Congressional Candidates Give Views On Major Election Issues

One of the most interesting races in this year's political arena is the one for the 21st District's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. Two young men are campaigning for the seat, which was formerly held by Bob Krueger, who is running against John Tower for the U.S. Senate.

The two men running for the office are Tom Loeffler of Kerrville and Nelson Wolff of San Antonio.

NELSON WOLFF

Wolff is the founder of Alamo Enterprises, a hardware and lumber business with eight locations in south Texas. He and his family now own and operate Alamo Ranches.

He served on the Texas House of Representatives from 1970-72 and was a member of the Appropriations Insurance and Oil and Gas Committees.

He served in the Texas Senate in 1972-73 and was on the education, state affairs and finance committee as vice chairman. He authored and passed several bills concerning elections, courts, senior citizens' employment, energy and conservation. In 1974, he was delegate of the convention planning committee and chairman of the submission and transition committee.

He received a degree in both business and law from St. Mary's University in San Antonio in 1966. He is married to the former Miss Melinda Rogers. They have four children, Kevin, 13; Lyn Marie, 8; Scott, 20 months and Matthew, four weeks, live in Leon Springs.

Following are some of Wolff's comments on the major issues:

Taxing and spending: A new approach to government spending and taxation is needed. We must first determine what portion of our income should be paid in taxes not only this year but in succeeding years. We must create a situation in which advocates of new federal programs must either call for higher taxes or cuts in other federal programs. I have recommended the next session of Congress act on a three year tax cut plan and then control federal spending in order that a balanced budget be reached by fiscal year 1982. The plan includes a $104 billion tax cut phased in over three years, a savings of $53 billion in the federal budget by cutting waste, inefficiency and fraud and reducing the number of regulations, and a constitutional amendment requiring Congress to balance the budget except in case of national emergency.

Defense: In view of the rapid Soviet military build-up in recent years, it is essential that we move quickly to modernize our conventional forces and our nuclear capabilities. NATO forces in Western Europe are outnumbered in personnel and weapons by the Soviet-led Warsaw pact nations. We must strengthen our front line defense in Western Europe. It is also essential that we maintain an effective Triad—a nuclear delivery system consisting of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, submarine-launched missiles and a strong bomber force. We must continue the modernization of our land-based missiles and the development of the cruise missile and the Trident submarine.

Agriculture: We must develop a national program that will insure long term economic stability for our farmers and ranchers and will preserve the traditional family farm and ranch. I strongly support the Bentzen Beef Import Bill that allows for greater importation when domestic production is down and decreased importation when domestic production is up. This countercyclical approach would stabilize meat prices and would be fair to both producer and consumer. We must also move to develop larger export markets and to reduce the importation of foreign beef by requiring the same standards of inspection as are applied to domestic beef. Finally, we must remove unreasonable restrictions and develop effective predator control measures.

Energy: I favor a comprehensive national energy policy encompassing the following points:

1) The price of natural gas should be deregulated to provide economic incentives for increased domestic production.

2) The federal government should not be given the authority to allocate natural gas from Texas to industry in other states.

3) The cost of developing our energy sources should be borne equally by the whole nation. The northern states should be required to develop oil and gas reserves off the Atlantic shelf.

4) A national commitment should be made to the development of alternative energy sources such as the sun, hydrogen and the fused atom.

The bureaucracy: I recommend the following measures be implemented to cut waste, inefficiency and fraud in the federal government and to reduce the number of federal regulations:

1) Comprehensive sunset legislation that would subject a program or an agency to periodic review and possible termination.

2) Welfare reform to eliminate See Candidates, Page 4

Deputy Resigns

Schleicher County deputy sheriff Ricky Bishop submitted his resignation to sheriff Orval Edmiston Wednesday morning, effective immediately.

Bishop will be moving to Ozona to work for an oil company. He has been deputy since September of 1977.

