Local Teacher, Student Attend Energy Symposium

Thirty-two outstanding high school students and teachers from West Texas Utilities' service area attended the 29th Annual Texas Energy Science Symposium at the University of Texas in Austin. The conference got underway Monday, June 12 and ended Thursday, June 15.

Sponsored by WTU from Eldorado were (from left), Ruth Anne Callihan, teacher, and Ericka Olson, student, and Kit Horne, WTU representative.

A total of 500 students and teachers throughout the state attended the four day event. Participants had the opportunity to tour some of the finest scientific facilities available and attend lectures and workshops by leading professionals in the scientific field.

The Symposium was jointly sponsored by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the University of Texas. West Texas Utilities is one of the Foundations' sponsoring companies and paid for all expenses for the 32 students and teachers that attended from their service area.

The Foundation was founded for the primary purpose of conducting the world's first and largest privately financed research effort in the field of energy. The goal of the Foundation and WTU is not research alone, but also to broaden knowledge of energy science in Texas schools and to heighten awareness of the privileges and responsibilities that scientific discovery presents.

There are over 1,000 accredited senior high schools in the state of Texas, and Eldorado can be proud for being chosen as one of the schools invited to send teachers and students to the Symposium.

Blue Jays Win Big

The Blue Jays pony league team had a victorious week. Thursday night they played the San Angelo Angels here in Eldorado, winning the game 11-3. Dallas Turbeville was the winning pitcher with Patrick Harriman knocking in a home run.

On Saturday the Blue Jays traveled to San Angelo to again play the Angels, winning 18-2. The game was called after the end of four innings due to a 15-run lead. Ricky Gutierrez was the winning pitcher with J.J. Martinez hitting a grand slam over the fence.

The team would again like to thank everyone for their support.

Life Among The Fishes

By Thomas Giovannitti

Well summer is officially here and the ice cube phantom has already struck. Check your ice bucket and I'll bet you there are no more than three cubes, if that many. No fair filling it up just before you read this. What I can't figure out is why there are never enough ice cubes since the recipe is so easy to remember?

No one has ever really figured out what to do about the sweat that forms on my ice tea glass either. Don't mention coasters, especially those cardboard ones either. They always stick to the bottom of the glass and fall off into my ice cream. The table cloth gets wet. Paper napkins dissolve. If the air conditioner is taking moisture out of the air, why does it still condense on my tea glass?

The hot weather also makes me lose my appetite. I eat a lot less Pasta (spaghetti for those of you not familiar with the generic term) in the summer. It isn't that it doesn't taste just as good, it is that it is too hot to make it. Boiling all that water doesn't seem right when it is 100 degrees outside. In fact, I tend to eat a lot less of everything and drink a lot more water, tea, Kool Aid, or soda (that's pop to those of you from West of the Mississippi). With all of this self-imposed fasting, I don't seem to lose any weight. This may only prove that Summer is no time to try dieting.

Now how much I weigh has never been something that has been a top priority in my life. But I have some nylon weaved folding lawn chairs that are wearing pretty thin, so how much I weigh when I sit in one may become critical.

It is not real important though since we can only sit outside so long as the mosquitoes will let us. Some nights they are more lenient than others and we can stay out of doors until about 8:45 p.m. Once that sun finally sinks below the horizon though, they come out in force. Of course, those are the bites that keep my children up. I am beginning to think my children have the mosquitoes trained. Anyway, since the days are getting shorter (That's right, shorter!) those little bugs will have to be biting earlier so I won't need the lawn chairs for as much time so they may finish this summer.

Friends are a wonderful blessing. I read somewhere the following: "Being friends holds a meaning true, it's past and present and yet it's new." A friend is defined as "a person whom one knows, likes and trusts." These are a few of my friends:

I had the nicest visit with a very nice lady last Friday in the Success office. Elizabeth Powell came by to get some extra papers and renew her subscription. Ms. Powell had her 89th birthday this past week. Happy Birthday Ms. Powell!

Happy Doss came by Monday to have some copies made. It's always nice to and visit with him. Says he has been to every state in the United States. That is something!

