School board looks at new budget

The Schleicher County Independent School District Board of Trustees met in regular session Monday night.

Steve Whitten appeared before the board to request that a gate be installed in the fence on the south side of the arena. The board approved the proposal and instructed Superintendent Guy Whitaker to proceed with the project.

Ray Ballew presented the board with a report on tax collection and also made recommendations to the board on how to better collect delinquent taxes.

The board accepted the resignations of three employees: Robert Sosa, Larry Logsdon and Magdaline Martinez. The Superintendent then discussed with the trustees on ways to possibly replace these employees and others who have resigned recently.

In action taken last week the board hired a new elementary principal, J. Weldon Moore, of Baird, Texas.

Superintendent Whitaker reported to the board that facility consultants were available if there was ever a need for them. No action was taken on this matter.

The board then discussed the upcoming budget. The budget will be refined and presented at a hearing in August. The exact date will be published later in the Leader.

The tax rate and values were discussed and apparently the values will be decreased as a result of various reasons such as the oil and gas prices being depressed.

In the final action of the meeting, monthly bills were approved for payment by the trustees.

City Manager plan of government history

About one city out of every six (17 percent) that have adopted the council-manager plan has a form of government that directly elects the mayor and also possesses a council modified by election method, size, or both from the standards of the plan. A number of these cities in addition elect one or more additional officials. In terms of the plan, these cities have politicized and fragmented both the policy-making and policy-implementing process. Yet, they have a city manager and are council-manager cities. Moreover, we have no evidence at the present time that cities with these highly modified plans have less stable or less effective municipal government.

The sorting out and weighing of all the variables associated with the incidence of modified forms are major research undertakings. The forms of state legislation enabling city choice, the social, economic, and geographic configurations of the cities, prior political and governmental systems, and the structure of local politics all play a role in the choice of the stability of governmental forms.

The unique element of the council-manager form remains: the presence of a full-time professional participating in the policy... processes of city government and exercising supervision over the day-to-day management of local administrative agencies. (Quoted from the very provocative short study by John C. Bolleno and John C. Ries, The City Manager Profession: Myths and Realities)

Table 1 distributes cities with model characteristics and cities with specific modified forms by population size categories. There is some relationship between the increase in size and the frequency with which modified forms are found. The relationship is there, but not striking. Obviously other considerations than those associated with size enter into the choice of modified forms.

The interesting observation is that the council-manager form of government has been responsive to these local variations and has been able to exist - and thrive - in these modified forms without losing the ethos that was assumed to be associated with the plan. That ethos, the expectation of quality and impartiality in the delivery of municipal services and the appropriate application of knowledge to the solution of local problems, is not a quality limited to a particular package.

It is the result of a set of governing relationships developed between a community, its council and the professional city manager that permits the development of community support, the articulation of community needs, and the effective implementation of acceptable and reasonable solutions coterminous with the maintenance of effective governmental services.

Taken as a whole, the council-manager plan cities have better exhibited these qualities of effective urban management than have any other forms. It is this that accounts for the vitality of the form.

The influence of council-manager government has extended well beyond the confines of the cities served. It has led the movement identified with professionalism in city government. City managers have markedly increased the level of professionalism in all areas of municipal service. The adoption of professional management within the mayor-council form is a result of the presence and success of the council-manager form. Limitation is still the sincerest form of flattery.

If the future can be read from history, the future of the council-manager form of governments appears quite bright. The form that grew and adapted its practices to the demands for city facilities in the 1920's to the problems of the depression and war environments of the 1930's and '40's to the needs for economic growth after World War II, and to the new social and human demands of the 1960's and early '70's should have the adaptability to meet the demands not yet envisioned.

51st District wants to put probation officer here

The Schleicher County Commissioners Court met in regular session Monday morning.

Minutes from the previous meeting were read and approved.

The court then approved and paid all monthly bills.

The first guest to appear before the court was Raymond Holguin, Chief Probation Officer for the 51st District Court. Mr. Holguin requested that a full-time probation officer be placed at the courthouse with the county providing office space, desk and typewriter and the state paying the salary. The court agreed on the proposal and arrangements were made for the officer to be placed in an office on the third floor at the courthouse.

The court instructed Judge Johnny Griffin to send a "thank you" note to Houston Natural Gas in Sonora for the pipe they donated for used in the rodeo arena.

Next to appear before the court was Sheriff Orville Edmiston, who presented his 1984 budget to the court. No action was taken on this item. Permission was given to Sheriff Edmiston to attend the State Sheriff's Convention in Amarillo.

