10 YEARS AFTER WAR

Japan Raises Shining New Communities From The Ashes

TOKYO (U.P.)—A vast wilderness of rubble and debris stretched as far as the eye could see.

Here and there the dark, scorched husk of a concrete building thrust skyward like a weird funeral pyre.

A few people, faces blank with shock, wandered through smoking ruins left by the nightly armada of giant planes and the shower of death from the heavens.

This was Tokyo and 144 other cities of Japan—broken, prostrate, and bleeding—when the Pacific war ended Aug. 14, 1945.

Today, 10 years after the surrender, Japan has raised shining new communities from the ashes.

Asia's finest trains flash between cities throbbing with commerce. The Japanese people live under greater freedom than they have ever known.

And Japan is driving for a position of full equality in the world of democratic nations. This is a nation that lost a war.

In the first days after surrender, the world learned how great was the catastrophe that had overtaken Japan.

The Ginza—Tokyo's Broadway—was a flattened ruin. Most of the city was a mass of black, twisted wreckage.

Throughout the nation 2,361,906 homes and buildings had been destroyed.

Now the Ginza, glittering with neon signs, is again the center of bustling trade. Tourists and local residents cram its lustrous night spots.

Japan's rebuilding began almost with arrival of the first occupation troops. They helped Japan put brick on brick, restore water, sewage and electric systems, erect new homes and lift up again the factories that had made her a great power.

Those were the halcyon days for foreigners. They had brought food and medicine instead of expected pillage and rape. The Japanese treated them as if they could do no wrong.

But with the coming of independence in the San Francisco treaty of Sept. 8, 1951, Japan's attitude changed. And now, under the administration of Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama, there is a stiff, projected program of up to 65 per cent taxation for foreigners.

Japan's rebuilding began almost with arrival of the first occupation troops. They helped Japan put brick on brick, restore water, sewage and electric systems, erect new homes and lift up again the factories that had made her a great power.

There have been other significant changes too. MacArthur, the occupation commander whose regal bearing once touched a responsive chord in the Japanese, is almost a forgotten man, a blurred image some feel will yet be assigned a proper role in Japan's history.

mit a bigger defense buildup, and to enhance powers of the Emperor, demoted from a godlike-inviolable monarch to a mere symbol of state.

Land reform and women's suffrage are probably the most successful of the changes. The one destroyed an evil system of tenant farming, broke up the feudalistic practice of the oldest son inheriting all property, and created an entire economic class opposed to communism.

The other gave Japan a new voice to plead for social gains.

Yet these issues fade into insignificance alongside Japan's historic struggle to stay solvent as a nation.

Briefly this is the problem: Japan's foreign trade was crushed by the war. Her exports now are only 46 per cent of the 1934-36 level, imports 76 per cent.

She has 88 1/2 million persons living in half the area 72 million used in 1941. Only 15 per cent of her land is tillable.

Exports this year will be an estimated 1.8 billion dollars, imports 2.2 billion, the difference doubtless more than made up by 450 million dollars in U.S. troop expenditures.

It is this deficit, covered by steadily decreasing U.S. purchases that Japan must overcome. At stake is her future role in Asia and in the world.

Her accession to the general agreement on tariffs and trade, called GATT, and the trade plans negotiated with 17 member nations will take up perhaps 40 or 50 million dollars of the slack.

A little more may be picked up by present ventures into the Middle East, Europe, Latin America and the United States.

A very little additional may come from Red China and Russia, but this vaulted market has so far been a mirage with strong overtones of unbalanced trade. Where then is the difference to be obtained?

Experts give an almost universal answer—from the nations of southeast Asia, the same ones Japan failed by war to weld together in a "co-prosperity sphere."

The Philippines, Malaya, Indonesia, Thailand, Burma and Indochina all need Japan's manufactured products and Japan needs their foodstuffs and raw materials.

Economists say before this two-way swap can materialize these nations must develop a surplus to sell. And Japan must launch a painful plant modernization program and install techniques of cost accounting and quality control to make her products economically in a world of stiff competition.

Signs are increasing her planners hope to do just that. Already Japan has saddled her people with one of the world's stiffest income taxes to obtain surplus capital for accomplishing the task. And she is trying desperately to normalize relations with all nations that might fall into her trade sphere.

The average Japanese is earning about $46.36 monthly. Life is still harsh. Some statisticians say "hidden" unemployment may total as much as 10 million. The government lists only 840,000.

The average worker lives in a house still distinctly Japanese with only the barest modern conveniences. He wears Western clothing in public, as do about 90 per cent of the women, who also prefer the short "Audrey Hepburn" hair-do.

If he can afford it, he may try Western food occasionally, but the diet still centers around fish and rice.

In politics the balance of power lies heavily with the Conservatives and probably will for a number of years in spite of slow Socialist gains. Communists, widely discredited and disliked, have a meager 60,000 card holders. They are at an ebb of influence.

Meanwhile, the same Japan that 10 years ago was a broken nation heads into the future asserting her new independence.

Her policies blend cooperation with the West and hoped-for normal relations with the Communist world.

Those who know Japan best feel she will go on borrowing from the Western world as she sees fit, but in the end this nation of fiercely proud, independent people will solve her problems with her own people in her own way.

Old Maids Will Have Their Day, Gifts 'n' All

DENTON, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Unmarried ladies who grin when you say "old maid" will celebrate the 6th annual "Old Maid's Day" here Monday.

The day of homage that was the idea of Miss Dorothy Babb, a faculty member at North Texas College, annually attracts scores of women.

Gov. Allan Shivers issued the usual proclamation that sets Aug. 15 as "Old Maid's Day."

This year, Denton County Judge Jack Gray and Cong. Frank Ikard head the list of speakers.

A drawing as part of the entertainment program will reward an "Old Maid" with a prize. The one who comes the longest distance to attend will also get an award.

As a special project, the old maid group supports Girl's town, in West Texas, a home for girls.

The idea for an "Old Maid's Day" came from Miss Babb's thinking out loud that unmarried women are always contributing to showers, etc., but nobody ever did anything for them.

Once-Purged 'Trotskyite' Back In Power With Commie Party

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press Foreign Staff

For the first time a Communist leader once blasted and purged as "a Trotskyite" has come back to a position of power in the party. This development has enormous significance in the future struggle for Asia.

Sanzo Nozaka, purged five years ago on Moscow's orders as head of the Japanese Communist party, reappeared last week at a party meeting in Tokyo. The Japanese party undertook a new line of surface legality and attempted to "unite all democratic forces" for a future overthrow of the Japanese government. The line fits the world Communist program.

The development represents a defeat for the Stalinist concept of revolutionary movements totally dominated by Moscow. It is a victory for those supporting the idea that the revolution must develop differently in different countries. It is a final defeat for the old Cominform which read Yugoslav-Tito and all deviationists out of the movement.

The development also suggests that the present Soviet regime — in another reversal of Stalin — acknowledges the pre-eminent role of Peiping in developing communism in Asia.

Moscow-trained but Asia-minded, Nozaka spent the war years with Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese. Back in Japan after the war, he advocated violent attack on the American occupation forces, but was an apostle of establishing "socialism by peaceful means." For this Moscow denounced him as "opportunist."

through shakeup of the Japanese party. Nozaka obviously was in to be an important, if not the top, leader. His wife, Ryu Nozaka, heads the party's women's department. The old Stalin-style politburo was abolished and the central committee was reconstituted. The new program defined the party's primary duty as unifying "all democratic forces" of the country for a "peaceful, independent, democratic Japan."

AKRON, O., Aug. 13—Jerry Bill Hutchens' big chance comes this afternoon at storied Derby Downs before a throng of some 60,000 All-American Soap Box Derby fans. The Big Spring champion rolls in Lane 1 at 2:02 1/2 p.m. (12:02 1/2 CST) against two sleek racers driven by David Hayward of San Diego, Calif., and Norman Esterbrook of Columbus, O.

At least half a dozen voices in the throng will be pulling for Jerry — all of the Big Springers present, including Loyd Woolen, Pete Cook and the Joe Pickle family. "I think I'll be all right if a wheel don't fall off," observed Jerry as he looked down the steep track past the big stands before his trial run Friday.

Burglary Try, Thefts Listed

An attempted burglary and two thefts were reported to police here over the weekend. One man was jailed Saturday in connection with one of the theft cases.

The arrested man is accused of taking two bed sheets, a pillow case and a towel from the rooming house of Mabel Scott, 808 NW 6th. He was apprehended shortly after the theft was reported.

The attempted burglary occurred about 2:15 a.m. Saturday at the home of Pauline Hicks, 603 NW 9th. She heard noise at the front door and called police, but the burglar had gone when officers arrived.

According to the police report, a small hole had been cut in the screen door so that it could be opened. The front door had a key on the inside, however, and could not be opened.

Fred Coleman reported the other theft. He said a battery was taken from his pick-up truck while it was parked at the Pic Stand at his home, 506 E. 7th.

Abandoned Baby's Mother Surrenders To DA At Hobbs

LAMESA, Aug. 13—The 19-year-old mother of an eight-day-old baby found abandoned last Tuesday night in a car outside the Hobbs, N. M., baseball park has turned herself in to the district attorney's office in Hobbs.

The Lea County official said no charges would be filed against the woman, whose identity was not disclosed immediately. The infant, now in the home of a Hobbs couple, will be offered for adoption.

The child was born on Aug. 5 at the Lamesa General Hospital. Mrs. Louis Price and Gies White, Lamesa women who saw the mother leave Lamesa Tuesday afternoon, went to Hobbs to identify the baby.

They said the mother had arrived in Lamesa about three weeks ago and rented an apartment close to where they reside. She is said to be from Beagaves.

In a note left with the child, the mother stated that the baby's name was "Gary."

Year's Layoff Pay Is Won By Can Workers

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers of America today reached a two-year contract agreement with the American Can Co. and the Continental Can Co. providing for a 52-week layoff plan and a 2 1/2-cents-an-hour wage boost.

The contract affects 20,000 workers in 32 plants of the American Can Co. and 15,000 workers in more than 30 plants of the Continental Can, the union said.

The agreement was announced by David MacDonald, president of the union.

"If I may be so bold for a moment to brag, nothing like this has been achieved before in American industry negotiations," said MacDonald.

He said the union would strive to obtain a similar pay plan in its negotiations with the steel industry next year.

MacDonald said the new agreement provides for 52 weeks of benefits at 65 per cent of take-home pay, including state unemployment benefits, to workers in both firms with three or more years of service.

The companies will contribute five cents an hour beginning Oct. 1 to finance the plan, with the benefits becoming payable Oct. 1, 1956, MacDonald said.

The agreements must be formally signed by the companies and the union.

The companies had no immediate statement on the union's announcement.

Scientists Report On Atomic Future

By MAX HARRELSON

GENEVA, Aug. 13 (AP)—Two American scientists gave the atoms-for-peace conference detailed reports today on newly designed atomic power plants which they claim can produce electricity eventually on a paying basis.

Neither of the projects has yet gone beyond the planning stage but the designers of both expressed confidence that, once in operation, they will be able to compete with the prices of coal-produced power in some areas.

Clark Williams of Brookhaven National Laboratory, N. Y., described plans for what is technically known as a "liquid metal fuel reactor" designed to produce 210,000 kilowatts of electricity. He estimated this plant would be able to turn out electricity at a cost of 7 1/2 mills per kilowatt hour.

The cost of conventional power in the United States averages from four to seven mills a kilowatt, depending on distance from the source of fuel. In many parts of the world, power production costs considerably more.

No atomic power station now in operation comes anywhere near the level mentioned by Williams. All, however, are much smaller, and are experimental models.

The conference also heard a report from P. F. Gast of the engineering department of General Electric's Hanford, Wash., atomic production operation, who read a paper giving full details of a proposed "graphite moderated nuclear power plant."

This also is a large-scale project, designed to produce 223,600 kilowatt hours of electricity. Gast called it a plant "of broad potential application" and said it is "capable of producing electrical power at an economically competitive level in many parts of the world." He estimated it could turn out electricity that could sell for less than seven mills a kilowatt hour and still make a profit.

Russian scientists, after listening to the reports, said some Soviet designs were remarkably similar in design to the General Electric plant.

In other panels: Experts exchanged notes on chemical damage done to various parts of reactors by the radiation which takes place during the fission process, one of the big problems in connection with atomic development is to find new metals, alloys and other material that will stand up under the radiation. One scientist said the exchange of views had been very helpful to those working on this problem.

An American husband-wife research team from Oak Ridge, Tenn., warned that special caution must be exercised in X-raying women of child-bearing age. William L. and Liane Russell said that, in cases of unsuspected pregnancy, the application of X-rays to a woman's pelvis might cause malformation of the developing baby in her womb.

Both Parties Show Confidence For 1956

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Democratic congressional campaign experts said today they are confident of keeping control of both the Senate and House next year, regardless of whether President Eisenhower runs again.

But Republican strategists, conceding they face an uphill fight in both branches, declared they would have an excellent chance to win Congress back if Eisenhower runs and is re-elected.

The 1956 congressional elections are almost 15 months away, but committees of both parties are busily laying the groundwork for next year's campaigns.

In the House, where all 435 seats are at stake next year, the Democrats now hold 232, the Republicans 203. A net gain of 15 GOP seats is necessary for that party to win control.

The present Senate margin is much closer, with the Democrats having only a 49 to 47 edge. A switch of one in the Republicans' favor would give them control, if they retain the vice presidency, as Senate presiding officer, the vice president can vote to break ties.

Paradoxically, however, Democratic optimism may be somewhat higher on the Senate side than the House.

That is because 15 Democratic Senate seats are up next year, as against 17 Republican, and eight of the Democratic posts are in Southern states traditionally safe for that party.

Democratic strategists figure it this way:

Only 5 of the 17 Republican seats can be considered safe for the GOP next year; the other 12 are in battleground states and in some of these the Democrats think they have good chances of displacing GOP senators.

Only 7 of the 15 Democratic places at stake can be considered doubtful, and 3 of these are in "border" states which the party usually captures.

Republicans pooh-pooh the idea that they have 12 senators who may be in trouble.

GOP campaign officials place most of their 1956 hopes for overturning Senate Democrats on three states—Oregon, where Sen. Morse will seek re-election for the first time as a Democrat; New York, represented by the veteran Sen. Lehman; and Washington, where Sen. Magnuson is asking a third term.

Republicans make no effort to hide their desire to retire Morse to private life. Elected to the Senate twice as a Republican, he opposed Eisenhower in 1952, then became an Independent, and finally switched his registration to Democratic this year.

Also on the GOP list of possible overtures are the seats held by Democratic Sens. Hayden (Ariz.), Clements (Ky.), Hennings (Mo) and Bible (Nev.).

Democrats are pointing their efforts at the posts held by these 12 Republican senators: Kuchel (Calif.), Millikin (Colo.), Bush (Conn.), Walker (Idaho), Dirksen (Ill.), Capehart (Ind.), Hickenlooper (Iowa), Butler (Md.), Bender (Ohio), Duff (Pa.), Bennett (Utah) and Wiley (Wis.).

They say their hopes are highest in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

On the House side, a Democratic political expert said his party has a good chance of picking up seats in a dozen farm and electric power-conscious Western states where the Democrats now have only 4 of 41 seats.

As for Democratic "soft spots," he said there's concern over some areas in the South Atlantic states. Not that the Democrats are worried about the GOP getting a strong foothold in the South, he said, but differences within the Democratic party in a few localities could pave the way for "a good clean candidate" even though he wears a Republican label.

A Republican strategist agreed that a House race depends more on who's running than on party issues, and that "if a man takes care of his district, and is well known, he's hard to beat." He said it's still too early to tell how the House contests will go next year, because candidates and issues aren't yet known.

Senators Wary Of Reduction In Red Forces

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Most senators said today they are dubious about Russia's announcement that it is cutting its armed forces by 640,000 men because of lessened world tension.

But Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said "we should meet the Russians half way, without bowing down and fraternizing."

"There is too much suspicion on both sides of the Iron Curtain," Ellender said in an interview. "If we could just learn what Communist leaders are thinking—what is gnawing at them, we should be able to convince them we don't want anything they have."

Ellender, a member of the Appropriations Committee, said an effective and safe disarmament program "would enable this country to save billions of dollars."

"We could balance the budget next year," he continued. "All we need to do is follow up the proposals of President Eisenhower and Sen. George (D-Ga.)."

He referred to President Eisenhower's offer to Russia to exchange military blueprints, with mutual aerial inspection.

Chairman George of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee encouraged the Big Four Geneva conference and other recent moves of the kind.

Ellender and other available senators said the Soviet announcement of a 640,000 manpower cut means little because the outside world does not know the actual military strength of the Soviet and its satellites.

Garden City Phone Co-Op Plans For Construction Soon

The Garden City cooperative telephone company will soon start construction on their new exchange and lines. The first survey has been made, and workers are now setting stakes for the telephone poles.

The new company has been assured of a long distance hook-up with the Bell Telephone Company, according to D. W. Barker, a director of the new Garden City cooperative. Bell officials said they had consulted with their legal department and that it would be lawful to offer long distance service to the new company.

Barker said a survey of users had also been made to determine if they wanted to be on a one, two, three or four-party line. Altogether they have 63 applicants in town and about 20 in the rural areas who want telephones.

As soon as the lines are staked off, bids will be let for construction. Barker says they will not have a dial system at present, but will eventually install one.

Damages Asked On Royalty Proposal

Judgment for $1,250 is asked by Floyd R. Mays Jr. in a suit for damages filed in district court against F. H. McGinnis.

Mays claims he was damaged to the extent of $1,250 through loss of opportunity to sell an undivided 1-16th royalty interest in the northwest quarter of section 24, Block 32, Township 2-North, T&P Survey, during the period from June 30 to July 11.

He contends that McGinnis represented that O. P. Bush would purchase the royalty interest, subject to a five-day waiting period for title examination. The plaintiff's petition states that Bush didn't accept the property, but that the deed wasn't returned until July 11.

Prior to that time, the petition says, an attempt to drill an oil well ended in failure on an offset tract and value of the mineral interest dropped from $1,250 to a negligible sum. Mays claims he was deprived of the opportunity to sell the royalty between June 30 and July 11, and that he should have judgment for $1,250.

Start Compilation Of County Budget

Compilation of the 1956 budget for Howard County has been started and the document should be ready for public hearing early in September, Auditor Lee Porter announced Saturday.

Porter said he has no idea yet as to what will be the budget total. He and Secretary Dorothy Johnson are still working on individual funds.

