KIDS ARE GREAT.....

If you don't think kids are great, just ask their grandparents. They'll set you straight in a New York minute.

But were their kids that great to them? One has to wonder, especially when you see plaques with the following inscription adorning the walls in their kitchens: "If I had known grandchildren were this much fun, I would have had them first."

The grandchild-grandma relationship is especially fascinating. No doubt, the reason grandmas have so much fun spoiling their second generations is the "shoulda" complex.

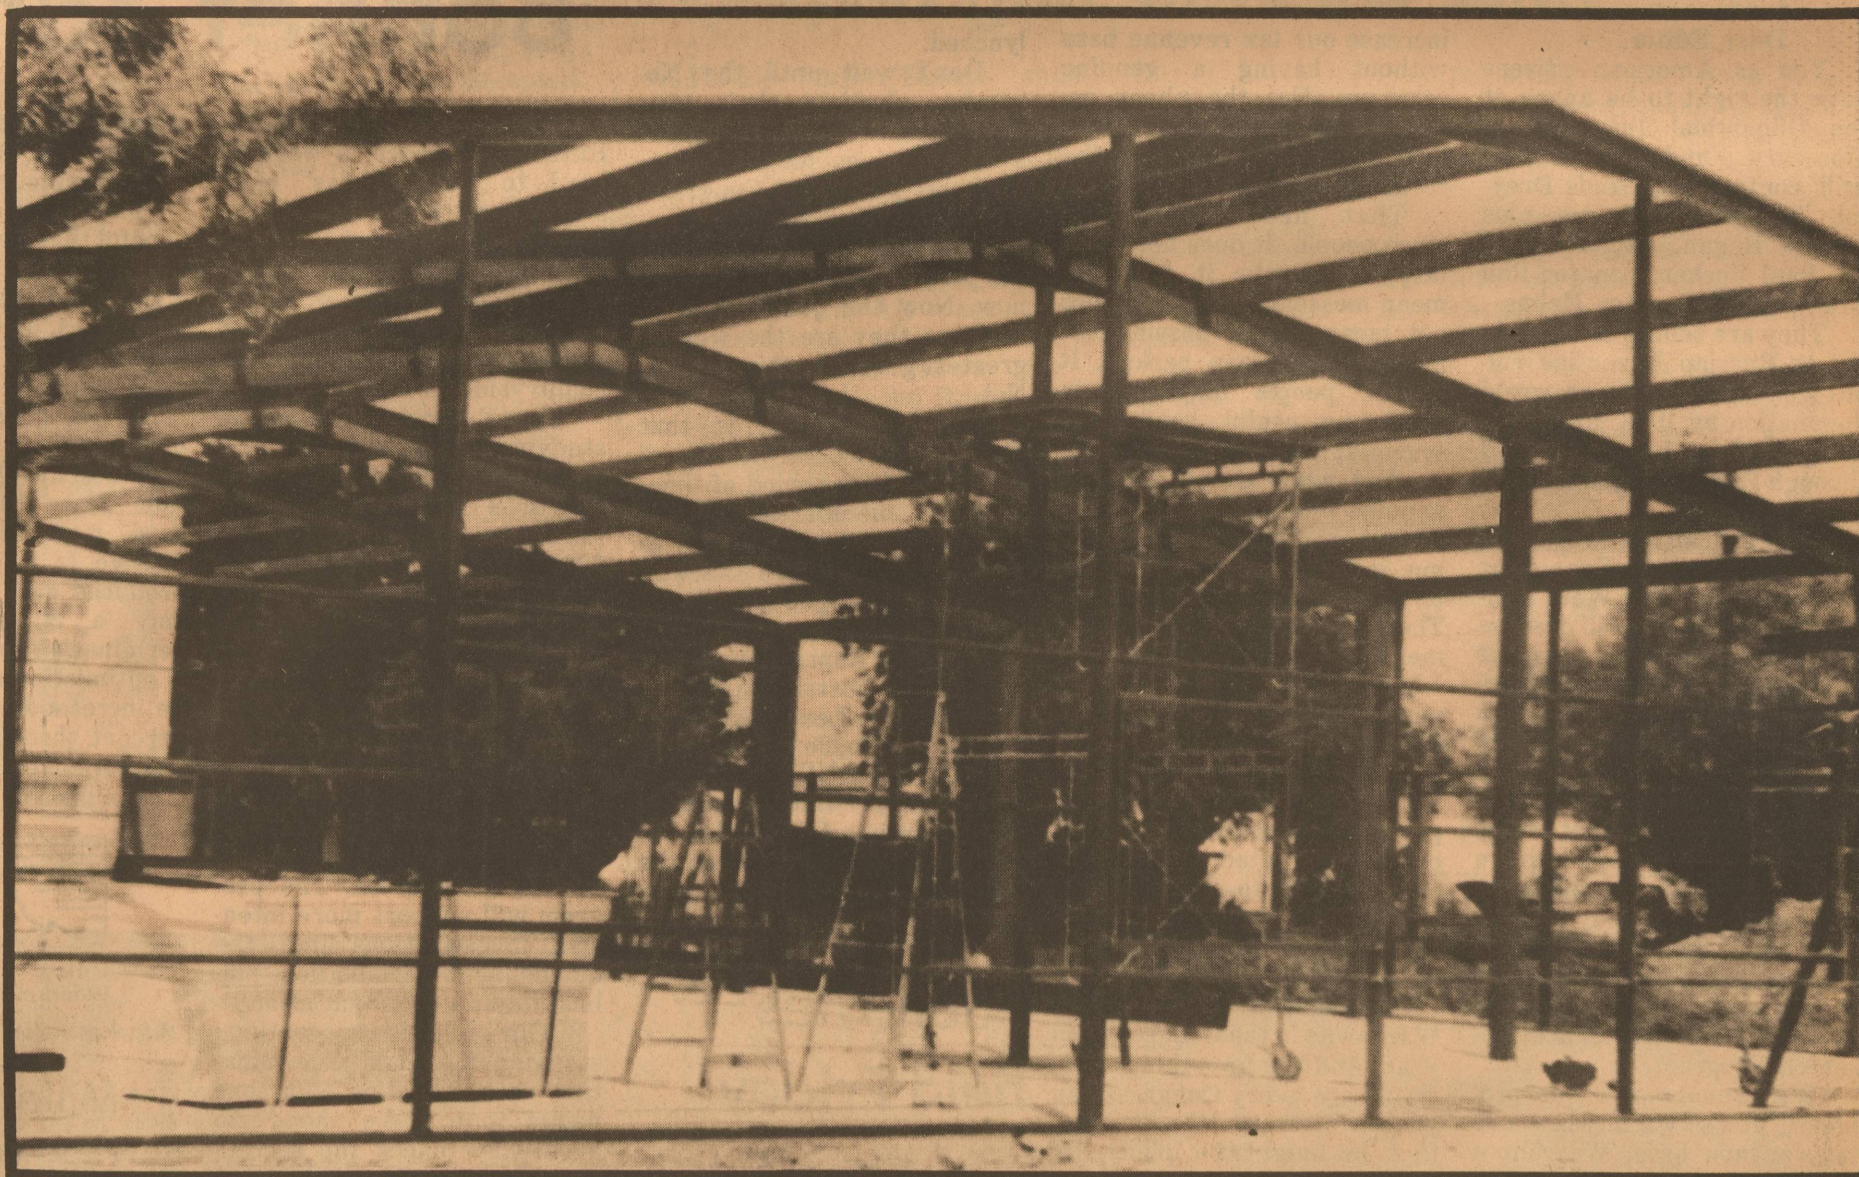

You know? "Well, I guess we shoulda let Johnny do that before he grew up and left us with that big house all alone—then married that awful girl and moved 600 miles away!"

So, they get their hands on your children and spoil them rotten—letting the little cuties do everything they wouldn't let you do. Besides, they know they can take them home when they get totally out of control.

Of course some grandmas have a different philosophy. "Don't expect me to babysit with him when he's born. I've already raised my kids," some say. Those grandparents are usually the first ones to the hospital and the most indignant when you do actually call a real babysitter!

And it really gets interesting when you marry into a ready-made family. Not only are you on the spot with new wife and kids, but the

Four killed in Thursday collision

BY TERRY B. NEILL

Just as the West Texas sun was beginning to make its first sneaky fingers felt last Thursday morning two automobiles collided headon north of Eldorado.

Three members of a Sweetwater family and a San Angelo man were killed in the accident when the two cars hit headlight to headlight, an eight year old girl was saved due to "heads up" work by emergency personnel and an Eldorado physician.

