SUNSHINE PUTS END TO COLD SPELL AFTER MERCURY HERE SLIPS TO SEASON'S LOW OF 26

A bright sun and absence of wind Wednesday afternoon marked the apparent end of the season's worst cold spell for this section, but residents surveyed some damage from a hard freeze of earlier in the day. The mercury at the airport dipped to a low of 26 degrees, four below the minimum of the day before. That mark was touched at 4 a. m. and the mercury made no advance until after 7 o'clock. The thermometer reading was above 50 early this afternoon. The Texas norther which had brought the state its coldest weather of the autumn moved southward, and while temperatures were rising in the north portion of the state, sectors as far south as San Antonio and Houston felt the chill.

21 At Lubbock
The worst cold apparently had passed for Panhandle points. At Amarillo, the lowest mercury reading was 24 degrees. Lubbock was the coldest point in the state early today with a reading of 21.

"Fair and not so cold" was the prediction for West Texas, but there was probability of frost in this section tonight. Inclement weather was general over the state yesterday as voters went to the polls. The norther had left in its wake freezing weather and cold, drizzling rains. Violent temperature drops marked the sudden cold wave's advent. There was heavy sleet at a few points.

T-P Engineer Slain; Baird Man Is Held

M. B. Jones Succumbs To Gunshot Wounds; Former Cook Surrenders

BAIRD, Nov. 4.—M. B. Jones locomotive engineer for the Texas & Pacific Railway for 25 years, was dead of gunshot wounds today and Fred Bracheen, 28, former cook in a local restaurant, was held to face murder charges as a result of a shooting on a downtown street here yesterday afternoon.

Jones succumbed in a local hospital, six hours after the shooting. Bracheen gave himself up to Sheriff Bob Edwards immediately after the affair, telephoning the sheriff's office and asking to be put in jail. He arrived there in a few minutes and surrendered a .25 Colt automatic, the sheriff said.

Officers learned the two men had been talking in the Baird postoffice and walked down the street to an office of a lawyer. Jones entered. Eye-witnesses to the shooting told officers that when Jones came out of the office, Bracheen pulled a pistol and fired three shots. Attendants at the hospital said one bullet entered the head above the left ear, another grazed the back of Jones' neck and a third entered the chin and came out through the mouth.

Officers said they removed a .25 automatic from the person of the injured man. Although Bracheen had not made a signed statement, police attributed the killing to family troubles. Mrs. Jones, the former Jewell Johnson of Baird, arrived from Fort Worth, the family home shortly before the death of her husband. They have two sons, Carl and M. E. Jr. She remained in Baird today with relatives — her aunt, Mrs. Emma Johnson, and a cousin, Sam Wrieten, and a cousin Mrs. Corrie Driskell.

Children Die In Tent Fire

Members Of Terry County Cotton Picking Family Victims

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 4.—Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lindsey were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their tent home here yesterday afternoon.

The dead were: Machine, 5, who died in a hospital. Wayland, 3, and LeDoyt, 19 months, who were found dead in the ruins of the tent. Another child, Jo Anne, 4, was slightly burned. She said her parents had gone to the north part of Terry county to pick cotton, leaving the children at home because it was too cold for them.

The fire started, investigators were told, when Wayland struck a match and held it to a quilt. The fire spread rapidly. The parents did not learn of the tragedy until they returned here last night.

Roosevelt - Garner Ticket Rolls Up Landslide Win

Demos Count 523 Electoral Votes To Eight For Landon-Knox; Popular Vote Lead Approximately Nine Million

(By The Associated Press)
A Roosevelt-Garner landslide that shook the nation today left but two states clinging to republicanism. Maine and Vermont alone clutched the beaten banner of Gov. Alf M. Landon, New Hampshire, the third far-off New England state, after marching with him all night, finally turned into the victorious column of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the morning returns.

Other states already had given the democratic presidential ticket shouting majorities in the electoral college and sent new recruits to the previously top-heavy list of democratic senate and house members.

The apparent electoral vote stood: Roosevelt, 523. Landon, 8.

Republicans were left with the smallest electoral vote the party had since the Taft debacle of 1912. The defeat

Borah And Norris Survive Party Landslide And Stay In Office

(By The Associated Press)
Returns from congressional elections over the state indicated that the democrats bid fair to hold 75 of 96 senate seats.

Senators Borah in Idaho and Norris in Nebraska, independent republicans, appeared to be escaping the democratic landslide. Norris, however, had the support of President Roosevelt.

Senator McNary, Oregon, republican leader, was having a hot fight; and the veterans Hastings of Delaware and Metcalf of Rhode Island were beaten.

More democratic house members instead of fewer—as had been anticipated in pre-election forecasts—seemed in prospect. In many states, races were in doubt, however.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE LEADERS PLAY SATURDAY

PONIES MAY REPEAT AS CHAMPIONS

DALLAS, Nov. 4—The current team to beat and a pre-season favorite facing elimination will battle here Saturday when the Southern Methodist Mustangs will meet the Texas Aggies in a Southwest conference game.

The Mustangs, 1936 season titl winners and Rose Bowl players, were not rated highly in pre-season guesses this year but now are picked to be the first team of record to win the conference pennant twice in succession.

The Aggies saw championship extinction loom up when a "he beats you, I beat him, you beat me" routine was completed among the three pre-season favorites Saturday when the Arkansas Razorbacks defeated them 18-0.

