Eagles Lose To Rankin 20-14; Will Host Iraan Friday Nite

Initial Home Game For The Eagles Set For Friday Night On Eagle Field

The Rankin Red Devils won a hard-fought battle over the Eagles 20-14 last Friday in Rankin.

The first score came when Rankin's 151-pound half-back, Clarke Turner, dashed seven yards up the middle. Don Vickers PAT kick was good and the Red Devils took a 7-0 lead with 3:16 remaining in the first quarter.

The Eagles stormed back in the second quarter, however, as they drove 87 yards in 10 plays. The five-yard touchdown around left end by fullback Billy Bob Harlin was set up by Harlin's own 46-yard burst down the left sideline off a draw play that completely surprised the Red Devils' defensive line.

On a two-point conversion attempt, the pass was intercepted by the Rankin secondary making the score 7-6.

The Red Devils took the kickoff and moved steadily down the field. The second Devil score came when Luckee blasted his way one yard over right tackle with 1:11 left in the half. Vickers' PAT was good and Rankin took a 14-6 lead at halftime.

However, the Eagles managed to put a good score into the home team as they tied the game 14 all with 53 seconds left in the third quarter. The 16-yard scoring pass from Thornton to end Bobby Jarrett highlighted a 28-yard drive set up on a fumble recovery. Harlin got the all-important two-point conversion on a sweep.

The final score came when Rankin's Hilton Luckee stormed around left end for five yards with 5:52 left in the fourth quarter.

The Eagles played great and we are all looking forward to a victory over Iraan.

Iraan Braves Coming Here Friday Night

The Iraan Braves will be coming here Friday to meet the Eagles on their home field at 8:00 p.m. It will be the second non-district tilt for both teams. Last week Iraan defeated the Balmorhea Bears 13-0, and a year ago they defeated the Eldorado Eagles 34-6. Both teams will be rarin' to go in the game here Friday.

Post Script

They used to call them trailer houses, then mobile homes; and now they are referred to as "modular" or pre-fab homes. That is when a large unit or two large ones are built at the factory, and then moved and mounted in place on the site.

This week, on the parking lot north of the court house, a half of a modular unit has been parked and it is equipped inside to be a fast-food set-up. The other half is presumably on the road somewhere, and no one seems to know where this unit is bound for. With the washed out bridges and roads in the area in recent days, it is probably awaiting shipment to its destination.

MARKET REPORT—

College Station, Tex.—Possible beef-price hikes are in predictions for mid-winter, according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist.

She recommends that consumers take advantage of economical prices offered during September and October—on beef chuck roasts, chuck and round steak and ground beef—by putting some extra cuts into the freezer for those days in the not-so-distant future when it seems likely that prices will be higher.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Other good values currently include boneless beef roasts and beef liver, the specialist said.

At poultry counters, some markets continue to feature fryer chickens, while turkey prices are on a gradual increase. However, turkey still offers an excellent protein choice, she added.

In frozen-food sections, fish packs are adequate to meet demand. If it seems that fish fillets are comparatively high in price, remember that they are all meat—and no waste, so you can get more servings per pound than from most other meats.

At dairy counters, specials are scattered, but good values are available on sour cream, margarine and cheddar cheese. Potatoes are an economy attraction at fresh vegetable departments. Other economical choices are cabbage, carrots, hard-shell squash, okra and dry onions.

More Welcome Rains Fell Here Last Week

Following the big rains in July estimated at 8 inches in the county, the first week of September brought an additional soaking in Schleicher and adjoining counties.

Sonora got a 9- to 11-inch down-pour last week that closed the highway to Eldorado for at least one day.

The town of Eldorado last week got 2½ inches, with up to 4½ reported out in the county.

The most rain reported last week was the 10 inches at Arch Edmiston's. Some fences were washed down and other damage was done.

Tuesday of this week, at press time, rains were still threatening with heavy clouds still clinging around Christoval and south on Highway 277 including Eldorado. The end is nowhere in sight.

Tuesday morning, Schleicher was one of several counties in a flash-flood watch.

Best of all, the rains are coming slowly enough to soak into the ground.

