Plans are underway to organize an Eldorado Civic Theatre Group. A meeting is set for Monday, June 12, at 7 p.m. in the Lions Club Room of the Memorial Building.

This is to be a community project with community involvement. There is so much talent in Eldorado and it should be used. Inhibited hams and just plain folks are urged to be a part of this community project.

Several productions are planned for the year. Not only are actors needed, but also costume designers, lighting personnel, sound engineering, stage managers, musicians, and anyone who can help or wants to help in any way.

"We need response on this. If no one shows up at the meeting, it will be taken as a lack of interest," said Candy Richards. "Everyone seems to want this, everyone should get out and help."

Life Among The Fishes

By Thomas Giovannitti

I am again doing home repairs. Every time I get into one of these "Do it yourself" projects I begin to think of products that the manufacturers really need to invent.

I think some chemist ought to come up with tub caulk that also has an anti-bacterial agent in it so, six months from recaulking, that black stuff won't start growing along the seams.

They also ought to put it in a container large enough to caulk the whole tub, exactly. The material hardens in the end of the tube and the next time I go to use it I can't get the stuff to come out. I have to go buy another tube. The hardware store is already closed.

Even after I get a new tube the caulking material won't stick to anything except a perfectly clean surface. Who lives in a house more than a week and has any "perfectly clean" surface left anywhere in his house?

All that household repair stuff, caulking pastes, glues, paints, resurfacing material, will not adhere to the surface unless that surface is devoid of even a speck of dust or dirt. The caulk balls up like rubber cement. Paint streaks or the dirt bleeds through. I usually hang pictures over my painting mistakes, so if you see a few pictures in my house hung in what appear to be unusual places, please do not look behind them.

Last but not least though, are home adhesives. I defy anyone to get the surface of old wall-board, old paneling, old tile, clean enough or porous enough to allow you to stick anything to them. Super glue will not hold anything other than your first two fingers together. Wall paper paste will not hold the corners. Forget self-adhesive floor tiles, I personally will not use them, since they will only stick till the first glass of water is spilled.

I have finally decided that the manufacturers have already invented an adhesive that would hold stuff to an old house's walls, floors, ceilings, wood work, or any other place. I want them to sell me that glue that the highway department uses to glue down those ceramic round things they use to mark traffic lanes. You know what I mean, those things that every time you get over too far, your tire sounds as if it will be ripped apart. Those things can't even be dislodged by huge trucks or junior high kids. Now, that's a glue I could use!

School is out now. Students and teachers alike will be finding new interests now.

As I was reading through "The Big Lake Wildcat" recently, I came across this little bit from David Werst's column written by a Richard Lederer. I thought our readers might enjoy it also.

The world According To Student Bloopers

One of the fringe benefits of being an English or History teacher is receiving the occasional jewel of a student blooper in an essay. I have pasted together the following 'history' of the world from certifiably genuine student bloopers collected by teachers throughout the United States, from eighth grade through college level.

Read carefully, and you will learn a lot.

Without Greeks we wouldn't have history. The Greeks invented three kinds of columns...Corinthian, Doric and Ionic. They also had myths. A myth is a female moth. One myth says that the mother of Achilles dipped him in the River Styx until he became intolerable. Achilles appears in the Illiad, by Homer. Homer also wrote the Oddity, in which Penelope was the last hardship that Ulysses endured on his journey. Actually Homer was not written by Homer, but by another man of that name.

Socrates was a famous Greek teacher who went around giving people advice. They killed him. Socrates died from an overdose of wedlock.

In the Olympic games, Greeks ran races, jumped, hurled the biscuits, and threw the java. The reward to the victor was a coral wreath. The government of Athens was democratic because people took the law into their own hands. There were no wars in Greece, as the mountains were so high that they couldn't climb over to see what their neighbors were doing. When they fought the Persians, the Greeks were outnumbered because the Persians had more men.

Eventually, the Romans conquered the Greeks. History calls people Romans because they never stayed in one place for very long. At Roman banquets, the guests wore garlies in their hair. Julius Caesar extinguished himself on the battlefields of Gaul. The Ides of March murdered him because they thought he was going to be made king. Nero was a cruel tyranny who would torture his poor subjects by playing the fiddle to them.

Then came the Middle Ages. King Alfred conquered the Dames. King Arthur lived in the age of shivery. King Harold mustered his troops before the battle of Hastings. Joan of Arc was canonized by Bernard Shaw. Finally, Magna Carta provided that no free man should be hanged twice for the same offense.

