Something To Think About

By JANNETTE WILKERSON

TORTURE TABLE

If I had a choice between having a coffee table and an electric chair in the living room, I'd have to go with the "hot seat." It couldn't possibly be more dangerous. The coffee table in our house is a weapon. It's never had a cup of coffee on it, because there's no room. Everything else is there — car keys, fly swatter, newspaper, coloring book, and assorted objects that range in importance from loose change to a jar of red ants. In fact the only thing that distinguishes it from a pile of junk are the blood stains on the corners. Each member of the family is permanently scarred from the knees down by the coffee table.

For some reason, it's also a shoe magnet. The kids walk in the front door, go straight to the coffee table and slide their shoes under it. So naturally, whenever a horn honker outside, they run over to the coffee table, crease their shins and limp out the door.

I believe people are judged by their coffee table. If someone has a neat coffee table with a pretty floral arrangement in the center of it, they probably have at least one messy closet.

If a coffee table has three rounded corners, they probably have a two year old with a toy hammer. If a coffee table has carefully placed magazines on one end and wilting ivy on the other, they probably have a teenage son that dips snuff and props his feet up, with his boots on.

So you see your coffee table can reveal a lot about you. If you don't have a coffee table, you're probably a borderline genius.

Sometimes I think having a coffee table is something like having a death wish. But, I don't know what I'd do without it. I'd even defend it. When someone mentions the purple bruises on my shins, I tell them my skate board ran under a truck — and that's something to think about this week.

Schleicher County Rancher Named 'Man Of The Year'

Jimmie Powell of Eldorado, a prominent West Texas rancher who has been a leader in carrying on extensive educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has been named a "Man of the Year in Texas Agriculture" for 1978 by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

One of seven Texans selected for the honor, Powell was nominated by county agents in District 7 (West Central Texas) of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The awards are presented annually to outstanding leaders in agriculture and related industries, said Calhoun County Extension Agent Gilbert Heideman, president of the state county agents association.

Powell will receive his award during the state association annual meeting, Aug. 6-9, in Lufkin.

The Powell Ranch has been the site of numerous result demonstrations conducted by the extension service over the past seven years. A demonstration on forage quality begun in 1971 opened the doors to effective use of supplemental feeds and minerals in the Texas Hill Country.

Powell has also incorporated his forage demonstration into a total demonstration in sheep, goat and cattle management which is providing yearly results on more efficient and effective production methods and techniques.

Going back a few years, a short duration grazing system was begun on the Powell Ranch in 1965 that has been effective in improving overall range conditions. In 1962 a range fertilization demonstration was set up on the ranch with the assistance of TVA (Tennessee Valley Authority) personnel to study fertilization costs and returns.

The Powell Ranch has hosted numerous range tours and classes on range management. One such tour last September attracted more than 1,100 people.

Powell has held numerous leader-

Two Teachers Hired During Board Meet

Two new teachers were hired during the monthly meeting of the Schleicher County School board Monday night. They are Betty Lou Kessler Robinson and Maureen McCravy Hodges.

Mrs. Robinson will be teaching special education in the elementary school. She is a graduate of Barnhart High School and Angelo State University where she received her bachelor of science degree this year. She has helped teach in the Christoval kindergarten program.

Mrs. Hodges is a graduate of Eldorado High School and ASU. She has been teaching seven years at high school in Ralls, Killeen, Lamesa, Villa Rosa, and Pearsall.

The school board also discussed filling the vacancy of high school principal, as Robert Jay will be returning to the classroom after serving as principal several years. The board advised superintendent Guy Whitaker to screen the several applicants and present their applica-

For New Jail

Court Hires Architects

Schleicher County Commissioners hired an architectural firm to begin plans for the new county jail during a day long meeting Monday. Atkinson, Atkinson and Associates of Lubbock will begin plans for the jail and then present them to the court.

The plans will have to be approved by the court and the Texas Jail Commission. After that, a price will be set for final construction.

Representatives from four different firms met with commissioners during the afternoon and then met with them individually. County judge Bob McWhorter told the group the court was "thinking in terms of a complete new plant."

