my own songs," says the king of the sophisticates.

Does he have any fears that his material will be over the heads of patrons in the routin' tootin' Wild West town?

"Not in the least. It has been my past experience that it is a mistake to make any compromises with audiences. I have often been warned that I am too English for American audiences. I have found that fear is groundless.

"People take it for granted that I am English. What I do seems to get across to them. Americans have even liked some of the Cockney things I do, and you'd hardly expect that."

Coward was here for a brief whirl before taking off on his four-week engagement at the Desert Inn. His salary is reported at $40,000 a week, but that seems much inflated, even for Las Vegas.

The British star was honored Sunday with a cocktail party at the Beverly Hills home of Frank Sinatra, who runs the successful Moulin Rouge here and books talent for the Desert Inn.

After greeting such filmland pals as Greer Garson, Jean Simmons, Van Heflin, Jack Benny and George Jessel, Coward buckled down to rehearsals at the home of Clifton Webb, where he was staying.

"I'm breaking in a new pianist, 'old boy,'" he explained.

Between rehearsals, he paused to talk about his invasion of the modern El Dorado.

"It was in Las Vegas last December to see what it was like," he remarked. "I was enchanted. There is absolutely no place like it in the world. It doesn't resemble Monte Carlo; it's a combination of a gold rush and a honky tonk. It is quite unique."

He said he would feature no special material about Las Vegas, as many stars do. When he opens next Tuesday, he'll do only his own songs. "No dancing—just singing, if you can call it that."

Does he have any trepidations about facing the Nevada audiences?

"Certainly," he replied. "I always do when I face a new challenge. But then, that's what makes life interesting."

After Las Vegas, Coward returns to London to direct his new play, a light comedy as yet untitled. In the fall, he returns for the first of three spectaculars for CBS-TV.

Kremlin Leaders End Yugoslav Visit

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Kremlin's leaders wound up their eight-day visit to President Tito today. The Yugoslav marshal apparently managed to hold fast to his independence but echoed Soviet sentiments on German unity and Red Chinese claims to Formosa.

Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan left by plane for Moscow this morning. Their aides had left earlier in a separate plane.

The three leaders were scheduled to stop in Sofia, Bulgaria, before pushing on to the Soviet capital.

Tito drove Khrushchev to the airport in his Rolls Royce and remained on hand to see his guests off.

In a final round of handshakes before boarding his plane, Khrushchev spent more time bidding farewell to U.S. Ambassador James W. Riddleberger than any of the other diplomats present. At a dinner party last Saturday the two held a peppery exchange on the merits of capitalism versus socialism.

Tito and his visitors closed their parley last night with a declaration in general terms of principles urging that the way be paved for peaceful solution of world problems.

Khrushchev, who led the six-man delegation here and did most of the talking, did not sign the document. He sat on the sidelines while Bulganin and Tito affixed their names.

The document said Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union supported "the satisfaction of the legitimate rights of the Communist People's Republic of China with regard to Taiwan (Formosa)." It did not say, however, that Peking should fight for the island now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

The declaration also expressed Yugoslav-Soviet support for Red China's claims to a seat in the United Nations.

Yugoslavia has diplomatic relations with Red China and in the past has backed her bid for admission to the U.N. This was the first time, however, that Tito and the Soviets have joined in pushing Peking's demands for Formosa.

In Washington, the State Department declined comment on the statement until it had more time to study the document. But officials said privately there seemed to be nothing new or startling in the declaration.

The U.S. officials expressed interest in Yugoslavia's comments on Formosa, but took the view that the "vague working" of the text did not necessarily commit Tito to support Peking's claims to the Nationalist bastion.

Moscow radio hailed the declaration as a "document of tremendous international significance."

The two Communist nations expressed joint support for a settlement for the thorny German question "on a democratic basis, in conformity both with the wishes and desires of the German people and with the interest of general security."

The Soviet Union has used this language before in proposals on Germany's future, but always has insisted subsequently that Germany must be demilitarized.

One of the main points of the declaration was seen as a victory for failing to follow the Moscow line. The joint statement called for:

"Respect for the sovereignty, independence, integrity and equality among states in their mutual relations and in their relations with other states, Recognition and development of peaceful coexistence among nations regardless of ideological differences or differences of social order . . . compliance with the principle of mutual respect for, and noninterference in, internal affairs for whatever reason, whether of an economic, political or ideological nature . . .

The statement marked the first time Russia's Communist leaders had agreed in public that a variation of communism could coexist with their own. It was because he varied from Stalin's line that the Soviets purged Tito from the Red fold in 1948.

The music for the Ballad of Davy Crockett was composed for Disney by George Bruns and the words written by Tom Blackburn, who also did the script for the TV series and the motion picture.

Oddly, a record made by Fess Parker has been running No. 2 behind one by Bill Hayes under another label. And a close contender has been a version sung by Tennessee Ernie Ford.

The Crockett craze, like most fads ordinarily could be expected to fade in six months or so. However, Disney has a new series entitled The Legend of Davy Crockett in the works for his ABC show next season, possibly as many as four complete programs. Unlike the original three, which stuck reasonably close to historical fact, the new Crockett shows will have more latitude in portraying Davy in feats attributed to him by legend but not necessarily supported by historical data.

Davy Crockett Show Ended But Melody Lingers

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK (AP)—The show is ended but the melody lingers on—The Ballad of Davy Crockett, that is.

Six months have elapsed since the tune was introduced in the Davy Crockett series on ABC-TV's Disneyland show, yet it remains high in popularity ratings.

Meanwhile, the Davy Crockett fad among the kids shows little signs of subsiding, with Crockett coonskin caps, pistol holsters and other merchandise grossing millions of dollars.

The full length motion picture put together by Walt Disney from the three Crockett TV films is doing what the trade paper Variety describes as smash business at a New York theater where it made its premiere a little over a week ago.

Fess Parker, towering actor who portrayed Davy in the TV films, has been catapulted from comparative obscurity to stardom.

But the song has done perhaps more than anything else to make the nation Davy Crockett conscious. For weeks now, it has been commonplace to hear someone—and often a grownup—humming the tune on the street, on buses, on trains. Three different Davy Crockett records have been on best seller lists for weeks and remain among disc jockey favorites. The tune has been on Your Hit Parade 13 weeks, including this coming Saturday, and in first place 10 weeks.

Demos Begin Drive For Free Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats have set in motion a drive to make free Salk vaccine available "to every American child."