No horse gets anywhere until he is harnessed.

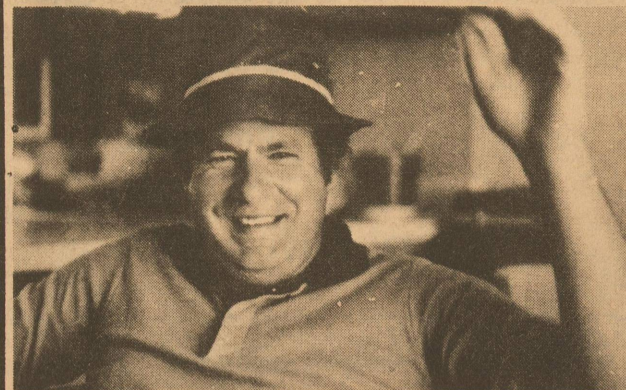

No steam or gas ever drives anything until it is confined.

No Niagara is ever turned into light and power until it is tunneled.

No life ever grows great until it is focused, dedicated, disciplined.

Recently, I have noticed more and more people murdering the King's English. As a public service, I have decided to print my rules of grammar. I hope that these few simple rules will assist you in the proper use of grammar.

SMITH'S RULES OF GRAMMAR

1. Never abbrev.
2. About sentence fragments.
3. Do not use no double negatives.
4. Check to see if you any words out.
5. Do not use commas, that are not necessary.
6. It is important to use apostrophe's right.
6. Do not write a run-on sentence you have to punctuate it.
7. In my opinion, as far as I'm concerned, for me, I think that a writer or an author, when he or she is writing should never get into the overused habit of making use of too many unnecessary words that he or she does not need (really need), in order to put his or her message across so that people might have a better understanding of what is being written.

Christoval Church—100 Yrs

By Evelyn Stigler

The Christoval Baptist Church celebrated 100 years of ministry, Sunday June 4. Many former members and friends attended from many different places as far as Houston. Many memories were recalled and many had to be told who they were as faces were remembered but names have a way of slipping from our minds.

I enjoyed being there as I had taught third and fourth grades and met my husband there. We married after I had taught two years and moved into the Depot Agents house. Our first son, Johnny was born while we lived there. John was baptized in the river at Mineral Wells Crossing and we were active members there until we moved to Eldorado in 1947.

Mrs. Tip Van Court, who was Billie Marie Willbanks, was chairman of the Church History Committee. She started searching for information about the origin of the church in 1984. The church was first organized with four members and really began in 1889 as the South Concho Baptist Church. Two years later, it was one of 11 churches that formed the Concho Valley Baptist Association.

The church as it is now, a white frame structure was built in 1925 at the corner of Church St. and Toe Nail Trail and continues to be a place of worship for members. Buddy Trull is the pastor.

The church has been approved for a Texas Historical Marker which will be erected at a later date.

The morning began with Adult Sunday School meeting together in the sanctuary and the lesson taught by Durward Rutland, who grew up in Eldorado.

For the 11:00 A.M. Service Bill Brown led the music with Ann Green at the piano and Jacque Barton, organist. Special music was by Mills Caraway, a former music director who had written a song called "Reflections" which was about the church and its memories. The message was brought by Rev. Terry Gayle, a former pastor, from San Antonio.

The noon meal was catered by Southern Seas and served in the Community Center, with plenty of chicken strips, fish and all the trimmings.

The afternoon meeting at 2:00 P.M. was spent reminiscing, and enjoying music and Testimonials.

"Procrastination is the thief of time." Edward Young 1683-1765

If there is a list of those who procrastinate big-time, my name is probably in the number one slot.

It has caught up with me. I must now make good my New Year's resolution to finish all the projects I have going before I start something new.

Why, you ask, have I decided to do this when the year is almost half gone; well, there is no space in which to begin anything new.

I will no longer allow "the thief of time" to rob me of the opportunity to complete the projects I have started and accomplish goals I set in the future. Wish me luck!!!

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Our legislators in Austin just passed an amendment giving themselves a 300 percent pay raise.

This outrageous salary increase will cost us, the taxpayers $3.5 million a year, at a time when we can least afford it.

It gets worse, the amendment will take away the voters right to vote on future pay raises. In my opinion, the legislators are not being financially responsible with our wallets.