Killed in the 5:42 a.m. crash were Johnny Garcia Cajas, 35, a Goodyear Tire Company test driver from San Angelo, and Margarito M. Martinez, 33, Martha Martinez, 35, his wife, and their 14-month old child, Donna Maria.

Maggie Martinez, who was riding in the auto's rear seat, was pulled from the wreckage after Schleicher County Volunteer Fire Department members cut the car's roof off with the county's new "Jaws of Life" tool.

The rugged, scissor-like tool was invaluable at the scene, as was Eldorado physician Dr. Benjamin Richard Respass, who happened onto the accident scene with his wife.

Dr. Respass administered aid to the Martinez girl as well as to the fatally-injured but still alive Cajas until both could be transported to San Angelo.

Members of the Christoval EMS unit were first on the scene, followed closely by Schleicher and Tom Green Emergency Medical Technicians and law enforcement officers from both counties.

Dr. Respass drew respect from those on the scene. "He has a willingness not to wait for the patient to get to the emergency room, but to come to the scene where he's needed," Ray Ballew, local EMS technician reported.

Ballew says Respass is level-headed, and Respass gives a lot of credit for Thursday's actions to the local community.

"I rely on the quality performances of our small-town emergency crews. The fact that citizens in small towns realize the necessity for quality emergency equipment really saves some lives," Respass said.

"Many rural residents learn emergency skills to fill in a gap in the community and volunteer their time, while my performance is part of the routine," Dr. Respass added.

The Eldorado physician is also credited with helping save the live of an auto accident victim two years ago in San Angelo and at a plane crash site near Plano.

The Martinez girl was admitted to Shannon West Texas Memorial Hospital for treatment for an open fracture to the left leg and facial injuries.

Texas Highway Patrol Trooper Tommy Mathews said Cajas was enroute to San Angelo along with five other test cars when the 1986 Ford he was driving crossed the center stripe and collided headon with Martinez' 1979 Ford about 17 miles north of Eldorado.

No skid marks were found at the crash site and the two autos stopped only 18 inches apart after impact. Mrs. Martinez and Cajas were wearing seat belts, the DPS report indicated.

The Martinez family was reportedly enroute to Mexico via Hidalgo County to visit a sick relative.

AIR FORCE SAYS

PAVE PAWS testing set

The Air Force has announced that short duration testing is expected to begin June 19 on the Southeast face of the PAVE PAWS sea-launched ballistic missile (SLBM) detection and warning radar at Eldorado AFS, Texas.

The alignment and calibration work marks the first step in preparing the Southeast face for later full power testing. Similar testing of the companion Southwest face is expected to begin some time in July.

PAVE PAWS is "Phased Array" radar, whose being is steered electronically by computer rather than being directed by mechanically swinging antennae that shifts back and forth as traditional dish-shaped radars do.

With the experience gained from testing of similar systems in Massachusetts and California, plus computer tuning of the radar elements, officials expect to quickly complete the SE face adjustments, probably within a few days.

During the initial checkout, the radar will be operating at low power levels. Even when operating at full power, microwave energy levels beyond the Air Force station should register about one microwatt per square centimeter, and that is about 1,000 times lower than current safety standards anywhere in the world.

As work proceeds on schedule, the Air Force expects to have the entire Southeast face ready for intermittent testing at full operational power next month.

Schleicher County Days, the Sesquicentennial version set for August 9, will feature as entertainment this year the comic melodrama, "The Sage of Sagebrush Sal" by I.E. Clark.

The play, directed by Marcy Willis and music coordinated by Carol Graham, will be performed in the spirit of the Sesquicentennial.

Any who enjoy singing or dancing or hamming it up in a spotlight (or any of the three combined!) are needed to make this production a success.

"The play does not demand a lot of memorization because the narrator reads most of the lines. The major requirement of any player is that he/she be able to attend Tuesday and Thursday rehearsals during the month of July and a need to purchase his/her script at a cost of $3," a spokesman said.

old school bell will sound and beginning at 7:30 p.m. a sandwich supper and visitation will commence. Those attending are asked to bring their own lawn chairs.

At 10 a.m. a general assembly will be held with special recognition set for the classes of 1935-36 and 1965-66. A business meeting will conclude that portion of the activities.

At 12:30 p.m. barbecue will be served on the courthouse lawn. Those attending are asked to reserve tickets at $5 each. Saturday afternoon will be free for visitation and class reunions.

