SEOUL (U. S. Sabre jets shot down 12 Communist MIGs and damaged another today, boosting their MIG kills this month to 51—just 12 less than the war's one-month record set last September.

Two sharpshooters piloted two MIGs each in savage sky battles high over North Korea. Maj. James Jabara of Wichita, Kan., the world's first jet ace now serving his second combat tour in Korea, got two and boosted his total kills to nine. Maj. Jack E. Mass of Red Bank, N. J., doubled his score with two MIGs.

The war's one-day record is 13 kills, one probably and seven damaged on July 4, 1952. Today's bag was the biggest since May 18 when 12 Red jets were destroyed. Five MIGs were shot down this morning and seven after noon, the Air Force said.

Night-flying B26 bombers wiped out 90 Communist trucks, destroyed a locomotive, seven box cars and a railroad bridge in pre-dawn strikes, the Air Force said.

B29 Superfortresses smashed a 130-acre troop and supply area north of Hamhung on Korea's east coast and bombed smaller supply dumps in the same area.

Ground fighting dwindled to patrol clashes as the air war mounted in intensity. The opening sky duels flared while Sabres were flying over for 22 Sabre fighters-bombers which streaked deep into North Korea and blasted a troop concentration area on the West Coast, 30 miles southeast of Namal. The Air Force said 22 buildings were destroyed.

Other Sabre fighter-bombers slammed 1,000-pound bombs into Red anti-aircraft guns northeast of Kumson, attacked rail lines and supply areas, the Air Force said.

Allied warships pounded Communist shore batteries and other installations on both coasts, the Navy announced.

Special Group Named To Study Business District's Extension

What started out last night as a heated debate over adequacy of the size of the present business district was resolved by appointment of a special commission to study the matter and offer recommendations to the City Commission.

Occasion was the joint meeting of the Zoning and Planning Board and the City Commission. About 15 other interested persons were present. The Commission had called the session to talk over possibility of extending the present retail business district. The downtown "P" district now extends southward to Seventh Street and commissioners had suggested enlargement to include the area from Seventh to 11th Place, between Gregg and Nolan or Solland.

Mayor G.W. Dabney opened the meeting and the controversy by charging that the existing business district is too small and that some businesses which wanted to locate here have gone to other towns because they were unable to secure suitable space for buildings.

He called attention to the increase of several thousand in the city's population since 1950 and pointed out that much of the property now in the downtown business district either isn't for sale or is priced prohibitively high.

The mayor read a petition signed by about 25 property owners favoring change in zoning for the area between Seventh Street and 11th Place.

E. B. McCormick, summing up what he termed background of the city's present zoning layout, argued that Big Spring already has far too large a business district, to enlarge the district would cheapen existing business property, he said.

McCormick, chairman of the Zoning and Planning Board, pointed out that the city had employed consulting engineers for advice when the city was originally zoned several years ago. He said the business district at that time was made larger than the zoning engineers recommended.

He declared the general retail trade area was enlarged "under pressure" and despite the engineers' contention that the district was large enough for a city of 100,000 persons. McCormick claimed that the zoning board has been under pressure at various times since to change zoning in different areas.

Some of the city commissioners replied that the present business district is too small because much of it is undesirably located and because owners of property won't sell or ask exorbitant prices for their land. To enlarge the district would make more property available, stiffen competition and make land prices more reasonable, they said. Dr. Lee O. Rogers, a member of the zoning board, said it isn't the fault of the Zoning and Planning Board that some property owners ask excessive prices. He presented statistics showing that 26 per cent of the city's area already is zoned for business and industry, including 10 per cent in "E" and "P" classification for community business centers and the downtown general trade district.

Probers Reveal Second Change In Tax Ruling

WASHINGTON (U. S. House investigators turned up today a second instance of reversal of a proposed tax ruling after former Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder intervened—this time with perhaps a million dollars at stake.

The case, dating back to 1948, involved a complex stock transaction by Austin Igheart, president of General Foods Corp. and others. Three revenue employees testified they favored a ruling that capital gains taxes must be paid in the deal, a stock merger between General Foods and Igheart Brothers.

They said from June to December, 1948, specialists ruled that the proposed transaction could not be tax-free as asked by Igheart. Charles Tobin, counsel to the investigating House ways and means subcommittee, read from bureau files showing that on Dec. 21, Snyder called Charles Oliphant, former chief counsel of the tax service, and told him about the case.

Eight days later, on Dec. 29 the files showed, Oliphant called Snyder's office and advised a "favorable ruling is in the mill." Tobin stated that close to a million dollars in taxes would have been due if the transaction had been held subject to capital gains taxes.

The House group explored yesterday a case in which the revenue bureau's technical experts were overruled and a favorable tax ruling was given a liquor company executive.

Chairman Kean (R-NJ) said he was convinced Snyder exerted "undue influence" in this case. Snyder is now vice president in charge of finance for Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. In a statement issued at Toledo, O., he said: "I have conscientiously served the government, except for short intervals in private life, for a great many years in a number of responsibilities. In each assignment I have always given whole-hearted devotion to the public interest. I confidently feel that my services have left a good record."

Revenue Bureau workers testified yesterday that a series of technical specialists approved an unfavorable tax ruling for John L. Leban, former vice president of Schenley Industries and a contributor to Democratic and Republican election campaigns. The ruling was reversed in Leban's favor, however, in the office of former Revenue Bureau Chief Counsel Charles Oliphant, about Oct. 30, 1950.

Efforts yesterday to salvage many favored measures. The House passed 39 more bills, sent 31 to the governor and five back to the Senate for study of House changes. It also sent to the governor a bill modifying present auto inspections. It limits the inspections to lights, horn, windshield and brakes.

Others sent the governor require compulsory treatment for narcotics addiction and set up rules to help tighten Texas' control over its short water supply.

S. Korea Dislikes Latest UN Proposal

SEOUL (U. S. Authoritative South Korean sources today revealed that the secret new Allied truce plan would give the United Nations General Assembly the final say in determining the fate of war prisoners who refuse to return to their Red homelands.

The informants said the proposal handed the Communists yesterday at Panmunjom was clearly unacceptable to South Korea. One government official called it "nothing but an Allied defeat by the Communists."

The proposal also incorporates some features of previous plans offered by both the Reds and Allies, said the sources, who would not allow use of their names.

The U. N. Command—which reportedly requested the news blackout on Monday's truce session—would not comment on the plan. It even refused to acknowledge the offer was made.

Some observers in Tokyo said the Allied proposal possibly is being used as tempting bait to Red China, which has long wanted to get into the United Nations.

By accepting the plan, they said, it would give Red China a foothold in the General Assembly—through the back door.

Communist helping radio for the second straight day treated Monday's truce meeting in a reserved manner—in contrast to previous denunciations of the Allied proposals.

It said the U. N. Command asked for secret talks "for the same of free discussion" but did not say the Allies made a new proposal.

Soviet Rejects Austria Talks

LONDON (U. S. The Soviet Union has turned down a Western invitation to reopen talks tomorrow on an Austrian independence treaty.

President Eisenhower had called for Soviet agreement to such a pact as a sign of the "sincere intent" of Russia's post-Stalin peace talk.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Malik, who also is ambassador to Britain, spurned the Allied offer to reopen the long-stalemate negotiations in a letter to the general secretary of the Big Four's Deputy Foreign Ministers. The letter was published today in Moscow newspapers and broadcast by Moscow radio.

There was no immediate official reaction to the brusque turn-down in Washington, London or Paris. Britain on May 11 had asked the other nations concerned with the treaty—the U. S., France and the Soviet Union—to reopen the talks here tomorrow. The deputies have met already 259 times—the last time Feb. 6—during the past five years in unsuccessful efforts to write a treaty which would give Austria complete independence.

Malik's reply said the Austrian question should be considered "through diplomatic channels by means of a relevant exchange of opinions" but did not specify further what he meant by this.

He said also that the meetings of the Deputy Foreign Ministers on Austria were "not a permanent four power organ" and that they should be convened by the Council of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four powers, a group organized at the 1945 Potsdam Conference.

Malik blamed the deputies' failure to agree on the treaty at previous meetings on "the attitude taken by representatives of the three (Western) Powers." His words echoed a Soviet foreign policy statement in Moscow's Pravda Sunday that "direct responsibility for delaying the settlement of the Austrian question rests on the shoulders of the three Western Powers."

Malik's reply said the Austrian question should be considered "through diplomatic channels by means of a relevant exchange of opinions" but did not specify further what he meant by this.

He said also that the meetings of the Deputy Foreign Ministers on Austria were "not a permanent four power organ" and that they should be convened by the Council of Foreign Ministers of the Big Four powers, a group organized at the 1945 Potsdam Conference.

2. Retains the Red-proposed five-nation commission to take over the 48,500 reluctant prisoners after a truce. Red agents would have 90 days for "explanations" to the balking captives.

3. Turns over to a postwar political conference all prisoners who still refuse to go back to communism. It was not learned how long the conference would take for this matter, but the original U. N. plan fixed a 30-day period. Finally the remaining POWs in custody would be handed to the U. N. General Assembly.

County Okays Lake Thomas Road Fund

Howard County commissioners voted Monday to pledge one mile of future farm-to-market road allotment to be used toward construction of a highway around Lake J. B. Thomas in Borden County.

The move was made in regular meeting Monday after word was received that Ector County commissioners had pledged a mile also.

The two miles will be used along with pledges from Borden and Scurry Counties. Also cooperating in the area-wide effort is the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The new highway, when completed, will circle the west side of the lake and afford an area recreational center for fishing, picnicking, and camping.

Howard commissioners have previously pledged $43,000 toward construction of a road from the Snyder highway north through Vincent to the Borden County line to meet the new lake highway.

Paving Hearing Gets Under Way

Public hearing got underway about 10:30 a. m. today on the city's 183-block paving program with three real estate dealers testifying they believed the new pavement would enhance value of adjoining property as much or more than cost of the improvement.

The public hearing, conducted in the corporation courtroom, was recessed about noon until 5 p. m. Real estate men testifying were Worth Peeler, J. W. Purser and Roy Reeder. All said they were familiar with property values in Big Spring and with the various areas in which paving is planned.

City Attorney Walton Morrison, who conducted the hearing, called on several of the property owners present for their opinions on the matter. All that he questioned said they favored the paving.

Shortly before noon the hearing had reached the point where some property owners were asking for information on various phases of the paving program—whether it would increase the taxable value of their holdings, why paving 30 feet wide wouldn't suffice where 40-foot paving is projected, and if additional streets could be brought into the paving program.

About 25 owners of property adjoining streets to be paved were present and all were to be given opportunity to express themselves for or against the various units of the program.

Cameron Flood Menace Is Over As Lake Charles Is Cleaning Up

LAKE CHARLES, La. (U. S.—Weatherman Paul Cook said today the flood menace had ended at the little Gulf Coast town of Cameron on the edge of river-swollen marshes south of here.

"Cameron is perfectly safe now," he said. Cook said small ridges extending east and west in the mouths of river-filled marshlands apparently had curbed the southward flow of floodwaters toward Cameron to a slow seep.

Bank of the intracoastal canal cutting across the marshes some 20 miles north of Cameron acted as a slight barrier, he said. Two days ago, the town of 2,000 was warned it might get water two to three feet deep because of the flooding Calcasieu River. Cameron is on a slight ridge 60 miles south of here at the mouth of the flood-draining river which nearly paralyzed Lake Charles last week.

At first it was thought tons of water swelling the marshes might push the surface into Cameron streets. The level sea-sawed back and forth with Gulf of Mexico tides. The river crest has flattened out over the marshes and any rise at Cameron will be extremely slow, forecasters said.

Cameroon and the tougher Sabine 30 miles to the west.

Cameroon, with 25 nearby oil wells, lives off oil fishing, trapping and cattle raising. It sits at the far tip of a gravel road barely topping the flooded marshes. Light traffic only is allowed of the narrow road.

Along the way cowmen were lashing at bellowing cattle yesterday to drive them out of the water. A ferry 2½ miles from Cameroon was delayed while cowboys in outboard swam in the water. Floodwaters brought in some snakes in some Lake Charles areas but city police Capt. William Wainwright, said most were harmless garter snakes, blue runners or coach whips.

The bride is the former Francis Elizabeth Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cooper, 507 Goliad. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Plowman of Weatherford.

The Rev. James S. Parks, pastor of the Baptist Temple, officiated at the informal, single ring ceremony at 3 p.m. The wedding was the first ever to be performed at the church. She wore a white taffeta hat and matching accessories. She carried an arrangement of pink roses and white carnations on a white Bible.

In carrying out the bridal tradition, the bride wore her great grandmother's ring as something old. She carried a Madeira linen handkerchief, a gift from her co-workers, as something new and she borrowed the Bible from Mrs. A. C. Faulkner.

