This tract of land was one of several considered as location for the Medical Center. This was about a decade ago after county voters approved the bond issue and setting up of a hospital district.

Removal Begins Of Old Railroad Tracks

A Dallas metal salvage firm has placed equipment on the north side of Christoval to begin removal of the old Santa Fe railroad tracks from that immediate vicinity. It is understood that the work crew will remove the tracks and crossies from Christoval north toward San Angelo, for the present. Plans call for eventual removal of the entire 65 miles of rail line between San Angelo and Sonora.

Post Script

This Is Final Success Issue
Pursuant to our announcement last week that The Success would merge with the Express News, this is the final issue to be printed before the merger actually takes place. This 4-page Success issue is included as a supplement to this week's Express News.

For many years as the football season was kicked off, The Success would launch our series of ads which showed the varsity boys' team members, coaches, managers, etc., and now this function has been taken over by the newly merged paper. The Express News has a football supplement this week that ably continues this tradition and they will have supplementary ads boosting the teams in the nine weeks ahead.

The Varsity Eagles are launching their '77 season this Friday night as they host Rankin on the local field. This will be the first of the non-district games.

A year ago the Eagles lost at Rankin, 20-14, so now they will hope for a turn-about of the score in Friday night's opener.

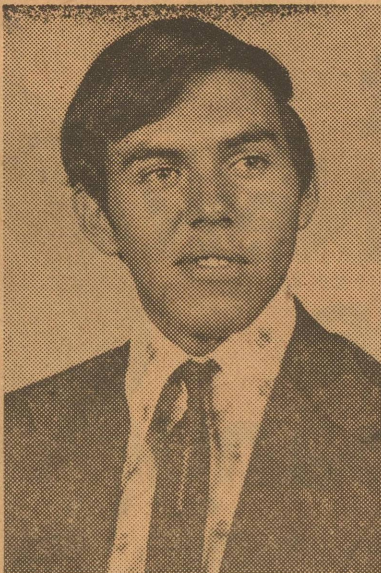

The football ad series will be getting under way in the Express News and will continue through the remainder of the season. If you were overlooked in being called on for a football ad, it's not too late to get on the series in the Express News, and we urge you to do so.

65 Years Of Printing And Newspaper Work To Close For Fred Gunstead

With the merger effective immediately of the Eldorado Success with the Express News, 32 years of ownership of the local newspaper on the part of the Gunsteads will come to a close.

For Fred Gunstead, this time will mark completion of 65 years in the printing and weekly newspaper games.

"I think that Gunny can just as well come to the print shop and help after school as to be hanging around on the streets . . ."

Those were the words that put Fred Gunstead into the typesetting trade at the age of 15 in his brother's weekly newspaper, the St. Hilaire (Minn.) Spectator, "way back in 1912.

There were nine boys and girls in the family and the members usually took their problems to their mother.

Brother Oscar had become owner of the local hand-set weekly and he needed all the help he could get.

When he addressed the above remarks to the mother of the clan, she readily agreed that it would indeed be a good thing for Gunny to do just that—and so to the print shop he went.

Here he was introduced to the type stick and composing rule, the four-foot power jobber and the Washington hand press.

"I stayed with it more or less for about five years—wandering off from time to time for farm work, but returning to the print shop when the cold northern blizzards would descend in the winter."

By the time World War I had come and gone, Mr. Gunstead was pretty well confirmed in the trade as a journeyman printer. He served a hitch in the Army in World War I with an outfit that was training in Florida to go overseas to France, but the War ended before they had to embark.

Was Usually Shop Foreman

His subsequent travels led to various shops in Minnesota, North Dakota, Washington, California, and Texas. In Texas he worked at Electra and then bought the weekly Pilot Point Post-Signal which he operated from 1926 to 1945. That period included the Great Depression and World War II, and the former event was highlighted by attendance by himself and his family at the Texas Centennial held in Dallas in 1936. Attending this world's fair gave a "glimpse of the outside world" and he and his family are glad that plans are already afoot for Dallas to put on another one in '86. The engraved metal press pass used at the 1936 Centennial is still a treasured family possession.

