

Anatomy Of A Chuckwagon..

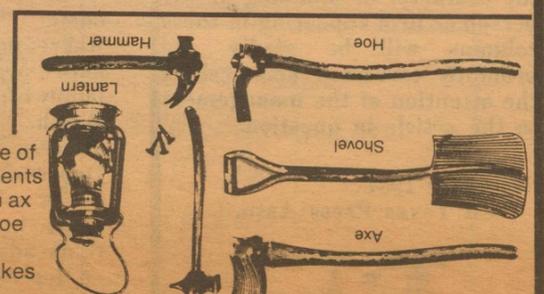

Counting 'Em Down:

8 Days 'til World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' & Pasture Roping!

(See Story Page 14)

This was the business end of the wagon. A hinged work table folded down from the front of the chuck box. Everything a wagon cook needed to feed a hungry outfit was within easy reaching distance. The smaller top drawers held pinto beans, utensils, shaving supplies, bandages, medicine, needle and thread. Just above the work table the cook kept his sourdough keg, baking soda, lard, molasses and tobacco "fixin's." In a drawer known only to himself, he kept a bottle of whiskey hid for "medicinal purposes."

A large tool box on the side of the wagon carried implements needed to set up camp: an ax for firewood, a shovel or hoe to dig a fire trench, and a heavy hammer to drive stakes and pot-rack rods.

AN EDITORIAL

Thanks - Air Force

BY TERRY B. NEILL
Success Editor

Of all the folks who should, we would think the United States Air Force would know where Eldorado is!

But it is starting to look more and more like they don't. The fact the PAVE PAWS is only seven miles from our Schleicher County seat may be a secret to our dauntless defenders of freedom.

Last Thursday we were greeted with a 48-point headline in the area daily announcing that PAVE PAWS would begin operating "for real" on Friday. That was certainly news to us. We got the USAF written news release in the Friday mail, much too late for our Thursday edition.

Now it doesn't take any brilliant public relations expert to figure out the Eldorado Success has at least as much interest in the story as an area daily. Gosh, we can almost throw a rock and hit the thing. It's on Schleicher soil--not Tom Green County.

It wouldn't have taken a lot of effort to have called and told us about the big news, then mailed the news release a day or two early so that both the Success and the Standard Times could have broken the news together Thursday. Call it professional courtesy or whatever, it didn't happen.

Of course we shouldn't have been surprised. The feds came down and told Schleicher Countians what a big benefit PAVE PAWS would be to the local economy, then seemed to forget Eldorado exists.

One of the first things they did was establish a bus system to haul their employees back and forth from San Angelo, actually encouraging personnel to live in the Concho River City instead of here.

About all Eldorado has realized from the missile detection center is a minimum of publicity, a few jobs for local people and a few, and darned few, new residents, most of whom live somewhere else and stay here during the week.

As far as we know, no military people at all live here. Why live in little Eldorado when you have a free shuttle back and forth to San Angelo?

If we have been informed correctly San Angelo had an opportunity to have PAVE PAWS and didn't want it--as did Christoval.

The Air Force and everyone else should remember that Schleicher County residents worked long and hard to embrace the construction of PAVE PAWS. It seems only right that we gain a few benefits from its construction instead of slaps in the face.

Eldorado Youth Rodeo should have been especially fulfilling.

Lots of people worked to make this year's rodeo another big success. Putting on a successful rodeo--youth or otherwise--in this day and time is a tricky thing. Stock and other costs are high and not just anyone can put on a rodeo and have it flow smoothly.

In Eldorado we're lucky to have a talented bunch of hard-working folks who can get the job done. It is common knowledge in rodeo circles that Eldorado's rodeos are always top notch--matched only by the facilities in which they are held.

Events like last weekend's show are especially good because they benefit our youth. Youngsters cannot only take part and enjoy rodeo activities now but learn skills they will never forget. And they're off the streets.

Congratulations to everyone who worked so hard to make it work. Our hat is off to you and the youth of Schleicher County and West Texas.

PARENTS DEALING WITH TEEN DEPRESSION--Recent highly publicized teenage suicides in other states have once again focused Texas parents' concerns closer to home. "Like adolescents everywhere, many Texas Youngsters are under a great deal of stress," says family life education specialist Diane Welch. "This stress may lead to distress and then to depression." Depression takes many forms and has a wide variety of symptoms. Many mental health professionals think adolescents experience masked depression or behaviors that are indirect evidence of their depression.

EDITOR'S NOTE--We are reprinting the following anonymous letter written to Bill and Louise Radle at their request and in conjunction with a letter to the editor elsewhere on this page. [t.b.] Mr. and Mrs. Bill Radle,

Some of us in this area would like to get together and help you haul off some of the trash around your house. It looks like the Eldorado dump grounds. One of our relatives visited us and said this was a nice area of town except those Mexicans that live in first house and pointed yours out.

It certainly does take from our area up here and we have debated among us to mention this, but all agree it is time to say something. We will all volunteer help and pickups. How about it?

Editor,

On May 6, 1987 Bill and I received this nice letter. It was unsigned and no return address, so therefore, we don't know who or whose relatives to thank. So would you please print the letter and our reply.

I do not even have their telephone number after all the nice help offered. Dear Person or Persons (mostly to that precious person that wrote the nice letter to Bill and I. You forgot to sign your name.)

I can get two guesses and tell you with one who wrote it. Like we said we were here before a lot of you. No one on our little block of ground ask you to build here. It is eight tenths of an acre bought and paid for by Bill and Louise Radle in an unrestricted area.

So I'd like to take this opportunity to say thank you dear neighbors and their relatives for your lovely offer, but, no thanks. It may take some of you, wonderful neighbors we never see or hear from, away from your truly beautiful yards and gardens, the ones you had wet back labor to make truly beautiful, plus your regular jobs.

We have lived here fourteen years this August. If you remember this place you can surely see some improvements we have made. We admit it isn't just like we would like to have it, but, it is our trash and one day we may have time to fix it into the place you would like to see.