It would go well beyond President Eisenhower's plan to pay for antipolio inoculation only of children whose parents can't afford the shots.

A bill to carry out the rival Democratic proposal was introduced last night by Chairman Hill (D-Ala.) and the other six Democratic members of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. At the same time, Hill called a meeting of the committee for Monday to consider the proposals.

Democrats outnumber Republicans 7-6 on that committee but one Democratic member, Sen. Murray of Montana, is in Europe. Hill said in a Senate speech the Democratic bill would assure "fair and just distribution and use, and render proposals calling for other means of control over such distribution and use less immediately necessary."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), a committee member, complained to the Senate that Republicans have been trying to stall action. On four recent occasions the committee has been unable to transact any business because, with Murray in Europe, the absence of all Republican members prevented a quorum.

Meanwhile, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said in New York his organization wants to see that "every child has the opportunity to receive vaccine and prevent paralytic polio this summer." The foundation is sponsoring the mass immunization program of first and second graders. In New Jersey, the State Health department said yesterday it was returning its entire vaccine supply—enough for 239,850 doses—to Wyeth, Inc., Marietta, Pa., for retesting.

Dr. Carl E. Weigle, assistant health commissioner, said this was being done at the request of Wyeth.

Little Change In Weather

By The Associated Press
Little change was reported in the nation's weather today.

More rain fell in sections of the mid-continent, western areas and along the northern Atlantic coast.

Fairly pleasant weather prevailed in most other areas with mild temperatures in many parts of the country.

Showers and thunderstorms continued during the night and early morning in the Plains States and along the eastern slope of the Rockies. Heavy falls were reported in some parts of Kansas and South Dakota. Tornado winds struck yesterday near Great Bend, Kan., and Seminole, in the southwest section of the Texas Panhandle.

Light showers fell in the Pacific Northwest and along the northern Atlantic coast.

Temperatures early today ranged from a mild 79 degrees at Key West, Fla., to a chilly 33 at Bryce Canyon, in southern Utah.

USC Reaffirms Shivers Invitation

USC President Fred D. Fagg Jr. renewed his invitation because of recent student protests about the choice of the speaker.

4 Youngsters Drown In State

By The Associated Press
Four Texas youngsters, frolicking in "swimming hole" weather, drowned Wednesday in widely separated tragedies.

A little brother and sister, James and Angelina Enders, drowned in Cow Bayou near Chilton in Central Texas. They were about 5 and 7. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Enders of Chilton.

Santos Estrada, 8, drowned Wednesday night in a swimming hole at Galveston. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Fortunado Estrada, he was playing with two other boys on a raft and slipped as he jumped into the water.

Pedro Mendoza, 16, who couldn't swim, drowned in six feet of water at a San Antonio pool.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
The fact that God is the only creative power will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday. The Golden Text for the Lesson-Sermon entitled, "God the Only Cause and Creator," is from Acts (4:24): "Lord, thou art God, which hast made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is."

Among the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (502:28): "The universe reflects God. There is but one creator and one creation. This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas and their identities, which are embraced in the Infinite Mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God."

From the Bible will be read (Jeremiah 51:15): "He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his understanding."

CHURCHES OF CHRIST
The Main Street Church of Christ will hear the minister, Lyle Price, speak on "Why I Am A Christian" at the 10:30 service and at 7 p.m. he is to speak on "Questions Answered."

WEBB AFB
General Protestant services are to be held in the base chapel at 11 o'clock with Chancelier Charles J. Fix speaking on "The Great Disappointment." Sunday School will be held in the chapel annex at this same hour.

Confession will be heard for Catholics at 8:30 and Father Cyril will say mass at 9 a.m. in the base chapel.

More Industry To Be Objective Of C-C Session
Monday's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors may lead to industrial development in Big Spring, said Manager J. H. Greene.

Organization of an industrial foundation here will be discussed by the board members, and successful operation of similar foundations will be outlined by Bob Hunt of Kilgore.

Purpose of a foundation would be the furtherance of industrial development. The foundation would secure leases for industrial concerns and would at times finance new operations. It would also act as a clearing house of information for industrialists interested in developing here.

Hunt, the speaker, is now manager of the Kilgore Chamber of Commerce, and he helped organize that city's industrial foundation. He also was among the organizers of an industrial foundation at Tyler. Both organizations have been successful.

Organization of an industrial foundation in Big Spring has been talked for some time, and lately two Chamber committees—established industries add new industries—have combined to investigate the possibility of forming one here.

President Marvin Miller will preside over the Monday directors meeting, which will be held either in the Chamber conference room or the Settles Hotel.

Manager Greene, who will be attending the annual convention of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association in El Paso on Monday, stated that the place of meeting will depend of the number attending.

If the number of people who attend the board meeting is less than 65, the session will be held in the Chamber conference room. If more attend, the session will be held at the Settles Hotel.

Every effort is being made to assure a large attendance, and the meeting is not confined to board members. Anyone interested is invited and urged to be present for the noon meeting.

Manasseh's Sin and Repentance

HUMBLY ACKNOWLEDGING HIS SINS, JEHOVAH FORGAVE HIM

Scripture—II Chronicles 33.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
AGAIN we have the story of a wicked king set to rule over Judah. Hezekiah was one of the best kings of that country. He was wise, brave, gentle and strong, and he trusted in the Lord, and served Him always.

How his son came to be so different from him, apparently delighting in doing all the things his father would have abhorred is a mystery. It sometimes happens in our own time that good, God-fearing parents have a child who brings shame upon them. We are too much inclined to blame the parents, adding to their heart-break.

Manasseh was only 12 years old when he began to reign and he ruled about 45 years. His father, Hezekiah had broken down the altars of Baalim and the groves where that false god was worshipped.

Hezekiah turned his people again to the Lord their God who had brought them out of bondage in Egypt and given them the Promised Land. Manasseh rebuilt these high places and worshipped there and all his people with him. He even brought the heathen idols into the holy place of the Lord in Jerusalem.

Worst of all, Manasseh followed the customs of heathen peoples, even "caused his children to pass through fire," sacrificing at least one son to this abominable custom. He also "used enchantments, and used witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar spirit, and with wizards."

There were various types of divination then in vogue among the primitive peoples—attempts to ascertain the future by casting lots—things that only God could reveal.

"And he set a carved image (the idol which Manasseh had made) in the house of God, of which God had said to David and to Solomon his son, 'In this house, and in Jerusalem which I have chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put My name forever.'"