Edmiston said he did not have anyone in mind for the job. Applicants must be certified in law enforcement or attend a law enforcement school.

This places an added burden on the sheriff's department, as two patrolmen of the Department of Public Safety are not working here now. That leaves only two law enforcement officers in the town whereas there were five two months ago.

Lux Files For Office

De Lux, a local farmer, has filed as a write-in candidate for county commissioner of precinct 4.

Lux is opposing incumbent commissioner David Meador. Both of the men ran for the post during the May primary and were close enough to face each other in a runoff last June, which Meador won.

According to a new state law, write-in candidates must file with the county judge before their names can appear on voting ballots.

BACK TO ELDORADO AGAIN
...Coach Williamson and wife, Debbie, at barbecue

Coach Williamson Returns; Eagles Open District Play

The Eldorado Eagles begin district play Friday night against Mason and Coach Mike Williamson is back home.

The doctors told the coach he could forget about coaching this season, but Mike said no, he might miss a few games, but he wasn't going to be out the entire season. He will be on the field Friday night in a wheel chair or with his walker.

Williamson says the only reason he is back this soon is because of the prayers and the concern of the Eldorado people, adding "I am super glad to be back working with my kids."

He says the kids have real good attitudes and have responded well to anything he has asked them to do. They've been working real hard this past week to cut down on a few of their mistakes.

"The coaching staff did a good job," he said. "They had to make a lot of tough adjustments so they could cover my job as well as theirs in my absence."

About the district opener against Mason Williamson said, "Mason has a talented quarterback in Danny Abbott who is a real team leader and a good athlete."

"The Punter team runs out of a very, very multiple offense led by the quarterback and two outstanding running backs who are quick thinking and have excellent speed."

Eldorado's first district game begins at 7:30 p.m. at Mason.

Amendments Are Explained

Not only will Schleicher County voters be faced with deciding on a wide array of candidates for the Nov. 7 election, they will also be faced with voting for or against nine proposed constitutional amendments to the Texas State Constitution.

The first amendment to appear on the ballot, although not numbered as such, is "The Tax Relief Amendment." This amendment would allow the Legislature to exempt intangible property and personal property from taxation.

Also, it would tax land devoted to farming or ranching on its productive value rather than what the market price might be. It would give property tax relief to the elderly and the handicapped as well as limit state spending while enforcing uniform standards and procedures on taxing authorities imposing property taxes.

Amendment Number one has to do with the handicapped. It would strike all reference to "Deaf and Dumb Asylums" from the constitution, while allowing the state to purchase stationery and other products made by the handicapped without going through the competitive bidding process.

Amendment Number Two would permit the Legislature to allow local governments to issue revenue bonds to create employment and finance industry. If passed, this amendment would allow local governments to compete with private investors and financial institutions in the field of industry.

Amendment Number Three would allow local cities and towns to issue tax increment bonds to finance the redevelopment of blighted areas. In theory the bonds would be repaid with funds collected by taxing the increased value of property in the redeveloped area.

Amendment Number Four would exempt solar and wind-powered energy devices from taxation in order to encourage private investment in them and encourage alternate energy sources.

Amendment Number Five would extend the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in civil cases. This amendment would raise the $200 limit to $500 in small claims court presided over by JPs where an attorney is not necessary.

Amendment Number Six would allow the Legislature to expand the number of judges on any court of civil appeals and allow the court to sit in sections and requiring a concurrence of a majority of justices to decide a case.

Backers of the amendment believe it is more practical and less expensive to increase the size of existing courts to meet increasing demands than to create additional courts which require separate personnel and facilities.

Amendment Number Seven would eliminate the State Building Commission and State Building Fund from the constitution. These exist in name only and no longer serve a function. All records have been transferred to the State Board of Control.

Amendment Number Eight would authorize certain districts to engage in fire-fighting activities and to issue bonds for this purpose. This amendment would authorize water districts to establish fire protection programs and to spend district funds to finance them.