One representative told the court that jail construction was the single most expensive construction. All advised the court to "get rolling with its plans by first determining what the future needs of the jail will be and then to plan a program for funding.

Sheriff Orval Edmiston told the court and the architects that most of the jails being built now were one story facilities without live in quarters.

Also appearing before the board were Ira Purdy and Janie Parker, of the department of Human Resources in San Angelo who asked the court to establish a child welfare board in Eldorado.

They explained that if a child is taken from its parents, and then requires medical treatment, the county is responsible for medical expenses, unless the county has a child welfare board. If the county has a board, the child is automatically covered by the state medicare program.

He said the board would function to support the program, determine policy on the county level, set up workshops and provide other services for the welfare of children in this county. He said the board would not do case work or act as an agency or judge.

Before a board can be established in any county, a contract must be drawn. A contract is being drawn to be approved by the court. They will meet with representatives of the department in two weeks.

If the contract is agreed upon, the county will be making two commitments. First of all, it will be paying for foster care for all children taken into custody ($5 daily) and second, it will not budget less funds for child welfare than were set aside the year before.

The board will be composed of seven to 15 members which are appointed by the court.

The two representatives said this county has had three cases of child abuse in the past 12 months, and two cases of child neglect.

Attending the meeting were incoming judge Johnny Griffin and incoming commissioner Holvey Enochs. All commissioners, Joe Christian, Dave Meador, Richard Jones and Gene McCalla, were present.

Canning Workshop

Homemakers who want to can vegetables now have their chance to learn.

A food preservation workshop will be at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the home-making department of the high school.

Participants will be canning green beans, apples and tomatoes. The workshop is open to the public at no charge.

Those planning to attend should bring a pressure canner, water bath canner, three standard canning jars with lids and rings, enough green beans, apples and tomatoes to can at least a pint of each, pot holders, paring knife, a cup towel and a small saucepan.

A pressure canner and water bath canner will be available to those who do not have them and still want to participate.

For further information, contact the county extension office.

Dogs, Runway, Water Discussed By Council

Stray dogs, airport repairs and low water pressure were the problems discussed during the Eldorado City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Rosa Burrus appeared before the council to discuss the problem of numerous stray dogs in the city. Alderman Jimmy Doyle asked her to get a group of persons interested in creating a humane society and have them appear before the council at the next meeting.

Howard Derrick discussed airport repairs with the council. He told the council activities at the airport had increased during the recent years, and it needed repairs quickly.

The council members told him the city had agreed to do the work, but were waiting on a final decision from the county. The city and county have worked together on the runway in recent years.

The council also discussed the problem of low water pressure. Councilmen explained that one of the three wells in the city had not been used for a while. The pump on the well had been pulled so it could be repaired. Meanwhile, the well had been checked, acidized and tested. It registered 375 gallons per minute. The pump for the well needs repairing before it can be replaced, which will take at least two weeks.

The well at the airport has also been down, but is now back in operation.

The council voted to send a member of the fire department to school this summer. The county and the fire department are also sponsoring one man each.

Vida Mercer, councilman, reminded the council the city had purchased five lots in Block L to use as storage purposes.

In the absence of the Mayor Pat Ragsdale and alderman Bobby Sykes, the council decided to table a decision on choosing another alderman to fill a vacancy left by Jim McWilliams, who resigned.

Present were aldermen Doyle, Mrs. Mercer and Billy McCravy.

Social Security Sets Local Visit

Garland Gregg, representative for the San Angelo Social Security Office, has scheduled his visit to Eldorado. He will be at the fire station on Thursday, July 20th between 1:00 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact him at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.

Christoval Hall Of Fame Is Pride Of 'Dub' Adams

August 26 will be a special day for C.W. 'Dub' Adams because that is the day one of his dreams will come true. Adams, who has been in the cattle business all of his life, will be opening the Cattlebreeders Hall of Fame in Christoval that day.

During the ceremonies, the first members of the Hall of Fame will be inducted. They include such well known personalities such as Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Bob Krueger, senatorial candidate, Bill Clayton; Jerry Lackey of San Angelo, agricultural editor of the San Angelo Standard Times; Foster Sims Price of Sterling City and Holvey Enochs of Eldorado.