Frankie Short called on the telephone to put an ad in the classifieds. I haven't talked to her in some time. She brought me some of her home-grown onions last year. They were so sweet you could eat them like an apple. Umm, Umm, good! Nice to talk to you again, Frankie.

Joe Christian came by to renew his subscription. Said he really liked what we were doing with the paper, and especially the name -- SUCCESS. Glad to hear you do enjoy our paper -- after all, it is for our readers that we do it.

I welcome our readers to stop by for a chat. It is always nice to visit with old friends and to make new ones. Have a nice day!

"My alarm didn't go off ---"

Can there possibly be THAT many faulty alarm clocks in the world? Think not? Wait til it happens to you. You drag out of bed and if you can think that early in the morning, you can't believe you didn't hear the alarm. Certain the day will be ordinary, you check the time and realize that you have just gotten started on a day that is already thirty minutes behind. The Dagwood syndrome is in motion. Things you have to do today run through your mind and it is inevitable that you will forget something important. The clock is ticking. By the time you are ready to collide with the mailman, you are already a half a day behind.

Just as you are about to run out of the house you realize that the "alarm didn't go off" because you did not set it. It's Saturday.

An Apple A Day

Fat is not healthy and it builds on different people in different places. Both these facts we already know...but, where is the worst place to accumulate your fat? Well, the worst place is around the belly. Belly fat increases the risk of cardiovascular disease (heart disease & stroke), diabetes and premature death by 5 to 10 times. Fat stored around the belly is more easily broken down and moves directly to the liver where it causes blood fat and insulin levels to increase. Although a person's genetic characteristics determine to a certain extent the accumulation and location of body fat, the individual can still do certain things to minimize the problem... that being exercising and eating low-fat foods.

For a while, cattle prices were just awful.

Heard from the local hardware dealer that one of our local ranchers came in every Thursday and bought three or four hammers.

I hung around the hardware store one Thursday to see for myself. Sure enough, about 9:30, the old boy came walkin' in and bought four hammers.

So, I asked him, "Say, Slim. Whatcha doin' with so many hammers?"

And he says to me, "I'm sellin' 'em to my neighbors."

And I says, "How much are you sellin' 'em for?"

And he says, "A dollar." Says I, "And whatcha buyin' 'em for?"

"A dollar and a half." "Slim, Slim, Slim," says I, "You're losin' money every time you sell a hammer."

"Yep", he says, "but it's a sight easier than ranchin'."

I've heard that cattle prices are rising, oil prices are rising and that there is going to be more drilling for natural gas here in the county. I have also heard that there are some new businesses opening in Eldorado. The future is bright! Let's keep looking up!

And until the next time...

Be A Doer!

EMS Seeks Volunteers, ECA Class Possible

Theodore Roosevelt once said, "The human race can be divided into three subspecies:

"The Doers -- Those who get involved and make things happen.

"The Watchers -- Those who sit on the sidelines, hoping the Doers make good. Their involvement is limited to patting the Doers on the back when things turn out alright and wringing their hands when they don't.

"The Critics -- Those who do nothing except criticize. Don't expect the people in this group to pat anybody on the back - ever. Even if things turn out alright, they know there was a better way to do it. And if things didn't...well it was to be expected. People in this category also refuse to accept responsibility when their advice is followed. After all, they weren't in charge.

"Now, the Doers may from time-to-time cross over into one of the other two categories, becoming a Watcher in some instances and even a Critic in others. If he's a Doer, he's earned the right - and people generally don't hold it against him if he decides to sit one out or level a little criticism now and again.

"But how many times have you seen a Watcher or a Critic become a Doer? Not often - probably never, especially in the case of a Critic. Watchers usually are too timid to get involved, and Critics are too busy carping.

"A Critic is the Doer's curse. Anybody who's ever attempted to do anything knows what it's like. The Critic never lifts a finger to do any work but he's always there, ready to criticize or point out what's going wrong and why.

"Many Critics feel they are performing a needed task by complaining. Just because they are griping doesn't mean they don't care about their community or their church or their neighborhood. They feel that, by pointing out what's wrong, the Doers may take care of it.

"So the following is dedicated to all our community's Doers, who we hope keep on doing:

"It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strived valiantly; who errs and comes up short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, ad spends himself in a worthy cause; who at worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly; so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither defeat or victory."