We like to think that anyway. When we moved here Bill worked for the highway department. He worked eight hours a day, I am not able to do too much work, then, on days and nights there was flooding or freezing of roads and bridges he would be out sometimes twelve to sixteen hours a day.

He was a member of the Sonora fire department for a good number of years before we moved to Eldorado. He joined the Eldorado Volunteer fire department. Please note I said volunteer. He is a firemans training instructor in San Angelo, a training instructor at A&M University at College Station all of this is volunteer, too.

He just likes helping people. If someone calls day or night Bill is there, because he always thinks he can help someone, so needless to say he does not have too much time for his own.

He is hoping someday to get to work on some of the so called trash and have a sort of hobby. Now is this so bad? It is his trash.

In August, 1985 he had a heart attack and was told to slow down so on January 30, 1987 he retired so he could work on his trash. But he was asked by some people if he could help them.

He was glad to get to help someone else, so he is at it again helping. He works eight hours again now and then four to six hours at home in the garden. He has helped a lot of people you or your relative, that pointed at our home and said it looked like the Eldorado dump grounds plus a Mexican place, will ever know about.

Besides what is wrong with Mexican places? There are a lot of beautiful Mexican homes in Eldorado. And I'll just bet they are paid for just like ours.

I can truly say you and your relative the ones that forgot to sign your letter, give an address or telephone number here on snob street are not very nice to compare our trash pile dump ground to some of the nice Mexican homes here.

So in-between being sick and busy we are sorry we haven't turned our home into a show place like you would like. If you care to look at your city map we are not in the restricted area.

Thank goodness. So I have a remedy for you and your nice relative. Here it is so plain you can be a little stupid for not thinking of it yourselves. When you are driving north on our street, look to the south or east.

When you are driving or walking south look to the south or east. Never look to the west. It works. If you like to stop by say hi, you never have before, in the fourteen years, feel free. Thanks. I mean if you don't mind saying hi to a dump ground, Mexicany place owner and his ever loving wife Louise.

Thanks dear people for the nice offer and May God continue to bless you in your area with beautiful surroundings. Bill and Louise have never needed help with our trash hauling we pay a monthly bill at the City Hall. We will do the rest ourselves.

Next time please at least give me your phone number and I won't have to answer this way.

Love to all
Sincerely
Mr. Bill & Mrs. Louise Radle

Elementary Music students present Easter Program

The Elementary Music Classes presented their Easter Music program Tuesday night, April 14, in the High School Auditorium.

There were approximately 250 children involved from Kindergarten through third grade. Music was directed by Mrs. Robert Parker, Elementary Music Teacher, with the help of all the teachers and aids.

The front of the stage was decorated with large flowers of all colors on a fence. A large bunny rabbit was on one side with many small rabbits scattered around.

The program began with Kindergarten, wearing paper bunny hats, singing Bunny Bunny, Easter Eggs and Two Rabbits.

First Grade sang Easter Bunny and Easter Eggs. Then a combined group did a Bunny Hop, choreographed by Randy Mitchel and Nida Chambers.

Second grade was next on stage and sang Easter Fun and Easter Duckling.

Third grade sang Easter Eggs and An Easter Bunny.

For the finale the entire four grades were on the stage with a throne in the center for Peter Cottontail. They all sang "Here Comes Peter Cottontail" and a live Bunny came dancing in while they were singing and danced right up to the throne and took his seat.

Many proud parents and relatives filled the auditorium to view the performance.

PLANNING AHEAD FOR ELDERLY CARE--Open communication and planning between adult children and their aging parents can ease the transition of dependency in a family, says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren. Increasing frailty can be a daily reminder of a parent's mortality.

PLAYING FOR ARKANSAS GEMS

Dreams coming true for local girl

BY MACK REDDISH

A 5'9", 21-year old woman started realizing her dream might come true on February 19, 1987, as she attended a basketball game in Eldorado between the Arkansas Gems and the Eldorado Studs, put on by the Lions Club.

As the women went through one of their routines, Davina said to herself, "This is what I would like to do." The routine that the Gems do is really something the fans get into, even though it's done on the opposing team the act is surely enjoyed by all.

Davina luckily sat right behind the Gems bench and with her red hair she's hard to miss. The coach and owner of the team spotted Davina and made the comment that Davina looked like she had played basketball.

One of the reasons Davina thought the comment was made was because she was wearing a sweat suit. Davina, a 1984 graduate of Eldorado High, played ball and had a good career, but never got the chance to go to college and play.

After the ball game between the Gems and the Studs, Davina drove around the hotel here in Eldorado where the Gems were staying, wanting to ask if she could possibly tryout for the team.

As she got closer to the hotel her body just froze so she drove on by. After trying to sleep that night, Davina decided the next morning to call over to the hotel, and she did.

She talked to the coach, who remembered her, not only her red hair and sweats, but the enthusiasm she showed through the course of the evening. The Gems had an opening on the team and gave her a shot.

Davina worked out that day as the Gems had a game out of town, and were coming back through Eldorado on their way to their next game. They picked Davina up, she joined the team February 21.

When she stepped onto the court for the first time, she was very nervous and excited. After the game kids came up to her asking for her autograph.

The dream had come true. She played in about 60 games in about 18 different states. The Gems travel by van. Davina said after eight to 10 game she started feeling like part of the team.

There are only six players, and Davina said "It's like having five new sisters", it's one happy family.

Davina said there are so many good things happening to her during the season but the one thing that sticks out is when they traveled to Ogdonsburg, New York to the prison. "They were the nicest guys we met and the best team we played through the season."

She also got a chance to meet some professional players. It's off season for the Gems for about five months, before she flies back to Minnesota to join the team. During the off season she hopes to work and get a chance to workout to prepare for the upcoming season. "Dreams do come true."

WHEN THE FREEZER FAILS-- As the season for violent weather approaches, it's time to think about the consequences of power outages. What do you do when the freezer fails? According to Marilyn Haggard, a nutrition specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University, "the first thing you do is find out how long it will be out. If it's anything less than a day or two, don't worry." A well-stocked freezer should stay frozen two days. A half-stocked freezer should last a day. As long as the freezer is not running, Haggard recommends keeping it closed as much as possible. If the power will be off for a few days, try to divide up the food among your friends' freezers.