The budget will feature property valuations nearly $3,000,000 higher than for the current year, and a tax rate two cents lower than the 1955 rate, according to preliminary estimates.

The 1945 road bond issue has been retired this year, and as a result commissioners have tentatively agreed to drop two cents of the three and a half-cent levy which was set for the retirement of the bonds.

The other cent and a half probably will go into the jury and 1954 road bond funds. Reduction of two cents would put the new rate at 96, instead of 98 cents.

Porter said he is basing tax revenue estimates on valuations about $4,475,000 higher than for the current year. That would make the county-wide total about $43,800,000 for the new budget. Valuations for this year's budget were pegged at $39,320,870.

County commissioners will set the tax rate at the time the budget is approved, probably at their first meeting in September.

Deadline Near For Special Enlistments

The opportunity to serve with two of the Army's outstanding divisions is coming to a close as the final date for enlistment with the 11th Airborne and the Third Armored divisions approaches.

Enlistments for the 11th Airborne must be made by Aug. 23 and the closing date for enlistment with the Third Armored is Sept. 2.

Under the Army's "Operation Gyroscope," these divisions will be sent to Europe next year for 33 months overseas duty. They will know where they are going, how long they will stay and when they will be coming home.

The termination dates for enlistment were set in order to allow ample time for the new enlistees to complete basic training, advance training and unit training before going overseas.

The Army Recruiting station at the Post Office in Odessa will furnish further information on service with these divisions.

Unemployment Blamed For Union Bombings

PORT WORTH, Aug. 13 (AP)—A union official today said unemployment woes may have inspired the bombings of a union hall and the homes of two labor leaders in Fort Worth and Houston.

W. A. Mask said in Houston that the same persons may have been responsible for the bombings there and here. He said unemployment troubles could have inspired them.

The brick home of Jeff Mullally, district organizer for the AFL Plumbers and Steamfitters Union here, was shattered last night by a dynamite bomb.

Earlier yesterday, an explosion at Houston damaged the union's meeting hall. Mast, business representative for the union in Houston, found five sticks of dynamite and a burned out fuse on his lawn after the hall blast.

Two men were arrested in the Houston bombing. Thursday, James R. Huff, 37, business manager of the boilermakers local there, was shot and killed. Clarence Benson Wilkins, 48, an unemployed union member from LaMarque, was charged with murder.

No one was injured in the Houston and Fort Worth bombings.

Mast told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in a telephone interview that "it could be some fellow who did the bombing here who did the bombing in Fort Worth. There are, of course, some dissatisfied workers because of unemployment."

Mullally and his family were out of town when their home was bombed. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Damare to the union hall was estimated at $5,000 to $10,000.

Houston detectives Loyd Barrett and J. R. McCafferty said the union has had employment problems since 1953 and that there had been some membership dissatisfaction over the work shortage.

Mast said about 400 of 1,300 members were unemployed.

The shooting of the boilermaker official also apparently stemmed from unemployment difficulties. The dead man's secretary, Pauline Overly, said Wilkins had talked with Huff "for an hour before the shooting, explaining that it was impossible for him to find employment." She said Huff had told Wilkins jobs were hard to find.

To Discuss Changes In Voting Precincts

The possibility of realigning Howard County voting precincts, for the purpose of combining some election boxes and cutting down on election costs, will be explored by county commissioners Monday.

Judge R. H. Weaver has suggested that commissioners study present precinct lines, to determine if some boxes can be consolidated. The judge said he thinks the six boxes in Big Spring and boxes at Knott, Forsan, Coahoma and Gay Hill should be sufficient to accommodate Howard voters.

Such an arrangement would mean the elimination of boxes at Moore, Soash, Morris, R-Bar, Vincent and Center Point, with voters in those areas being divided among the other boxes.

Voters would have to be shifted to boxes within the commissioner and justice precincts in which they reside, but this probably could be worked out, Weaver said.

The proposed change would involve voting boxes located only in Commissioner Precincts Nos. 1 and 4, Weaver said. All the voters in Precinct No. 3 now cast their ballots at Big Spring boxes, and Precinct No. 2 residents vote only at Coahoma, Forsan and Big Spring.

Precinct No. 1 boxes include those at Soash and Moore. In addition to Knott and Big Spring, Judge Weaver suggested consolidation of

Man Indicted For Slaying Of Wife

WACO, Tex., Aug. 13 (AP)—Raymond F. McGowan, 49, was in jail today pending the posting of bond on two indictments of murder in the death of his rodeo star wife, Pauline, 27, and Bobby Royce Darby, 21.

The Dallas riding academy owner had been free on bond when the indictments were returned Thursday. He is expected to post bond when Dist. Judge D. W. Bartlett returns Monday.

Mrs. McGowan and Darby were found shot in a motel here July 11.

Standing In Tall Cotton

Melton Glendening of the Badgett community northwest of Stanton inspects cotton which he thinks will make three bales to the acre. The field made a crop of that size last year, and Glendening thinks this year's cotton, nearly shoulder high to the six-foot-one farmer, is just as good. He's watching for angular leaf spot that could reduce the yield, however.

Jess Talkin

by Jess Blair

ON THE WORM FRONT: Heavy infestation of boll worms in all the older cotton, according to James Taylor, Howard County Agent. Cabbage loopers eating a few holes in leaves but probably won't do any real damage. Careless worms showing up in many fields but not much build-up yet. Aphids, or lice in nearly all fields, but won't slow cotton down this late in the year.

Farmers are getting good kills, says Taylor, and most of them started poisoning in time to ward off damage. In the St. Lawrence community south of Garden City, boll worms did some damage, as did flea hoppers. Many of the stalks lost the bottom fruit to insects.

The invasion of squash bugs on two or three Glasscock ranches may be confined to an area that suffered half damage in June. A few are on other mesquite, but the heavy concentration is found where the half fell.

Steve and James Currie who have some cultivated land on their ranches east of Garden City probably broke the area record for growing maize last year. They threshed over 4,000 bushels to the acre on an irrigated field.

This year they planted part of the patch to cane and recently made ensilage out of the first crop. It had reached a height of almost eight feet. They plan to get a second cutting in the fall, and will also put it in the silos.

Not many farmers have expressed an interest in putting cotton burs back on the land, but several local ginners will make the burs available. They are now equipped with the proper fans as approved by the pink bollworm authorities.

A. C. Kloven, manager of the Farmers' Gin Company in Big Spring, says two farmers have told him they want to use the burs for fertilizer. And he thinks several others will likely want to use the burs.

The Ackerly area got another good rain a few days ago. Gauges in the village recorded a little over half an inch, but on three sides the rain was much heavier. East and northeast of town an inch to an inch and a half fell, and southeast near the Lowe store there was the same amount. North of Ackerly the moisture dwindled to about 2 of an inch.

Dairying is one business that stays about the same all during the year. There is an upswing in milk in the fall, since most dairymen now have their cows bred for fall calving. They build up a production base during three months then, which allows them to sell more milk in the spring and summer.

Milk always has a slow sale during hot weather, says Bill Rogers, milk trucker, who hauls from the Sweetwater Colorado City and Big Spring milk sheds.

"People go on vacations," he said, "and school cafeterias are closed. Also, most people drink more fruit juices in hot weather. They just don't use as much milk as in the winter."

Worms give plenty of trouble, but the worst enemy to irrigated cotton in this area is angular leaf spot. Once it starts, no kind of chemical can stop it.

In the St. Lawrence area, it is in most irrigated cotton fields and is particularly bad on the long staple 1517C cotton. Frank Childress has places in his fields where the plants have lost all their bottom fruit.

H. B. Pettus, gin manager at St. Lawrence, says it is widespread in the community, and has even been found on the stunted, dryland cotton.

At Ackerly, Ray Adams is losing a good part of one field to a fungus disease, which is either angular leaf spot or verticillium wilt. He says some of the stalks are dying completely.

The only solution for the leaf spot may be in a new blight-resistant cotton now being tried in Martin County. It was developed from the regular 1517C and is called 1517BR. In experiments it has not developed the blight; however, the Extension Service is watching the test plots closely. Even if it is all right, seed for all farmers will not be available for a couple of years.

On the Ceell Hyden farm north of Gay Hill, a 30-acre patch of blue panic grass has furnished grazing for 42 head of cattle since April. Hyden watered the grass to get it up, but has had to use his irrigation wells very little since then.

He has another planting of about 20 acres which will be ready to graze soon. Southeast of Hyden, Durwood Zant has a big field of sudan that has made good growth. He has cut about five tons to the acre for silage and will get another cutting this fall.

On the Dr. Hall place south of Lomax, an irrigated field of blue panic grass has carried three cows to the acre.

The St. Lawrence gin turned out 2,005 bales of cotton last year, according to gin manager H. B. Pettus. He figured they ginned all the community's cotton except about a hundred bales that may have come to Big Spring or Stanton.

He is expecting more cotton this year, because the number of irrigation wells has nearly doubled since last fall. Nearly all of this water is used on cotton. He says the dryland yield has already been cut 1,500 bales because of drought, but they will gin a few hundred bales from dryland fields.

$300 Raised For First Dawson Bale

LAMESA, Aug. 13 (U-A) — Cash and merchandise prizes, with a combined value of $300, have already been raised for Dawson County's first bale of cotton in 1955.

Three of the five committees working on the awards have reported to Jodie Vaughn, Chamber of Commerce president, who is heading the committees.

The contest has as co-sponsor the Retailers Committee, headed by Jake Lippard, and the Agricultural Committee, which has as chairman Tim Cook.

Due to climatic conditions and the recent rains, the first bale is expected later this year than in 1954. The first bale last year was ginned Sept. 16.

SCVAK To Let Contracts Soon

Contracts are due to be let by October for the first of the SCVAK Telephone Company's dial projects in north and northeast Howard County and in the Sparenberg-Ackerly area of Dawson County, W. D. Berry, SCVAK president, announced Saturday.

New exchanges throughout the system are expected to be in service by March 31, 1956. Two or three may be in operation by the first of the year, Berry said.

Revised engineering plans have been approved by REA representatives, as well as by the company. Recommendations of the REA officials have been forwarded to Washington where action is expected on a $490,000 loan for the company in the next few weeks, according to Berry.

One of the first undertakings will be the construction of a $20,000 headquarters building in Sand Springs. The building also will house the Sand Springs exchange, Berry said.

Other exchanges will be constructed at Sparenberg, Seash (for Vealmoor and Ackerly), Knott and Vincent.

Berry said he anticipated release of the funds for the entire system in September. He said SCVAK has secured all necessary commitments from Southwestern Bell and the General Telephone Company of the Southwest for connection with their communications systems.

Approval of the final plans came at a meeting attended by W. D. Berry, Harold Berry, company vice president; Cecil Hawk, Lubbock engineer; and Coy McDougall, REA loan representative.

The SCVAK president said Cecil Hawk Associates had been ordered to complete all plans as quickly as possible. Dial equipment requirements will be forwarded to the manufacturers in the next few weeks so that the equipment will be available when needed. The construction plans will follow, and Berry said construction bids probably will be asked in October.

SCVAK Telephone Company has 875 signed subscribers, Berry reported. He estimated the total will reach 1,000 soon after the new service is started.

Ike Calls For Action To Build Reserve Units

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (U-A) — President Eisenhower moved today to get the armed services started on building up a ready reserve authorized by legislation he signed last week.

He issued an executive order authorizing the Army and Marine Corps to go ahead immediately in enlisting young men below the age of 18½ years into the reserves.

"No time should be lost," the President said, "in moving toward the goal of stronger reserves as rapidly as the new law permits. It is my sincere hope that young Americans will respond to this volunteer program in such measures as to insure its success."

The order permits qualified young men below 18½ years to enlist in the reserve for six months of active training and 7½ years participation in reserve training.

The Army and Marine Corps are the only services affected by today's order since they alone have requested enlistment quotas under the new program. The President authorized the secretary of defense to approve quotas submitted by the services.

The White House said that for the remainder of the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, the Army has requested a total of 90,000 new reservists and the Marines an additional 5,500.

C-C Directors To Meet On Monday

The regular meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be Monday in the Chamber conference room at 7:30 p.m.

Primary business will be a discussion of the final plans for an industrial foundation and a vote on the proposal.

Denied Reserve Commission, Says He'll Study Law

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Aug. 13 (U-A) — Eugene Landy, who last week was refused a naval reserve commission because his mother is a former Communist, says he hopes to go into a field of law "to help the common man."

Landy said last night he had forsaken dreams of entering the admiralty law field, but still intended to enter Yale law school Sept. 14.

"My days of wanting a fast buck are over," he told newsmen. "I could make plenty going into admiralty law, but I want to go into something closer to people now."

Landy, 21, graduated second in his class at the Merchant Marine Academy last week, but refused a commission because of his mother's Communist background.

Landy is a member of the crew of the tanker Western Sun, which is calling here.

Field Is Open in Governor's Race

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—Primary election time is nearly a year away, but a merry scramble for position in the governor's race already is under way.

Who will be running when the filing deadline is reached next spring is anybody's guess.

Only one man, Reuben Senterfit of San Saba, is a formally announced candidate, but others are taking steps to attract public attention.

Most frequently mentioned as potential candidates are State Sen. Jimmy Phillips, Angleton; State Agriculture Commissioner John White; attorneys Ralph Yarborough and James P. Hart, both of Austin; Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd; Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey; and Supreme Court Associate Justice Will Wilson.

U.S. Sen. Price Daniel has indicated he hasn't closed the door on possibly entry in the contest.

Robert B. Anderson, Vernon, has been viewed as a prospective candidate since resigning as deputy secretary of defense, but he disavowed any political plans.

Speculation that Wright Morrow might become the banner bearer for ultra-conservative Texas Democrats increased this week after he mailed out copies of a letter protesting his recent removal as Texas' National Democratic Committeeman.

He was displaced by the State Democratic Executive Committee at the insistence of Gov. Allan Shivers, who has been making overtures toward peace with the national party leadership.

Keeping his name before the public, he will be guest of honor at an appreciation fish fry sponsored by the Galveston Chamber of Commerce in his district Sept. 1. Yarborough continues to issue frequent press statements attacking the Shivers administration. He will address the Old Settlers Picnic at Eanes Lake near Comanche, Monday and the Falls County Texas Senior Citizens Day gathering in Marlin Wednesday.

Yarborough had strong backing of Liberal and Loyalist Democrats against Shivers last year, but some of that group would prefer to back some other candidate in 1956.

White and Hart are considered the men most likely to attract support from Yarborough.

White misses no opportunity to assail Shivers on the party loyalty issue and to challenge the Republican administration's farm policy.

Hart, a former Supreme Court associate justice and former chancellor of the University of Texas, was approached this week by young Loyalists in the Legislature. Hart was reported unlikely to say what he will do before the first of next year.

He will make what he calls a speech about the future of Texas, not a political speech, at a meeting of East Texas Loyalist Democrats Aug. 26 in Henderson. The meeting was arranged by Dr. W. H. Bryant, Tyler, strong supporter of Yarborough in the 1954 race. Shepperd, a red-hot prospect for governor before Shivers' announcement for a third term last year, is non-committal about his future political plans. He was in the headlines this weekend with his announcement that he was investigating evidence of attempts to revive the Ku Klux Klan in Texas.

Ramsey remained his usual taciturn self.

Wilson, the Supreme Court associate justice, frequently is called the "dark horse" candidate for governor. Some thought it significant that he accepted the role of master of ceremonies at a Dallas gathering honoring National Democratic Chairman Paul in June.

DWI Charge Is Changed To Felony

Robert Lee Gray, charged in county court with driving while intoxicated, has been charged in Justice Court with second offense, DWI. The new charge is a felony offense and the misdemeanor charge in county court has been dismissed.

A bond of $1,000 has been set for Gray and he was released. The defendant was arrested by local officers Wednesday. The complaint filed in Justice Court alleges he was convicted of driving while intoxicated in Midland on Aug. 2, 1951.