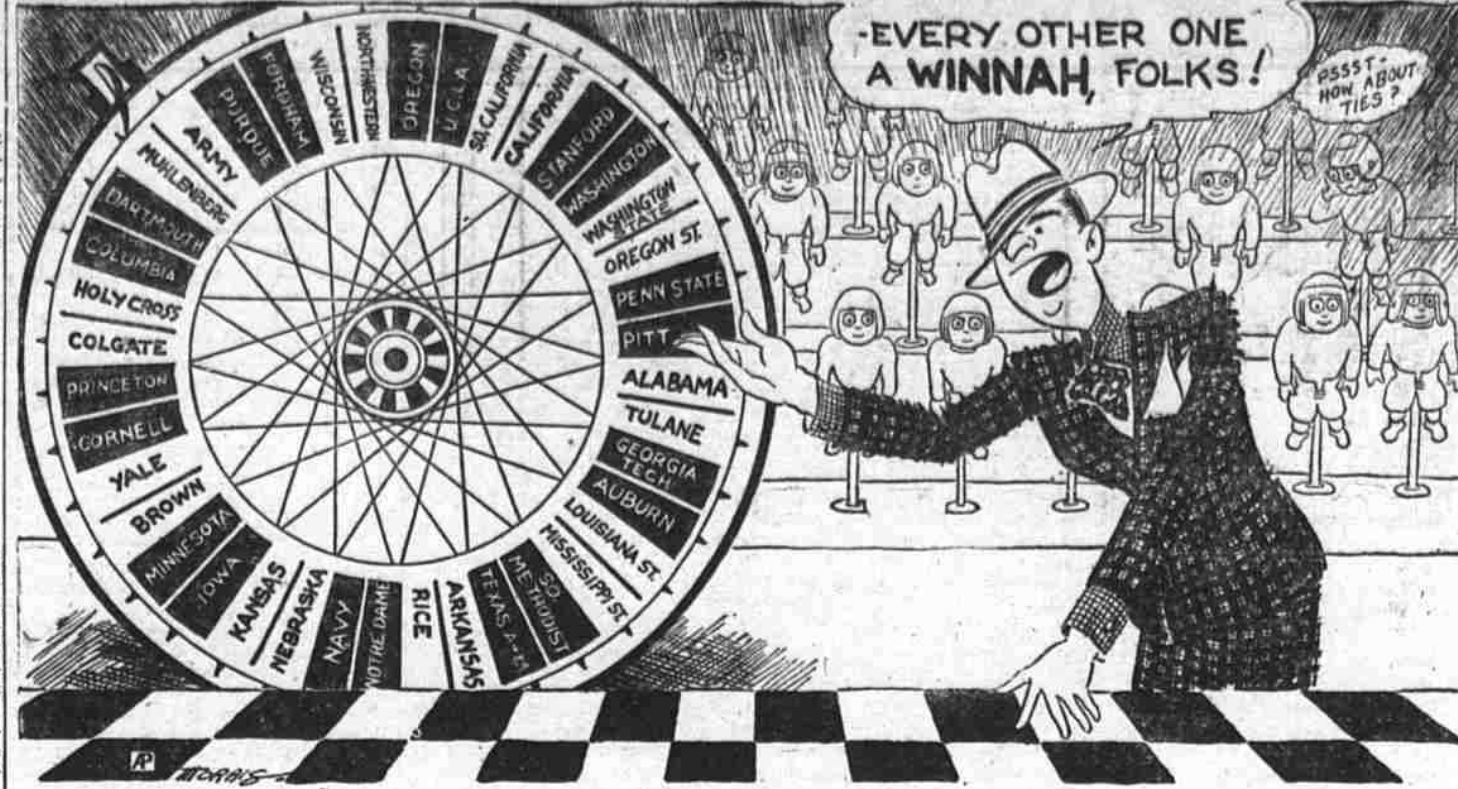

The Aggies, with no alibis for the Razorback disaster except that the Porkers gave them a good football lesson, began wondering early in the week how to recoup their fortunes at the Ponies' expense.

Working with a batch of new plays hopefully designed to thwart a strong Pony defense and either to shake one of their shifty backs, such as Dick Todd, loose or to connect a receiver with enough of Jim Shockey's passes, the Aggies this week have sought a real scoring punch.

The Aggies' pass defense, broken by Arkansas after weathering Texas as Christian's aerial storm, also has come in for bolstering this week, Aggie coaches being mindful of the Mustangs' slick warrant the "aerial circus" nickname tacked on them years past.

HARRY HAYS of San Angelo said to be one of the most versatile backs in West Texas, was not expected to be as good as his brother Curly, now at Tulsa.

Pacific Isles Now Become Busy Centers

Isolation Ends For Crews Stationed Along Ocean Air Line

SUMAY, Guam (UP) (By Clipper Mail)—Newsmen on the trans-Pacific press flight of the China Clipper, stirred the quiet life of the Midway and Guam cable stations by offering the biggest file of original press dispatches ever received at these far off stations on the Pacific cable.

When the China Clipper was moored in the Midway lagoon correspondents rushed for first file at the Midway station. Later, at the cable station in Sumay, Herbert Taylor, manager, waited at quarantine with cables, blankets, hospital, and the first cooling beverages available in these parts. The Guam cable station had three good "news breaks" in two days, and correspondents unfamiliar with the cable news were soon initiated into the mysteries of "LC press," "Press," "drop copies," and other traffic terms.

Memoranda Now Lost

It was apparent both at Midway and Guam that the cable stations, with the coming of air passenger travel in the Pacific, had lost the remote and semi-mysterious aspect that they have had in the decades when the contact of personnel with the outside world was by infrequent steamer.

The Midway station has been visited at quarterly intervals by the cable-tender Dickinson, based at Honolulu, while the Guam station has relief for transportation of gear and supplies upon commercial steamer. Now the cable men can avail themselves of air mail or express if occasion requires.

The cable station at Midway is a well-kept oasis on a desolate sandy island. It has a well-built operating office, and quarters for the personnel, which includes six operators, a doctor and engineer, besides Chinese domestics and laborers. A Chinese-tended vegetable garden, golf course, a pathway to the beached hilltop, and even a small graveyard, are part of the cable enclaves.

"Goofey" Club Exists

"Boat Day," when the Dickinson arrives, is the big event at Midway—or was before the day of the Clippers. For fun, there is swimming, fishing, bridge, or small-stake poker, and the humorous horse-play of the "Goofey Gooneys." The latter is a club, named for the strange awkward birds, similar to small albatross, which inhabit the island. Its personnel includes also the filers residing on the island, and air passengers probably will try to qualify.

As humor is the great alleviant of isolation, the "gooney" has endeared itself to Midway residents even more than the fancy man-of-war bird which roosts on the lagoon channel markers, or the beautiful white love-birds which flit about in the air at sundown.

For the cable men, Midway is seen as a relay station, with automatic equipment, and since the population prior to the air-travel era was confined to cable men, there naturally has been little original traffic to develop there. For the operator, the working day reduces itself to the technical operations of magnifying the impulses of the messages crossing the Pacific. Life might be symbolized by the blue line on the moving tape that passes from the recorder, for purposes of record.

Guam Not So Isolated

The Guam station, on a hill above Port Apra harbor, Sumay post-office, is not so isolated as the one at Midway. The personnel embraces eight Americans, in a total personnel of more than 40. Native Chamorros have been trained as competent operators.

At this station join the two branches of the trans-Pacific cables, one going to Manila and Shanghai, and the other by way of the Bonin Islands to Kokabama. A former German cable between Guam and Yap has not been operated since the World war.

As business impulses of two continents move through the Guam office, a person can only speculate on the messages coded contents: Stock quotations, rush orders of business houses, bar-silver prices, diplomatic secrets, fast news.

The heavy traffic from New York, after markets closing, is on its way here by about 6 a. m. and continues steadily until 2 p. m. in afternoon, when the traffic load lightens. The eastbound traffic is vibrating through here in heaviest volume from 5 p. m. to 11 p. m.

BLACK-DRAUGHT IS PURELY VEGETABLE

—What Does That Mean?

A great many things can cause constipation and there are many remedies to relieve it, but possibly none more popular than the "vegetable" laxatives.