"So Manasseh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to err, and to do worse than the heathen, whom the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel."

The Lord spoke to the children of Judah—through his prophets, we suppose, but "they would not hearken."

Then the Lord brought the captains of the host of Assyrians upon them, and they took Manasseh prisoner, bound him and took him to Babylon.

What did Manasseh think—this

David, on the west side of Gibeon, in the valley, even to the entering in the fish-gate, and compassed about Ophel, and raised it to a very great height, and put captains of war in all the fenced cities of Judah."

"So Manasseh died, and was buried in his own house, and Amon his son reigned in his stead."

The story of Manasseh is a sad one. His influence for evil must have been great. We must wonder if his late repentance and attempts to undo it were as far-reaching in their effect. There must have been some of his people who did not follow his evil example and continued in the worship that Hezekiah had so zealously led them.

Even little children realize that bad temper, disobedience to the rules of their home, selfishness, etc., make them unhappy, and if they are wisely punished they may realize that the punishment is just and try harder not to be so badly again.

Sometimes a youth who has been keeping bad company of which his parents know nothing, realizes after a crime has been committed by these companions, what their influence upon him means, and is shocked into abandoning such companionship.

BLIND BUT SUCCESSFUL
Norine McNichols Shows Selling Technique.

Saleswoman Successful Tho' Blind

Associated Press News Features

MINNEAPOLIS — Following her motto of "Excite admiration, don't provoke pity," blind Norine McNichols of Chicago has found success as a general sales executive for 700 stores.

Miss McNichols travels more than 100,000 miles a year, accompanied by Nipper, her faithful Boxer guide dog.

While Nipper stands patiently at her side, Miss McNichols demonstrates new merchandise to department heads in her firm's chain of stores across the country.

She emphasizes that store personnel should "sell with dignity."

Miss McNichols' favorite demonstration technique is to assume a dual customer-salesperson role in selling specific items.

She fills out her reports by using a typewriter and does not read or write Braille.

When her eyesight failed in 1943 after taking over the sales demonstration work nine years earlier, she was offered a chance to continue in her same position.

The bustling, graying woman showed without delay that she could continue her work effectively.

Course In Manners Teaches Formality

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. — Mrs. John P. Harris Jr., dean of women at Mary Washington College, says informality as symbolized by supper in the living room around the TV set is making many young girls insecure in a formal situation.

Seeking to do something about it she started a voluntary course in formal manners to teach freshmen to be at ease.

Of the 700 enrolled 320 showed up for the first class and 250 attended the second and third.

Makes Mammoth Rug

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Mrs. Guy Brown, a housewife from nearby New Springfield, says she used five miles of thread in making a hand-braided rug 31-by-17 feet.

The rug covers the living room of her ranch-type home.

College Girls Are Being Taught To Be Air Force Wives

ST. LOUIS — They're teaching coeds how to be Air Force wives.

Recently 24 girls at St. Louis University graduated from a course moderated by Lt. Col. William E. Miller and dealing with studies ranging from military etiquette to making military housing livable.

Most of the girls plan to marry members of the University's Air Force ROTC unit who probably will be called to active duty shortly thereafter.

Miller says the course was designed to help the women in the triple role of hostess, household manager and confidante to an Air Force husband who may be stationed almost anywhere in the world.

Nine members of the Turtle Club gathered at the home of Mrs. D. W. Rankin Thursday evening for a picnic supper and business meeting.

Following the business meeting the group went to the bowling alley at WAFB for bowling.

Mrs. L. D. Jenkins is sponsor of the group.

Big Gain In Weight

LIBERTY, Ky. — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tarter's son weighed 6 1/2 pounds at birth. Seven days later, they took him to a store and placed him on a special scale used for weighing the catch of fishermen.

To the parents' amazement and the great glee of those who knew the scales weighed heavy, the baby's weight was 18 pounds 4 ounces.

Name's The Same

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Marilyn Lawson, kindergarten teacher at Mulr Elementary School, likes teaching fine but she's miffed because parents choose the same names for their children.

Enrolled in her class were three Susans, three Sharons, two Phillips, two Davids and two Stephens.

Council Sets Dates, Names Committees

Delegates to conferences were elected, committees named and a date set for the 1955 homecoming when members of the Big Spring Senior High Student Council met Thursday evening.

The meeting was held in the home of the Council president, Tom Henry Guin, and was opened with prayer by Rodney Shepherd.

Three delegates to the summer workshop that is to be held in Alpine July 31 to August 5, at Sul Ross State College, were named and are Betty Anderson, Valjean LaCroix and Bennie Compton.

Homecoming date has been set for November 23 and 24 and Sally Cowper is to be the general chairman. Other chairmen will be reception, Kenda McGibbon; publicity, Rodney Shepherd; assembly, Gary Tidwell; election, Jerry McMahen; bon fire, Johnny Janak; awards, Lou Ann White; decorations, Sue Boykin; Val Jean LaCroix; invitations, Janet Hogan; general information and poster, J. T. Baird; and parade, Bennie Compton.

The council president and Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff, council sponsor, will attend the 19th Annual National Conference of the National Association of Student Councils in Ardmore, Penn. on June 12-16.

Standing committees were named and are: calendar, Janet Hogan, chairman, Lou Ann White and Valjean LaCroix; lost and found, Bruce Moore; building and grounds, Bennie Compton; historian, J. T. Baird Jr.; social, Kenda McGibbon, chairman, Brenda Gordon and Bobby Overman; ways and means, Opal Hancock and Lewis Porter.

Better Citizenship Through Better Leadership will be the theme of the conference that is to be held on June 13 in Ardmore. Meeting will be held so state delegations can meet and plan skits to present to the conference.

An evaluation report for the council's work for the year was read. This evaluation was made by 80 students and faculty members.

Fourteen members and their sponsors, Mrs. Ratliff and Don Green were present.

Smorgasbord Dinner Given For Teachers Of Temple Baptist

A smorgasbord type dinner party was held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Monroe Gafford.

Mrs. Gafford is superintendent of the adult department of the Baptist Temple and the guest list was composed of the teachers, their wives and husbands.

In keeping with the custom of serving this type dinner, the guests formed a line and served themselves from the table and then returned to the living room where they chose their own places.

Special guests were Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Posey.

Twelve were present.