Mother Picks Up Utah 'Run-Away'

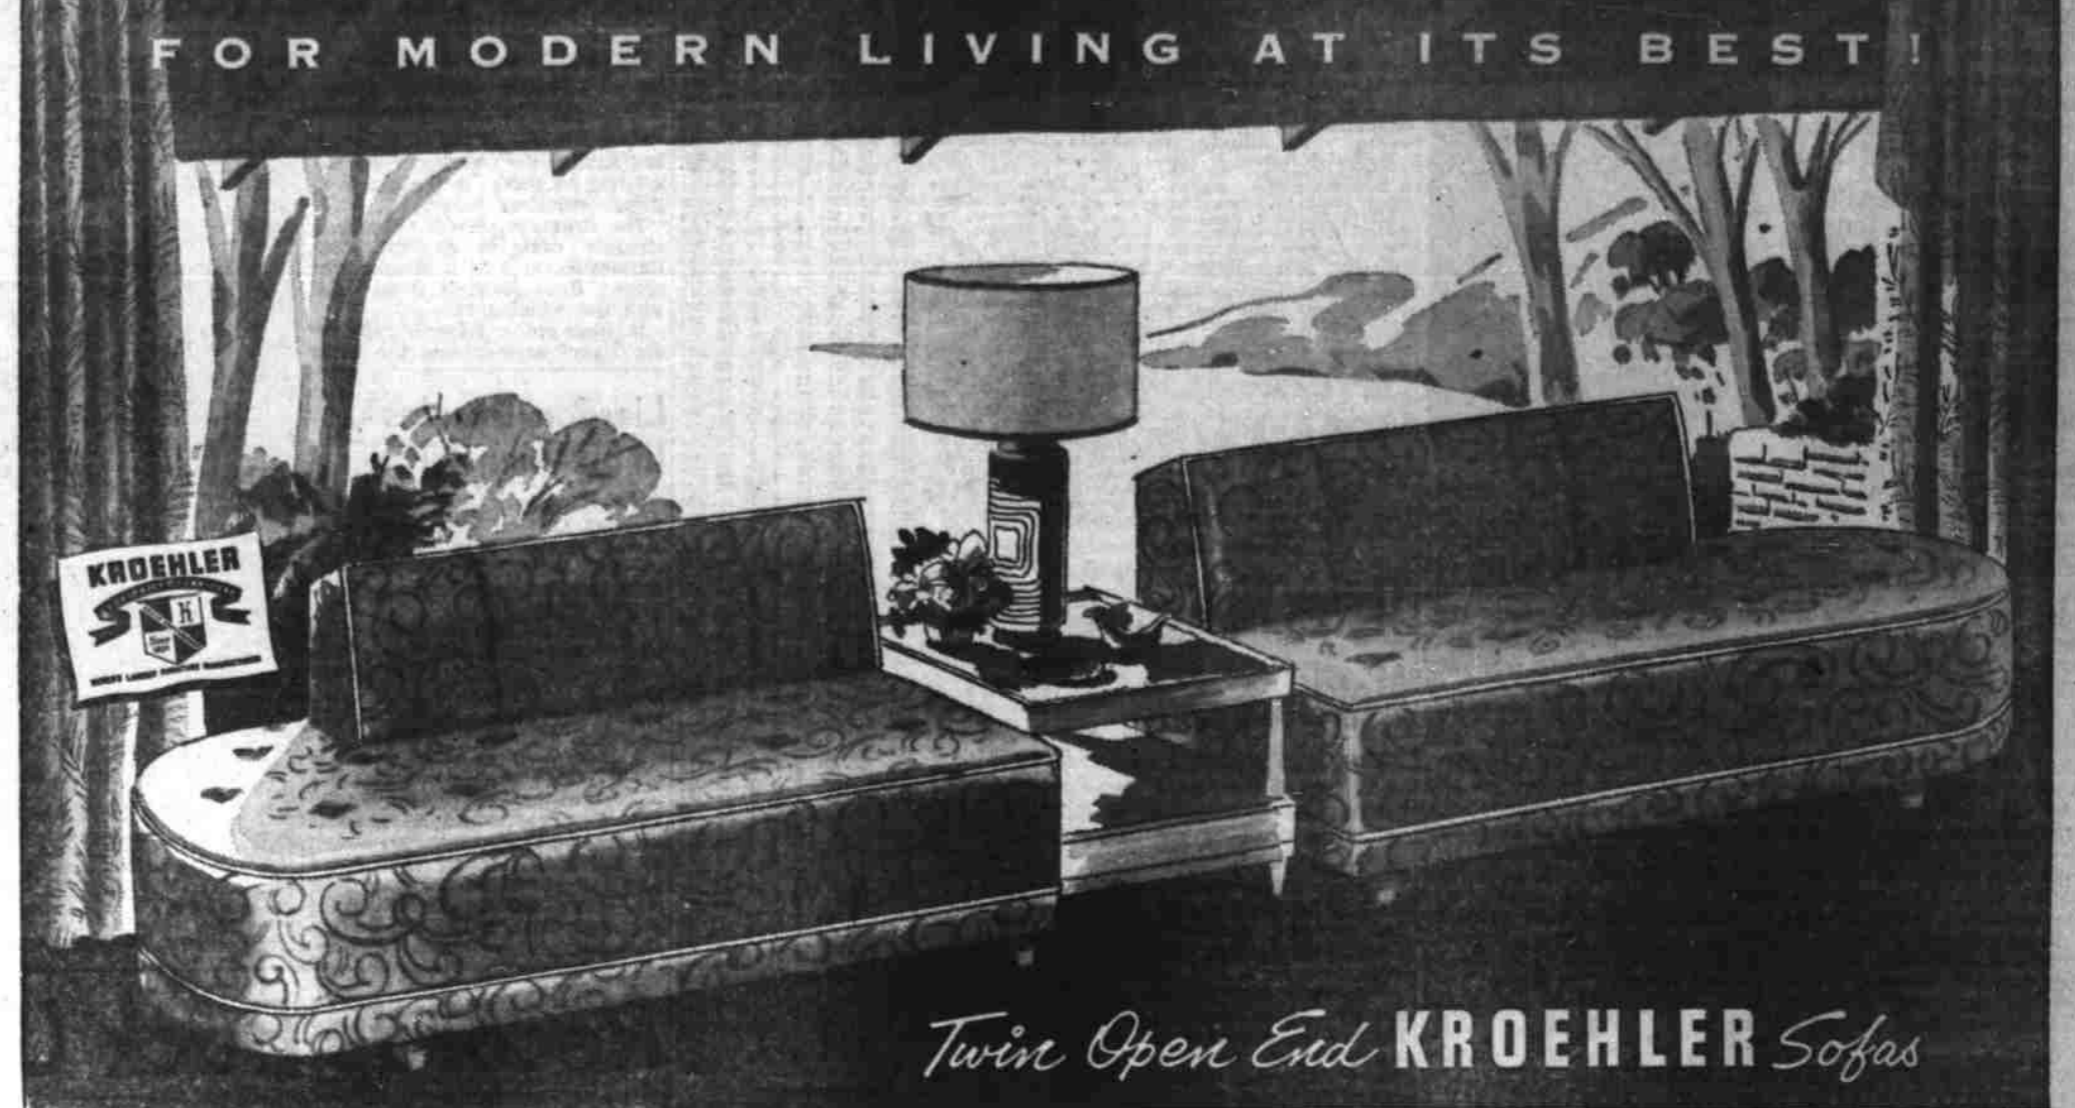

The 14-year-old boy, who admitted being a "run-away" from Salt Lake City, Utah, was released to his mother Saturday. She made the trip to Big Spring by bus to take the youth back home.

A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, released the boy when his mother called for him here. When the mother arrived in the Arizona city, the boy had left and she had to wait until she was notified that Big Spring authorities had arrested him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Stands Against Desegregation

To the Editor:
I wish to commend Trustee R. E. McKinney for the stand he has taken on desegregation. I wish a lot of others would see his way.

In regards to the much discussed desegregation, I consistently maintain that an amalgamation of the races will in the future mean a mongrelized nation, where riots will run rampant in lieu of peace and tranquility in our land.

Says Young Boy Is Not One To Blame

To the Editor:
About this 15-year-old boy who was sent to Gatesville for drunkenness, do the people of this county really believe him guilty of any crime?

The people of this county voted "the stuff" in to be legalized when kids are tempted every day by it. Then they stick a namby-pamby law (which no one bothers to enforce) in the books that it is illegal to sell to minors. Yet when the minors do get it, who gets the blame, the person who bought it and gave it to them, or the person who sells it to them? No! Does the law specify that minors must not get drunk, but that it's okay for adults? No, again. I believe it would be as much of a crime for an adult to be drunk as for a minor—if the law was enforced. Yet you can walk down any street in Big Spring almost any day or night and meet at least one drunk, and what is done about them? Well, they certainly are not sent to prison. Fined? Well, maybe, if picked up, but I think too often law enforcement agencies conveniently turn their heads in the other direction. So again, to my way of thinking I believe all these others are the ones guilty of the crime, and not this child.

If this is the "law" in the County of Howard, it makes me sick to think of what will happen to my three little girls. It will be a heck of a place to live!

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A question about coal has come to me from J. W. D. Vass, who mined coal many years ago. He wrote in part:

"I worked in a coal mine when I was 17 years old. There was a bed of coal seven feet thick with a streak of rock running through it. Over the coal was a slate layer a foot or two feet thick, and over that was a layer of sandstone about 20 feet thick. If coal was formed from plants, how do scientists explain having coal between all those other formations?"

Mighty changes of climate are known to have taken place during past ages. A given area may have had swamps, ponds and lakes during one period. In the so-called Coal Age, a vast amount of plant material was laid down. Scientists say that the plant material turned into peat, later into lignite, still later into soft coal and hard coal.

In the same area, at a later period, a river may have laid down a layer of mud. With drying and pressure this would turn into shale rock. A river flowing from a different direction might break bits from another kind of rock, causing a layer of sandstone such as that described by Mr. Vass.

Another reader, Mr. H. H. McCumber, speaks of the vast amount of lignite in North Dakota. The western half of North Dakota has a mighty reserve of this kind of coal. Large deposits also exist in eastern Montana and in the northwestern corner of South Dakota.

Some use of lignite coal is made today, but the future may see much more. Unless oil, solar power and atomic power take the place of coal completely, North Dakota is likely to become—at a distant time—the leading coal-mining state in the United States.

It seems probable, however, that atomic power will become of first importance during the present century. This power, if used for peaceful industry, can make the earth more fruitful, and can offer a pleasant life for people everywhere.

V-J Day 10 Years Ago Recalled By Residents

By La DOYCE LAMBERT

"The veil of anxiety and suffering and sorrow has been rent asunder, and the light of God-given peace today shines through to bless the world."

These words started a Herald editorial and at the same time expressed the sentiments of the world on Aug. 14, 1945—the day Japan surrendered to end World War II.

After 10 years, people still look back and remember. Some memories are clear and detailed, others are hazy and difficult to recall. But they remember because this date a decade ago was of so much consequence and meaning to everyone that time could never blot it out completely.

Mrs. S. A. McComb, 811 E. 13th, recalls the commotion the news caused here. "Everyone was in town that night," she remembers. Newspaper accounts tell of wildly celebrating civilians and soldiers that jammed the downtown district of Big Spring from the first flash of official word of Japanese surrender to well past midnight.

Mrs. McComb and her family were among the few who stayed indoors that night to be thankful and glad quietly and reverently. All about them, however, jubilant crowds were shouting, singing and crying.

"Everywhere veterans of the war were in the forefront of the jubilation," said the Associated Press and this is verified by Ted Vinson, 1904 Eleventh Place. He was in the Fifth Army rest camp in Rome, Italy, when he heard the news over the company loudspeaker.

Vinson said he was in exactly the same place on V-E Day a few months earlier. Besides the rejoicing, he said, every serviceman had one big question on his mind at this time—"When do we get to go home?"

The fact that the USO in Big Spring did such a wonderful job for the men in the armed forces here is most vividly remembered by Edith Gay, Settles Hotel.

"It was known all over the country," she said. In fact, Miss Gay was at a party at the air base when the news of Jap surrender came.

Chief R. E. LaFon, Navy recruiter here, was caught in the midst of one of the biggest celebrations in the country in San Francisco. The noise there ranged from the shouting of the crowd to the whistles of the ships in the harbor, he said.

"It was a great relief of the heavy strain that was on the servicemen," Chief LaFon said of the armistice.

Mrs. Walter Grice, 409 E. 2nd, remembers the date of the surrender as "a time of rejoicing to know that the boys would soon be getting to come home." She was glad for other families in this case, because her boy in the service was already on his way home then.

Everyone, it seems, was involved in some phase of the war. C. A. Williams, 1000 E. 16th, recalls that he held a war-time position with the now disbanded Farm Security Administration, in Haskell at the time of the armistice.

"We were all mighty glad the thing was over," Williams said, even though it meant that he was temporarily out of a job.

Thus are some of the sentiments of a few local people on one of the most memorable dates in history. Local people, too, shared the feeling cited on Aug. 14, 1945 by a national news service—"Thank God, thank God it's over at last" were words repeated again and again in every language. The bloodiest, most destructive war in history is at an end.

Another sentiment shared by residents here is that such a prolonged, destructive affair will never happen again.

Bascom Giles Facing A New Trial Monday

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13 (AP)—Former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, convicted 16 days ago of aiding in theft of state funds, is scheduled to go on trial again Monday on new charges.

He is charged in Judge M. D. Jones' Criminal District Court on three counts—two of consenting to accept a bribe and one of accepting a bribe of $30,000 in a veterans land deal in Bexar County.

As land commissioner until he resigned Jan. 1, Giles was chairman of the Veterans Land Board which administered the 100-million dollar program designed to help World War II and Korean veterans buy Texas farm and ranches. Other members of the board are the governor and attorney general.

Giles, 54, originally faced trial on the bribery charge here April 11. He won a routine delay until May 23, then secured postponement to Aug. 15 because he had retained Rep. Cecil Storey Longview as one of his defense attorneys.

A mandatory law entitled Giles to continuance of his case until 30 days after adjournment of the legislative session.

Judge Jones commented at the time: "Regardless of what I think of it, it is the law of the land." He later said he would "expect and demand" that Rep. Storey appear in connection with the Giles case when it came to trial.

Storey has said he definitely will take an active part in the trial. Attorneys indicated late this week that they expect the trial to begin Monday.

Giles' conviction last month of being an accomplice to theft of $6,800 in veterans land funds carried a three-year penitentiary sentence. He is appealing.

In addition to the bribery charge confronting him here, Giles is charged in Zavala County with consenting to accept bribes of $8,000, $15,000 and $36,000.

Webb Will Graduate Class 55-T Tuesday

Webb will graduate jet pilot class 55-T Tuesday morning and open base has been declared for the occasion.

Commencement speaker for the thirty-seven graduates will be Dr. D. M. Wiggins, executive vice president of the Citizens National Bank in Lubbock. Dr. Wiggins is a past president of Texas Tech at Lubbock and Texas Western University, El Paso.

The graduation program starts at 9 a. m. with a wing review. Col. Charles M. Young, WAFB commander, has announced. The public is invited.

During the review, Col. John Weber, new commander of the Pilot Training Group at Webb will receive a commendation for meritorious service during the Korean War.

The pilot class includes seven Portuguese Air Force officers who have taken jet training under provisions of the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact. Remainder of the graduates are Americans.

Following the commencement program, there will be an informal reception for the new pilots and their guests at the Webb Officers Club.

Dr. Wiggins was backed by a long record of educational and administrative experience when he joined the Lubbock bank in September, 1932. He served in 1917 as principal and coach at Burk Burnett High School, and after service in World War I became superintendent at Canadian.

He was professor of education and dean of students at Hardin-Simmons University from 1925 to 1935, when he became president of the El Paso college. From El Paso he went to Lubbock to assume the Tech presidency in 1948. He resigned in 1952 to take over his present position.

Water Consumption Is On The Upswing

Water consumption in Big Spring during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. this morning was expected to be quite high, or upwards of six million gallons.

Use in the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. Saturday was tabulated at 6,205,000 gallons.

Amount of water distributed here has increased daily since the rains of about two weeks ago, when the figure dipped to the two million some odd gallons. All-time record here was July 12 when eight million gallons were used.

Pre-School Band Rehearsals Set For August 22

Pre-school band rehearsals will begin on Monday, August 22, it was announced by director Clyde Rowe.

Members of the Junior High School Band will meet at 9 a. m., and those in the High School Band will meet at 10:30 a. m. Rehearsals will be held daily until school starts, Rowe said.

The early rehearsals are scheduled so that preparations can be made for the first football game, between Big Spring and Andrews, on Sept. 9. Since school starts only three days before the game, there would be no time to make preparations then.

Rowe said that he hopes to have 100 per cent attendance in the early rehearsals, especially among the members of the high school band.

All students transferring here from other schools who have played in other junior or senior bands are also urged to attend the rehearsals. The director stated that instruments could probably be provided those without them.

Several new instruments have been purchased for the bands this year, Rowe said. Most of these new instruments will be used in the junior grades to substitute for worn out equipment.

Uniforms will be issued to the band members during the pre-school rehearsals periods, Rowe said. Drills will also be held in marching.

Students In High School Urged To Register Promptly

Youths planning to enroll in Big Spring High School this year should call by the principal's office and register as soon as possible, according to Principal Roy Worley.

Those who register early will have full advantage of the schedule, Worley said.

The schedules are being prepared now, he explained, as most of the high school students registered for their courses last spring. Also, graduates from the high school, who are planning to attend a college in September, should pick up a transcript of credits now, before the rush starts. A high school transcript of credits is necessary to enter a college, he pointed out, and the college, as well as the high school, will be rushed later on trying to make arrangements for students.

The office at the high school can make the necessary transcripts now for students who desire to avoid the last minute rush, Worley said.

Man Is Held On Assault Charges

Police have arrested a Latin-American who they said would be charged with aggravated assault as a result of a Thursday night fight in which Jesus Madrid, 1001 NW 4th, received a knife wound.

Madrid was treated at Cowper Hospital for the wound, however he was not seriously injured. The fight occurred in the 300 block of Northwest Fourth.

Pre-School Orientation Is Planned For New Students

A pre-school orientation day for boys and girls entering the first grade this year will be held in city schools on Friday, Aug. 26.

Purpose of the pre-school orientation day is to enable the beginning child to learn about the school atmosphere before the opening day rush, said Superintendent W. C. Blankenship.

Parents, especially mothers, are urged to attend the pre-school orientation program with their children. The parents are advised to take their children to the elementary school in the attendance area in which they reside.

Boundaries of the school attendance areas remain unchanged from last year, and a detailed analysis of these boundaries will be made in The Herald's back-to-school edition of August 21.

Parents whose last named begin with letters A through M are asked to take their beginning pupils to the schools between 9 and 10:30 a. m. All other parents should take their children between 10:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m.

Brief programs are planned at each elementary school, and parents will be given a special bulletin entitled "Happy Landing for Beginners."

To be eligible for enrollment in school this fall, a child must be six years old on or before Sept. 1. Parents are expected to take both a birth certificate and vaccination certificate to the pre-school orientation.

City Purchases Two New Vehicles

The City of Big Spring has purchased a station wagon for the fire department and a garbage truck for the public works department.

The new station wagon, which is fire-engine red, will be driven by Fire Chief H. V. Crocker. It cost $1,950 and was purchased from Tidwell Chevrolet Company on low bid.

Plans call for housing the portable iron lung in back of the station wagon, as well as other emergency equipment for fire and water safety.

The new garbage truck, which has a 20 cubic yard packer body, cost the city a total of $7,716.65. This included $3,338.15 for the GMC truck and $4,378.50 for the body.

Other garbage trucks in the city fleet have capacity of only 12 cubic yards each.

The Beauties Of A Summer Yard

Perhaps it's because there's no bugaboo of a water shortage . . . or the rains have been a bit more timely this year . . . or there's more interest in civic beautification . . . or perhaps all these things. At any rate, yards and home gardens in Big Spring flourish in more beauty and in more profusion this year than ever before. Local residents are enjoying their open-air spaces more, have landscaped them accordingly. On almost every street you find picturesque spots of rest and attractiveness behind the houses. On this page are just a few examples of yard beautification to be noted in the city this summer.

TRANSPLANTED FROM THE CONCHO RIVER BANKS—was this hackberry tree, which rules over the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Arvie Walker, 404 Washington Blvd. Planted about 20 years ago, it furnished the shade for their children and now, the grandchildren "play house" around its base. The grown-ups enjoy it, too, for outdoor suppers, with barbecue prepared in the pit, which is to the side of the patio and isn't shown in the picture. Adding color to the enclosure is an old-fashioned garden of dahlias, pinks, carnations, zinnias, forget-me-nots, crape myrtle, perennial sweet peas, roses and other bright flowers.