Among these, Black-Draught is outstanding. In its manufacture, leaves of a certain plant are used, and the roots of certain others. These are dried so they will keep without preservatives... no other chemical change from the way they grew in "Mother Nature's medicine garden." By their being finely ground, the digestive system extracts the active medicine right where it is needed. Constipation is relieved.

Black-Draught is so economical that a 25-cent package averages upward of 25 doses.—adv.

the strongest, although the latter's record is marred by a defeat and a tie. Army and Yale each have defeats to mar their record but the latter seems to be the best bet in the Big Three, looking better than Princeton and Harvard, who tied last week.

MIDWEST—Northwestern appears to be the team at the present time, but in order to finish with a perfect season has to defeat Notre Dame, which is no small order. Minnesota should go through the remainder of the schedule with nothing but victory on the slates. Out of the conference, Marquette can argue as to the merits of the Golden Avalanche, since they defeated St. Mary's last week and will probably hold claim as national champions.

TEAM REVAMPED

WAGO, Nov. 4 (SpI)—Having completed the most strenuous part of their schedule which called for four straight Southwest conference tussles, the Baylor Bears are busying themselves this week in heavy practice sessions, preparing for their second inter-sectional clash of the season when the Oklahoma City University Goldbugs invade Texas soil. The Bears also have another conference layoff the following week when they trek to Stillwater, Okla., to tangle with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Coach Morley Jennings, who was obviously not satisfied with the showing of his boys against the Horned Frogs last Saturday, stated that he was going to retrace his season's steps and completely re-model the Bruin unit. "And Billy Patterson will likely play a leading role in this new show which we start to work on this week," said Jennings. Patterson is the sophomore passing ace from Hillsboro who showed to advantage on the Bear eleven last week-end despite the scoreboard's final standing.

The season of 1932 was a disastrous one for Obie and his Longhorns. The local team journeyed to the Concho and George Delker led his Bobcat teammates to a 26-6 win.

Steers booted the old dope bucket a mile high in 1933. San Angelo had a team favored to go a long way, but a keyed-up Steer team fought desperately and the game ended 0-0.

Big Spring gained revenge two years ago by thumping the Bobcats all over the Angelo gridiron, and last year they fought to a 0-0 tie on a freezing gridiron.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical: only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Mexican Motif Is Featured Club Party

Mrs. Fletcher Sneed Entertains For Idle Art Bridge Group

Members and guests of the Idle Art Bridge Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Freeman Tuesday evening when Mrs. Fletcher Sneed was hostess for a Mexican party, a motif she carried out in the dinner menu and in prize awards.

The games were played in rooms decorated with bouquets of roses and marigolds. High score prizes were presented to Miss Eleanor Gates and Miss Lucille Rix, the latter of whom received a pottery baking dish. Mrs. Matt Harrington was second high and Mrs. Glenn Queen was given a set of pottery vases for bingling.

The dinner was served at four-square tables.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Henry Covert, Mrs. Matt Harrington, Mrs. Franklin Nugent, Mrs. John Ross Williamson, Mrs. Lowndes Henshaw, Miss Lennah Rose Black and Lucille Rix.

Club members present were Mrs. Thomas Neel, Mrs. Searcy Whaley, Mrs. Kelly Burns, Mrs. Harold Lytle, Mrs. Glenn Queen, Miss Eleanor Gates, Miss Evelyn Merrill, Miss Imogene Runyan and Mrs. Sneed.

Mrs. Burns will entertain for the club on November 17.

Motif For A Dinner Cloth

By RUTH ORR

It isn't too early to think about Christmas dinner. Not, of course, what you will have for dessert or in the fruit cup, but we were pondering the question of a cloth. It really should be just as fine as possible and we can think of nothing finer than this one. You can make it yourself. It isn't too late to begin, for the very likeness of the pattern makes it quick in the making.

Another thing, it isn't made in one piece. The motifs are made separately, so you can do them at odd times, while you're waiting for a cake to brown in the oven, or as you sit under the dryer while you're having your wave set.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 367 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 209, Station D, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1936, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

COLUSA, Cal. (UP)—The local chapter of the Native Sons of California think that broadcasting isn't so new. Only the method and technique, they insist, have changed. As proof, they are preserving the brass bell used by the late Tom McCollum, town crier in 1880.

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Perhaps some other American could have done a better job of appraising England than Mary Ellen Chase in "This England," but at the moment no other name comes to mind.

Miss Chase teaches English literature at Smith college when she is not writing a Maine novel; or vice versa. She has commuted to England for years, and has spent the last two years in a cottage in that wide, flat but lovely country near Cambridge. She is neither Anglophile nor Anglophobe, and she has a sense of the just phrase which commands respect, and gives enjoyment at the same time.

"This England" is a short book. There are 13 chapters, three of which are pretty close to perfect, and all of which are pertinent. The one we liked best is an essay on English sources of American irritation; Miss Chase's dissertation on the weather is likewise delightful, and her discussion of English manners is the same.

One of Miss Chase's chief sources of irritation is the British telephone system, which is certainly worsened by only one other, that being the French. There is something terrific in the terrific, browbeating courtesy with which the London

1930 Hyperion Club Art Show Scheduled At Settles Saturday

Between 50 and 60 local artists have entered their works in the 1930 Hyperion Club's art exhibit, which will be held Saturday in clubroom one of the Settles Hotel. The exhibit is being held in observance of State Art Week to stimulate interest in art in the city. Members are asking those artists who have not been contacted to call Miss Clara Secrest at High School or the Settles Hotel or Mrs. Hayes Stripling at her home and enter their work.

A club committee will be present during the hours of 3 until 8 o'clock to usher guests about the display. There will be no admission charge and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Double Four Bridge Club Is Entertained By Mrs. George Crosthwait

Mrs. George Crosthwait was hostess to the Double Four Bridge club at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Landers substituted for Mrs. R. H. Miller.

Prizes went to Mrs. B. P. Franklin, who took the floating award, Mrs. Watson Hammond, bingo winner, and the hostess who scored high.

Attending were Mrs. Shelle Barnes, Mrs. B. P. Franklin, Mrs. Hershel Summerlin, Mrs. William Dehlinger, Mrs. Watson Hammond, Mrs. R. L. Ferry, Mrs. Landers, and the hostess.

Mrs. Dehlinger will entertain at her home on Tuesday.

telephone exchanges (for example) give bad service. The complications of calling from a booth are equally horrible; the writer still remembers a half hour spent trying to reach a charming old gentleman named Warry-Stone who wanted to take him to the Oxford and Cambridge club for tea. The best he could do was to get the Drury Lane theatre, and since Paul Robeson was playing there in "Show Boat," he finally booked a pair of seats and let the matter rest.

Miss Chase pretty well, and very sympathetically covers the entire range of English life. Few will disagree with most of her statements—there is one, however, which seems open to contradiction. She says that English voices are consistently better pitched than those in America. And if there is anything more irritating than the high, rather monotonous tone of the upper class English woman's voice, I have yet to hear it.