About 200 of the top cattle breeders from Texas will be present and about 40 will be inducted during that time. In future years, only one man per breed from each state will be added each year.

The museum portion is composed of donated or loaned items from cattlebreeders. Adams has moved his entire office to Christoval just to handle over 1,000 pieces of mail he receives each week.

He has published the state edition of the American Cattlebreeders Hall of Fame book, which is already considered a collector's item. The museum will carry the present and future books published by the Cattlebreeders series and those of three other authors. Some western art and sculpture will be displayed for sale in the museum building.

Adams himself has been an outstanding contribution to the cattle business.

Born in 1919 in Comstock, he has lived on ranches on the Pecos River at Langtry, on the Devils River, Marathon and Marfa.

He imported six of the first 20 Charolais cattle to Harriett in Tom Green County from Mexico. "I was in the first 100 named as a charter member of the Charolais International Association," he says.

In 1970, Dub developed a breed named Char-Swiss and was partner with Tom Massey in both Tom Green and Schleicher counties. In 1977, they were operating four ranches in Schleicher County with 400 mother cows.

In 1975, Adams was awarded a citation from the Texas House of Representatives for achievement in the cattle breeding business.

Now a Christoval resident, Adams also made a contribution to the music business. During World War II, he and his family lived at Marfa. One of his jobs was to haul fence posts, fence material, pipeline and other items down a rim by burro. During that time, he wrote a song "Send Me Back my Broken Heart," which was later released.

He formed a band, the K Bar Ranch Hands, which played in Christoval many times. Adams had 36 masters recorded and had eight releases.

He remembers some tough times, such as when the family "drove all our stock in the lane and walked from the ranch on the Devils River to Marathon." At Marfa, the family had no house for two years and lived "beside a dagger plant, cooking on the side with the shade morning and evening." He finally tore down trusses from the railroad to build a five room house for his mother.

Adams had dreamed of a Cattlebreeders Hall of Fame for many years. When he became ill with cancer, he began formalizing his plans. While in the recovery room of Shannon Hospital, he called Jerry Lackey of the San Angelo Standard-Times and began the process of establishing a museum.

Now those dreams will be a reality August 26.

Nursing Home News

Last week the home was very sad because of the death of one of our dear residents, Carrie Blakeway. We surely miss her. She was a sweet person.

I made an error in this column last week in regard to the church that conducted the service here on Sunday of that week. I said that for some reason, the pastor of the United Pentecostal Church was asked to conduct the service that Sunday which was the Sunday that the Primitive Baptist Church conducts the service. I should have said it was the Sunday for the Antioch Baptist to conduct the service.

The Primitive Baptist Church had the service last Sunday and we had a good number from their church who came to the service. Next Sunday is the one for the St. Luke Missionary Baptist to have the service and as I said in this column last week, I hope their pastor, who lives in San Angelo, can be here and a good number of their members are usually here for the service.

Recently, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kent, who used to live in Eldorado, and were practically reared here, brought a large amount of fresh catfish, which they had caught, to the nursing home and our good kitchen crew cooked and served them to us last Friday. We all appreciate what the Kents did for us very much and heartily thank them for it.

For many months Ronnie Sauer and Lum Davis have come to the nursing home and hospital late every Monday evening and Bess Andrews and yours truly join them in the dining room, with Bess at the piano, and sing a number of old familiar hymns. We enjoy it very much, but we need some more voices to help us, so anyone out in town, who loves to sing, would surely be welcome to come about seven o'clock any Monday evening and sing with us.

Bingo winners last Wednesday were: Lizzie McCalla,1; Erna Rexroat,2; Bess Andrews,2; Frank Reed,1; Urel Holland,1; Beulah Harris,1; Elva Daniels, and Lester Garrett,1.

On Friday winners were: Bess Andrews,2; Beulah Harris,2; Dehlia Gardenier,

1; Fred Gunstead,1; Lester Garrett,2; Fannie Blaylock, 2 and Frank Reed,1.

