

City will spray for mosquitos

The City of Eldorado, in joint cooperation with the Eldorado Volunteer Fire Department, will spray for mosquitos again next Tuesday, according to City Secretary Phil Olson.

Volunteer firemen will spray with malathion, an insecticide registered with the Environmental Protection Agency. According to a pamphlet published by the American Cyanamid Company, several points of information should be made known to persons who are effected by a spraying program using malathion.

For instance, the booklet points out that it is safe to consume fruits and vegetables exposed to the spray at mosquito control rates. However, fruits and vegetables should be washed before eating. The booklet also says that the spray, "as well as any foreign particles in the air, may cause respiratory distress to those in its direct path who have respiratory embarrassment due to pre-existing emphysema or other respiratory problems. Precautionary steps to avoid direct exposure to the spray should be taken."

Lum Davis--40 years at it!

By Jannette Wilkerson

Lum Davis leaned back in his chair and packed tobacco in his pipe as he spoke in a quiet tone about the famous sandstorm back in 1927 at Floydada. He told me about coming to Schleicher County in '29' with Shell Pipe Line, and about meeting a pretty telephone operator named "Fuddy".

"When the pipe line was finished, I went to work in the Service Station business. That was in 1930, and I've been in it ever since".

In addition to his Fina Station, Lum is a rancher. He told me a very interesting story about the value of sheep dogs. "Years back, ranchers thought the only way to work sheep was on horseback. Well, Hank Mund got some dogs and was bragging about how much better they were to work sheep with, and how smart those dogs were. We were in town visiting one day when Hank was called to the telephone. When he returned, we asked him who was calling him, here, and he said: 'Oh, it was just one of them dogs wanting to know where the worm medicine was!'"

Mr. Davis's life hasn't lacked for excitement. Since January 1, 1930, when he decided to run the Humble Station on Main Street, he has been robbed at gun point, had several break-ins, and met a lot of interesting people. He served in the Air Force, has been connected with the Fire Department for 32 years and in that time has fought many a bad grass fire! He is an active member of the West-Side Church of Christ and is a valued member of the business and ranching community of Schleicher County.

Since his retirement from the Fina Station, his daughter and son-in-law, Jan and Zane Miller, operate the station, while Lum and Fuddy ranch full time.

No doubt about it, Lum Davis is a good man to know. His honesty and good nature are as obvious as his tall lean frame, dark hair, and straight forward manner. The Davis's are another reason Eldorado is a good place to live.....

Eldorado Woman's Club project continues

The Eldorado Woman's Club will continue its environmental project throughout the summer.

Members picked up the first bunch of old newspapers Monday morning, and delivered 440 pounds to a firm in San Angelo which will recycle them into new paper.

They are planning to pick up old newspapers on the front porch of the Memorial Building at 10:30 a.m. the first Monday of each month.

The project is designed to reuse old paper so that fewer trees would have to be used to make new paper, thus saving trees for future generations.

Leaders of the club said that anyone wanting to donate old papers may leave them on the porch of the building before the designated time. Papers may be delivered tied with string, in paper sacks or in cardboard boxes.

Magazines will not be accepted.

EHS band changed

Wayne "Mr. Mac" McDonald has announced some changes in the Eldorado High School Eagle Band.

Beginning next school year, the high school band will be for students in grades 9-12 only.

A junior high band will be started for students in grades

7-8. Beginning band students will start in the sixth grade.

McDonald said, "The plan will give the junior high students more time to become more proficient in playing and marching before entering the Eagle Band."

Home landscape

Mr. Everett Janne, Landscape Horticulturist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will be in Eldorado on Tuesday, June 14, to present a program on

"IT'S A BIRD - IT'S A PLANE - IT'S SUPER BARBIE"

"Break, for that Silver 4-wheeler" -- "10-4; you got it" -- "Well, Lady, I'm your back door, and I thought you ought'a know, you're dragging a beach towel that says "Pool Power" -- "Thanks for the info, I'll check it out" --

I wondered if anyone else's kid's used the bumper of their car for a play area, as I untied the homemade tent, from the bumper, and picked up Barbie clothes. I found a small sack marked "Privit", tucked under the license plate, containing bubble gum, jacks, and a picture of 'Fonzie'. After retrieving all the junk that hadn't blown off, I was northbound once again when I heard a very interesting conversation on the C.B.