Here Are Some Glamor Hints For Prospective Brides

Associated Press News Features

After the trousseau has been assembled and modeled for family and friends, the bride discovers that she hasn't given a thought to wedding day glamor.

Letters show that many prospective brides have the same problems. Here are some questions they ask. The answers might help you, too:

Q. I have a very short Italian-style haircut. I am wearing my mother's wedding veil a month from today and find that it makes me look absolutely scalped and my hair ends are not long enough to fringe the veil.

A. It might be a good idea to have your mother's veil restyled. If that isn't possible, you can buy or rent a hair piece that may be smoothed around your own hair for the wedding. If these are done properly you can fool anyone, but it is an added expense.

Q. I am overweight and white makes me look huge. We are having a big church wedding and I must wear a white dress to please my family. Can you make any suggestion that might help?

A. A deep V-neckline will help cut down the bosom size if that is one problem. A wide panel down the front of the dress will help cut hips. If possible avoid a dress with a big full skirt unless your waist and bosom are very much slimmer than hips.

Q. Is there any objection to a bride wearing perfume on her wedding day?

A. Not if she chooses the lighter fragrances. One said to be inspired by the soft Chantilly lace of the bride is a sweet gentle scent available in everything from a foam bath essence to a liquid cream deodorant.

Q. I have fallow skin and rather lifeless hair of a faded blonde shade. Is there anything I can do to perk up my looks?

A. Yes. A good color rinse will highlight your hair and complexion too. A deep pink or bronze tan are lovely shades for blondes wearing white. For the pink look choose a rosy amber foundation cream, dab a spot of pink rouge on either cheek, blending it up to the corner of the eye. Dust powder over all. Use a waterproof mascara to darken eye and brow lashes. Be sure to practice this makeup before the wedding day.

Girl Scouts To End Camping Activities

A campout tonight will terminate the day camp for Girl Scouts in the Big Spring area.

More than 140 of them have been taking part in the four-day program of hiking, cooking, games, and handicraft in the Boy Scout Round Up grounds area. Over a score of women have been serving as volunteer leaders.

Except for the deprivation of someone who stole a tent-poles, stakes and all—the day camp for Coahoma, Big Spring and Stanton girls has moved off without a hitch. Girls have been grouped according to age, starting with second graders and stepping up through the eighth grade. Camping has been on the basis of troop units out of these age groups.

The campout ended at 3 p. m., starting Tuesday and will include a campfire program and camping under the stars tonight. After they cook their breakfast Saturday morning, the girls will break camp.

Ugly storm clouds cut activities short Wednesday, and it increased traffic to the camping grounds. Anxious parents came running for their children and the area had been cleared by 7 p. m. Actually, there was little rain. Actually, Mrs. Ann Sue Elliott has been serving as camp director, and Mrs. Clyde Thomas is general chairman. Others include Bo Bowen as the camp nurse, Mrs. Rube McNew as business manager and Mrs. H. E. Boat, commissary officer.

Volunteer leaders include Mrs. Joe Carlisle, Mrs. Dot Baccus, Mrs. Ruth Custer, Mrs. Lean Lockstrom, Mrs. Ann Wylam, Mrs. Bobbie Skaggs, Mrs. Hazel Merritt, Mrs. Roxie Wheeler (Stanton), Mrs. Mim Culpapper, Mrs. Jodie Sabatto, Mrs. Emma Dunne, Mrs. Norma Choate, Mrs. Veradell Anderson (Coshoma), Mrs. Mary Brown, Mrs. Yvonne Ivie, Mrs. Jacqueline Wilson, Ann Gray, Viola Thomas.

Aggie Barbecue To Be Thursday

The annual barbecue sponsored by the Texas A&M Club has been set for Thursday evening, Dr. Howard Schwarzenbach, president, announced today.

TAX BILL

one-one" tax bill up by Sen. Gray Harlowed of Amarillo.

The new version keeps one-cent hikes on cigarettes and gasoline proposed in Harlowed's bill, but cuts the beer tax increase from one cent to about 7-10ths of one cent per bottle, or $2.30 per barrel.

To make up for the beer tax loss, it proposes a 25-cent per $1,000 increase in state business franchise taxes, making them $2.25 per $1,000 of capital assets.

The plan left the Senate carrying the label of a "soak-the-poor" tax bill. Sen. Gus Straus of Hallettsville, outspoken foe of any beer tax increase, coined the phrase during debate, saying fully three-fourths of the bill was made up of direct sales taxes.

Both houses adopted and sent to Gov. Shivers a bill bringing state employees under social security.

The House accepted Senate amendments in bills allowing type set for good behavior in jail sentences, as well as prison sentences and making mandatory jail sentences and fines for driving while intoxicated convictions. Both bills go to the governor.

Also passed by the House were companion bills allowing the general land office to raise filing fees on leases for state-owned land. One went to the governor and the second was returned to the Senate with amendments.

Given final passage by the House and returned to the Senate was a bill allowing school districts to vote maintenance taxes running as high as $1.50 per $100 valuation, with the tax rate to be limited by the district's bonded indebtedness.

The Senate passed and returned to the House with amendments a bill providing jail sentences and fines for those who sell beer to minors and for minors who buy beer.

The House adopted the conference committee report on a bill clarifying laws on county salaries.

Counselors Needed

Should parents read their teenager's mail? It would be phenomenal to know how many battles have been waged over that issue.

All people from infancy to senility resent being treated as less wise or trustworthy than they are. Teen-agers certainly are no exceptions. Actually they resent it most of all.

You don't have to have a degree in psychology to know that two of the basic emotional needs of every person are to be respected and to be treated as an individual in his own right.

Personally I don't think it is quite fair to deny the fulfillment of these needs without just cause. To my way of thinking, a person is innocent until proved guilty.

When his mail is read and his telephone conversations are listened to by a parental ear at the extension, his rights as a decent, trustworthy person are being denied him, not because of something he has done, but because of something he might do.

Think a minute. Put yourself in his place. What kind of conduct does this inspire? Fear - inspired goodness isn't a very reliable kind, is it?

Many a teen has resisted strong temptation when fortified with the faith of his parents. When someone believes in you and lets you

Red Store Complains Of Goods

MOSCOW (U) - Russia's leading department store, The Gum in Red Square, is complaining that a lot of the goods it gets to sell are so shoddy it's ashamed.

The Gum (pronounced goom) is the Macy's Gimbels, and Marshall Field's of Moscow.