We had several visitors last week. Mrs. B.D. McAngus, Judy and Jennifer Smith of Marshall, Texas visited Lizzie McAngus last week. Lizzie McAngus is a grandmother, a great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother. Isn't that wonderful. Her daughter-in-law, Ethel McAngus, of San Angelo, visited her also.

Ruth Aileen Nicks of Sonora came by to see her Aunt Georgia Springstun. Mrs. Yolanda Duran, Eddie Hernandez and John David Duran visited Mrs. Rafela Tambunga last week. Also, P. Roming Juanita G. Perez, Pepie G. and Manuel G. Perez.

Things have changed since the days of Christopher Columbus. Columbus headed for India and wound up in Santo Domingo. Today, you head for India, you get to India. It is your luggage that winds up in Santo Domingo.

County Reporting Screwworm

Schleicher County has reported its two first cases of screwworms this year, according to Jerry Swift, county extension agent for agriculture.

The first case was found on the Robert Parker ranch two miles north of Eldorado. It was found on a sheep with a cut June 24.

The second was found on the Thomas R. Ranch, three miles north on the San Angelo highway. It was found on a sheep June 28.

This county is among 24 counties in west-central Texas recording their first 1978 screwworm cases this month.

There are currently known 121 cases from 35 counties compared to 30 cases in June of last year.

One temporary sterile fly distribution center has been set up at San Angelo and another at Alpine. Sterile flies are released from aircraft among known populations of wild flies. Any eggs produced as the result of a sterile mating will not hatch, ending the life cycle.

From The Horses Mouth

Don't Forget Casebearer

As most of you are aware, we timed our first control applications for pecan nut casebearer at exactly the right time. We also got excellent control of this pest using the materials recommended in the "Pecan Nut Casebearer" special edition of this newsletter. Let's don't rest on our laurels though, because every pecan tree in our area was not sprayed. This means the second generation of this pest could be a severely damaging pest.

Second generation casebearers damage pecans in the same manner as the first generation. They feed on the developing nutlets. We control them in the same manner as their preceding generation. As previously mentioned, in almost every newsletter, timing is of utmost importance! Control applications should be made 42-45 days after the first generation applications. That means July 10 through July 20 should be the time to control them.

Before you decide to spray them, consider your situation. Look for damage or casebearer eggs. Did your neighbor spray for them? Is he going to? Do you have a good crop to protect? Is it really worth it? Can you do it safely? Do you really know what you are doing? If after consideration of these questions you think you better do it, then get after it. But be sure its timed right and done with safety in mind.

Know How To Water

This may sound like a silly question but many homeowners do not know how to water. The proper way to water your lawn and/or shrubs is to water long and deep. This encourages deep thorough root growth. An aid in these times of stress. Some people water their lawns in the morning before going to work. This is a mistake! Light waterings, even frequent light waterings encourage shallow root development and that is not good during times of stress.

Spider Mites Run Rampant

They are still with us! Spider mites just love the heat and dry weather. Kelthane and Sulphur remain the materials of choice for controlling these tiny but damaging critters. Characteristic symptoms of spider mite damage consist of the fairly rapid "drying-out" of the leaves on your plants. The "drying-out" starts at the bottom of the plant and moves upward. There may also be fine, silky webbing on the undersides of leaves. The mites themselves look like tiny dirt particles. They move about slowly, but reproduce rapidly. Don't let them get ahead of you during this period when most plants are suffering other stresses too.

White Grubs In Lawns

May or June beetles are emerging from the soil and starting to swarm late in the evening. The females are laying eggs and the white grub worms that hatch will soon be feeding on the roots of bermuda grass and St. Augustine grass in home lawns. Once the grubs begin feeding, control measures should be taken.

Treatment time varies with the particular area of the state and ranges from early July in South Texas to Mid-August in the Panhandle. Homeowners in Schleicher County will need to treat between July and August. Timing of application is critical for adequate control.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining all of the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for each 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod.

Diazinon offers adequate control and should be used at the recommended rates given on the chemical container label. The granular form is easier to apply and easier to wash into the soil than the liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the grass with a tow sack or water hose to knock the granules down to the soil. Then apply enough water to soak the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spray application also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing on chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where the grubs are feeding.