"This England," by Mary Ellen Chase (Macmillan).

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only make-shifts. A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Their number was a farce wedding presented by the primary pupils and coached by Miss Minton, primary teacher. Jimmy Stallings was the outstanding character of the play, portraying the preacher.

In the wrestling matches, Joe Lusk defeated Jim Grant and Delbert Shultz defeated Wayne Turvey. Joe Lusk defeated Victor Watts in the boxing match.

The play, "Adventures of Grandpa" was presented to a large audience Tuesday night. It proved a big success. Sponsors reported receipts of $15.90. Other dates of the Ward presided at the initial meeting, at which the body agreed to sponsor various kinds of programs to finance improvements at the school. A total of $45 was contributed to pay for concrete walks and new light fixtures. The first Monday night in each month was decided upon as the regular meeting time.

ARIZONA DESERT GETS IRRIGATION

TUCSON (Ariz., Nov. 4. (UP)—Several years ago, when real estate promoters were "selling" the future of the desert country around Tucson, they promised prospective buyers the desert eventually would "look like a rose."

Although the desert never actually has resembled a rose, it nevertheless has borne an abundance of fruits and vegetables, besides expanding its crops of alfalfa and cotton.

M. I. Reid, who came here in 1920 from San Francisco, claims the record for variety. On 24 acres Reid produces:

More than 50 varieties of citrus fruits, oranges, limes and lemons, grapefruit, including the rare pink variety, 17 varieties of grapes, kumquats and loquats, papayas, mangoes, guavas, passion fruit, cherimoyas, sapatos and pommegranates.

He also has many varieties of shrubs, trees and plants.

Irrigation, supplied by Roosevelt dam and Coolidge dam is credited with supplying "life" to the barren desert.

The missionary, accompanied by his father, John L. Bailey, left this morning for San Francisco where his wife and child and mother will join them.

While here the men visited with relatives who included Mrs. Mary Brackett, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Boatman and Mrs. W. L. Gann, a sister who is visiting here from Eastland.

One-Man Police Bullet Factory In Gary Turns Out Ammunition Famous For Accurate Shooting

GARY, Ind., Nov. 4. (UP)—A skilled Gary policeman operates the steel city's newest and smallest industry—a one-man bullet factory.

The thunder of Gary's mighty mills nearby is an unusual contrast to the tiny "plant" in the basement of police headquarters. There—where measurements are checked to the hundredth fraction—Range Officer Ray Randolph turns out hand-made cartridges for weapons of the city's police.

Ballistics experts recognize the superiority of the Gary-made bullets, particularly for target practice, where the least variance in weight may impair accuracy. Sold at little more than cost, the cartridges retail at 1 cent each, whereas machine-made bullets of a similar type sell for 3.3 cents.

Does All Jobs

Randolph's job demands diversified talents. He is tamer, assembler, collector, and advertising manager of the rapidly-expanding industry.

Simplicity, accuracy, and precision are the keynotes in the operation of the Gary bullet factory. Randolph uses a slow-burning powder in his penny bullets. To demonstrate its unusual qualities he pours a mound on the floor and touches the lighted end of his cigarette to it.

Instead of the usual flash and explosion, the powder burns slowly and evenly.

When the slow-burning powder is confined it is more powerful than the ordinary variety, however, Randolph explains.

The bullet-making policeman then exhibits his powder apparatus. It is hand-operated and measures out the powder charges exactly—something which is impossible with a machine, Randolph says. Not even the slightest weight variation is possible in the molds. As it clamps together each mold must contain exactly 184 grains of metal or it will not close.

Used Old Shells

In the manufacture of his bullets Randolph obtains used brass cartridge shells. He pushes out the small fired cap with a small machine and then inserts another firing-pin which he breeds onto the top of the cartridge.

Then he loads the cartridge and with a pressure machine fastens the bullet to the brass cartridge—and it is ready for the policeman's revolver.

Superiority and economy of the hand-made bullets is attracting increasing interest, according to Randolph. Out-of-city buyers include the Pennsylvania Railroad police; the Hobart, Ind., and the Logansport, Ind., police departments.

Pontiacs For 1937 Shown

Improved Models Are On Display At Keisling Motor Co.

Following on the heels of two highly successful years, Pontiac enters the 1937 automobile year with two lines of cars (deluxe six and deluxe eight) that are longer in wheelbase, roomier, lower, even more pleasing in appearance, improved in comfortable riding qualities, with larger and more powerful engines, faster acceleration, higher top speed, additional and an all-around performance that is more brilliant in every way.

The new cars are on display at the Keisling Motor company, local dealer.

Master Six models, with their conventional springing and not quite so many refinements, have been discontinued so that the economies of engineering and manufacturing can be concentrated on a single line of deluxe sixes and deluxe eights of equal quality.

The gain in value thus offered is reflected in the prices of the deluxe six which are lower than the 1936 deluxe six.

Both lines will offer seven body styles: business coupe, sport coupe, cabriolet, two-door sedan, two-door touring sedan, four-door sedan and four-door touring sedan, although the straight sedan in both two-door and four-door eights will be built on order only.

These 14 bodies will be available in seven colors with striping that provides a harmonizing contrast.

Most identifying Pontiac mark of the last two years, the silver streak radiator and hood grilles, are being retained with some modification.

Crude Output Much Lower Decrease Of 46,359 Bbls. Daily Reported For Past Week

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 4. (UP)—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States decreased 46,359 barrels for the week ended Oct. 31, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

The drop—from 3,087,885 barrels in the preceding week, to 3,041,526 last week—was due primarily to reductions in daily output of Oklahoma and California fields. National production, however, still exceeded the recommendation of the bureau of mines by 139,226 barrels daily.

In the mid-continent area the Oklahoma City field led in the reduction, flowing 139,750 barrels daily the week ended Oct. 31, or 10,500 barrels less than the week before.

California fields reduced output 16,400 barrels daily from 584,500 barrels the week of Oct. 24, to 568,100 barrels the week ended Oct. 31.

Despite the drop in Oklahoma City and slight reduction in other Oklahoma fields, production in the state exceeded the allowable for October and bureau demand estimates by 4,850 barrels.

Daily production in Kansas for the period was 163,425 barrels, or 5,150 barrels less than in the week before. It still was 8,425 barrels over the bureau of mines recommendation.

Production in Texas continued to run far ahead of the bureau of mines estimate. Output of 1,199,020

SEVERE WINTER IS CERTAIN, SAYS INDIAN PROPHECY

MAQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 4. (UP)—Charley Big Kniff came out of the north country for his winter supplies today and warned: "Ketch ura big snow and plenty cold before next moon."

Charley has been the "Chippewa" weather prophet of the Huron Mountain country for the last 46 years, and says he has never missed. His almanac is nature and his patron Gitchi Manitou, the Great Spirit.