An article in Soviet Trade, official newspaper of the Ministry of Trade, complained that early this year the store received 500 children's coats which were defective in tailoring and lining. These came from the Baltsk Factory in Odessa, which also sent other defective goods to Gum. Despite this telegraphed complaint, reported Gum, it received another 400 shoddy coats and had to return them.

"Perhaps it would not be worth mentioning these facts if there had not been other similar cases where factories in Kaluga, Tula, Kharkov etc. have been sending shoddy and useless goods to The Gum and other stores," said Soviet Trade.

"It is no wonder that people don't want to buy clothing manufactured by these factories. . . . Buttons don't fit. Sleeves are off. Boys' school uniforms from Kazan are no good. The tunics don't match the trousers. . . . the styles don't fit. The orders don't match."

Soviet Trade also complains that for the first 2 1/2 months of 1955, Gum received only 13 per cent of its orders from the factories. But in the last 15 days of the quarter it received 87 per cent. Thus, in a rush, somebody was "fulfilling the plan."

Silence Greeted Air Statement

WASHINGTON (U) - American officials said today a joint U.S.-Canadian air defense command would be a "logical development" of plans to guard the North American continent.

But beyond that nobody in authority would go on talking about a Wednesday statement by Air Marshal C. B. Slemmon, chief of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Slemmon told a group of American and Canadian aviation writers in Montreal of military steps in the direction of a unified command. He said "the decision has not been taken politically—but it will be taken."

At the State Department, officials said they would withhold formal comment until the full text of Slemmon's statements was studied. At the Pentagon, officials would not even go that far.

But unofficially no great surprise was evidenced. Officials said it has been an open secret since last August that some such arrangement was in the works.

Both countries man early warning radar networks along the arctic rim of North America.

Officer Called In Graft Quiz

WASHINGTON (U) - Investigating senators called Air Force Capt. Raymond Wool today "to answer a lot more questions" about the federal income tax returns he has sworn he falsified.

The Internal Revenue Service said meanwhile "we would be derelict in our duty if we did not follow through" to investigate his story.

The tax collectors are known to have had observers at some sessions of the public hearings by the Senate Investigations subcommittee. The subcommittee is taking testimony from Wool and others in a search for evidence of possible graft in the buying of uniform equipment for the armed forces.

Schuman Nations To Call Meeting

MESSINA, Sicily (U) - The six nations of the European coal-steel community agreed early today to call an international conference to discuss wider economic unity for western Europe.

France, however, was reported strongly opposed to yielding any sovereignty to an international control agency. West Germany also was said to be wary.

Agreement to call the conference came in a session lasting until after midnight of the foreign ministers of France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, meeting as the Ministers' Council of the Schuman Plan coal-steel group.

No date was set for the meeting. But a communique issued at the close of the two-day session said experts of the six governments would meet and before Oct. 1 would formulate recommendations on the course the conference would take.

Carnival, Gibing At TVA Land, Greets Dixon-Yates

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (U) - A carnival speeded with gibes at neighboring TVA-land greeted yesterday's ground-breaking for the controversial Dixon-Yates electric plant.

Signs, banners, placards and streamers decked this east Arkansas city's main street, shouting welcome to private utility magnates who planned the $107,250,000 plant.

"Kilowatt Carnival" drew about 7,000 spectators. They watched a parade, listened to speeches and feasted on five tons of free barbecue, 400 pounds of cole slaw, 600 gallons of baked beans and soft drinks.

Moviemaker's Ex-Wife Leaves $1 Million

LOS ANGELES (U) - Mrs. Margaret Mayer, former wife of film magnate Louis B. Mayer, left an estate estimated at a million dollars.

Her will, filed for probate yesterday, left more than $600,000 in bequests to relatives, friends, employes and charities.

Mrs. Mayer died May 21 at the age of 71.

Holland Cabinet Crisis At End

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (U) - Holland's three-week-old Cabinet crisis has come to a peaceful end with the same government still in office.

Premier Willem Drees, who resigned May 17 after his Labor-Catholic coalition was defeated in a parliamentary dispute over rent increases, agreed to withdraw his resignation. The government has been in office three years.

Queen Juliana requested the withdrawal following a statement by J. A. W. Burger, head of the Labor party, that he had found a "basis which can lead to continuation of the present Drees Cabinet." Burger gave no details.

Minister Leaves

TOKYO (U) - Peiping radio said Indonesia Prime Minister Ali Sastroamidjojo left Peiping today by plane for home after a seven-day visit.

Don't argue with this baby!

All Chevrolet's competitors and most of the high-priced cars, tried it recently in official NASCAR* trials—and took a licking!

Meat the champ! The new Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"—the most modern V8 on the road today.

You want facts, don't you? And not ours. Facts instead from an independent, outside source where the only things that count are who came in first, second, and so on. Here they are—

Daytona Beach, NASCAR Acceleration Tests Over Measured Mile From Standing Start. Chevrolet captured the 4 top positions in its class! 8 of the first 11! And on a time basis Chevrolet beat every high-priced car, too—but one!

Daytona Beach, NASCAR Straightaway Running. Open to cars delivered in Florida for $2,500 or less. Chevrolet captured the first two places; 7 out of the first 11 places!

Daytona Beach, NASCAR 2-Way Straightaway Running Over Measured Mile. Open to cars from 250' to 299 cu. in. displacement. Chevrolet captured 3 of the first 5 places! None of its major competition (what competition?) even finished "in the money"!

Columbia, S. C. NASCAR 100-Mile Race on half-mile track. Very tight turns. Chevrolet finished first! Way, way ahead—as in sales!

Fayetteville, N. C. NASCAR Late Model Event. After running the fastest qualifying round (with a new car) Chevrolet again finished first. Because of even tighter turns the driver chose to run the entire 150 laps in second gear! Yet no overheating or pit stops!

These facts you can't laugh off. Sales leader. Road leader. A crowning achievement of Chevrolet and General Motors. Try a Chevrolet . . . and live in a land of going-away where you win all the arguments! Soon, maybe?

'Pay-What-You-Wish' Night Is Slated Here Saturday

Cops Return For 5 Games

The Big Spring Cosden Cops, buffeted about in a baseball tempest for the past three weeks, return home Saturday to set up shop for a five-game stand.

How they fare and how well they are patronized at the game may largely determine whether or not they ride out the present financial crisis and go on to finish the season.

Local friends of the team combined with the other clubs in the circuit to bail them out of their most recent financial jam.

