

DURING CAMPFIRE COOKIN'-PASTURE ROPING

Christian couple set for R-Bar services

Campfire church services at this year's World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' and Pasture Roping will be led by Paul and Susie Luchsinger. Mrs. Luchsinger is the sister of Reba McEntire. The services will start at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 29 at the slab adjacent to the Rodeo Arena.

So often these days rodeo marriages are breaking up. Long weeks on the road put a strain on even the healthiest marriage. Paul and Susie have added a third person to their marriage, Jesus. He is always there when they need a solid rock to lean on. Their faith and total commitment to the Lord has given their relationship strength, unity and harmony. "For He is our peace, our bond of unity and harmony. He has made us both one, and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility between us." (Eph. 2:24)

Paul and Susie were married in November of 1981. E.P. was born in 1983 and the summer of 1986 E.P. became big brother to Lucchese Joy. Through these five years, this rodeo family has traveled thousands of miles across the United States telling of God's mercy and His love through Paul's testimony and Susie's gospel music.

Paul and Susie grew up in different environments, he was a city kid from New Mexico, and she from a ranch in Oklahoma. Paul dreamed of becoming a professional athlete and during high school he was active in wrestling and football, but he was considered too small to play pro ball. Paul was disappointed, but this didn't stop him. At age 23 he obtained his PRCA card. His goal was to become 1978 Rookie of the Year in steer wrestling. Like most cowboys, Paul believed that to be a cowboy and to be a winner, he had to drink and party. But as Paul drank and partied, he watched his goal slip away. The more he drank the more depressed he got, and the less he won. His winnings totaled $1200 and he was broke. His chances for becoming Steer Wrestler of the Year looked dim, and so did making a living at rodeo. Paul decided to go to work for a contractor. By August he had saved up enough to enter three or four rodeos. He didn't win much but he did place.

A change took place in Paul's life, a heavenly change: "I became a born again Christian! A friend of mine, Jim Bode Scott, lead me to the Lord. He had been saved about six months. I knew he had changed, but I didn't know why or how. He just seemed so satisfied."

After becoming a Christian everything didn't turn to roses, but Paul turned to Jesus and depended on Him no matter how bad or how depressed he got. For the first time the world didn't seem like it was against him, now he had hope and someone to lean on.

Paul started reading the Bible and hoped to finish reading the New Testament before the fall run was over. This helped because he really wanted to make being a Christian the center of his life and not get off into the things of the world. "I knew my relationship to Christ was what I had been missing and needed to make my life full."

While working the labor list at the '78 Finals, Paul met Larry Smith, a rodeo circuit preacher. As they got to talking, Larry asked if Paul was saved and Paul noticed that Larry was always happy even after working 10 performances. Paul could hardly believe that there was someone else on the rodeo trail that knew the Lord. Larry told Paul all about the Cowboy Chapter, FCA and about Glenn Smith. He also introduced Paul to Willard Moddy and Terry Davison. Paul came to find out that they were Christians!

Two scriptures that Paul reads when he gets down are Phil. 4:13, "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me." and Phil. 4:19, "My God

Two guns found

Burglary of a habitation charges are pending against a man in the Austin City Jail in connection with the break-in of the Curtis Stockton residence in eastern Schleicher County.

Schleicher County Sheriff Ronnie Norris went to Austin last week and recovered a .12 guage Savage shotgun and a .270 Ruger rifle, taken from the Stockton residence several weeks ago.

Both guns were recovered from a pawn shop in Austin, where the suspect allegedly pawned them. He currently faces burglary charges in Austin and will be served with Schleicher County warrants after trial there.

TO BOOST GAS PRESSURE IN WESTERN ELDORADO

City okays gas vessel idea

During extremely cold winter periods some gas customers in western and northwestern Eldorado suffer from low gas pressure. Meeting in regular monthly session Tuesday night the Eldorado City Council voted to take steps that will hopefully correct that problem.

Neal Howard, a consultant for Basic Controls of Odessa, met with the council at the request of superintendent Clay Long. Howard suggested the installation of two volume chamber vessels.

"The vessels would store extra gas for those really cold times when it is needed in the west and northwest sections of the city, and would be the cheapest way to solve the problem," Howard told the council.