Mrs. W. J. Smith of Wichita Falls was matron of honor. She was attired in a blue silk shantung dress with matching accessories. Her flowers were white Shasta daisies.

Everett Plowman of Eastland served as his brother's best man. Frank Gambrell of Mineral Wells, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was an usher.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, the couple will make their home at 1303 Graft.

Mrs. Plowman is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. She is employed as a commercial instructor at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Garden Colors Get Rid Of Winter Look Getting rid of the "winter look" in homes, now that summer is fast approaching, is easy. One good trick is to choose a pattern for draperies and slip-covers that uses garden colors.

The large expanse at the window calls for a large pattern while a twin print, the same as the drapery print but smaller gives a change of pace when used in the slip-covers.

A cool solid color for the lining of the draperies should be repeated elsewhere in the room and may be used as the walling color for the Water Supply In State Is Varying

The condition of the water supply in Texas ranged Tuesday from poor to excellent.

The water-soaked, flood-stricken southeast was crying for dry weather.

The poorest conditions probably were in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and several water-short counties in the Texas Panhandle. Irrigation water was under strict rationing in the valley with the river at near-record low flow. In the Panhandle, 150 farmers from several drought-stricken counties voted approval Monday of a fight to secure continued natural gas service for irrigation wells.

Farmers had said that action of Phillips Petroleum Company in deciding not to furnish cheap fuel for the wells "doomed irrigation farming" in the area.

The farmers' steering committee met in Amarillo Tuesday with A. M. Rippeel, head of Phillips gas division.

Phillips said that to continue furnishing gas would place it in violation of federal regulations. Farmers contend that without cheap natural gas for fuel it would be impossible for them to continue irrigation in the region. Other fuels would be prohibitive in cost for deep well pumping.

Southeast Texas, especially near the flood-gorged Sabine River, prayed for dry weather. Rain in the area and upstream as far north as Minnesota has had the usually placid Sabine in a flood several days.

Similar conditions, though not so acute, have also existed near the mouths of the Trinity and Neches

Hearings Over Shelf Area Are Nearing An End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Interior Committee neared today the end of its studies on legislation for the development of resources in the lands of the continental shelf beyond the states' seaward boundaries.

It heard yesterday the last of public witnesses on a bill authorizing the secretary of interior to develop the outer shelf area.

Only conferences with government officials remained before the committee begins final drafting of a bill.

Two spokesmen for the offshore oil operators told the committee yesterday they could get along all right whether state laws were applied to the federal offshore territory, or whether new federal regulations were enforced there.

They were James Cosgrove, chairman of the Continental Oil Co., and Clayton Orn of Houston, Ohio Oil Company official serving as chairman of a legal committee for offshore oil operators.

Among the last witnesses was William Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Association.

Speaking for the NEA, which says it represents 500,000 teachers, Carr supported the "oil for education" amendment introduced by Sen. Hill (D-Ala.). The amendment would dedicate all revenues from the outer continental shelf to education, by grants in aid to the states.

Stanton Legion Slates Barbecue

STANTON (SC)—The annual barbecue of Stogier-Estes Post No. 429 of the American Legion will be held at the Legion Hut here Tuesday evening with veterans who are not Legion members, and their families, as guests of honor.

The Legion has also announced that Memorial Day services will be held Sunday instead of Saturday. At 9:30 a.m. the Legionnaires will assemble at the Catholic Cemetery for services there and at 3 p.m. will meet at the Evergreen Cemetery for similar services. The Post's memorial services include the placing of a permanent wreath on the grave of every veteran of any war who is buried in either of the two cemeteries.

Warner Haynie will be master of ceremonies at the memorial services.

Rivers. In April and May put enough water into reservoirs in many places to offset several months of drought. Notable among these were Dallas, Terrell, San Angelo and Corsicana.

Dallas, long embarrassed by a water shortage, relaxed water restrictions Monday after its city council heard a report on the improved water situation.

The council said that if more rain does not come later in the year, the water restrictions—curbs against swimming pools, lawn watering and air conditioners,—will be restored.

City Mgr. Elgin Crull told the council that Lake Dallas, principal source for the city, now holds 33 billion gallons of water. Last November the Lake Dallas supply was down to six billion gallons. Other sources, Crull said, now boost Dallas' supply to 38 billion gallons.

Wichita Falls clamped on its first mandatory water restrictions in the city's history. Residents may water lawns and shrubs every other day.

WHAT DO THEY DO?

Bills Speed By Fast In The Legislature

AUSTIN (AP)—Bills are flying so fast in the House these days that the battler is "What do they do?"

They're concurring in Senate amendments, suspending the rules to pass a measure, adopting a conference committee report, rejecting Senate amendments and calling for a conference committee...

So fast, that members start yelling from the floor "What do they do?" before their colleague gets a chance to get to the microphone to explain what his bill does do.

The gavel bangs; the voting lights flash red and green; the lawmakers scurry.

"Mr. Sanders raises the point of order that the gentleman's time has expired, and the point is well taken and sustained," Speaker Reuben. Senterfitt bangs a long-winded debater off the microphone.

Barefoot Sanders, the representative from Dallas, has a desk right in front of the speaker's rostrum and gets to raise that point of order often by getting there first.

Opposition expires, too, when debate gets cut off after three minutes under the rules of the closing days.

The House went through 39 bills yesterday, sending 31 to the governor, five back to the Senate and three to a conference committee.

Many of the bills had tied up the House in days of debate earlier in the session. By this time members know whether they're for or against a bill—once they find out "What do they do?"

For instance: Rep. Bill Miller moved that the House concur in Senate amendments to House Bill 513.

"What do they do?" they yelled. "It's the compulsory treatment for narcotics bill," Miller said.

"Oh, okay," one member told his deskmate. "This bill's okay." They concurred 99-1 and the bill went to the governor.

Some more bills the House sent to the governor yesterday:

Five water bills recommended by the governor's water committee to allow temporary seasonal permits, create a water resources committee, empower the water board to hire a chief engineer, require all persons or groups to make written application for water permits, cancel all permits of which no part has been used for ten years. Three other water bills were passed unchanged by the Senate Saturday and sent to the governor. They create a water pollution advisory council, name the purposes for which public waters may be appropriated and give the water board power of injunction.

A bill to allow counties designated as drought disaster areas by the President to maintain their public school credits regardless of how much attendance drops off. It is by Rep. C. F. Senterfitt of Snyder.

A bill to allow extension of time of oil and gas leases on state lands, including the tidelands.

Opposition expires, too, when debate gets cut off after three minutes under the rules of the closing days.

Convict Escapes From Jail At Knife Point

TYLER (AP)—A young Negro convict and his cellmate broke out of the Smith County jail here at knife point last night.

Jailer J. B. Barron said Benny Roy, 19, pulled a knife when he and a trusty entered the cell with a mattress.

Roy and Allen Berry Jr., 23, also a Negro, locked the pair in the cell and escaped through the basement. Roy was awaiting transfer to Huntsville to serve a 15-year prison sentence. Berry was awaiting trial on forgery charges.

Marshall Tax Case Is Up In Appeals Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—One of the rebellious "Marshall housewives" asked the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals today to return $12.57 the federal government took from her bank account to pay for social security for her domestic servants.

Mrs. Carolyn Abney and her husband argued the law forcing them to pay social security taxes on servants is unconstitutional.

The case is a test balloon sent up by 11 women of Marshall, Tex., who have gained national attention as the "Marshall housewives" or the "Marshall girls."

All 11 refused to pay the tax required by the Federal Insurance Contributions Act.

Under the act servants must pay 1 per cent of their salary for social security. The employer must withhold this money from the servant's wages. The employer is required to match this contribution.

The Marshall wives are Eleanora Bradford, Mary Hicks, Winnifred Furr, Mrs. Joy Quinn, Mrs. Dorothy Martin, Mrs. Celeste Clemons, Mrs. Etheltra Spangler, Mrs. Jennie Abney, Mrs. R. B. Lethrop, Mrs. Ruby Peiz and Mrs. Carolyn Abney.

Mrs. Carolyn Abney's case is an appeal from Federal Court in Dallas, where Judge William Atwell ruled against her request for the $12.75 refund.

The government argued the case involved only the 1950 amendments which struck out the exemptions previously given to domestic employment.

The case began in 1951 when the Marshall wives refused to pay the taxes for the first three months of the year. This amounted to $2.51 in Mrs. Abney's case.

Junior High Graduates Urged Not To Be Afraid Of Failures

There was standing room only at the second annual graduation exercises of the Big Spring Junior High School last night in the Senior High auditorium.

The house was packed to see the 248 students wearing red caps and gowns graduate from the ninth grade into High School.

Commencement address was delivered by County Judge R. H. Weaver, who told the graduates to have fun in life but not to be afraid of failure and not to be average.

Pointing out that each of the 248 students had a challenge in meeting his future, Judge Weaver said that no problem is insurmountable.

Discussing his point of not being afraid of failure, the judge drew an analogy from the life of Babe Ruth, famous baseball player.

Weaver said that Ruth, even though having a slump, would go to the plate and keep taking his healthy cut at a great deal. Weaver pointed out that he got a lot of hits too.

"He never allowed fear or failure to slow him down," he said. "In defeated failure he was the same as in success. He had a simple philosophy of taking the good and had in his stride."

Weaver intimated that the graduates should use the same principles in their future efforts.

The judge also told the graduates not to refer to their accomplishments as average, because that's just as close to the bottom as the top. He also pointed out that if students enjoy themselves in their school, community and church they will be successful.

He also said that statistics show 25 per cent of the ninth grade graduates will not make it through high school. He explained that about 184 of the 248 will be in high school commencement services.

Patry Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff D. Grant, Route 1, was valedictorian of the class. Salutatorian was Charles Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Saunders, 1910 Bunnels. Both were presented trophies by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Awards were presented to 27 students who attended Junior High during the past school year who were not absent or tardy. Awards were presented by C. E. Wilburn, supervisor of instruction at Junior High School.

Diplomas were presented to each of the graduates as they filed across the stage. They were individually introduced by John A. Freeman, guidance director. John Dibrell and Marvin Miller, school board members, passed out diplomas.

J. T. Johnson, principal of Junior High, certified the students as having completed work toward graduation. They were accepted by Superintendent of Schools W. C. Blankenship.

Blankenship, who supervised the commencement, was presented a silver table bowl in recognition for his 25 years service with Big Spring schools.

Student speeches were made by James Harris, Margaret Fryar, and Charles Saunders. Harris' topic was "Tribute for Twenty-five Years," which emphasized Blankenship's service here. Miss Fryar spoke on "What Graduation Means to Me," and Saunders talked on "What The Future Holds For Me."

Jimmy Porter, next year's president of the high school student body, welcomed the graduates to Big Spring High School next year.

Country Club Okays Plan To Purchase Site

A plan to purchase the club site from the Texas & Pacific Railway was authorized at a meeting of stockholders of the Big Spring Country Club Monday night.

Land involved comprises 98.5 acres, which the club currently occupies on a long-term lease from the railroad.

A special finance committee was appointed to study the finance plan, and has agreed to an assessment of $50 per member. The assessment may be paid in installments if desired. The balance of the purchase price will be financed by the issuance of scrip notes which will be retired out of a certain portion of dues and other club income.

Club members also voted Monday night that the par value of the stock should be lowered from $400 to $100. A campaign was authorized for an intensive drive for new members.

The club will be operated under new management after June 1, since Shirley Robbins, long time pro and manager, has resigned to take a similar post in Midland. No new manager has been named yet, but the club expects to close an arrangement soon. Meanwhile, Mrs. Robbins temporarily will serve as club manager. Officials said the club will own and operate its concessions, and will keep a pro available at all times for golf instruction.

Announcement was made of a "work day" to be held at the club Saturday, to clear the rubble on the golf course and around the club house. An appeal was made for all members who can to assist in this clean-up program.

Announcement also was made of a barbecue to be held the evening of June 6. Reservations are to be made through the club office.

Student Pilot Crash-Lands Jet Trainer

A Webb AFB student pilot escaped injury when he made an emergency landing in his T-33 jet training plane Monday at Tye field near Abilene.

French MDAF Sgt. Jacques Chataigner, 20, had become lost near Carlsbad, N. M., and missed Webb AFB on his return. After contacting Goodfield AFB, San Angelo, by radio, Sgt. Chataigner was instructed to make an emergency landing at Tye when it was learned that he was near Abilene with only 35 gallons of fuel remaining.

The T-33 overran the runway, which is over one mile shorter than jet runways at Webb. The plane went through a pasture, crossed Farm Road 707 and stopped in a ditch. Sgt. Chataigner raised the canopy and climbed out.

