Buchholz Named Outstanding Conservationist

The annual Schleicher County Game Dinner, sponsored by the Eldorado Game Association, was held Saturday, November 4, at the Ag Barn in Eldorado. It was reported there were over 400 in attendance. A meal of brisket and beans was served. KLST television personality Bill Watkins was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Douglas Buchholz received an award as the Outstanding Wildlife Conservationist of 1989.

After dinner a giant raffle was held. Over 80 prizes were presented to game dinner guests. These prizes include rifles, hunting supplies, equipment and services.

The dinner was reported to have been a huge success, with a larger crowd than last year.

"We appreciate everyone's help and all the support that the people here gave us," commented Carroll Green. "We received several donations and the support from the local businesses and individuals is greatly appreciated."

Deer Population Surveys Conducted In SC

Wildlife personnel with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently completed annual deer population surveys here in Schleicher County. The resulting population estimate, 63 deer per 1,000 acres or about 51,000 deer county wide, represents a decrease over last year's estimate.

This year in Schleicher County the deer season opened on Saturday, November 4, and runs through Sunday, January 7. The bag limit is the same as last year -- four deer, no more than two antlered bucks.

Most Schleicher County landowners are already aware that, as has been the case for several years now, doe permits or special doe tags will not be issued nor required to harvest antlerless deer here in the Edwards Plateau. Hunters will need only the appropriate tag off of their hunting license, and landowner permission, to bag doe or antlerless deer in Schleicher and the other "either-sex" counties this year.

After reviewing the results of the recent deer population surveys, local wildlife personnel are recommending that Schleicher County landowners located in the northwestern portion of the county try for a harvest of one doe or antlerless deer for every 300 acres and one buck for every 500 acres.

Those landowners in the southern and eastern portion of the county should try for a harvest of one doe for every 100 acres and one buck for every 250 acres. The recommended rates result from the need to better balance the sex ratio observed in the herd and from a desire to produce a healthier deer population that is properly matched to the existing supply of deer foods in the county.

These general harvest rates are based on county averages and may not be completely suitable for each individual ranch in the county. Landowners interested in closely managing their local deer herd need to conduct their own on-site fall population surveys, with resulting harvest recommendations that meet their specific management objectives.

Eagle Band Wins Regional Competition

The Eldorado Eagle band won the number one spot at Regional competition in Waco on Saturday, November 4. They will be going to State competition on Monday, November 13. Performance time is set for 8:39 a.m. at Westlake Stadium.

There were eight bands in the Class 2A competition with only two band advancing to State Prelims. Eldorado was selected as first and Marion was selected second.

The Band Booster Club would like to thank the parents, local businesses, the fire department, the sheriff's department and all the townspeople for the support given the Eagle Band. A great big thanks goes out to all those who welcomed the band home on Saturday, October 28, and again on Sunday, November 5. The reception was wonderful and the band students and the directors, Mike Marsh and Manuel San Luis, loved it. The combined support really means a lot of the band and its directors.

Life Among The Fishes

By Thomas Giovannitti

A few weeks ago I was somewhat less than sympathetic about the sorry state of "America's Team". Not to in anyway take away from the genuine humiliation of the two "J's" (Jones and Johnson), but yesterday evening another one of those events that make sports history occurred.

The lowly Dallas Cowboys beat the Washington Redskins. If ever there has been a team less deserving of fan loyalty it is the Washington Redskins.

Now my dislike for the Redskins has little to do with Cowboys or Indians. My dislike for this team has to do with a bird of prey. The Philadelphia Eagles was the nearest thing to a winning professional sports team when I was growing up in South Jersey (the southern part of New Jersey). The baseball Phillies were perennial cellar dwellers and the basketball 76'ers weren't much better. The Eagles, with Norm Van Brocklin as quarterback, were it. They had won the NFL championship the year before and were headed for a pretty good season that year when that Washington bunch burst Phillies bubble.

The Redskins had a pot-bellied quarterback, named Sonny Jergenson, who looked as if he never lifted a weight, practiced anything other than throwing the ball and never, never ran anywhere but straight back in the pocket. In fact, a few years later Sonny would play for those very same Eagles during their mediocre years, but that is another story.