In 1945, he sold the Pilot Point weekly and came to Eldorado and bought The Success from W. Irl Breedlove, who is now deceased.

The post-war homeward trek of veterans from World War II, the building boom that followed, and the occasional oil booms that have affected this county, were all factors that made him decide in 1960 to buy the large building on South Main from Mrs. E. H. Coulter, and move the printing operation to it.

Daughter For Hunleys

A daughter, Tara Jo, was born Aug. 15th to Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hunley of Lubbock, Texas. The baby weighed 6 lbs. 15½ oz. and is their first child.

Mrs. Hunley is the former Janet Oglesby.

The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ford Oglesby Jr., and great grandmother is Mrs. Ford Oglesby, Sr.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Tracey Richards, whose 5th birthday was August 29, was honored with a birthday trip to San Angelo on Saturday, August 27. Included in the party were the birthday girl's sister, Sonja, and Jeffrey Lacy. The kids enjoyed a birthday pizza at Shakey's and afterwards, bowling. As an extra treat, Tracey's mother, Candy Richards, went by Playland Park and let everyone ride several rides. To top off a perfect day, the party stopped for ice cream. The kids reported a good time and later, bowling scores were appropriately bragged on by grandparents and other interested persons.

FRED GUNSTEAD

Among Veterans Honored

A dozen or so years ago, the local American Legion post gave life-time memberships to all World War I veterans living here and Mr. Gunstead is one of the seven known to be still residing in this county. (The others: Jud Branman, Lester Henderson, W. F. Meador, H. Leslie Jones, Andrew Campbell, and Happy Doss.)

During his 65-year career in small-town publishing, Mr. Gunstead has seen many changes in the trade. The most obvious is the conversion from letterpress to offset, in which weekly papers have their pages made up on layout sheets and then take them to a central printing plant for actual production of the week's issue. As part of the merger taking place here, the Eldorado Success will become part of the Express News which has used this method since it started 14 months ago. Each week's issue is taken to Big Spring for printing, and this will continue to be the method used in the future.

Another notable change is that in recent years the paper wholesale houses no longer send their salesmen out to call on the printers in the small towns. They stopped the practice 5 or 10 years ago as their salesmen retired. They now have WATS telephones so that whenever the small town publisher needs any supplies, he can just call in his wants, collect.

That system may be more efficient, but something was lost when the paper salesmen retired because through them, the small town newspaper man could keep up with the "shop" talk in the area, and what was going on up and down the line.

Medical Center Built

About a decade ago, Mr. Gunstead editorialized long and hard in his Success paper for Schleicher county to get a Medical Center. Subsequently a bond election was called, which passed, and the present Medical Center, with wings for hospital and nursing home was built, and stands today as a part of the town and county.

A widower for the past 20 years, Mr. Gunstead sustained a stroke 2½ years ago and moved to the local Nursing Home. He will continue to make his home there in the future.

Over 76 Years, Schleicher County Saw Events To Put Eldorado 'On Map'

There has been a weekly newspaper serving Schleicher County just about from the time both were founded, back in 1901.

During the 76 years of the past, a number of promoters came along with ideas that were to put the town of Eldorado "On The Map." The most notable of these, in the early decades, was a railroad to serve this county.

The Orient railroad was one of the early ventures, but it never got past the dream stage, and perhaps laying of a few miles this direction from San Angelo.

We Got Railroad In 1930

Excitement ran high in this area in the late 1920's when Santa Fe announced they would lay a line south, to pass through this county to Sonora.

The 65 miles of track were surveyed and built at a cost of three million dollars, and on July 1, 1930, an excursion train was run from San Angelo to Sonora, to inaugurate the new service.

When the excursion train came through Eldorado, bottles of crude oil from the new Whitten well were passed out as souvenirs. J. A. Whitten was County Judge, and Fred O. Green was Mayor of the City of Eldorado.

One of the local promoters made the prediction that in just a short time, we would have 5,000 people living in Eldorado, on account of the increased business activity to be generated by the railroad.

The promoters of 1930 could not foresee that the demise of rail passenger and freight traffic overall, would come about by improved highways and more reliable cars and trucks, but that is precisely what happened in the subsequent decades.