Growing Up

One of the first milestones in growing up is the loss of the two front teeth. To a youngster, this signifies the first real step in achieving maturity. And he has faith that his baby teeth will be replaced with permanent ones, just as he has faith that he will grow to be a man.

We learn of faith at a very early age, and it is faith that sustains us until we are able to do for ourselves. Even as we have faith in our parents on earth, who love us, so also must we have faith in our heavenly Father, who cares for us from birth until death.

Spring Band Concert held

BY EVELYN STIGLER

The Schleicher County I.S.D. Music Department presented the 1987 Annual Spring Concert May 12 in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Directors were Michael G. Marsh and Manuel San Luis.

The Fourth Grade Music Class with recorders and singing performed America and Somewhere Out There with Debbie Joy as accompanist on electric piano.

The Fifth Grade band performed Crusader's Hymn and Shortnin' Bread.

The Sixth Grade Band played Under the Big Top, Irish Folk Dance and Barbara Ann.

The Seventh Grade Band presented Winchester March, Procession of the Trumpets and Exaltation.

The Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Grade Bands were directed by Manuel San Luis. He was presented with an arrangement of flowers from the Seventh Grade Band in appreciation of his work with them. This is his first year with the band.

The High School Band played Semper Fidelis, Yorkshire Ballad, Symphonic Overture, Portsmouth and Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

Mr. Marsh was presented with a Gift Certificate from the high school band in appreciation for his work with them.

There were 235 students from fourth grade through high school who participated in the concert.

It was a "Grand Night of Music."

Both band directors and the entire school faculty are to be commended for a fine performance and also for the number who participated in solos, ensembles, trios, etc. in District, Region and those who go to state.

24 junior high school members placed in District, 19 high school and 33 who placed in solos and ensembles.

It's estimated that sharks attack men ten times more than they do women.

Women's Club has salad luncheon

The annual Salad Luncheon and final meeting for 1986-87 of The Woman's Club was held May 12 in the Memorial Building. The theme The Ship Anchors was carried out in table decorations with a large silver anchor as centerpiece on the serving table. Blue and white cloths were used on serving table and card tables. Small blue anchors were given for favors to be used as book marks. There were 16 members and one guest, Mrs. Viola Guthrie of Hico, present.

In the business meeting the Club voted to give $100 to the E.M.T. fund.

A report from the State-Convention was made by the president, Ora Deal, and she presented the Club with an award of First Place in Federation program and in the category of Arts and Crafts. The yearbook had placed in the top six in the state.

Mrs. R.D. Johnson read a letter from the General Federation president concerning her project for the year which is care of endangered species, especially eagles and mountain lions. She was asking for donations from individual members to help carry on this project. All of the members were opposed to the nature of the project as this is sheep, goat and cattle country and many of these animals have been killed by eagles, wolves and lions. Mrs. Johnson then read a letter that she had written to Mrs. Roberts, who is the National President. She stated in the letter why we were opposed to her project. All members present signed the letter and it will be sent to Mrs. Roberts.

As the program began, with Ethel Etheredge as leader, she read the poem "Tis the Set of the Sail" as it was read at first meeting of the year.

Each program for the year had something to do with ships in some way so in giving an introduction Mrs. Etheredge stated, "In September the Woman's Club set sail for an exciting and rewarding year. The ship held hard to the course. Neither rain nor cold wind impeded the journey."

"Today the ship docks and as we drop anchor, the officers and members of the crew will present the reports of their activities while on this eventful and rewarding voyage."

As each officer came to give her report Mrs. Etheredge pinned a name tag with a picture of a ship on it and the office she had held this year. They were captain-president, First Mate, president elect, Bots-wain-first vice president, Ship's Hostess, 2nd vice president, Logger-secretary, Purser-treasurer, Captain's Aide-Federation Counselor, Ship's Historian-historian, Ship's Doctor-parliamentarian. The crew was composed of chairmen of standing committees, department chairmen and representatives to different organizations.

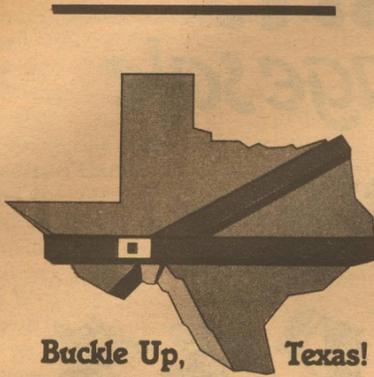

The library representative Mrs. James Williams reported that our library is now to be called Schleicher County Library. It is now a member of The Big Country Library and as such will be entitled to receive more books and a greater variety.

T.G.I.F. back for summer here

Thank God It's Friday (TGIF) is back for the summer months. TGIF is an hour and a half of fun for kids from three to 12.

There will be singing, an object lesson, puppets, Bible stories, clowns, craft time and much more. The first TGIF will be this Friday, May 15, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at the Agape Assembly of God Church on the corner of Warner and Hackberry.

"We invite all kids to come and enjoy Friday afternoon with us," a spokesman said.

Dog, weed problems greet council

Dog and weed problems were in the spotlight at Tuesday night's meeting of the Eldorado City Council.

Gene Robertson met with the council to discuss the city's animal control policies. He said a large dog had jumped into the front seat of his auto and threatened his little girl recently.

Robertson explained that he lives in the city limits but that the dogs in question are owned by non-residents. "I realize you (the council) have a problem and that there is no easy solution, but there must be something we can do. It (the near attack) could have been very serious for us," Robertson stated.

He said that he had talked to Schleicher County Sheriffs Department officers, who said they were powerless to do anything about the problem without guidance from the city. "Tom Giovannitti, county attorney, is going to write the owners of the dogs a letter," Robertson added.