An estimated $2,800 was raised through the generosity of an estimated dozen local men, the Cosden Petroleum Corporation and league members themselves.

Cosden matched the first $1,000 raised among local fans with $1,000 itself, as per an arrangement reached before the club went on its last road trip.

The fresh money will be more than enough to help the club meet its current payroll, which comes due when the team arrives tomorrow morning. Baseball players are paid twice a month but, when on road trips, are not re-imburshed until they return home.

To generate interest in the team, a "Pay-What-You-Wish Night" will be held Saturday night. A similar event is tentatively planned for Sunday afternoon.

At that time, fans can pass through the gate and throw what amount of money they wish in a barrel placed at the gate, in exchange for admission to the park. Tickets of those who have already purchased them will be honored, of course. Donations made by such ticket holders will be entirely optional.

Artists will form the opposition in both games here this weekend.

Though he has long been beset with financial problems, Martin did not throw in the towel recently because he felt (1) improvements in the fortunes of the team itself would help the gate more than any other factor, (2) he owed it to the fans to continue as long as possible and (3) he was obligated to the league itself not to quit on such short notice.

Lineup changes are in the offing, Martin promised, but he did not elaborate.

Bums Are Not So Hot: Leo

NEW YORK (AP)—As far as Leo Durocher is concerned, the Brooklyn Dodgers' fearsome array of sluggers is vastly overrated. Even their home runs are phony.

Before today's game the Dodgers owned 68 homers in 45 games, a much faster pace than that set by the 1947 New York Giants when they accumulated a record 221 four baggers.

But did that make much of an impression on the voluble Giants manager? Not so you could notice it. A reporter asked Leo if he had occasion to see Wednesday night's Milwaukee-Brooklyn game at Ebbets Field when the Dodgers blasted six homers—three by Duke Snider.

"Yeah, I watched it on television," Durocher snapped. "I turned the foolish thing off and on a couple of times and finally shut it off for good after Snider hit his third."

Why? Was there anything wrong with the sound? Didn't he get a clear picture?

"Sound? . . . picture? . . . my foot. I was just plain disgusted by those cheap fly ball homers. With the exception of Snider's second one, all were fly balls. Homers, horse feathers. Everything is a home run in Ebbets Field. All you gotta do is get the ball up in the air and it will go over some fence. The fences are right behind the infielders."

"Sure they've got a lot of home runs. Why shouldn't they with a park like that? It's made to order for them. I'll tell you what. I know they've played more games on the road than at home but I'll bet they've hit more homers at Ebbets Field than in all the other parks combined."

A check showed Leo was right. The Dodgers have played 21 games at home and 24 on the road, but they've hit 38 balls out of Ebbets Field and only 30 in seven other parks.

"If Willie Mays could play 77 games in Ebbets Field he'd smash all existing slugging records," Leo said. "Homers? He'd hit a ton of them."

Funeral Services Set For Burnett

GLADEWATER, Tex. (AP)—Funeral services for R. W. (Dick) Burnett, colorful oilman and owner of the Dallas club in the Texas Baseball League, were to be held here this afternoon.

Some of the great of the game gathered for the funeral of the man who revolutionized the promotion of baseball in the Texas League.

Burnett, 57, died at Shreveport Wednesday of a heart attack. Another funeral service was to be held at 4 p. m. in Dallas.

Alonzo Stagg In Reunion With Old-Time Athletes

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg was the center of a tear-jerking hand-clasping, reminiscing reunion last night with players he coached more than 50 years ago at the University of Chicago.

The annual winners of the "C" banquet celebrated the 50th anniversary of Stagg's 1905 Big Ten championship teams in football, outdoor track, tennis and cross-country.

The white-haired little coach, nearly 83, greeted nine members of his famed 1905 gridiron squad that wound up a perfect season by beating Fleiding Yost's point-a-minute Michigan Giants by a safety, 2-0.

The chipper oldtimers, all pushing 70 or more, included Captain Mark Catlin, who tackled a Michigan player for the winning two points; Leo Detray, Merrill Meigs, Art Badenoch, William Boone, Edwin Parry, Jessie Harper, Lester Larson and Fred Walker.

Stagg laughed when Pat Page, a 12-letterman in the class of 1908, bounced up to him swinging a rusty horseshoe and cow bell from the cheering sections of yesterday.

And what must have passed through the grand old man's mind when the alumni beat the varsity baseball team 9-2 in Stagg Field, once one of the Big Ten's major stadiums but now in disrepair with a tree growing out in the fringe of the diamond's centerfield.

The first atomic pile—birth of the atom bomb—was built under a section of the stands.

Chicago dropped football in 1939 and quit the Big Ten entirely in 1946.

Stagg went after keynoting his banquet speech with: "I'll think of you always as the boys who won your letters and who I had the honor of coaching. . . . God bless each of you. . . . I love you very much."

The return of Stagg to the scene of his great coaching successes from 1892 until 1933 could have been filled with more elation.

Taking off some of the edge was word by the school's chancellor, Lawrence A. Kimpton, that there is no likelihood of a return of "big time" football at the university.

But there was the concession that classes in intramural football will be established next year to determine if interest really is reflected in a petition by 300 students asking for football.

Catlin, the 1905 captain who now is a prominent citizen of Appleton, Wis., told the Order of "C" that "I stayed away from the university for a long time but I don't need to tell you why. . . . I am ashamed of the university because it dropped football. . . . Let's get the game back here. . . ."

Moran was arrested during a recess in the hearings yesterday and released in $3,500 bail.

The commission has charged that Johnson was drugged prior to his bout with Mederos. The light-heavyweight boxer was carried from a ring on a stretcher after he collapsed at the end of the second round. Mederos was awarded a TKO.

The commission also has charged that Moran has violated Pennsylvania law by serving as a co-manager of Johnson. The law prohibits a matchmaker from being a manager of any fighter.

As a result of the Johnson-Mederos bout all professional boxing in Philadelphia has been suspended by Gov. George M. Leader.

Moran, later admitted that he had met Mrs. Perri and that her testimony was forged.

He told the commission he hadn't properly understood when asked if he had seen a member of the Perri family. He said his hearing is not good.