While emerging from the plane he noticed a small fire under the fuselage, probably caused by a broken fuel line or wiring. AF authorities said the fire virtually destroyed the plane before firefighting equipment could reach the scene.

Sgt. Chataigner was taken to the hospital. He was released after a few days. He is now at the Tye field, where he is working as a mechanic.

The balance of the purchase price will be financed by the issuance of scrip notes which will be retired out of a certain portion of dues and other club income.

Club members also voted Monday night that the par value of the stock should be lowered from $400 to $100. A campaign was authorized for an intensive drive for new members.

The club will be operated under new management after June 1, since Shirley Robbins, long time pro and manager, has resigned to take a similar post in Midland. No new manager has been named yet, but the club expects to close an arrangement soon. Meanwhile, Mrs. Robbins temporarily will serve as club manager. Officials said the club will own and operate its concessions, and will keep a pro available at all times for golf instruction.

Announcement was made of a "work day" to be held at the club Saturday, to clear the rubble on the golf course and around the club house. An appeal was made for all members who can to assist in this clean-up program.

Announcement also was made of a barbecue to be held the evening of June 6. Reservations are to be made through the club office.

Jury Being Sought In Robertson Trial

VERNON (AP)—Handcuffed George Robertson, 21, watched solemnly today as attorneys sought to complete a jury for his murder trial.

Robertson is accused in the death of an Amarillo filling station attendant who was beaten and stabbed to death.

He and Joseph Lucas, 20, are charged in the slaying of Victor Smith, Amarillo filling station attendant, Jan. 6, and in the Jan. 8 killing of Harold Gibbs, 60, Amarillo cab driver.

Medical Society Meets Here Tonight To Select Officers

A medical society representing 10 West Texas counties will meet at the Settlers Hotel this evening to choose officers and adopt charter and by-laws.

The 10-county group is a protion of the Permian Basin Society which has been divided. Other section, with members from Midland, El Paso and Andrews Counties, already has reorganized and named Dr. W. A. Wiesner of Odessa president.

The 10 counties to be represented at the organizational meeting here today are Kent, Howard, Dickens, Garza, Martin, Glascock, Borden, Scurry, King and Stonehall. The group also will welcome doctors of Webb Air Force Base, The VA Hospital and Big Spring State Hospital as active members.

About 70 or 80 persons, including doctors and their wives, are expected for this evening's session which starts at 7:30. Dr. R. B. G. Cowper, Big Spring, counselor for the Second District of the Texas Medical Society, will conduct the meeting.

The Permian Basin Society was divided into two groups to shorten distances some doctors had to cover to attend meetings of the widespread organization, Dr. Cowper said.

Student Pilot Crash-Lands Jet Trainer

A Webb AFB student pilot escaped injury when he made an emergency landing in his T-33 jet training plane Monday at Tye field near Abilene.

French MDAF Sgt. Jacques Chataigner, 20, had become lost near Carlsbad, N. M., and missed Webb AFB on his return. After contacting Goodfield AFB, San Angelo, by radio, Sgt. Chataigner was instructed to make an emergency landing at Tye when it was learned that he was near Abilene with only 35 gallons of fuel remaining.

The T-33 overran the runway, which is over one mile shorter than jet runways at Webb. The plane went through a pasture, crossed Farm Road 707 and stopped in a ditch. Sgt. Chataigner raised the canopy and climbed out.

While emerging from the plane he noticed a small fire under the fuselage, probably caused by a broken fuel line or wiring. AF authorities said the fire virtually destroyed the plane before firefighting equipment could reach the scene.

Sgt. Chataigner was taken to the hospital. He was released after a few days. He is now at the Tye field, where he is working as a mechanic.

No State-Wide Fishing Law Is Approved Yet

AUSTIN (AP)—As for fishing legislation, lawmakers this session apparently have been concerned only with their home streams and lakes.

Not a state-wide fishing law had been approved.

The only one that stirred up much controversy was one that bans seines and nets in Laguna Madre, a South Texas bay, during summer months. Some legislators felt it might raise the price of fish all over Texas. It finally was passed and signed.

Other local fishing bills the governor signed include: Commercial fishing allowed in Tom Green County on the Concho River between the San Angelo dam and Shaw gravel pit, effective May 1, 1954.

Bans were placed on seines and nets in Angulina, Jefferson and Orange Counties; seines and nets allowed in rains in Henderson and Smith Counties. Fish still can't be sold in any of the counties.

For Baylor, Archer, Wilbarger and Wichita Counties, Lake Kickapoo on Little Wichita River put under the same rules as Diversion Lake.

For Bosque, Hill, Somerville and Johnson Counties on the Brazos River, Lake Whitney and adjoining streams: Ban of seine and net except minnow nets less than 20 feet long; ban on fish sale; minnows, bream and rough fish approved for bait use.

Vetted by the governor were a bill changing Denton County rules and one allowing fish-trap nets and wing nets with a one-inch mesh.

No damage resulted from a fire Monday afternoon in the W. V. Rigby garage at 307 W. 8th, firemen said.

Cook's Defeat Coahomans To Tie For League Lead

Dark Star Is In Retirement

Reguera Tames Artesia Nine

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Tues., May 26, 1953

Oh Yeh, Sez Who?

Terrible tempered Russ Meyer of the Brooklyn Dodgers gives free rein to his vocal cords seconds before umpire Augie Donatelli tossed him out of the game with Philadelphia Phillies at Philadelphia. The righthanded pitcher didn't see eye to eye with Donatelli on the question of balls and strikes in the fourth inning. During the debate, Meyer tossed the resin bag high in the air—sufficient cause for expulsion—and Donatelli waved him to the bench. To top things off the bag fell atop Meyer's head, leaving an obvious powder mark. The Dodgers won the game, 16-2. On left is umpire Art Core. On the right is Brooklyn first baseman Gil Hodges. Players in the background are unidentified. (AP Wirephoto).

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring's Jake Douglass, who has made his share of American Bowling Congress tournaments in the past few years, writes from Chicago that a one-time resident of Our Town, Sneed Christian, performed well in the Masters Tournament held in conjunction with this year's ABC meet.

Sneed was eligible to compete in the tournament because he reigned as state champion of Texas last year after winning three matches. He came a cropper. The kogler who eliminated him fired 925 to Sneed's 820 for four games. The 925 was the highest score of the tournament.

Christian got over 4,000 pins in his 20 games, which averages out to better than 200 pins a game.

ATTENDANCE WOE A UNIVERSAL PROBLEM

All clubs in the Longhorn League, save San Angelo and Carlsbad, are having attendance troubles.

In its first 11 games of the season, the Roswell club drew 6,795 for an average of 618 a night. That figure includes paid admissions and book tickets and, of course, takes in opening night sales. Not good, not bad. But, they say, Manager-Owner Pat Stacey need have no worries if he can give the fans decent baseball.

Paid attendance at the first 15 games in Odessa amounted to 8,356 for an average of 557 nightly. Subtract the opening-night figures from that, and the average drops to 476.

Attendance at Midland has been down and getting the fans to support the club at Artesia is, of course, a problem.

Turnouts here and at Lamesa have been poor. Better baseball at both places might rally the fans at both places, but, of course, in order to provide better baseball a club has to have the support at the gate. Attendance has never been anything to brag about here but it gets better after school is out.

If the Big Spring club finds itself now and starts a surge toward the top, chances are the team's financial worries will diminish.

This quote from Jim Matthews, the Amarillo manager, who was considered for the job as Bronco field boss at one time:

"I hope those owners who cut the limit on veterans are satisfied. This isn't baseball this year. Why do you think the fans would come to see us even if we had won? The way it started, this is going to be a long season. Even the players who do good won't get a chance to go up. We've scored 53 runs in our last five games and haven't won but one of them."

WT-NM league directors decided to retrench after losing money in 1952 but the change apparently wasn't gradual enough. Time was when the circuit operated like a Class A or B league. This year, its player ratio is 5-5 (five veterans, five limited-service and five rookies).

On the other hand, the Longhorn Loop teams are permitted five veterans, eight limited-service players and three rookies, no great change from that allowed in any recent season.

The Artesia Drillers, who in Joe Bauman have one of the biggest players in all baseball, are getting an even bigger one.

The new goliath is Frank Martin, an NDS player, who stands 6-foot-1½ inches and tips the scales at 270 pounds.

Artesia bought him from Tyler. He made a coffee stop with the Chicago White Sox a few years ago.

Remember Pete Gray, a one-time player who made history by spending one season with the St. Louis Browns?

He's now performing with the Guelph, Ontario, Mapleleaves.

Strafaci, Sweeny Achieve Victory In British Play

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Frank Strafaci, curly-haired shotmaker from Hempstead, N. Y., and Bob Sweeny of Palm Beach, the 1937 champion, led the lower half of the field into the third round of the British Amateur Golf championship today.

Strafaci walloped his Long Island neighbor, Raymond Petersen, 6 and 4. Sweeny eliminated William Stead of the Isle of Man, 4 and 3.

They are two of the top American favorites in the lower half of the draw, which also includes defending champion Harvie Ward of Atlanta and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, winner in 1948 and 1950.

Strafaci was the fifth American to reach the third round today. In the upper half of the field yesterday, eight Americans advanced.

Chick Evans, the Chicago veteran who won the U. S. amateur and open titles in 1916, was the only well-known player among TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—Pat Scantlebury, Ace Negro southpaw who won seven straight Big State League games before he lost one, has turned out to be a gold mine in more ways than one for the Texarkana Bears.

Besides dominating the league's pitching statistics and making the Bears the hottest team in the loop during the first month of the season, Scantlebury has made the turnstiles click a merry tune into the ears of Dick King and Del Erickson, co-owners of the club.

The oldtimers in this border city say Scantlebury so far has proved to be as big a drawing card as Indian Vallie Eaves, the old fireball pitcher who packed the park in the years immediately before and after World War II.

What is the secret behind his winning ways?

Big State League hitters differ greatly in their opinions of Scantlebury's hurling. Some say he's been riding a lucky streak. Others say he's the hottest item to break into the league in quite awhile.

Roy Sanner, Texarkana's big outfielder who perennially tops the 300 mark in hitting in the Big State League, and who has hammered the fences in every park in the loop, says:

"I'll say one thing for Scantlebury's pitching. His ball does something all the time. He's not exceptionally fast, but he can get the ball over the plate consistently, and he has some good pitches. His curve ball breaks well, and he is cool and in control of himself at all times."

Scantlebury is 25 years of age, 6-foot-4 and weighs 187 pounds. He was born in Panama, but makes his permanent home in Montclair, N. J. This is his first year in professional baseball, but he is an old-timer as far as semi-pro baseball is concerned.

Scantlebury started playing ball in grammar school in Panama, and since that time his semi-pro career has taken him through Mexico, Cuba, Japan, the East Coast and the Middle West. His last season was with Ft. Wayne, Ind., in the Negro league.

King signed him from there. In his first two appearances in the Big State League, he shut out Greenville 2-0 and Wichita Falls 9-0. Since that time he has beaten every club in the Big State League. The Greenville Majors handed him his first setback Thursday night, 9-3.

A $25,000 price tag reportedly attached to the Negro southpaw has frightened away several prospective buyers, including the Dallas Eagles. Dallas Owner Dick Burnett said that he's interested in Scantlebury, "but not that interested."

Meanwhile, Scantlebury, who has a huge Negro following in Texarkana, continues to pack 'em in at Lee Park and King says, "I don't really want to sell him. I think I'll just hold on to him."

WACO (AP)—Fifteen Texas golfers members of Professional Golf Association, took off today in qualifying rounds for the five Texas sports rounds for the 1953 PGA tournament.

Included in the 15 are J. T. B. Hutchins, Houston; Iverson Martin, Fort Worth; Boyd Huff, Midland; Dub Bell, Houston; Beard Sims, Dallas, and Dick Forester, Houston.

The PGA trials were set for Ridgeway Country Club here.

Kiner Collects 300th Home Run

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Big Ralph Kiner boasts 300 home runs today—a feat he accomplished faster than any other great slugger in major league history—even the mighty Babe Ruth.

Kiner Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder is a-tainted the goal yesterday by belting a 1-1 pitch a curve ball—off Pitcher Al Corwin of the New York Giants in the fifth inning with two teammates aboard.

That gave Kiner the distinction of joining the ranks of 11 others who have hit 300 home runs or more. They are:

Babe Ruth 714, Jimmy Fox 534, Mel Ott 511, Lou Gehrig 494, Joe DiMaggio 361, Johnny Mize 356, Hank Greenberg 331, Ted Williams 324, Al Simmons 307, Roger Hornsby 302, and Chuck Klein 300.

Kiner is the only active National League player to hit 300 roundtrippers. Mize, the aging first sacker of the New York Yankees, collected some in the National and the others in the American League.