"I don't know what it was, Good Buddy. Too big to be a bug. I must be cracking up, but I could'a sworn a little blonde just hit my windshield" -- "You been in that 18 wheeler too long - better take a 10-7, Pal" -- "Was that blonde wearing a blue striped Bikini?" Came yet another voice from down the road. "10-4, did you see it too? I'm sure tickled to hear that - I thought I was ready for the Cookie Bin, Good Buddy." -- "Yeah, well, this little dude came flying over the top of your truck and stuck in my diesel stack -- thought for a minute there the Good Fairy had done come to grant me three wishes" -- "What was it? -- "Don't know - took off again -- the 4 wheeler behind me just swerved off the road, guess she's after them now" --

I just kept on 'truckin' -- "10-10- listenin' in" to hear Heather's Barbie doll being called everything from a U.F.O. to a figment of a tired truckers imagination.

When I see the kids and bicycles in 'front' of the car, I assume the back is clear for 'take-off', from now on, I'll check! Poor Barbie, too bad she wasn't a Bionic Woman doll. On my return trip I passed three trucks parked at a Bar, and I'll bet they were trying to decide whether to turn themselves in for 'Hit and Run' or just blot out the entire episode altogether..... and that's something to modulate about this week....

Some dogs I have known

By Bob Boothe

Reprinted by permission of the Grain Producers News

Believe it or not, there is a book of sermons entitled "Some Dogs I Have Known" -- my apologies to the author for using his title.

I am a dog fancier; to be precise, a Beagle fancier. We, my family and I, have been breeding and raising show Beagles for years. Unfortunately, not all of the puppies we have had turned out to be show dogs; also, unfortunately, Beagles have never been a rare breed and therefore do not command a high market price, in fact you can sell them at all. We usually keep them ourselves or give our non-show quality puppies to a good home.

One thing I have noticed over the years is that dogs, as people do, have individual personalities; also like people, their personalities are affected by heredity and environment.

I have had dogs who were completely unflappable -- nothing you could do would cause them to become agitated or to lose their composure. Another (my first) was a born showman. Outside of the show ring, you could easily overlook her but once in the ring, she "got it all together." She stood out in any group of dogs in the ring, and she was a consistent winner; but once outside the ring, she was just another dog. In other words, she put out the effort to win when it was needed. I have known dogs that were suspicious and slow to make friends. Others accepted both humans and other dogs immediately and were surprised when they were hurt by their new human or dog "friends." I have known lazy dogs, energetic dogs; I have had stupid dogs and brilliant dogs -- in fact, some that were a lot smarter than I was. (OK, whoever it was who said, "that's not too hard to do," I'll tend to you later!)

Another trait I see in dogs that is also exhibited in humans is their attempt at peer acceptance. Fortunately, most dogs are docile and easily manageable, but put them in a group and they become rowdy and somewhat unmanageable. They will do things in a group that they would never think of doing by themselves. Group psychology takes over in dogs just as it does in people.

Finally, I have known dogs who were deceitful. They accepted your affection as long as you were looking at them; but when you turned your back on them, you might end up being bitten.

These observations, I am sure, are not original with me. If you use a little "poetic license," you too will be able to attach human traits to your dogs. If you exercise that license a little further, you might even apply some cooperative traits to your dogs, (but that would be carrying poetic license a bit too far.)

One thing for sure, I would rather be accused of treating my dogs as humans rather than treating them like dogs.

To the Editor
The Eldorado Express News
P.O. Box 782
Eldorado, Texas 76936

As everyone knows by now, the 65th Legislature failed to produce a new Public School Finance Bill for the 1977-79 biennium. What this means is that the Public Schools will continue to operate under HB 1126, passed by the 64th Legislature in 1975, using the Districts values as reported in 1977 rather than the values used for the past biennium. (The reported values are less than the current values now being used in most School Districts.)