Eagle fans got mad when their team lost to Y.A. Tittle and the New York Giants, but they were a respectable team and so the loss was at least tolerable.

But losing to those lowly Redskins was humiliating for the players and the fans.

Last night those Redskins got a taste of what it is like to lose, on their own turf, to what is, right now at least, the worst team in the National Football League. See there is poetic justice even in this life. Normally I couldn't care less if Dallas wins or loses. I was never much of a fan in their glory years and so it was not too difficult for me to watch them have such an abysmal year this year.

But last night's game, in which this terrible Dallas team, full of rookies, beat the "Hogs" at their own game, defense, was a real thrill. Now, if the Eagles could only beat both of them!

Hi-Tech Insulin Administration: A programmable implantable medication system (PIMS) proved effective for administering insulin to diabetics. The system consists of a disk-shaped reservoir that holds 10 ml of medication and a catheter.

The insulin is delivered in 2 microliter pulses at a rate programmed by the physician into the system. The patient also can trigger pulses after meals with an external transmitter held over the implanted pump.

The PIMS is implanted in a subcutaneous pocket created in the abdomen. The reservoir is refilled transcutaneously every two months. Investigators believe that insulin treatment with the PIMS is feasible for up to two years. (New England Journal of Medicine)

A Trip To Waco

By Danny Crowder

It all started early Saturday morning. I could faintly hear the voices of two teenage daughters complaining about one having the others makeup packed along with the others favorite clothes and such. Being 4:30 in the morning is not the best time for what mind I do have to be functioning very well.

My youngest turned on the light and said if I was going to make the trip I should hit the floor. After one pot of coffee and a few trials and tribulations, we arrived at the band hall ready to leave at 6 a.m.

Knowing that deer season opened that morning, James Mack made his kill before daylight using the front of the school suburban. After inspecting what was left of the front grill, we traveled on to Brady and San Saba.

Arriving at San Saba evidently someone forgot their road atlas. This error gave the band a round the courthouse tour of downtown San Saba. After making the right turn on the road to Goldwaite, one of the "yellow dogs" developed minor engine problems. After many observations and recommended cures, David Lloyd came to the rescue and the band was again on its way to Waco.

After arriving in Waco and watching many splendid bands perform, the thought in everyone's mind was the toughness of the competition.

Then the time came for the "Mean Green Band from Eldorado Land" to perform. Folks, that is just exactly what happened. Before a welcoming crowd of Eldorado supporters and many other band spectators, the group of young men and women turned in a fantastic performance.

This was accomplished with some rather unexpected circumstances. We did not know that the moment Eldorado marched onto the field that Mother Nature would attempt to "Blow dry" the astro turf at Baylor Stadium.

Perfectly placed flags all of a sudden were not too perfect. With Mr. March shaking his head, wondering what else might happen to discourage the spirit of a fine group of students, trying once again to reach the ultimate goal; here came the Band. Neither a beat was missed or a step out of line. Although we did find out that some of the girls in flags can reach a long way and never missed a step.

We also discovered that our flag captain can do a most convincing pantomime routine. It is hard I suppose to hold self-composure when the flag you are supposed to be twirling is 20 yards from your hands, laying on the ground in front of you. This should have been an inspiration to any of the up and coming future band members.

This was just one of the misfortunes, but Mrs. Marsh, with her bag of thread, needles, shoe polish and etc., made the other adjustments. Each member of the band that marched, being either eighth grade or senior, within a 10 minute period, showed themselves that they can compete with the "toughies" and pull it off.

They earned another trip to Austin. This is something that we can all be proud of. Eldorado pride did stand out when the buses made their way back into our city. Where and how did this group learn the confidence and composure that it took to be able to return to Austin with another opportunity of being able to say "#1 Band in the State".

Congratulations and thanks Mr. Marsh and Mr. San Luis. A proud Drummer's Dad, A Proud Flag's Dad P.S. Mr. Newman should get the spirit stick award for his Academy Award performance on the side of the road welcoming the band back Sunday.