"It's a wonderful feeling to hit 300 home runs," remarked the 30-year-old Kiner. "But it would have been a lot nicer if we would have won the game."

The Giants mauled three Pittsburgh pitchers for 12 hits and a 5-3 victory—the ninth in the last 11 games.

The ball that Kiner belted for his 300th roundtripper and the sixth of the season was presented to him by Frank Hiller of the Giants.

Stockholders Vote To Purchase Land

Stockholders of the Big Spring Country Club, meeting in formal session last night, voted to buy the land on which the golf course stands from the T&P railway.

A hundred acres of land would be involved in the transaction. Negotiations have been underway between the club and the railway for some time.

No action has been taken on the hiring of a new professional. Several men have been interviewed for the job and others were due to meet with the board of directors this week.

Shirley Robbins, the present pro, vacates the post June 1 to become club manager of the Ranchland Hills course in Midland.

Hose Will Be Given Away

Fifty pairs of nylon hose will be given away to women fans at the Wednesday night Big Spring-Carlsbad baseball game here, Bill Frank, general manager of the Broncs, has announced.

The hose are being supplied by C. R. Anthony's Store. They are 5½-gauge 15-denier Vanette stockings.

COLORADO CITY—Cook's Appliance Store of Big Spring roared into a tie for first place in Jaycee Softball League standings here Monday night on the strength of Speck Franklin's masterful pitching and the heavy clubbing of Manager James Watts.

The Big Springers trounced the pace-setters, Coahomans' Maroons, by a score of 9-3.

Franklin set the Coahomans down with three hits and struck out five. He didn't give up a hit until the sixth, when Mike Smolko connected safely. In the seventh, Lawrence Davis singled for the losers.

Watts drove out two home runs, the first in the fifth with Ted Gross and James Hollis aboard and the second in the seventh, who again found Hollis on base.

The Big Spring club banged Jim Ward around for eight hits, including a double and two singles by Hollis.

Runs by Pete Cook and Ben Kirkland in the second inning gave Cook's a lead it never relinquished. Cook had singled and Kirkland was struck by a pitched ball. Martin then hit to drive in both runners.

Cook's scored two more in the fourth when Kirkland and Martin got home.

Al Valdes Is Dealt To Roswell Club

Al Valdes, veteran catcher of the Big Spring Broncs, Monday afternoon was swapped to the Roswell Rockets for cash and a player.

The player, who was not identified, was to join the Broncs when they return home Wednesday.

Departure of Valdes leaves the Broncs with only one player who was on the club in 1952—He is Oscar Reguera, righthanded hurler. Reguera joined the local team late last year.

Valdes had been the team's regular catcher until the veteran Joe Niedson joined the Broncs. A switch hitter, Niedson won the job

Colts Assume League Lead

The Longhorn League had an undisputed leader Tuesday—San Angelo's Colts.

The Colts licked the Carlsbad Potashers Monday night, 2-0, to break a tie for the top.

Gil Guerra fashioned a five-hitter while Hank Williams of the Potashers gave up seven.

Artesia, in third place, couldn't stand the pace and lost to Big Spring, 5-4.

Midland, in fourth place, gained some by whipping Roswell, 10-4. It was the Rockets' fourth straight defeat.

Lamesa clipped Odessa, 7-4, and felt much better. At the same time owner Hal Webb announced a working agreement with Dallas of the Texas League and the Lobos, who had been having attendance troubles, are looking for a pickup.

Hubbers Humble Borger, 16-3

Lubbock's Hubbers could breathe a little easier Tuesday in the West Texas-New Mexico League. At least they can't lose their leadership in a single night.

The Hubbers blasted Borger, 16-3 Monday night while Pampa was falling out of second place with a 17-9 licking from Clovis.

The BEER That Made Milwaukee Famous

Arc Tilts Produce Whacky Baseball

By BEN PHEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Night games turned into nightmares in the major leagues last night in one of the wildest programs since they first flipped the switches that brought artificial daylight to the big time.

Included in the action were:

1. A modern major league record for consecutive strikeouts.
2. The longest night game in the history of baseball.
3. The season's high in hits for an American League team.
4. A run scored on a "three base gump" plus a balk.
5. One club using 23 players, equaling the American League record.

Big Max Surkont of the Milwaukee Braves struck out seven Cincinnati batters in a row, waited 38 minutes for a rainstorm to subside, then fanned one more for the modern record. He won the game, the second half of a twilight night doubleheader, 10-3, for his sixth in a row. He hasn't been beaten.

A gathering of 24,445 of the Milwaukee faithful braved six hours of rain and high winds to watch their new pets win both games. Rookie Don Liddle hurled a three hitter to take the opener, 5-1.

The marathon game came at Yankee Stadium, where the Boston Red Sox needed three hours and 52 minutes to whip New York at home for the first time since last August. The score was 14-0, and in running up the margin the Red Sox pounded six New York pitchers for 20 hits, high in the American League this season.

Down by as much as eight runs the Yanks rallied in the late innings and the ninth Joe Collins went all the way around for free. He walked, advanced to second and third unmolested and scored on a balk by Ellis Kinder.

The Yankee loss cut their first

Randy Sandy Guns For Frenchman

BROOKLYN (AP)—Randy Sandy, a 22-year-old middleweight with only one defeat on his record, today set his sights on Pierre Langlois, the Frenchman who has been beating most of the middleweight contenders.

But first he has a date with Ted Murray of New York two weeks from now at Ridgewood Grove.

"After that one, we're going after Langlois," said his manager Hymie Wallman after he whipped Tuzo (Kid) Portugez of Costa Rica last night at Eastern Parkway arena.

Sandy, who has lost only to Willie Troy, was the 2-1 favorite and fought like it, although he got overconfident in the eighth and was caught with a right to the chin that sent him reeling across the ring. Otherwise, though, he was complete master of Portugez.

Sandy weighed 156½ to Portugez' 160½.

Dark Star Is In Retirement

NEW YORK (AP)—The racing career of Dark Star, the ragsof-riches colt who won the Kentucky Derby in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the run for the roses, came to an abrupt end today, the result of an injury to his right foreleg.

Owner Harry F. Guggenheim, who bought Dark Star for $6,500 in 1951 at the Keeneland Sales where he was shopping for another yearling, said the injury was a bowed tendon and that it was suffered in the Preakness last Saturday.

Thus the brown colt—the only horse ever to beat Native Dancer—won't get another chance to whip the Dan on in the Belmont Stakes on June 13. Dark Star was running according to schedule in the Preakness, then suddenly let up at the three-eighths pole and finally finished fifth.

There was an ironic coincidence in Dark Star's retirement. Back in 1945, Polynesian, father of Native Dancer, won the Preakness, with Hoop Jr. second. Hoop Jr. suffered an injury in that race and never ran again.

"We had an indication of the injury Sunday morning after the Preakness," said Guggenheim, millionaire newspaper publisher. "But we wanted to make absolutely certain before making an announcement of this important nature."

"You can repair a bowed tendon so a horse can race, but they go back on you again."

Guggenheim said that Dark Star would be rested at his estate, Falter, in Port Washington, N. Y., until the fall, then shipped to a breeding farm.

Engineers Beaten By Oilers, 12-3

The Oilers whacked the Engineers, 12-3 in Little League play Monday night.

Chubby Moser hurled a two-hitter for the winners. He didn't give up a safety until the fourth, and the second enemy blow came in the sixth.

Moser also chipped in with his hit in the Oilers' seven-hit attack on Manuel Correa, Engineer pitcher, by collecting two hits. Parkhill also got two safeties for the Oilers.

NOW LOOK BOYS!

What you read in this column for the next two weeks please take it with a grain of salt. Old "Joe" is finally getting that vacation—and knowing what was said when I was gone on a three day "Business Trip" you can look for anything. But, Boys, I know old "Mut" Frederick and "Flash" Felts. Take a tip from me and go down and purchase a good used car. Times ripe cause they're EASY—

1950 BUICK Roadmaster Riviera sedan. (Demonstrator). Here is an opportunity to own a nearly new car at a substantial discount. New car guarantee.

1951 CHEVROLET 4-door sedan. A black beauty with 17,344 miles. Here's a real chance to own a nearly new car.

1950 DeSOTO Sportsman. Here is one of the soundest cars in Big Spring. Pretty as a peach and has lots of pickup.

1950 FORD Tudor sedan. Look this car over. A real buy at our PRICE.

1950 BUICK Super Riviera 4-door sedan. NONE better. NOTHING gone from this one, BUT a lot of the original PRICE. She's ready.

1951 HUDSON Commodore '51. Surely there's someone who wants a nice car at about 1-3 of the NEW PRICE. The first owner took the depreciation, YOU take the gravy.

1951 CHEVROLET 2-door Sedan. A black, sweet hunk of car if there ever was one. Don't procrastinate (That's a 2c word). Don't deviate (same). Head straight for this little dream car.

1949 FORD Tudor sedan. A good town and country car. If you're in town, you'll wish you were in the COUNTRY and VISA VERSA.

1949 CHEVROLET 4-door Styleline deluxe sedan. Radio and heater. Actual 30,000 miles. Green paint. Plenty nice and a "READY TEDDY."

Paper Thinks Cattle Disease Set Purposely

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican newspapers reported suspicious today that Mexico's latest outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has been started deliberately, but officials fighting the cattle plague said "that's pure speculation."

"Several thousand employees of the joint United States-Mexican Commission fighting the disease lost their jobs when the plague apparently was wiped out in 1951," said one official. "Renewal of the disease could put many of these back on the payroll. The possibility that the disease might have been deliberately communicated to cattle in the Veracruz area is in everybody's mind but there is no evidence one way or the other."

The commission reported 525 cattle killed in the Veracruz area where the fresh outbreak was discovered Saturday after Mexico had been officially declared freed of the disease in the five-year battle. Officials said the latest infection had been "definitely wiped out."

American officials said it will be a long time before the border is opened to Mexican cattle. Mexican officials took prompt and drastic action yesterday to stamp out the disease reported among 500 cattle at Gutierrez Zamora in Veracruz state.

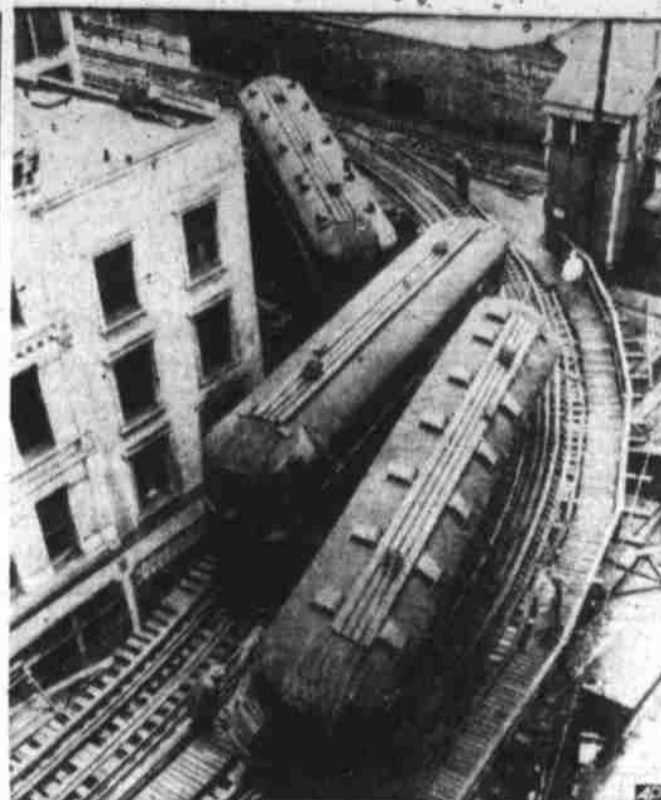

Technicians went to the scene. They slaughtered and buried infected animals. Several regiments of Army troops patrolled the area to enforce a quarantine. Agriculture Minister Gilberto Flores Munoz asserted the outbreak definitely had been controlled. No new outbreaks were reported.

A U. S. embassy official said the disease was found on four different farms, among four herds. Scores of ranches are in the area, he said, and a check is being made to see if the disease has spread further than reported. Ambassador Francis White spent most of the day with technicians brought here from Washington to aid the Mexicans.

Mexico ships about 400,000 head of cattle to the U. S. annually, and closing of the border to such exports hurts Mexico's economy. There is no specific law governing such a situation. However, precedent has more or less established one year, more or less, as the time imports are banned after the last aftosa outbreak has been controlled. The decision is up to the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Police Puzzled, By Blood Pool
A puddle of blood on the porch of a northside residence this morning puzzled police and the occupant of the house.

An unidentified Negro woman called police this morning to report finding the blood as she stepped out the front door. Patrolman Jack Shafer investigated and found blood smeared on the porch floor and spattered on a column holding up the roof.