Having followed the legislative process closely, concerning Public School Finance, and being privileged to work closely with the House-Senate Conference Committee on Public School Finance and our Representative, Mr. James E. (Jim) Nugent in particular, there are a few things that we in our area need to understand about what has actually happened and where we go from here.

To begin with, the main issue was and still is what values shall be used to determine a school district's local fund assignment (LFA). The LFA is the local school district's share of the State Foundation Program, and is determined by applying a set rate to the full value of property in each district. Full value and how it is determined is therefore the issue. The rural areas want, and have to have, full value based on productivity (called ag values), and urban areas want full value based on market value (what property sells for). At this point in time therefore, the only defense the rural areas have is "no bill". (In other words, the rural areas are better off with HB 1126 and our own reported values than with values based on the Urban desire of Full Market Value.)

The Teacher Salary increase has been made to appear to conflict with this issue, and appear to relate to the amount of state monies allocated for the Local Fund Assignments. This is true only to a very minimum extent. The House-Senate Conference Report on HB 750 at the eleventh hour of the Legislative session contained a very reasonable salary increase for Texas teachers. The Teacher Pay Raise was not and is still not a major issue in this writer's opinion. The Governor has reported that he will call a special session of the Legislature to produce a Public School Finance Bill, if the leadership in the House and Senate will guarantee a two-thirds (2/3) majority support for a House-Senate compromise to be worked on in the interim (during June). As mentioned above the Conference Committee produced a good bill for the rural areas. The report has been called the Massey #3 (Representative Tom Massey from San Angelo, Chairman of the House Education Committee) in most Legislative circles and had the support of all House and Senate members of the Conference Committee with the exception of Senator Oscar Mauzy of Dallas.

The Governor further stated that he is delaying the special session for the Legislators to visit in their home districts and get the feeling of their constituents concerning this issue. Since the rural areas must have a bill similar to the Conference Committee Report, our feelings should be evident at this time.

In conclusion it should be noted that the Senators and Representatives from our area supported the Conference Committee Report; and Mr. James E. (Jim) Nugent in particular has been a tower of strength in the Legislature and on the Conference Committee in fighting this issue in our behalf, and should be commended for his outstanding efforts for our schools and taxpayers.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

It is now widely recognized that the current system of criminal sentencing is not working.

Mass murderers like Charles Manson and Richard Speck are eligible for parole, and other dangerous offenders are going unpunished. Glaring injustices in the sentences of those who are punished have led to numerous and great injustices.

What I have proposed in the past, and what several of my colleagues in the Senate are now proposing, is that we should have fixed, specific sentences written into the law for specific crimes.

As things now stand, federal judges sentence convicted criminals to an indeterminate number of years in prison, and then leave it up to the parole board to decide how long any individual should actually serve.

For example, judges are allowed to set prison terms for bank robbery at anything from zero years to 20 years under current federal law. And, at the discretion of the parole board, often only one-third of the sentence is ever served.

It is finally becoming widely accepted that our judicial system lacks standards and guidelines. The disparities in the sentences imposed under the present system have forced us to recognize that the use of indeterminate sentencing is neither fair nor effective. The concept of trying to rehabilitate by promises of early parole has been an abysmal failure. Recently the "presumptive" sentence approach which I have long advocated has begun to win broad support among law enforcement officials and in legal circles.

Legislation to revise and consolidate the laws—the Criminal Code Reform Act of 1977—has been introduced by several members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

It includes a provision similar to one I proposed a year ago which would replace the "indeterminate" sentencing system now used by federal courts with a system of "presumptive" sentencing. This approach sets a middle or "presumptive" sentence to create a uniform standard of justice for all.

For example, a four-year presumptive sentence might be set for first offense bank robbery, with virtually no eligibility for parole. The presumptive sentences would then increase sharply for repeat offenses.

Too often too many officials in the past have been hesitant to even face the issue of criminal justice squarely, preferring to speak in fashionable terms of "rehabilitation" rather than "punishment." There has been too much concern for criminals and too little thought for the victims of crimes.