Members of the council noted that the city can do little about animals that are housed outside the city limits. Councilmen discussed hiring a part-time, possible retired, person as animal control officer, but noted that several thousand dollars would have to be spent for construction of pens for dogs that would be picked up.

"Not just any pen will do—they must meet state requirements and estimates for cost on their construction have run about $1,500 each," Carolyn Mayo, city secretary, reported.

Councilmen pointed out that the city's existing animal control ordinance is "not perfect either", not containing any provision for tagging of local canines.

The council asked Mrs. Mayo to contact Sonora to see if one of their two animal control officers could be utilized in Eldorado one or two evenings each week. If this plan worked, councilmen noted, the dogs could be taken back to Sonora and housed. Mrs. Mayo was also asked to attain animal control ordinances in effect in area cities for study by the council.

The council also discussed the city's weed control ordinance for vacant lots and on a split vote decided to re-write the provision and begin enforcing it. Councilmen Rooster Jackson, John Nikolauk, Richard Preston and Terry B. Neill voted in favor and Barbara Jackson against.

Mrs. Jackson said she agreed that there is a weed problem on lots in Eldorado but worried that the ordinance would present unfair financial strain for the poor and elderly.

Neill, who pushed for changes in the provision that would enable the city to cut weeds on vacant lots and bill property owners suggested that a list be made at city hall of lot owners who are elderly and/or poor and that civic clubs be approached about cleaning up their lots. Mrs. Jackson said she thought that idea might work, but her vote stood.

The current weed ordinance calls for a $50 per day fine for property owners who do not mow their lots. If the changes are approved the city will target the lots for mowing, notify the property owners by certified mail and then mow the lots and bill the owners for the city's exact cost.

In other action the council:

--Approved an ordinance making it illegal to park trucks on city streets. The ordinance passed unanimously. Trucks parked on city streets are public nuisances, the council noted, and have been responsible for damages to local streets.

--Excepted the monthly financial report for the city. The report showed that Eldorado has lost 54 families from the last budget year.

--Voted to pay all bills for April.

--Voted to purchase a new mosquito fogging machine for $340. The council approved the purchase dependent on the sprayer getting good performance marks from other cities where it is already in use and at a demonstration set for city officials on Wednesday afternoon.

--Voted to repeal the telecommunications exemption from local phone bills on a split vote. Council members Jackson, Preston, Nikolauk and Jackson voted for the repeal and Neill against.

Repeal of the exemption will mean a one percent sales tax on local phone bills, beginning in October. The new tax is expected to raise about $88 per month for city coffers.

--Voted to begin tagging junked cars in Eldorado. The vehicles will be tagged, and their owners given a certain period of time to remove them on their own, before the city has them towed away. Tagging procedures are expected to start promptly.

--Voted to advertise for bids for the purchase of two or three small, four-cylinder pickups for use by city street crews. The pickups will replace some of the city's aging pickups which are over 20 years old. Bid specifications will be reviewed by the council at its June session.

--Approved the naming of May 18-25 as Buckle-Up Week in Eldorado in compliance with Governor Bill Clements' wishes.

The annual per capita consumption of soap and detergent in the United States is about forty pounds.

PAVE PAWS begins operation Friday

The 8th Missile Warning Squadron goes into operational status Friday as the fourth sensor in the PAVE PAWS radar system. The other sites are located at Cape Cod Air Force Station, Mass.; Beale Air Force Base, Calif.; and Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

"In the past year over 200 people have come in and taken this site from construction to an operational missile warning and space surveillance radar," said Lieutenant Colonel John S. Paul, commander of the new squadron.

"This completes the PAVE PAWS program and we now have four sites that provide warning coverage around the United States. PAVE PAWS and the 8th Missile Warning Squadron are a tremendous asset to Air Force Space Command and is a major contributor to our national defense," the colonel said.

"The activation of the squadron culminates a 13-year effort to develop and activate the PAVE PAWS system," said Tom Pucci, Air Force Systems Command program director. "The new radar meets or exceeds all performance criteria, and was finished ahead of schedule and $9.5 million below projected cost."

The primary mission of the unit is to provide warning of a sea-launched ballistic missile attack as well as to provide warning data on an intercontinental ballistic missile attack on the United States. The third mission is space surveillance.

This consists of keeping track of over 6,000 objects in space.

The main difference between PAVE PAWS and conventional radar is that PAVE PAWS is steered electronically. The phased array radar incorporates nearly 3,600 small, active antenna elements coordinated by two computers. One computer is on-line at all times, the second computer will automatically take control if the first one fails.

The computers feed energy to the antenna units in precise, controlled patterns, allowing the radar to detect objects at very high speeds since no mechanical parts limit the speed of the radar sweep. The PAVE PAWS radar can electronically change its point of focus in milliseconds, while the conventional disc-shaped radar may take up to a minute to mechanically swing from one area to another.

The PAVE PAWS building that houses the radar components is shaped roughly like a pyramid with a triangular base. It has two radiating faces which are tilted back 20 degrees from the vertical. Each face contains approximately 1,800 active antenna elements. PAVE PAWS radar beams reach outward for approximately 3,000 nautical miles in a 240-degree sweep. At this range, it can detect an object the size of a small automobile.

The sophisticated solid state radar was developed by Air Force Systems Command's Electronic Systems Division. The prime contractor is Raytheon.

Electronic Systems Division first began work on the PAVE PAWS system in 1974. At that time, only two systems, those at Cape Cod and Beale were planned. The Cape Cod site was completed in 1979, while the Beale site in Northern California began operating a year later. Development of the third and fourth sites began in 1982 under the PAVE PAWS Expansion Program. Groundbreaking at the Eldorado site was in late 1984, and construction was completed in late 1986. The Georgia radar was turned over to Air Force Space Command in November 1986, on schedule and below cost.

PAVE PAWS was recognized as Electronic Systems Division's most successful program of 1986 when it received the Division's Shielly Award.

New 65 mph speed limit signs already up in Texas

At one minute past midnight Friday night, a new 65-mph speed limit goes into effect on rural Interstate highways in Texas.