Train Hops Elevated Tracks At Curve

Top Pension Program Given Union By Ford

By GLENN ENGLE
DETROIT (AP)—The Ford Motor Company did General Motors one better in voluntarily revising its five-year contract with the CIO United Auto workers early today by giving the union the best major pension plan in the industry—a maximum of $137.50 a month.

Before it did so, however, Ford demanded and was given assurance that the crippling strike of UAW workers at its Canton, O., forge plant would be halted immediately. That five-week-old tieup had idled 85,000 of Ford's 135,000 production workers and virtually shut down the vast Ford production system.

Ford and the UAW wound up two long days of secret, top-level negotiations by formally announcing the contract changes shortly after midnight. Ford president Henry Ford II and UAW and CIO President Walter P. Reuther led the talks.

The big gains in pension payments—$12.50 to $35 a month—came as somewhat of a bombshell after General Motors, the industrial giant, had given its workers a similar plan.

Nineteen of the 24 cents net gain picked up under cost-of-living wage hikes since the contracts were signed in 1950 will be put into base pay, to be untouched by any future price declines.

The so-called "annual improvement factor"—a guaranteed raise to cover improved production techniques—will go up from four to five cents an hour June 1.

About 21,000 skilled workers will get a 10-cent hourly pay increase. The new Bureau of Labor Statistics price index will supplant the old index as a guide to pay rates in the future.

Otherwise the new benefits in Ford and GM contracts are identical.

One group of skilled workers—500 die sinkers and pattern makers—will get 20-cent an hour wage boosts.

Other than the new benefits in Ford and GM contracts are identical.

Ex-White House Worker Won't Talk At Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A one-time White House employee refused today to say whether he had passed secret government documents to an acknowledged former Soviet spy courier. He did assert he never engaged in espionage against this country.

Julius Joseph of New York, was an associate economist for the National Resources Planning Board at the White House in 1940 and 1941, and a member of the wartime Office of Strategic Services—the hush-hush OSS—from 1943 through mid-1945.

Joseph refused to say whether he is a Communist. He accused the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, before which he appeared, of asking him questions at its public hearing that "are not American."

He assailed but did not deny the testimony of Miss Elizabeth Bentley, acknowledged former spy courier, who had named him as a member of a Soviet spy ring. Joseph said he never has denied her testimony under oath, and declined again to say whether she spoke the truth in telling the subcommittee last year that as a soldier in 1943 Joseph "pulled strings through a friend" and got himself assigned to OSS.

There, she had said, he served in "the hush-hush Japanese division which was right next to the Russian division" in order to keep track of what this country was learning about the Communists.

Joseph was called as an unscheduled witness, in advance of testimony by Nathan Witt, former general counsel and secretary of the National Labor Relations Board in 1944-45, and John Abt, former special assistant to the attorney general in 1937-38.

Democrats To Vote Aid Cuts Instead Of AF Budget Slash

By RUSSELL BRINES and JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Price (D-Ill) today termed President Eisenhower's military budget "an invitation for an enemy attack."

He called upon Secretary of Defense Wilson to "give reassurance to the American people that defense was the primary objective" in cutting funds for air power.

And influential Senate Democrats, declaring open warfare on administration military policies, aimed at substituting foreign aid cuts for proposed Air Force economies.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) and Sen. Maybank (D-SC) said in separate interviews they will vote within the Appropriations Committee to cut back Mutual Security Administration (MSA) funds while opposing a reduction in aviation funds.

Price, an Armed Services Committee member, suggested in a speech prepared for the House that "accountants" in the Bureau of the Budget may have overruled Wilson and ignored the Joint Chiefs of Staff in setting the $36,171,288,000 military budget for the year beginning July 1.

The figure is $5,247,128,000 less than former President Truman recommended. But it includes an increase of more than one billion dollars for the Army, largely to finance the Korean War.

Price said $919,134,000 was trimmed from naval aviation, in addition to $5,000,000 slashed from Air Force funds. He said that made the air power cuts about six billion dollars. Eisenhower has said that 60 cents of every defense dollar next year will go to the Air Force and the Navy for air power.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, on his return from a trip to South America, told newsmen last night he attended a meeting of the National Security Council at which the final decision was made to accept proposed fund cuts.

"I was there to answer questions, but I was not asked for my opinion and did not give it," Vandenberg said. "There is neither approval nor disapproval."

He declined immediate comment on the effect of the cuts. Sen. Russell joined other Democrats in scoffing at Secretary Wilson's contention that air strength will be built up despite the proposed appropriations slash.

Maybank said he, for one, isn't going to vote to spend $5,800,000,000 to supply military and other assistance to U. S. Allies while reducing the amount available to America's own air arm. He said he thinks the MSA program can stand a slash of two billion dollars.

Price based his conclusions on a letter from Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge to Wilson, dated May 7. Price said it indicated that Wilson had not shaved enough from the Truman budget to carry out "the administration's stated policies and budget objectives."

The Bureau of the Budget is the President's spokesman on fiscal matters and has the final voice on all budgets before they are sent to Congress.

Price said Dodge's letter raises these questions: "whether the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has been followed" and "is Secretary Wilson, himself, in full accord with the proposed cuts?"

He added: "A number of Democrats, and a few Republicans, have questioned the wisdom of the proposed cuts in new Air Force funds. Several GOP senators, however, have dared the Democrats to seek restoration of the funds."

Rep. Brownson (R-Ind) said in a speech at Baltimore last night that "a corporal's guard of heavy spenders" is "pitting their limited knowledge of the high level military needs of the country" against Eisenhower's judgment.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) suggested on an MBS radio program last night that Eisenhower is in a difficult position "when his Republican conferees begin to twist his arm and say, 'we want a reduction in taxes.'"

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas brought any traces of a Democratic honeymoon with the Eisenhower administration to an end with an attack yesterday on Republican military, financial, farm and labor policies.

Addressing the Women's National Democratic Club here, the Senate Democratic leader said the people are "bewildered." He said the President hasn't shown any leadership yet.

"Does our Defense Department believe that fewer ships, fewer guns and fewer planes mean greater strength to defend our country against communism?" he demanded.

Not all of the Democrats were lining up behind the party leadership in the Air Force fight nor in the effort to whittle foreign aid funds.

Sen. George (D-Ga), a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he will vote for the proposed five billion dollar aviation slash because he believes economies can be accomplished only by trimming down funds for future years.

IOOF Lodge Raises Fund For A Child

A committee headed by Gordon Gross has raised $194.40, which will be used to retire hospital and other expenses of a child involved in a recent accident, members of Mollins Lodge 372 (IOOF) were informed at their regular session last night.

The Rebecca and the Ladies Auxiliary are also contributing to a fund which will go to the child's family, it was announced.

Jesus Andrade Medina, who pleaded not guilty in County Court Saturday to charges of driving while intoxicated, changed his plea to guilty Monday.

He was fined $75 by County Judge R. H. Weaver. Previously his bond had been set at $500, and Medina remained in jail instead of posting bond.

Medina was arrested in Coahoma by Constable Odell Buchanan. His driver's license, which was revoked by law, showed him to be from Loraine.

Okay Is Given To Negotiate Rail Crossing

County Judge R. H. Weaver has authorized Monday by the Commissioners' Court to complete negotiations with the T&P Railroad for extension of Birdwell Lane north from Highway 80 across the tracks.

Spadework for the new railroad crossing has already been made. Judge Weaver and W. C. Foster, superintendent of the T&P here, have been in conference on the matter.

At present Birdwell Lane extends south of Highway 80 only. The new crossing is felt to be especially truck traffic. The crossing east of the proposed road is inadequate, the commissioners believe.

T&P officials are agreeable to the new crossing provided the County will fill in with dirt the elevated portion of the road on the T&P right-of-way. A fence has to be moved, a gas main changed, and a drainage system installed.

Commissioners agreed to meet all the requirements. Judge Weaver expects to have another conference with Foster this week to complete details of the project.

With Franklin Reynolds

Speaking of dirty guns, here's the top story of the era and maybe of all time.

Pickle Hensley discovered his Browning automatic shotgun wasn't working properly, in fact it wouldn't function at all. Moreover, it smelled anything but good, anything but like a clean, well-oiled shotgun should smell. Definitely something was wrong so he took it to Jake Bruton's Gunshop.

Jake saw that the shotgun was in real trouble and when he took it apart he discovered the cause. Some way or other a mouse had loaded himself into the loading mechanism, some time before, and so when the owner had undertaken to operate the mechanism of the unloaded (except for the mouse) gun the mechanics of the thing had made ratburger of a pretty high bacteria count of the not-too-fresh mouse meat.

Everybody around the gunshop agreed it was a pretty dirty gun. Pickle denies loading the gun with the mouse, and nobody has been able to figure out how the creature got in there.

Cecil Horton, expert rifleman and T&P Diesel engineer, and Horace Reagan, rancher and insurance man, are planning on attending the big bore rifle matches at Camp Bullis, San Antonio, June 13-14-15—and from what we hear they aren't going there just to watch the other fellows shoot, either. During the war Cecil trained snipers for the Marine Corps.

This match will determine the new Texas state champion from among the 30 calibre shooters and also a regional champion who will receive an all-expenses paid trip to the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. The regional champion will be the top man among the contesting shooters from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, Arkansas or elsewhere in this part of the United States.

The regional match is one of the toughest in the country. In it a total of 302 rounds are fired in three days from the standing, sitting, kneeling and prone positions and over all distances. It is one of the most difficult courses that any rifleman can be called upon to fire.

A workshop in the conservation of soil, water and other natural resources, aimed at acquainting the teachers of North and West Texas with the problems and solutions, will be offered for the first time at Texas Christian University this summer session, June 8 to July 17.

Dr. Martine Emert, associate professor of geography and history, who has been honored for conservation work, will conduct the course. She will be assisted by six experts: John W. Wagner of the Gas Association of Dallas; Howard E. Weaver of the Texas Forest Service at College Station; J. B. Carlisle of the State Department of Public Safety at Austin; D. B. Taylor of the State Health Department at Austin; Paul Walser, state conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Temple; and Everett T. Dawson of the Texas Game and Fish Commission at Austin.

The conservation workshop will meet each day, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 until 10 a.m. After regular sessions students will be free to use the equipment, training aids, library and other materials in the laboratory. Trips will be made into the field where studies will be made and actual demonstrations held. Both audio and visual aids will be used in the course.

Dr. Emert says TCU is especially interested in having public school teachers enroll for this course.

There have been dry years before.

On June 3, 1886, the Rio Grande at El Paso was perfectly dry and had been dry for a month. This brought about the ruination of many farms. A few farmers took to bucket brigade methods and watered their fruit trees and grape vines bucket style. The water to fill the buckets was pumped by hand pumps which every farmer in those days had for household purposes.

As time has passed and over and over—the dust that arises from the blowing in West Texas is principally humus or organic matter, the matter that nourishes and grows plant life. This is the fine dust that accompanies the sand storms. Most of the sand itself is sterile and can no more nourish a plant than a concrete sidewalk can do that job.

So, what happens to this dust, this humus or organic matter once the wind picks it up?

That's a good question and here is a part of the answer.

Professor A. Scott Warthin of the Geology Department of Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., estimates that at least four million pounds (2,000 tons) of West Texas dust settled down in one day, in Duchesne County, in that state, as a result of the blowing here the latter part of April.

Warthin has also expressed the opinion that the dust would probably have sailed on out over the Atlantic but that for the fact that a rain brought it down in New York.

If that much of our humus or organic matter settled there, how much would you guess went other places?

Some of Texas' Jersey cows are scoring over the drought, hot weather and those other factors that limit milk production, according to the records of the American Jersey Cattle Club.

Victory Jersey Farm at Tulla has two such producers. They are Victory Lad's Joetta and Masterman Marcia, and both recently completed 365-day Register of Merit records which would require 14,642 quart bottles to hold.

Victory Lad's Joetta produced 16,872 pounds of milk containing 1,009 pounds of butterfat at the age of four years and four months, while Masterman Marcia produced 14,809 pounds of milk containing 1,072 pounds of butterfat at the age of seven years. Both records were established under drought conditions. The Club has classified Joetta as "excellent" and Marcia as "very good."

DEL RIO — The chamber of commerce is in the bull fighting business.

The Del Rio organization, with its fellow chamber across the Rio Grande in Ciudad Acuna, will promote the first fight June 7 in the bull ring in Ciudad Acuna.

The organizations will sponsor and supervise the fights to raise funds for completion of the highway from Acuna to Zaragoza, Mexico.