DISTRICT WINNER - Brant Ward, son of Doug and Jo Ward of Eldorado, placed first in break-away calf roping at the District 7 4-H Horse Show held in Sweetwater, June 20. The show is the last stop before the State 4-H Horse Show scheduled for July 21-26 at Abilene. Ward qualified for that show by winning first at Sweetwater.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
You as American citizens have the right to be angry at the Oligarchial International Monetary Fund, Cartels cagrill, continental, Lands Dreyful, Bunge and Andre plus Donald Regan, James Baker III, Paul Vocker, Senator Phil Gramm, and Senator Helms.

They are selling the U.S.A. out to Russian Byzantine rulers who seek to achieve world domination by 1988. President Reagan has been blinded through Donald Regan to what is going on.

Those traitorous people have weakened President Reagan's 1987 Star Wars Budget $5.4 billion and will destroy the U.S. as a nation to protect themselves. Gramm-Rudman-Holling will put the U.S. in a third world type of country that can't feed itself.

We must get rid of tax reform legislation that stops investment in productive things which are beneficial to the economy. Kennedy had not a bad idea, back then. He had a tax investment credit. He started the Apollo program and the Nasa Aerospace Research Program.

We cannot solve our problems, unless we increase our tax revenue base. We cannot increase our tax revenue base without having a genuine recovery. Not the phony recovery that didn't happen, that they keep talking about in the recent years.

That means employing more people. It does not mean fast-food stands; it does not mean messenger boys; it does not mean people passing out flyers for massage parlors. It means, people employed in producing useful goods and services: genuine wealth.

And when people produce genuine wealth, and per capital income increase, the tax revenue increases, without having to raise taxes or tax rates. Then you can pay for Government; the private sector can begin to pay for its requirements; and we can get out of this mess.

We will not do it however, without government credit or government steered and government created credit two and one-half to four percent interest to get the private sector and government moving again.

We need a lynch mob of Warhawks in the Congress this year. And the first thing to do is to scare every Congressman who is in there into the fact that he might be politically lynched. Don't wait until the November elections, let's give him a sense of the rope now. You know, you have a thing: "Support your local Congressman" - a hangman's noose.

We have to get the American people out of your foxholes now. Now the qualification is not that they are the world's greatest genius on this session. No!

The qualification is that they're devoted to the idea of becoming, for a period of time, an active member of a lynch mob. And send them down to Congress! And that's the way we're going to get out of this mess! Thank you.

COMMERCIAL PRODUCTION POSSIBLE

'Bonnet' tarning talked

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is working hard to tame Texas' most stately and beautiful wildflower, the bluebonnet.

If these efforts prove fruitful, the state flower of Texas may one day adorn yards and gardens rather than just the countryside in early spring.

The Extension Service is studying the bluebonnet with the hope that the flower will be able to be grown commercially, thanks to a special three-year $30,000 grant by The Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth.

Through the grant, the Worthington Bluebonnet Development Program has been established in honor of the newly-named Worthington Bluebonnet, a rare pale blue selection recently segregated by Extension Service horticulturists Dr. Jerry Parsons and Dr. Don Wilkerson. The program will support more intensive investigations into the bluebonnet's germination, pollination and color variations.

"Our role is to continue studying the plant's germination characteristics," Parsons points out. "We hope to eventually unlock the secrets of the bluebonnet's blooming cycle to make commercial production of seeds for garden annuals both efficient and reliable."

Bluebonnet transplants are becoming more readily available at local nurseries, notes Parsons, but too many variables remain that hamper full production of the flower for home gardening.

"A lot of mystery still remains to the bluebonnet's blooming cycle," says Wilkerson. "One possibility is that of 'forcing' blooms at a designated time, similar to the blooming poinsettias at Christmas and lilies at Easter."

"We also have identified and segregated several new color selections, such as the lighter blue Worthington bluebonnet. We now have varieties that are pink, white and very dark blue," notes Parsons. "But we remain several generations away from firmly establishing their final hues and mass production."

The horticulturists are hopeful that one day gardeners will be able to select, mix and match their favorite bluebonnet shapes, just as they do now with pansies, petunias and other annuals.

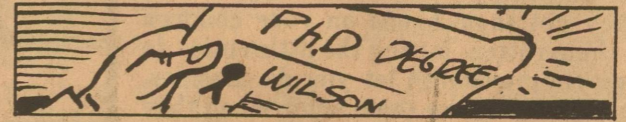

A big question regarding bluebonnets continues to be seed scarification and pollination. Since the seed coat is hard, most seeds are unproductive. In fact, commercially-produced seed currently have only a 30 to 40 percent germination rate, but Parsons is optimistic that this rate can be increased to as high as 90 percent through use of chemical abrasives.