Like the beaver, the mink, the frog, the bear the muskrat and the wild goose, Charley prepared for a winter he said would be equal to that of 1917-18.

He bought extra blankets, corn meal, sugar, bacon, a hot water bottle for his squaw, and a blow torch to thaw out his traps. Then he, his squaw and their two chil-

OBSERVE BIRTHDAY OF STEPHEN AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (UP)—Stephen F. Austin's 143rd birthday anniversary was observed by exercises Tuesday in the state cemetery where a monument to him as "Father of Texas" stands. Dr. E. C. Barker, professor of American history at the University of Texas, delivered the principal address. Numerous relatives of the founder of the Anglo-Saxon colony in Texas attended.

Ed Douthitt was in from his ranch southeast of Big Spring Wednesday afternoon.

MIAMI BUILDING AT 10-YEAR HIGH

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 4. (UP)—The Miami area is enjoying the biggest wave of building since 1925 in preparation for an anticipated influx of 2,500,000 visitors. Addition of approximately 6,000 housing units to accommodate tourists is revealed in a survey by J. B. Sullivan, Florida hotel commissioner.

More than 100 new apartment houses and 33 new hotels are included in the building permits issued since last April in Dade county, embracing the city of Miami and several surrounding communities, according to Sullivan. A survey shows the new apartment houses account for approximately 3,000 rooms, while the construction of residential and deluxe hotels adds an additional 2,500 units.

"The fanfare accompanying the 1925-26 Florida boom is absent from this constructive increase in building," Sullivan said. "Nevertheless, the records of the Miami building department show that the wave of residential building construction in the district since the first of the year exceeds in volume that of the first eight months of 1925.

"A total of $5,644,378 was spent on residential construction in Miami during the first three-quarters of the year in Miami Beach, linked to Miami by two causeways across Biscayne Bay, building expenditures in the same period amounted to $3,357,310."

Completion of a schedule of major sports events and special entertainment features in the Miami area are believed to assure the longest winter season here to date.

IT'S OIL-PLATED

"Morning Drag" is unknown in this heatless garage. The car inside has its engine Oil-Plated for Winter. The owner outside is still six strides away from the starter button. But already his Oil-Plated engine is oiled to the top by its slippery Oil-Plating.

No waiting!

The Oil-Plating was left on last night, all over each part, from bottom bearings to topmost piston. This complete oiling IN ADVANCE that kills starting risk, comes only from the Germ Process—patented.

Quit believing that a process means nothing but refining or over-refining to make an oil winter-THIN. Although perfectly free-flowing, Conoco Germ Processed oil is not needlessly thin—and weak. For in addition to just enough of the most approved modern refining this oil is alloyed! Or speaking still more scientifically, a patented "hyper-oily essence" is added. Nothing else lets oil join up direct with metal, to Oil-Plate your engine, pep your starter, and keep every quart hoarded.

EMPLOYMENT METHODS

Bureau heads in Washington are gradually coming to understand that few of the projects contemplated to restore even at least a glimmer of light, and a recent ruling allows from one-third to one-half the labor needed for Resettlement project to be from classes not on relief.

Not only is this a sensible determination but it shows that unemployment is not so great as has been asserted in some quarters. When carpenters, painters, masons and other labor needed in construction are not on relief rolls the country is in pretty good condition.

Some Federal projects in the past have been poorly done because of the lack of skilled labor. There was a time when some skilled labor was unemployed, in the very depth of the depression, but skilled labor was usually able to pull through on credit or odd jobs, and keep off the relief rolls.

Seasonal workers were on the rolls by thousands, and were left there in many cases when they secured such employment as they were accustomed to having. Others refused casual employment in order to remain on the rolls, fearing that if they took the work offered they could not get back in the free line when again unemployed.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—What critics generally agree was the mightiest wisecrack of the season came about the other week when George Kaufman fell ill. His new play, "Stage Door," was in rehearsal and the advance sale was startling brisk.

Kaufman Gags

As gags and rehearsals usually go together, one is reminded of a typical Kaufman witticism that cropped up during rehearsals of "First Lady," that sly jibe at social Washington which amused New York audiences all last winter.

Kaufman, managing a straight face while observing this official comedy, strode to the telephone and called Sam Harris, producer of the show. "We just had a most amazing scene here, Sam," Kaufman exclaimed.

The follow-up to this came several months later when Kaufman, returning from a holiday in Florida, dropped by the theater and noted a few changes in dialogue that Miss Cowl had brought about.

Speeding to a Western Union office, he sent Miss Cowl this wire: "Saw your performance tonight and it was more magnificent than ever. Glad I can't say the same for some of the lines."

You remember, naturally, that other telegram inspired by Bill Gaxton in "As Thousands Cheer." Ducking in for a peep at his opus, George caught Gaxton in an extremely sour performance. "Am watching you from the back row," he wired. "Wish you were here."

Then there was the time Sam Harris offered Kaufman an interest in one of his gold mines. Harris has become an avid prospector and owns several extraordinarily worthwhile holdings. Giving Kaufman an enthusiastic sales talk, Sam waxed eloquent on the profits to be had from such a venture.

"Why," he exclaimed, "the first thing you see when you enter the mine is gold nuggets scattered around on the ground."

"I know," objected George, "but you have to stoop to pick them up."

Since this seems to be a Kaufman essay, one more tag-line won't hurt. During a poker game the talk veered around to ancestry and one of the players traced his family back to the Crusades.

"A coincidence," said Kaufman. "I had a relative in the Crusades too—Sir Roger Kaufman."

"What," yelled the fellow, "a Jew in the Crusades?" "What is a Jew," Kaufman explained.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen today hand the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, to James Aloysius Farley.)

WASHINGTON—This campaign will be the last appearance of Big Jim Farley in Big Top public office for some time to come. Jim is getting out. He is not resigning as democratic national chairman. But otherwise he is definitely going back to private life.

It is a story, in its earlier stages, of a youngster whose saloon-keeper father was killed by a horse when Farley was 12, who managed to get a little schooling while working in his mother's grocery store, in a brickyard and in a shipyard, and who pulled himself up from an itinerant peddler of gypsum to the chief supplier of building materials in New York City.

And in its later stages—with which we are primarily concerned—it is a story of Mr. Roosevelt's postmaster general, who two years ago was on the edge of the political precipice, but who now has stage-managed one of the most efficient presidential campaigns in history.

Whether you like Jim or not, you can't get away from the fact that as a campaign manager he is good. He has taken more on the chin, squawked less and stood up better in the clinches than almost any other of his ex-cabinet colleagues.

Huey's Charges: There was a time when it looked as if Jim Farley's political life would not last the night. Few people knew how near the brink he was. It happened when Huey Long was airing his charges in 1935. Huey was then at the crest of his popularity. Jim was at the bottom of his.