The legislators have craftily worded the amendment on the November 7 ballot to limit their salary to one-third of the governor's salary. The legislators vote on the governor's salary.

Basically, they will vote their own pay raise when they give the governor a pay increase.

Their salary doesn't include the present daily allowance of $30 which will be increased to $81. That's $4,200 increased to $11,340 for 140 days of work in Austin. Can you imagine getting that kind of allowance for food and gas?

We need state government to be financially responsible. We need to stop this pay raise.

Please join the fight against this 300 percent pay raise.

Sincerely,
Lynn Oates

This is a tribute to a lovely lady whom we knew as Opal (McAdoo-Kinley) Meador.

She gave her love unselfishly to one and all who knew her. She never wavered from caring for each one of us. She was a true friend and we are better people because of the special time we had with her.

She always said she had a Guardian Angelo who watched over her and indeed she was a true Christian.

CELEBRATE THE STARS AND STRIPES

FLAG DAY JUNE 14

The broad stripes and bright stars. Old Glory. The symbol of freedom. The symbol of America. According to Presidential proclamation, Flag Day is "a time to honor America." A time to fly our flag with pride.

On June 14, 1777, John Adams introduced a resolution to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, "That the flag of the thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white on a field of blue, representing a new constellation."

Show your pride June 14 and fly our flag. The star-spangled banner. Long may she wave.

Little Green Snake Causes Big Problems

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was brought in recently by one of our readers. I didn't get the name of the newspaper, but it was written by a James Roberts. I thought I would share it with you.

It seems this fellow was explaining why he was in the hospital. Said his wife had brought a bunch of potted plants and hanging baskets into the house to keep them from freezing, and it happened that a little green snake had hidden himself in one of those plants, and got carried inside.

When the snake warmed up, it came slithering out of the pot plant and went under the sofa. The fellow's wife saw it and let out a great scream.

He happened to be taking a bath at the time, but he leaped out of the tub and ran naked to see what his wife was screaming about.

His wife told him a snake was under the sofa. So, he got down on the floor to look for it, and here came his dog and cold-nosed him.

He thought it was the snake and fainted.

His wife thought he'd had a heart attack and called an ambulance. The attendants rushed in and loaded him on the stretcher and started carrying him out.

About that time, the snake came slithering from under the sofa, and the ambulance men saw it and dropped the stretcher and broke the fellow's leg, and that's why he was in the hospital.

Well, with her husband in the hospital with a broken leg, and a snake under her couch, the wife went next door to enlist the aid of a neighbor who had the reputation of an outdoorsman, having camped out with the Cub Scouts last summer.

His wife was at the grocery store, and he volunteered to corral the snake.

Armed with a rolled up newspaper, he took a few swishes under the couch and declared that the snake had vacated the premises.

"Thank goodness," declared the women, plopping down on the couch. As her hand dropped between the cushions, it brushed a small scaly skin, which she immediately realized was her snake.

Screaming, she fainted dead away on the couch as the snake slithered quickly back to the floor and underneath the couch.

Realizing that something needed to be done, the outdoorsman drew upon his meager firstaid knowledge and remembered a demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation he'd seen.

So, he pushed the woman's head back into the proper position, and just as he started the first breath, in ran his wife, carrying a sackful of canned goods she had in her arms when she heard the scream.

Seeing her husband mouth-to-mouth with the neighbor woman on the couch, she immediately slammed the heavy sack of cans across the top of his head.

The crash, and scattering cans, brought the fainted woman up with a start.

When she saw the neighbor lying on the floor, and his wife bending over him, she was sure he was snake-bitten and ran to the kitchen for a bottle of medicinal whiskey which she started trying to pour down the poor fellow's throat.

His wife, beginning to regret hitting him with a sack, was subdued but did manage to wrestle the whiskey bottle away from the other women, sloshing some on both of them in the process.

About that time, two policemen, summoned by a neighbor who had also heard the scream, and crash, walked in. After a sniff of the whiskey aroma from the man and both women the officers listened politely as the two women, both talking at the same time, explained about how a snake caused it all.

The policemen left with the ambulance that took the still-unconscious husband and his sobbing wife away to the hospital, leaving the first women with a very scared little green snake hidden far back under the couch.

Healthy Fasting: Different people have different reasons for fasting. Some believe fasting purifies the body, helps focusing of the mind and helps with weight loss.

For the healthiest and most effective fast, individuals should drink substantial amounts of fluid (especially water) prior to the fast to prevent headaches, fatigue, and nausea and eat less protein and more starchy fibrous foods.