"The public is excited about this," said Byron Blaschke, deputy engineer-director of the highway department, "and we are doing all we can to make a smooth transition to the new speed limit."

Last Friday, the highway commission established the new maximum speed limit of 65 mph for cars and light trucks on rural Interstate highways. In this context, "rural" means outside urban areas of 50,000 or more people.

The governor concurred Wednesday with the new speed limit which becomes effective at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, May 9, where signs are posted.

Some rural Interstate sections will continue with speed limits posted lower than 65 mph for traffic and engineering reasons. These reduced speed zones existed before the 1974 federally mandated reduction to 55 mph. The department will examine each of these areas and determine the need to continue or discontinue the lower speeds.

Blaschke emphasized that the new limits apply only to rural highways with Interstate designation. The speed limit on all other roadways, including urban Interstate, remains 55 mph.

The department will be working Saturday to put up the new signs.

"With more than 1,300 signs going up statewide, it will take us a few hours, but we will get the job done as quickly as possible," Blaschke said.

The speed limits will affect 2,441 miles of the 3,148-mile Interstate system in Texas, but only about 8 percent of the total vehicle miles traveled in the state.

The rural Interstates comprise only three percent of the total state-maintained system. "Texas has 71,000-plus miles on the state system where the 55-mph speed limit will be retained," Blaschke said.

Blaschke also pointed out that the current action does not change longstanding Texas law that sets maximum speeds. Under that law, the maximum speed for large trucks is 60 mph during the day and 55 mph at night, and these limits will once again be in effect May 9 on rural Interstates.

BY THOMAS GIOVANNITTI

I don't know about you but summer is coming on much too fast for me. I haven't even gotten over winter and already the kids will be home all summer. I think the thing that irks me the most is knowing that they are going to essentially have it pretty easy for about three months.

OH! we can say what we want, but most of us do not work our children half as hard as we could or maybe should. With so many labor saving devices I have trouble thinking of my children as over worked because they had to load the dishwasher or the washing machine. Sitting in an air conditioned house folding the laundry just out of the automatic dryer is not hard work.

Of course, the problem may be that there really is no work even for the bigger kids. Farming is so mechanized and most of the farmers have their own children to do what work there is left to do. Other than these few youngsters who may have visions of inheriting the place, there may not be too many young ones willing to do stoop labor.

I wouldn't want to be thought of as a child abuser, but very hard work, especially for those children over fourteen might not be too bad an idea. My problem is, I don't know where to find such a job for my oldest.

I can remember picking blueberries, asparagus, and tomatoes, not all at the same time, of course. It was hard, hot, sweaty work and the only redeeming factor was that we started so early in the morning that by five, when the day had really gotten hot, we would stop and take off for the swimming hole. Usually the farmer had enough picked that he didn't gripe, although, as some of the old Sicilian women would do, you could stay till dark if you wanted.

Some of those old ladies could pick 300 quarts a day. Let me tell you, that is a lot of blueberries. Mind you, the great disservice I do my children is I may not have instilled in them a belief that they need to work. I don't mean they need the money, we all need that we think. I mean they need to work so that they will recognize leisure. They need to work so they will know what workers know, that all work not only makes Jack dull but it makes him sore and aching.

We have made great strides in providing the comforts of life to our children. I wonder if we have really improved the quality of their lives?

Brame talks to Houston physicians

HOUSTON--Dr. Jim Bob Brame, an Eldorado family practitioner, was recently in Houston to advise The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute on how the hospital can better serve community physicians.

As a member of UT M.D. Anderson Hospital's Texas Physicians Advisory Committee (TPAC), Dr. Brame attended the committee's May 1 meeting.

Formed in 1980, the 21-member group meets annually to review programs and provide expert advice on how UT M.D. Anderson Hospital can best meet the needs of community physicians and their patients.

"Feedback from community physicians across the state is vital to M.D. Anderson's ability to continually provide the best patient care for all Texans," said Dr. Joseph T. Painter, vice president for Physician Referral Development and Extramural Programs.

"We know that a successful partnership is based not only on how well we care for patients who are referred here, but also on how well we meet the individual needs of each referring physician."

Dr. Brame, the 1986-87 president of the Texas Medical Association, was appointed to TPAC in 1986. He helped organize the East Harris County Branch of the Harris County Medical Society and has held several offices in that society.

HOGS AS 'MORTGAGE LIFTERS'--With good management, hogs can make money for producers and serve as "mortgage lifters." Charles Sewell of Abilene, a seasoned swine producer, told several hundred swine operators who attended the annual Texas Swine Short Course staged in Seguin, April 10-11. It is the responsibility of the grower to produce the type of product the consumer wants.

Niblett-Taylor wedding vows repeated April 25

Trudy Dell Taylor and Charles Ashley Niblett were united in marriage Saturday, April 25 in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church of Sonora.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jinx Taylor and the late Robert Taylor of Sonora while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Niblett of Eldorado.

Illuminated by 150 candles the ceremony was performed at 6:30 p.m. by the Rev. Fred Cox of Art, Texas.

The bride was attended by maid of honor Bonnie Jackson, Sonora, and bridesmaids Keri Kropp, Austin, Jari Burkes and Julie Jackson, Sonora, and Shanna Paxton, Eldorado. Junior bridesmaid was Dorie Murr and flower girl was Susan Murr, both of Junction and cousins of the bride.

The attendant's gowns featured full gored skirts gathered to fitted bodice at waistline with sweetheart neckline. The gowns had elasticized shoulders with ribbon bows and lace trim.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of Huckleberry Moire taffeta and the tops were alecon taffeta lace. They wore pitcher hats and carried matching nosegays.

Best man was Whit Paxton of Eldorado. Groomsmen were Gene Edmiston and Keith McCormack of San Angelo, Lane Wilson of Odessa and Bill Clark of Eldorado. Junior groomsmen were T.J. Rodriguez of College Station, nephew of the groom.

The men wore off white tuxedos with huckleberry bow tie and cummerbund.