As it now stands, there is no certainty for the criminal that he will be punished, no certainty for society that the dangerous will be incarcerated, and no certainty that punishment, when it is meted out, will be fair.

When an adult burglar knows that he has only one chance in 412 of going to jail for any single burglary he commits, it is time to reform criminal justice.

What it all boils down to is that punishment for the criminal offender in this country must once again be known to be swift and to be sure.

It is important for Congress to work swiftly to approve this comprehensive change in the way criminals are sentenced in federal courts.

From the Management and Staff of Here is a basic checkbook tip: don't write a check you don't have money in your account to cover. Even though you have your deposit ready to make the same day. Something could happen to you or your deposit and if it is not deposited for one reason or other, you could wind up in serious trouble. This could pose a problem no matter how good your intentions are, for if the money is not there when your checks are presented to the bank for payment, the bank is not obligated to pay them.

Remember, most banks and all Federal Reserve Banks are on computer. Those computers are a lot faster than you are. They read those funny looking little letters on the bottom of your check with exceptional speed and accuracy.

To be on the safe side, it is a very good idea to not write a check on your deposit for a couple of days after you deposit it. It makes good BANK CENTS.

All news items and short notes will be picked up at the "All In One Stop" on each Wednesday at 12:00 p.m. All news must be in written form, with your signature, address and telephone number, if you have one. This is necessary so that the people at the paper can call you about any questions they might have regarding your news article.

MADE FOR GIVING

Give the gift of Spring and Summer, the warm good-time spirit of the season can linger right through the wintry holidays with presents you can make right now.

To provide a taste of Spring and Summer magic, you can bottle the aroma of garden fresh herbs in flavored oils.

Package them in festive glass containers, personalized with sealing wax or parafin. Decorate with ribbons or lace doilies, or both.

Also, your salad dressing or catsup bottles make very attractive containers.

SPICY GREEN TEA

Crush 1/2 tsp. whole cloves
Mix in 1 cup green tea
2 Tbs. dried orange peel
1/2 tsp. ground ginger

To brew tea, use 1 tsp. of mix for each 6-oz. boiling water. Use tea ball or strain tea. Steep 3 to 5 minutes. Store in air-tight containers. Keep in cool dark place.

Baby food jars would be ideal for this tea, as for gift giving.

FLAVORED OILS

Ginger-Garlic:

Soak 2 Tbs. instant minced onions and 1 tsp. instant minced garlic, in 2 Tbs. water for 10 minutes. Drain off excess water. Put into bottle with 2 cups peanut oil, corn oil or other vegetable oil and 1 tsp. ground ginger. Seal and shake.

Uses: sauteing vegetables or meats; as a salad dressing.

HERB OIL

Wash and dry 6 sprigs of fresh marjoram or thyme. Bruise leaves. Put into bottle, add oil and seal. Use for broiled fish, salad dressing base, steamed vegetable seasoning or marinade for cooked shrimp.

GARLIC OIL

Pierce garlic buds, drop in bottles and add oil. Very good for basic salad dressing.

DILL OIL AND VINEGAR

Wash and dry dill leaves and stems, leaving the bloom on some. Stand in tall bottles. Add 1/2 tsp. favorite salad oil, fill bottle with white vinegar. Very tasty as well as an attractive gift.

CHILI OIL

Into bottle put 2 tsp. paprika; 2 tsp. dried oregano leaves, crumbled; 1/2 tsp. crushed red pepper. Add your favorite oil. Seal and shake.

Uses: for sauteing spanish dishes, in dressings for bean salads, for cooked vegetables - like cabbage, brushing over pizza and flavoring omelets.

MILLION-DOLLAR EYE-OPENER

This eye-opener can help you get going and be more amiable, if you are a slow riser or easily irritated in the morning:

The minute you get out of bed, drink a glass of your favorite fruit juice. It must be naturally sweet, no sugar. The natural sugar in the juice, taken on an empty stomach, performs the magic.

Laws for women improved, but more changes are needed

Texas law has improved its treatment of homemakers in recent years, says a new study, but more changes are needed before women at home are afforded their full legal and economic rights.