In recent years Santa Fe cut back on service and facilities through here, so that earlier this year they announced they would abandon their San Angelo to Sonora line. They ran their last train over the tracks last April and it is understood that the rails and crossies will be removed sometime later

Mrs. Potter Dies At Age Of 96

Mrs. Hixie Surlburnia Potter died at about 2:00 a.m. Tuesday in the local Medical Center where she had lived in the nursing home for several years. She was 96.

Funeral services were set for 10:00 Wednesday morning in the First United Methodist Church of Eden, of which she was a charter member. Rev. Keith Wyatt of Eldorado officiated.

Interment was made in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Potter was born Aug. 7, 1881, in Concho county. She married H. L. Potter in Hext, Texas, on May 26, 1899.

She was a charter member and past matron of the Eastern Star chapter at Eden. She was a charter member of the Woodmen's Circle.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Oliver (Irene) Teele of Eldorado; two foster sons, Lee Crump of Abilene and Gilbert Owens of Houston; one son-in-law, Milton Barnett of Big Spring, and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by another daughter, Mrs. Milton Barnett.

Head Coach Will Address Lions Club

Mike Williamson, who is starting his initial season as head coach of the Eldorado Eagles varsity football team, will be the speaker at the meeting next week of the Eldorado Lions Club.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 7th, starting at 12:05 in the Memorial Building.

By then the varsity team will have their opening game with Rankin under their belt. Coach Williamson will discuss the team prospects for the season and then answer questions put to him by the Lions Club members.

This is a traditional program that has been put on for the Lions Club for many years.

The Lions Club did not meet this week on account of Aug. 31st being a 5th Wednesday.

Woolen Mill Opened In 1941

The late J. B. Christian, his son, Joe M. Christian, and Mrs. E. W. Brooks all figured prominently in the late 1930's when they built and put into production the West Texas Woolen Mills. Initial production of woolen blankets was in 1940 and in 1941 a big Grand Opening was held with then-Gov. "Pappy" O'Daniel on hand to give a speech, greet the comers, help with the blanket auction, and predict that the future of the mill looked well and that this going concern would be a payroll-drawing asset, then and in the future.

During World War II, the mill turned out Army blankets, and after the war ended the facilities were converted back to peacetime production of blankets and other woolen items.

About 15 years ago, other promoters bought controlling interest in the mill, built a large building on the Sonora highway to house showroom and other facilities for the expanded mill operation, and still later sold out.

The large building now houses El Dorado Restaurant and the Barkers have charge of the woolen mill in smaller quarters.

The local woolen mill is still in business, and still operating, but just so-so memories linger of the big day back in '41.

Another Proposal In '46

In 1946, the War was over, Eldorado was gearing along with other towns to peace-time production, and there was a minor oil boom getting under way.

Some local promoters came up with a proposal to build a $100,000 hotel here.

The general consensus was that we would not be just a small town anymore, so such a facility would be needed. But this proposal never got off the ground, probably because of the financing. So still another proposal to Put Us On The Map is now but a memory.

DALLAS MAY HOST 3RD WORLD'S FAIR

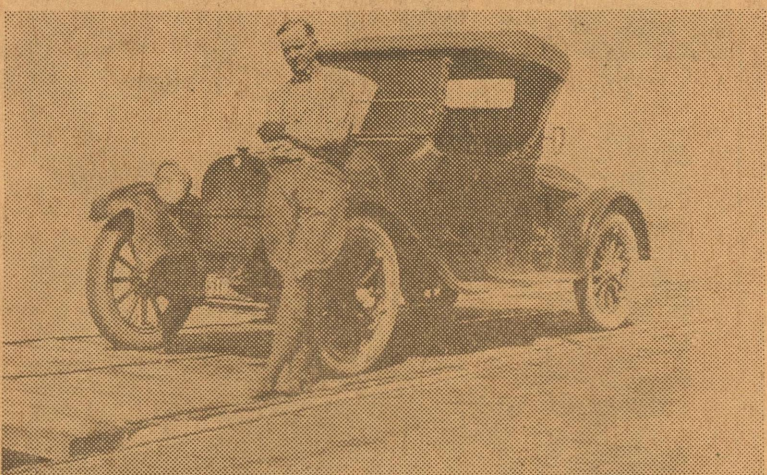

FOR THE SOUTHWEST IN 9 YEARS: 1986

The Hall of State on the Fairgrounds of the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, was among the buildings erected for the Texas Centennial Exposition of 1936, the first World's Fair held in the Southwest.