Ringbearer was Travis Lloyd of Mount Pleasant. Ushers were Tim McAngus and Danny Pina of Eldorado, James Woodward of Christoval and Bill Nikolauk of Dallas.

Candlelighters were Cherie Niblett of College Station and Elizabeth Lloyd of Mount Pleasant, sisters of the groom.

For her wedding day the bride chose a white silk taffeta designer gown by The Diamond Collection which featured a dropped waist adorned with imported alecon lace.

The gown had small puffed sleeves which were accented with sequins and pearls with delicate flowers on the shoulders.

The full skirt flowed gracefully into a cathedral train and was lavishly applied with hand beaded alecon lace.

To complete her attire, the bride wore a fully beaded alecon lace picture hat with a French pouff and waist-length illusion. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers, pink tulip, white spider mum, lillium, and alstroemeria.

A reception was held at the Sonora Golf Club. The bride's table was laced with Smilax greenery, accented with spring flowers and a five-tiered wedding cake.

The groom's table featured a cake shaped like a truck and bearing the words: "Get Me To The Church On Time". Also the table had a gold tea service and coffee and coffee-punch.

Registering guests was Courtney Cauthorn. Serving were Nancy, Brenda and Suzanne Surber, Nita Wilson, Sandra Shook and Joyce Kropp. Wine servers included Skooter Surber.

A dance followed the reception at the slab in Sonora. Providing music was "New Texas" from San Antonio.

The couple were honored with several showers and parties.

Out of town guests came from Junction, Houston, El Paso, Odessa, Crane, Menard, San Angelo, College Station, Mt. Pleasant, Hostire, Oklahoma, and Waurika, Oklahoma.

Following a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple is at home in Eldorado. Niblett is president of Niblett Oilfield Service.

World War II buddies reunited

The Rudy Spigarellis entertained three couples from out of town last week. The men had flown together during World War II in Italy. One had not seen any of the crew for 42 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dambocker were from Seattle, Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Spaulding were from Boulder City, Nevada and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Beeson were from Longview.

"Needless to say the visiting lasted until late hours - lots of story swapping and lies get bigger as time goes by.

"They were very interested in West Texas and quite impressed by our openness, friendly people. It was not a reunion any of them will likely forget," Mrs. Spigarelli said.

There are 1,678,815 Smiths in the United States.

CONSUMER SPENDING VITAL TO COMMUNITIES--Economic development of small Texas communities relies heavily on strong retail trade and service sectors, notes a community development specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Without adequate trade and service sectors, communities face local employment problems so that some people may be forced to move, and others--particularly farmers--who need employment for a family member, may be in additional jeopardy of suffering financial loss.

We had a great time operating the concession stand for the Youth Rodeo last Friday and Saturday. We want to thank the Schleicher County 4-H for offering us the opportunity to supply this service.

Also, thanks goes to Danny Crowder and Richard Harris for supplying our grill and being awfully darned good cooks. We need more parents like them. Also, the moms who helped in the concession stand or furnished food and supplies are so deeply appreciated.

XXX

Our kids really came through for us and with our proceeds we will be making a well deserved trip to Six Flags and Wet 'n' Wild later in the summer. Only the kids who help with our fund raises will be allowed to go--So--if you want to go on a fun trip for little or nothing, you need to sign up to work. We are keeping a record.

SELENIUM SUPPLEMENTS-- Selenium, a trace mineral, is becoming a popular item in health food stores; but taking too much could be fatal. "Claims that selenium deficiency causes cancer, hot flashes, and other menopausal distresses are overstated and out of proportion. There's no evidence that large doses of selenium will alleviate these problems," warns Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. "Selenium is an essential nutrient that's only needed in small quantities," says Hunt.

The youth council consisting of all members voted on this. It's the members money.

XXX

Also, we will need parents to help with our concession stands for the cook-off. Please, if you want to help us call us or say, "Yes I'd love to help" if we call you. The dates are May 22, 23 and 24.

XXX

Grupo Amistad used our facilities for a dance Saturday night and we want to let them know, you can use it again. It was cleaner when you left than when you started.

We are glad to be able to have a place to share when our rules are respected. Hope you had fun.

XXX

We hope to be having another car wash soon. As of now, we are selling candy for $1.00 a bar. Please help support E.P. by saying "Yes" to our kids and parents who are selling it.

XXX

There will be a new Karate Class for beginners starting in June on Wednesday nights. Anyone interested will need to sign up between 6 and 8 p.m. on Wednesdays during May.

Membership is limited--even the ladies' defense and exercise class has joined the beginners' class because of the exercise and self discipline and fun.

You may watch one class if you are interested in joining. This is under the direction of Clarence "Daddy-O" Smith of the Karate Institute from San Angelo. Fifteen percent of the fee is donated to Eagles' Point.

THIS 'N THAT.....

MOTHER wants a clarification on that nice Mother's Day tribute we gave her in "t.b." last week. She claims she didn't throw the PANS into the living room, instead heaving them into the utility room, and that the UNCLE had absolutely nothing to do with getting the tree to work. How come she at 72, remembers better than yours truly at 34?

There is absolutely NO TRUTH to the rumor that Alana Dakan flew home from the Western Heritage Classic Saturday without the aid of an airplane after visiting and posing for pictures with RAY of DALLAS. Actually she came on home with Bill after threatening another member of the DRN Boys with murder if he ran her picture in the paper. But we did anyway. Eat your heart out girls!

Fellow DRN Boy Joe Reidy got his picture in the Abilene Reporter News' Sunday edition. The picture captured Reidy fueling a dutchoven containing our brisket entry and appeared in color. Gee, Reidy, been signing any autographs?

Several folks, probably wanting something for their dart boards, have wondered why yours truly is never in any of the DRN Boys' photos. Wal, obviously we get to take 'em all. Our duties in the cookin' team boil down to cutting onions, chopping up garlic and taking care of the public relations. How's that for glamorous?

AN IMPORTANT LETTER....

Here's a letter a reader passed on which has made quite an impression on everyone who has read it:

A LOVE LETTER FROM JESUS

How are you? I just had to send you this letter to tell you how much I love you and care about you. I saw you yesterday as you were walking with your friends.