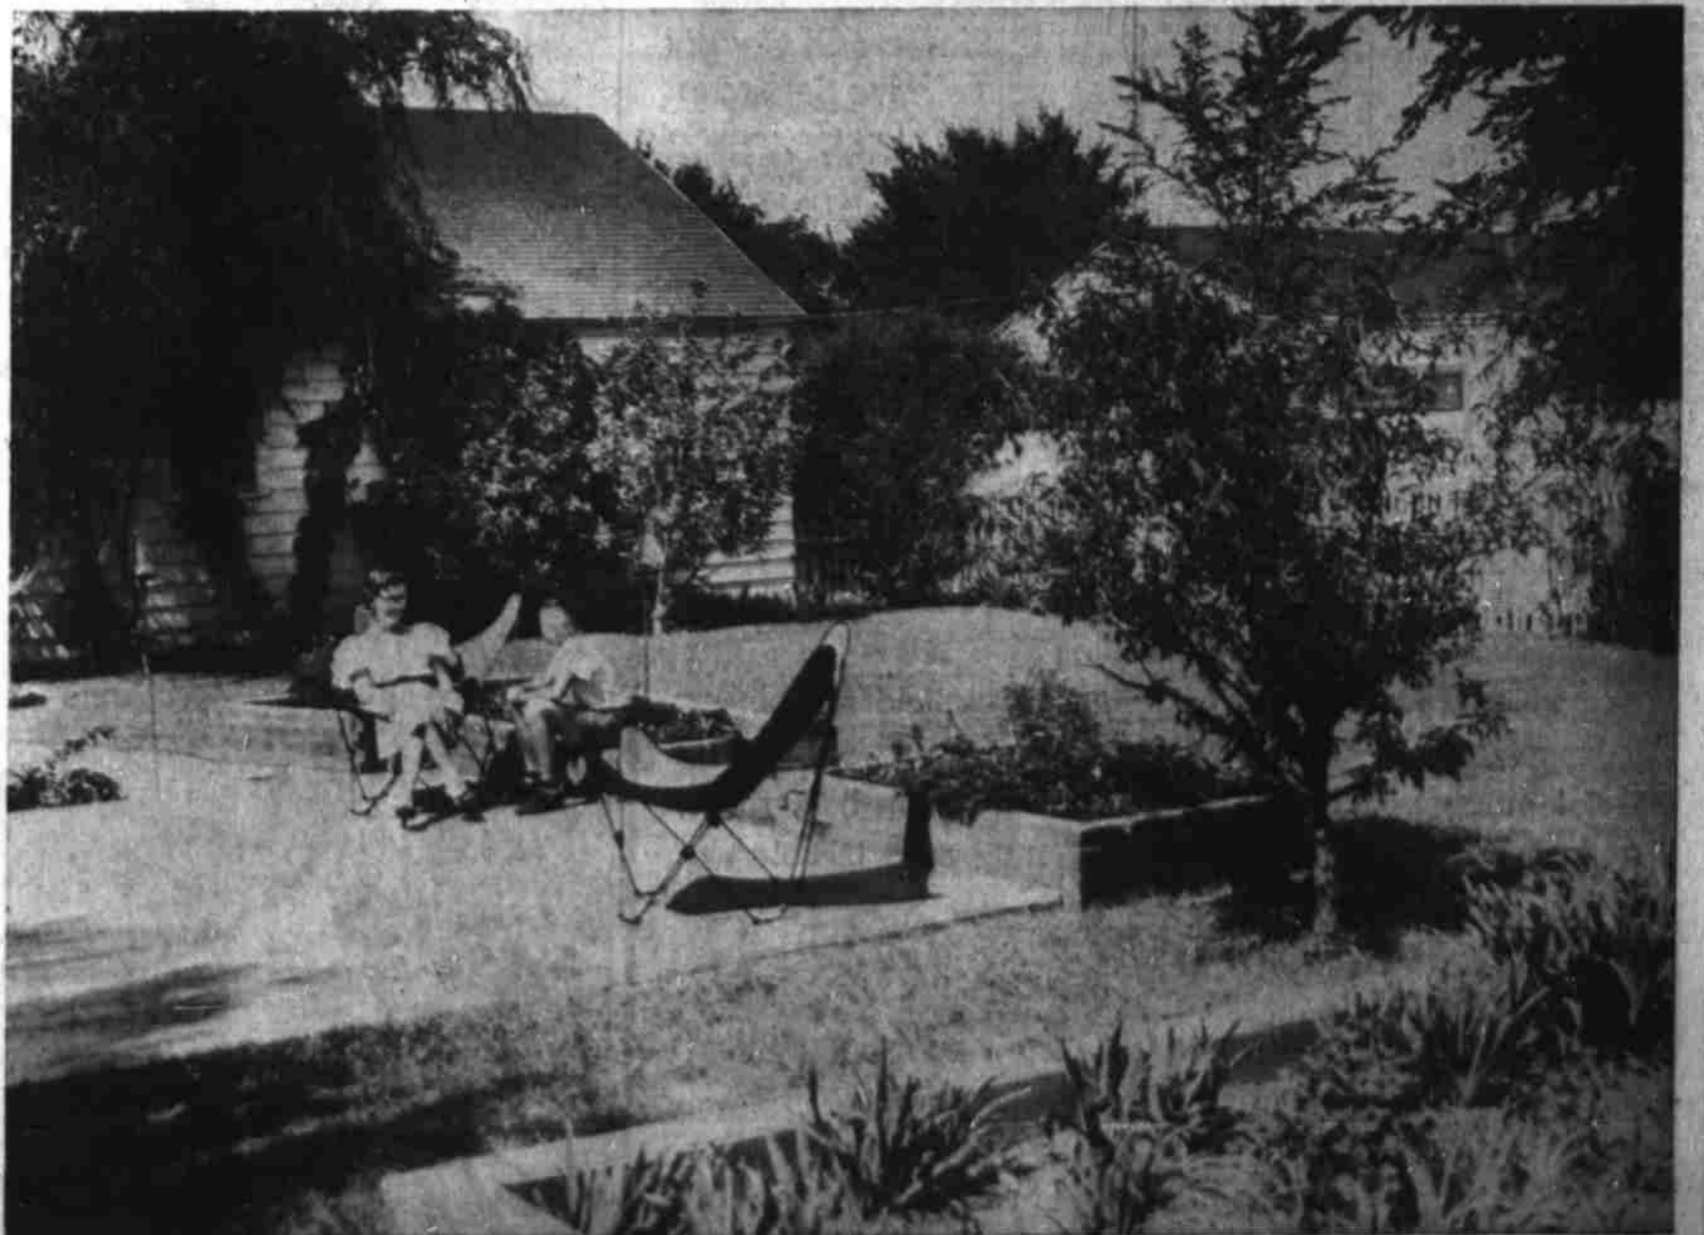

A SOFT SHADE OF PINK — is the color of this garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Harmon Jr., 405 Edwards. Pink gladioli and zinnias exactly match the flamingoes standing in the flower bed and lawn, with castor beans in the background. A bird bath adds welcome refreshment for feathered visitors, while a pink louvered fence enclosing the front gives a glimpse of this spot to the passerby. An open gate is an invitation to "drop in and set a spell."

INVITINGLY CONVENIENT — is the conversation corner in the garden of the Dale Smith home at 401 Hillside. Placed near the vine-covered arch, the table with its green umbrella and red chairs, makes a bright splash of color among the roses, zinnias and honeysuckle which are used as a background. A mimosa tree, castor beans, hollyhocks and foxglove also add to the beauty of this space. And surprise! Mrs. Smith, to improve the soil, added some cantaloupe peelings and seeds to the beds, and now she has a vine bearing two cantaloupes!

PERFECT FOR A GAME OF BALL—between Cindy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams, 1604 Sunset, and Poochie, is this thick grass in their yard. Work in the garden was started just last summer, but it gives the appearance of a long-established arrangement. At one edge of the lawn, convenient to the kitchen door, is a patio for dining or sunning. The remainder of the yard is in grass with a border of mixed flowers, including dahlias, cannas, bells of Ireland, chrysanthemums, verbena, zinnias, petunias, marigolds and gailardias. The tree in the background is a cottonwood, rather unusual in this part of the country.

GOOD FOR SUNNING—is the patio in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Pondrom, 703 W. 18th, and Mrs. Pondrom and Jody take advantage of it. Situated as it is, the space enjoys shade in the early morning and in the afternoon, when shade is really appreciated. "Because very few people out here have grapevines," Mrs. Pondrom is especially proud of theirs, as well as the oleander and bougainvilleas, which decorate the garden along with such standbys as marigolds, zinnias, crape myrtle and shasta daisies.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Frances Walker

Dear Jayhawkers,
I'm sorry to report that Tuesday was Louise Gorman's last day at HCJC, as she and her husband have moved back to San Angelo. She had served as secretary to the registrar for over a year. Mr. Keese's new secretary is Janice Dunagan.
Last weekend Dee Phillips and Gloria Esmond were here from Lamesa. Dee met Silas Flournoy to go house-hunting, as the two plan to room together during the coming school year.
Dennis Phillips was here house-hunting this Friday. He had just returned to Lamesa from a trip to Houston.
Also preparing for the opening of the school term is Connie Crow, who spent Wednesday in Lubbock shopping for a new college wardrobe.
Best wishes to Laura Holland and Lynn Laws who are now engaged. No immediate date has been set for their wedding.
Last weekend Lonnie Martin journeyed to Abilene for a family reunion.
Lela Fletcher returned to Forsan Wednesday after a week-long vacation in Illinois.
Myrna Talley spent last weekend in bed after having her tonsils removed. She has now fully recovered.
Bob Patterson joined Jimmie Castleberry yesterday in Meadow where they attended the reunion of their high school senior class.
Peggy and Ray Crooks visited in Stephenville last weekend.
Betty Jumper Waters asked me to tell you that she needs some staffers to help her with next year's yearbook. If you're interested, contact me and I will give you her phone number.

The 1955-56 college budget was approved in a meeting of the Board Thursday evening.
The SUB remodeling project is nearing completion. This means that the Lass-O Club slumber party will be staged within the next two or three weeks.
Laura Holland, club president, reports that she will attempt to notify both the exes and future students as to the definite time and place for the affair. If you or any of your friends fail to receive an invitation please notify Laura or me.
Two new Jayhawkers who plan to attend the party are Marcella Hill of Lamesa and Betty Hester of Meadow.
Marcella, better known to her friends as "Mar," is 5'7 1/2" and has brown hair and eyes. She will be attending HCJC on a choir scholarship, and she lists her major interests as singing and acting. Her major is business administration and she hopes to be a certified secretary some day. Mar was elected Lamesa High's best-dressed girl during her junior year there.
Betty, a 5'3 1/2" blonde with blue eyes, comes highly recommended by her former classmates. Bob Patterson. She was class favorite her senior year at Meadow and was a member of the choir and pep squad. Her major is business, but she is also interested in piano and choir. Betty's nickname is "Bet."
If you know any other kids that plan to enroll at HCJC for the first time this fall, please let me know. See you next week.

Fashion Adviser Says Long Coats Will Lead

By JOYCE CONNAWAY

Contrary to recent fashion reports that the three-quarter length or knee length coats will be the style this fall, Al Clemage, Rothmoor's special representative and fashion consultant, says that this will still be a long coat season.
Mr. Clemage was at Hemphill-Weils all day Friday to give fashion advice and take special orders for his many samples of fall and winter suits and coats.

Borgana, a new fur-like fabric, is becoming the rage with the college set, for it can be worn with sports clothes as well as with an evening gown. These coats, long or short, come in champagne, moonstone, beige and caramel colors.
The material should be handled just like fur. It should not be brushed, carded, pressed or steamed. Borgana is very soft and elegant feeling.

According to the Rothmoor representative, another new fabric, Desiree, which is imported from France, will be very good this year. This material is soft and has a fur-like feel, but has a much shorter haircut than the borgana.
An old favorite in long coats is cashmere. The colors this year are much softer and more soothing to the eye than they have been in recent years. The black and charcoal long coat is taking a very prominent place in the fashion world this autumn.

Sleeves are mostly full at the top and tapering down at the wrist to be worn pushed up. Others feature wide cuffs.

Many coats are trimmed with small bead or rhinestone designs on the collar or shoulder. One exquisite creation is a long coat of black Desiree which has a tiny rhinestone outline on one curve of the collar.

"Something new this year," Mr. Clemage pointed out, "is a three piece suit, but different in that instead of a suit and coat. It has a long coat, a skirt of matching material, and a blouse of crepe in a blending color."

In these ensembles, all the colors are based on matching tones.
One striking costume shown was of black and white imported tweed, a coat, lined with charcoal wool jersey, was displayed on the same hanger with a black and white skirt and a charcoal wool jersey blouse with white angora trim at the neck.

"Suits are simple, emphasizing detail, whether it be in line or one small area of trim," Mr. Clemage said.
These practical assets to every woman's wardrobe were shown in British tweeds in all colors.

Patricia, Glenna Weeks, Laverne Vogler, Mrs. Donald Airhart, Kay O'Brien, Connie Calhoun, Mrs. Earl Calhoun, Mrs. Bell Graham of Kress, Mrs. Elbert Craddock, Mrs. Vernie Matthews.
Receiving guests were Mrs. Cecil O'Brien, Mrs. A. W. Matthews, Mrs. R. E. White of Gatesville, the bride-elect and the mothers of the engaged couple. About 225 attended.

LADON CHITWOOD

Wedding Date Told For Lamesa Girl

LAMESA—Mr. and Mrs. Aushorn Brown Chitwood, 809 North First Street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, La Don, to Glenn Woodson Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Matthews, 501 North Fourteenth Street.

The announcement was made at a tea Saturday afternoon, given by Mrs. Chitwood in her home.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen lace cloth over yellow and centered with a background fan of yellow gladioli. A miniature garden fence with a fern arch gate, topped with wedding bells, embraced a bride and bridegroom, and tiny pictures in gold frames revealed the identity of the engaged couple. An arrangement of chrysanthemums atop a reflector spelled out the wedding date, September 3.

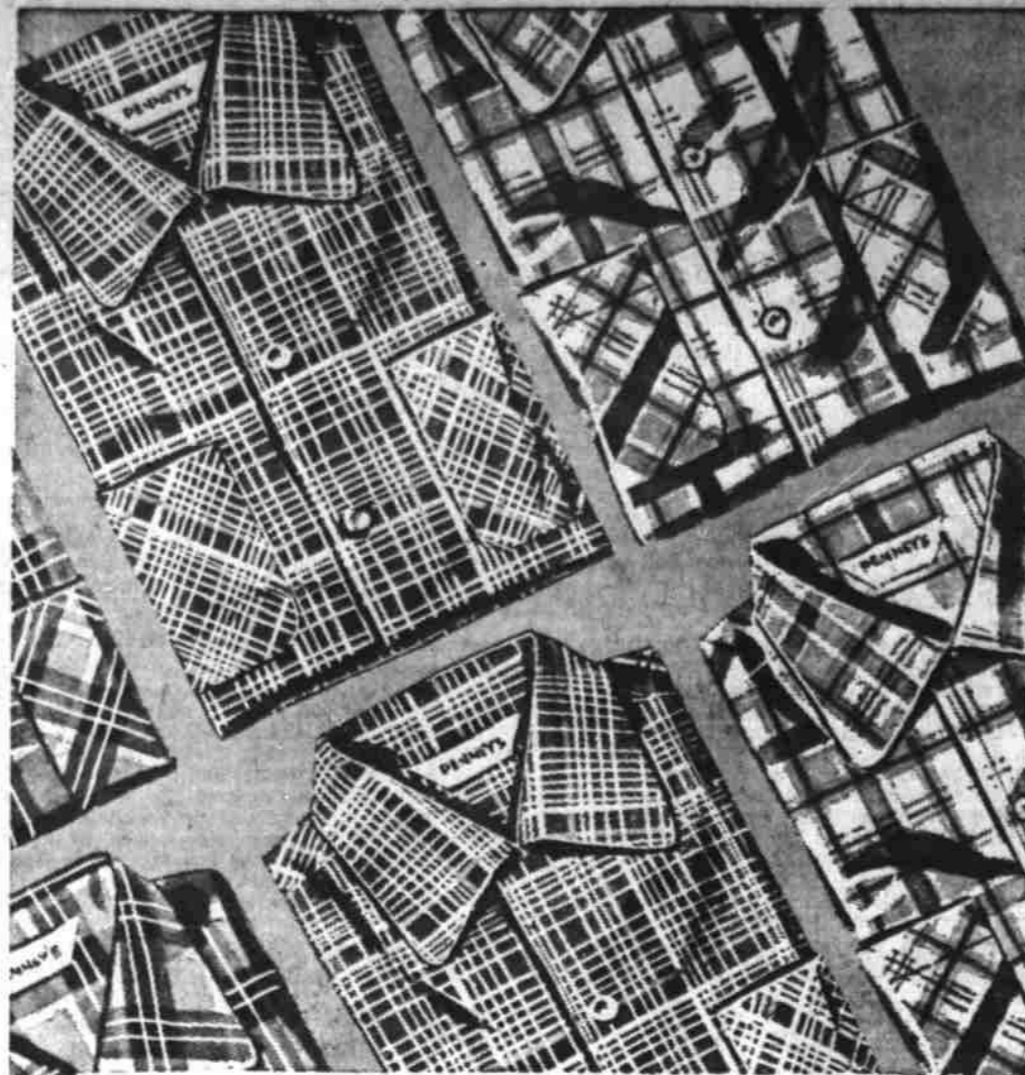

Members of the houseparty assisting with hospitalities were Mrs. Junior Behringer of Levelland, Tommi Matthews, Lytane Lail of Mrs. Carlton Virden, president of the Officers' Wives' Club, serves the honor guests, Mrs. Dean Fling, left, and Mrs. John L. Weber, right.

A Formal Welcome

Officers' Wives Honor Mrs. Weber, Mrs. Fling

A color scheme of pink and brown was used for the tea given Friday afternoon by the Officers' Wives' Club at Ellis Hall to honor Mrs. John Weber and Mrs. Dean Fling.

Mrs. Richard Thompson, Mrs. L. W. Moellberg, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mrs. Donald Nielsen, Mrs. Jerry Welch and Mrs. Ernest Meyers. Arrangements were under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Alexander.