According to a recent front-page article in the Dallas Morning News, promoters in that area are making preliminary plans for a World's Fair to be staged on the grounds of the State Fair of Texas in 1986. That year, nine years in the future, would mark 150 years of Texas Independence from Mexico, and would properly be referred to as the "sesqui-centennial." It would also come 50 years after the Texas Centennial Exposition of 1936 when Texas marked 100 years of independence. For the '36 event, a number of buildings were erected for the world's fair that was put on, and they have been kept in the decades since as part of the plant of the State Fair of Texas, which is put on each October. The Texas Centennial celebration of 41 years ago remained the only such event for the Southwest until San Antonio put on HemisFair '68. If the Dallas promoters go ahead with plans to put on the big celebration in '86, it would run for six months and would take several years of advance preparation, especially during the year or two immediately ahead of it.

Great Food Round-Up Is Set At '77 State Fair

The 1977 State Fair of Texas will salute the food industry with "The Great Food Round-Up," Oct. 7-23.

More than three million visitors are expected to enjoy impressive exhibits sponsored by national companies—to sample Kraft's caramels, dip into a Heinz pickle barrel, munch a Pillsbury biscuit or find their fate in a La Choy Fortune Cookie. Displays, demonstrations, special guests and music will educate, entertain, and please with taste treats in a kaleidoscope of flashing lights, appetizing aromas and animated illustrations.

At the Music Hall irreplaceable Debbie Reynolds will star as the straight-shootin' Annie Oakley in the musical gem, Annie Get Your Gun. Directed and choreographed by Gower Champion, the show sparkles with imaginative dance treatments, glorious costumes and hitting Irving Berlin tunes.

In a 9-day round-up of thrills, October 8-16, the State Fair Rodeo, will again draw top riders to assault the record books and standings of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

For 25 years the Pan American Livestock Show and Exposition has attracted visitors from all parts of the world to this showcase for the finest beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep and goats. Other major events in the Coliseum and pavilion areas will be the State Fair Horse Shows, Junior Livestock Shows and Sales, regional Sheep Dog trials and the highly entertaining Donkey and Mule Show.

The Coca Cola Big Tex Stage will vibrate with the daily fury of Los Argentines, and their jingling spurs, flashing knives, whirling bolos and South American Indian drums. From October 16-23 the spectacular Trinidad and Tobago Championship Steel Orchestra will also entertain with multiple daily free performances while their villagers present a Folk Festival.

Singers, dancers, acrobats and local talent will round out the entertainment in the shadow of Big Tex. Also without charge the Dr. Pepper 3-ring circus will perform daily to Standing Room Only crowds.

Dancing Waters, a fantasy of fountains, lights, flowers and music to be viewed from the beautifully landscaped banks of the Esplanade, will provide a restful change of pace from the lively carnival atmosphere of the fair.

Football fever will strike early when an overflow crowd jams the Cotton Bowl for the Texas-Oklahoma battle, October 8. Texas will return October 22 to meet SMU in a Southwest Conference game.

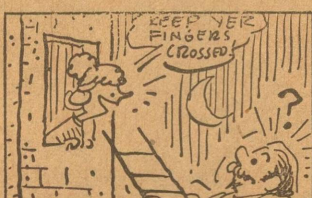

Nightly Cotton Bowl entertainment begins October 10 with the Parade of Champions, a super marching contest for high school students. America Day, October 4, will feature military bands and pageantry; East Texas Day, October 17, city queens and bands, and La Fiesta Mexicana, October 18, singer Johnny Rodriguez.