Further information is provided in the publication, "White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass" which is available at the county Extension office.

Local opinions on items in the news.

Question—What is your opinion of the president's plan to import more beef?

Andy Allen, rancher: When the cattle number dropped naturally the price went up; so we could make a profit. Importing cattle drops the prices approximately 5-7c per pound and puts us right back in a bind.

Sid Shipley, farmer: Gosh, dang! It's just competition for the meat we're raising ourselves. No sense in the world since we have plenty of our own.

Jake Butler, owner of Butler's Riteway Gro.: I think we ought to buy our beef at home and keep our money here and circulating. We don't know the sanitary condition of the meat being processed over there, either.

Larry Burruss, owner All In One Stop: I don't think we ought to import anything we already have enough of ourselves.

Ann Rogers, housewife: I'm not in favor of importing beef, because they are buying our cattle and fattening them, using cheap labor and selling it back to us. This is just more government regulations and will cause more unemployment in the long run.

Alien Found Dead

An illegal alien was found dead on the Joe Bacon Ranch early Sunday morning. He was found by another alien, Maximino Vega Franco.

The dead man was Alfonso Contreras Trejo, 33. Both men are from Zimapan, Hidalgo, Mexico.

Franco told authorities that the two men had been working on a ranch and decided to move. They walked up to a windmill on the Bacon Ranch. Trejo told him he did not feel well and drank a large amount of water. Then the two men bedded down for the night.

Authorities from Sutton County investigated the incident first, as it was believed to be in that county. However, they later realized the windmill was barely in Schleicher County. Law officers called for an autopsy which was performed in San Angelo.

According to the report, the man died of natural causes.

Youngsters Suffer

Children under 15 are involved in about 20 percent of the nearly 57,000 lawn-mowing mishaps that occur each year. Children should be kept away from mowing operations, and teenagers should understand that mowers are "cutting machines," cautions the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Just Jogging Along

By ED MEADOR

We've got the darndest gardener in our end of town you have ever seen. Doesn't take any pay, works all hours of the night, and only complains when some neighborhood dogs get a little too close.

He's excellent at getting rid of yard pests, especially grubworms.

He goes about his job without any noise or complaints, and really stays with it. You just don't find dedicated workers like that any more. Hope you'll be particularly careful as you drive down our streets at night for his black and white striped suit is a little hard to detect, and it's often necessary for him to cross the street as he goes from yard to yard doing his chores.

In case you need your yard grubbed, I'll see if the proper arrangements can be made.

It's time we turned attention once more to the up-coming elections in November. The campaigns will gain momentum from here on out, and there's still time to learn all you can about the particular candidates.

In the race for 21st congressional district representative, Tom Loeffler of Mason is making a strong bid for Congressman Bob Krueger's seat. Tom is a local West Texas, has had considerable experience in Washington already, and is certainly cognizant of the problems of this West Texas area. In addition, he knows the people of his district. A lot of Schleicher County people were certainly impressed with Tom's ideas and expressions as they visited with him at the coffee held yesterday morning at the Eldorado Restaurant.

John Tower represents the best possible choice in the Senatorial race, and Texas can ill-afford to lose the seniority and direction that Tower has been able to achieve in that office these past years. Tower's aggressive determination has stood us in good stead many times in the past, and it would certainly be unwise to turn away from that type of leadership. Past performance shows that you won't find Tower talking out of both sides of his mouth at the same time.

Don't forget that this column represents my own personal views, and doesn't necessarily represent those of the Leader or its owner or publisher. But my views are expressed in the hope that you will think on these matters that are so important to the future of us all. No longer can we sit idly by and let someone else think for us or do our political processes. The responsibility rests squarely on our shoulders, and if we are to make this a better country we must shoulder that responsibility.

Kindness and consideration do have value. With that in mind, have a nice day, stay out of the sun if you can. With temperatures like we've had lately, it's easy to understand why that general so long ago was convinced that if he had a choice, he'd take Hell and give Texas back to the Indians. Seems he was a yankee at the time. Not so with our present-day yankees. Like all good Texans, they can take the heat too.