A.G. McCormack, County Treasurer presented the Quarterly Report to the court and it was approved.

After this matter was handled, the court adjourned the meeting.

Rodeo

The Eldorado Rodeo will be held August 12-13 in conjunction with Schleicher County Days this year and will kick off with a parade Friday August 12th through downtown Eldorado.

Parade Chairman, Bill Hodges urges all civic groups, churches, clubs, bands and any interested individuals to participate in this exciting annual event. With Eldorado's usual outstanding community support, 1983's parade and rodeo could be the best one yet, according to Mr. Hodges. Anyone interested in participating in the parade please contact Bill Hodges at 853-2408.

Following the parade that evening the rodeo will be held at the arena. The winner in each event will be awarded a $600 Skyline Buckle. Entry fees are $50 for bull riding, bareback, saddle bronc; $70 for team roping and $30 for Jackpot Barrel Racing.

An extra added attraction will be that at each performance 100 gallons of gas will be raffled off.

Stock contractor is Lester Miers of Fredricksburg, Texas and books will be open August 10th from 10 a.m. til 2 p.m. Call 512-997-4558 to enter competition.

The kick-off meeting for the 1983 Schleicher County Days occurred Friday with the initial plans being laid by Candy Richards and Ron Sutto. The celebration is designated for Saturday, August 13th and in correlation with the Eldorado Rodeo. This year's celebration undoubtedly will surpass those previously held simply because more fun events are scheduled. Mrs. Richards voices her plea for volunteer workers, clubs, commercial entities and individuals in making this Schleicher County Days one to remember.

The same basic games and contests are being planned with some new delights in the making. Booths will be available for rent and at present a request is being sent forward for instrumental groups and singers to entertain during the gala celebration. Anyone wishing more information or anyone willing to volunteer their assistance should contact Mrs. Richards at 853-3247.

The 1983 Eldorado Rodeo Queen Contest is coming up soon and area young ladies between the ages of 16-19 are invited to enter the competition. Deadline for entering the competition is July 21st.

A trophy belt buckle and gift certificates will be awarded to the participants.

For more information on the event, contact Ray Ballew at 853-2153 or any Rodeo Club member.

The following letter was sent to the Leader from Col. Charles Powell, Goodfellow A.F.B. "Our Wing Historian (Mr. Bill Allen) ran across this letter in a Base newspaper The Flight Time dated 19 June 1943. I thought your readers would enjoy it. Personal Regards, Charlie Powell"

AN OPEN LETTER...To residents of Eldorado and ranchers of Schleicher County, Texas.

Dear Friends,
It becomes my pleasant duty to express the sincere appreciation of the Goodfellow Field Soldiers who were guests in your homes and your community recently.

Morale building is considered to be one of the most important issues in the Army Air Forces training program. We can think of no way in which this all-important task could have been accomplished more than the way in which you fine people chose to entertain us.

There was a richness, a sincerity in your hospitable attitude toward us that touched the heart of every soldier who had the pleasure of being a guest at this most enjoyable occasion.

We join in thanking the Home Demonstration Agencies of Tom Green and Schleicher Counties as well as all of the people who gave so freely of their time and all of material things that made the "Ranch Party" such a magnificent success.

With fine, friendly, patriotic people like you behind us we are indeed inspired to greater effort in doing our share toward the early conclusion of the war.

Respectfully yours,
Pvt. Howard E. Jaxheimer

Social Security.....

Wants personal contact

One of the concerns of the Social Security Administration is that while social security pays billions of dollars to millions of people each year, it continues to respond to people as individuals and not become impersonal. But, the program is so large, it often requires the use of the mail.

Occasionally, however, a situation arises in which direct contact between a beneficiary and social security personnel is felt to be of overriding importance. The continuing disability investigations (CDI's) comprise such a situation.

Social security disability beneficiaries whose cases are being reviewed to determine their continued eligibility for monthly payments will have a face-to-face interview at the start of the process. The purpose of these interviews is to give social security personnel an opportunity to explain why a periodic review is needed and how it will be conducted. Previously, beneficiaries had first learned of the review through letters sent out by the State Agency responsible for making the determination.

The Social Security Administration has always stressed the rights and responsibilities of people receiving benefits; these are two sides of the same coin. Beneficiaries should similarly be aware of their rights and responsibilities in regard to the CDI process.