The Schleicher County Emergency Medical Service is in desperate need to volunteers. An ECA class, held here in Eldorado, is possible, is there is enough interest shown.

When school begins again, EMS's will be in short supply. If you are interested, call today 853-2617, 853-3171 or 853-3173.

An Open Letter

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

It is so hard to just write a note to thank so many people for so many wonderful acts of kindness done for Dean. A lot of people gave money and time and we don't know who they are. People brought food and sent cards.

Most of all, we appreciate your prayers. Christians came and prayed with him at the home and it did him so much good.

We would like to thank Eagle Dairy Mart, Glidden Foods, Casa Arispe, Old Main Street Diner, Agape Church and several other groups. We want to thank the Mertzon Highway Church of Christ for their many acts of kindness. And most of all, the Warner Avenue Church of Christ for all their loving care. We don't have the space to mention the many friends and neighbors who have helped us in so many different ways, but we thank you all for your help and support during the last few months.

Thank you so much.

The Texas-Mexico Border Health Crisis

Industrial "booms" often mean rapid population growth and unregulated economic development. Along the Texas-Mexico border, where factories employing cheap labor have sprung up, serious health problems threaten the well-being of a population of Texans often referred to as the "working poor", says the Texas Medical Association.

Dr. Laurance Nickey, chairman of the Texas Medical Association's Council on Public Health and director of the El Paso City/County Health District, calls the border region and its health problems the "slowly ticking time bomb of Texas."

Situated outside Texas border cities, such as El Paso and Laredo, are colonias, or subdivisions with limited water and sewer services. These poor, unincorporated settlements are similar to the colonias that surround many Latin American cities, such as Mexico City. Colonias have existed on the Texas border for many years, but as housing in the cities became scarce and the low-income population grew in the 1970s and 1980s, their existence has become more pronounced.

A national study requested by Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Texas, states that as a result of many problems, including inadequate water and sewer services, Texans living in colonias along the Mexican border have, by far, more diseases linked to poor hygiene and unsanitary conditions than other residents of the state or nation.

Colonia residents survive by piping in water for household use through makeshift plumbing from outdoor tanks and wells.

Much groundwater under the colonias is contaminated from outhouses and septic systems. For survival purposes, drinking water is brought in from other communities and stored in all-purpose industrial vats supplemented by gallon jugs. Unfortunately, as a result of these and other unsanitary practices, many residents suffer a high rate of gastrointestinal disease, hepatitis, tuberculosis, and syphilis.

In 350 colonias around El Paso, 28,000 residents live without running water, and 53,000 live without sewer service. In the Lower Rio Grande Valley of South Texas, more than 70,000 people live in 5,000 colonias in three counties with the same substandard living conditions.

The Texas Medical

Association recognizes the serious health threats to border residents and supports Sen. Bentsen and others in their attempts to urge Congress to expand Medicaid, and the nutrition program for women, infants, and children, as well as use other ways to combat this health care crisis along our border.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 116 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 80 percent of the state's physicians, and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of members.

Stealing electricity is against the law!

Stealing electricity is a felony.

Some people tamper with their electric meters to avoid paying for the energy they use. Stealing electricity is a felony offense in the state of Texas and violators will be prosecuted. West Texas Utilities' Current Diversion Department is working hard to help combat the growing problem of energy theft.

Energy theft is dangerous.

Not only is service theft a crime, but it is also very dangerous. Serious injuries can result from meter tampering.

A crime against you!

When someone steals electricity, they are not only stealing from WTU — they are also stealing from you, as a rate-payer. Just as shoplifting increases the cost of items you buy in the store, power theft increases the cost of your electric service.

WTU will prosecute.

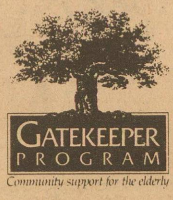

Because we are concerned about the dangers and costs resulting from meter tampering, West Texas Utilities will prosecute energy thieves.

Heat Stress Increases With Humidity

Recent sporadic rains, coupled with the early onset of hot weather in Texas, have created a weather hazard usually expected later in the year -- heat stress, or hyperthermia.