Members of the council voted unanimously to get price estimates on installing the two vessels and each councilman noted the importance of getting gas to gas customers when it is needed.

"It is our responsibility to make sure our gas customers have gas when they need it, regardless of what it costs us," councilman Rooster Jackson said.

The volume chambers will be hooked into the city's existing gas lines, above ground. Long was also instructed to find possible sites for the chambers.

The council met with Ray Lewis Ballew, local appraisal district chief. Ballew told the council that several steps have been taken in his office to keep a recurrence of last month's break-in and theft at his office from happening again.

In the theft, $1,335.90 in city and school funds were stolen after thieves gained entry to the appraisal office through the front door. The money represented tax receipts from the city, $776.87; and school district, $494.09. Petty cash funds in the amount of $65 were also taken.

Ballew told the council that the district's usual deposit schedule was not followed the week of the break-in because of computer installation the week before and a heavy workload that week.

Ballew outlined several changes in operating procedures which the district appraisal board has decided on, including more lights, locks, etc.

Ballew, active in the Schleicher County Emergency Services also presented the EMS report for 1987. A total of 116 runs were reported, with 46 terminating at the local hospital, and 54 at San Angelo hospitals.

The report showed that active EMS personnel are Ray Ballew, Linell Nixon, Shari Wink, John Kotsch, Susie Richters, Matt Chalmers, Wanda Edmiston, See CITY Page 4.

Settler gives his side

"I made my settlement on section --- in Schleicher Co, Tx, in good faith for a good home in 1902. I went upon said land in a heavy, two horse, long buggy.

"I took with me three or four quilts, and a pair of blankets, skillets, frying pans and coffee pot, provisions consisting of flour, bacon, beans, potatoes, and tarp, or heavy wagon sheet.

"I cut some forks with which to stretch my tent, put up the forks and connected them with a ridge pole. I stretched my wagon sheet over said ridge pole, and fastened the ends of said sheet to the ground on each side by

TALKIN' horses....

We spent considerable time as a young 'un sitting beside Uncle Dub in the coffee shop, listening to him and the rest of the ranchers a griping about everything from no rain to foundered hosses.

And when the talk turned to horses this youngster's head shot up and the old ears strained to digest every word. After all these were the real cowboys and when we grew up we planned to be just like them. (We didn't know at that age that we would never be able to afford to be one.)

Of course there was a right smart amount of dickerin' and hashing over horses and many a head have changed hands right there over a cup of steaming coffee, poured by some under-appreciated waitress.

After listening to them for a while we compiled the following guide to what they're really saying:

"Gentle? Why, he's had 15 different kids ride him this year..." (In the AJRA bareback event.)

"I've been roping off of him..." (At a dummy behind the auction barn!)

"Been around lotza cattle..." (He was penned up with some for two hours before the sale.)

"Just got back from a cuttin' horse trainer who had him 120 days..." (The trainer used him to pull the manure spreader.)