Explanation Of More Difficult Clues

CLUES ACROSS:

- Rations is preferred. The safety of the free Nations was the whole object of the war and fundamentally the basis of the fighting against the enemy. That of Rations was a side issue, but nevertheless a rather important consideration.
- Draping is particularly apt, since "to drape" is defined as "to hang cloth in folds". No folds may be involved when a person is Drawing curtains whether it refers to sketching them or moving them along.
- "Come from the pen of" simply means "to be written by", making Plot a good answer. A Blot does not come from the pen as a Blot. A drop of ink comes from the pen, and makes a Blot when it spreads out on the paper.
- Stipulating "if strong" favors Lads. The usefulness of a Lass is not proportionate to her strength—she would mostly do light jobs anyway. Lads, generally, are only particularly useful about the house when the job requires strength rather than knowledge of domestic science.
- Pans fits the clue best. The Clue says you'll be pleased with the job of work, which you will be if it Pans out well. If it Pays well, it's the money you'll be pleased with, not necessarily the job. Furthermore the word "out" in the clue fits Pans better than Pays.
- Dope is preferred. It seems wrong to speak of a Dupe being a potential (future) source of income, since a person is not a Dupe until after the event, that is until he has been duped. Dope, however, is a satisfactory answer in every way.
- A wild Horde would certainly include a large proportion of characters not very amenable to discipline. But many a wild Horse would quickly be trained by a man who really knew his job. Thus Horde, being so unpredictable a group, fits the clue much more aptly than merely one Horse.

CLUES DOWN:

- Paddle is best. A Paddle "rather on the big side" means rather too big for the child. The biggest or smallest of a Saddle is more a matter of its relationship to the horse than to the rider.
- Old is best. "Hardly" infers that it is unlikely but still he might. He might, on some occasion, wear Old shoes but he certainly would not wear Odd ones if a smart dresser.
- Fun fits nicely for there is certainly an association between dancing and Fun. "Fan dancer" and "Fan dance" are natural, whereas "Fan dancing" is not a recognized type of popular dancing by the public.
- Roll is more apt because a Roll is played (on the drums) purely for effect. There is usually more to a Role than mere effect. Thus Roll is more apt.
- "A visit to it" calls for a place, such as a Spa. The Sea is rather a big thing to "visit"—one would visit, say, a town by the Sea or even the Seaside. The word "invalid" also favors Spa.
- Tasted is more accurate, as it is when it is set before him that he may merely Taste it and leave the rest (not Waste it). The food is not actually Wasted until it is ultimately thrown away.

Germans Proud Of Advances, But Fearful Of Own Strength

By PRESTON GROVER
 BONN, Germany (U) — Germans are as much afraid of themselves as other people are afraid of Germans.

They are disturbed both by their weakness and their strength, although they are proud that their hard-work and industrial genius have brought them to a level of prosperity probably not equaled elsewhere among the big nations of Europe. Britain may be an exception.

This is a nutshell summary of a look just taken at the country, the first prolonged visit since I worked in Germany as a correspondent in the early part of the war—1940-41.

I have had three looks at Germany. The first was under Hitler, when the whole industry and the people were geared to maximum war effort. The second was in 1948 when there was more ruin than rebuilding. Now the third.

Among the active Nazis during the war there was an almost religious devotion to the war effort, supported by a feeling that they were doing that which was "good" to be doing. There was considerable apathy in the population in 1940, but by 1941 the atmosphere began to change with victories, victories, victories—almost without variation.

Now, 15 years later, the change is staggering in almost all respects.

During the war, shop windows were empty. Today the stores are bulging full of every kind of clothes, radios and food, not only the kinds produced in Germany, but rarer items from foreign lands. West Germans tell you frankly they know they have it good and in this they rejoice. They thank America for its rich help and tell you that without American help they would still be hungry.

But with their copious victuals have come problems which worry all classes, from thoughtful historians and public officials to laborers and cultivators. The major problem, stated perhaps too simply, is this:

"How can we avoid becoming again what we were?"

A demand for a new German outlook has been voiced by Friedrich Meinecke, dean of German historians:

"What we lived through in the past 14 years forces us to accept entirely new perspectives and problems in the evaluation of our past. We must relearn in many ways."

I found this echoed in various forms in talks with industrialists, journalists, government officials, vinegrowers, labor representatives and finally by a group of students in fabled Heidelberg.

Every German with whom I talked, with the principal exception of Social Democratic Leader Erich Ollenhauer, was gravely shocked by the defeat of the European Defense Community, in the French Assembly.

They accepted the Paris pacts, which provide a more loosely knit defense setup, as only a second-class substitute.

Another theme heard throughout my tour was "The West must not leave us by ourselves."

To state it simply, Germany has been more or less in conflict with the West for over a century, ever since Napoleon. Now there is a widespread desire for realignment.

"Germany has a place only with the West," said Otto Brenner, chairman of the Metal Workers Union, biggest in Germany. This is true, he said, even though German labor and the Socialists opposed the European army and oppose rearmament because they feel it will interfere with reunification of Germany.

Also a major problem is the setting up of machinery that will keep the German army democratic in spirit and, democratically controlled by civilians. For since the days of Bismarck the German officer corps has traditionally been an elite group with vast influence on national policy.

Some German leaders tell their friends they see no immediate hope of a reunited Germany because the Russians won't give up East Germany so long as the Americans are in Western Europe.

Dr. Karl Hundhausen, business director of one of the Krupp branches, said:

"America, France and Russia seem agreed on Germany remaining divided." He spoke with some bitterness. He said no German could admit he was not interested in seeing the country reunited; but since it was not going to happen right away that situation must be accepted and dealt with. Among other steps needed, he said, is for Germany to be permitted to trade with the East.

Germany has problems other than political. A Catholic priest, asked about problems of the Ger-

Abilene Meets Paris Tonight

AUSTIN (U)—Abilene and Paris meet tonight for the Texas school baseball championship to the surprise of many.

The favorites never got to first base in the state tournament. Abilene and Paris bounded into the finals last night by identical scores.

Paris rode with the burling of Larry Ayres to beat Baytown 2-1. He allowed the Ganders only two hits.

Abilene got there with a 2-1 triumph over Waco as Althus Scott was tough in the clutches.

Paris and Abilene clash at 9:15 p.m. At 7 p.m. it's Baytown vs. Waco for third place. The pre-tournament favorites, Reagan of Houston and Adamson of Dallas, were kicked out in the first round.

A single by Glenn Gregory, a double by David Bourland and another single by Carleton Winkles produced two runs for Abilene in the second inning and that was enough for victory. Waco got its lone tally in the third on an Abilene error. Scott allowed Waco five hits.