The report, one of a series examining the legal rights of homemakers in all states, was released by the Texas International Women's Year (IWY) Coordinating Committee in Austin Tuesday (May 17).

"The Legal Status of Homemakers in Texas", based on laws in effect in the state in February 1977, was written by State Rep. Sarah Weddington of Austin and published by the National Commission on the Observance of IWY.

"If the homemaker's personal security, rights and responsibilities are strengthened, the partnership into which she has entered will also profit from that strength," the study said.

The report was requested by the National IWY Commission's Homemaker Committee, chaired by former Michigan Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, and prepared under contract with the Center for Women Policy Studies of Washington, D.C.

"The woman who examines these problems can plan her life in a way to avert tragedy or minimize its consequences," the booklet-form report said. "More important, identifying the problems may eventually result in changes necessary to ensure that the role of homemaker does not leave the woman who chooses that role at a disadvantage."

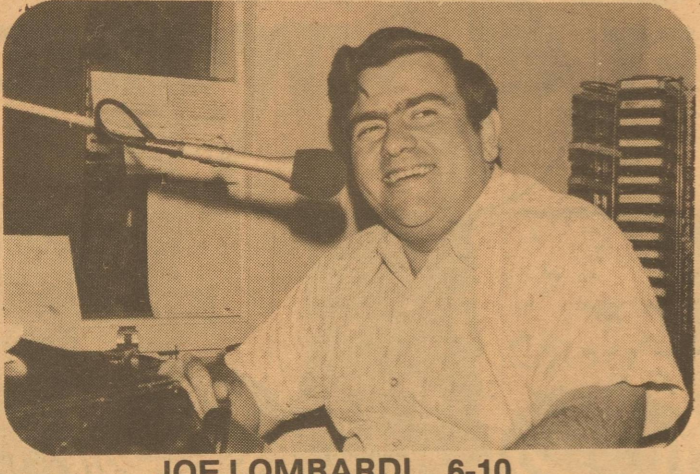

Some findings of the report:

- Texas courts provide no real enforceable remedy in cases where the husband is lazy or an alcoholic or a gambler, or who abandons the family, or fails to support it.
- Of the 5,277,500 people employed outside the home in Texas, 1,982,200 (38 per cent) are women. A majority of women work because of economic need: Three-fifths are single, widowed, divorced, separated or have husbands whose earnings are less than $7,000.
- In Texas a husband by law cannot be found guilty of raping his wife, and no real remedy has been found for the growing number of instances of wife battering.
- Even if a husband is ordered to make child support payments, those payments may be too small to cover even half of the actual expenses a wife may encounter. She may receive the payments irregularly, if at all. Texas law does not allow garnishment of military pay and retirement. Hence, Texas wives cannot benefit from the new Federal law permitting garnishment "as provided by state law."
- Texas law does not provide permanent alimony or maintenance.
- Many women who are widowed are left destitute, alone and without any substantial earning capacity.

The booklet will be available free at the Texas Women's Meeting June 24-26 at The University of Texas in Austin. The Meeting, sponsored by the Texas IWY Committee, is one of 56 state and territorial meetings throughout the U.S. authorized by Congress to evaluate the status of women. The meetings will culminate in the National Women's Conference in Houston Nov. 18-21.

The booklet is also available through the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C.

JUST JOGGIN' ALONG!

By Express News
Publisher, ED MEADOR

In case anyone had doubts that Summer was at hand, this week should have put them all aside. Clouds of any nature were hard to come by, and any you could get under turned into a welcome umbrella. But the combination of that lazy, hot old Sun and the previous moisture is working its magic, and cotton is popping, maize is jumping, and bales of hay appear all over the place. It all spells a lot of work for a lot of people, but around this area, that seems to be the name of the game.

There is just one thing about farming and ranching...you do it right or you just don't win the battle. It's quite a contrast to the way some of our people do their work these days. Time was when most everyone took a lot of pride in the work they did, and got to the point where they felt that they excelled in their endeavors. What was produced for the consumer was good, solid and generally worth the price asked for. That doesn't seem to be the case any longer, and that's why ever so often someone comes up with the statement concerning some particular product that "they just don't make 'em like that anymore!"