Franklin Roosevelt knew that. He had a habit of dropping overboard those who become political deadweight, and Farley was definitely in that category. So Roosevelt left Big Jim fight his own battles, stew in his own juice.

Jim, always loyal to his chief, worried plenty, said nothing. But, like any wife, Bess Farley was enraged. She blamed Jim for ever working for a man like that. She pointed out that he had spent all his savings on politics, that they could not afford a car, that she and the children had to ride in taxis.

"While you," she stormed, "while you spend your time making political speeches!" Jim Farley is a very patient man. He said nothing to his wife and he said nothing to Franklin Roosevelt. But he put up a defense to Huey Long's senate committee which cleared him completely—and the committee contained some hard-boiled customers.

Triggor-Man: The truth is Jim has had to take the rap on a lot of stuff for which he was not responsible. Jim is a machine politician—and would be the last to deny or apologize for it. But certain rancid deeds credited to him are not of his doing. In machine politics, like the army, you take orders and keep your mouth shut.

This is not always easy for Jim. Under his appearance of rhinoceros hide, he has the cuticle of a newborn babe! And the dead-end hurred at his bald dome in retaliation for boners which were not his, hurt him grievously. But he is too astute an operator to show it. No newsmen ever was berated by Big Jim for anything written about him. Jim may remark pleasantly:

"That was a low ball you pitched me, fella." But on the surface his attitude is: "Just so you mention me, boys, and spell the name right."

That this shrewd friendliness that accounts for the fact that Farley's press conferences, next to those of the president, are the most heavily attended of any in Washington.

Personal Triumph: The campaign now closed has been a great personal triumph for Jim. From the role of whipping-boy of the new deal, he has emerged as the undisputed ruler of the national committee and the campaign.

Here he has been right in his element. Jim's original handicap was that he didn't know the United States existed west of the Hudson river. When it came to making speeches out in the prairie states, he was what his name in the old English indicates—"ferley," "a strange sight."

But at machine politics he is superb. He knows the bosses of every state and municipal democratic machine in the United States, and furthermore he knows just how far he can depend on them. At political organization Jim is a genius. Even Republican National Chairman Hamilton, more than once has bitterly and wistfully attested to that fact.

Exit Farley: Naturally, Jim is proud of his work and success. There was a time, a year or so ago, when he hankered to be governor of New York, with visions of eventually going to the senate in place of Sen. Royal S. Copeland, whom he secretly dislikes just as much as Copeland dislikes him.

Jim still harbors those ambitions. But, being a realist, he knows that his chances are pretty slim. Right now he is interested only in two things: first, a landslide re-election of the president; second, a big money job after the first of the year.

Being a cabinet member put Jim $50,000 in the hole. Forty-eight years old and with a family of growing children—to say nothing of Mrs. Farley—he is concerned about their welfare. He is too old a hand not to know how ephemeral is political success.

So, much as he loves the Washington scene, James Aloysius Farley plans to cash in on his success while the cashing is good.

Friends of Farley say liquor interests have approached him with a proposition to become the Judge Landis of their industry. He may also succeed Will Hays as "czar" of the movie business.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter 19 FALSE AT HEART

After coffee had been served Lee-Ramsden took Mahony up to the study for a cigar, leaving Ruth in the drawing-room. There Lee-Ramsden's manager changed, he came altogether serious.

"This is a nasty business, Mahony, a very nasty business," he said. "I may seem rather casual about it, but I hate my ward being mixed up in it. You were a friend of young Ross, weren't you?"

"Yes," admitted Mahony. "And Ross pretended to be a friend of Lawson. Actually he hated him—hated and feared him. I don't go about with my eyes shut and gain. I like him. And that's a great pity, because I'm afraid he's going to die young. Do you know what he told me?"

"No sir," said Mullins.

"He told me," said Lee-Ramsden in a shocked tone, "that the foul gang who kidnapped Miss Ruth meant to make her a drug addict, so that when they released her, she and incidentally her money, would still be entirely under their control. Fact that dreadful?"

"Er... yes, sir," said Mullins. He hardly seemed to know how to answer. Lee-Ramsden laughed. "Don't be a hypocrite, Mullins; the only dreadful part of the scheme from our point of view is that it did not succeed," he said genially. "What will be really dreadful will be if I lose control of Ruth's money when she's twenty-one. But I don't intend to, Mullins; I don't intend to."

After leaving Lee-Ramsden's house, Mahony took the Underground to Notting Hill Gate Station, and began to walk back to his lodgings. About ten yards from the station entrance a man hurrying along the pavement bumped into him somewhat roughly.

"Sorry," said the man.

"He paused for a moment, looking at Mahony curiously.

"Isn't your name Mahony?" he asked.

"Terence Mahony?"

"Yes," answered Mahony. "What about it?"

"He did not feel in the mood to chat to strangers.

"My name's Milton," said the stranger. "Andrew Milton. Don't you remember me?"

"No," answered Mahony. To the best of his knowledge he had never seen the man before in his life.

"I met you a couple of years ago, in the Shanghai Bar," said Milton confidently. "At that time I believe you were special correspondent in China for an American newspaper—the Chicago Leader."

"That information was correct. Two years previously Mahony had done newspaper work for an American paper. He had also quite frequently been in the Shanghai Bar.

"I saw another chap from China the other day, too," went on Milton. "Kosoff—you knew him didn't you? He's over here now on a visit. Very well dressed and prosperous. He introduced me to his partner, a man named Mulgrave."

"Mulgrave was the man whom Mahony had held up at the pistol point to find out where Ruth was imprisoned. And Kosoff had made his living in China by exporting dope. Mahony began to be interested in Milton's conversation.

"When did you see Kosoff?" asked Mahony.

"About four days ago. He looked so prosperous that I tried to touch him for a fiver. I didn't expect to get it, of course. I was never so surprised in my life as when Kosoff actually gave it to me. He also told me that if I was down on my luck and not too particular, he knew a place where I could get a job."

Milton laughed.

"Well, I am down on my luck and I've never been very particular—as a matter of fact, I had to leave China rather suddenly—but there are some jobs that I do draw the line at, and Kosoff's are among them. He had a chat with Mulgrave about me, and Mulgrave gave me a note of introduction."

"The job was dope peddling, I suppose?" suggested Mahony.

Milton nodded.

"Kosoff was quite frank about it. He knows I'm a public school man, that I've got a pretty touch record in China, and that the English police don't know me, and those are the qualifications he wanted. I took the note and thanked him because of the money, but there's nothing doing."

(Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevley)

Mahony buys the note from Milton, tomorrow.

Other children taking part were: Edna Lomax, Leona Phillips, Irene Turner, Martha Newman, Mary Edith Neal, W. J. Conter, Whitney Connel, and Harold Cockerell.

NATURE A BIT TOO SLOW FOR SCIENTIST— SO HE HELPS IT ALONG WITH MACHINES

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 4 (AP)—Instead of waiting for nature to take its course, young University of Notre Dame scientists are stepping on the gas by mechanizing bacteriological research.