Let us, then, be up and doing, With a heart for any fate; Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labor and to wait.

Editor's Clips

By Mary Jenkins

Good friend Carolyn Mayo brought an article by to me the other day. She told me about it a few days earlier and it sounded interesting. I told her I might put it in my "clip" some week.

The Kansas City Times printed this article in September, 1987. The author commented that he felt a little like Jack after he had planted the bean and found the great bean stalk growing in his garden. He said that Jack found giants at the top of the bean stalk while "I have found a world of kind and generous human-beings."

All I Ever Really Needed To Know I Learned In Kindergarten

By Robert Fulghum Seattle, Washington

"Most of what I really need to know about how to live, and what to do, and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

"These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you. Live a balanced life. Learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work every day some.

"Take a nap every afternoon. When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands, and stick together. Be aware of wonder. Remember the little seed in the plastic cup. The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows how or why, but we are all like that.

"Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the plastic cup -- they all die. So do we.

"And then remember the book about Dick and Jane and the first word you learned, the biggest word of all: LOOK. Everything you need to know is in there somewhere. The Golden Rule and love and basic sanitation. Ecology and politics and sane living.

Think of what a better world it would be if we all -- the whole world -- had cookies and milk about 3 o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankets for a nap. Or if we had a basic policy in our nation and other nations to always put things back where we found them and cleaned up our own messes. And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it is best to hold hands and stick together.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I apologize for not knowing your newspaper's name.

I did want to write and tell you what a great cheerleading team you have (in case you don't know already).

I had the pleasure of coming to your friendly town to watch my son play football.

I was impressed by the cheerleaders who came over to the visiting team's side (our side).

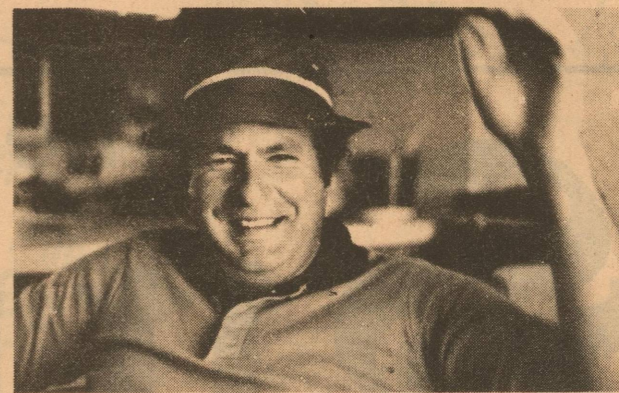

They introduced themselves and did a couple of cheers. This might have been difficult enough with our cheerleaders going over and getting your cheerleaders, but you see, we had no cheerleaders.

I was so proud of your girls I just wanted your town and their parents and their school to know we noticed.

Thank you. Ozona Lion Varsity Mom Nancy Davee

Laugh and Live

by Gary Smith

It's what you learn after you know it all that counts.

Heard a story about a daddy who was walking with his young son. The little boy said, "Dad, what is electricity?"

The father said, "Well, I don't really know. I never knew much about electricity. All I know about it is that it makes things run."

A little farther on the boy said, "Daddy, how does gasoline make automobiles go?"

The father answered, "Well, I don't know. I don't much about motors."

A little farther on the boy said, "Daddy, why is the grass green?"

And the daddy said, "Well, son, I don't know. I never studied that."

Finally the little boy said, "Gee dad, I hope you don't mind my asking so many questions."

"I don't mind at all son," said the father. "You go right ahead and ask. How else will you ever learn anything?"

It is really no big sin not to know everything. I don't even think you have to be real smart to be a good parent. As a matter of fact, it seems to me that the big problem comes in not what you know but in pretending to more than you really do.

Don't you thing this old world would be a better place to live if we all allowed other people freedom to have their own opinions? And wouldn't we all be just a little bit happier if we spent more time minding our own business and a little less time minding everybody else's?

'Til the next time...MAY GOD BLESS.

