BASKING IN THE SUN — Two feline residents of Eldorado got a touch of spring fever Sunday afternoon as they climbed into a tree and basked in the sun. Perhaps they were trying to get a head start on a sun tan or else they thought the higher up they got, the warmer it would be. Anyway, they and everyone else thoroughly enjoyed the sunshine that followed one of the worst winters here in a long time.

John Wimberly Joining SCS

John Wimberly has been appointed to join the staff of the Soil Conservation Service in Eldorado.

Wimberly, a range conservationist, transferred to Eldorado after working over a year at the Sweetwater Field Office. He has also worked at the Hondo Field office.

A native of Littlefield, Wimberly graduated from Texas Tech University in December of 1977 with a bachelor of science degree in range management. While at Texas Tech, he was a member of three national champion plant identification teams and placed second high individual twice and third individual once. He was also a member of the Range Management Club and Alpha Zeta Scholastic Honorary Fraternity.

In Eldorado, he will assist the Eldorado-Divide SCS district in helping farmers and ranchers plan and apply their conservation program. Other members of the local office are Freddie J. Williams and Johnny Mayo Jr.

With weather warming up, everyone wants to be outside, and all school children were looking forward to March 2 as it was set aside as a teacher's work day, which gave them a day off.

However, that day has now been scheduled as a makeup day for the one day students missed after Christmas vacation because of bad weather.

The decision was made during a special meeting of the school board Tuesday night.

200 Local Citizens Attend Hospital's Open House

About 200 persons attended the open hose at Schleicher County Medical Center Sunday. The open house, sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary, was to observe the opening of the center ten years ago.

Those attending were entertained by Rusty Meador, organist, who played a wide variety of selections. The center was decorated with many flower arrangements and several exhibits sent by local residents. Several staff members were present to explain the uses and purposes of three new pieces of equipment the center has recently obtained, a fetal monitor, a life pack monitor and blood gas analyzer. The life-pack monitor was given in memory of Phil Olson, who was instrumental in founding Schleicher County Emergency Service. Olson died in September. On Thursday of last week, the auxiliary received a telegram from Hilary Doran, former state representative for this district, who was

INDOOR LANDSCAPING In selecting plants for easy maintenance indoor, select only those that can endure the kind of light they will receive in your home.

Most indoor foliage plants have similar requirements. They want ample natural light from a north or east window location plus a light, well-drained soil. Foliage plants with brightly colored or variegated red, purple, cream and yellow leaves (like croton) generally require more light than those with green foliage (like the rubber plant). Artificial light may supplement daylight or be the sole source of light.

The following plants are fairly easy to grow in the home plus their light requirements:

Rubber plant - widely known and used as a houseplant; needs good light, but can exist in a poorly lighted situation for short periods.

Caddell Chosen For West Point

Jimmy Caddell, a student at Christoval High School, was selected to attend West Point in New York after competing in the Texas Science Symposium at Austin Feb. 14-16. He also received a $500 scholarship from the engineering department of the University of Texas.

Caddell was among six CHS students selected to participate in the symposium. There were 100 students in the state chosen to participate. Others from CHS were Renee Baker. Chris Barton, Todd Arthur, Marcus Herrera and Valerie McDonald.

Caddell and Miss Mc-Donald were selected among 12 students to give presentations at the symposium. Caddell was then one of five finalists chosen to go to West Point.

Fiddle leaf fig - Most sweet-tempered of all houseplants; love it, hate it, ignore it, still it thrives; needs good light.

Draceana — many varieties and types do well indoors; prefers indirect light of high intensity.

Dieffenbachia dumbcane - requires moderate light without direct sunlight. Chinese evergreen - does best in moderate to good light; easy to grow. Ferns — well adapted for growth at low light intensities; strong lighting can cause damage.

Screwpine - needs indirect light of high intensity, but keep it out of direct sunlight. Philodendron - will survive where lighting is dim, but does better in higher light intensities.

Sansevieria (Snake plant) - is tough; can be grown in adverse areas in the home where lighting is poor and humidity low; requires little water and cannot stand overwatering.

Pothos — commonly called "house ivy"; likes indirect light of high intensity, responds to artificial light.

Nephthytis — thrives on indirect light of either high or low intensity.

Jade plant - nearly indestructible; tolerates poor growing conditions, but does like plenty of light.

Peperomia - many interesting varieties; medium light; do not overwater; usually easy to grow; decorative. INDOOR GARDENING

If window space is limited in your home or apartment, try indoor gardening under artificial lights.

Fluorescent lamps provide an excellent source of light. They give off very little heat and can be placed near plants to provide high light intensities. The standard cool-light lamp is the most popular for growing plants; however, special bulbs are now available that have been designed to meet the plants' light requirements. For best results, you will need a fixture with at least two 40-watt tubes. Suspend the fixture over a bench or table not more than one foot above plant trays or flats. This will provide a sufficient light to produce top quality plants if they are lighted 14 to 16 hours per day. Two lamp fixtures, mounted side by side, will adequately light an area four feet by four feet. As plants grow, the light or bench height should be adjusted so there is always at least eight inches between the top of plants and the light tube.