I waited all day, hoping you would walk and talk with me also. As evening drew near, I gave you a sunset to close your day, and a cool breeze to rest you. Then I waited, but you never came. O yes, it hurt me, but I still love you because I am your friend.

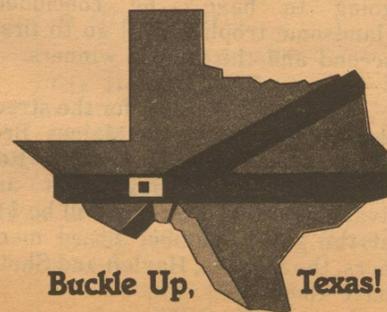

I saw you fall asleep last night, and I longed to touch your brow, so I spilled moonlight upon your pillow and your face...Again I waited, wanting to rush down so we could talk. I have so many gifts for you.

You awakened late this morning and rushed off for the day. My tears were in the rain. Today you looked so sad, so alone. It makes my heart ache because I understand. My friends let me down and hurt me many times, but I love you. I try to tell you in the quiet green grass. I whisper it in the leaves and trees, and breathe it in the color of the flowers.

I shout it to you in the mountain streams, and give the birds love songs to sing. I clothe you with warm sunshine and perfume the air. My love for you is deeper than the oceans and bigger than the biggest want or need you could ever have.

We will spend eternity together in heaven. I know how hard it is on earth. I really know, because I was there, and I want to help you. Just call me, ask me, talk to me. It is your decision...I have chosen you, and because of this I will wait...Because I love you.

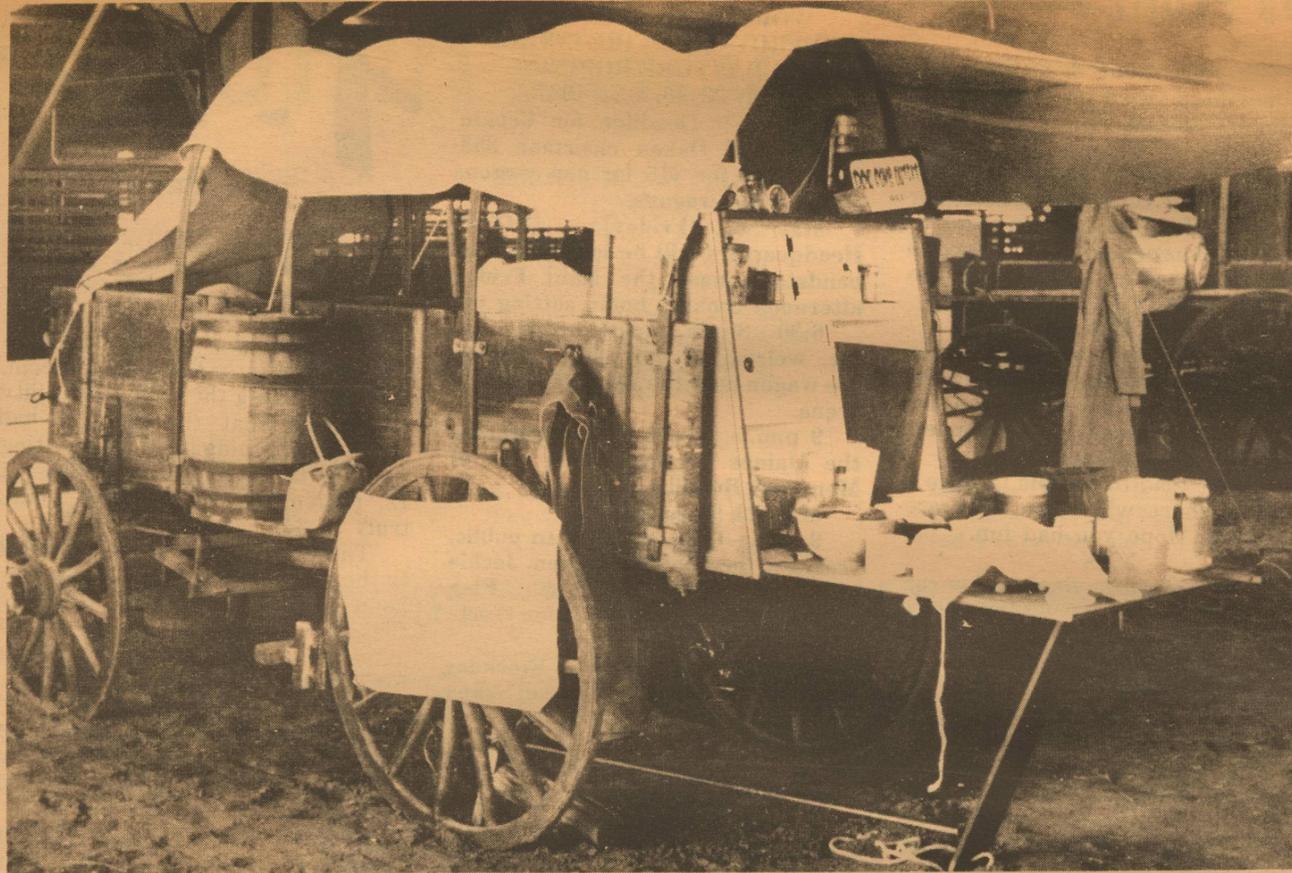

Your friend,
Jesus

ELDORADO WAGON--The DRN Boys Outfit from Eldorado took their chuckwagon to Abilene for the Western Heritage Classic last Friday and Saturday. The locals handed out over 1,500 Campfire Chronicles, promoting the World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' and Pasture Roping, set here May 22, 23 and 24. [Staff Photo]

FOR MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND

Chuckwagons Eldorado-bound

ELDORADO--Chuckwagons will be rolling, pots and pans clanking and ropes flying this month when the World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' and Pasture Roping is held here May 22, 23 and 24.

Events slated include the campfire cookin', western heritage art show and sale, goat roping, pasture roping, fiddlers contest, games for young and old alike, cowboy campfire church service, barbecue and two street dances.