King Ranch exec to speak at luncheon

Texas Animal Health Commission chairman John B. Armstrong of Kingsville will be the speaker at the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association's Awards Luncheon Tuesday noon, July 19, at the Inn of the Hills, Kerrville, Texas. Armstrong, the horse industry's representative on the Commission and a noted horseman in his own right, will review past and present activities of the Commission with TS&GRA members and guests.

Executive vice-president of the King Ranch, Armstrong is also chairman of the U.S. Animal Health Commission's Brucellosis Committee and a member of the National Cattlemen's Association's Health Committee and Brucellosis Sub-Committee. He is a past president of the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Assn. and a graduate of Texas Military Institute in San Antonio. He received that institution's Outstanding Alumnus Award in 1979. He has recently been selected as the 1983 recipient of the Golden Spur Award given by farm and ranch journalists.

Armstrong is one of the outstanding leaders in the livestock industry today, and all sheep, goat and cattle producers are urged to attend the 68th annual TS&GRA convention and hear him speak.

kick off Sunday evening, July 17, at 7 p.m. with a Health & Nutrition Seminar. The Seminar will continue Monday morning, concluding at 11:00 a.m. TS&GRA committees will meet Monday afternoon, followed by a tour, barbecue and dance at Bobby Shelton's Comanche Trace Ranch. Tuesday's activities include the all-day general business session and the noon luncheon at which Armstrong will speak. TS&GRA awards will be given at the time.

How to carve a horse

By Dale Lipsett, Pastor

First Christian Church

I was sitting in a local restaurant the other morning when I happened to look in the display case there. I saw some figurines of horses carved by one of our resident artists. Those horses set me to thinking about a story I once heard.

It seems that a famous sculptor was being interviewed by a newspaper reporter. One of the questions that the reporter asked was, "How do you carve a horse?" The sculptor thought about the question for couple of minutes and answered, "I just take a block of stone and carve away anything that doesn't look like a horse." Isn't that just like an artist, they can't tell you exactly how they create a work of art, they just do it. It seems to me that there is a lesson in this little story for christians today. One of the larger bones of contention which divides the body of Christ today is the question of just how God transforms a pagan into a christian. This seems to me to be like the stone telling the sculptor just how the carve a horse. Don't you agree that it's presumptuous on our parts to tell God how he's supposed to do anything.

Rather than us telling God how to do his job, we should praise him because he is still able to save. Rather than demanding that every person who is saved should have been saved under exactly the same circumstances as every other person, let us admit that there is only one Savior, Jesus Christ. The Bible says that if any man be in Christ, he is a new creation, behold old things are passed away and all is made new. I believe that it is high time that christians stopped shooting each other down. Let us leave old things behind and move on to maturity in Christ.

Texas Water Plan

Individuals, organizations and groups in the South Central Texas Region will have an opportunity to comment on the draft planning report prepared by the Texas Department of Water Resources which is to be used in amending the 1968 Texas Water Plan. A public hearing will be conducted by the Department of Water Resources at 1:30 p.m., on July 21, in Austin, at the Stephen F. Austin State Office Building.

Agency situation to get people to pay attention to water. Most people are unaware or unconcerned about water problems as long as they can go to the kitchen and turn on the faucet or go to the shower, turn it on, and out comes water. They're satisfied and they don't think about needing to plan and act in order to have adequate water in the future.

be held in Baytown on July 26. Hearings have already held in Longview, Dallas, McAllen, Lubbock, Abilene and El Paso.

Forty-eight counties are included in the South Central Texas Region of the State. River basins included in this region are the Middle Colorado, Upper Guadalupe, Upper San Antonio, Upper Nueces and the Middle Rio Grande.

Nemir added that some cities in Texas have been preparing and implementing water conservation plans, some including water rationing, in order to just meet peaking summer demands. These plans are needed primarily because of inadequate water treatment and conveyance facilities.

"The problem is that by losing time and progress now," Nemir said, "we will not be ready when the next extended dry period comes or when water supply and wastewater treatment systems can no longer meet the growing needs. This will result not only in possible severe problems, but we will accordingly have to pay a much higher price later."

Nemir pointed out that the "statewide water plan" package of legislation considered recently by the Texas Legislature is NOT the Texas Water Plan or amendments thereto to be discussed at the hearing.

He also said that he is concerned about participation in the hearing process. In many instances it takes a drought or other emer-

Wildest action in the West

Union Stockyards San Antonio will host the "Wildest Auction in the West" Mrs. Geneva German, general chairman for this year's event, has selected her committies and things are underway to make this another successful auction.