If the growing area temperature remains between 60 and 75 degrees F., no additional heat may be needed. Control any supplemental heat with a thermostat to prevent overheat-

Many garden shops and hobby centers have units equipped with lights and trays for growing plants from seeds or cuttings.

Talon Yearbook

A group of interested students under supervision of Mrs. Geneva Leifester have been busy compiling the 1979 issue of the Eldorado High School Talon.

The year book has been increased to 144 pages this year and was aided financially by advertisements from local businesses. Most of the deadlines for the book have been met and the staff is now busy meeting the last of those deadlines.

The staff includes Janet Bradshaw, Rachel Fava and Kara Homer, co-editors; Paul Adams, Charlie Bradley, Rodney Sanders and Ed Willoughby, photographers and Torri Curry, Laura Gentry, Cindy Holsev, Stephani Thomas, Lori Patton, Judy Pitts, Shelly Squyres and Mitzi Mittel, staff members.

Harkey-Woodward Rite Is Held In Lampasas

Miss Kaye Francys Harkey became the bride of Bobby Dean Woodward in a double-ring ceremony in the Central Christian Church in Lampasas on Feb. 10. The Rev. Gary Dudder, pastor of the church, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. K.B. Hallmark, Jr. of Lampasas. The bride's father was the late Bennie Harkey of Eldorado and San Angelo. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Robert Woodward of Tulsa, Okla. and the late Mr. Woodward.

Charles Tucek, organist, played several selections including the traditional wedding march. Amy Tucek, soloist, sang "More" and "The Lord's Prayer.

The church was formally decorated with two heartshaped candlelabrum holding red jewelled candles entwined with white baby breath garlands in the baptistry. On the floor level were two spiral candlelabrum entwined in baby breath and holding jade foliage and tall red tapers. Completing the decorations were two arrangements of white stock, red tulips, red silk larkspurs, and white pom pom mums accented with ivory jade fans matching the bridemaids flowers on grecian pedestals.

For her wedding, the bride chose an empire gown of candlelight peau de soie and chiffon featuring full bishop sleeves. An A-line skirt, enhanced with alencon lace, featured a chapel train. The gown was accented with seed pearls. Her floor-length veil of illusion was held with a lace cap also accented with pearls. The bride's bouquet was a formal cascade of red roses, white gardenias, white stephenotis, and varigated English Ivy on a lace covered Bible.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Ronnie Williams of Alpine, matron of honor; Mrs. Harland Weis of Canyon and Miss Sami Proctor of Austin, all cousins of the bride. The attendants wore red quiana gowns featuring a soft blouson bodice, full length A-line shirt, and full chiffon sleeves. The bridesmaids carried Ivory jade fans accented with red hearts. On the fans were cascades of Ivory peonies and red forget-me-nots and white baby breath. They wore matching clusters of

Vursing Home News

As the old saying goes, the wonderful people of dear old Schleicher and surrounding counties literally put the "big pot in the little one" Sunday afternoon, when approximately two hundred of them attended the tenth anniversry of the Schleicher County Medical Center here in Eldorado.

Your truly was seated immediately in front of the entrance into the lobby and was privileged to see every person who came through the door, some of whom I had not seen in several years, and I thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it.

I am so proud of this wonderful hospital and nursing home and also, of course, of the two excellent doctors, the administrator, Miss Kroeger, the office crew, and staff of nurses and nurses aides, who carry on the many duties of the hospital and nursing home.

Again, I say, that we are so very fortunate since this is as small a town as it is, to have all of these fine personalities. I was so very pleased to see so many residents showing their appreciation of it all by attending the Tenth Anniversary Open House.

We appreciated the beautiful flower arrangements that were donated for the anniversary party, so very much, and we gratefully thank the donors.

Rusty Meador had brought his beautiful organ here and placed it beside the piano in the dining room. He played the organ throughout the afternoon. I love organ music but I didn't get to hear any of it, as I had to be seated in the lobby. We appreciate him doing that for us.

I have just received the information that Mrs. Otto Sauer is being admitted to the hospital here this morning, I am so sorry to hear that she is ill and I do sincerely hope and pray that she is going to be greatly improved and able to return to her room here in the nursing home soon.

So far as I know all of the other residents are doing as well as usual.

There were many visitors to the hospital and nursing home Sunday, but they were all just escorted through the building and had no time to stop and visit anyone, but I have a notice that Mrs. Grace Smith of San Angelo visited with Elva Daniels on Sunday, also that Robert Jodie Minnick of Dimmitt visited Bess Ratliff on Sunday.

On account of the anniversary party we had no church service Sunday afternoon. It was the Sunday for the Antioch Baptist Church to conduct the service, so I don't know whether that church will be here next Sunday or whether the St. Luke Missionary Baptist Church will conduct the service. We had the crowning of the Valentine King, George Kisselburg and runner-up Lester Garrett, the Oueen Bess Ratliff and runner-up Juanita Sanchez last week.

Mrs. Gene Stark came on Valentine Day and sang Valentine love songs to each of us. Some of them were from our friends and others were from our fam-