PUBLIC NOTICE
 SUMMARY OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
 GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE
 ON THE BALLOT
 (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO
 ON THE BALLOT
 (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

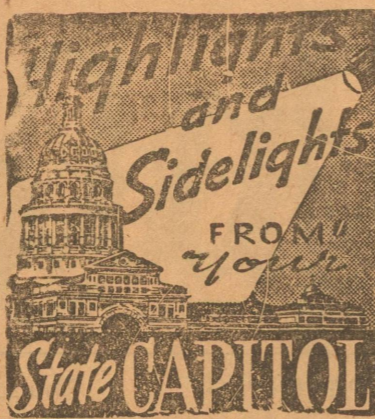

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective October 7, 1976.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish an 18 percent increase in the company's intra-state gross revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

by Lyndell Williams
 Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex.—Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has asked the new Public Utility Commission to approve a rate increase that would cost consumers about $300 million a year.

PUC may act within five months, a member indicated.

More than $110 million of the requested increase would come from increases in local service.

Rates, under the proposal, would go up from $9.20 to $11.50 monthly in Houston, from $8.20 to $10 in Dallas, from $8 to $9.45 in Fort Worth and from $7.35 to $9.45 in San Antonio.

Business telephone rates also would increase sharply. Five to six dollar a month hikes would be common. The increase for business lines in Lubbock and Amarillo would be about nine dollars.

Bell seeks another $8.1 million in additional revenue from a 20-cents per call charge in pay telephones, where a dime now does the job.

The company also wants more money for key telephones, private branch exchanges, Centrex service, private lines, WATS service, miscellaneous equipment, touchtone phones and other items.

Bell's new vice president for Texas, Doyle E. Rogers, said the increases would boost the company's return (after taxes) on fair value of its investment from 6.16 to 9.5%.

Action by Atty. Gen. John Hill last year scaled down a long distance rate hike from $40 million to $25 million.

Bell now proposes to charge customers for information calls on telephone numbers if they make more than three such calls a month. Revenue increase from this alone would be $26.5 million in Texas.

Bond Fight Launched

A new group has formed to fight the $400 million state water bond issue to be voted on November 2.

John Henry Faulk of Madisonville, humorist and broadcaster, is chairman of the group, "Citizens Against Water Taxes."

Faulk at a news conference here charged proponents of the bonds would seek to revive the $3.5 billion Texas water plan which was defeated in 1969. He also noted that Texas Water Development Board has spent only $201 million of an earlier $400 million bond issue.

Short Snorts . . .

Texas' new Public Utilities Commission assumed full regulatory powers September 1 and announced utilities already have paid $5.4 million in regulatory assessments.

Reducing student loans to colleges with high default rates met criticism at a hearing here.

Atty. Gen. Hill is still seriously considering running for governor in 1978 and indicated he will make a decision by early 1977.

Number of uninsured motorists in Texas seems to be increasing. The estimate is now 25 to 40% of all drivers.

Doctor Shortage Continues To Be Felt In The Rural Areas Of Texas

People who choose to live in rural or sparsely-populated areas deserve the same quality of health care as their big-city neighbors. The problem is that not enough physicians and other health providers want to live in rural areas.

The problem concerns the entire health services system, both the public and the private sectors. For a number of years, the medical profession in Texas, through the Texas Medical Association, has looked for ways to encourage young doctors to locate their practices in small towns where they can serve the surrounding countryside.

According to Dr. Ed Schmidt, the past president of the Texas Medical Association, practicing medicine in outlying areas offers several advantages: "short travel time between places, no smog, no traffic problem, relative freedom from crime, a wholesome atmosphere are some of the examples he cites.

On the other hand, Dr. Schmidt recognizes that most young doctors are not attracted to rural practice. He explains, "Some doctors feel that they may not be able to cope with the situation, since they've been trained in an academic environment with a large amount of backup from big hospitals and medical centers. They don't feel comfortable in a more isolated environment," he says.

It's also true, according to the medical association, that doctors in rural areas work harder, often for longer hours, and generally have lower earnings than their big-city counterparts. Furthermore, the doctors—and their spouses—often miss the social life, entertainment, and other amenities of a metropolitan environment.