During the fast, they should avoid strenuous activity and drink distilled or tap water, sparkling water, or natural fruit and vegetable juices.

During the Middle Ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

GIVE YOUR ELECTRIC METER A TURN FOR THE BETTER.

You can slow down the wheels on your Electric Meter and lower Summer Cooling Bills when you follow these helpful tips:

- Set your thermostat on 78° or higher and use ceiling or portable fans to help circulate the air.
- Have your air conditioner serviced annually and once a month, check the filter. A dirty filter can keep your air conditioner from working efficiently.
- Keep doors, windows, and drapes firmly closed to keep cool air in and heat out.
- Protect ceiling and walls with adequate insulation. Make sure cracks around windows, doors, pipes and wiring are tightly sealed with caulking and weatherstripping.
- Use heat producing appliances, like ranges, dishwashers, and dryers during the cooler part of the day.

The First Grand Jury in Schleicher County consisted of J.A. Alexander, Robert Bailey, C.C. West, H.J. Saunders, John Earnest, J.M. Stone, Geo. Tisdale, Tom Miller, J.E. Murchison and J.E. Mills.

The first case to be tried in the present court house of Schleicher County was the theft of a Dodge touring car, stolen from Bert Page. Charged with the theft were Gideon Birdwell and Walter Thompson.

The jury of W.E. Baker, J.B. Sammons, O. Suddeth, Chas. Mund, Sam McGinnis, Ed Finnegan, Tom Henderson, W.W. Barber and Joe Williams found the two black men guilty. They were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

The first election ever held in Schleicher County was the state-wide Prohibition election in 1887 and was held a short time after the county was created from Crockett County, in 1887.

C.C. Doty was the presiding officer of the election held at Point Breeze, a place about five miles south east of the Twin Wells in the eastern part of the county.

Only 20 votes were cast, and all of these, except one, were against state-wide prohibition.

The first bale of cotton ginned in Eldorado was on September 20, 1904.

The cotton was owned by T.G. Chaney and weighed 493 pounds.

The first men to bring registered sheep to Schleicher County were C.C. Doty, Mr. Storms, and George Williams.

In 1907 four girls and one boy graduated from Eldorado High School. These were the first to ever graduate from this school. They completed the 10th grade.

They were Alvis Bearce, Lula Womack, Pearl Bailey, Minnie Strother, and Clifford Womack.

The first child born after Schleicher County was established, in 1887, was Agnes West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. West.

The first telephone in Eldorado was at Mrs. Robinsons Dry Goods-Grocery and Furniture Store. It was connected to San Angelo, and everyone used it.

The first Lawyer in the site to be "Eldorado" was W.B. Silliman, founder of the town. O.A. Savage was the first barber in Eldorado.

The first meeting of the commissioners court was held in the Schleicher County school house which was owned by W.B. Silliman. The county paid him $12.00 per month rent.

The first library opened

Saturday, April 20, 1935, in Eldorado. The first paid librarian was Miss Tom Pearl Smith.

The first significant show of oil and gas from a Schleicher County well was on the Whitten ranch in 1928.

The first homemaking class at Eldorado schools was started in 1936. Miss Louise Hinyard was the first Homemaking teacher.

The first school band was organized in 1938 under the direction of Bertram Geeslen.

The first superintendent of Schleicher County School was Sam Low, 1896-1897.

The first P.T.A. was formed in 1913.

New 'Texas Events Calendar' Released

A new economic report aimed at attracting business and investment to Texas has been published by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Titled "It's Texas/Here's Why", the colorful economic profile of the state will be put in the hands of trade missions, international companies, economic developers and Texas business recruiters.

"Texas has a powerful story to tell and sell," Bullock said. "And this book does that."

"There is no better place to invest in the future," he said. "This book counterbalances the black eye Texas has gotten in recent years in the national and international business community."

Bullock said the book will be used in tandem with another report, the "Texas Business Guide", published earlier this year by Bullock's office in cooperation with several other state agencies.

Bullock said that similar reports his office published in the past attracted significant interest and inquiries from around the world. These included "Texas Means Business" put out in 1977 and "Why Texas Is Growing" published in 1982.

Copies of "It's Texas/Here's Why" are available by writing Bob Bullock, Comptroller of Public Accounts, 111 E. 17th Street, Austin, Texas 78774.