Pollination studies are being intensified to enhance future breeding efforts, add the horticulturists.

"In many ways, the bluebonnet remains a mysterious flower, but we hope our efforts will unlock some of its secrets," says Wilkerson. "Since it is the state flower, we hope to make it available to all Texans so that they can enjoy it in their own yards and gardens rather than just in the wild."

Individuals wishing to contribute to these studies to domesticate the bluebonnet may do so by making checks payable to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and sending them to the Worthington Bluebonnet Development Program, 200 Main, Fort Worth, Tex. 76102.

Imports selling well

Texas registrations of new imported cars improved 4.5 percent in April, ending a two month decline, but overall new car and truck registrations continue to fall, according to Gene Fondren, president of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association.

According to information supplied by the Detroit-based R.L. Polk Co., 12,919 new imported cars were registered in April 1986 while 12,351 new imported cars were registered during April 1985. During the first four months of 1986, almost 3.7 percent more new imported cars - 55,536 - were registered while 53,558 new imported cars were registered during the same period in 1985.

However, there was a decline in overall new car and truck registrations and Fondren says that is reflective of outstanding registration numbers in 1985 and an insecure Texas economy.

"We recorded a 19 percent decline in all new car and truck registrations last April but those numbers are misleading because April 1985 was in an exceptional sales period," Fondren said. "We don't deny that dealers are feeling the effects of a worsening Texas economy, but we don't believe it is as bad as it seems."

Fondren also noted that many new car and truck buyers who would normally be in the market during the spring bought several months earlier when the domestic manufacturers first introduced low interest rates as incentives to buy.

New car and truck registrations in April 1986 totaled 75,935, 17,852 units fewer than the 93,787 registered during the same month last year. Year-to-date, there has been an 11.25 percent drop in new car and truck registrations from 366,768 units registered during the first four months of 1985 to 325,479 units registered during the first four months of this year.

New car registrations in April dropped 11,284 units to 46,384 when compared to April 1985. There were 201,365 new cars registered during the first four months of this year while there were 224,899 registered during the same period in 1985.

April 1986 new truck registrations dropped 18 percent to 29,551 from the 36,119 registered in that 30-day period in 1985.

The General Motors Corp. recorded the greatest decline of the three largest domestic manufacturers. GM's new car registration in April were down 27.58 percent to 19,677 and the largest domestic carmaker saw its registrations off 17.24 percent to 84,761 during the first four months of this year.

Registrations of new Fords dropped almost 25 percent in April to 9,166. Texas had recorded year-to-date only 40,641 new Fords, which is 11.46 percent fewer than the number registered during the first four months of 1985.

The Chrysler Corp.'s April registrations in Texas were 4,489 while they totaled 5,667 in April 1985. Chrysler's year-to-date new car registrations in Texas dropped 9.13 percent from 1985 to 1986 to 19,828.

March gas totals increase

Railroad Commission Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent announced that Texas oil and gas wells produced 492,556,498 Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas in March 1986, compared to the February gas production total of 468,503,992. March, 1986 production was up 5.67 percent compared to March, 1985. Marketed gas production in March totaled 399,594,124 Mcf and reflected a 4.54 percent increase from the March 1985 volume. In February, the state produced 388,177 Mcf of gas in this category.

Marketed production is the gas left after liquid hydrocarbons have been separated on the lease from the "wet" gas that is usually produced at the wellhead. It also does not include gas that is reinjected into the producing reservoir to maintain pressure, gas that is used to fuel production-related equipment on the lease site, or gas that is otherwise not marketed.

Exports of Texas-produced gas in March totaled 188,925,711 Mcf and reflected a 5.03 percent decrease from March 1985. February 1986 exports of Texas-produced gas totaled 194,732,989.

grandparents keep an eye on you that would make Clint Eastwood's best "Go ahead, punk, make my day!" stare pale in comparison.

They profess to want some discipline from the new daddy, but at exactly what point is the line drawn? A stern "No!" is probably acceptable, but a spat on the posterior could mean a contract on your head with the local mafia.

Some grandparents get to have their cake and choke on it too. Those are the ones that say and do all we've already talked about, then for one reason or another, end up raising their grandkids.