The auction is the major fund raising event of the year for the Home. It was originally a livestock auction but over the years has grown to be a social event as well.

The auction no longer features just livestock. A variety of items including hotel and dining packages, art work, jewelry, quilts and afgans, and farming supplies have been on the auction block.

Changes which made the auction become a social event are the catered breakfast, a live western band and the country store sponsored by the Boysville Auxiliary.

San Antonio Bank and Trust will sponsor the breakfast this year. It will be served under a big tent across from the Union Stockyards San Antonio pens.

The Country store is also under the tent and features handicraft items, quilts, homebaked goodies, and jams and jellies.

It takes people helping in many different areas to make the auction work. Ways to help include donating livestock or merchandise, being a cash sponsor, or attending the auction to bid on the selections.

If you can help please call Boysville at 653-8282.

Rehab assistance

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission provides assistance to vocationally handicapped individuals in order that they may enter or return to work.

In order to receive services an individual must have a physical or mental disability which results in a substantial handicap to employment, and vocational rehabilitation services may reasonably be expected to benefit the individual in terms of employability.

Railroad Commission wants fee for permits

The Railroad Commission has proposed for public comment a new rule that requires a non-refundable $100 fee for new or materially amended permits to drill for oil and gas in the state.

The proposed new rule is the result of recent legislation enacted by the Texas Legislature. That legislation requires the $100 fee and authorized the Railroad Commission to deposit the money into a special fund for plugging abandoned wells. The funds can also be used for general enforcement of state pollution wells. The funds can also be used for general enforcement of state pollution prevention laws involving oil and gas operations.

Comments on the proposed rule will be taken for 30 days after publication in the Texas Register, and then the proposed rule will be presented to the Commission for final consideration.

The new law will also require some procedural changes in the way drilling permits are handled at the RRC. For example, applicants must file a drilling permit application (RRC Form W-1) and the fee with the Commission's headquarters in Austin rather than with the respective RRC district office. However, applicants must still send a copy of the application to the district office.

The RRC will no longer authorize "verbal" drilling permits, but will allow an applicant to expedite processing of a permit application by "walking" it through the review process in Austin.

By law, the fee requirement is effective Sept. 1, 1983.

The Commission has sent a full explanation of the drilling permit application changes to all oil and gas operators in the state.

To answer questions, the Commission has established a toll-free telephone number 1-800-772-0091 for calls placed in Texas. Out-of-state callers should dial 512-445-1314.

Centennial Nat'l Junior Angus Show

A record number, 926-head of Angus cattle from 30 states are entered in this year's Centennial National Junior Angus Show to be held at the Iowa State Fairgrounds in Des Moines, July 20-22.

This show is the second of four special Centennial events to take place in celebration of the American Angus Association's 100th Birthday.

All exhibitors must be junior, regular or life member of the American Angus Association, and be nine years-old by January 1, 1983 and not yet 21 years of age by that date.

Classes will include divisions for bred-and-owned bulls and heifers, owned heifers and cow-calf pairs.

The National Junior Angus Show promises to be an eventful, fun-filled week of family activities. On Tuesday, July 19, exhibitors and their parents will tour Living History Farms. The tour will give people an opportunity to view farming methods as they used to be.

Afternoon activities will be highlighted by the Great Ground Round Cook-off to be held at the state fairgrounds. There will be individual and team divisions with two different categories in each division.

The show begins on Wednesday, July 20, with opening ceremonies at 12:00 noon and concludes with the selection of the champion state group of five on Friday, July 22. Jim Hough, Ardmore, Alabama, will serve as the official judge.

The finals of the prestigious Centennial National Junior Angus Showman ship breakfast for all contestants will be held at 6:30 a.m., July 21. Gene Knop, owner of Knop Angus Farm and vice president/agricultural representative of Ida County State Bank, Ida Grove, Iowa, will be the guest speaker during the breakfast.

The top five showmanship winners will be awarded money prizes from the Hamilton James Memorial Fund. The awards are as follows: first: $350; second: $250; third: $175; fourth: $125; and fifth: $100. The American Angus Association will award sixth through the remaining places $50. The top five finalists will also receive silver Revere bowls from the American Angus Auxiliary.

The annual meeting of the National Junior Angus Association will be conducted during the National Show and be highlighted by the election of six new members to the National Junior Board of Directors.

The Centennial National Junior Angus Show promises to be the largest junior Angus show ever held, while being the largest family oriented event sponsored by the American Angus Association.