Despite Advances, Alaska Still Land Of Opportunity

JUNEAU, Alaska, May 19 (AP) — The U. S. marshal drives an auto now. The airplane has replaced the dog team as the main link between remote villages over the vast distances from Ketchikan to Kotzebue. The prospector hunts for gold instead of gold and if you hear anybody say "mush," it's likely he's talking about breakfast food.

With all the changes in Alaska, America's prospective 50th state still is a frontier of American opportunity — and thousands are cashing in on it.

If the ghosts of those who died in the frenzied gold rush into the Klondike in '88 could flit over the fantastic boom cities of Anchorage and Fairbanks now, these are some of the sights they'd see:

Skilled craftsmen earning $1,000 a month during the short construction season.

Young men who opened little corner businesses on shoestrings after the war now paying income taxes in five figures.

Fourteen-story modern apartment buildings overshadowing shanties.

Five o'clock traffic jams as exasperating as any in the states.

An airport near Anchorage which averages more daily flights than New York's huge LaGuardia field.

"Glitter Gulch," a mile-long array of neon lights on Anchorage's Fourth Street where there probably are more bars per block than in any city of comparable size anywhere.

Gold is not the cause of today's prosperity. Rather, the "rush" has sprung from government spending of hundreds of millions of dollars for military construction in this American territory nearest Russia.

Since 1940 the federal government has been giving the Alaskan economy shots in the arm in the form of military expenditures averaging 114 million dollars a year. Anchorage and Fairbanks have become the big boom cities because of the construction of three huge airbases in their vicinity.

Some miners complain that it is this government-induced boom that has toppled gold from the throne of Alaskan economy. Bulldozer drivers and machinists who got $15 a day in mining operations a few years ago now are lured to $30 or $35 a day jobs, plus overtime, on government construction projects.

A ghostlike symbol of gold's decline in the economy lies against the steep mountainside behind the territorial capital of Juneau. There stands the idle plant of the Alaskan Juneau Company. It was closed by government order during the last war because gold was not considered an essential metal. It never was reopened.

American Girls Not Happy In Gay Paree

By TOM MASTERTON

PARIS (AP) — Heaven help the poor American girl working in this glamorous city of chestnut blooms, champagne and crepes suzettes, Gay Paree, as everybody knows, is a city of romance, fashion and the exciting life Boheme. But to hear the average U. S. government girl employed here tell the story, they should have stayed home.

Carroll Steen of Jackson, Mich., is a bit bitter about the romance situation. It's springtime in Paris, and lovers are strolling the Champs Elysees and mooning over tables in the sidewalk cafes. But Carroll, who used to have plenty of dates in the United States, is a bitter bystander.

"There are at least 10 American girls to one unattached American man," she wailed. "We don't get a chance to meet them."

"And American men. Each unattached one has so many women clamoring for his attention that he gets completely spoiled. He's pampered by a little French cook who looks after him like a mother. Would a hungry American bachelor think of asking an American girl to cook him a dinner? Never. She couldn't compete with the food cooked by his French maid, anyway."

As if this wasn't trouble enough, consider the wardrobe problem.

"Paris clothes are just beautiful," said Mary Seaman of Los Angeles, another sadder, wiser government employee on foreign service. "But they're not for the working girl. They cost too much, and they don't fit American figures comfortably."

In this heartland of the haute couture, a decent wardrobe is a real problem.

"French shops sell only the very cheap or the very expensive," Miss Seaman continued with sorrow. "The labels are hard on the pocketbook."

Terese Michaud, who comes from Boston and has been in Paris since 1948, says "after awhile you find you can wear a dress much longer than you ever had imagined possible."

All the girls have another complaint. "French women have awfully wide feet. French shoes don't fit us."

Terese, who speaks French fluently, says she thinks Frenchmen are too reserved. "They stay pretty much to their own people. French families don't welcome Americans into their homes."

A large number of girls, who escaped to the romance of Paris on the strength of books and movies, stick out their two-year tours of duty and then just don't return from home leave.

HE MIGHT AS WELL GIVE UP

DALLAS (AP) — After burglars had entered his "Busy Bee Cafe" 25 times in the last four years, G. H. Ford decided there was a good chance they'd come again. He rigged up his 12-gauge shotgun with a string from the trigger to a window. Today police said Ford reported burglary No. 26 had occurred.

Loss: One shotgun.

Mid-East Peace Urged

HOUSTON (AP) — Israel's ambassador to the United States, Abba Eban, has called for peace in the Middle East instead of the tension-packed truce which stands between his nation and the Arab states. Settlement of the long Arab-Israeli conflict is vital to the security and welfare of the world he said yesterday.

Britain imports more food than any other country, says the British Information Service.

Housekeeping, By Any Other Name, Is Just As Frustrating And Hard

It seems that some TV star recently set out to find a suitable substitute for the word housewife, it appearing that some of the girls were growing weary of being referred to as "just a housewife." He got replies from all over the world, and the suggestions ran all the way from the ridiculous, to the divine—from "secretary of the interior" to "angels of the earth," in fact.

Other suggested substitutes included Speaker of the House, celestial drudge, home gnome, Jacqueline of all trades, homologist, chateau guardian, spousekeeper, kitchen cynic and domestic scientist. Some unflattering male might like to put on his running trunks some day, and just before he plunges at a high lope into the tall timber, throw back over his shoulder the word "hussy." After all, that noun is a contraction of the word "housewife."

wrong with the title—it's just the attitude."

We knew an advertising man who put on a contest to find a suitable word to use in place of housewife. We cannot recall the winning word, but it was "neoclectress" or something. He anticipated the modern searchers by ten or fifteen years, and used the coined word in his advertising for a time, but somehow it never took hold.

It does not follow that a euphemism for the horrid word housewife would change things in the slightest degree, for as the young lady contends it isn't the title but the attitude. Housewife is an ancient and honorable word, identifying mankind's most useful and indispensable protractor guide, encourage long suffering companion and sacrificial goat.

There's A Lot More To Education Than Formalities And Mechanics

Recently, without mincing words or indulging in preliminaries, Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch plunged into the heart of his charter day speech at the College of the City of New York.

Said he: "More than sixty years have passed since I was a student at the College of the City of New York. There were virtually no elective courses then. I studied Latin and Greek for the first four years and French in the fifth and last year. Politics, economics, logic, ethics, philosophy and psychology were taught as parts of a single course. How infinitely more varied is your curriculum today! Yet you would do well to ask yourselves are you better educated because of this enriched curriculum."

The men who framed our Constitution, Mr. Baruch went on, would not be called a highly educated group, by academic standards. "There was not a professor of government among them. Benjamin Franklin had only three years of formal schooling. George Washington was tutored in Latin until he was fourteen and later taught himself mathematics. James Madison was one of the few college graduates there. I daresay that most of the men who drafted the Constitution could not have met the entrance requirements for this college."

formal education, but they were well-educated in the true meaning of the term.

"First and foremost, they knew how to think. Second, although they lacked access to well-stocked libraries so common today, they were well-read in the classics, and had learned how to blend living experience with the lessons of history. They had also studied those pioneering works of political philosophy which appeared in the 18th Century. . . . 'But (they) embedded the basic structure of our government in a foundation of rocklike principles.' Alas, 'today, in contrast, thinking has become a generally neglected art. Although we read prodigiously, we seem to have lost the faculty of learning from the past. We lack any sure sense of values.'"

Let us confess it: not everybody is capable of absorbing an education, formal or otherwise. Yet as a nation we spend so much money on educating incurable ignoramuses as we spend turning out men and women capable of absorbing and using the polishing they have received. Formal education is justifiable only so far as it proves useful to the individual and to society. You cannot wrap a mumbull in a sheepskin and call him an educated citizen. Any system of education, that leaves the "beneficiary" incapable of thinking or ignorant of the higher purposes of life is a waste of human and spiritual material.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs

Republicans Being Hit From All Sides In Korean Truce Problem

WASHINGTON — The Administration is caught in a withering cross-fire in its efforts to agree on terms for a truce in Korea. The fire comes from at least three directions. Yielding in one quarter, those responsible for working out a new proposal find themselves under redoubled attack on another front.

The three principal elements which must somehow be brought within a compromise are:

The United Nations Allies with troops in Korea. Their criticism of the five-point proposal made by the American negotiators at Panmunjom forced the recess in the truce talks and the effort to agree on a new approach.

The South Korean government and in particular President Syngman Rhee who has sworn to fight on alone if the armistice provides for a divided Korea.

And last but not least, the Republicans in Congress who feel almost as strongly as Rhee about any settlement short of a unified Korea. Highly articulate Republicans such as Sen. William Knowland of California seem to be distrustful of any Korean peace lest it open the way to a broader settlement in Asia which could mean admission of Communist China to the U. N. Even the suggestion by President Eisenhower that this last was a matter to be considered stirred the deep suspicion of many Republicans and some Democrats.

The criticism coming from other U. N. nations was concerned primarily with the American proposal that all North Korean prisoners not wishing to be repatriated be released in South Korea. Canada, Britain and India pointed out that this was contrary to the resolution by India, the fate of prisoners refusing to go home would be decided at the political conference to be held within three months after an armistice.

The American proposal on Korean prisoners was plainly a concession to President Rhee. A stubborn almost fanatical patriot, Rhee ignores the earnest pleading of those urging him to accept at least temporarily a compromise.

The tragedy of the South Koreans is inherent in the fearful destruction of nearly three years of war—the third anniversary is only a month away. To fight on for complete unification clear up to the Yalu River in the north, with perhaps even more destructive weapons employed against the enemy, would be to extend the devastation.

Rough estimates made in recent months are that the cost of rehabilitation would be not less than $1,000,000,000. This could only come—or most of it—from the United States. It is hard to imagine an economy-minded Congress putting the budget out of balance by another billion to rebuild Korea. Yet Rhee seems to have unwavering faith that by fighting on he will get a unified Korea rehabilitated with American help when the fighting finally ends.

His American friends in Congress give him at least tacit support for this view. They are putting the White House on notice, by indirect if not by direct warning, that any considerable softening of the armistice terms will not be tolerated.

One explanation for their adamant stand is that they foresee a shift in policy with the advent of the "new team" in the Pentagon. A promise has been made to Sen. Robert A. Taft, majority leader in the Senate, that he can review policy with Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the JCS, and the other incoming members. Radford is publicly on record as favoring aggressive moves against Communist China, including a blockade of the mainland. A settlement in Korea might preclude such a policy change.

There is still a fourth element pressing down on the Administration in the Korean matter. That is public opinion against the background of the broad promises made by the President and other Republicans last fall to end the war, cut taxes and sustain prosperity without rearmament. Letters begin to indicate disaffection. One from a woman in Youngstown, Ohio, says:

"How do you think millions of us women feel who voted for Mr. Eisenhower because he said he would stop the war and bring the boys home? Surely you don't think we will fall for anything like that again. Believe me, I have talked to many, many women and what they are going to do to the Republicans in the next election ain't funny."

Reds May Soon Offer Bait Far More Enticing To The British And French

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, who "take the Russians" peace talk with a grain of salt, have said the Kremlin could demonstrate sincerity by agreeing on an Austrian peace treaty.

But Sir Winston Churchill has been strangely optimistic since Russia's Premier Malenkov last March said he thought peace was possible. Churchill's British government suggested a new Big Four conference on Austria.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, Russia and France have met more than 260 times since the war to work out a treaty—the last time was in February—and the progress made could be stuffed into a thimble.

And because they have never been able to agree, they have occupied Austria since the war. The Western Allies have 25,000 or more troops there, the Russians about 45,000.

So long as Russia has troops in Austria, she has an excuse for keeping some of her troops in Romania and Hungary, too. The reason? To keep open Russian lines of communication, the Kremlin says.

Once a treaty was signed all the Big Four would withdraw from Austria. In that case Russia would have to find another excuse for keeping troops in the two nearby satellites, Romania and Hungary.

For that reason, and because Russia's troops in Austria give her a bridgehead to the West, some Austrian officials have been skeptical the Russians would agree to a treaty any time in the foreseeable future.

Nevertheless the British thought another try was worthwhile. The invitation they sent out was for representatives of the U. S., Britain, Russia and France to meet in London tomorrow to tackle the Austrian problem again.

Churchill went even further by proposing that he and President Eisenhower and Malenkov have a meeting of their own on a raft of other difficulties.

The U. S. was "willing to send a representative to the Austrian conference but Eisenhower balked at meeting with Malenkov until the Russians showed by deeds—an Austrian peace treaty would be one—that they wanted peace.

So what the Russians did at the London conference on Austria was going to be watched very carefully. But late yesterday, almost at the last minute before conference time, the Russians coldly rejected the idea.

Declining to send anyone to the conference, the Russians, through their ambassador to London, Jacob Malik, said they couldn't see how another meeting on Austria promised any more results than the previous 260 meetings.