Our hat is off to those grandies. We're serious. They have the toughest, most thankless job of all.

If the kid grows up to be president, they did a whale of a job and everybody is grateful. But if they have to call the real parents and tell them Johnny has just been busted for smoking dope, look out.

The obvious reply of, "Well, if you don't like the job we're doing, why don't you do it yourself?" usually gets lost in the smoke of battle.

Actually grandparents should be letter perfect parents. After all, they messed us up. They should certainly know how NOT to raise a grandson or daughter. Hindsight is supposed to be 20/20.

This is a tribute to grandparents. We would like to attain that status one day. The wife to be assumes we're going to have at least one child, and since wives are never wrong, the chances for becoming a grandparent for yours truly is almost certain.

Take it to the bank! One day, a stooped, silver-whiskered editor will be toiling over this typewriter on Tuesday night in Eldorado, writing a column on how great his grandkids are. Shucks, everyone knows the little rippers are perfect!

Eldorado area residents experiencing television signal interference that they believe is PAVE PAWS related should contact Air Force officials at Eldorado AFS, Texas.

Harold Emerson of the Air Force Electronic Systems Division says, "Special filters designed to eliminate the problem will be installed at no charge. The filters will be made available to residents whose antenna systems were operating before and during the radar construction."

Radar signal interference may be sending out a thin white line, flashing intermittently across the screen. Anyone whose television is showing similar symptoms can call Emerson at either 657-2409 or 657-7260. Arrangements will be made to fix the problem if it is determined to be radar related. All requests should be routed through Emerson.

The Eldorado-based PAVE PAWS radar, expected to become operational by May 1987, will warn of sea-launched ballistic missile attacks against the continental United States.

Library News....

Fifty-two children gathered at the Eldorado Public Library for the Summer Reading Program on Wednesday, June 18. The boys and girls with assistant librarian Sharon Fitts came dressed as pilgrims, cowboys, cowgirls, Davy Crockett, and other early day Texans.

After gathering at the library they walked to the Schleicher County Museum, where Margaret Forst answered questions and told about the museum. They later ate watermelon on the courthouse lawn.

The children set their own reading goals; most reading two books a week, one being a Texas book.

Wednesday, June 25 the program will be a movie and will be shown in the Corral Room of the Memorial Building. Popcorn and cold drinks will be served.

Apologies for the rain

By John Stuke

A little over a month ago, a man came up to me and said, "When are the Methodists going to start praying for some rain?" Well, we started praying for rain, and what happens? It seems like all we see now is rain.

This is beginning to upset some people. Baseball games have been cancelled. Women are complaining that they can't keep their floors clean because of all the mud people are carrying in on their boots. Others are tired of cutting their grass because it is growing so quickly. Some are complaining that they haven't been able to get their usual tan because of all this cloudiness.

Unfortunately, persons are blaming the Methodists for all the rain. They have told us to quit praying. They said they liked it better in the days when God wasn't listening to us.

And so we must give our apologies for those who don't like the rain. If our prayers had anything to do with it, we apologize to those who are upset. And we will be cautious with our prayers from now on. We were thinking of praying for the oil crisis to end but what happens when gas prices at the pumps go back up? I'll tell you what, you'll be blaming the Methodists again.

Come help us decide what we should pray for on Sundays at 11 a.m. and 5:45 p.m. in the evenings. The teaching of God's Word is at 10 a.m. Sundays and Wednesdays at 7 p.m. at the United Methodist Church, Eldorado.

THE MYTH OF THE TEXAS COWBOY

Remember the old westerns when the cowboy rode off alone into the sunset? That image is alive and well today. Only now we have those who want to ride off with their pickup into the sunset with their gun, snuff, and a six pack, as they set out to find adventure and independence.

Hollywood never did tell us what happened to that cowboy after he kept following that sunset. Well, I did some investigating on my own and found out that his horse died and he discovered he was an alcoholic, his wife left him because he never bothered to talk to her about her needs, was diagnosed as having cancer of the mouth from the chewing of snuff, and realized he was not independent but alone. And right before he died he said, "I hope Hell is as fun as my favorite country and western songs say it is"

Where is your life heading?

Living the life of a myth is going to get you where all myths get. They rot on the pages and the film they are on. Let God pick up the pieces of your life and your family life.