Stydahar Fired As Card Coach

CHICAGO (U)—Joe Stydahar has been dismissed as head football coach of the Chicago Cardinals by his first assistant, Ray Richards, succeeding him.

The release yesterday of "Jumbo Joe", former All-National Football League tackle with the Chicago Bears and coach of the Los Angeles Rams, by Managing Director Walter Wolfner came as no surprise.

Concerted War On Drought Shapes Up

DENVER (U)—A concerted war on drought in 14 million acres of farm area took shape today as federal, state and local officials ended a three-day agriculture program for 10 great plains states.

The sessions ended with no solution in sight for immediate relief from two years of severe drought and wind, however.

Meeting as the Great Plains Agricultural Conference, the experts released their findings in a 18-page report whose contents "are to be considered as guides only, not as final action."

The conference is comprised of officials from land grant colleges and federal agencies dealing with agricultural problems. It was called into session here by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who met Wednesday with governors and representatives of 13 of the states.

Benson represented at the agriculture hearings yesterday were Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and North and South Dakota.

The conference report was prepared by two familiar warnings:

"The primary responsibility for proper land use rests with the individual land owner and operator. Those farmers who persist in cultivating lands that are not adapted to continued cropping should assume the risks."

As the first major recommendation toward minimizing the devastating effect of drought, the conference urged a classification study of the Great Plains area "be completed at the earliest practicable date."

With this data available, the conference said agricultural experts that could conduct research on methods best suited to farming various types and qualities of land turned up in the classification.

And finally, individual farmers then would be educated to apply the lessons taught from the survey and laboratory research.

Throughout the report, the group emphasized the need to encourage farmers to use the most approved methods of farming.

It sidestepped any stand on special incentives to farmers, however, or legislation to force compliance and price support arrangements.

"There is need," the report said, "for determining the incidence and range of weather variation and consequent crop yield, and the mapping of climate patterns by major climatic and soil areas of the plains."

"In areas with soils unsuited for arable farming, intensified research is needed to guide transition into grazing and livestock, and to prevent recurrence of disastrous causes of cropping unsuitable land in high rainfall years."

PEOPLE BUY AND READ NEWSPAPERS

ALL YEAR 'ROUND!

There is practically NO SEASONAL VARIATION in the circulation of weekday and Sunday newspapers. This is just another way of saying that the newspaper audience, in addition to being the largest of all audiences, is also a CONSTANT audience.

Almost as many people read newspapers in July and August as in the other months of the year . . . because the news is important to everybody EVERY DAY. The difference in circulation between the high months and the low months of the year for weekday papers is only TWO-TENTHS OF ONE PER CENT . . . For Sunday papers it is only FOUR-TENTHS OF ONE PER CENT.

Which means that with newspapers the advertiser can reach virtually the same number of people during any month of the year. It means, too, that for the advertiser who has a year-round selling job to do, the newspaper is the most practical and economical medium available.

it is with considerate pride that we announce the services of
Mr. W. B. Sherman
Bench Tailor
 in our new Men's Clothing Department

A service we have wanted to render to our many clothing customers for sometime . . . a service we felt better clothing customers were entitled to . . . but Bench Tailors with the right background and training are not always readily available.
 Therefore, we feel a justifiable pride in bringing to Big Spring a Bench Tailor with over 50 years experience of which the the past 30 have been devoted to altering ready-made stock clothing for perfect fit, style and comfort to your own individual liking. We believe you will not only enjoy Mr. Sherman, but will see a big difference in Bench Tailoring services . . . May We Serve You Soon.

Just The Opposite Of A Hunger Strike
 KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Two Wyandotte County jail prisoners went on an unusual diet in the bullpen cell yesterday.
 At a hospital last night physicians pumped from the men's stomachs such things as needles, parts of bed springs and zipper tabs from their jail clothing.
 The prisoners were Lester Ray Thomas, 17, charged with arson, and Gordon Keith Anderson, 30, charged with arson and murder.

Daughter Finds A Way To Death
 NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Rose Bergen, 67, and her daughter, Hilda, 37, drank a bottle of poisoned wine last Tuesday in a suicide pact.
 They left a note reading: "We hope to find blessings in another world."
 Mrs. Bergen died but her daughter survived and was taken to Bellevue Hospital where she was reported as improving.

Actress Gives Birth
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Attorney Nathaniel Willis and his wife, actress Andrea King, became the parents of a 7-pound, 2½-ounce baby girl yesterday. The child was named Deborah Anne.

Canadian Airmen Says West Ready To Battle Russians
 TORONTO (AP) — A high ranking Canadian airman says the Western Powers are "keen, anxious and willing" to take on the Russians "any time they attack us."
 "And we will knock hell out of them," Air Vice Marshal J. L. Plant told 300 U.S. and Canadian aviation writers attending a dinner session of their association's annual conference.
 Plant is the Canadian Air Force's top adviser on air materiel. Until 18 months ago he was chief of staff for U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of NATO air forces in central Europe.
 "Without weapons of mass destruction," Plant asserted, "we could lick the Russians hands down—and why we should be scared, I'm damned if I can see. We do have weapons of mass destruction, and we are going to plant them on them the minute they kick over the traces."
 The Canadian said as long as the West has greater military capability and a larger stockpile of war materials, the Russians won't take offense when other nations disagree with them.
 "But the minute we have equality, therein lies the danger of somebody losing his temper," Plant added.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

 have strong, good-sized, sharp teeth in their lower jaws.
Q. Do frogs differ much in size?
 A. Yes. Some tree frogs are only an inch or two in length. Bullfrogs, on the other hand, may be eight inches long. In the South Cameroons there are huge frogs which measure 10 inches from mouth to toes.
Q. Do frogs live everywhere?
 A. Yes, they hold down the number of harmful insects. In addition they supply food to people who like to eat frog legs.
Q. Do frogs have natural enemies?
 A. Yes. Among those which capture them are snakes, turtles, and salamanders. In addition they are eaten by storks, geese, herons and cranes.

Illegal Horns
 BALTIMORE (AP) — Now that New York and Paris have clamped down on unnecessary horn honking, says Henry Barnes, former Denver traffic expert now trying to unshush things here, Baltimore is undoubtedly the worst city in the world for such offenders.

Vote Campaign
 NEW YORK (AP) — The American Heritage Foundation says it again will sponsor a nationwide nonpartisan campaign to get out the vote for the 1956 presidential election.