It is the belief of Prof. J. A. Reyniers, professor of bacteriology at Notre Dame, and Father Francis J. Weninger, C.S.C., dean of the College of Science, that in mechanized research lies the solution to many of the technical difficulties which prevent close approach to life and disease.

In the matter of diseases caused by the attacks of bacteria, for ex-

A GUINEA PIG...

This little fellow lives in a glass-topped cage. Simple enough. But he and the cage have to be absolutely germ-free. Not so simple, as all these tubes, dials and other gadgets testify. The guinea pig's home is part of the tank-like apparatus back of the tubes. There aren't any germs on him. That makes him all the more valuable to Notre Dame scientists as a living test tube.

ample, they say, the traditional method has been to wait for something to happen, then try to do something about it.

To prove his point Professor Reyniers has become mechanical engineer, draughtsman and electrical expert and has built equipment that does amazing things.

Germ-Free Guinea Pigs

Apple of his eye among these "machines" is what to the layman looks like a Rubik Goldberg contraption. Actually it is a device wherein are raised germ-free guinea pigs. Up to now no actual germ-free animals have been available for experimentation. Now living test tubes, in form of sterile guinea pigs, are available in the fight to isolate such elusive agents as those which cause the common cold, influenza and infantile paralysis. The experiments with guinea pigs have opened up many fields once considered impossible of access.

New Bacteria Counter

Among other equipment built and being used by Reyniers and his staff is an electric bacteria counter that can't make any mistakes. Instead of placing bacteria haphazardly on a slide and counting by hand, Prof. Reyniers has built a machine which puts them in formation, like soldiers on parade, and then counts them with an electric eye. A camera, run by a motor, photographs on a shockproof table successive changes in the life of a bacteria colony.

According to Prof. Reyniers, bacteriology has been too busily engaged in "practical experiments

Church Will Hold Meeting

First Christian Joining In Nation-Wide Preaching Mission

The First Christian Church is cooperating with the Federal Council of Churches in a nation-wide preaching mission. This began in October in the largest cities and then was carried to smaller centers and from there is intended to reach to the county-seat towns and country points. It has, so far, reached an immense number of people with stirring messages of the better things.

Rev. G. C. Schurman and the First Christian church will take their place in this far-reaching plan on Sunday, Nov. 8, at which time they will begin a meeting that will continue every night through Sunday, Nov. 15. There will be no day services. Dr. Schurman will be assisted by Rev. A. L. Haley, pastor of the First Christian church of Colorado. Rev. Haley will conduct the song service and each night will draw a beautiful picture as he sings the song which it illustrates. These pictures are truly works of art and are suitable for framing and hanging in homes, or classrooms.

The meeting will last but one week and through it all emphasis will be placed on sound preaching and the spiritual life. Each night the picture painted the night before will be given to the person bringing the largest number of new people, that is people who have not been in the meeting before, to the service. The general public is invited to co-operate in all of these services.

Farm Which Failed To Return Man A Living Yields $30,000 In Cash And Big Yearly Oil Lease Rental

Claire Trevor Has Featured Role In Picture At Lyric

CLAIRE TREVOR

Revealing dramatic facts about the world's greatest jewelry center, a district guarded as carefully as the national treasury against thieves lured from all over the world, "15 Maiden Lane," story of the famous diamond row, plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Lyric theatre.

The drama has for its background that street in lower Manhattan where fortunes in precious gems are handled daily. Cast in the role of a clever crook, one daring enough to attempt a robbery the rest of the underworld considers too risky is Cesar Romero. Claire Trevor is featured as the niece of the head of a company insuring the gem stolen by Romero. She turns amateur detective and determines to recover the loss as well as to break up the ring of jewel thieves. Tense drama and romance are combined in the plot development from there on.

Other players in "15 Maiden Lane" are Douglas Fowley, Lloyd Nolan, Lester Matthews and Robert McWade.

The diamond's supremacy in the gem world dates from the discovery of the so-called "blanc" method of cutting, which reveals its full beauty.

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 4 (UP)—The 114-acre Pamela county, Texas, farm which failed to return him a living and sent him here to become a hospital orderly for $87.50 a month, today brought to Cicero A. Burgess $30,000 in cash and a yearly rental of $2,800—and maybe royalties.

Burgess, who bought the farm for $3 an acre several years ago, tried to make a living for himself, his wife and two children raising cotton. The land failed to produce enough to feed and clothe them, so Burgess came here and obtained the job at the U. S. veterans' hospital.

Yesterday, N. A. Broughton of Dallas, Tex., came here and closed a deal with Burgess whereby Broughton's oil company leased the farm for $30,000 in cash, part of which was paid down and the remainder deposited in a Dallas bank; and $2,800 yearly rental, payable Oct. 23, 1937, plus royalties on any oil found on the farm.

Burgess, who planned to leave Saturday for Carthage, Tex., his former home, said he had refused an offer of $500,000 for the land from another oil company. He said oil wells on land adjacent to his were producing 20,000 barrels of oil daily.

CALIFORNIA MAN IS KILLED, TWO HELD

MADERA, Calif., Nov. 4 (UP)—Howard Dearmoun, a Roosevelt supporter, was dead and his two hunting companions, Louis Strass and Dan Malsed, Landon advocates, were in jail charged with murder today. All lived in Los Angeles.

Malsed said Strass and Dearmoun argued for weeks about the campaign. He told Sheriff W. O. Justice he heard a shot yesterday and ran into the hunting cabin. Strass, his brother-in-law, was bending over the body of Dearmoun.

An effort to make it appear that Dearmoun had committed suicide failed when Sheriff Justice discovered the gun in Dearmoun's hand and no shells in it.

present in history with a term cut short.

One major hazard to the inauguration has resulted from the Norris amendment. Previously a "lame duck" congress has met in January—a congress already organized to give official benediction to the electoral college count.

The new amendment provides that on January 6, one day after the new congress convenes, house and senate will sit in joint session and give legal status to the electoral vote.

However, the possibility has risen that the house—an admixture of political affiliations—may be unable to organize by that date. A strong "liberal bloc" conceivably could delay election of a new speaker so that the joint session would be delayed.

In that event a new law would have to be rushed through setting another date for verification of the electoral vote. This would be necessary in event of the house failing to organize, if a new president is to take the oath on January 20.

Inauguration day often has been a day of rough weather, straining the physical strength of government officials, particularly of justices of supreme court who usually attend en masse.

March is blustery and dangerous in Washington. January is even more so. The capitol for several years past has been susceptible to New England wintry weather. A spell of it in January could affect the glamour of inauguration day.

The drive from the White House to the capitol by the president and his successor conceivably could be through a driving blizzard.

Complaints

The inspector said several complaints on this score had been reported to him and that everyone would be investigated.