NOT TOO COLD — Even though it was a little nippy Saturday, about 80 persons enjoyed the Booster Club's barbecue and ice cream freezoeff Saturday night. On top Robert Bradley, right fills plate for three Eagle backers. At right, Flora Hubble scoops out a cup of her homemade banana nut ice cream for Gina Cavaness and Tracy Richards. This freezer won first place in the freezoeff contest. Gloria Swift's peach ice cream won second.

Just Talking

By NELL EDMISTON

America is really a neat place to live. Not only are we devoted to apple pie, motherhood, and a lot of other nice things, but we also have the freedom to run for office and vote as we please.

This really came to mind as we attended the annual fall festival hosted by St. Ambrose Catholic Church in Wall Sunday. There were hundreds of people lined up for a delicious dinner. At one end of the line was Tom Loeffler, candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives and at the other end was his opponent, Nelson Wolff.

Both were doing a lot of campaigning, of course, shaking everyone's hand and giving them all a big smile. I feel certain they also got in on a delicious meal of turkey, homemade sausage, dressing, potatoes, cole slaw and desert. And they deserved it after standing in the hot sun and shaking everyone's hand.

When Bob Krueger, who had formerly represented this district, decided to run against Senator John Tower, Wolff decided to run for the representative's office. At first it looked to some of us it would be easy for him to win. But when Loeffler joined the race, his campaign has put the Wolff team to the full test. I'm not an expert when it comes to politics, but it looks like that race will be a close one.

Both of the men are young, attractive and full of energy, ideas, dedication and eagerness. They both want reform in our government, especially when it comes to federal spending. Elsewhere in the paper this week, we have a story on their views on the certain major issues.

The barbecue and ice cream freezoeff Saturday night rekindled some of those forgotten about memories of a freezer of homemade ice cream.

There was many a day when my three brothers, mother and I had to spend the day chopping cotton on our farm at Mereta, east of San Angelo. We'd come home tuckered at night, too tired to bicker or even think about getting into any kind of trouble.

Sometimes, my aunt and uncle from San Angelo would come out to visit at night and we'd make a freezer of ice cream on the front porch. It was always a race to see who got to the freezer first, but you

Cooperatives Are Sign Of Democracy

from Texas Federation of Cooperatives
The American spirit we so often celebrate in the U.S. is that of the individual. The individual carries a host of inviolable rights in this country and rightly so. We are a country of individuals.

There is, however, another American spirit which ought to be recognized and that is the cooperative spirit. To develop this country, individuals cooperated with others to clear land, build barns and to do what they couldn't do alone. In America's earliest history, settlers cooperated to settle the wilderness, to survive. Later they got together in business organizations to compete with economic forces which threatened their individual economic existence.

Those business organizations are called cooperatives. They enable Americans to work together to help themselves. Since October has been declared Cooperative Month by most governors in the U.S., including Dolph Briscoe, this is a good time to take a closer look at what cooperatives have meant to us.

Cooperatives were first officially organized in the United States by individual producers, usually farmers, to market their goods together in order to obtain fair prices in the marketplace. A farmer selling alone had little bargaining power. So farmers got together and marketed their own produce, creating competition for outside organizations. Until Congress passed helpful legislation in 1922, farmers were often challenged by the courts when bargaining for higher prices. Today, cooperatives are an integral part of our society and more important than many people realize.

Texas has more the 440 cooperatives with over 133,000 members. They supply Texans with a multitude of products and services. There are cooperative insurance companies, credit unions, food stores, power companies and housing and health groups. Farmers are big users of the huge marketing, supply credit and service cooperatives which have helped make agriculture Texas' number one business. These Texas cooperatives do almost 1.7 billion dollars of business volume.

Cooperatives are owned by the people who use them and all savings belong to the users in proportion to the amount of business done with the cooperative. All cooperative members have one vote in its operation regardless of their investment in it.