Dr. Mario Ramirez, who has based his practice in remote Roma for the past quarter of a century, knows first-hand the problems of both poverty and rural areas. Until recently, he was not only the only physician in the area, but he operated his own hospital—the only one in the South Texas county. Now there's a new hospital in Rio Grande City, but there is still a shortage of skilled medical personnel.

Dr. Ramirez believes that the best solution is to help young people from the rural areas obtain an education in medicine. Hopefully, after they receive their education, they'll return to their hometowns to practice among the people they know best. This approach has been used with some success, but it's inherently a slow process—and the young doctors don't always want to go back home once they have spent a few years in the bright lights of the big town.

According to Dr. Schmidt, science and technology are beginning to help rural physicians provide better care, and to end the feeling of isolation. New devices such as remote telemetry, closed-circuit television, and computers can be used to give the rural practitioner access to expert consultants and other sources of vital information even if it's thousands of miles away. Also, the expanded use of paraprofessional medical personnel, such as physician's assistants or paramedics, helps to relieve the rural doctor's burdensome caseload.

Public health in Texas has made great strides in its effort to provide better service to people in the countryside. Although there are full-time local health departments in only about 75 of the state's 254 counties, the local agencies now serve roughly 80% of the population.

Six years ago, the first of ten Public Health Regions was established. This Fall, the last two regional offices will be open for business. According to Dr. Fratis L. Duff, Director of the Texas Department of Health Resources, the whole purpose of the regional program is to "form the coordinated and integrated regional staff capable of providing comprehensive public health services throughout the region," particularly including the rural areas that don't have access to a local health department.

Dr. Duff says, "The public health regions have demonstrated that public health services can be provided to all citizens of the state in an efficient and economical manner, even in the sparsely populated rural counties with very limited fiscal resources."

The goal for both the private and the public sectors of the health care system is the same: to insure that every citizen in Texas has access to the services he or she needs, no matter where people choose to live.

Reddy's Helpful Tips For your Home Laundry

- ★ Utilize the washer's full capacity. Wash larger loads — wash less often.
- ★ Same goes for dryers: dry more than just a few items at a time.
- ★ Use the washer's load selector to save on hot water when you must wash small loads.
- ★ Use a cold rinse whenever possible to conserve hot water.
- ★ For more efficient drying, clean the dryer lint screen after each load.
- ★ If your dryer has an automatic cycle, use it to prevent unnecessary overdrying. Also, when allowed to overdry, clothes tend to wrinkle, thus require more ironing.

Technology: Good News About Progress

How Technology Is Helping Your Health, Budget And Happiness ABANDON, ENDURE, OR ADVANCE?

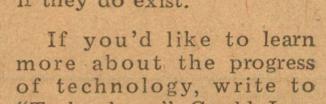

If you think we are living in an age of technology, you are perfectly right. If you think this is a phenomenon of recent years or centuries, you are entirely wrong. Technology is the knack of doing things by means of objects that are not part of your own body. If you try to crack a nut with your teeth, you are being natural. If you place the nut on a rock and hit it with another rock, you are being technological. Our earliest traces of the most primitive man-like creatures who lived 3-1/2 million years ago, indicate that they shaped rocks into tools for cutting and chipping. Man's first major step up the ladder of technology came with the reasoned use of fire. No group of men has been found anywhere in historic times who lacked the use of fire. Of course, fire exposed man to dangers, and it must have produced a smoke and reek which fouled the air. The alternatives were to abandon the use of fire, to use the fire and endure the pollution, or to create a method of having fire without pollution. The last alternative is surely the most reasonable and it was, indeed, the one taken. Some chimney-like device was developed to allow the smoke to escape from the shelter into the open air where it was diluted and carried off. This is but one example of how problems caused by technology are solved by additional technology. Over the years, man's technological abilities brought about such improvements as agriculture, which led to political organizations and religions, printing, which spread education and democracy, and the steam engine, the first device that took energy from inanimate objects instead of animal muscle, and which led to the Industrial Revolution. Although each new development brought problems as well as solutions, man found he could not retreat from his progressive position and continue to survive. From 1800 to the present time, the world population has increased threefold, yet greater and greater percentages of the population have benefited from the Industrial Revolution through increased comfort and wealth. It brought its problems. Now we have over-population, pollution, diminishing resources, the risk of totally-destructive war-weapons. But what is the solution? A retreat from technology? Many informed people say the solution is exactly the same as it has always been: the still further advance of technology. One solution lies in new and unlimited sources of energy, which are clean and safe. With such energy, man can clean the world, recycle its resources, and reduce its inequities. Can we be sure that science and technology will find the answers? Can we be sure that solutions to our problems exist? No, but these people believe that nothing but science and technology can find them, if they do exist. If you'd like to learn more about the progress of technology, write to "Technology," Gould Inc., 10 Gould Center, Rolling Meadows, Illinois 60008 and ask for the booklet: "Technology: Abandon, Endure, Or Advance?"