Guess we'll all have to admit that leisure-seeking seems to have taken first place in our society. Hard work, craftsmanship and the pride of accomplishment are running a poor race these days. Take heart though, for the old pendulum will swing, and like long hair and fuzzy faces, present day attitudes will change, and the American people will get things back on the track.

Know what? One of these mornings you're gonna' wake up and there's going to be a special smell to the grass and a special feel in the air, and all of a sudden you're gonna' think...FOOTBALL! Yes sir, the old year is rolling right along, and although we just got finished with pro basketball, and baseball seems to be holding forth on top of the sports heap right now, you can bet your next paycheck that a log of plans and efforts are underway right now looking forward to the day those pigskins come rolling out of the locker rooms, and Old Man Football will mount his throne once more.

In the meantime, there's still room for a lot of vacations, fishing trips, and all the things that you're supposed to get done in the good old Summer time. One nice thing...since it's what is referred to as "off-year", we won't have to put up with a lot of political campaigns. But like the plans for football, there's a lot going on, and if you plan to have any say in what happens to our future, better stay in the game. As much as we might like to forget it all, the political game seems to be the most important one we play. So have your summer fun, but pay attention to what's going on around you. If you do, you won't find yourself in the position of the young American soldier depicted in the closing scenes of "The Longest Day" shown this week on TV in commemoration of D-Day, June 6th, 1944...a dead German soldier, a dying British airman, and the American listening to the sounds of the battle as it wore into the evening of that longest day, and muttering...."I wonder who won."

Ornamentals becoming popular house plants

According to Ohio researchers, container grown ornamentals have become a popular way to grow plants in the nursery and to plant in the home grounds. These plants can be transplanted anytime during the growing season from early spring to late fall, but require proper planting and watering practices for success.

There is a difference between container-type plants. Container-grown refers to a plant started as a seedling, rooted cutting, or graft and grown to a marketable size in a small volume of potting soil. These plants have grown long enough in the container for a great number of roots to form and grow out to the edge of the container.

Field-potted plants are dug with a soil ball and put into a container rather than burlapped. Another type is the potted container where bare-root roses, trees, or shrubs are planted into a container. The transplant risk is greater with the potted container plant than the container-grown or field-potted plant.

Disturb roots. The container grown plant requires more care and attention in transplanting to encourage roots to grow into the new soil environment. When bare-root or balled-and-burlapped trees and shrubs are dug, many of their roots are cut and new root growth is stimulated behind the cut root ends. This hastens the growth of new roots into the surrounding soil and establishment of the plant. With container-grown plants, this may not happen as the roots are seldom disturbed or cut when removed from the container.

Before planting and after removing the plant from the container, examine the root system to determine if the roots have formed a heavy mass around the outside surface. If there is a heavy matting of roots, they should be loosened, cut or broken apart. When the roots cannot be loosened, make four or five cuts from top to bottom with a sharp knife down the sides of the root mass. Then fray out the roots with your fingers to extend the roots out into the new surrounding space of the hole.

The Hill Country Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts held an area meeting Monday at the Y.O. Ranch at Mountain Home, Texas.

Those attending from the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District were director Voy Lee Butts and his wife Mary Lee, and director Steve Williams and his wife Ilsa. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Mobley, Freddie Williams, Megan Smith and De Lux.

The meeting was held to help the directors be aware of the wildlife potential in their districts and how to best develop it.

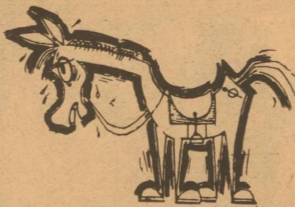

The meeting was started with a tour of the Y.O. Ranch. Many species of animals were seen such as ostriches, zebras, black buck antelope, mouflan, barbados, axis deer and syka deer.

The tour was followed by a barbecue lunch and talks by Joe Antilley of the State Soil and Water Conservation District Board and Kenneth Kuykendall, President of the Texas Association Soil and Water Conservation Districts. The highlight of the talks was about legislative actions affecting farmers and ranchers during the past session of the legislature.