Receiving callers and making presentation of the honor guests were Mrs. Carlton Virden, Mrs. Charles Young, and Mrs. Robert Woda. Mrs. Virden was attired in a black blouse with full black and white skirt and wore a large red hat. Mrs. Young chose a full-skirted navy dress trimmed with white collar and cuffs. A gray sheath was the choice of Mrs. Woda, and her white picture hat matched her white bodice. A red rose on the hat gave an added touch of color. A frock of turquoise was worn by Mrs. Weber, with a small black hat and tiny veil. Mrs. Fling was dressed in separates of a brown skirt and white blouse with a brown hat topped by a white veil. Both honorees wore gardenia corsages. The tea table was laid with a

MRS. WILLIAM DONALD MILLER (Photo by Barr)

Miss Crocker Is Wed To William Miller

In a formal, double ring ceremony, vows were exchanged between Serann Crocker and William Donald Miller of Cleburne Saturday evening at the First Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Crocker, 1707 Benton are parents of the bride; Mrs. Maurine Miller of Cleburne and C. O. Miller of Mangum, Okla., are the bridegroom's parents.

As the couple knelt on a prayer bench, the Rev. Allen Adams, assistant pastor of the church, read the wedding ritual. A background of seven-branched candelabra was decorated with white gladioli and emerald fern, complemented with rows of candles on the chancel rail.

Mrs. Ed Holley, organist, accompanied Mrs. Don Brinegar as she sang "I Love Thee" and "Wedding Prayer" and she played the traditional wedding music.

Wearing a gown of French tulle and imported Chantilly lace, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Fashioned of starlight white satin under lace, the dress had a portrait neckline outlined with lace medallions, centered with iridescent sequins.

The wedding-bell bodice, with tiny cap sleeves, was completed with matching lace gauntlets. Lace over the hipline and tulle made up a bouffant skirt which swept into a suggestion of a train.

Her bridal veil was attached to a crown of lace, pearl and sequin trimmed. It was borrowed, and her gown was new. The bride carried an arrangement of Frenched carnations and a purple-throated orchid on a white Bible, which was something old. She wore a blue garter and had a penny in her shoe.

The feminine attendants were dressed in the same fashion: princess style white frocks of waltz-length with matching headdresses trimmed in pearls. All carried bouquets of turquoise carnations, centered with candles.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bill Barard of Topeka, Kan., and Wanda Petty was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Malinda Crocker, sister of the bride, Sue Craig and Betty Sikora of Wharton.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's brother, Rex Miller of Cleburne. Another brother, Charles Miller, also of Cleburne, served as groomsman, as did Roger Hyde of Cleburne, Elgin Ackers of Denton and Don Shaded of Paducah.

H. V. Crocker Jr., brother of bride, and H. C. Wells seated the wedding guests. Flower girl was Lana Jean Satterwhite and tapers were lighted by Johnny Crocker, a brother of the bride, and Larry Jones.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Jones, 1009 E. 15, was the scene of the reception following the ceremony. The bridal couple was assisted in receiving guests by their mothers, the bridesmaids, the matron and the maid of honor.

Mrs. Bob Wheeler of Stanton and Shirley Wheat served from the bride's table, decorated with an aqua and white flower arrangement at the base of a taper. Ferns and pot-plants completed the setting.

Mrs. Brinegar was in charge of the guest book, and other members of the house party were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Arnold Marshall, Mrs. G. L. James, Mrs. R. F. Blum, Mrs. Dalton Olson and Marylee James.

Out-of-town guests included Ike Harris of San Angelo, Sherri Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Loooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Donny, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Ballenger, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Kilpatrick and Mrs. Bill Wheeler, all of Fort Worth; and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Miller of Corpus Christi, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Miller of San Antonio, Mrs. W. C. Norman of Colorado, Mrs. Nell Fine of Cleburne and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bennett Jr. of Dallas.

For a wedding trip to Galveston and Corpus Christi, Mrs. Miller chose a print in multi shades of brown, topped with a brown linen pale pink linen cloth and bore an arrangement of pink gladioli. Silver candelabra, flanking the flowers, held brown tapers.

Wool-Gatherer Can Go From Peach To Guests

By ANNE LeFEVER

This summer, I have had about 24 peaches on my tree, due to several things. One was the hail, which knocked some of the blooms off; another was a freeze that came late, and the other was the owner of the tree!

I was told that the way to tell whether or not the freeze had killed the fruit was to pick a bloom, open it, and, if a black speck was in the very bottom of the flower, where it joins the limb, the cold had taken its toll. So fascinated was I by this that I wasted nearly my whole crop, trying to see if the fruit had frozen!

Have you ever watched a woman search for something in her purse—especially these large tote bags, which are so popular—and oh, so convenient? If you haven't, do so, sometime. It's worth the money!

First, she will put one hand in and feel around the bag; then the other hand will go in to hold the various articles back while the first hand scrabbles around in the bottom. Chances are that the looked-for object is being held up with all the rest of the contents. Finally, then, she will have both hands in the tote and will be peering down into the dark depths. Surely is a good feeling when the search is rewarded, and she "comes up" with the lipstick!

The vacant lots in this town are a disgrace to the city! I'm considtransitional cotton was chosen by Miss Craig as her costume for the party, and she added a pink scarf at the neck. Black pumps and accessories completed her attire, with a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. White also wore gardenias.

The guest list included about 36.

About 40 guests called during the evening at the bridal shower given recently for Miss Craig in the home of Mrs. Reuben Hill. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Leon Cain, Mrs. G. C. Ragsdale, Mrs. E. E. Ellison, Mrs. S. C. Frazier, Mrs. I. C. Raley, Mrs. H. J. Rogers, Mrs. L. E. Taylor, Mrs. Bob Craig, Mrs. T. E. Stringfellow, Wilrena Richbourg, Mrs. Mable Redwine, Mrs. O. O. Oliver, Mrs. Alton Allen and Mrs. M. H. Macomber.

ering the possibility of starting a one-woman campaign to get neighbors to band together and clean up lots adjoining their property—I live next to a cluttered-up lot, myself, so I'd come in for some of the work, too. It really wouldn't take long if everyone pitched in, and what a difference it would make in the appearance of the town!

I've read so many stories lately about the coming fashions and shapes and waistlines that I'm confused about the way women will look.

Some designers say everything must have a tunic; others wouldn't be found dead with a tunic on any of their dresses. Waistlines go up or down with the mood of the fashion dictators, and "you pay your money and you take your choice." Guess I'm really the shirtwaist dress type, myself, and, as for shapes—well, if mine changed, it would have to be for the better—it couldn't get worse!

A new lawnmower really puts zip in grass cutting—if anything could put zip into it! I have a new one, the push-type, on account of my little black cocker, Punkin. She hates motor-scooters so badly that I don't believe she would allow a power mower in the yard.

Recently, I imagine I must have been taken for a kidnaper by several mothers in various neighborhoods. In search of models for our "playtime" pictures in the Sunday society section, I drove around in different parts of town, watching the children playing in the yards. Must have appeared kinda suspicious!

This week, people have probably mistaken me for a "peeping Tom," as I have been looking for pretty spots in gardens and yards. Up and down the streets I'd go, peering through fences and gates, looking just like a nosy neighbor!

Those Chinese elms are poking in again where they don't belong! This time, it's at the home of Mr. Mrs. L. W. Whatley, 1100 Ridge-

There, an elm seedling has grown up by a running rose bush, and the two are quite confused and confusing. A long runner is growing from the rose and, on a smooth branch—no thorns at all—it bears

Plans September Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. (Bunk) Lawson of Sterling City announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen, 603 Bell, to Lt. Edward E. Adams, of Webb Air Force Base, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Adams, Houston. The Sept. 1 wedding will be held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Long, 1501 Cherokee.

leaves just like those of an elm. The green of the leaves, however, is the shade of rose-leaves. There is a difference, you know. The rest of the bush is in bloom, but this "stray" has no indication of blossoms.

How silly can you get! I have recently read about a woman—a Texan, too, I'm sorry to admit, who, when she travels by train, takes her own monogrammed bed-linens with her to use instead of those supplied by the railroad!

Nothing like an out-of-town guest to start a round of small, informal parties, is there? Mrs. Marie Cannon of Tucson and San Angelo has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Spence, and Mrs. Don Seale has been visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Woodall.

Mrs. Adeline Biehn of Milwaukee, Wis. is a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Holley, and Mr. Holley, 1605B Lincoln. The Holleys are parents of a son, David Lawrence, born Aug. 5 at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Bridal Shower Is In-Honor Tea For Miss Robinson

The Lewis Murdock home was the setting recently for a miscellaneous shower given for Jean Robinson, bride-elect of Lt. Edward Hart of Easton, Pa. Miss Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Robinson, 602 E. 17, will be married to Lt. Hart on Aug. 18.

A pink and white color scheme was used for the tea table, with a floor-length cover of white organdy, decorated with pink ribbon bows. An arrangement of pink asters held a tiny bride and groom.

Serving was done by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Bob Satterwhite, Mrs. Claud Jackson, Mrs. Paul Van Sheedy, Mrs. H. H. Stephens, Mrs. A. D. Meador, Mrs. R. W. Jennings, Mrs. H. V. Crocker and Mrs. W. U. O'Neal.

The honoree wore a frock of pink salina cloth with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

New Program Secretary Plans Expansion Of YMCA Activities

James M. Hardy, the new program secretary of the YMCA, has only been on the job since Monday, but already he is planning expansion of the various activities of the Y.

Hardy was recently discharged from the Marine Corps and was contacted by Grover Good, secretary of the YMCA, to take charge of the various activities that make up the YMCA program here.

Hardy has not had time for definite planning as yet, but he has made many notes and tentative plans. For instance, he plans to expand the Hi-Y activities into the elementary age levels.

It will be called the "Grey-Y," Hardy said, and the number of younger persons in the city should make it possible to have several chapters. Activity of the Grey-Y will be much the same as the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y groups except on the level understandable to the younger participants.

"Career counseling" in the youth program that Hardy hopes to bring into the Y's sphere. There hasn't been this type of counseling in the Y before, he said, and it should be very valuable to teen-age persons.

Hardy has worked in the YMCA here before. He was a summer counselor before going into the service. During the summer months when he was here before, he planned the annual "Swim Meet and Water Carnival" which had very good participation. He hopes to revive the annual event as the climax of the swimming season.

The swim instructor at the Y will continue to assist in warm water therapy for local polio patients also, Hardy added. The YMCA instructors assist Howard County Health Unit's nurse Jewel Barton with younger polio patients each week at the Westward Ho Motel's warm water pool.

An Industrial Basketball League is another program which Hardy is planning. The league will be open to all local companies who wish to sponsor and enter a team. Another adult activity will be an annual Invitational Volley Ball Tournament. The local team will be composed of men who are in the YMCA volleyball class, Hardy said. Teams will be invited to participate from other area cities, such as Midland, San Angelo, and Lubbock.

Hardy is familiar with the local interests in YMCA activity and many of the plans he is considering come from the fact that he knows what local youths and adults would like to have. He is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Southwestern University and Harvard University.

An annual YMCA City Tennis Tournament, open to all residents of the city will be a popular event, Hardy predicted. This tournament each year will climax the tennis activity for the season. A novel idea, Hardy explained, would be a "tennis ladder." All participants would have their names printed on wooden blocks and hung up in ladder form.

Then a tennis player could challenge anyone on the ladder for his position, the winner changing places with the loser. If the challenged person refuses to play, the change is automatic.

These plans are just a few of the many activities that Hardy is considering. Many others are still in the formative stage. All of the YMCA activity groups, such as Hi-Y, and Tri-Hi-Y, will be expanded and emphasized, Hardy explained. Every effort to bring as many young people as possible into the YMCA program will be made.

Religious Books Best Sellers, Bible Is Tops

By GLENN COOTES

"Religious books are the most popular sellers in Big Spring," according to Marie McDonald, "and the Bible is the most requested volume."

This statement by the Book Stall owner and operator verifies a fact locally that has been true throughout the nation every since the first "best seller" list was compiled.

The Bible has many other distinctions besides the more obvious ones. For instance, you can buy a Bible at almost any price, from $1.75 to $82.50. Although the text is the same, quality of paper and binding differ, Miss McDonald said. Also, the larger Bibles have such additions as a "Family Record" and a reference section.

The average Bible sale varies from $8.75 to $12.75 in Big Spring, the book seller said. Most Big Springers prefer quality in their purchase, she added, because they plan to keep the Bible a long time. Bibles receive better care than other books, but they are read and handled more often.

Many persons carry their Bibles to church with them every Sunday and use them regularly. This causes them to wear much faster than the ordinary book.

There is a large audience for the new Revised Edition and for the American Standard Edition of the Bible, but the King James Version is still the most popular, Miss McDonald said.

The Revised Edition sells from $3.50 to $15. Many pastors have stated they like this edition. The American Standard edition is priced from $4.50 to $10.

Religious book sales are not limited to Bible sales, Miss McDonald said. Books which have religious outlook or pertain to religion enjoy very large sales here. One such volume is "Letters To Young Churches," a translation of Paul's letters.

The book is a very good seller, Miss McDonald explained, and all denominations are buying it. Price of the book is $2.75. Other books of wide popularity are "A Man Called Peter," by Catherine Marshall, and "The Power Of Positive Thinking," by Norman Vincent Peale.

Another of Peale's books, "Faith Made Them Champions," has a large following here among the younger set. The book is a collection of stories about famous sports and figures and others who attribute their success to faith.

New SA Chief Is Due Aug. 28

Capt. and Mrs. Dexter Breazeale have been assigned as commanding officers of the local Salvation Army Corps, according to Lt. Col. John Morrison, Texas Divisional Commander.

They will assume their duties by Aug. 28 and will replace Lt. and Mrs. Robert Hall, who have been transferred to Corsicana. The Halls will leave Big Spring Aug. 28.

Capt. and Mrs. Breazeale will come to Big Spring from Texarkana, where they have served since 1950. Capt. Breazeale entered training for Salvation Army officership from Wilmington, N. C. Mrs. Breazeale is a native of Austin. They have served appointments in Washington, D. C., in Oklahoma City and Altus, Okla., and in Plainview, Texas. Capt. Breazeale worked on disaster relief in Waco following the tornado there in 1953.

In announcing the appointment, Col. Morrison said, "Both Capt. and Mrs. Breazeale are outstanding Salvation Army officers who will carry on the finest traditions of service given to Big Spring by Lt. and Mrs. Hall. The Salvation Army is most anxious for its spiritual and social work to continue its growth in Big Spring, and we are confident that the Breazeales will serve the city and its people in every possible way."

In addition to his work as commanding officer of the local Corps, Capt. Breazeale will also be in charge of the Red Shield Lodge for transient men at 310 Ayford St. and the Red Shield Community Center for young people at 814 W. 6th St. Headquarters for the organization, which is a member agency of the Howard County Community Chest, are at 308 Ayford.

Bracero Employers Must File Cotton Allotment Reports

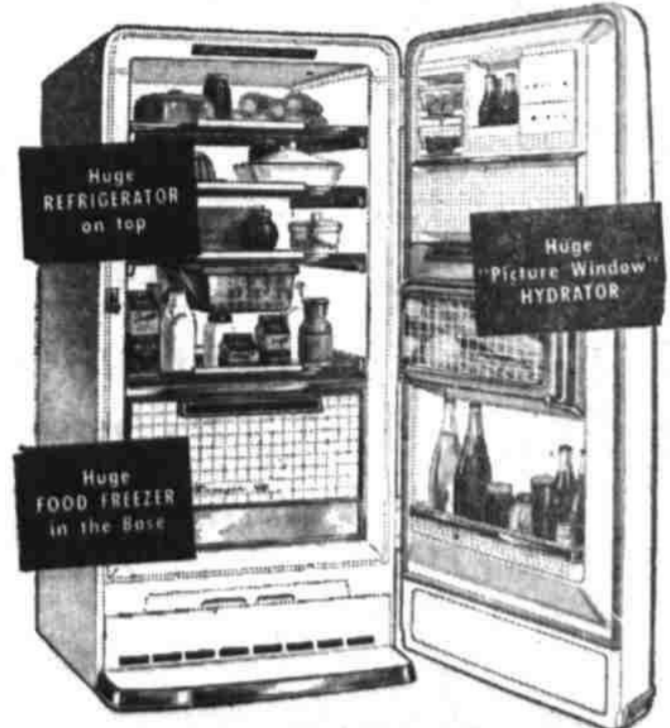

Beginning Monday, farmers who wish to contact Mexican nationals for farm work must file an ASC form showing their cotton acreage allotments at the Texas Employment Office here, announced Leon Kinney, manager.

Kinney explained that the ASC form was necessary in order for the employment agency to provide farmers with an equal distribution of the Mexican laborers.

The TEC manager also reported a need for an experienced automobile salesman, a dentist assistant, sales clerks and several proficient clerks-typists.

The auto salesman job pays $100 per month plus a commission. The weekly report at the TEC shows that 81 persons filed claims for unemployment last week and seven of these were new claimants.

Bond Issues Mean Better Conditions

Most dismal thing about last Tuesday's city bond election is that no more than 225 votes were cast. When you look at it one way, it seems a poor expression of democratic principles that less than 600 people could authorize the expenditure of nearly a million dollars of public money. None of the six issues had as many as 600 "for" votes.

Fact remains, however, that the bonds legally and duly have been approved, and for this we can be happy. As one observer commented, "These bonds make the difference whether we're a one-horse town or not."

Jail Agreement Ought To Be Carried Out

It has been about a month now, since a grand jury brought about a conference with public officials that resulted in an agreement for the employment of a jailer and matron for the county's operations. The sheriff was instructed to hire "qualified" personnel which of course he should do. He has announced that he has had several applications, none of them satisfactory to him.

their attention to the jail problem, and each of them has come along with the same suggestion. Grand juries are, and ought to be, a most potent expression of the people's will in matters of law observance and the public security. Their statements ought to carry weight that cannot be brushed aside. And, as we say, there is a certain moral responsibility to carry out terms of an agreement after public commitment is made.

Walter Lippmann The Problem Of The Second Term

Beginning in the late spring the President's way of talking and acting gave the impression that he had decided to run for a second term. But last week, just as Congress was adjourning, he let it be known that he was not made up his mind, that he is putting off the decision, and that he is finding it a very difficult decision to make.

were another strong Republican available for Vice President who was acceptable to the whole mass of the Eisenhower supporters, the President would be free of his main difficulty. He could in good conscience decide to run again, knowing that if he falls, there is a successor who can carry on.

With great respect I venture to suggest that the President is making his decision more difficult than it ought to be—and indeed that as he is posing the problem for himself, it is insoluble. He will not be much better able to prophecy reliably next winter than he is this summer. No one will be able to give him a clear preview of what will be happening between 1956 and 1960 to the world and to himself.