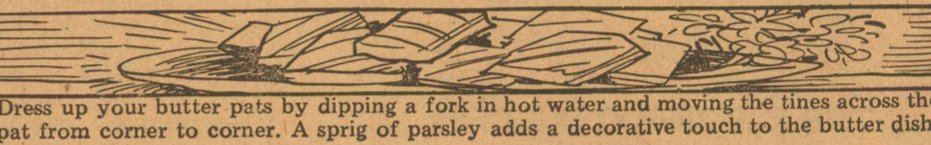

TECHNOLOGICAL ADVANCE—Agriculture developed about 12,000 B.C., in what is now Middle East.

LAND CULTIVATION—Many more people could be supported, and population boomed.

PRINTING PRESS—It made modern science possible.

THE BICENTENNIAL KITCHEN

YESTERDAY'S GEMS ARE TODAY'S MUFFINS

State-of-Mainers look back in longing at their grandmother's golden Gems, fresh from the oven, bursting with summer fruit. "Gems" is the old-fashioned name for muffins. They are still prepared in Down East kitchens, and served for breakfast and lunch. Any leftover muffins are toasted and served for dessert with ice cream or fruit topping. Perfect muffins, tender and slightly pebbled within, rounded on top, are among the easiest hot breads to prepare. They can be mixed in minutes—in fact, one of the secrets of success is a minimum of mixing. Stir only enough to moisten the dry ingredients; the batter should be lumpy, not smooth. To New Englanders, breakfast isn't breakfast without a hot bread. These muffins make a delicious light breakfast served with juice or coffee. For heartier fare, serve with eggs and sausages. State-of-Maine Blueberry Muffins are made with Blue Bonnet Margarine. It adds rich country-kitchen flavor at economy prices. STATE-OF-MAINE BLUEBERRY MUFFINS 2 cups unsifted flour 1/4 cup sugar 3 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine 1 egg, beaten 1 cup milk 1 cup fresh or frozen, thawed blueberries Blend together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in Blue Bonnet Margarine until pieces are the size of small peas. Combine egg and milk. Add to flour mixture with blueberries. Stir quickly with fork just until dry ingredients are moistened. (Batter will be lumpy.) Spoon mixture evenly into 12 greased muffin pans 2-1/2 x 1-1/4 inches. Bake at 400°F. 25 minutes, or until done. Serve hot. Makes 12 muffins.

Popcorn . . .

America's A-maize-ing Grain

If you can't even imagine enjoying a movie without popcorn, if you wouldn't dream of watching the Super Bowl without your own super bowl, if you consider popcorn a staple item in your household and even have some in your "emergency" cupboard, then chances are you're hooked on one of America's most popular fun foods.

You're in good company. We eat over two pounds per person per year, a total of 383 million pounds of the fluffy white puffs in 1975.

Orville Redenbacher, the bespectacled, bowtied agronomist whose face has become familiar to millions of popcorn fans, has just produced a booklet crammed with fascinating facts and figures that he figures we ought to know. Popcorn is believed to be America's oldest food, for instance. And West Indians were selling popcorn corsages at Columbus' landing.