Plan now for fall landscape color

Prior planning can mean a brightly colored landscape this fall, says an authority in landscaping.

"Four popular plants are well-known for their fall brilliance," points out Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They are the chrysanthemum, candle tree, copper plant and Joseph's coat. Each has advantages and distinctions all its own; all have beauty and eye-pleasing color."

The chrysanthemum--simply called a mum--is considered the queen of fall flowers. The plants, generally from 12 to 24 inches tall, burst forth with colorful blooms. Mums require a well-drained soil with ample water and fertilizer. Use a high phosphorus fertilizer, such as 5-15-10, at the rate of two pounds per 100 square feet. Mums should be transplanted by June or early July. Keep terminal buds pinched through July to promote side branching and more flowers.

The candle tree boasts showy yellow flowers. These fall blooming plants are best used as backgrounds for wide flower beds. They also have attractive foliage over their height of four to six feet. Candle trees prefer rich, moist soil and should be fertilized each month with a complete fertilizer. A fertilizer with the analysis of 5-15-10 at the rate of two pounds per 100 square feet of soil surface works well although any balanced fertilizer should give a good response.

Copper plants are attractive in summer as well as fall. The bronze foliage, the main reason it is grown, combines well with fall flowers. While they can grow much larger, copper plants normally grow 15 to 30 inches tall in moist, fertile soil. Copper plants do well with similar amounts of fertilizer as used with candle trees and mums.

Joseph's coat, available in several varieties, is famous for its colors of red, orange, green and yellow. Usually under 15 inches tall, this native of Brazil is most commonly used as a low spreading border. Joseph's coat also flourishes in a moist, well-fertilized soil and prefers a complete and balanced fertilizer.

"Whatever plants you choose to brighten your fall landscape, advance planning is important for an abundance of color," says Welch.

Miss Suzan Gayle Thornton and Stephen Bryan Wilson were united in marriage in the First Presbyterian Church of Eldorado on Saturday, June 4, at 10:30 in the morning. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thornton and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson.

Reverend Keith Wyatt, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Music was provided by Miss Carolyn Page of Eldorado.

Maid of Honor was Miss Wally Joiner and flower girl was Miss Heather Wilson of San Angelo, niece of the groom.

Best man was Mr. Jody Shields of El Paso. Ushers were Mark Thornton, brother of the bride and Wayne Joiner.

The reception following the wedding was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. John Williams.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Eldorado High School and a senior Special Education major at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

The bridegroom is a 1972 graduate of Lakeview High School in San Angelo and a 1977 graduate of SWTSU in San Marcos. He is presently employed by the Seguin Police Dept.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will live in Seguin.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson at the El Dorado Restaurant.

Small budget meals require planning

Vacation meals with a small "budget bite" depend on a little preplanning in proper storage and equipment, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Always remember to keep cold foods cold, hot foods hot, and refrigerate leftovers to prevent food poisoning.

Basic equipment includes a large airtight cooler, folding grill or other heat source, disposable plates and cups, resealable storage bags, aluminum foil, small kettle and pan, she said.

Miss Haggard is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her "small-budget" menus start with tap or heated water-to create instant beverages, such as tea, fruit drinks, cocoa and coffee.

A WORD FROM OUR MAYOR

Your city government is in the process of making preparation to do repair work and possibly re-pave some of our streets this summer. Letters of "Invitation to Bid" have been sent and notices published in regard to the purchase of a small maintainer (road grader), a late model, low mileage dump truck, and a farm type tractor with a small front-end loader (to be used on light jobs and to pull the mower.)

In the June meeting, the council will discuss the possibility of purchasing a "Fogging Machine" to help control flies and mosquitos. We appreciate the time and efforts of the fire department in their efforts to try to control mosquitos. However, your mayor is of the conviction that a "Fogging Machine" would be more effective and would require less manpower to operate and less dollars spent on insecticides.

