SUMMERTIME.....

Summer is here, but it's two months behind. Wal, at least the weather is coming home late. Last week's 100 plus temperatures usually are not seen in these parts until August. But early June?

The nights are still unusually cool for this time of the year and even the catfish are messed up. Local fishermen say the channel cats they are catching still have eggs in them, meaning they are yet to spawn, something that should have happened two months ago.

A sure sign that summer has arrived is the opening of our local pool, where dozens of Schleicher tots and teens have been cooling off for the last three weeks.

And Little League season is well underway. The twins had their first game the other night after missing last week's action because of a trip to Oklahoma with grandma and grandpa.

Members of the Eldorado Rodeo Club do an outstanding job with the baseball program, especially when you consider the state of the economy in Schleicher County.

We may not have the fanciest program in Texas, but it works and it gives our kids something to do during the summer except swim and get into trouble. When you consider that Eagle's Point is also available for the slightly older age groups, you should realize that we are lucky indeed!

Many small towns in Texas do not have a pool, baseball program and/or teen center. You can imagine what problems that could cause for those restless teens whose parents don't keep them busy on the ranch all summer.

Vacations are being planned now by many Eldo residents. The newspaper office will close the first week of July for vacation, a rite most weekly papers in the country observe so that their editors, publishers and assistant publishers can steal a moment's peace and quiet.

However, since the Video Shack is in our building, the newspaper office will be open for

Mias Amigas slated

The 57th annual meeting of the Mias Amigas will meet next weekend, June 24 and 25.

Registration will begin at 5 p.m. Friday, June 24 in the Memorial Building. There will be a covered dish sandwich supper on the courthouse lawn about 7:30 p.m. the same evening.

The main meeting will begin Saturday morning with coffee and registration at the Memorial Building at 8:30 a.m. There will be the ringing of the bell at 9:30.

General Assembly will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday with special recognition of the 50 year (1937-38) class and the 20 year (1967-68) class.

There will be a barbecue at 12:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the time of registration. The afternoon and evening will be spent in visitation and class reunions.

Eldoradoans attend Theatre

BY EVELYN STIGLER

A large group of Eldorado residents attended the first session of the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater, 1988 Friday night June 10, in Sonora.

The mistress of ceremonies, Charlotte Gilmore, called the names of people who had a part in the construction of the theater and asked them to stand.

They had the ribbon cutting to officially dedicate the site as an entertainment center. Miss Sutton County, and homecoming queen cut the ribbon.

They had a sing-along of old familiar tunes led by Scott Gilmore with his guitar.

A junior high school student gave a history of Sonora ranch land, its beginning and recent history. He stated that Sonora has become one of the largest ranching industries in the nation.

A member of the 4H Club in Sonora gave a history of the Woolen Mill, from its beginning to the present.

Then an elderly man known as Devil's River D, dressed in jeans, print shirt, red suspenders and cowboy hat was called to the stand.

He was called a wanderer and a philosopher. He gave a resume of Sonora livestock, oil and gas. He said "The secret of success was in being willing to lend a hand to people. Our heritage will be led by God who is the maker of our heritage."

A Mexican dinner was served to everyone, provided by Sutton County Steak House.

The main program was Our Pioneer Texas Women with Ozona women playing the part of the pioneer women. Each one was dressed in costume befitting the pioneer whom she portrayed.

The coordinator of the program was Lucille Littleton.

Pioneers and the ones who portrayed them are as follows: Mrs. Robert Kleberg, Jane Black; Mrs. Jones Miller, Totsy Hagelstein; Mrs. Rebecca J. Fisher, Bonnie Warth; Elizabeth Ney, Jewel Bailey; Mrs. Rueben Hornsby, Norma Carson; Mrs. T.P. Washington, Lu Ingram; Mrs. Mary Perner, Marylyn Bean; Mrs. Ada Cauthorn, Nancy Brockman of Sonora; Mrs. Robert Dreskill, Genice Childress; Mrs. Arthur Hoover, Lucille Littleton.

Music arranger was Katherine Russell, who played background music on piano for the performance.

Celebrant Singers to present concert

Jon Stemkoski's Celebrant Singers, an internationally known Christian music ministry headquartered in Visalia, California, will present a concert of contemporary Gospel music on June 25 at the Eldorado High School Gym at 8 p.m.

Their two hour service is a beautiful blend of inspiring praise and worship music. Featuring ten singers and a twelve piece orchestra, the music of Celebrant Singers includes a selection of contemporary gospel songs, liturgical music, praise songs, and worship choruses.

Team members will share a word of personal testimony, and a short documentary film of the Celebrant Singers overseas ministry will be presented.

Members of the group come from many different denominations across North America. Chosen from hundreds of nationwide auditions, these talented young adults have dedicated their lives to sharing the Gospel of Jesus Christ around the world.

They are not salaried but rather are responsible for raising approximately one-third of their travel expenses. The remainder of travel costs is raised by free-will offerings, record sales, and partners of the ministry.