Titled "The Popping Corn

Book . . . Orville Redenbacher's Authorized and Complete Popcorn Lover's Guide," you'll find the booklet also contains mouth-watering recipes, including Sister Mabel's prize-winning Carmel Corn. Also popping tips, harvest history, agricultural anecdotes . . . and a mini biography of the popcorn king himself.

To get your copy, send your name and address, along with 25¢ to cover postage and handling to: Orville Redenbacher's "Popping Corn Booklet", P. O. Box 11625, Santa Ana, California 92711. Orville will pop one in the mail to you.

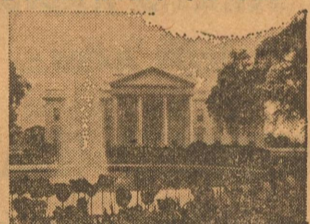

AMERICA'S HERITAGE
STIRRING SIGHTS NOW EASIER TO SEE

What Paul Revere did for the people of Boston, a new booklet and a toll-free phone number are doing for those of us who are planning a visit to Washington, D.C.

From both sources: an advance peek at what to expect. The number to call is (800) 424-9755. And what it provides is free, special information about Bicentennial Metrobus service—a fleet of over 2,000 new buses to carry tourists throughout the Washington area so they won't have to drive around in their cars. Special parking lots in convenient locations are also provided.

The booklet to read is called the Bicentennial Metrobus Tour Book, which describes and illustrates 17 different Bicentennial tours of the Greater Washington area that can be reached conveniently by Metrobus.

Locally, bus information will be additionally available through a comprehensive network of sources: information kiosks around the city and at parking lots; National Visitors Center; at 200 Peoples Drug Stores throughout the national capital area with Yankee Peddler Official Bicentennial Commemoratives/Information Dissemination kiosks; by 100 Yankee Peddlers on the streets and at airports, railroad and bus terminals; both in the national capital area and in key localities within a 500-mile radius of Washington. "One if by land, two if by sea." How did the British finally reach Boston? If you make a Bicentennial pilgrimage to Washington this year, maybe you'll discover the answer!

THE WHITE HOUSE—One of top 10 attractions in nation's capital, this striking building, modeled after an Irish castle, has housed every President but Washington.

Krueger Amendment Helps Efforts To Fight Crime . . .

(from the Office of Congressman Bob Krueger)
This week the House passed a bill which authorized $895 million to assist the Law Assistance Agency, a federal effort designed to assist states and localities in fighting crime. Most of the money appropriated for LEAA's use will be returned to the states and localities in block grants, based on the philosophy that crime can be best combated on a state and local level rather than by the federal government.

No one denies the necessity of action to fight our ever-increasing crime problem. Our crime rate is up 82% since 1966, the year President Johnson pledged to banish crime from America. Only 8% of the reported robberies and 4% of the reported burglaries in 1973 resulted in arrests. A recent Gallup poll reported that almost half of our people were afraid to walk on the streets at night in their own neighborhoods and 25% of the households in America have been hit by crime in the past year.

I am hopeful that our efforts on the federal level will filter down, and that through increased public awareness and concern, we can begin to make some headway against the problem.

I sponsored an amendment this week, which the House of Representatives adopted, which I think will make a symbolic and substantive step toward helping the cities in Texas and around the country to alleviate the backlog of cases facing judicial action and to provide for swifter, surer treatment for criminal actions.

My amendment provides that some of the funds shifted to the states and localities by the federal government may be used in assisting the District Attorney to set up early case assessment programs, designed to screen potential cases before they are brought to court. Besides helping the District Attorney determine which cases lack sufficient evidence to be brought to court, the program targets the crimes of violence and those involving repeat offenders. The philosophy behind giving special attention to those types of cases is that they should be dealt with swiftly and surely, both for the benefit of our overburdened judicial system and for society as a whole.

In Texas, metropolitan areas such as Dallas and Houston should benefit from the amendment I offered. They are already using early case assessment programs, and the information I have received indicates that the system is working. The funds provided in the LEAA authorization would allow Houston and Dallas to continue supporting the program, and would permit other cities to establish similar programs. It does not change the way the District Attorney's office operates, but merely allows them to do their job more effectively.