We salute cooperatives for the contributions they have made to this community and State. Cooperatives are true democratic, grass root organizations that are working for both its members and all of us. This is democracy in action.

Tax Forms Are Due Oct. 31

Employers must report on Form 941 Social Security and withheld Federal income taxes for the third quarter of 1978 by Oct. 31. If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited.

Persons who have deposited the entire quarterly tax liability in a Federal Reserve Bank or approved commercial bank have until Nov. 10 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return," the Internal Revenue Service said.

Employers should use the preaddressed Forms 941 mailed to them by the IRS or obtain copies of the form from the nearest IRS office.

IRS Publication 15, "Circular E—Employer's Tax Guide," provides more information and is available free from local IRS offices.

TOM LOEFFLER
Loeffler is a fourth-generation Texan and lives near Kerrville where he is a practicing attorney and rancher. After winning several awards in high school, he was awarded a full four-year scholarship to the University of Texas where he played football. After graduation, he earned his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from the UT law school. He was elected permanent officer of his law school graduating class and is director of the Ut Law School Alumni Association.

cheaper prices to other states. President Carter's so-called Energy Plan is nothing more than a heavy tax increase program. This country must become energy-independent again by relying on domestic supplies rather than on vulnerable foreign sources. This is in the best interest of all Americans.

Jobs: With a reduction of the federal budget, taxes, and the maze of regulations, we can provide real jobs for all Americans, now and in the future. Government make-work jobs are not the answer.

Agriculture: While America has the ability, technology and know-how to provide the entire world with the basic necessities of life, no industry has been impacted more heavily by inflation than agriculture. We should allow and encourage our agricultural community with the appropriate means to produce and supply the world's needs at a fair profit and with a secure future. I very much want to preserve the family-owned farms and ranches and will exhaust every avenue to build export markets abroad for American agricultural products.

Predator Control: Predator control should be in the hands of the individual farmer and rancher — historically the best conservationist. A person's right to protect private property must be preserved.

Gun Control: I am unalterably opposed to licensing, registration or any other form of gun control.

Education: The time has come for the federal government to get out of the business of administering the education of our children. We should demand that our independent school districts be allowed to be independent again, with adequate funding on the state and local level.

Right-To-Work: Compulsory unionism serves no one's best interests. We must protect our right-to-work law, not only to guarantee the working man his right to choose but also to preserve the economic climate that has allowed Texas to prosper over the years to the benefit of the worker and employer alike.

Social Security: The Social Security tax increase soon to go into effect will demand 25 billion additional dollars every year from American taxpayers — the largest tax increase ever imposed. Its inflationary results will not provide security for our senior citizens. We must revamp the system itself so that it no longer funds programs other than those for which it was originally intended.

Small Business: Small business has historically been the backbone of America's economic system. Today, small business has been played under more unnecessary regulation than ever before with OSHA, EPA and countless other government agencies. We must provide relief from this stifling of initiative...what we demand, all we deserve, is the right to 'make it or break it' on our own.

Welfare: Our government must be told in clear and unmistakable terms that we, as taxpayers, will no longer tolerate the kind of inefficiency that results in 7 billion dollars falling through the cracks as recently admitted by HEW Secretary Califano. Able-bodied individuals are being provided with too many incentives not to work and poorly managed programs are resulting in welfare cheating. This must be stopped and strict enforcement of distribution to those truly in need must be bolstered by appropriate punishment for those taking unlawful advantage.

had to remember one thing — Daddy got the ribs.

We'd eat it outside and eat until we forgot about being out in 90 degree heat during the day. Then we would play hide and seek with our cousins in the eerie shadows of pecan trees. It made up for chopping cotton all day.

For two years now, everyone at the courthouse has wanted me to do a feature about a Mexican man who stopped on the courthouse lawn frequently to salute both the American and Texas flags. However, no one quite knew his name or where he lived.

Now we know, but not until he passed away. His name was Jose Cordona who had come to the United States to work when he was 14 years old. He was married in Mexico and became a citizen of this country 25 years ago.