Celebrant Singers founder and director, Jon Stemkoski, is the driving force behind this vital ministry. Stemkoski has conducted services in all 50 states, Canada, the Caribbean, Guatemala and El Salvador, Iran, Egypt, Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, and all parts of Europe, including the Iron Curtain countries of East Germany, Yugoslavia, and Poland. He spent several years singing with and directing the Continental Singers and served as Administrator of Campus Musical Resources at Oral Roberts University prior to founding the Celebrant Singers.

While similar groups traditionally have had an exclusively Protestant audience, the Celebrant Singers are the first full-time contemporary Christian singing group to have a widespread ministry among America's nearly 50 million Roman Catholics. Since 1977, they have provided special music with the liturgy and given concerts in hundreds of Catholic churches throughout the world.

EARLY PUBLISHER IMPORTANT MAN

Archie Wright had first paper

BY RENE CALCOTE

Archie Wright probably had few thoughts of becoming a small town editor of a weekly paper in the late 1800s, a young man in his 20's.

He moved to Schleicher County in 1900. Previously Wright lived near a site where Christoval was to be established. He attended school where the present Baptist Encampment now stands.

School was only three months in the summer and the cost was $1.50 per month. He had earned this money trapping in the winter. After moving to Schleicher County, Wright was active in establishing the government of the county. He helped circulate a petition for an election of government officials in 1901.

Wright also witnessed the exciting days of land rushes. He didn't actually enter the rush, but he helped his brother, Steve, in the Murphy-Olive Rush. Eight hundred men took part in this rush, and needless to say, several scuffles took place.

In 1906, Mr. Wright bought the Eldorado paper from R.L. Carothers, who was the first editor of the Eldorado paper.

R.L. Carothers established the paper and printed the first one in 1901. The newspaper plant was housed in a frame building about 16 feet square and was equipped with a hand operated George Washington Press.

The "Eldorado Paper" was given a new name after Wright bought it. From that time on it was to be called "The Eldorado Success". He published this country weekly paper until 1929 and remained Senior Editor for 35 years.

His paper was an important factor in the development of the county, for he boosted those things which were for the betterment of the community.

S.C. has had several editors since 1901, each for short periods, except Fred Gunstead who remained editor of "The Success" for 32 years.

Schleicher County has been fortunate to have a newspaper that has provided leadership in civic affairs, social events, and quality reporting. We still have the same good quality today.

Dear Editor:

Why have Schleicher County residents not taken the time to voice their opinion on the questionnaires? Are they not concerned about increasing meals for the elderly from three days to five days?

Are they not realizing the needs of those to get around whether it is in Eldorado or to San Angelo? Where are they supposed to find someone willing to take them to see their doctors, get their glasses, pay their bills or just have a day out of their home?

These are all needs in our county that are not being addressed or taken care of!

That's why the transportation van issue is being considered before the county commissioners.

This all could be considered without raising taxes. Right now the proposals being considered is county tax money and needs with government money and ideas to get something more started for our elderly.

The Senior Citizen Center would be one to plan for the future--soon--once we see that the other two programs are a success and can be achieved and supported by local residents. It will require each providing their time and money to help each be a success and continue.

What do you want in Eldorado? A caring community meeting the needs of our residents?

Take time to find the questionnaire and fill it out and put it into the boxes in local town businesses!!

Anita Jones

Dear Editor:

For an idea and concept that had its beginnings on the way home from a fishing trip, the World Championship Cowboy Campfire Cookin' and Pasture Roping has come a long way.

Thanks to the chamber of commerce, which had enough faith to invest in the original idea with no promise of reward, the R-Bar event has had a successful start.

I have enjoyed working as chairman of the event and I am very proud to have had a role in its inception. However, due to increasing business interests, many out of Schleicher County, I no longer feel that I can serve as chairman.

Please consider this as my letter of resignation from the R-Bar chairmanship. I have enjoyed working with you and your fellow chamber officials as well as all those who made my job so much easier by working as efficient committee heads.

The Eldorado Success remains behind the event 100 percent and if I can work on a more limited basis on next year's R-Bar please let me know. Best of luck.

-top of the divide-

BY THOMAS GIOVANNITTI

It took a while but summer finally arrived and has been doing pretty good so far. For most of over forty, the summer sun is no friend. The glare hurts our eyes and the heat makes us uncomfortable in the extreme.

We seek out air-conditioned places and drink gallons of ice water (and other cold drinks if you have the liver for them) to keep from overheating. Of course, children under 10 don't seem to mind the heat and sun at all. Oh, they will get under a tree during the hottest part of the day but they can still tolerate the summer better than their elders. I am sure there is some scientific answer to this apparent difference between the heat tolerance of youngsters and older people, but I am not so sure that science can explain it all.

In fact kids seem to like the out-of-doors in any kind of weather. Maybe it is some instinctual thing going back to the days when men lived in caves or trees and wandered out-of-doors most of their lives. Shelters are the ideas of older people. In fact I am sure of this since I never even missed air-conditioning when I was a youngster.

The South Jersey summers are a lot like Houston, hot and muggy. The humidity always hovered around 80 percent and the temperature was in the same range or higher.

Even the Buick-sized mosquitoes did not deter us from going outside in the evening. We would catch "fire-flies". It was important to catch them just as their tail-lights were lit. We would make lighted bracelets and decorations for our clothing.