All of this added equipment will cost us money. Fortunately, our city has a surplus of capital thus allowing us to pay cash for the equipment we anticipate buying. We are in no hurry. We intend to make the best purchases possible. Your support is greatly appreciated.

When music is in your heart, everyone can Teele!

FOND MEMORIES -- Mrs. Oliver Teele holds a 1965 Talon from Eldorado High School which was dedicated to her. She taught music 15 years in the EHS school after teaching 12 years at Texon. She was mentioned in the Reagan County History and in the Texon Homecoming Yearbook released Sunday during the annual Texon Homecoming.

Teaching music has been a way of life for Irene Potter Teele, a retired music teacher, who could tell you many a tale about students in both the Texon and Eldorado school systems.

Although Mrs. Teele has had to give up playing musical instruments because of failing eyesight and painful arthritis, her memories of days filled with music students are still vivid. Many of those memories came to life Sunday when she and her husband, Oliver, attended the annual Texon homecoming in Big Lake.

Mrs. Teele, who was the only teacher mentioned in the homecoming yearbook, went to Texon in 1928 to teach music at the grade school. She organized a harmonica and accordion band. Band members wore cowboy suits complete with chaps made out of oil cloth. The rhythm band she organized also looked sharp in blue and white uniforms.

"We went to lots of other towns to perform," she remembers, "and every spring we performed over KGKL Radio in San Angelo."

The groups became so popular that "the oil company executives from Virginia would plan their yearly trips to Texon over Christmas so they could hear our operetta. They said that was the best they heard anywhere."

The harmonica band joined the Federated Music Club and won first place in district competition in San Angelo in 1933. It went on to take state honors as well. Her choir students won first place in Interscholastic League District competition the same year.

"The oil company offered to send us to the national contest, but I wouldn't do it. It was too far away and there were too many children," she said. One of her fondest memories concerns a trip she took with two other teachers and 100 students. The group went to Dallas by train for the Texas Centennial celebration. Students were instructed not to eat their packed lunches until after they passed San Angelo. "But do you know that every one of them had eaten their lunch by the time we got to San Angelo? We sure had a lot of hungry kids by the time we got to Dallas," she laughed.

The harmonica band featured from eight to ten accordions and numbered over 30. It also featured tap dancers, soft shoe dancers and several vocalists.

High school students were bused from Texon to Big Lake for school. She was asked to teach band to seventh grade students at the camp school so that they could join the high school band. According to the Texon yearbook, "Her pupils from Texon were the basis for the first band at Reagan County High School."

"They called me the mama of the Reagan County Band," she said. Mrs. Teele remembers Texon as a "clean, well kept place" where no one was allowed to spend the night unless he was visiting someone or connected with the oil business.

She and her husband left Texon in 1940, moving to Schleicher County to ranch. She resumed teaching in 1952 for the Eldorado school system. She taught here 15 years, organizing the Junior High and High School choral programs, in addition to supervising the grade school music program.

As many of her former students remember, "We took the grade school students to Sonora and then they could come here, in kind of a trade-out deal," she said.

Several of her students competed in state solo, trio and quartet competition. At one time, she had a group of EHS students who brought home 26 first place wins in district competition.

She regrets that students are not more interested in music, stating "I always told my students that your voice is a musical instrument in itself and you can always carry it around."

Several of her music students have continued their interest in the music field. In fact, some of her former students include a band director, a music director, for Billy Graham, music teachers and several who perform for local functions. One student plays professionally for dinner clubs and country clubs.

Mrs. Teele said that during the homecoming, one of her former students was talking to her and she asked him if he still knew how to play his harmonica. He quickly replied, "Oh, yes, Teele or who has been in her music class can agree with the Texon homecoming article. It says, "She gave her pupils a knowledge and a love of music which is invaluable, and ma'am, I sure do, but I forgot to bring it with me." Anyone who knows Irene inspired them to develop qualities of perseverance and determination."

The truck was reported missing early June 1 and was found on the west side of San Antonio June 3, according to Sheriff Orval Edmiston.

Don Nicholson, district supervisor for the Western

He said the truck is in San Angelo now for extensive repairs costing the company about $1,000.