SS Recipients Should Report Changes

People who receive Social Security benefits should be aware of the kinds of changes they need to report, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

Some events might cause overpayments, underpayments, or missing benefits if they are not reported, Upp said. Upp listed the most common changes which should be reported:

Change in a beneficiary's earnings. If earning will be greater or less than expected, a person needs to give Social Security a revised earnings estimate. People who receive disability benefits and work, also need to tell Social Security the date that work started or earnings changed.

Change of address. The Social Security Administration requires current addresses and telephone numbers for all beneficiaries, even if benefits are sent by direct deposit.

Marriage or Divorce. Some kinds of benefits will be affected by a change in marital status. For example, a child's benefits ends if the child marries, but a spouse's benefit does not end if the couple divorce, providing they were married at least 10 years. People with questions should check with Social Security to find out if marriage or divorce will affect them.

Death of a beneficiary. An early report of the death of a beneficiary will help Social Security avoid an overpayment Upp said.

People who receive supplemental security income (SSI) also need to report changes in income from other sources, such as a pension or a spouse's income. If anyone else pays part of the household expenses, changes in those arrangements need to be reported too.

To report any of these changes or for additional information about Social Security people can call 949-4608. The San Angelo Social Security Office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way.

Mood Swings May Signal Drug Abuse

The signs of drug and alcohol abuse in adolescents should never be ignored by parents, according to a counselor with the Palmer Drug Abuse Center in McAllen.

"Any kind of (drug or alcohol) use is abuse in adolescents," said Bruce Cooper.

Cooper addressed a recent McAllen seminar aimed at strengthening families. About 200 people attended the program conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Expanded Nutrition Program (ENP), McAllen Independent School District, and a McAllen PTA organization.

Cooper said signs of addiction include changes in behavior, diet, habits and friends. The youths begin dressing in more somber tones, including black, and they often will become disinterested in scholastic achievement.

Mood swings become more evident. "A kid who uses (drugs or alcohol) is very manipulative," Cooper said.

Cooper, who abused drugs and alcohol for about 20 years and was helped by Palmer Center programs, said any abuser has to have an excuse for the problem.

"We have to have an excuse," he said. "If we don't, we have to admit we have the problem."

The Palmer Center counsels youth to deal with their drug and alcohol abuse problem. Center staffers have children as young as 10 in the program.

The Palmer Center focuses on the attitude of quitting "one day at a time." Youngsters or any abuser has a problem with the concept of quitting "forever", Cooper said.

All counselors at the Palmer Center are former abusers and are in recovery. Two sessions are given during a week -- one for parents and one for youngsters.

Cooper, who sought help at the Palmer Center in Houston, had been in and out of treatment programs for years. "I didn't think there was any hope anymore until someone showed me there was."

He attended one of the Palmer Center's drug abuse programs and discovered people having fun without the aid of alcohol or drugs. "I got curious," he said.

Ida Patrick, Hidalgo County Extension agent, coordinated the activity for the Extension Service. The McAllen and Mission school districts provided transportation for interested individuals.

For further information, contact Ida Patrick, 512-383-1026.

"Supermarket Of The Swamps"

Have you decided what you are going to fix for supper tonight? How about Cossack Asparagus, served with a nice pot roast?

What is Cossack Asparagus? It is cattails. You know, the plant you see growing by rivers and ponds. It is said the plant can be consumed in so many different ways that experienced wild-food foragers call it the "supermarket of the swamps".

From earliest spring to latest fall, any stand of cattails should yield you a bucketful of Cossack Asparagus in minutes. This vegetable is the white, tender, inner portion of the plant's stem.

It can be harvested merely by grabbing the inside leaves of a stalk and pulling. The stem should break off crisply down inside the outer leaves, exposing a white, celerylike piece of mild-tasting stem that is anywhere from one inch to one foot long.

Wash it in clean water and chop it up raw for salads. It is also good cooked in stews. Cossack Asparagus is at its absolute prime when taken in the spring from plants no more than two feet tall.

A little later in the year, the green spikes on top of a stand of cattails can be boiled in salted water and eaten like roasting ears. They are a little dry but, when doused in butter and eaten piping hot, have a definite corny taste that is quite satisfying.

Later still, in early and mid-summer, cattail pollen can be collected and, if stored in glass jars, kept for months. For a new taste treat, try mixing the bright yellow powder half and half with flour the next time you make pancakes.