Mom always had a gallon of Calamine lotion and cotton balls to dab that solution on our mosquito bites. We would go to bed looking like polka-dot clowns wearing only shorts and calamine lotion.

If it was especially hot dad would let us sleep on the living room floor. With a rear window open and the front door covered only with a screen we could lay on the cool linoleum hoping for a breeze. I have to admit that that sultry New Jersey summer air did not blow easily. My dad and mom, if they suffered during this time, never said a word.

As we got older we finally got Dad to put in an exhaust fan in the rear window. As I got older I could usually stay awake longer and listen to the sounds of our neighborhood as it complained under the oppressive heat. I learned words shouted from across the street I never heard in my house. Cats would get knocked off a back fence by a flying shoe and a few choice words from a man tired from shift work and little inclined to tolerate a squaling cat or kid for that matter.

Relief would come in the form of thunder storms. These storms never reached the power of a real West Texas thunderhead but they usually brought a breeze and cool rain. Even the cat quieted down. After a storm, the adults would go out.

I could hear them talking, now in calm even voices, with a little joy and less anger. Maybe air-conditioning means no one ever gets hot and uncomfortable any more. Maybe.

Habitat important

Landowners and managers should begin work now with their rangelands to insure quality habitat for next season's quail.

Dr. Jack Payne, wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says an important objective in quail management is production of weed seeds.

"For maximum quail numbers a large amount of bare ground and lots of weeds are needed," he said.

An easy method of producing weeds for quail is by discing. Wild weed seeds that are so important to quail are usually already present in the soil, Payne says.

For seed germination to occur, the soil needs to be disturbed and discing is about the best way to do this. A shallow discing about 3-4 inches deep with a light duty farm disc between pasture and brush line or along roadsides and senders goes a long way in providing for production for birds.

Discing should take place as early as possible in the spring so as not to destroy valuable wildlife weeds that have already begun growing, Payne cautions.

Some of the most popular weeds for bobwhites are ragweed and croton. If a seed source is present, both can be produced by discing. Not only do quail benefit from discing, but wildlife in general and especially white-tailed deer, also gain the increase in diversity that discing offers, Payne notes.

Computer service session set

Mr. Larry Habecker, a computer service consultant, will be at the Eldorado Middle School from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Monday, June 20.

LIVING THERMOMETER:

You don't need a thermometer to figure out the temperature, 'International Wildlife' magazine reports. All you have to do is listen for the snowy tree cricket in late summer and early fall. Count the number of chirps in fifteen seconds and add thirty nine. The total is the temperature in Fahrenheit.

Steven Leggett named WTU Director

Steven Leggett has been named Director of Corporate Communications for West Texas Utilities Company, and will move to Abilene from Corpus Christi, where he has been manager of public information for Central Power and Light Company.

Leggett will succeed Sherwyn McNair, who is retiring as Director of Corporate Communications and Assistant Treasurer at WTU effective July 1.

Leggett was raised in South Texas and holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas A&I University at Kingsville. He has been with CPL since 1973. Both CPL and WTU are members of the Central and South West Corp., an electric utility holding company with headquarters in Dallas.

Leggett's wife, Pat, is an elementary school teacher. They have three children.

McNair joined WTU in 1977 after earlier careers at the Abilene Reporter-News and Hardin-Simmons University. He was with the Reporter-News from 1948-1967 as reporter, wire editor, oil editor and city editor, then served 10 years as head of the HSU Journalism Department.

DIRTY DANCING: Almost all birds bathe regularly, but not necessarily in water. 'International Wildlife' magazine reports that pheasants, quail, wild turkeys and many other birds prefer to clean themselves in dirt. This process, known as "dusting", is not only pleasurable but also beneficial. Dust absorbs excess oil in feathers, and it may also prevent the spread of parasites.

- SDN (Software Defined Network) Schedule A prices will be reduced 1.5% during the initial 30-second period. Schedule B prices will be reduced 16.4% overall. Schedule C prices will be reduced 4.2% overall.

Poisoning preventable

Prescription medicines can be helpful when taken as directed, but can cause accidental poisoning in the hands of small children. Fifty percent of all accidental home poisonings involve medications, followed by cleaning products, cosmetics and household plants, according to the Texas Medical Association.

March 20-26 is National Poison Prevention Week—a good time for parents to brush up on poison safety. TMA suggests the following tips to help avoid accidental poisoning in your home:

--Keep all household chemical products out of the sight and reach of children.

--While using these products, never leave your child unattended, even to answer the doorbell or telephone.

Store all medicines and products away from food.

--To avoid confusion, refer to medicine as "medicine" and not "candy" when administering it to your child.

--Never give or take medicines in the dark.

If your child does swallow poison, call your doctor or a poison control center immediately. Keep emergency telephone numbers available. TMA suggests to remain calm, but get help quickly so the poison has less time to be absorbed into the blood stream. Save the poison container and its label so your doctor may determine the exact contents and appropriate treatment.

Remember, the best way to avoid accidental poisoning is to take preventative home safety measures.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization with more than 28,000 physician and medical student members. It is located in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state.