A Touch Of History

By Rene Calcote

The Schleicher County Historical Society received a special gift last week -- a book on the life of a famous native of Schleicher County, written by another famous Eldorado Ex.

The book, "Buck Bailey, The Making of a Legend", written by Weldon B. "Hoot" Gibson, was given to the Historical Society, personally autographed, by the author. It will be placed in the Schleicher County Museum.

The book gives a colorful view of the life of the famous Buck Bailey. His early years in Eldorado and Schleicher County with his family and friends are highlighted, including many photos taken during this period.

Buck Bailey is a "Legend" in the history of Washington State University where he coached for 35 years.

The author, "Hoot" Gibson, grew up in Schleicher County, an only child of Oscar and Susie Bailey Gibson.

Gibson related fond memories of his life in Schleicher County on the A.K. Bailey farm. The life was one of hard work, but good times with his family and friends.

Gibson states his only claim to "fame" as a Gibson in Schleicher County is having been a member of the championship Eagles football team in the autumn of 1933.

Gibson related that he was given a great educational opportunity when his "Uncle Buck" took him to Washington State College after graduating EHS, Buck was an assistant football coach at WSC during this period.

Gibson graduated WSU in 1938. He received his MBA in 1940 and his Ph.D. in 1950 from Stanford University. A colonel in World War II, Gibson served as Army Air Force Director of Material Requirements. In 1947, he helped to found Stanford Research Institute as Director of Economics and chairman of International Programs. Dr. Gibson became Senior Director of SRI in 1982 and Senior Director of Emeritus in 1988.

Among his honors, he is a Commander of the British Empire, a recipient of the U.S. Legion of Merit and was awarded the Indonesian government's Presidential Award. He is author of numerous books and articles, including "SRI: The Founding Years".

Dr. Gibson is active in WSU alumni affairs and is the Founding Chairman of WSU Foundation, an Endowed President's Associate and serves as co-chair of the Glenn Terrell Presidential Scholarship Committee.

NOTE: Anyone interested in purchasing this book should contact the Schleicher County Historical Society.

Another of the award recipients was Judge Thomas Phillips, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas.

Bill Hubble Downs Elk With Muzzle-Loader

The big Elk hunt was a huge success, according to Bill Hubble who went elk hunting in New Mexico recently during muzzle-loading season.

On the morning of October 20, Bill took out to the mountains just looking around. He was walking the fence line when he looked out about 50 yards and saw a cow grazing. It and another cow came around, sat there and stared at him for a while. After a while some more cows came up. "I guess they decided I was just part of the scenery. They walked right past me," said Bill.

A total of 18 cows and calves were crazing when a 6x5 bull came up. "The big bull jumped the fence and walked off right by where I sat," continued Bill.

The next morning, opening day of the season, Bill walked in the same area. He didn't see anything so he went on down a little further when he saw two cows. The story continues in Bill's own words:

"It rained the night before so that tracking was good. There were two sets of tracks so I began to follow them. About a half-mile further I looked off and saw five cows and a big bull. I broke into a run for about 75 yards and sat down.

"I picked an opening that the bull might come through, squeezed the trigger and hit him. I re-loaded the muzzle-loader, which took a little time. I took about 30 steps around the trees and there the bull lay next to the cedar trees.

"With the gun loaded, I squatted down and watched him for two minutes. Something caught my attention. When I looked up, the bull was coming up. I shot again and missed.

"I went back to the pickup. Two or three hours later I went back down with my son-in-law, David Moody, and trailed him. We jumped him again. We got behind a tree and my son-in-law shot and missed him. David gave me his gun, I shot and missed.

"I just knew I was going to lose the bull. We re-loaded and took after the bull. We trailed him into a canyon for a quarter of a mile and jumped him again."

"David shot him. We couldn't see him so I gave David my gun. The bull turned. David shot and hit him. The bull went down and died.

"We were 300 yards from the main road. That is when the work began. We drug him off the hill with horses and used a block and tackle to put it in the pickup."

According to Bill, the elk weighed around 900 to 1,000 pounds, dressed it weighed around 500 pounds. The antlers were 7x7, four feet high and 38 inches wide.