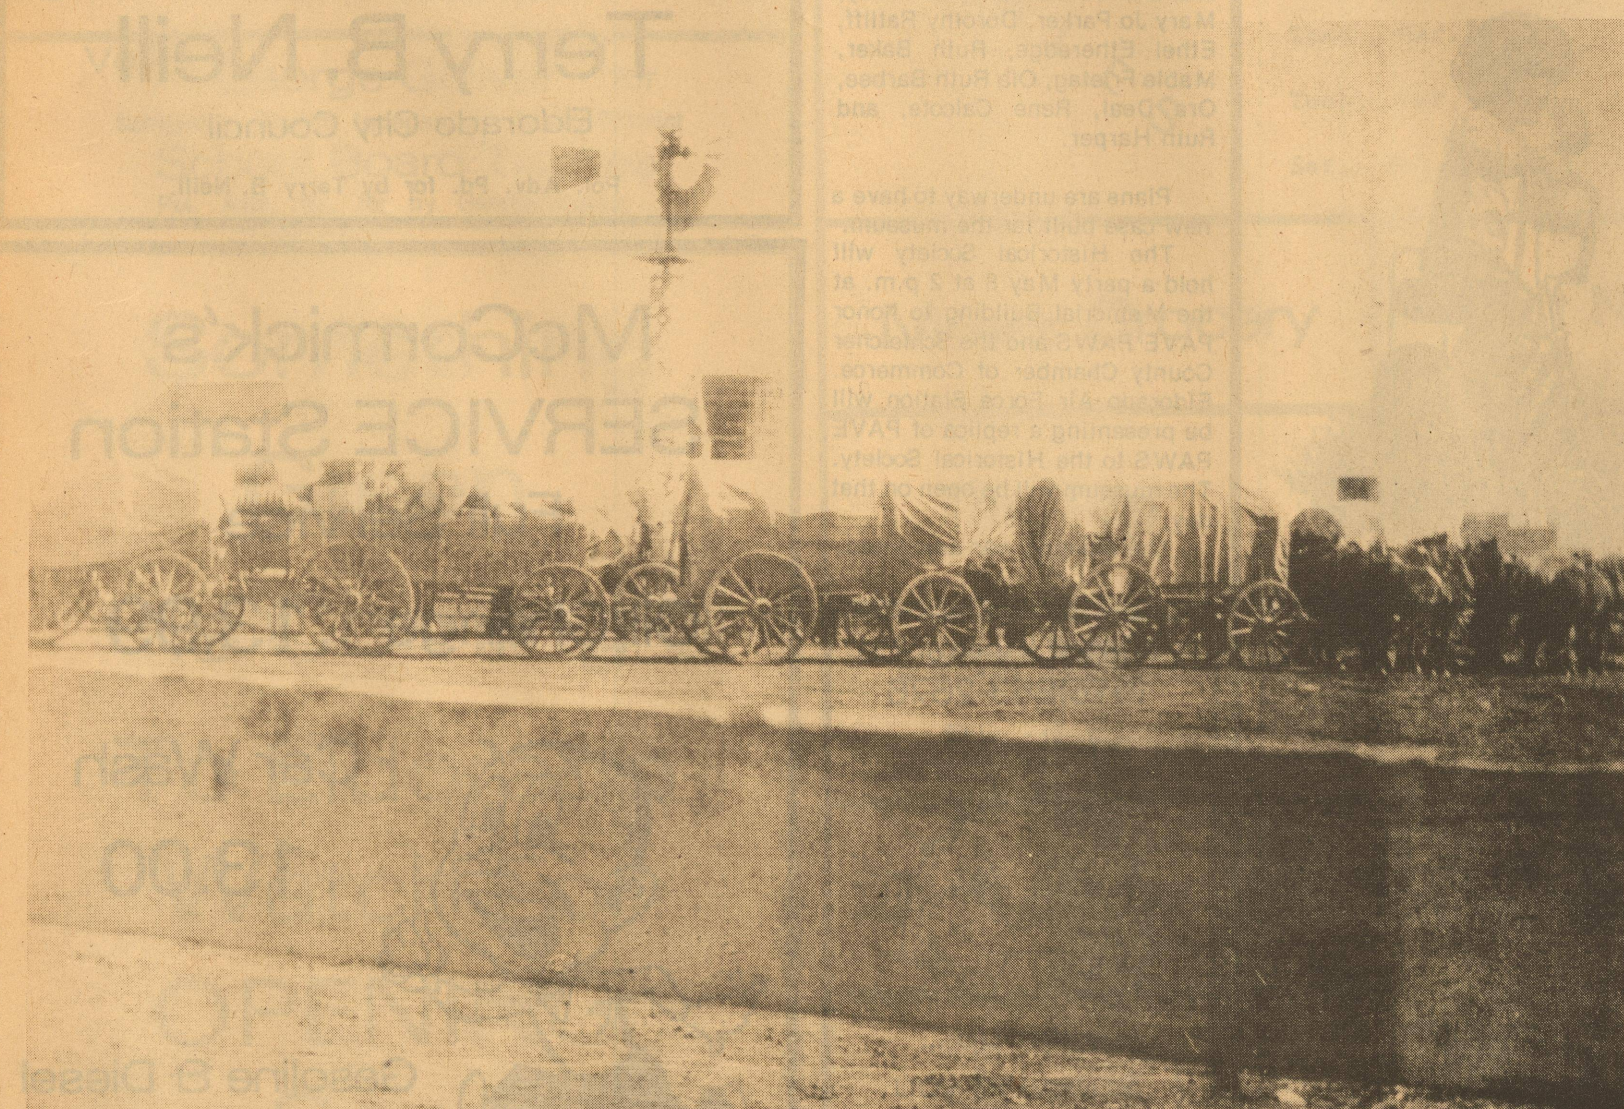

"That big ankle don't bother him none..." (As long as you remember to give him daily doses of bute.)