Always crowd pleasers, the contests for dessert makers, china painters, needlework experts and pumpkin carvers will draw throngs to the Creative Arts Department in the Women's Building. In Marine Square competitive military events will be topped only by the precision drills, marching and concerts of the famed scarlet-coated U. S. Marine Drum and Bugle Corps.

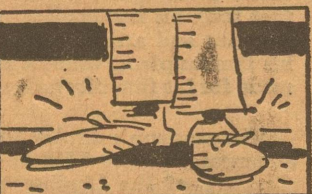

At the 1978 Southwest Automobile Show, the first-with-the-most in sleek shiny cars, and in the Food and Fiber Pavilion, bountifully filled with Texas-grown products, musical talent will enliven colorful displays in floral settings.

Special days speak for America as a melting pot as Texans with Norwegian, Czech and German heritage celebrate with their national foods, music and dancing.

At twilight the daily Torchlight Parade with floats and beauties will wind past Big Tex on the trek through the park before the fireworks light up the sky with everybody still enjoying tempting snacks served over the fairgrounds.

Keeping fingers crossed to ensure against disaster, comes from the superstition that making the sign of the cross will avert bad luck.

Some people believe that if you put on your right sock and shoe before you put on your left sock and shoe you will have a good day.

Letter To The Editor—
In Appreciation To The Eldorado
Success Crew

On September 21, 1933, I came to Eldorado as the bride of Palmer West, which was the first news story written about us.

That's quite a few years, soon will be forty-four. Through the years The Success has been most co-operative in all requests made regarding each news item. You have printed numerous ones concerning the various organizations, activities or about persons in a most interesting and readable print. Using pictures or cuts which you are sharing with organizations and individuals, I appreciate this gesture very much which speaks for the very fine Publisher, Editor and family of "The Eldorado Success"—established in 1901, this county's Oldest Enterprise.

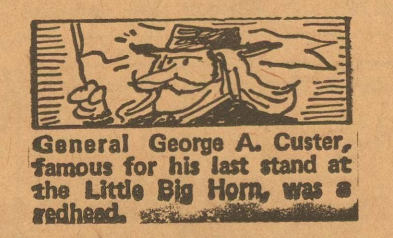

That's 76 years of history. The Gunsteads: Alice, Fred, Mary Lee and Bill, came to us and immediately fit into the First Methodist Church, and the many other organizations which they have been active in, and Bill, Charlene, Gwendolyn and Billy Charles remain active. Mr. Gunstead is limited but remains a brilliant reader, and shares this with others. I enjoy you, Fred.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunstead immediately took their place in church, attending each Sunday with their children. Mrs. Gunstead taught Sunday School for years and was a true Christian leader until her early death. Mr. Gunstead belonged to the men's organizations and much publicity was given and still is to the church.

Mary Lee was organist until her marriage. Bill sang in the choir. Charlene joined him in singing in the choir, after their marriage. Bill served as Sunday School superintendent for several years.

You have kept files of the papers which are valuable, serving as reference for research. As you enter upon a new venture, I express my appreciation for the past and a word of congratulations for the future. My prayers are with you.

The uniting of these two news media and two very prominent families is commendable. Best wishes to the success of the future.
—Blanche West

Stuffed Tomatoes ...
Good Summer Fare

Great in Salads, sauces, soups and stews, tomatoes serve well as edible containers for pasta dishes. Just scoop out the center and combine them with a convenient canned macaroni with beef in tomato sauce. Stuff the scooped-out tomatoes with this saucy macaroni mixture; sprinkle on some grated cheese and corn chips; then bake. What a jiffy summer treat! Hot and tasty, it will lure everyone for lunch on those lazy, hazy days.