The cookin' will be held May 23, with entrants cooking three dishes on the campfire or in dutch ovens--meat, dessert and bread. Absolutely no barbecue pits, propane cookers will be allowed. Two divisions are set--for those with wagons and those without.

Several noted artists will display and sell their art at the western heritage art show and sale, which will be held May 23 and 24, beginning at 10 a.m. both days. Among those attending will be Steve Devenyns, Cody, Wyoming, Alan Kinney, Kerrville, Duward Campbell, Lubbock, Lyndy Benson, Midland, and Herman Walker, Eldorado.

A Working Stockdog Contest will open Saturday's agenda, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the rodeo arena. Ranch dogs will pen goats. Trophies will go to the first, second and third place entries.

At 1 p.m. a goat roping will be staged, also in the arena, with over 100 ropers expected. Entry fee will be $12.

At 3 p.m. a fiddlers contest will be held, with four age divisions: 0-14, 15-40, 41-65 and 65 and over set. Cash, trophies and ribbons will go to first, second and third place winners. The fiddling contest is being sponsored by Budweiser.

A street dance will be held in Eldorado both Friday and Saturday nights with tickets available in advance and at the gate. The Maines Brothers, popular recording artists, will perform Friday and Red Steagall, noted cowboy entertainer will be on hand Saturday. Both dances will be held adjacent to the Memorial Building and will start at 9 p.m.

Games for young and old alike are planned for Saturday, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Sunday's activities will begin at 11 a.m. with a non-denominational campfire religious service, featuring Ted Pressler of Cowboys for Christ of Fort Worth.

At noon a barbecue will be held, and at 1:30 p.m. the pasture roping is scheduled. The roping will be held in the pasture behind the rodeo arena and will feature multiple roping teams in action at one time.

Persons wanting more details on the events or entry blanks may contact Wagon Bosses Terry B. Neill, 853-3631 or 853-2029; Joe Reidy, 853-2774; or Bill Dakan, 853-2416 or contact the Chamber office at 853-3109. Entries should be mailed to P.O. Box 1155, Eldorado, Tx 76936.

All events are being held at the Eldorado Rodeo Arena/4-H Complex and are sponsored by the Schleicher County Chamber of Commerce.

--MORE FACTS--

Steve Sykes, chairman of the Working Stockdog Contest, says entries should be on hand to register by 9 a.m. Saturday, May 23. The contest will start promptly at 9:30. Preston Dudley of Mertzson will be the judge and "his rulings will be final" Sykes points out.

While entry blanks are not available and not necessary, early registration with the chamber would be helpful, Sykes reports. "That would help us know how many we're going to have," he concluded. Handsome trophies will go to first, second and third place winners.

TICKETS....

Advance tickets for the street dances, featuring the Maines Brothers on Friday night and Red Steagall on Saturday night are available at $8 each, and will be $10 at the gate. Chamber board members, the Success, Hayloft and Shot's have them.

WAGONS.....

Cookin' chairman Bill Dakan is expecting as many as 16 chuckwagons. Red Steagall himself has a wagon but will not be bringing it this year because he hasn't got it rigged up to suit him yet.

"But I'm looking forward to coming to Eldorado," he said last Saturday. Steagall and a team of celebrities including Steve Kanaly (Ray on Dallas) entered the Ranch Rodeo held in conjunction with the Western Heritage Classic. If the wild cow milking Friday night was any example they are better off in their chosen professions.

ARTISTS.....

Talented western artist Steve Devenyns of Cody, Wyoming was also in Texas for the Abilene event and is excited about bringing his work to Eldorado. "Ya'll have a different idea and a good one," Steve said. All the artists spoken to by the DRN Boys Outfit in Abilene had high praise for Eldorado's talented artist, Herman Walker.

FIDDLING AROUND.....

Wayne Joiner, chairman of the Budweiser Old Time Fiddlers Contest was down in Rocksprings recently promoting the Eldorado event and reported that several fiddlers had already heard about it down there and were planning on attending.

Wayne is also lining up entertainment--bands, singers, etc. to entertain all day Saturday at the cookin' and roping and anyone interested in helping with the show is asked to give Wayne a call.

BOOTHS....

Jackie Harris, chairman, reports that requests for food and crafts booths, etc. continue to roll in. "We've got about 20 and are expecting another 10 or so," he reported.

WORK.....

Another meeting of the planning committee will be held at 6:30 p.m. this Thursday (tonight) at the rodeo arena to finalize locations for all facets of the show.

A clean-up day will be conducted this Saturday starting at 8 a.m. at the arena. Lots of help is needed.

Another planning session will be held next Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Memorial Building. All interested persons are invited and urged to attend.

NEWS RELEASES.....

More than 350 news releases have gone out in the last two weeks promoting the event and 7,500 Campfire Chronicles have been handed out. In all, almost 18,000 Chronicles have been utilized and 850 news releases mailed.

Radio Station K-GKL in San Angelo is the cookin' and roping's official radio station and will broadcast live from Eldorado next Saturday and Sunday. Articles on the event have also appeared in the Lone Star Roper, Livestock Weekly and Texas Highways.

Games for young, old scheduled

The World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' and Pasture Roping has been thought of as a family activity since its inception, and Kim-et Nelson has done her part to make sure every member of the family can participate in the games, planned for Saturday, May 23.

Several age groups have been set in the Tortilla toss, sack race, water carrying race, tobacco spitting, wheelbarrow race, horseshoes, washer pitching and dominoes.

Cash, trophies and ribbons will be awarded to winners in the various games, according to Mrs. Nelson. Games will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 and afternoon at 1:30. "Everyone is invited to attend and participate," Mrs. Nelson said.

FLOORING IS A PART OF REDECORATION--Amid the redecoration plans for painting, wall-papering, and changing cabinet styles, don't overlook flooring. It's not as difficult as you think. Flooring is all within the realm of the do-it-yourselfer. You can usually find a place to take flooring classes locally and save yourself expensive labor costs.