"He was in 12 races and never lost..." (He ran against Shetland Ponies.)

"He's out of a Two Eyed Jack Mare..." (16 generations back.)

"I left the papers at home..." (Sure he did, and now he can't remember where home is.)

Dear Editor:

The indictment of Robert McFarlane has opened a new chapter in the Iran Contra scandal which did later lead to the indictment of four other people that are Lt. Col. Oliver North, Adm. John Poindexter, Gen. Richard Secord, Albert Hokin and members of vice president George Bush's staff.

If McFarlane truly opens up all he knows about the affair now, then both President Reagan and Vice President Bush will be in deep trouble experts here contend.

U.S. policy towards Central America has indeed taken on the character of war: not against the Soviet threat, but against America's allies in the western hemisphere. In the past weeks, the United States has thrown more threats, diplomatic pressure and economic warfare against its Ibero-American allies such as Panama than against Nicaragua.

Repeatedly Ibero-America governments tell Washington that a change in economic policy would do more to isolate Nicaragua and local radicals, than its policies of arming 20,000 combatants in Central America, or a mooted direct U.S. military intervention.

Accept the principles outline in the Contadora accord, the peace plan drafted by the Contadora-Group nations - Panama, Mexico, Venezuela and Columbia - Washington is told: Your policies are handing the Soviet Union the conflict they seek in the western hemisphere. Now the message is getting tougher: Ibero-America will not stand by the United States in this folly.

The United States fell on the lie that General Noriega had ordered Hugo Spodafora killed in ACNE MEDICATIONS -- Common acne medications will do more than clear up blemishes; they'll also remove color from clothes and other textiles. Acne preparations containing benzoyl peroxide will remove color from fabrics, bedspreads, towels, sweaters or carpets. It causes spots and discoloration on all textiles in time, with color change accelerated by moisture and heat. Spot removal and dry celaning will not remove discoloration from benzoyl peroxide on clothing, although some fabrics can be dyed a darker color to cover it up. Teenagers should know that acne treatments have the potential for permanently spotting their clothes, so they can try to avoid contact between the medication and the fabrics.

a river bordering Costa Rico and Panama. The International media took up the charge burying any clues which lead to another doorstep. The other door step is that Spodafora betrayed the Contras, by selling arms to the Sandinistas with the killing taking place by the Contras for his double dealing in arms trade to both sides.

The moral of this editorial is that the U.S. should support the Contadora nations and not the Contra that run drugs to the U.S. We are looking at a situation where General Noriega was standing in the way of this operation of Hong Kong free drug trade money laundering for the International Bankers and I.M.F. in Panama. Personally I think Gen. Manuel Noriega was the best drug fighter we had in Central America.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS--For do-it-yourselfers, hours spent refinishing furniture can result in some beautiful furniture -- and headaches, dizziness or nausea. Liquid paint and varnish removers are the culprits. If at all possible, it is best to work on projects outside. When you must work inside, you'll need 10-15 exchanges of indoor air with outdoor air every hour. The rate of air exchange can be obtained with a window exhaust fan, but not an air conditioner. Air conditioners don't provide adequate ventilation.

shall supply all your needs according to His riches in glory in Christ Jesus."

It was also at the '78 N.F.R. that the rodeo coach from Montana State asked Paul if he wanted to go to school on a rodeo scholarship, which was an answered prayer. Paul went to Montana State and ended up living with Jim Bode, the friend who lead him to the Lord. "He and I got into the Word a lot and lead several people to the Lord while we were there. Leading someone to the Lord is the greatest thing I have ever done. It is even above making it to the Finals."