In a final comment, Bill stated, "This is the first one I ever killed and I sure am proud of him."

Hospital Auxiliary Holds Monthly Meeting

The Schleicher County Hospital Auxiliary held its monthly meeting Thursday morning in the lobby of the hospital.

In the business session a Thank You note was read from Mr. Goode, hospital administrator, thanking the auxiliary members for their help at the Health Fair.

The treasurer reported a donation from Delia Pina's sister, Alpha Scroggins, was receive and put as a benefit for the Meditation Room. A $25 Memorial had also been received in memory of Earl Cathey.

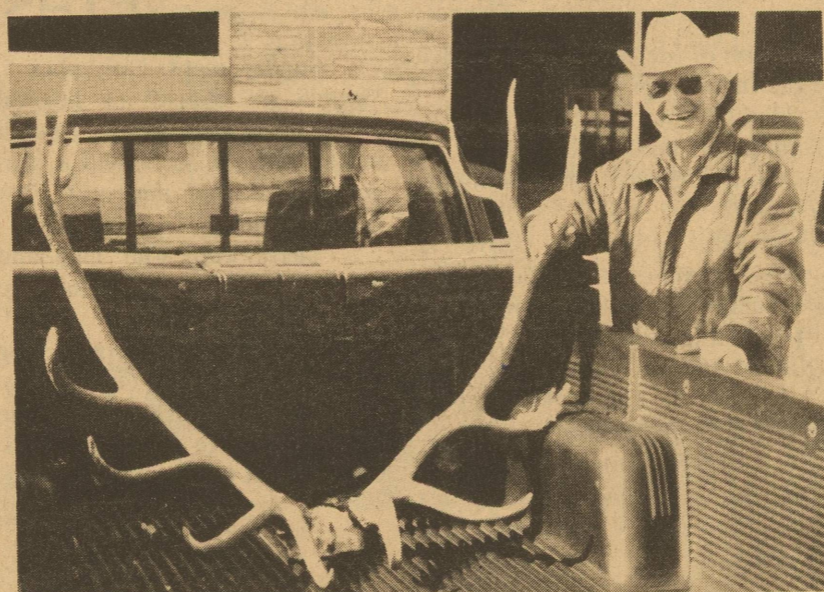

The Halloween Party for the hospital was a huge success according to those who attended.

The monthly Birthday Party will be held November 8, at 2 p.m.

Volunteers for the month were announced as follows: Volunteer for the Auxiliary, Willie Johnson; Employee of the Month, Charla Rae; Resident, Lori Price.

Lap robes and catheter covers are needed for the patients. If any individual can make some of these, they will be greatly appreciated.

The next meeting will be Christmas decorating time. All members are urged to be present as there are many places to be decorated. Help to make our Hospital a beautiful place!

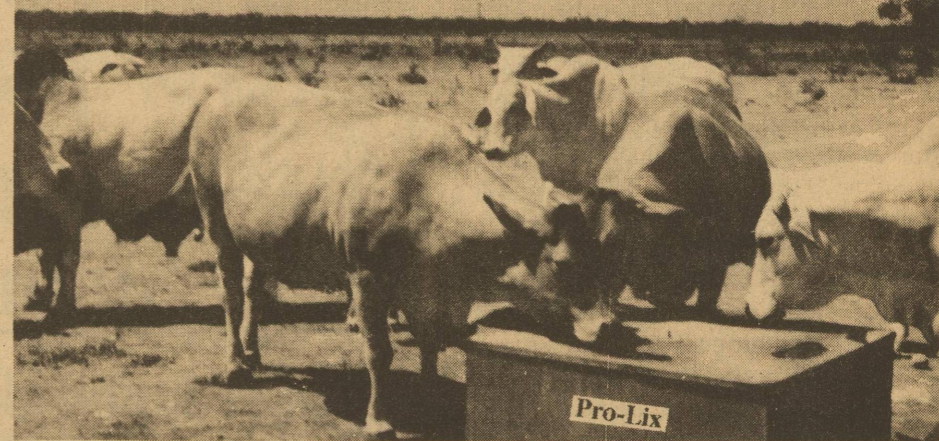

Bill Hubble is pictured here with the antlers from the elk he killed on a recent hunting trip to New Mexico.