Even people accustomed to the Texas climate sometimes fail to realize the dangers posed by the combination of high humidity and heat. The affect of humid heat can be most dangerous for the very young, the elderly, and persons already weakened by illness.

Dr. Clift Price, Associate Commissioner for Personal Health Services at the Texas Department of Health (TDH) said a recent report shows that in an average year, 200 people in the U.S. die as a result of hot weather.

The report stated that overall mortality rates increase dramatically during severe weather. The National Center for Health Statistics has calculated that since an extreme heat wave was the unique factor during the summer of 1980, when mortality rates jumped sharply, as many as 1,700 deaths nationally may have been heat related.

Dr. Price said that high temperature alone is physically tolerable to most people, but in combination with humidity, it can cause a person's cooling mechanism, perspiration, to work overtime. "If one fails to replace the fluids and salts lost through perspiration, dehydration can follow," he said.

Symptoms of dehydration are muscle cramps, nausea, dizziness, headache, and low blood pressure. If fluids are not replaced, heat stroke can ensue, causing sudden weakness, severe headache, loss of consciousness, brain damage, and death if the victim is not quickly treated.

Dr. Price said that in recent years, meteorologists have begun using the term, "heat stress index", referring to the relationship between temperature and humidity.

The heat stress index is a numerical table by which the National Weather Service rates the degree of discomfort a person may feel at a given temperature and humidity. Although the table does not allow for the variables of wind and shade, which can influence an individual's tolerance to heat and humidity, the index reading, like a thermometer reading, is useful in helping persons take needed precautions against hyperthermia.

A heat stress index of 105 is considered very dangerous.

Eddie Hill Named Top 3-A Science Coach Of The Year

Another Eldorado boy who has made good in the field of education is Eddie Hill. Hill is the son of Monte and the late Barbara Hill, and grandson of Mrs. Jake Spencer. He lived in Eldorado when he was a young boy.

He has recently been named 1988-89 Conference 3-A Science Coach of the Year by the Texas Math and Science Coaches Association.

the top among 3-A schools this term, is completing his second year at Lampasas High School and his fourth in the teaching profession.

A graduate of White Oak High School and East Texas Baptist University, Hill said he was influenced into a career in science by his high school chemistry teacher and a college chemistry professor. Both, he said, encouraged him to push himself beyond the required limits.

Hill now has a reputation of offering the same opportunity to his own students -- spurring them to expand their own minds beyond the confines of the textbook to a more challenging curriculum.

Hill's teaching workload this term has included four sections of chemistry and two of physics.

He stated that advanced physics is vitally important for students planning on engineering careers. Today's world offers vast opportunities for someone talented in science.

Hill enjoys working with kids and thinks science is fun.

A Touch Of History

By Rene Calcote

As a tribute to the fathers of our church, and a tribute to one of the First Baptist Churches early pastors, I gave this presentation Sunday, June 18, Father's Day.

John Lafayette Ratliff was born February 28, 1881 in Shiloh, Denton County, Texas. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ratliff, owned a farm. It was on this quiet little farm that "Fate" (nickname he was given) spent his younger years growing up. "Fate" attended elementary and high school at Shiloh and Lewisville.

His first job, after graduating high school, was with his older brother in his blacksmith shop in Coppell. He later worked in a general store, and was a cashier at Coppell's first bank.

It was in this small town of Coppell that he met and married Nora Harrison on December 18, 1901.

Fate and Nora were active members of the First Baptist Church. Fate was ordained a minister in this church, and preached in a lot of the small churches in the area.

This ministering filled Mr. Ratliff's life so fully, he surrendered his life to this calling, hoping to attend seminary.

The Ratliff family had to make a very difficult decision. Providing for a wife and his first four children would be very difficult if he attended college full-time. The Lord provided, and he moved his family to Fort Worth. He enrolled in Southwestern Seminary. After intervals of study at Baylor and North Texas, he was awarded his Bachelor of Theology degree from Southwestern.

The first church he pastored was at Sanger. Rev. Ratliff later became county missionary for Denton County. He quickly received a reputation of being a builder of church facilities, also an avid, loyal worker.

In 1926, the First Baptist Church of Eldorado called Rev. Ratliff for pastor. He accepted this position and moved his wife and now seven children to Eldorado in 1927.