- TOMATOES-ROTI
- 6 Large, firm tomatoes
 - 1/4 cup chopped onions
 - 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 - 1/2 cup chopped celery
 - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 1 packet G. Washington's® Golden Seasoning and Broth
 - 1 can (15 oz.) Beefaroni® (macaroni with beef in tomato sauce)
 - 1 cup crushed corn chips
 - 1/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Scoop out tomatoes. Save pulp. Sauté onions, green pepper and celery in butter. Add tomato pulp to sautéed vegetables. Drain off excess liquid. Add G. Washington's, Beefaroni and corn chips. Stuff tomatoes with Beefaroni mixture. Top with cheese. Bake in 375° F oven for 20 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

If green peppers are in season, why not stuff these with Beefaroni mixture. Cut tops from peppers; remove seeds. Blanch peppers in boiling water for 10 minutes. Stuff blanched peppers with Beefaroni mixture; top with cheese, cover with aluminum foil. Bake in 375° F oven for 25 minutes. Serves 4.

GREAT MOMENTS
IN SPORTS IN A NUTSHELL

Brief Stories Of Long-Remembered Triumphs
A great moment in sports occurred in August, 1967 in Newport, R.I., when Dick Leach and Dick Dell beat Tommy Mozur and Lenny Schloss in a record match of 147 tennis games.

A great moment in sports occurred in 1958 when Joy Foster became the Jamaican singles and mixed doubles table tennis champion at only 8 years old, making her probably the youngest person to win international honors in any sport. Young people today can enjoy Baby Ruth® and Butterfinger® snack bars for the quick energy they need in their active lives.

A great moment in sports occurred in 1521 when Gustavus Vasa, later king of Sweden, skied 52.8 miles. Today an annual overland skiing race is held to celebrate this event.

AMERICAN HISTORY

Shortly after Charles A. Lindbergh made his historic solo trans-Atlantic flight in 1927, he took up the first passenger to ride in The Spirit of St. Louis. It was automaker Henry Ford, making his first airplane flight.

This photograph of Ford (left) and Lindy, taken in August, 1927, is included in the wealth of Lindbergh material on display at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, Michigan. Also to be seen are a Franklin Airman sedan, one of the prizes Lindbergh received for that first solo flight, his favorite motorcycle, a trailer that took his family all over America and a duplicate of his famous plane, which was made for his film biography.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Encouraging Responsible Behavior
While there have been many attempts to "prevent" alcohol abuse, one that is particularly promising is a program to encourage those who drink to do so responsibly.

One aspect of the program, being run by the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States (DISCUS), points out the difference between good hospitality and ungracious pressuring. While it's all right to offer someone a drink, it's all wrong to insist. Not surprisingly, the theme of their campaign for normal adults is that "if you choose to drink, drink responsibly." The theme has broad application to a variety of situations.

A sobering truth about drinking and driving, for example, is that while it's best not to drink before driving, many Americans do. Many safety experts therefore give this realistic advice to motorists: "If you do drink, know your own limit as well as the speed limit and stay well within both." Another subject explored in the liquor industry campaign is teenage drinking. One way to effectively combat drink-related teen problems is for families to help teenagers resist peer pressure from the wrong kind of friends. The campaign points out that one way to discourage irresponsibility among adolescents is to encourage responsibility among adults. That's why for parents of teenagers, it is especially important to follow the principle: If you choose to drink, drink responsibly. There are great numbers of people who have strong reasons for not drinking beer, wine or liquor—religious, physical and personal—and their desire to abstain should be respected by all. It is a fact, however, that social drinking is a traditional custom observed by most adults in this country. In short, "not everyone should drink, but everyone who does should drink sensibly," says DISCUS.

Yummiest Peach Shortcake Ever!

Is there anyone who doesn't love Peach Shortcake? This one's a real beauty — and the peaches are done a new way to make them taste fresher and juicier. Here the fresh peach slices are captured in soft-set Jell-O peach flavor gelatin and spooned right from the bowl onto squares of cake. Top each serving with plenty of prepared whipped topping.

- Peach Shortcake
- 1 package (3 oz.) peach flavor gelatin
 - 2 tablespoons sugar
 - 1-1/2 cups boiling water
 - 1 cup cold water
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1 cup sweetened sliced fresh peaches
 - Cake squares
 - Prepared whipped topping
- Dissolve gelatin and sugar in boiling water. Add cold water, lemon juice and peaches. Place bowl of gelatin mixture in larger bowl of ice and water. Stir until slightly thickened. Spoon over cake squares; top with whipped topping. Makes 9 servings.