Students Attend Theatre Productions

By Juanita Chavez
Senior At EHS

What began as a crack in the wall, enhanced by thunder and lightning bringing about the fall of a dreary house, ended with an unruly boy being returned to his parents with money paid by his captors.

These were the opening and closing scenes presented by Tour de Force, a chamber repertory theatre from Boston, the performance at the Lila Cockrell Theatre in San Antonio on Monday, October 30, was attended by the Seniors and Principal's A Team.

"They were superb," Dan Pfluger said. "I really appreciate the opportunity given to us."

All the plays were taken from well-known short stories. First was "The Fall of the House of Usher" by Edgar Allen Poe. The scene creates a mysterious aura between what is imaginary and what is real. A friend goes to visit the Usher family and is shocked at the deterioration of Roerick Usher. Poe leads his audience to believe that the life of the house is inseparable from the lives of the occupants.

"It was my favorite," Margaret Mejia said. "During its performance, my adrenalin started flowing rapidly."

Next was Ambrose Bierce's "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge". This story, set during the Civil War, concerns a man's escape from his captors just before he is to be hanged. At the end audiences gasp in surprise.

"The ending was very well done," Salvador Martinez said. "It fools you at first and then takes a 'gotcha' twist."

"The Mouse", by Saki, on a humorous note, tells the tale of a clumsy young man who shares a railroad compartment with a lady. He discovers that, before he boarded the train, a mouse had crawled into his trousers. He is faced with enduring the discomfort of embarrassing himself and the lady.

"The Most Dangerous Game", by Richard Connell, involves Zaroff, a big-game hunter who has grown bored with hunting animals who can't reason. The play pits Zaroff against Rainsford, a man who is accidentally marooned on Zaroff's island. Only by eluding the hunter for three days will Rainsford be allowed to leave.

"I love the way they had it staged," Louanne Crowder said. "It made the story really come to life."

In the final play, "The Ransom of Red Chief", O. Henry takes a humorous approach in this story about a kidnapping in which the kidnappers are beaten at their own game.

For some of the students, this was a first-time exposure to live theatre. Many seniors said it was particularly special because they enjoyed sharing one of the last highlights of school with all their classmates.

VIPS Program Works

The Volunteers In Public School (VIPS) Program has been in the Eldorado schools for several years now. The purpose of this program is to have individuals help out in the school system by aiding the teachers, and by doing so, become a little more in touch with the school.

Lilia is also a certified

Religious Education teacher in the Diocesan. She will be teaching the Adult Education ESL classes beginning this month and she also substitutes in the Eldorado schools.

She is a member of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church and is active with the CYO.

She enjoys reading, sewing, shopping and snow skiing.

In her volunteer work at the Eldorado schools, she works mainly with Mrs. Homer's Kindergarten. Since the beginning of October, she has volunteered 22.35 hours of her time to help the students.

Agape Assembly To Host Missionary Speaker

Rick Krist, missionary to Europe, will be speaking at the Agape Assembly of God Church on Wednesday, November 15, at 7 p.m., the Reverend Ken Otwell has announced.

"Church Planters", Rick Krist and wife Paula, have spent the last four years in San Jose, Costa Rica (seven months), and in Sevilla and Rota, Spain. During that time, they participated in crusade evangelism, planted a new church in Bellavista, Spain which they later pastored while simultaneously pastoring another Spanish congregation in Sevilla, Spain and an American Navy/Marine Church in Rota, Spain.