Bro. Ratliff was also pastor of the Bailey Ranch Baptist Church his first years in Eldorado. He held services once a month with dinner on the ground. These Bailey Ranch services under a "bush arbor" were remembered as a joy of spiritual blessings.

During the time of Bro. Ratliff's ministry, the new First Baptist Church building was built. The construction was built using mostly volunteer labor by early day church members.

On November 11, 1928, the first services were held in the new church. Bro. Ratliff's sermon was taken from this text: Luke 2:8-22. After the services, the first church dinner was served in the basement.

In 1931, Rev. Ratliff resigned his pastorate and went into business with his sons. In the following years he became very successful in the Department Store, Funeral Homes and Real Estate business. He served as Mayor of Eldorado during the memorable event of the grand opening of the Woolen Mills. Eldorado hosted 5,000 guests that day. Mr. Ratliff and Gov. "Poppy" Lee O'Daniels lead the parade in an open car.

Four of the Ratliff children graduated from Eldorado High School -- Glenn, Grace, Jack and Charles.

After Nora's death in 1944, Mr. Ratliff married Vernn Faulk. They maintained their home in Eldorado.

Bro. Ratliff never lost his zeal for administering to others, even after he resigned his pastorate. He continued to serve as interim pastor to many small churches, as long as his health allowed.

Bro. Ratliff died in 1966 in Eldorado. He was remembered by family and friends as a truly great and benevolent man.

Profile Of A Senior Citizen

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was printed in the Texas Mohair Weekly last week. We liked it and thought we would share it with our readers.

Take this test to see if you qualify?

A senior citizen is one who was here before the Pill and the Population Explosion. We were here before radio and of course television, penicillin, polio shots, antibiotics and frisbees. Before frozen food, nylon, dacron, Xerox, Kinsey, radar, fluorescent lights, credit cards, and ball point pens.

For us time sharing meant togetherness, not computers, a chip meant a piece of wood, hardware meant hard ware, and software wasn't even a word. Coeds never wore slacks.

We were before pantyhose, and drip-dry clothes, before ice makers and dishwashers, clothes dryers, freezers and electric blankets. Before Hawaii and Alaska became states. Before men wore long hair and earrings, and women wore tuxedos.

We were before Leonard Bernstein, yogurt, Ann Landers, plastic, the 40 hour week and the minimum wage. We got married first and then lived together. How quaint can one be?

Closets were for clothes, not for coming out of, bunnies were small rabbits and rabbits were not Volkswagens. We were before Grandma Moses and Frank Sinatra and cupsizing for bras.

Girls wore Peter Pan collars and thought cleavage was something butchers did and men used collar buttons to hold their collars on. We were before Batman, Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer, and Snoopy.

Before DDT, vitamin pills, disposable diapers, Q.E. One, Jeeps, The Jefferson Memorial and pizza, Cheerios, instant coffee, decaffeinated anything, and McDonald's were all unheard of. We thought fast food was what you did not eat during Lent.

We were before Boy George, J.D. Sallinger and Chiquita Banana. Before FM radios, tape recorders, electric typewriters, word processors, MUZAK, electronic music, disco-dancing-and that's not all bad!

In our day cigarette smoking was fashionable, grass was for mowing, Coke was a refreshing drink and pot was something you cooked in. If we'd been asked to explain CIA, MS., NATO, UFO, NFL, ERA, or IUD we'd have said alphabet soup. The bath tub was the big wash tub in the kitchen on Saturday.

We are today's SENIOR CITIZENS, a hardy bunch when you think of how OUR world has changed and of the adjustments WE had to make!

Applications Being Accepted For DPS Troopers

Applications for Texas State Trooper are now being accepted for the next trooper-trainee school, scheduled to begin on September 12, 1989.

"Our field recruitment personnel are informing interested persons about the professional and dependable nature of this state agency," according to Colonel Joe Milner, DPS Director. "The DPS has a national reputation of excellence in law enforcement, and we're looking for people who are good enough to help us maintain this tradition."

More than 100 applicants will be accepted for the 22-week trooper education program at the DPS Academy in Austin. A major part of the Department's recruiting goal is minority and female hiring.