Now, the trouble with Mr. Nixon is that he is at best a recent convert to Eisenhower's kind of Republicanism. In his political connections and as a political operator he belongs with the opposition to Eisenhower. The great strength of Eisenhower is, as William S. White put it the other day, that he has expanded the center until the fringes are insignificant.

Been Flying In Outer Space For Years

J. A. Livingston Credit Is The Power Behind All This Prosperity

WASHINGTON—This is getting monotonous—this reporting each week of new highs in business. One member of the Federal Reserve Board, struggling to describe the times we live in, said: "I'd call it prosperity. Strong prosperity. Yes, very strong prosperity. In fact, I'd say, prosperity of great strength."

Board is on the alert. Representatives of leading instalment finance houses, such as CIT Financial and Commercial Credit, were invited to Washington to "explain their practices." The finance men assured the Board their loans were of good "quality." Therefore, there was no need to be fretful because instalment debt is at an all-time high. After all, income is at an all-time high, too.

Three years is a long, long look into the future. It requires enormous prescience and faith. It assumes consistent, almost uninterupted, economic stability. Suppose we have a slight recession. Suppose incomes slipped a bit. Families with instalment debt would be squeezed. They'd have to cut regular purchases of food and clothes, or fall behind in payments. That market values—stock market and real estate prices. If the market price was there, why worry? But when prices slumped, the security behind the credit faded out.

Around The Rim Social Security Reduced To Simplest Terms

Some sort of file turns up the piece of intelligence that Aug. 14, 1955, is the 20th anniversary of the birth of the Social Security program in the United States. Government processes moving at the rate they do, I think it was some time up in 1936 before Uncle Sam began to put the tap on paychecks, but nevertheless the Act is having a 20th birthday.

High school credits, (d) marriage license (certified only by a Justice of the Peace), (e) military record, if any, including exhibition of the World War II honorable discharge medal, which any steps should have earned, (f) an affidavit from three of his neighbors testifying that he has never violated the city's garbage laws, and (g) and other certificates from his pastor asserting that he never, never cheated on gasoline ration stamps during World War II.

Marquis Childs H-Bomb Development Is In The Future

GENEVA—So great is the potential of the atom that the tendency seen in this United Nations conference on its peacetime uses is to advertise the push-button millennium for day after tomorrow. There is a rough division between the optimists who tend to soar off into the wild blue future and the skeptics who want to know how the theoretical and potential are to be translated into the now and the actual.

steps have been taken and it is, therefore, not only highly visionary but perhaps also a great disservice to speak as though this could happen overnight. It leads to all kinds of false hopes among underdeveloped peoples who want so desperately to believe in a kind of magic by which they can advance from the stage of the oxcart to the jet plane.

Norman Vincent Peale Faith In His Presence Casts Out Fear

Not long ago, on the West Coast, I met a soldier with whom I had corresponded when he was in Korea. He's not the kind of boy whom you would think of as engaging in regular correspondence with a minister. As a matter of fact, he's a little on the rough side—but he's very real and there's no nonsense about him. I like him tremendously.

almost touch Him. And from that minute on, I felt peaceful and not nearly so scared and lonely."
It was two years after this that I saw him and I asked, "Do you still feel the Presence?"
"Not all the time," he answered, "but I know how to feel Him. I just forget everything else and tell Him that I need Him. I admit to Him how bad I am, and how much better I want to be. I just ask Him to come and be with me, and then I know He is with me."

Cat Trouble

DETROIT (AP)—Curiosity doesn't always kill cats, but the Michigan Humane Society says it sure gets them into a lot of trouble. The society reports it has more cases involving cats than any other animal. They include cats in trees, cats on poles, cats in machines, cats between walls and cats lost, sick or poisoned.

Traffic Rattle

BETHEL, N.C. (AP)—A traffic snarl developed here when a rattlesnake coiled at an intersection and struck at passing cars. Then Jerry Autman drove a farm tractor over its head and collected a souvenir—14 rattles.

Surprise Roundup

WINFIELD, Iowa (AP)—When their 24 head of cattle broke out of the pasture during a night storm, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Underwood went out in the dark to round them up. Next morning, instead of 24 animals, they found 45 critters in the pasture. The extra 21 steers, they learned, belonged to another farmer three miles away. They also had stampeded during the storm.

DO IT YOURSELF

Chaise Lounge Has Comfort, Eye Appeal

By BILL BAKER
Do you have a good do-it-yourself project today?

I sure do — it's a provincial hutch that should please everybody. It beautifully answers the request I most often receive in the mail: give us handsome cabinets that will help us solve our storage problem.

But my home is modern. I can't use a provincial piece, can I?

Of course you can use it in an otherwise modern home. Interior decorators today stress more and more the importance of accent items of furniture. The "change of pace" feeling that this type of piece offers helps to make a room more friendly and warm.

In the early American or provincial home, naturally, the piece blends perfectly. But don't turn down the idea just because you go for modern.

How large is the hutch? From floor to top it is 31 inches. The unit is 18 inches deep and 48 inches long.

And this size is just about perfect for placement in any room. It is large, yet not too large. Hall, bedroom, living room, dining room, den or even the kitchen might offer the right location in your home.

The addition of two handy drawers above the cavernous storage area adds additional usefulness and beauty.

Is the hutch easy to make?

It certainly is. Even a person who has never worked with wood can take on the project. With my pattern package number 136 you'll have no workshop problems at all.

How does the pattern make the project easy? I usually can't decipher the double-talk I find in patterns.

You won't have that problem here. Each section of the hutch is duplicated in heavy-weight paper, much like a woman's dress pattern. All you'll do is tack, trace and cut.

Easy-to-read instructions help you assemble the unit. A full material list, diagrams of each step of the project and suggested materials are also included.

And only a few basic tools will be needed, too.

It sounds good. How can I get my pattern?

Easy. Just send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check.

Freeway Requires All Of Bond Issue

County commissioners guessed within a few hundred dollars of the correct sum early in 1954 when they pegged the cost of right-of-way for the U.S. 80 Freeway at $325,000.

The officials have spent all but $9,947.44 of the fund, and final commitments are expected to require the balance, possibly a little more. Disbursements from the right-of-way fund in July totaled $17,012.55, dropping the balance to the $9,947.44, County Auditor Lee Porter reported to commissioners this week.

Total of expenditures from all funds during July was $67,220.48, leaving $208,949.79 in the bank. This balance and receipts during the balance of the year are expected to carry the county through the remainder of the year, although Porter said a decline in revenues might put the officers salary and general funds "in the red" before the year is out.

Bulk of the 1955 revenue is, since taxes to be collected during the last quarter will be for use during 1956. July income totaled $13,662.88.

Expenditures during July included: Jury Fund—$1,132.61, leaving a balance of $12,530.27

Road and Bridge Fund — $38,908.54, with $71,526.83 remaining. General Fund—$7,939.88, leaving $27,981.01.

Officers Salary Fund—$5,727.78, with $15,726.00 on hand.

Permanent Improvements—$894.22, with a balance of $6,715.45.

1954 Road Bond Sinking Fund — none, with a balance of $9,252.89. Lateral Road Fund — $2,596.20, with $23,288.21 on hand.

Library Fund — $1,072.70, with $7,059.17 remaining. Courthouse and Jail Building Fund—$102.07, with $12,826.33 left in bank.

Step in . . . and command the most modern truck power on any job!

New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks

Seven new "high-voltage" high-compression valve-in-head engines!

Here's hour-saving, dollar-saving power for your job . . . the biggest choice of engines in Chevrolet truck history! And they're the most modern engines in the industry!

You've got it good under the hood with a new Chevrolet Task-Force truck! You get the most modern truck power your dollars can buy—and exactly the right power for your job. With two new V8's and five new sixes to choose from, you can pick the power that does your kind of hauling with low ton-mile costs and hour-saving efficiency.

Shortest stroke V8's in any leading truck!

Both of Chevrolet's new truck V8's have an ultra-short stroke—shortest of any V8 in any leading truck. They're of modern oversquare design, which means that the piston stroke is smaller than the bore. The result is less piston travel per mile . . . longer engine life. Also, Chevrolet's compact truck V8's deliver exceptionally high horsepower per pound of engine weight. More power is actually available for hauling your loads!

A modern 12-volt electrical system

You get this great development in all new Chevrolet truck engines—both V8's and sixes. The 12-volt electrical system delivers twice the punch for quicker cold-weather starting (up to 30% faster cranking speed). It also provides a hotter, fatter spark for better ignition, and gives you a greater electrical reserve supply.

New, wider choice of transmissions, too!

Here are transmissions to meet every trucking need. You can have new, gas-saving Overdrive as an extra-cost option in 1/2-ton models. Or—in 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models—proved truck Hydra-Matic is available to free you from shifting and save you time in traffic (optional at extra cost). Or you can choose from smooth-acting, quiet-running 3- and 4-speed Synchro-Mesh transmissions.

Come in and command the most modern truck power for your job!

V8 or 6 you get the right power for your job!

Year after year . . . America's best-selling truck!

CD Observers For Forsan, Knott Needed

More volunteers for the Civil Defense Ground Observers Corps in Forsan and Knott are needed to make Howard County a compact unit in this defense project. W. D. Berry, Howard County coordinator, said.

Berry reported that about 30 persons had volunteered in Big Spring and the entire membership of the Coshoma American Legion Auxiliary had joined the Corps. However, only one had volunteered in Forsan and none was reported in Knott.

Berry explained that inadequate numbers of ground observers in the Knott-Forsan areas could leave a serious gap in the county's defense. He said these towns were vital fringe areas.

R. R. Black has been appointed by Berry to the position of chairman of Howard County ground observer units. Black is a former Air Force Sergeant and has had much experience with Air Force procedures of this type, Berry said. Sept. 1 will be the starting date for unit organization, according to Berry. Each unit will have its leader and a group of military personnel from Dallas will be on hand to train members in plane-watching methods.

Air Force Changes Assignment Policy On New Recruits

The Air Force has come up with a new method that will provide more consideration for the basic airman by assigning him to a career that will match his talents, according to Sgt. Cecil Deakins, Air Force recruiter here.

Under the new method, each airman will be assigned to a job from a 60-day backlog of assignment possibilities. Thus giving the individual a much better chance to receive a job in which he will succeed.

Previous methods used only a weekly quota. This two-month backlog will be revised every 30 days.

Air Training Command's three basic processing centers—Lackland, Sampson and Parks—Air Force bases—have been instructed to begin using the new procedure at once.

The four principal qualities for job assignment for an Air Force newcomer now considered are interest, experience, education and aptitude. In the past, often only one factor such as aptitude was emphasized.

This new change will enable training centers to hold exceptionally well-qualified airmen until they fit an assignment to their best advantage and where they are needed. Deakins said.

The local Air Force recruiting station is located in the basement of the Post Office and Sgt. Deakins is there every Tuesday instead of Tuesdays and Fridays as was previously the case.

Take your problems to Church this week

-millions leave them there!

HOW TALL THE TREES...

How tall the trees, and how straight the road. It cuts unswervingly through the countryside, and the trees border it like sentinels. Sentinels they have been too, walls of protection during the storm, blessed shade when the heat of the noon-day sun is mercilessly strong.

As we go through life, it might be easier if our roads could be that straight. But so often they aren't. So often they are full of unexpected turnings. So often we're tempted to stray from them entirely.

But we, too, have a sentinel to protect us... in the Church. It is there to shelter us in storms, to shade us when we've erred.

The Church teaches mercy. It teaches compassion. It teaches forgiveness. We need the Church, and it is never too late to find it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Not As A Stranger'

Probably one of the best pictures of the year, "Not As A Stranger," stars Gloria Grahame, Robert Mitchum, and Olivia DeHavilland.

Olivia de Havilland Is Starred In 'Not As A Stranger' At Ritz

An all-time great novel becomes one of the better pictures of the year in "Not As A Stranger" at the Ritz Wednesday through Saturday. For stars, the producers picked the cream of the crop of Hollywood talent.

Alec Guinness And Joan Greenwood

Two of England's most versatile stars appear in the film "The Detective" at the State this week.

England's Alec Guinness Is Starred In State Feature

If England's motion picture producers ever plan a revue of their product titled, "This Is Our Best," the name of Alec Guinness is sure to be listed.

Almost all of this actor's films have been immediate hits and his pictures have successfully competed with Hollywood's best.

The picture places Guinness in a role as Father Brown, taken from the mystery stories of G. K. Chesterton.

Then, in walks the erstwhile criminal voluntarily to take his place in church.

FUTURE ATTRACTIONS

"CARMEN JONES," with Dorothy Dandridge and Harry Belafonte.

"THE AMERICANO," with Glenn Ford and Ursula Thiess.

"PASSION," with Yvonne DeCarlo and Cornel Wilde.

"MOONFLEET," with Stewart Granger and Joan Greenwood.

"THE PURPLE PLAIN," with Gregory Peck and Win Min Than.

"ESCAPE TO BURMA," with Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Ryan.

"THE ASSASSIN," with Eva Bartok and Richard Todd.

"VIOLENT SATURDAY," with Victor Mature.

SOMETHING OF VALUE by Robert Ruark

Already in demand at the Book Stall, this 566 page book (Doubleday and Co., $5) has been on national best seller lists for months.

First, the book is a bloody novel which is likely to drive many readers off before getting very deep into the story.

Some of Ruark's insights into the native's lives seem to point this out. But he fails to show a definite development pattern as a native changes from a peaceful head-slave native into a Mau Mau leader.

The book is set in Kenya and the topic is the rising of the Mau Mau against the white settlers.

The treatment of the American Indian in the hands of the white man is not a point that modern Americans like to brag about.

The reader is almost certain to lay down this book with the feeling that everything in South Africa was just hunky-dunky until the natives got a lot of ideas about Mau Mau.

There can be no doubt that the Mau Mau is horrible in concept and practice.

book is badly written or uninteresting. On the contrary, it holds the attention with occasional breaks while the reader holds back a retching feeling.

But I wouldn't recommend the book for readers with weak stomachs. Above all, don't read the book while eating a meal or even drinking a cup of coffee.

Egyptian Intrigue

Jack Hawkins as the Pharaoh talks with a slave girl in this scene from "Land of the Pharaohs" at the Ritz today. The picture is a historical documentation of the building of the pyramids. It is in Cinemascope and WarnerColor with Stereophonic Sound.

Pyramids Are Built In Ritz Film Today

For spectacle, "Land of the Pharaohs," opening at the Ritz today for three days, is probably one of the most eye-filling that Hollywood has offered in some time. Filmed in Cinemascope and color with stereophonic sound, "Land of the Pharaohs" tells the story of the pharaoh who built the mighty pyramids of Egypt.

Jack Hawkins, Joan Collins, Dewey Martin, and Alexis Minotis are the star performers, but they are only four out of some 9,787 persons appearing in the picture. Most of the extras play either slaves or soldiers and were hired on location in Egypt.

The producers used the actual locale of the historical event to portray the tremendous task of erecting the pyramids. On the scene of construction, the moviegoer will watch as slaves struggle with the giant stones moving them into position. Other scenes show the granite quarries, some 600 miles away where the stones were cut.

The story for this film is built around the life of the Pharaoh who caused the great pyramid to be built. Jack Hawkins plays the part. He is ruler of all the then-known world. After the defeat of his last enemies, Pharaoh calls in two captives, Vashtar (James Justice) and Senta (Dewey Martin). Vashtar is an architect.

Pharaoh tells them to plan the highest pyramid possible as his last resting place. When the work begins, Pharaoh makes his people and his captives slaves to the project. He drives them mercilessly so that the pyramid will be finished when he dies.

After 15 years of toil, work on the pyramid slows almost to a halt, however, because the quarries have become exhausted. Pharaoh then begins to exact tribute from nearby Cyprus, ruled by the beautiful and ruthless, Princess Nellifer (Joan Collins). Pharaoh decides to marry her and claims her for his second wife. Through various court intrigues, Nellifer attempts to subvert the land so she can become absolute ruler. She manages to kill the first queen by using an unwitting son. Pharaoh learns of her scheming however, and attempts to put an end to it.

The final scenes are climactic and engrossing. The story never quite equals the splendor of the scenery and large numbers of slaves. The direction and beauty of the film almost completely captures the mind of the viewer. This is above average screen fare.

William Faulkner, winner of a Nobel Prize and a Pulitzer Prize, is the screen writer for the film. He is also author of the story which formed the basis for the picture. The music is written and directed by Dimitri Tiomkin. Howard Hawks is the producer and director.

New Tarzan Film

Gordon Scott, as Hollywood's newest Tarzan, bargains with native chieftain in this scene from "Tarzan's Hidden Jungle" at the State today. The exciting picture co-stars Vera Miles.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Glenn Coates

I can't remember a motion picture with more "speaking parts" than "Not As A Stranger," and I include "Gone With The Wind." The character development in the movie is equal to the tremendously excellent job that Morton Thompson did with the novel.

The ending is somewhat different from the book, but Olivia DeHavilland puts the breath of life into the role of Kristina. She gives the part much more than author Thompson ever did in the book.

You might think she is better looking than she was made to appear in the novel. This is perhaps right, but the beauty she portrays in the movie, as in the novel, comes from within. Certainly Olivia de Havilland's performance in this picture is enough to win her a position on anybody's "all-time great" list.

The name Alec Guinness is practically synonymous with superb acting, rib cracking laughter, and perfect entertainment. Anyone who has seen one of the Guinness films will agree that he is tops in just about any part. His latest film, "The Detective," will play at the State here this week.

Guinness' most memorable parts, in my opinion, was in a serious production "Kind Hearts and Coronets." The versatile English actor played almost every speaking part in the entire picture. The plot concerned a young man who planned to kill all his relatives in order to claim a rightful inheritance.

Guinness played the part of the main character as well as eight relatives, including an old lady, an old man, a young girl, and assorted other characters of all ages. Most of his other pictures have been comedies, the best of which was "The Lavender Hill Mob."

Joan Greenwood is a standard fixture in most of his pictures and she has about the most exciting voice, (after you get used to it), that you will ever hear. Don't miss this one.

"Land of the Pharaohs" at the Ritz today is a historical account of the building of the "Great Pyramids" in Egypt. The pyramids were built more than 5,000 years ago, historians have said, and it is estimated that at least 100,000 laborers were used in the construction. About 30 years was required to finish the work.

The three pyramids at Giza are the largest in the world, although there are some 65 others located in Egypt. Cheops, the largest, measures 700 feet at the base. Its original height of 420 feet made it the largest man-made structure in the world for over 4,000 years before cathedrals in Europe surpassed it.