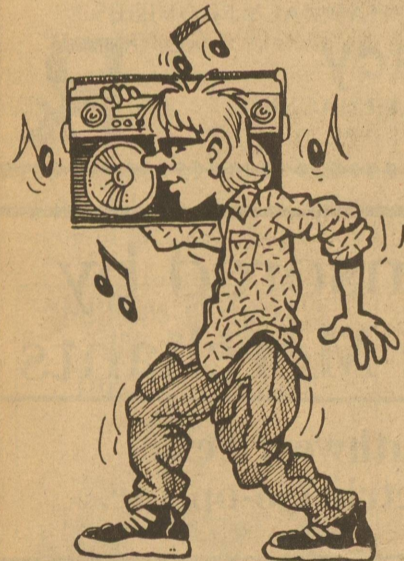

In addition to their overseas ministry, Rick and Paula pastored for nearly three years in Garland.

Prior to this time they attended Southwestern Assemblies of God College where in May on 1979 Rick received a Bachelor of Science degree in Christian Ministry.

As they prepare to work in Western Germany with the American Military personnel, Rick and Paula believe that this is one of the greatest mission fields in Europe and that God has given them a special ministry to meet the needs of our servicemen.

The Krist's are fully appointed missionaries of the Assemblies of God. Rick offers a message that helps confront today's problems through faith in God.

Whitetailed Deer Study Dispels Some Myths

Texas' most popular big game species, the whitetailed deer, may have as many myths surrounding his behavior as he does truths.

Dr. Steve Demarais, a Texas Tech researcher, said results of a four-year South Texas study he conducted using radio collared animals showed some more popular beliefs are sometimes only partly correct.

"The more I work with these animals, the more I realize they are highly unpredictable and difficult to pattern," said Demarais.

He said he did find many patterns of movement, however, that can prove helpful to hunters in their efforts to bag trophy deer.

Demarais spoke during a recent deer hunters workshop conducted here by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The researcher said cold fronts, for instance, are helpful in getting deer to move about. With the arrival of a cold front, movement is significantly greater than before the cold snap.

"This comes as no surprise because we have known that deer move best when there's a front coming through. The new information here is the day after a front is just as good for hunting as the day of the front."

Demarais said another relatively accepted previous fact about hunting was that deer don't move well when it's windy. "This was the case initially. Deer moved most when the wind was zero to four miles per hour and from five to nine miles per hour. Movement started declining when the wind exceeded 14 miles per hour," he said.

"We were somewhat surprised when it was really windy, say 20 miles per hour plus, to find the deer moved more than than at any other time," he said.

"This is a little difficult to explain from a biologist's standpoint. I think the deer may just get skittish. Deer are sight-and-sound-oriented in their defense. When the wind increases up to a point they bed down and hide.

When the wind increases above that point they get skittish and if a twig breaks they jump up and run."

What this means to hunters, according to Demarais, is deer are most predictable in their movement when the wind is calm.

"However, as a hunter, you might get a shot at a good buck on a very windy day when most other hunters have gone home," he said.

"A lot of people think a full moon makes for poor deer hunting because deer go out and feed at night," said Demarais.

"We found that deer activity definitely is influenced by the moon. Yes, the deer were out feeding at night, but they also were out during the day. So the hunter shouldn't worry about full moon periods affecting his day hunting," he said.

Demarais said deer move in the early morning and late evening. In summer, because of the heat, most deer are out only at night.

He said there are exceptions to all rules, and with the whitetailed deer, the big exception is the breeding season, more commonly dubbed the "rut".

"The rut is a crazy time for deer," said Demarais. "That craziness is what makes it such a good hunting time. The buck's activity pattern becomes disrupted during the breeding season and he stays active all day long."

Demarais said his study showed potential for late afternoon hunting.

"If you are serious about taking a trophy deer, don't hunt just for two or three hours of a morning. Go back to headquarters, eat lunch and take a nap; then go back to the blind for a later afternoon hunt. There's a lot of activity going on during that part of the day."

Gonzales, settled in 1925 by James Kerr, is the site of the largest number of episodes of the Texas Revolution. The town is home to the cannon that fired the first shot of the Revolution on October 2, 1835. The first battle flag of Texas depicts the cannon and the words, "Come and Take It," in response to Mexico's demands for its possession. Gonzales was the only town to come to the aid of the men of the Alamo. Three Texas armies were formed at this site. Today, Texans can visit a museum in Gonzales commemorating its role in the Texas Revolution.