His daughter, Mrs. Mary Pina, told me he was a "real citizen to his nation, just like his daddy and brother. He was real close to the flag."

In fact, it meant so much to him he got so mad when any of his grandsons didn't take off their hats when passing one of the flags."

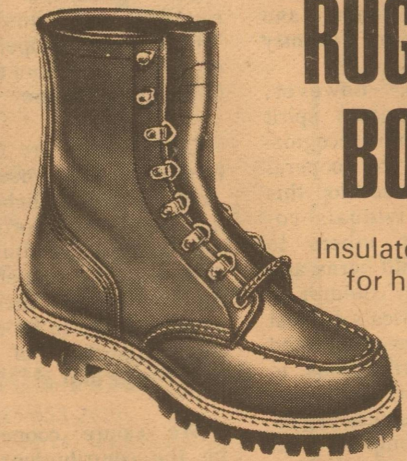

Maybe those of us who have always been American take our country for granted and those who have just joined our ranks can teach us much about patriotism and loyalty to the flag.

In ancient Egypt, the pharaoh had to walk around the walls of a temple to make sure that the sun would continue his daily journey around the sky.

Loeffler served as chief legislative counsel to Senator John Tower in Washington where he worked mostly in the field of energy. He was appointed special assistant for legislative affairs to President Gerald Ford. He then served as Washington Council for the Texas-based Tennessee company. He is presently a partner in the law firm of Banister, Ervine and Loeffler in Kerrville.

He is a member of the State Bar of Texas and the American Bar Association. He is married to the former Kathy Crawford of McAllen and has one son.

Here are some of Loeffler's comments on major issues:

Inflation and Taxes: Congress must be forced to control the purse strings it commands and stop spending money we don't have on programs we don't need.

We must have immediate tax relief and I have consistently called for a 30% across-the-board reduction in personal federal income taxes over a three-year period, coupled with a decrease in capital gains taxes. This will allow the private sector — individuals and businesses — to strengthen our economy. Currently, more than 40 cents out of every dollar earned is dedicated to local, state and federal taxes and our citizens are rightfully demanding relief and more accountability in government spending.

Foreign Affairs and National Defense: We have given away the Panama Canal...sold out in the SALT talks...killed the B-1 bomber program and crippled our defense systems in so many ways — without a single concession from the Soviets. We have communicated weakness and indecisiveness to the world, disarming our allies and giving our enemies more leverage worldwide. America has always been a strong nation — it is time we started acting like one again.

Energy: Texans must no longer be penalized by paying higher prices for the same oil and gas we supply at

Energy Saving Tips on Electric Heating.

Check your thermostat setting. Recommended temperature setting for winter heating is 68°. Remember, the lower you set the thermostat in the winter the lower your energy cost.

Have your heating system checked now! Proper servicing before the heating season begins is good preventive maintenance.

Keep filters clean. Check the filter every 30 days on forced-air systems. If filter is permanent, clean it by manufacturer's directions, if it's disposable, replace when dirty.

Use the warmth of the sunshine! On sunny days open the drapes. The sun shining through the glass will supply additional heat at no cost.

Have your home properly insulated! Adequate home insulation keeps the warmth in, cuts energy use... can pay for itself by lowering heating (and cooling) costs.

School Speed Zone Questioned Recently

Safety of school children going to and from school here has been a problem for a long time, especially since many children have to cross busy Highway 277. This summer, the city and the state entered into an agreement that was to offer a partial solution to the problem. However, for a while, the validity of the agreement was in question.

Under the agreement, the state erected the caution lights and agreed to maintain them. The city, in turn, assumed the responsibility of enforcing the 20 mile an hour speed limit around the school.

The validity of the agreement was questioned by a San Angelo lawyer whose client was one of the first persons to be stopped for violating the new speed limit.