This may have thrown into gloom those Western diplomats who shared Churchill's optimism. But it does not cancel out the possibility that tomorrow, or next week, the Russians may make a new, conciliatory move in another direction.

They could offer a concession in a place that means less to them than Austria, even though they had no intention of carrying through on it.

For if they could make those same Westerners, who were dejected by the Russian stand on Austria, jump with hope and eagerness about something else they'd be doing precisely what the Russians seem to be trying to make them do: dance to the Russian tune every time the Kremlin plays one.

It would not be surprising if, to drive a wedge deeper between the U. S. and its Western Allies who are more eager to grab at Russian bait, the Kremlin soon offers to do something which means far more to Britain or France than to this country.

That would put this country in the position of having to yield or face the prospect of a widening split between itself and its friends.

London Town Has Changed From Its Wartime Days

LONDON — An open letter to any ex-G. I. Joe from the London he used to know:

Dear Joe: I came over here to see the queen get her crown, and I've been here three whole days, and not one little kid has said, "got any gum, Chum?" I tell you, it gives you a lonesome feeling.

The old town sure has changed from wartime days when a guy in an American uniform with a carton of cigarettes under his arm could walk the streets and feel like a king.

Remember how beat-up and battered London looked then? Well now she looks like some old family aunt who has come into a little money, got her face lifted, put on a new paint job, bought herself some glad rags — and started looking for a boy friend. It's fun to see the old girl smiling and having a good time, after all the years of tears.

The British are going about this coronation the same way they fight a war or make tea, methodically and thoroughly.

You know how fast we throw up some wooden stands in America for some local festival, such as running the mayor out of town. Well, the coronation stands look like they had been built for the ages. They are held up by miles of metal piping, an dthe English have taken as much care in building them as the French did with the Eiffel Tower.

I guess it's hard to say which has really stirred them up more, the coronation or the strain of three days of perfect weather. They are looking up the history books to see if they ever had three straight days of sunshine before, and the uneasiness probably will remain until the next fog arrives.

But Joe, you should be here now. I got news for you. Brussels sprouts are out of season. In the restaurants they ask you if you wouldn't like some fresh strawberries. How do you like that, Joe? Strawberries instead of Brussels sprouts. You came here ten years too soon, kid.

But that boiled potato you left behind you is still on the menu, ten years soggy.

Soil Conservation Conference Is Vital To Area's Economic Status

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

Because of the tremendous recent, and accumulated, damage to this area's soil because of wind erosion, bankers and other business men of Cosboms, Big Spring, Stanton, Midland, and the smaller communities in the three counties, are being asked to meet with the farmers of the area and the supervisors of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District at Stanton, the afternoon of Friday, June 5, at a place to be announced later.

To designate this conference as a "soil conservation" meeting would be an error. More properly the purpose of the meeting will be to review, discuss and determine what, if anything, can be done about the current economic status of this area because of soil erosion, a condition that has come about largely because of the drought. So, it will really be more of an economic conference than a "soil conservation" program.

The business people of the area learned last year that their economic well-being is largely dependent upon the economic well-being of the farmer and rancher. Just now indications are that they will have this truth more indelibly impressed upon them this year. Obviously the Stanton conference will be both the time and place for a dollars-and-cents estimate of the situation for both the immediate and distant future.

Naturally, much of the discussion at the meeting can be calculated to have soil conservation for its subject, but there is more than one phase of soil conservation. To different people it means different things.

There are farmers and ranchers who take a view of soil conservation far different from the view taken by business men, and neither of these may see it in the same light and proportions as the conservation workers. There are some people who believe that 85 per cent of West Texas land now in cultivation should be returned to grass and cattle, and there are those who feel that West Texas' future is in cotton and that all the area needs is good rain.

The Stanton conference will not be complete, and it will not accomplish as much as it might otherwise accomplish, unless it hears expressions of all these different views and unless it carefully weighs all the evidence before taking any action by resolution or otherwise. Nothing can be accomplished without the sh-cere and whole-hearted co-operation of farmers and business men. The farmers must look to the business men for credit, and the business men must look to the farmers for profits.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the farmers who take the "cotton future" viewpoint in any degree will be well represented by men of their convictions who will be prepared to stand on their feet in that meeting and explain their position. After all "soil conservation" is not wholly a one-sided matter; these men have their honest convictions; they should be permitted to expound them and to be heard, and their reasoning should be taken into consideration by all those in attendance. Now is not too early for these farmers to make arrangements to attend the meeting and to select several of their number to present their arguments.

And these farmers will most certainly be welcome. No invitations to this meeting are being sent out. It is simply being announced and will be thrown open to the public. Because of the fact that something said in the meeting may influence some business men in his business relations with some farmer, the farmers cannot afford to ignore the meeting, the purpose of which will not be to force soil conservation upon them, but solely to seek for a means of improving the economic conditions of both the farmers and the business men. It will give both of them an opportunity for a much better understanding of each other.

This writer, in the course of his daily work, has become acquainted with the wide diversity of thought toward the causes and effects of West Texas wind erosion. It is his firm conviction that, in most cases, the business men do not have a thorough understanding of the farmers' problems and that the farmers do not have a thorough understanding of the business men's interest. This meeting is a means of bringing these things about. It can accomplish a great good if it is well attended, and actively participated in, by representatives of all segments of West Texas economy and citizenship.

Most farmers are going to need some help as matters now stand. Most business men are willing to pitch in and help. This meeting will be the opportunity for them to get together.

Britain's Earl Jowitt Falsely Reports In Book On Alger Hiss

In my researches in the British and American editions of the Earl Jowitt's "Strange Case of Alger Hiss," I have found more than 100 factual errors, a statement which I can at any time document. Some are trivial; some very important. Yet, when one realizes that Earl Jowitt was Lord Chancellor of England, such a number of errors is surprising.

I am taking today a series of errors relating to a $400 loan which was a factor in the Hiss hearings and trials. Whitaker Chambers bought a car and paid $496 cash. The question is where did he get the money? Four days before Chambers bought the car, that is, on November 19, 1937, Priscilla Hiss, Alger's wife, withdrew $400 from her account in the Riggs National Bank in Washington.

In due course, Chambers said that Hiss gave him that $400. If Chambers was correct, it sets a date when Hiss and Chambers were on friendly terms, and that mattered in the trial.

Now comes Earl Jowitt with the contention that the entire $400 loan may be a fabrication by the FBI. These are his words:

"The FBI in the course of their investigations had obtained access to the books of the bank in February 1949, and at this very time Chambers was in daily association with the FBI. If they had revealed to Chambers that Hiss had withdrawn $400 only four days before Chambers purchased his new car, the significance which Mr. Murphy (now Judge Thomas Murphy) sought to attach to the fact that Chambers had not seen Hiss's pass-book seems to me to disappear altogether."

Again, in another place, he repeats this: "Chambers for example, had never mentioned the supposed loan of $400 in his evidence before the House committee or, indeed, until the first trial; and by this time he would have found out from the FBI that Hiss had withdrawn $400 at or about the relevant time—for the FBI had obtained a copy of the account on the 31st January 1949."

The upshot of Jowitt's handling of what he makes very involved and complicated testimony about the $400, and I have six references to it, is, in effect, that the FBI framed that particular piece of evidence to convict Hiss. As Rebecca West put it:

"... This is likely to please the American public just as much as it would please the British public if a judge of the American Supreme Court should write a book about an English cause celebre and casually assert that Scotland Yard had provided the chief witness for the Crown with information enabling him to give perjured evidence."

Actually Mrs. Chambers had testified about this matter on November 17, 1948, two and a half months before the FBI had access to the Hiss bank accounts (January 30, 1949) and the FBI went after the bank accounts after Mrs. Chambers had testified. If, as it is claimed, Earl Jowitt made a thorough study of the transcript of the second Hiss trial, it is difficult to understand why he did not check the dates.

In the re-direct examination, during the second Hiss trial, Mrs. Chambers answered questions thus:

"Q: When you were examined in Baltimore concerning the purchase of the car, did you know then whether or not you got the money from your mother-in-law or from Mr. Chambers? A: No. The money was given to me by Mr. Chambers. I did not know then, nor did I know later when I spoke at the deposition, where the money came from.

"Q: As a matter of fact in the Baltimore deposition, you said you did not know where it came from? A: That is right."

That disposes of Jowitt's implication that the money came from Chambers' mother.

Famous Ruby In Imperial Crown

When I think of the crowning of Elizabeth II as Britain's queen, my mind goes back to an idea which I had when I was a small boy. I supposed, at that time, that kings and queens wore crowns most of the time they wore away.

The fact is that monarchs like to lay aside their crowns, for the sake of comfort, if nothing else. They wear these royal symbols on special occasions, but in everyday life are glad to be free of the weight. Often they appear in public without crowns. One day I saw King George V and Queen Mary riding on a London street; both wore hats.

Among the British crowns is the Crown of England, or St. Edward's Crown. This was made for King Charles II, but one very much like it was used by early English kings, probably including Alfred the Great.

The present Crown of England has been used in crowning most British monarchs during the past 300 years. An exception was Queen Victoria, who said that it was too large for her head. A different crown was used for Victoria, but this one was carried in the procession.

It has been stated that the present Queen Elizabeth will wear the seven-pound Crown of England briefly during the coronation. Later she will wear the Imperial State Crown, which weighs hardly two and a half pounds.

The Imperial State Crown contains five rubies, 11 emeralds, 17 sapphires, 277 pearls and 2,783 diamonds. One ruby is about the size of a small hen's egg. It was owned by the Black Prince, who lived 600 years ago.

Another gem in the Imperial State Crown is a sapphire which is believed to have come from a ring owned by King Edward the Confessor. Pearl "ear drops" worn by the first Queen Elizabeth also appear in this crown.

Diamonds from the mines of South Africa add glitter to the Imperial State Crown. One of these is known as the Second Star of Africa; it was cut from a section of the huge Cullinan diamond. For HISTORY section of your scrap-book.

Elizabeth Is Being Called 'Girl Born To Be Queen'

A week from today Elizabeth II will be crowned and consecrated as Queen of Britain and the Commonwealth. At 27, she carries to the throne the hopes and yearnings of Britons who recall their empire had its greatest blossoming under Elizabeth I and Victoria. This is the first of a series of four stories telling of her personality and upbringing.

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (U.P.)—Even as a princess at the toddling age, Elizabeth II caught on to her royal prerogatives. One of her early discoveries on a visit to Buckingham Palace was that the sentry presented arms every time she passed. This was very amusing. So, slipping away from her nurse, she paraded back and forth smiling happily as the poor sentry clicked his heels to attention each time. She made 20 passes before being rounded up.

Elizabeth's early consciousness of her position may have been due to her doting grandfather, King George V, whom she called "Grandpapa England."

Once he held her up on the palace balcony to show her off to a crowd below and whispered, "they're cheering for you, you know."

The little girl beamed with delight and a few days later was caught testing her royal authority by ordering a playmate to bow low in homage.

From these and other stories, Elizabeth has been called "the girl born to be Queen."

Yet the queenship seemed far removed for the first child of the popular young Duke and Duchess of York when she was born early in the morning of April 21, 1926 in the home of her maternal grandfather, the Earl of Strathmore, at 17 Bruton St. London.

Elizabeth Alexandra Mary Windsor was a royal princess in her own right, but third in line to the throne—behind her Uncle David, the Prince of Wales, and her own father who told friends he himself was "not palace minded."

Elizabeth came under the official royal inspection of her grandmother, Queen Mary, immediately. The rearing of children in the British royal family, though modified down through the years, had long followed the general Victorian pattern that strength of character was developed by severity and even repression.

But the shy Duke of York preferred the life of a country gentleman to the limelight and was determined to shield his young daughter from the overpowering shadow of the crown as much as possible. His wife, a Scottish commoner named Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, dreaded the bleak rigidity of royalty's life, too.

So there was nothing austere or primitive about the Princess' early upbringing.

"In the days of my childhood," she remarked years later, "the sun seemed always to be shining."

She invented a nickname for herself as soon as she could talk. Elizabeth was too much of a tongue-twister. The best she could do was "Lilibet"—and "Lilibet" she remains even today in the royal family circle.

Elizabeth was only four when sister Margaret was born. She showed no jealous resentment against the newcomer to the nursery. Instead Lilibet showed a maternal instinct and wanted to take complete charge of the new baby.

Their early years were as nearly normal as was possible for two daughters of a royal duke. They got as dirty making mud pies in the garden as any youngsters and they had many pets. Elizabeth loved animals.

Like any healthy youngsters, the sisters enjoyed a good pillow fight. The trouble was that their regal grandmother one day caught them rough-housing.

Queen Mary decided it was time to take Lilibet under her wing. Though at the time the mantle of the monarchy seemed far removed from the little girl, the dignified old lady wanted to make sure that by invoking the stern code of duty which members of royalty are expected to maintain.