One of the major challenges that faces us in the Congress and as a nation is finding solutions to the serious problem of crime. Our efforts in the past have not been as successful as we would have liked, but I am confident that measures such as the one I proposed and the House adopted, by streamlining the criminal justice system, will make an important contribution to making our crime control efforts more effective and our streets safer for all Americans.

When You're In A Financial Bind

(The Consumer Alert, by John L. Hill, Attorney General of Texas.)

Austin, Tex.—If you should find yourself unable to pay a debt, it's possible that you may begin to receive "dunning" letters from your creditors, or that a creditor may turn your account over to a professional debt collection agency for action.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys say that you may be able to avoid potential debt collection problems by taking the simple step of getting in touch with your creditors as soon as you realize that you are having financial difficulties.

Explain that you are temporarily unable to pay all of your bills on time, and ask if you can pay a smaller amount over a longer period. If you have a good reason for being unable to meet payments but fully intend to repay all your debts eventually, your creditors may agree to such a plan.

If you fail to notify creditors about your problem, or if they do not agree to a reduced and extended payment plan, you still have certain legal rights under both Texas law and certain federal regulations.

A debt collector cannot threaten to file criminal charges against you if they are unwarranted. And bill collectors cannot send you notices that are designed to make you think they are legal documents such as a government agency or a court might send.

No debt collector can impersonate a law enforcement officer or any agent of federal, state or local government, nor can they use any deceptive representation or other means to collect debts or to get information from debtors. In the past, there have been reports of unscrupulous bill collectors dressing in uniforms that resembled city policemen. Other illegal methods used by a few collectors were representing that they were casting directors for a movie or TV show, representing that they were taking a survey, or representing that a prize would be sent to the person supplying certain information.

In Texas, no debt collector may " . . . oppress, harass, or abuse " a debtor. This means that no profane or obscene language or language intended unreasonably to abuse the debtor may be used. And no collector can repeatedly telephone debtors with willful intent to harass them. This does not necessarily mean, however, that creditors or collectors cannot make several attempts to talk with you by telephone each day.

Our office has obtained several court judgments against businesses and individuals who have violated the law by their debt collection practices. In one case, our attorneys received an assurance that a collection agency would refrain from sending deceptive notices that looked like telegrams. In another, we filed suit against a firm that represented that they had turned the case over to an attorney for legal action when they had not done so.

If you have a consumer problem with questionable collection practices, contact our Consumer Protection Division or the Texas Consumer Credit Commissioner.

T-Shirts Make Top Fashion News

The T-shirt, formerly known as child's play clothes—now emerges as the fashion basic for all family members. Styles vary from traditional casual or sporty shirts to dressy looks in soft, shiny, clinging fabrics. And some have even grown into dresses.

Necklines may be round, square, boat, bateau or jeweled. Sleeves are short, capped, semi-capped or long and loose.

Color and interest are added with stripes, ruffles, embroidery, sequins and rhinestones, wild picture patterns, and top stitching which looks like misplaced seam finishes.

Designer logos add a high fashion look, or wearers can create a personal touch with iron-on logos, prints or phrases.

Today's T-shirts still have some old fashioned features. They are usually machine washable and dryable and often made of cotton or cotton blends to be cool, comfortable, soft, and absorbent.

When buying T-shirts, check for quality fabric and workmanship. Shirts will be more durable when the fabric is closely knit and the shoulder seams are reinforced, and ribbin' (if applied) is stitched securely.

Since measurements and fabric stretch may vary greatly within sizes, try T-shirts on to assure proper fit. Be sure neck openings provide adequate stretch so that stitches do not pop when putting the shirt on.

We suggest consumers also check for shrinkage information, particularly if the fabric is cotton or cotton blends, and wash according to care label instructions for correct water temperature, wash cycle and bleach and drying information. If the label recommends laying the shirt flat to dry, be sure to do so, putting the shirt into shape. Machine drying may cause shrinkage in this case.

Using hot water, too high drying temperatures and inappropriate bleaching techniques can cause shrinkage and color loss.