Cattail roots can be pulled up, dried, ground and used as a starchy flour for baking purposes at any time of the year and the little potato-like bulbs on the roots are especially good in the spring. Harvest the knobs, boil 'em and serve 'em with butter...or cook a batch with the next roast you prepare. You're sure to like their nutty-potato flavor.

Fifty Years Ago

Fifty years ago this week, The Eldorado Success printed the following on dropping pits. It is reprinted here.

Save Labor With Dropping Pits

"I don't know why I have not had dropping pits all these years as they do make the chicken house much more sanitary and too saves so much labor," is what Mrs. L.T. Wilson says of dropping pits which she and Mr. Wilson have recently constructed in her chicken house.

The dropping pits are approximately 18 inches high, four feet wide and extend across the back of the house. The cross pieces which are placed every nine inches apart are made of old bed slats. The frame is of lumber on hand and the two inch mesh wire that covers the top is some that was on hand. The dropping pits are fastened at the back on hinges that it might be raised from the front and cleaned out. The cost was nothing as all material was on hand.

If a glass of water were magnified to the size of the earth, the molecules comprising it would be about as big as a large orange.

Ozona To Host Softball Tournament

Report Aimed At Attracting Business To Texas

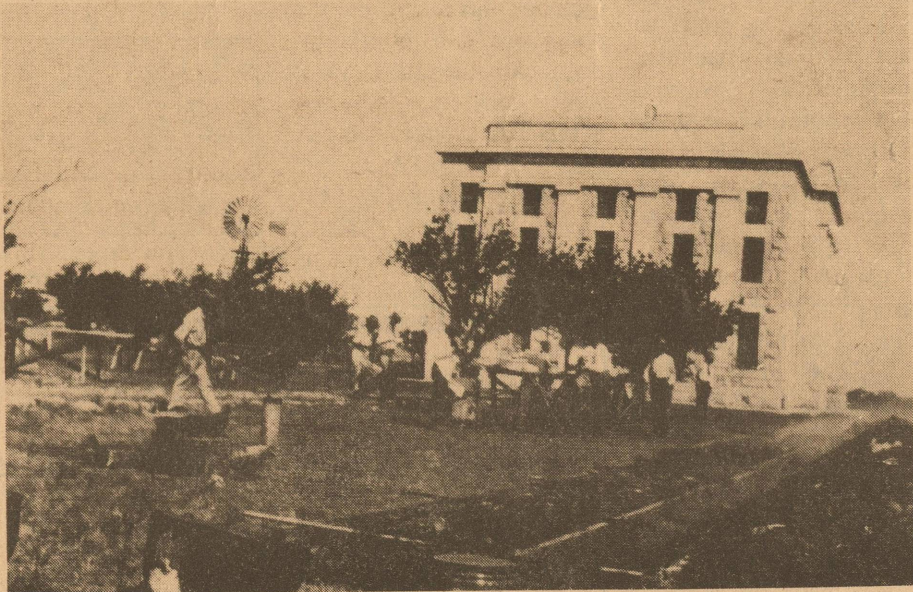

Friendliness and Texas-style hospitality have been in evidence for well over 100 years, as Texans played host at rodeos, barbecues, county fairs, and other festive occasions.

This year, visitors can join in the 102nd National Cow-Calling Contest at Miami; the 117th June-teenth Picnic and Trail Ride at St. John Colony; the 133rd Agricultural Society Barbecue at Cat Spring, or the 134th Prazka Pout at Praha. The latest 'Texas Events Calendar', just released by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, spotlights these as well as other century-old celebrations, and more than 1,000 other ways Texans have fun in summer.

Packed with art, boat, and stock shows, horse races and rodeos, and a great variety of musicals and theater productions under the stars, the Summer 'Texas Events Calendar' tells the where and when of it all. Free individual copies of the summer fun listing can be picked up at any of the 12 Texas Tourist Bureaus or by writing 'Texas Events Calendar', P.O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.

IF JESUS CAME TO YOUR HOUSE

If Jesus came to your house to spend a day or two,

If He should show up unannounced, I wonder what you'd do?

Would you have to change your clothes before you let Him in,

Or hide some books and put the Bible where they'd been?

Would you be glad to have Him meet your very closest friends,

Or would you hope they stay away until His visit ends?

Would you be glad to have Him stay forever on and on,

Or would you sigh with great relief when He at last was gone?

It might be interesting to know the things that you would do,

If Jesus came in person to spend some time with you.