There are approximately 2,600,000 stones in over 200 layers of the structure. Estimated weight is 6,500,000 tons. These stones would build a wall two feet thick and ten feet tall completely around Texas. And they were moved from the headwaters of the Nile, a distance of over 600 miles, by manual labor alone.

Incidentally, the "solar boat" which was a widely publicized discovery inside the Cheops Pyramid a few months ago, was discovered while this film was being made on the spot. A perfect replica of the "boat" can be seen in the movie.

267 Blind Persons Given Employment

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Texas Commission for the Blind rehabilitated 267 blind persons into successful employment the past year, the second largest number helped by such agencies in all states.

Lon Alsop, director of the commission, said the rehabilitated persons are earning, at the rate of $352,800 a year, compared with a total yearly earning rate of $57,890 for that group prior to rehabilitation.

"Presumably they are paying taxes and making the usual able-bodied citizens contribution to the community, each within the limits of his capacity," Alsop said.

Tarzan Returns To State Screen

Gordon Scott plays the part of Tarzan in the State film today, "Tarzan's Hidden Jungle." Filmed in Africa, the picture gives Tarzan the job of protecting a beautiful United Nations nurse from being killed by stampeding animals.

Besides that, Tarzan deals with treacherous quicksand, deadly pythons, witch-doctor torture, and the treachery of a white hunter. Vera Miles plays the beautiful girl who looks to Tarzan for protection.

The trouble begins when a white hunter almost makes the forests void of game when he begins killing them recklessly. Tarzan drives the animals all across the river where hunters are not allowed to kill. The white hunter then tries to stampede the animals back into gun-shot range, but Tarzan thwarts the effort.

'The Caine Mutiny' Is Terrace Feature

"The Caine Mutiny" is the feature attraction at the Terrace Drive-in tonight. The interesting picture stars Humphrey Bogart, Van Johnson, Joe Ferrer, and Fred MacMurray.

The picture is about a mutiny that could have occurred on a Navy destroyer during World War II. Bogart plays the captain of the vessel and his other officers believe him to be insane. The executive officer, Van Johnson, is urged to take over by a pseudo-intellectual, Fred MacMurray.

Finally during a heavy storm, Johnson becomes afraid that the ship will sink if something isn't done, as obviously the captain is not mentally able to get it safe to port. He relieves the captain of command and the crew follow his orders.

When the ship makes port, Johnson is court-martialed. He is to be kicked out of the Navy because the higher officers do not think that Bogart is insane. During the trial, Bogart gives himself away under the heavy cross examination by defense attorney Jose Ferrer.

This is a very good film and will play through Monday. It is in color.

'Battle Cry' Tells Story Of Marines

The story of an average group of Marines is told in the picture, "Battle Cry" at the Jet Drive-In tonight and Monday. The color film stars Van Heflin, Aldo Ray, Ann Francis, and Mona Freeman.

The story begins as each of a group of Marine recruits are leaving their homes to go to boot camp in San Diego. The trials and hard times of camp is humorously displayed as the boys become friends. After boot camp, they are sent on to advanced training and then combat.

The love life of the boys is an interesting insight into the lives of men who are part of an army and whose relationships take on a different outlook than normally. Scenes in this picture are probably very familiar to ex-Marines, as many of them were shot right on the Marine base in San Diego and Oceanside.

The picture is probably as good as "From Here To Eternity," an Army picture, "The Caine Mutiny," a Navy picture, and all the other military films that have come from Hollywood since the last war.

with Van Heflin and Aldo Ray.
TUE.-WED.—"NEW YORK CONFIDENTIAL," with Broderick Crawford and Richard Conte.

Twin Bill At Drive-In
The double feature this week is at the Terrace and will be screened Thursday and Friday nights. First of the twin bill will be "Springfield Rise" starring Gary Cooper. John Wayne stars in the other picture which will be "Trouble Along The Way."

Prince Valiant THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
by Harold R. Foster

Our Story: FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MANY WEARY DAYS THE NORTHMEN SHOUT AND SING. FOR THE FIRST OF THEIR SHIPS HAS MADE THE LONG CROSSING AND FLOATS LIGHTLY ON THE DVINA RIVER. WITHOUT THE HELP OF THE POLOTJANS AND THEIR OXEN THE PORTAGE WOULD HAVE BEEN TERRIBLE INDEED.

IN A FORTIFIED TOWN NEARBY THE CHIEFTAIN OF THE POLOTJANS LIES ILL AND DYING. THE LEADERSHIP IS PASSED ON TO THE JAN HEDJI.

IN RAIN AND HEAT, THROUGH SWAMPS AND OVER ROCKY RIDGES, THE NORTHMEN HAVE WORKED MORE LIKE OXEN THAN WARRIORS. THEIR LAME CAPTAIN IS OVERLY GENEROUS; TO YOUNG HEDJI THIS CAN ONLY MEAN WEAKNESS.

HE HAS THOUGHT THIS OUT CAREFULLY AND IS QUITE SURE OF HIMSELF. HE DEMANDS DOUBLE THE FEE, TO BE PAID IMMEDIATELY, OR HE WILL WITHDRAW HIS MEN AND OXEN. SIR GAWAIN WALKS AWAY IN DISGUST.....

.... AND GIVES A SIGNAL TO A VIKING POSTED ON THE TRAIL.

THE HORN SOUNDS NEARBY.... A MILE AWAY THE SAME NOTE IS REPEATED... FAINTLY IN THE DISTANCE IT COMES AGAIN. IN A MATTER OF MINUTES A MESSAGE WILL TRAVERSE THE LENGTH OF THE PORTAGE.

PRINCE VALIANT'S MOTTO IS: TREAT EVERYONE FAIRLY BUT DO NOT DEPEND ON FAIRNESS IN RETURN. HIS CHEERFUL GRIN ONLY INCREASES HEDJI'S NERVOUSNESS!

NEXT WEEK - A Poor Bargain.

AS YOU WERE SAYING...

How a Friendly Gesture Changed Two Lives

COMING OUT of church one Sunday I saw a nice-looking couple standing alone. After a chat with friends, I included the couple in my conversation and asked them if they had lived in Florida long.

"Years," they said. However, this was corrected quickly by the remark, "We came down last August, but it seems like years because we're so homesick." I told them that we were having a few friends in that afternoon and asked them to join us.

They came and met our friends, who were from the same church, and since then the life of this couple has been changed from one of loneliness to one of happiness. They became interested in church affairs and made many friends. They purchased a lot in West Palm Beach and built a new home there.

Today the woman laughingly says, "You picked us up from the sidewalk and changed our lives."—Melinda Cleaver Eaton, Lake Worth, Fla.

Eyewitness Is Thankful for A-Bomb Tests

Like many Las Vegans, I was a witness to the latest and most spectacular atomic explosion, which was touched off recently at the Nevada test site. Although it is not the first I have seen and felt, I still stood in the pre-dawn chill and wondered at the strange beauty of its light.

It is almost impossible to think of destruction or death or even of defense when this great light from life itself breaks up the night about you, revealing everything in its minutest detail for an infinitesimal second of eternity. But watching the mushroom-shaped cloud boiling up to great heights before dispersing itself, one is brought back to the reason for these tests. And I, for one, thank God that we are conducting them.—Mrs. R. L. Saunders, Las Vegas, Nev.

A Mother's Love Is a Priceless Thing

With two young sons and a very small income, I was seriously thinking of taking a job so I could give my boys a few extra things. But one day after school, my younger son brought home a friend whose mother has worked since the boy was four. I have always made it a rule to be home when school lets out and to have a little snack ready for the boys. As my son and his friend were having cookies and milk this particular afternoon, the little boy turned to my son and said, "My, isn't it nice to find your mother home like this!"

The smile that shone on my boy's face that day made me decide that no extra money I earned could possibly buy what I am now giving my children.—Mrs. M. O., New Haven, Conn.

What Price Old Glory?

"Do you realize the government takes $10 a week from my pay check?"

"Why, that's nothing; it takes $19 from mine."

These and similar comments can be heard often. But does Uncle Sam really take too big a "cut" from our pay?

How much is it worth to be able to say what one pleases, as long as the saying of it does not interfere with the rights of others? How much is it worth to be able to worship at the church of one's choice? How much is it worth to know that our boys are being fed and clothed as they protect our rights and freedoms in some far-off outpost? How much is it worth just to see Old Glory flying in the sun?

Let's not forget that our tax dollars are paying for all these things we hold dear and, brother, these freedoms are worth every single penny!—Lawrence E. Connolly, Farmer City, Ill.

How to Teach Children about God

Why should little children try to visualize God as a man with a long white beard who perches on a cloud somewhere? Children love mysteries, so why not ask them if they believe in things they can't see with their eyes—the wind, for instance? Have they ever seen the wind? All they've seen are evidences of the wind: trees swaying, papers blowing, flags flying. Yet they certainly believe in the wind, don't they?

So, too, when they see evidences of God in this world (human kindness, generosity, endurance, nobility), they should believe in Him without trying to visualize a bearded old man.—Mayo Dazey, La Marque, Texas.

I was just thinking...

... I REMEMBERED Mlle. Brussels Sprouts the moment I finished reading the letter from the French teacher in Texas, who wrote of her trials and tribulations while pounding "eu's" and "in's" into the curly heads of coeds. And suddenly Mlle. Brussels Sprouts walked right out of my memory.

Naturally, that's not her name. But it's close. She was a Southerner, too. Georgia, I think, with French learned in the R-less South, polished off in nasal New England, and sealed at the Sorbonne.

She was a good teacher when I met her, but I was a hard-R freshman and Mlle.'s pronunciation of French, Southern-style with a dash of New Haven, might as well have been Greek.

I studied. Le bon Dieu knows I did. I burned the midnight lumiere until mes yeux were like hard-boiled eggs laced with ketchup. I read "Tartaran" and "Camille" and cried lavishly over the last page of "Cyrano," but that may have been because I reached it under duress.

Not until I reached Paris years later did I bless Mlle. Brussels Sprouts. The propaganda in most Paris shop windows that "English is spoken here" is usually just that. But out of the bleu came tumbling a hundred French words and phrases for which I never realized Mlle. had found a target. I came home with only one black mark against me, and that one doesn't count.

I met a Parisienne at an interpreter's office. She'd paid in advance for a relaxed conversation. It turned out to be a neuter nightmare.

She addressed the interpreter in French. I addressed him in English. He said nothing. She tried GI. I brought forth Mlle.'s Southern-fried French. He said nothing.

Finally we gave up and bought a dictionary. We left the interpreter counting his sous.

It took me a long time to compris. I hadn't realized he was deaf as a post.

And he'd never heard a word we said.

V-J Day: An End

by Jerry Klein

When Japan surrendered ten years ago today, the world's most horrible war was over and the precarious peace of the Atomic Age dawned on mankind.

August 14, 1945—ten years ago today—was a day of both ending and beginning.

The Rising Sun of Japan finally set on a scene of blood and ruin, ending the most horrible war the world had seen. But with the rising sun of dawn began the age whose portents, a decade later, still are shadowed by a cloud in the shape of a mushroom.

This age had been bought by the bodies of 16 million men of 27 nations. In dollars, it had cost more than a million millions.

V-J Day climaxed the war which saw the end of such military traditions as entrenched defense lines and open cities. But it saw the beginning of such civilian nightmares as mass bombing and the wholesale destruction of entire cities.

In the Pacific, the savage nature of this conflict was indicated at its very start, when the Japanese opened war while pretending to negotiate peace. In addition to destroying virtually the entire U.S. fleet at Pearl Harbor, they quickly overran half a dozen nations and menaced the borders of India and Australia. But in six months America had recovered enough strength to halt the enemy advance and win victories at Midway and in the Coral Sea.

At home, meanwhile, interest grew in a suggestion by the late Albert Einstein for a

The United States was suddenly and treacherously plunged into World War II when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. Here the battleship U.S.S. California sinks as her men swarm over the side.

and a Beginning

A Japanese photo shows the gaunt, weary faces of American prisoners during the infamous Death March from Bataan in April, 1942. Many of the captives didn't return.

The turning point in the Pacific war was the battle of Midway. In this decisive naval engagement, Japan lost ten ships, including four aircraft carriers, while the U.S. lost one.

weapon drawing supreme power out of the universe itself. As the Allies launched their comeback drive in the Pacific—retaking New Georgia in July, 1943—atomic research was under way at an isolated town called Los Alamos in the New Mexican desert.

In a year the free nations were strong enough to mount two major offensives simultaneously on either side of the globe: June 6, 1944, the liberation landings in France; June 10, the attack on the Marianas Islands.

That Summer, American bombers began striking back at the Japanese mainland and by year's end we had returned to the Philippines. While scientists labored to discover the secret locked in the heart of the atom, thousands perished on little islands with strange names like Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Then, in July, 1945, the desert at Los Alamos flashed with an unearthly light, and even steel gave way before the power of the atom. Meeting in an already-defeated Germany, the Allies warned Japan to surrender or be destroyed.

On August 6, an atomic bomb fell on Hiroshima, killing 73,000 persons. On August 9, another bomb killed 10,000 in Nagasaki. Japan surrendered, and—for good or evil—we had entered the atomic age whose real message we have not yet begun to decipher.

Marines hit the beach at Guadalcanal on August 7, 1942, marking the first U.S. offensive of the war. The tiny island in the Solomons fell after months of hard fighting.

Island by island, the American forces reclaimed the Pacific and closed in on the Japanese homeland. Here Gen. MacArthur returns to the Philippines in the Fall of 1944.

In action off Okinawa, one of the last campaigns of the war, a U.S. battleship throws up heavy anti-aircraft fire to halt a Jap bomber (center) attempting a suicide dive.

After almost four years of war and two atomic bombings, Japan surrendered unconditionally. Official document was signed Sept. 2, 1945, on the battleship U.S.S. Missouri.

MELANIE DE PROFT, Director

"Just Good Food" is a deceptively simple title. Actually, each of these FAMILY WEEKLY recipes has a special, exciting distinction of color and flavor that will be sure to please you and your guests.

Semisweet Chocolate Tortoni

A rich cooling dessert that will delight eight of your favorite friends!

Set refrigerator control at coldest operating temperature.

Place eight 2-in. paper baking cups in muffin-pan wells.

Set 2 bowls and a beater in refrigerator to chill.

Using an electric blender, grind enough macaroons to yield

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup fine macaroon crumbs

Cover blender container and turn on motor; add the macaroons one at a time. Blend until crumbs are fine. Empty contents of blender container frequently. Repeat blending to obtain the desired amount of crumbs. Set crumbs aside.

Using the chilled bowl and beater, beat until cream is of medium consistency (piles softly)

1 cup chilled whipping cream

Beat in with final few strokes

2 tablespoons sugar

$1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons vanilla extract

Fold in the macaroon crumbs.

Beat until frothy

1 egg white

Add gradually, beating well after each addition

2 tablespoons sugar

Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Fold into the whipped-cream mixture, turn into refrigerator tray, and put in freezing compartment about $1\frac{1}{2}$ hrs., or until mixture begins to freeze (is firm about $\frac{1}{2}$ in. from sides of tray).

Meanwhile, melt over simmering water

$\frac{1}{2}$ pkg. (3 oz.) semisweet chocolate pieces

2 teaspoons butter or margarine

Turn frozen mixture into the chilled bowl. Beat until smooth but not melted. While stirring constantly and rapidly, gradually pour the melted chocolate in a thin stream into the cream mixture. (The chocolate forms fine, firm pieces as it is blended into the cold mixture.) Immediately pour mixture into the paper baking cups. Return to freezing compartment of refrigerator and freeze until firm.

Shrimp Remoulade

To Cook Shrimp—Wash in cold water

1 lb. fresh shrimp with shells

Drop shrimp into a boiling mixture of

2 cups water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon salt

Cover tightly. Simmer 5 min., or only until shrimp are pink and tender. Drain and cover with cold water to chill. Drain shrimp again. Remove tiny legs. Peel shells from shrimp. Cut a slit to just below surface along back (curved surface) of shrimp to expose the black vein. With knife point remove vein in one piece. Rinse quickly in cold running water. Blender Chocolate-Cheese Cake

There is a kind of delectable, leisurely meal that calls for a very special dessert to crown its excellence... a creation like this, for example.

For Crumb Crust—Butter bottom and sides of a deep 9-in. spring-form pan.

Set out

32 to 36 graham crackers (or enough to make 3 cups crumbs)

Break 5 or 6 graham crackers into halves into blender container. Cover container.

Blend on low speed, flicking motor on and off, until cracker crumbs are medium fine. Empty blender container; repeat blending process until 3 cups crumbs are obtained. Return about one half of the crumbs to container and add

½ cup butter or margarine

2 tablespoons sugar

¼ teaspoon salt

Cover and blend a few seconds until ingredients are well blended. Add the remaining crumbs; cover and blend only until ingredients are mixed together. Reserve ½ cup of the crumb mixture for topping. Spoon remainder of crumb mixture into the spring-form pan. Using back of spoon, press crumb mixture very firmly into an even layer on bottom and around sides of pan.

Bake at 325°F 5 min. (Prebaking tends to prevent a soggy crust.) Set aside on a cooling rack to cool.

For Filling—While crust is cooling, wash and dry blender container and put into it

1 pkg. (6 oz.) semisweet

chocolate pieces

Cover blender and grind until pieces are very fine. Put the ground chocolate into a small bowl and set aside.

Wash blender container and put into it

4 egg yolks

1 cup thick sour cream

¼ cup sugar

¼ cup sifted flour

2 cups (1 lb.) cream-style cottage cheese

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

1 teaspoon almond extract

¼ teaspoon salt

Cover and blend about 30 sec. Scrape sides of blender container. Cover and blend 30 sec. longer, or until mixture is smooth and well blended. Empty contents of blender container into a large bowl. Gently fold in the ground chocolate and set aside.

Beat until frothy

4 egg whites

Add gradually, beating well after each addition

¼ cup sugar

Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Gently fold the beaten egg whites into the cottage-cheese mixture. Turn into pan. Sprinkle the reserved crumb mixture over top.

Bake at 325°F 1¼ hrs., or until a silver knife inserted in center of the cake comes out clean.

Remove to cooling rack and allow to cool thoroughly (4 to 6 hrs.).

Set in refrigerator to chill several hours before serving.

Thanks to high fidelity, you now can hear the world's great masterpieces in your own home exactly the way they sound in the concert hall.