Uncle David was a pal of Princess Elizabeth and it was an exciting event for Lilibet when the dashing Prince of Wales dropped around to the house in Piccadilly where the Duke's family now lived. His frequent visits were a welcome escape from the regime of her grandmother, Queen Mary.

Just before Elizabeth's 10th birthday, came the first real turning point, both in her education and in the outlook of those guiding her.

King George V, "Grandpapa England," died.

The little Princess broke into fits of weeping on encountering this first crisis of her life. Then other changes came fast—too fast for a little girl not yet 10 to understand.

The casual visits of Uncle David, now King Edward VIII, became less and less frequent, and finally stopped altogether. There was a

Queen-To-Be

Britain's future queen, then Princess Elizabeth, sat at the feet of her grandfather, King George V, in this section of a formal wedding portrait following the marriage of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina in 1934. The old king was "Grandpapa England" to the future Queen; Elizabeth II, who would sit on his knee while he spun tales about the empire and the faraway places he had visited. teness around Buckingham Palace which was noticeable even to a child.

Finally, on Dec. 10, 1936, not quite a year after George V's death, she and her sister, Princess Margaret, were told they were moving from their Piccadilly house into the Palace.

Edward had abdicated for the love of the American divorcee, Wallis Warfield Simpson. His blue-eyed niece was now next in the direct line of succession, and des-

Walking Queen's Six Miles Is A Popular Sport

By ALVIN STEINKOFF

LONDON (U.P.)—The most popular recreation in giddy London today was to "walk the Queen's six miles."

It's the route through streets and parks along which Queen Elizabeth's coronation procession will pass just a week from today, she riding splendidly in the gold and purple state coach drawn by eight sleek Windsor Greys.

Excitement increased as the fabulous day approached, and a game which Londoners and many thousands of visitors have invented is to see the city just as the Queen will see it. Tens of thousands jostle and plod along the route, gaping at miles of spire and span grandstands which have converted sober London into a gay and fluttering town of color and light.

The lift to the spirits of her Majesty's subjects can almost be felt. Britishers, who have pretty firmly established a reputation for minding their own business, have suddenly become effusively sociable. Strangers talk to each other, argue, laugh and invite each other to have endless cups of tea.

Some of those who argue insist that the grand scale on which monarchy's finest spectacle is being organized is a foolish extravagance.

But everyone loves the Queen, and the fault finders—even those few who like to think themselves as wanting a republic—rush down The Mall with the coronation enthusiasts to converge in dense thousands about Buckingham Palace.

The royal standard again flew from the palace flag pole today, showing that the Queen had returned from a breather at the secluded and pleasant royal lodge at Windsor. Even during her absence the crowds stood, shovled and milled about, watching the manœvering of the brightly uniformed guards and occasionally catching glimpses of trim horses being taken from the royal stables for rehearsals of their coronation day manœvers.

At one time last night police reinforcements were called to clear away crowds pressed against the palace gates.

Sen. Taft Reported Resting Comfortably

CINCINNATI (U.P.)—Holmes Hospital reported this morning that Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) was in "good condition and resting comfortably."

The Senate majority leader entered the hospital yesterday for a check-up of the hip ailment which recently hospitalized him in Washington.

Tomorrow—The Princess and the handsome sailor.

Banking Empire President Resigns Following Dispute

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—Sam H. Husbands resigned as president of Transamerica Corp. Monday because of "unhappy association with some board members" of the vast banking empire.

Husbands quit as the board elected Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., president of the First National Bank of Portland, Ore., to the board chairmanship.

Belgrano succeeds James F. Cavanaugh, who also resigned, to concentrate on private business and recommended Belgrano as his successor. Cavanaugh remains a board member.

Husbands' successor as president was not named.

Husbands gave as reasons for his resignation (1) "arrangements" made by certain board members to elect Belgrano without consulting Husbands and (2) "continued unhappy association with some board members." He would not elaborate.

Husbands had headed the 300 million dollar firm, founded by the late A. P. Giannini, since June 1, 1946.

Belgrano, a member of the board, has been associated with the corporation since 1928.

MARRIAGE LICENSES #2

Senate States Probe Of Election In N. M.

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—The U. S. Senate Wednesday starts a first-hand probe into New Mexico's 1952 senatorial election.

Three members of a Senate elections subcommittee will open a legal snarl permit—a giant recount of almost a quarter of a million votes cast by New Mexicans last November.

The seat held by Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) is the issue in the recount, which follows a several months investigation by a staff representing the subcommittee. Chavez was certified the victor in the senatorial race by slightly more than 5,000 votes. The loser was Patrick J. Hurley, soldier, statesman and diplomat making his third bid for the Senate.

Hurley filed a contest with the Senate, alleging widespread election irregularities.

Three New Mexico county clerks face certain legal trouble at the outset of the recount effort. They have been directed by District Judge R. F. Deacon Arledge to retain possession of ballots and registration records until ordered otherwise by his court.

The three clerks—and Arledge—have been served Senate subpoenas, directing them to turn over the records. Arledge was directed by the Senate to appear Wednesday morning to turn over keys held by him to the state ballot boxes in three counties.

Arledge has declined to say whether he will make the directed appearance, or subject himself to a possible Senate contempt citation. The clerks face similar citations if they do not relinquish records and possible contempt citations by Arledge if they do.

Members of the subcommittee expected to arrive late Tuesday for the showdown are Sen. Frank Barrett (R-Wyo.), chairman; and Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich.) and Sen. John Hennings (D-Mo.). They are scheduled to leave Washington by plane today.

Device Made By Local Man Hailed By Health Official

E. R. Gross, local confectioner, has developed a sanitation aid which won the plaudits of Life Fox, sanitarian for the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit.

Gross hasn't named the device, but Fox calls it a sanitary shield for soda fountain and cafe "bars" or counters.

It's a three-inches-high panel of glass erected vertically along the back edge of the counter. The shield keeps cigarette ashes, crumbs, napkins and other litter from blowing off the counter on to fountain supplies, food, etc.

Gross says his shield will pay for itself in a short period by protecting ice cream, milkshakes and other products being readied for serving. Before installing the device, Gross said, a considerable quantity of ice cream was ruined each day by cigarette ashes and other material blowing off the counter into dishes and glasses.

Fox predicts the shield some day will be "standard equipment" for cafes and soda fountains.

Starts Tomorrow

"Peter Pan," an all-cartoon Technicolor production by Walt Disney, will start a four-day stand at the State Theatre Wednesday. The movie deals with a trip by the Darling Children to a magical island—Never Land—under the guidance of Peter Pan. Once on the island, adventures with pirates, Indians, mermaids, lost boys, an incredible crocodile, and pixies follow. Practically every scene is loaded with fun, and while the movie is slanted toward children, the humor appeals to adults. Above Peter is shown with mermaids.

Atomic Cannon Firing Deemed A Big Success

By BILL BECKER
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The atomic cannon, an established reality today in America's defense plans. Nuclear scientists have compressed the virtual equivalent of a standard A-bomb into a shell only 11 inches in diameter.

These appear to be the principal results of yesterday's highly successful first firing of a nuclear shell from the Army's 280 millimeter gun.

But scientists of the Atomic Energy Commission are not relaxing, although the tenth and last scheduled test of the 1953 spring series is over. With the plaudits of defense leaders and legislators ringing in their ears, the AEC technicians are discussing plans for still another test within the next month at Nevada Proving Grounds.

Test Director Carroll L. Tyler will not disclose the nature of the experiment under consideration, but indicates there is one more problem Dr. Alvin C. Graves, scientific chief, and his aides wish to solve before going back to the nuclear workshop at Los Alamos, N. M.

There is hardly anything short of the hydrogen bomb, however, which could impress observers more than this historic cannon shot which whistled seven miles across Frenchman Flat and exploded with A-bomb brilliancy at 500-foot elevation.

The blast snapped off 50-foot trees and flipped railroad boxcars through maneuvers without report from viewers indicated. The "full effects on various types of Army construction, materiel and clothing will be the subject of study for weeks.

Another 2,225 troops came through maneuvers without reported injury following the blast. A flight of 12 B36 bombers from Carswell, Md. followed the blast. A flight of 12 B36 bombers from Cars-

Salvation Army Expresses Thanks For Disaster Aid

Lt. Robert Hall of the local Salvation Army expressed his thanks Monday to the people of Big Spring for furniture contributions made toward disaster relief at San Angelo.

"We carried truck load after truck load over to San Angelo that was contributed here," he said. "The people there are pretty well off now because of the contributions from here and elsewhere."

Hall pointed out that residents of Big Spring gave all types of furniture. Beds, stoves, chests, tables and chairs headed the list. "And we got good furniture—not torn down junk," he added.

Hall said the people of San Angelo have all the furniture they need for the time being. "They will need more in three or four weeks when more of the rebuilding is complete," he said.

Atom Physicist Is Named New Penn U. Prexy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An atomic physicist who during World War II aided in knocking out—with submarines—the last sea route from Japan to the mainland of Asia is to be the new president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Gaylor P. Harwell, 49, was nominated yesterday to succeed Harold E. Stassen and, in accordance with University rules, the Board of Trustees will formally elect him to the job June 10. He will take office July 1.

Stassen resigned Jan. 19 to become Mutual Security director in the Eisenhower administration.

A native of Evanston, Ill., Dr. Harwell joined the faculty of the university in July, 1938, and has been chairman of Penn's physics department since then.

During World War II he was granted a leave of absence and from 1942 to 1946 he served in the position of director of the University of California Division of War Research, U. S. Navy Radio and Sound Laboratory, San Diego, Calif.

It was for his work then that he was awarded the Medal for Merit for being "directly responsible" for severing the sea route from Japan to the mainland of Asia.

Two Named To Take Active Charge Of Recreation Plans

Bill Robinson, director of physical education at the Airport School, will supervise the city's cooperative recreation program during June and July. Grover Good, YMCA executive secretary, announced today.

Floyce Brown, of Big Spring, girls' physical education director at Wink High School, will be in charge of girls' activities.

The YMCA has been authorized to coordinate the summer recreation program which is being financed by city, schools, the Y, and a number of civic groups.

Three additional supervisors will be employed and approximately 20 volunteer workers will be utilized in the program. Good said about 10 volunteers already have been secured. Boys or girls, high school age or better, are needed to assist with swimming instruction.

All city playgrounds and gymnasiums at the schools will be used in the summer program.

Wild Campaign Ends As L-A Picks Mayor

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nearly half a million voters render their decision today in a slambang battle for mayor of the nation's fourth largest city.

Matched in the contest, one of the most bitterly waged in city history, are incumbent Mayor Fletcher Bowron and Rep. Norris Poulson, who led in the primary.

Plump, pink checked Bowron, 65, seeking his fifth term, put on the battle of his life to retain the $18,000-a-year post he has held for more than 14 years.

Poulson, 57, put up just as stiff a fight.

Both are Republicans. The office is non-partisan.

Before the April primary smog, traffic, rapid transit, narcotics control and public housing received consideration as issues. But as the campaign entered its final weeks housing—and heated exchanges between Bowron and the influential Los Angeles Times—took over the front pages.

On the housing issue, Bowron contended the city is obligated to live up to its contract for a federally subsidized 100 million dollar low rent public housing program. The controversial program, first approved but later rejected by the City Council, has been upheld by the courts. Poulson attacked Bowron's position, contending the people of Los Angeles are against public housing.

The two debated several times on television. And it was on television that the mayor launched his attack on the Times.

He claimed the morning newspaper, its publisher, Norman Chandler, and a powerful clique representing "special interests" were out to control city government through a "puppet" in the city hall.

The anti-housing Times, which backed Bowron in previous elections but this time championed Poulson, vigorously denied Bowron's accusations.

Chandler, in a front-page signed editorial last Sunday, said: "I deny these charges. They are utterly false—and the mayor knows they are false."

Bowron, a former Superior Court Judge, was swept into office in 1938 on a reform ticket after Mayor Frank Shaw was recalled.

Filipino Prexy Opposed By Two

MANILA (AP)—A diplomat turned politician and an aggressive Communist Huk-buster, both of whom bolted President Elpidio Quirino's Liberal party, will run against their former boss in the Philippines' November election.
Carlos Romulo, former ambassador to the U. S. and former delegate to the United Nations, made certain of that today.
He announced formation of the Democratic Liberal party with himself as the standard-bearer in the Nov. 10 election.
Popular Ramon Magsaysay, former Defense secretary who broke with Quirino last February, heads the opposition Nacionalista party ticket and has started his campaign.
Vice President Fernando Lopez, who joined some 200 Romulo supporters in storming out of Sunday's Liberal party nominating convention, will be the smooth-talking diplomat's running mate.