Paul attended college from January to June of 1979 and placed fifth in the nation in college steer wrestling. With college rodeo over for the summer, Paul started going to PRCA rodeos. From June 1st until the Cow Palace in November he had won almost $18,000 and ended up in the 15th hole at the NFR. "It was a miracle to me that I could win that much money in that amount of time. I sure praise the Lord for it because there was no way I could win that much money in that amount of time. God had His hand on me." The Lord knew the desire of Paul's heart. Psalm 37:4-5, "Be delighted with the Lord. Then He will give you all your heart's desires. Commit everything you do to the Lord. Trust Him to help you do it and He will." (TLB)

Susie grew up in a rodeo family. Her dad, Clark McEntire, was a world champion steer roper and they traveled as a family. "My momma would sing as we traveled, and that's where Pake, Reba and I learned to sing.

"I guarantee..." (This man has no permanent address and is harder to find than the body of Jimmy Hoffa.)

"We left her open this year cuz our stud died..." (She's as sterile as an operating room.)

"You can ride him with just a halter..." (When the Ace wears off, you'll have to dally to a freight train to stop him.)

"Green broke..." (He had a halter on him when he was a yearling.)

"He's been hauled to play-days..." (Yeah, and then tied to a trailer and then hauled home.)

"She just needs some good groceries..." (And worming, vitamins, vaccinations, antibiotics,)

We weren't a church-going family. We'd go once in a while to a little church across the road from our place."

Susie's grandma was the Christian example and influence in her life and through her grandma's prayers and witness Susie walked an aisle and accepted Jesus into her heart at the age of 13 during a revival meeting.

Susie didn't follow in her dad's footsteps, but shared her mother's love for music. Susie, with her brother Pake and sister Reba, formed a band while they were still in high school. By 1975 Reba had signed a contract with Mercury Records and the trio broke up.

After high school, she attended Oklahoma State University and graduated with a degree in personnel management. Upon finishing college she toured with Reba, appearing at fairs, rodeos, clubs and the Grand Ole Opry. Life was good, and soon there would be an offer for a recording contract.

During this time Susie wasn't walking with the Lord, and backslid. The world's ways were a big influence on her life. A change was about to happen in her life. While at the 1980 NFR a young cowboy came across her path. No one knows for sure if it was Susie's big smile or sparkle in her eyes that turned Paul's head and soon won his heart. A year later they married in November 1981.

After their marriage Paul continued to rodeo and Susie continued to tour with Reba. Seeing each other only when their scheduled allowed, they soon grew tired of this hectic lifestyle. It was during this time that they began searching for fulfillment, feeling that God had more for them. They visited a new church near their home in Atoka, Oklahoma. God spoke to their hearts during the service, and they both responded by totally committing their lives to Him. A part of that commitment was a promise Susie made to God promising she would use her talent for His glory and for His service. "PRAISE ye the Lord, Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise in the congregation of saints." (Psalms 149:1) "All praise the Lord together. For He alone is worthy. His glory is far greater than all of earth and heaven. Let everything alive give praises to the Lord!" (Psalms 148:13 & 150:6)

After they made this commitment, the Lord began to close the doors to sing in clubs, bars and the other places where Susie had once sung country music. As these doors closed, God opened new doors. They now share their testimonies and sing gospel music in rodeo arenas, churches, gospel concerts and through the Cowboy Chapter, FCA services and fellowships. Paul is the current vice-president of the Cowboy Chapter, becoming president in July of 1988, during the Chapter's annual meeting in Cheyenne, Wyoming. Paul and Susie now tie their ministry and rodeo together, as the Lord leads.

Paul and Susie Luchsinger call their ministry PSALMS MINISTRIES and you can reach them by calling them at (405) 346-7726, or write them at Rt. 3, Atoka, Oklahoma 74525. Susie's three taps are only available at the rodeos where they minister or by writing them.

Schleicher Countians draw special welcome

A big "West Texas" welcome is being extended to all Schleicher County supporters of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The occasion is the sixth annual Spring Chicken Affair set for Sunday, April 24, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in giant tents behind Southern Sea Restaurant and Southwest Bank on Knickerbocker Road in San Angelo.

An old-fashioned fried chicken dinner with all the trimmings and continuous musical entertainment for the whole family are featured at the event.

Scheduled entertainers include country singer Ronna Reeves and the clogging group, the Texas Sidekicks.

"In addition to good food and good entertainment, the nice thing about the Spring Chicken Affair is that the Rehab Center gets 100 percent of the $5 patrons pay because Southwest Band and Southern Sea Restaurant cover all costs," said WTRC President/Executive Director Shelley Smith.