New Dimension in Music

If you've wondered how your neighbor could get Toscanini and a full symphony orchestra in his home for an evening's entertainment, stop wondering! He doesn't have Toscanini in person, he has a long-playing Toscanini record on his hi-fi set. It just sounds as though they were there in person—that's why your neighbor is a hi-fi fan.

Americans are rapidly succumbing to this disease. Attendance at concerts and recitals indicates that our interest in good music is growing steadily.

What is high fidelity? It's music in your living room, reproduced to sound exactly like the original performance, with each instrument recognizable and every note clear as a bell.

Is it expensive? Definitely not—you can buy a set for $150 to $200 that will outperform an ordinary phonograph selling for much more.

Many companies and stores specialize in hi-fi installations, and space limitations are no problem, since the units fit almost anywhere—bookshelf, tabletop, closet door, or cupboard. And if you have the space, dealers sell ready-made or "make-it-yourself" cabinets to house the set.

A basic hi-fi set consists of a record player and cartridge, an amplifier, and a speaker. Here are the important things to look for in these units:

Record player and cartridge: The player should have a 4-pole motor, lightweight arm, and heavy turntable. A magnetic cartridge with a diamond needle is easier on valuable records and gives more hours of playing time before replacement.

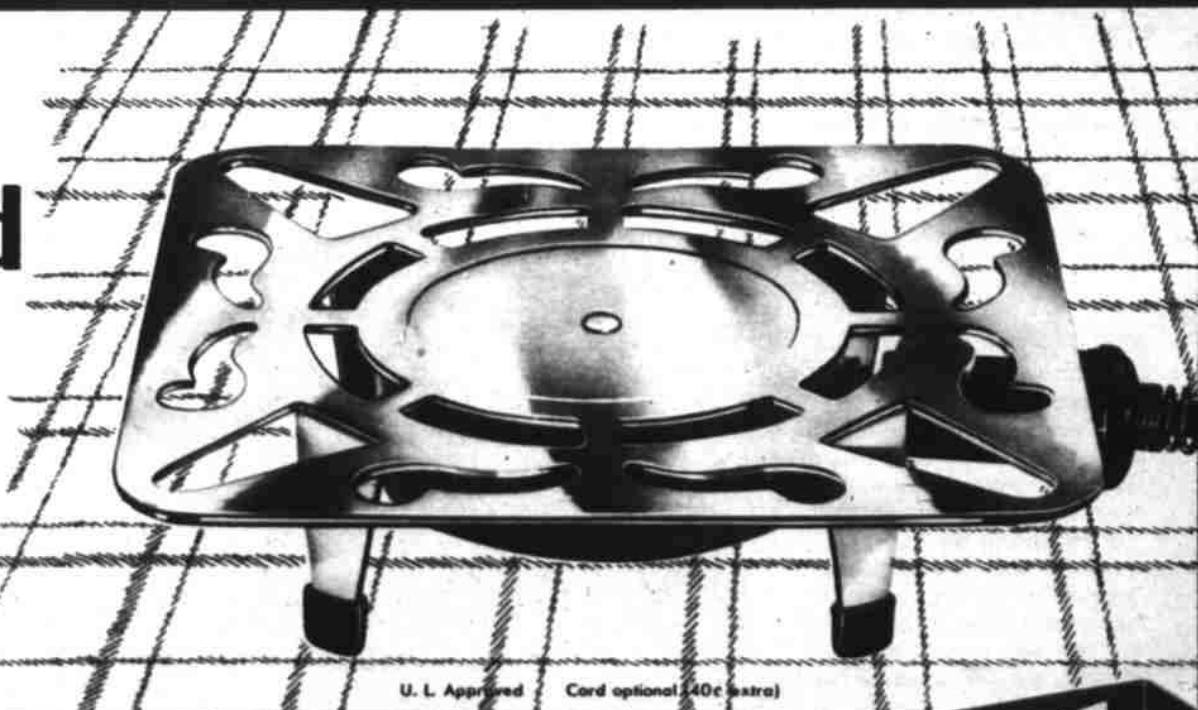

Amplifier: It should deliver at least 10 watts of power and have separate volume, bass, and treble controls. The frequency response should be 20 to 20,000 cycles, distortion three percent or less. And it should have a preamplifier for the cartridge.

Speaker: Twelve- and 15-inch speakers are desirable, but a good eight-inch speaker in the proper enclosure gives excellent results. Experience proves that the speaker makes the biggest difference in the sound of your set, so this should be your most expensive item.

Once you've bought the units, you don't have to be a radio engineer to assemble them. For a small charge, most dealers will code all cables, terminals, and sockets so you can hook up the set yourself. Tape recorders and AM-FM tuners can be added any time, so your amplifier should have provisions for plugging them in.

You don't have to be a "longhair" to enjoy this new experience. Whether you like Beethoven, Bix Beiderbecke, or Burl Ives, hi-fi unlocks the treasury of music to give you undreamed-of listening pleasure in your own home.

Dear Miss Barrows:

My hobby is collecting insects. I have one fly, four caterpillars, three bees, eleven moths, and eighteen butterflies.

I have a fish pond and my dog jumps in it. He caught some pollywogs and was sick after that. I read the Junior Treasure Chest every Sunday and I like it very much.

Love,

Dear Miss Barrows:

I have a hobby of collecting Indian arrowheads and spearheads. I have 35 in all, and part of a tomahawk. The arrowheads and spearheads are all sizes. The smaller ones were usually used to catch fish. I look for them in my spare time. The best time to look for them is after a light rain shower.

Sincerely,
Robert Blazek

Aged 13 Geneva, Minn.

Dear Miss Barrows:

Peanuts, my dog, is as black as he can be. He is the size of a cocker spaniel, and is he smart! He jumps against the front door when he wants in, so we yell, "Go around to the back!" and when we open the back door Peanuts is waiting there. At night when Mom turns off the T.V. set and says, "Bedtime," he gets up and goes to the basement door.

We visited my Grandma one time and kept Peanuts in our room because it was strange to him there. In the morning he was curled up in our suitcase, fast asleep. He has no pedigree and no papers, but he is loved by old and young in our town.

Sincerely,
Gary Allen Palas

Three Feet in the Mud Puddle

Almost any number can play this game in a back yard or playground.

Mark a goal line at each end of the area. Behind one goal line stand all the players except the one who is IT. IT stands in the center between the goal lines. IT calls, "three feet in the mud puddle" (or any number up to three), and the players take three of the largest steps they can toward the other goal. IT cannot tag them until they start to run for the other goal, where they are safe. If IT thinks a player can't reach as far as he is in three steps, IT can challenge him to prove he can. If he can't, he must be IT, too. Everyone caught is IT until there is only one left; he is the winner. The winner is IT for the next game.

Two fathers and two sons have four apples. Each one eats one and one is left. How can this be?

(There are three people—grandfather, father, and son, but the grandfather is father of the father, so there are two fathers; and the father is the son of the grandfather so there are two sons, or only three people.)

When can you add nine to six and make three instead of fifteen?

(At 6:00 o'clock at night Add nine hours and it becomes 3 o'clock.)

Flashlight Clown

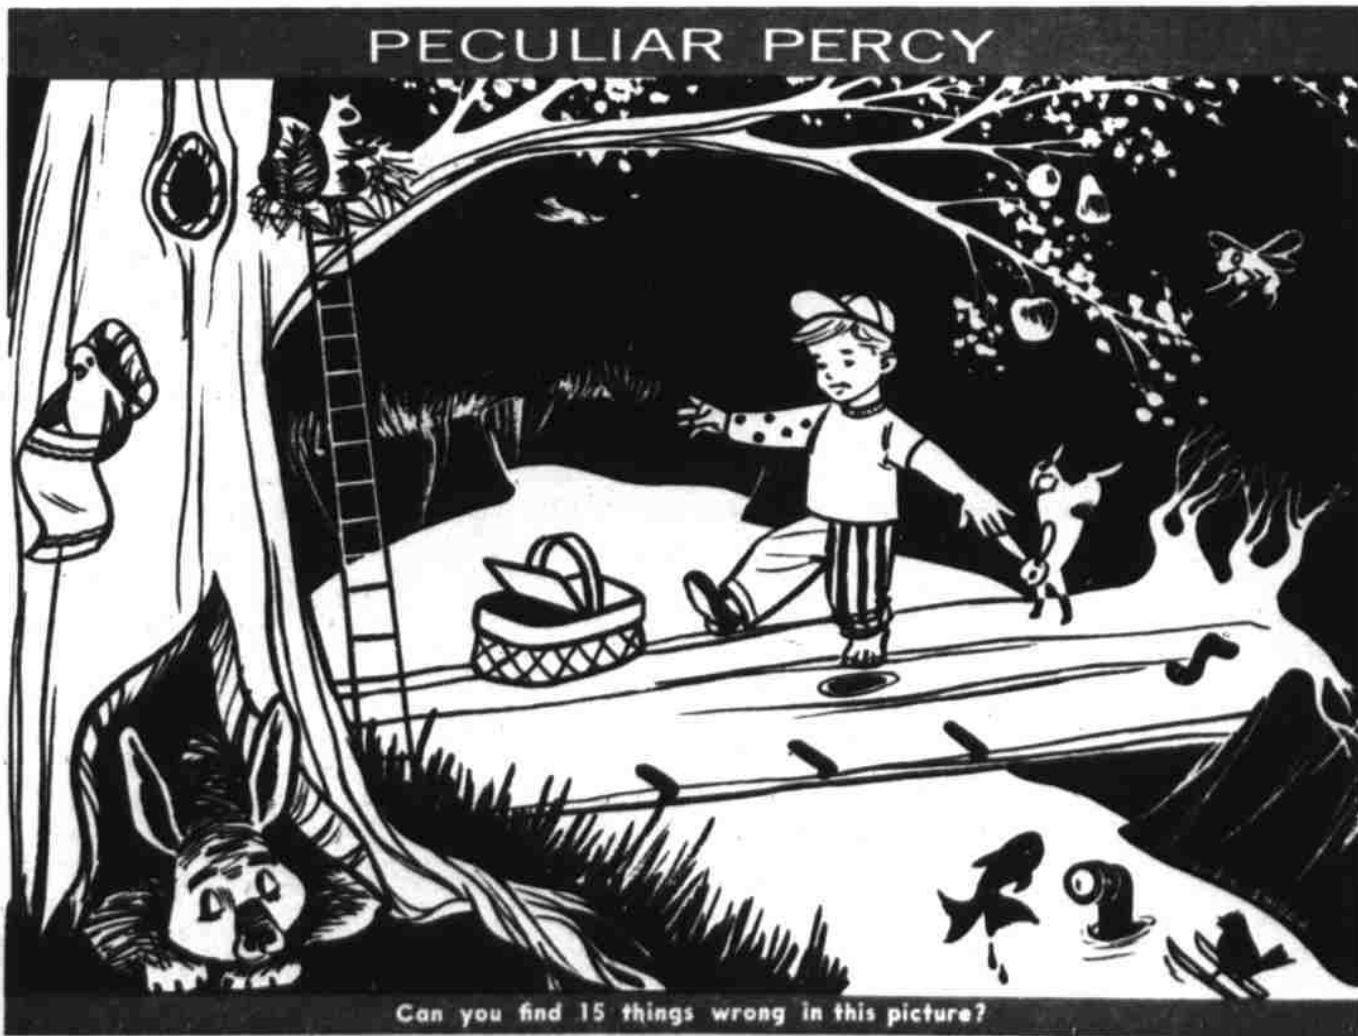

Suzie Snider

This clown silhouette can be made to do all sorts of funny antics in shadows upon a wall in a darkened room.

Trace the picture, transfer it to a piece of stiff paper, and cut out your clown. Hold a flashlight in one hand and hold the clown silhouette by the tip of his hat in your other hand. The lights in the room should be turned out for best results. At arm's length hold the clown stiff, and flash the light on him so his shadow falls on the wall. If you move the flashlight quickly around, the clown will perform his tricks for you. Try drawing animals, planes, and figures of your own to flash on the wall.

IMAGINE TAKING a teen-age boy hundreds of miles from home to live in a strange city with just four hours of school a day, and paying him about $60 a week.

Does it sound like an invitation to trouble?

Well, that's exactly what's happening to 82 youngsters in Washington, and it works out very nicely, thank you. The youths are Federal pageboys. And in their own way, they help smooth the course of government.

The pageboys get up about 5 A.M.; attend school from 6:15 to 10; work until 6 P.M., often later; then rush home to do their lessons and get to bed so they can get up and start another whirlwind day.

Most of the pages work on the floor of Congress, distributing bills and resolutions, making and taking phone calls, and running errands. There are 50 in the House of Representatives and 28 in the Senate. Another four are assigned to the Supreme Court.

At the snap of a Senator's fingers, a page appears and quickly is sent to deliver a message to the Senator's secretary. A Representative presses a button to summon a page, and sends him for a candy bar.

The boys, between the ages of 14 and 18, attend high school at the special Capitol Page School in the Library of Congress—a short dash from their jobs. And they are paid about $60 a week for 5½ days' work.

"That doesn't leave much after you pay for room and board," says 16-year-old Proctor Hill of El Dorado, Ark., a House page. The boys also must maintain wardrobes of "work clothes"—navy-blue suits, white shirts, dark ties, shoes, and socks. Proctor's father is Frip Hill, chief deputy sheriff of Union County, Ark.

Most of the boys live in rooming houses approved by the local P.T.A. An exception is 14-year-old Kenneth W. Smith of Bonham, Tex., a House page. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Smith, who are staying temporarily in Falls Church, Va.

Another exception is freckle-faced Robert Fozman, son of a New Brunswick, N. J., tavern keeper and a page in the Senate. Because he is still in the 8th grade, Robert gets special tutoring at Washington's Mackin High School.

The pages present few behavior problems. Chief House page Turner Robertson, who has worked in Washington 17 years, says, "They come from outstanding families and are exceptionally well-behaved."

"If any boy lets his work slip, he receives a warning," declares William M. Miller. As Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, Miller is responsible for the House pageboys.

Eighty-two teen-agers, working as pageboys on Capitol Hill, make life easier for Congressmen.

1. Between their working hours in the halls of Congress, three Federal pageboys squeeze in some lessons on the steps of the Capitol.

2. Pageboys, who range in age from 14 to 18, attend a special school from 6:15 to 10 a.m., then rush to jobs in the House or Senate.

3. Kenneth Smith, 14-year-old page from Bonham, Texas, delivers a new bill to House Speaker Sam Rayburn. Pages get about $60 a week in pay.

by K. C. Jerome

of Government

His counterpart in the Senate is Sergeant-at-Arms Joseph C. Duke.

The original Capitol pageboy is said to have been nine-year-old Grafton Hanson, in 1829. His chief duty was to see that our lawmakers had ample supplies of snuff.

The experiences of a page today are considerably above the snuff-and-spittoon level. Senate page Otis A. Brumby Jr. of Marietta, Ga., says the high point of his career was the day he answered the phone and a voice said, "This is President Eisenhower. I'd like to speak to Senator George."

Another call from the White House was taken by 14-year-old W. Dan Latimer III of Mt. Pleasant, Tex., a House page. "I've also called the F.B.I. and spoken to J. Edgar Hoover," Dan declares. "It's a wonderful job in a wonderful city." His father, W. Dan Latimer Jr., is a shoe merchant in Mt. Pleasant and Sulphur Springs, Tex.

Another page in the House, 16-year-old Paul G. Stoner Jr., of Lexington, N. C., tends the news teletype machines in the lobby and sees that papers from Representatives' home states are on the racks.

"We rub elbows with the top brass and see government from the inside," says 15-year-old James Daniel of Kuttawa, Ky.

James hopes to remain a Senate page for four years so he can complete his high-school education in Washington. Only a few boys are that fortunate, however. Every switch in political control produces practically a brand-new crop of pageboys.

The boys have been described as "probably the youngest recipients of direct party patronage," for the majority party in Congress wins the right to appoint the pages.

"Naturally, the boys have their own political views," says Lee E. Tidwell Jr., a Senate page from Tampa, Fla., "but we all get along pretty well." Lee says some of the boys even date the daughters of Congressmen who belong "to the other party."

For the most part, though, social activity is limited by the boys' busy schedule. There's a dance once a month and perhaps a week-end movie or school hayride.

Only half-a-dozen boys have ever returned as elected members to the Congress they served as pages. But several have returned as permanent clerical employees.

Such regular employees may dread the long-winded speeches that often prolong Congressional sessions and keep them working overtime. But the pages are glad to see the clock strike 7—at that magic hour, they're automatically excused from having to prepare the next day's homework!

ask

You know someone who uses Tampax internal sanitary protection—of course you do!

Ask her about it. Ask her all the questions in the whole, wide world. Ask her everything that's been puzzling you, keeping you back from using the really modern form of protection.

Ask her if it isn't as comfortable as everyone says. Ask her if she doesn't find Tampax easy to insert, change and dispose of. Ask her about absorbency. Ask her if she doesn't honestly feel freer now that she's using Tampax. Listen when she tells you what it's like to get rid of the belt-pin-pad harness, never, ever to worry again about chafing or irritation.

Tampax is willing to rest its entire case on what other women tell you. If you want to ask your doctor—fine! Just remember: Tampax was invented by a doctor. when you join the Literary Guild and agree to take as few as 3 more selections during the coming year.

If you enjoy reading the best of the new books and would like to save up to 50% of the price of the publishers' editions, why not join the Literary Guild Book Club now? Almost without exception, Guild selections have been at or near the top of national best-seller lists!

Once you join our club, we are sure you will want to continue membership. That is why we can offer you any three of the books shown here for only $2.00. And the books you choose will be sent to you on approval! If you are pleased with them, pay only $2.00 for all three and become a Guild member on a trial basis; if not, simply return the books and owe nothing.

How the Literary Guild Operates

As a Guild member, every month you will receive a copy of "Wings", the club's illustrated book-review magazine. In it you will read a review of the forthcoming selection. Then it is up to you to decide whether you want the book described, an alternate selection, or none at all. You need not accept a book every month — only four a year from the 50 or more offered.

Top Best-Sellers At Wonderful Savings!

Guild selections cost only $2.00 each (plus shipping) even though the same books are being sold for $3.50 to $4.00 in the publishers' editions. Occasionally an extra value selection is offered at not more than $2.50—usually a book that is priced as high as $5.00 in the publisher's edition. You pay no money in advance, you pay nothing when the books arrive; your bill is due only after you examine the books, and you may cancel membership at any time after accepting four books. In addition, you will receive a valuable Bonus Book FREE with each four books you purchase.