"We earnestly seek qualified minority persons for employment with the DPS," Colonel Milner pointed out. "And, as in the past, we will do our best to start the recruit class with at least 40 percent minority enrollment."

Milner also indicated that his agency offers competitive salaries.

"The Texas Legislature recently authorized a five percent increase in salaries for state employees, including the commissioned and non-commissioned personnel of the DPS. This action will increase the pay for trooper-trainees to $1,622 per month.

"Also, our training does not end on the day of recruit graduation. Throughout the careers of our officers, we offer quality instruction in the DPS Academy to keep them at the top in their law enforcement profession," Colonel Milner noted.

The deadline for submitting an application for the next trooper-trainee school is Friday, July 28. Colonel Milner requested that interested persons contact the local state trooper during the business hours of Monday through Friday for additional information.

Study Shows Texas Spent Fewer Tax Dollars

State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced that a new study by his office shows that Texas collected and spent fewer tax dollars per person than any other state in 1987.

An agency analysis of census data reveals that Texas received $1,168 per capita in general revenue in 1987 and spent $1,148 per person -- in both cases, an amount about one-third less than the national average for all 50 states.

According to the study, Texas' total revenue collections per person are the lowest in the nation, largely because the state has no personal income tax.

"Our state government asks less from and basically gives less to each of its citizens than does any other state," said Bullock.

In all, the Comptroller's study indicates that, in 1987, Texas ranked:

- 50th among states in revenue collected per person;

- 50th in spending per person;

- 50th in per capita salary and wage expenditures;

- 49th in per capita welfare spending;

- 48th in health spending per person;

- 46th in per capita expenditures on interest for general debt;

- 37th in spending per person on corrections;

- 36th in per capita sales tax collections;

- 36th in spending per person on hospitals;

- 35th in highway

spending per person;

- 29th in per capita education spending; and

- 25th in per capita motor fuels tax collections.

"Some people would favor a higher level of taxes and spending while others favor a low level of taxes and services. I think these figures speak for themselves," Bullock said.

Census Bureau figures are based on total dollars paid by each state's citizens. The bureau counts some revenue sources, such as motor vehicle registration, as taxes, while others are counted as fees. For the Comptroller's analysis, all such revenues were considered taxes.

Highlights of the study are summarized in the June issue of "Fiscal Notes", a financial newsletter published by the Comptroller's office and available free by writing to: Bob Bullock, State Comptroller, Economic Analysis Center, P.O. Box 13528, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711-9831.

Something To Sing About

Amid the bad news about declining numbers of songbirds in North America, ornithologists are finding a bright spot. According to "National Wildlife" magazine, more than 20 varieties of songbirds seem to be expanding their ranges in this country.

Cardinals, house finches and American robins are among the birds whose home territory is growing. Researchers attribute the songbird spread to the dramatic increase in the number of Americans who put out bird feeders during the winter months.

Lamar Smith To Lead Task Force On Mexico

Congressman Lamar Smith has been appointed co-chairman of the Republican Research Committee's Task Force on Mexico. Rep. Jim Kolbe, an Arizona Republican, will serve as co-chairman with Smith.

The group will be the starting point for the development of Republican policy toward Mexico.

Members will focus on political and economic policy recommendations on issues that are of concern to both countries. Agenda items focus on Mexican/American trade but also include drug trafficking and immigration issues.

The globefish staves off predators by gulping a large quantity of water, till it becomes simply too large to be swallowed by its enemies.

"Mexico has become the third largest trading partner with the United States," said Smith. "Over the past year, our trade with Mexico climbed 25 percent. These facts require us to focus on policy issues of concern to both countries."

"The Mexican government is working diligently to improve its economy. We need only to look at the prospering maquiladoras and Mexico's desire to rid itself of foreign debt."

"The United States needs to be supportive of Mexican reform without stifling Mexican initiative," Smith said. "I want the Task Force on Mexico to help point the way to a clear, workable strategy that will lead us into the next century as trading partners with our neighbors to the south."

The task force is currently in its organizational stages, and the co-chairmen are working to recruit Republican Members of Congress into its ranks.

Smith, whose district shares a 200 mile border with Mexico, is also the Vice Chairman of the Immigration Subcommittee.