When someone tells you to ride off into the sunset, make sure you know where you are going. Wherever you end up you're going to have to pay the consequences of getting lost, and you lose everything you gained along the way.

Follow the "perfect" man and "perfect" God. When Jesus tells you to Follow the Son, he tells you exactly where you are headed, eternal life where there is no hate, illness, suffering, and pick-ups that run out of gas.

Hebrew 1:3 "The Sun is the radiance of God's glory and the exact representation of his being, sustaining all things by his powerful word" Let God's Word sustain your life.

Take your pick-up to church this Sunday. Come worship with us at the United Methodist Church.

Diez-y-Seis celebration set

Plans are now underway for this year's Diez-y-Seis de Septiembre celebration to be held on the courthouse lawn, rodeo arena, and rodeo slab on Saturday, September 13.

Grupo Amistad is now accepting applications for Diez-y-Seis Queen candidates. In order to be a candidate, young ladies must be at least 14 years of age by September 16, 1986 and have parental consent.

Among the prizes for this year's lucky winner will be a cash prize and a scholarship to the college of her choice. The first three applicants will be accepted.

The sun is three million miles closer to the earth during our winter than in our summer.

Open House. The new equipment affords much greater flexibility and quality than the old machine. [Staff Photo]

Open House turnout good

Schleicher County residents turned out in good numbers Sunday for an open house at Schleicher County Medical Center.

The open house spotlighted Dr. J.M. Brame, Eldorado physician recently chosen president of the Texas Medical Association, and new equipment recently installed at the hospital.

"Eldorado is proud of its medical facilities and how the hospital board, along with the auxiliary, are striving to keep in touch with new facilities which will enable our doctors and medical staff to better serve their patients," a spokesman said.

New equipment viewed by those on hand Sunday included a computerized blood analyzer, x-ray machine and Lifeline equipment. Hospital employees were on hand to explain each machine's function.

Emergency Medical Technicians were also in attendance to display the local ambulance and equipment included in it.

The hospital auxiliary served punch and cookies in the dining room.

"The hospital board and the auxiliary appreciated the response by our Eldorado people and doctors from San Angelo who came to show their interest in Schleicher County Medical Center," the spokesman concluded.

An estimated 125 million cars are on U.S. roads these days.

From The Top of The Divide

Over the last few months I have had the opportunity to see some movies of recent vintage. They are movies about growing up. The kind of "coming of age" movies. They are relatively well made. The acting is professional, lighting and camera work adequate, attention to detail admirable. The thing that bothers me is the amount of profanity used by the child actors.

I am sure the author feels that this creates a realistic effect. For all I know, today's teens talk with an endless succession of profane words interspersed with some rather witty dialogue. I thought art should imitate life not recreate it verbatim!

I am not so much of a stuffed shirt that I have never used profanity. I did, in fact, use it considerably more frequent in my own youth. This does not mean that I want to have such words shouted at me over the television or movie screen. What part does the use of such words, in an otherwise fine story, play in plot development or characterization.

I know that kids cuss. Why do it in a movie? Our movie makers ought to shoulder the responsibility they have to present the ideal as well as the real. I am sure there must be some interesting kid somewhere who can express himself or herself without using vulgar language. If there is no such kid then we are all to blame not just the movie makers.

Maybe the movie makers kids talk using these words. I know my children don't use them in my presence, although they may use them when I am not around. But that is just what I mean. There are probably a few times and places when a well spoken profane word can, in one stroke, express a whole range of emotions. My fear is that our children, raised on movies and TV filled with the prolific use of profanity, may use those words so frequently that such words will become accepted language. If that happens then such words will lose their pejorative punch.

The only value that these words have is to express moments of emotional stress that any longer oration would defuse.

I think we Americans have become a little too casual in our speech and we are letting our literati do the same to our entertainment. In the barracks such language may have its place but not on the silver screen.....

ALPINE - Former Eldorado High School football players Jay O'Harrow, Steven Saldivar and Steve Bowery have signed letters of intent to join the Sul Ross State University football team for the 1986 season.

TEENS SHOW KNOWLEDGE

When teenagers get together, soda, chips and candy are usually the order of the day. But not at the state 4-H food show, where the emphasis is on nutrition. With dishes such as "King Ranch Casserole" and "Spinach Strudel", 56 youngsters - all previous winners of local and district contests - showed off their culinary skills and knowledge recruiting class. They are coming from a quality program and should have the skills to join us for the upcoming season."