"We look forward to visiting with our friends from the neighboring communities who will come to join in the fun and help the handicapped, too," Smith said.

Ballew reported that all EMS workers now have beepers.

Councilman Terry B. Neill got the council's approval to begin negotiations with landowners to acquire the lots just north of the Down Home Diner in downtown Eldorado.

The council approved the councilman's idea for a new park for the site, complete with gazebo. "I envision us raising the money for the gazebo in a county-wide drive.

"It is important that we do something for the downtown area and a park with gazebo would allow us to have entertainment in the spring and summer. People could come and bring their lawn chairs--just like they do along the river in San Angelo," Neill said.

Councilwoman Barbara Jackson mentioned two local groups she said might help with the park project, as did Mayor Bob Lester.

In other action the council:

(1) Authorized Lester to get estimates on the cost of digging an additional pit at the dump ground.

(2) Voted to designate May as Clean-Up Month for Eldorado. City crews will haul off debris, etc. from residences that is piled up and all local landowners are asked to clean-up their property.

(3) Heard the superintendent's report.

(4) Voted to purchase theft coverage for city hall. Cost of the insurance through Mittel Agency will be $168 for $5,000 worth of coverage.

(5) Authorized a sales permit for $10 per year for a young person who plans to operate a snowcone truck.

(6) Went into executive session to discuss personnel, but returned to regular session and took no action.

BY THOMAS GIOVANNITTI

Tuesday I went ahead and voted in the runoff election for the State Board of Education, District One position. To be honest with you, I don't know if there is a Republican candidate, although I think there is. It doesn't matter though, even if this is going to be a contested election, I have no idea at all who these people are, why they are running for a job that has no salary, and whether or not they know anything at all about education.

Now I know Texans have this legendary belief in the democratic process. Texans think the people should decide who ought to run the agencies of this State instead of some "Politician" appointing his buddies to these boards and agencies. That sounds pretty good in theory but I think it loses just a little in practice. For one thing who do you think puts these people onto the idea of running? Don't you think that the "Politicians" have a few guys in mind who will, at least, have the same ideas about education or whatever that they have? But even aside from that there is the problem that unless you personally know one of these guys running there is no way you know anything at all about his or her position regarding what is the most important areas of education that need improvement. Rene Nunez and James M. Jordan are in the runoff on the democratic primary ballot. Any one want to come forward, maybe write a letter to the editor, telling us what each of these men stands for. For all we know they want to appeal House Bill 72. Now, we don't know that, or, at least, I don't know that. I don't know where they are from, or what education they have had.

It was the people of Texas who voted that they wanted this State Board of Education elected and appointed. So now most of us are stuck with the problem of voting on people who don't bother to campaign or campaign so little that we are left with maybe a vague remembrance of their names and faces. Our only hope of salvation is that this Board has very little power and can do very little damage to the State's educational system.

I hear over and over complaints about people who are able to buy elections in these statewide elections. It appears to me that the winner of these School Board positions will be selected by chance. Gambling is supposed to be against the law in Texas. It is, except in our State's Educational system.!

Committee member election slated

"The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will begin accepting nominations April 5 for election of county committee members under new rules that make it easier for farmers to qualify as candidates and to vote, Ben T. Rucker, Jr., County Supervisor said.

FmHA county committees perform a variety of duties for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's credit agency, including deciding whether an applicant is eligible for a farm loan.

"One important change broadens the definition of a farmer to anyone who has an interest in a farm in the county as owner, tenant or sharecropper," Rucker said. "The new definition also includes the spouse of an eligible farmer. An old requirement that more than half of the candidate's income must come from the farm operation has been dropped."

"The nominating period has been extended to 45 days from the previous 25 days, thus allowing more opportunity for people to run for the committee," Rucker said. "At least three eligible farmer voters, including the nominee, must sign the petition."

Two of the three committee members are elected by farmers in the county, and one is appointed by FmHA. One of the elected seats is to be filled for a three-year term at this year's election, which is scheduled for June 30.

"Another important change this year is that one member of the committee can be an active FmHA borrower, or be eligible for an FmHA farm loan," Rucker said. "Previously, this was not allowed."

Anyone interested in running for the committee can obtain a petition and other information from the FmHA county office at Box 8, Eden, Texas 76837.