"Travel bureau" came in for a scorching condemnation by Murray who explained that some were operated in violation of the law. In addition, he said, those who ride with most travel bureau cars have no insurance or protection of any sort.

Speed Limits

Speed limits of 25 miles an hour for loaded trucks and 35 for empty trucks will be enforced as nearly as possible, he declared. Murray added that he was assured that the highway patrol was going to cooperate in enforcing the 45-mile speed limit for passenger cars on state highways.

Guilty Pleas

Six persons pleaded guilty to operating trucks without a permit or driving passengers without a chauffeur's license Wednesday in justice court.

Loy Edgar entered a plea of guilty to operating without a permit as did Elton Tenison. Both were fined $25 and costs. L. M. White entered a similar plea after the truck he was driving overturned inside the eastern city limits and spilled a Mexican family over the right-of-way. Vernon Stuphin and Clifford Greaves pleaded guilty to operating cars without a chauffeur's license. Roy Weatherford entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding.

Tuesday Night Six

Tuesday night six were injured when a travel bureau car crashed 12 miles west of here. Mrs. Conklin was most seriously hurt.

Women Injured

Two Dallas women were injured in a crash near Coahoma. Five escaped with minor injuries when an oil truck demolished a passenger car east of here. Three received scratches and bruises when a truck overturned within the city.

Bringing the picture of destruction closer home, Murray listed the death toll from automobile and truck mishaps in this immediate region recently. On October 18, four persons were smashed to death 20 miles east of here when their car and a seed truck collided. October 30, four more were killed just east of Midland. A week earlier, three met death near Pecos.

Murray said he would be stationed here for the next two weeks and, perhaps, permanently. He lauded local officers for their cooperation in the drive for strict conformance to the law and in seeking to curb the death menace along highways.

Federal Receipts Up, Expenditures Down For October

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4. — The month-end treasury statement today showed an increase in October receipts over the same month a year ago and a drop in total expenditures.

The October deficit was set at $412,612,137, compared with $561,238,209 for the same month last year. In the first four months of this fiscal year, expenditures exceeded receipts by $937,496,212 compared with a $1,393,299,976 deficit in the same period last year.

October receipts totaled $272,712,437, compared with $235,425,538 in October, 1935. Receipts for the first four months of this fiscal year were listed at $1,408,088,114, compared with $1,293,899,703 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Total October expenditures were $684,784,564, including $314,877,000

Two-Year Breathing Spell Starts For Texas Business With Passage Of Bill To Raise Pension Revenue

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Nov. 4.—A two-year breathing spell for Texas business, expected to begin an industrial era that will in time transform the economic life of the state, started this week.

Texas did not wait for the national election to settle down into a conservative, constructive development period.

No new taxes for two years was the pledge of Gov. James V. Allred in asking re-election. Only taxes to pay old-age pensions were to be asked, he announced. These taxes were voted by the legislature in the session just closed. The final chapter was written when the new pension restriction and tax law was approved and the pension taxes started accumulating Sunday, November 1.

Of its many implications, one of the most important is: Customary Fight

The customary big fight in the legislature over taxation will be out of the picture for the 45th legislature, January to May, 1937, and its various special sessions during the next two years.

The long-standing threat of an income tax, the uncertainties of proposals to raise the production taxes on oil and gas, the threat of high franchise and corporation taxes, all have been laid by, and Texas business—and, more important, the industries Texas expects to gain in the next two years—have now reassurance upon which they can build plans for capitalizing Texas raw materials, natural resources and natural advantages.

Texas is the only state that will, in the course of a few years, offer all three of the cheapest and best fuel and power sources: Diesel and gasoline engines, and hydro-electric power.

Natural gas, petroleum for Diesel and gasoline engines, and hydro-electric power.

Texas has these fuel and power resources widely distributed. With them, Texas has more seaports than any other state, with more opportunities for the direct coast-wise and export water shipment of finished goods than any other state.

Its raw materials in cotton and cotton products, wool and mohair, wheat, livestock, numerous mineral products, building stone and granite, timber, oil, cheap coal, cement, are available for transformation into finished or semi-finished products.

The recent session brought to a halt a 10-year fight between advocates of three theories of taxation—those who would levy the taxes on consumers; those who would levy the owners of property, principally farms, ranches and homes, to carry the load; and those who would put the burden on the profits of productivity. The result is largely a blend, with enough sales taxes on liquors, cigarettes and gasoline to appease the sales-levy theorists; a substantial load still on real property; and a very large share of government costs on business and earning capacity, but without the deadening blight of an income tax to rebuff new industries.

The fact that certain varieties of ants keep slaves has been known since 1810, when it was discovered by the scientist Pierre Huber.

Common Cold Is Discussed

Some 'Don't's' Listed By Physician In Talk Before Club

The common cold, cause of discomfort and economic loss and forerunner of more serious infections, was discussed informally by Dr. Frank Boyle before the Lions club in its regular weekly meeting Wednesday.

Commenting that it was rather ironical that the most common diseases known to man has no specific cure or preventive, the speaker expressed the belief that it was not so much a problem of catching a cold as developing one.

Colds are transmitted, he declared, but every human carries the cold organisms in his body. Quick changes in temperature, exposure and run-down physical condition merely make the body more susceptible to the ailment, he said.

He listed a few don't's for the prevention of colds: Don't go from extremely warm temperature into a very cold temperature at once; don't get wet and get in cold air; don't let your physical condition get run-down; don't come in too close contact with a person who has a cold, or if you have one, don't get too close to other people; don't blow your nose with your mouth closed.

Great economic losses occur yearly because people ignore the suggestion of a day's complete rest when a cold first develops, the speaker asserted. Every year each individual is due to have 2 1/2 colds which will seriously hamper his efficiency if they do not force loss of work or result in more serious consequences.

Aubrey Richey favored the club with three vocal selections, accompanying himself on the guitar. He played and sang one of his own compositions, the "Locomotive Blues."

Pascal Buckner, president, announced that there would be no meeting next week since the regular day falls on Armistice Day and most of the members will be in San Angelo attending the game.

Brazos District Project First On Watershed Basis

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 4.—Henry Dunlavy of Temple, secretary of the Brazos river district declared in a speech here today the Brazos district is the first in the United States to be organized on an entire watershed basis.

The project, also, among the many flood control districts in the nation having hydro-electric energy for sale, is the first to have a firm outlet for this energy, Dunlavy declared.

"The opportunity which the district has for the sale of its hydro-electric energy in no way interferes with the use of water for other purposes," Dunlavy said, "as the district reserves the right to divert water from the generation of the hydro-electric energy to any other purpose which might be of more value to the district and state."

The Brazos, for which President Roosevelt has approved a $30,000,000 WPA appropriation, provides for construction of 13 major flood control and water conservation dams on the Brazos and its main tributaries. Subsequently, a network of 28 small flood check dams are planned throughout the watershed.