If machine dried, remove T-shirts promptly to prevent wrinkling and possible shrinkage from overdrying.

Keeping Fresh Fruits Fresh

Taking proper care of fresh fruits helps keep them firm, fresh and delicious. As fruits ripen, they increase in sugar and decrease in starch and acidity. Protopectin, a large pectin molecule, characteristic of underripe fruit, changes to a smaller molecule, pectin, which promotes jelling for fruit jellies. In overripe fruits the pectin changes to an even smaller molecule causing softness in overripe fruit.

To keep fruit exactly ripe, there are several principles to remember. Most fruits, except bananas and pears, are of highest quality if ripened before they are picked. Because of nationwide distribution, it is often best to pick fruits when they are underripe. These fruits may then be ripened by the use of ethylene gas. Ethylene gas is given off by fruits during the normal process of ripening and therefore is a natural means of ripening.

Sort and either discard or use immediately any damaged fruits. Fruits, except berries, cherries and thick-skinned fruits, should be washed and dried before storage. Berries and cherries should be put immediately into the refrigerator in a shallow container so that air can circulate around them. Do not wash before putting into the refrigerator.

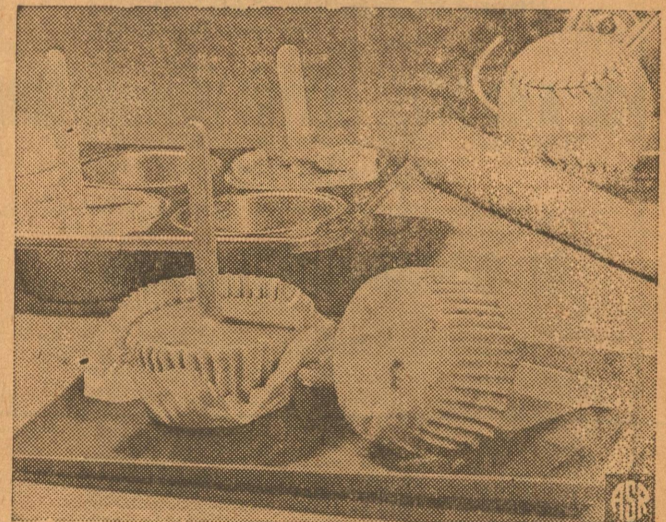

Any unripe fruits should be left to ripen in the open air away from direct sunlight, because they will not ripen in the refrigerator.

Bananas are best when stored at room temperature. The cooler temperature in the refrigerator turns this fruit dull brown.

Citrus fruits can be kept at room temperature for several days but will keep even longer in the refrigerator. If held too long at cold temperatures, however, the skin may become pitted and the flesh discolored.

Underripe melons can be sotred at room temperature but should be refrigerated when ripe and used within a short time.

Nutritious Frozen Tarts

Snacks like Peter Pansicles can play an important part in the daily nutrition game. These frozen treats-on-sticks combine peanut butter with milk and yogurt. Chocolate sauce adds flavor variation.

The yummy result is a coach's favorite that will appeal to kids of all ages. It's a nutritional snack, since peanut butter is an excellent source of protein, niacin and other vitamins and minerals. Milk and milk-based yogurt are excellent sources of calcium.

Preparing the pansicles is easy. Fluted paper baking cups in a muffin pan give the pansicles a ridged design as they freeze. When ready to eat, the paper is easy to peel away. Wooden sticks can be inserted in the mixture as it freezes. Or for a dessert, omit the sticks and serve the individual molds in a dish.

Peter Pansicles
Yield: 13 servings

1 cup Peter Pan Peanut Butter,	1 cup milk
Smooth or Crunchy	1/4 cup chocolate sauce
8 ounce carton plain yogurt	1/3 cup sugar

Combine peanut butter and yogurt. Slowly blend in milk. Add chocolate sauce and sugar. Mix well. Pour into 2 1/2 inch paper baking cups in muffin pans. Freeze about 1 hour. Insert wooden sticks into mixture in each cup and freeze solid. To serve, peel off paper wrapping.