The agreement was then interpreted by justice of the peace Frank "Pancho" Bradley as a city ordinance, as the city assumed enforcement responsibilities. City ordinances can only be tried in a municipal court which this city does not have. Therefore, the JP does not have jurisdiction in several cases filed in his office, where persons were stopped for driving over 20 miles an hour in the speed zone. For this reason, about five cases were dismissed.

Cases in which persons were charged with driving over 30 mph still stood, as there was a violation of a state law, which JP's can try.

A solution was found, however. Now anyone stopped for driving between 20 and 30 mph can be charged with failure to heed a traffic warning device.

According to section 32 of the Texas Motor Vehicle Laws, drivers of any motor vehicle must obey official traffic control devices unless they are directed by a traffic or police officer with exceptions granted to drivers of authorized emergency vehicles.

The speed limit is in effect when the lights are flashing, from 7:30-8:30 a.m., from 10:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. and from 2:30-4 p.m. It was put into effect in an effort to protect children who had to cross the street on their way to and from school.

You Can Vote By Absentee

If you are planning to be out of town on election day, Nov. 7, you can still vote by absentee.

Absentee voting began Wednesday and will continue until Nov. 3.

To vote absentee in person, go to the county clerk's office here and request a ballot. Or you can vote absentee by mail. Contact the office either by phone or mail and you will be sent a form for all the necessary information. When this form is received, a ballot will be sent to you.

In some instances, you can still vote absentee if you will be in town that day. These instances include: If you are sick, physically disabled or expecting a baby around election day (you'll need a doctor's certificate); if your religious beliefs prevent you from going to the polls that day, if you are 65 years old or older, if you are confined to jail (under certain conditions) or if you are working as a poll watcher or election clerk at a precinct other than your own.

He will give general information on checking accounts, savings accounts and how these can be affected by death or divorce. He will also discuss safety deposit boxes and what should and should not be kept in them.

He will also give brief information on credit rights of women.

Teas, plates, cups, etc., are provided for the luncheon. For further information, contact the county extension office.

Nursing Home News

This Monday morning there is really the touch of fall in the air, which reminds us that winter is just around the corner. It suits me fine, because I enjoy winter much more than I do summer.

All of the residents here seem to be doing about as usual.

In this column last week I am sorry I neglected to mention the death of Sr. Jose Cardona Sr., who was a resident here in the home for several months this summer. He was first moved into the local hospital, after he became ill, for a week of so, then was moved to a hospital in San Angelo, where he remained until he passed away on Oct. 5. We extend our deepest sympathy to his family.

There were a few visitors in the home last week. Mrs. Zona Claire Holcomb of Ozona and her sister, Mrs. Mary Jess Childress, of San Antonio, visited their aunt Miss Georgia Springstun. Yours truly had a very welcome guest, who is her nephew, Joe Charles Christian, of Norman, Okla. He and his wife Melba and their two children, Michelle and Michael, were here during the week end visiting his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Muller Christian.

Last Sunday was the date for the First Christian Church to conduct the service here in the dining room. Due to the illness of their pastor who lives in San Angelo, he was not able to be here, so Miss Ruth Baker, who is a very active member of that church came Sunday and conducted the service, and we enjoyed it very much and appreciated her doing that for us.

Next Sunday the First United Methodist Church will conduct the service here.

The bingo winners last week were: Juanita Sanchez, 1; Mabel Wilkinson, 2; Beulah Harris, 2; Lester Garrett, 2; Bess Andrews, 2; Frank Reed, 2; Fannie Blaylock, 1; Elva Daniels, 2; Erna Rexroat, 1; LaVita Brooks, 1. On Friday: Frank Reed, 2; Bess Andrews, 2; Erna Rexroat, 2; Fannie Blaylock, 1; Lester Garret, 1; LaVita Brooks, 2.

My neighbor boasted: "I have the most marvelous recipe for meat loaf. All I have to do is mention it to my husband and he says, 'Let's eat out.'"
