A combined meeting of the Eldorado Boys Scouts Troop 18 and the Cub Scouts and Webelos of Pack 18 was held at the Memorial Building Sunday, February 4. The opening flag ceremony was conducted by the Boy Scouts. Den One of the Cub Scouts led the other scouts in saying the Cub Scout Promise.

After the welcoming speech by Cubmaster Barbara Behrens, Den One, under the leadership of James Mack Holley, showed the projects which they have been working on. This included an Eagle made from wood to hold their achievements they earn during the year and a push mobile made by the Den.

Scouts in Den One include Chad Williams, Mack Holley, Chris Conatser, Luiz Martinez, Marcus Galvan and Jaime Robles.

Den Two, under the leadership of Den Leaders Shari Wink and Randy Mitchel, presented the entertainment with a skit.

Scouts in Den Two are Jess Martin, Lance Mitchel, Steve Valero, Joseph Wink, Chris Cover, Patrick Fuentes, Cory Lloyd, Larry Nicholson, Derek Stevenson and Shawn Wiseman.

Cub Scouts receiving their Bobcat Patch were: Chad Williams, Mack Holley, Chris Conatser, Jess Martin, Lance Mitchel, Steve Valero, Joseph Wink, Chris Cover, Patrick Fuentes, Cory Lloyd, Larry Nicholson, Derek Stevenson and Shawn Wiseman. The other Cub Scouts earned their Bobcat Patch last year.

Webelos and their awards earned were: Justin Behrens who received his Artist, Athlete and Physical Fitness Pins; and Jaime Jenkins who received his Citizen, Geologist, Naturalist, Outdoorsman and Showman Pins. He also earned the Arrow Of Light Award which is the highest award a boy can earn as a Webelo.

The Boy Scouts are led by Scoutmaster Weldon Jenkins and Assistant Scoutmaster Norman

Smith. Boy Scouts and the awards they earned were: Jason Whitten who won the Sports merit badge and the rank of Tenderfoot; Chuck Fitts who won the Sports merit badge; and Chris Jenkins who won the Personal Fitness and Sports merit badges.

Coach Rick Singleton helped the Boy Scouts in earning their Sports merit badges by serving as Sports Merit Badge Counselor.

Following the presentation of awards, Mrs. Behrens passed out Pine Wood Derby cars to the Cub Scouts. A Pine Wood Derby race will be held in the near future. There will also be an open race in which the general public may enter for a donation of $5.00. Car kits may be obtained from Barbara Behrens if anyone is interested in entering the open race. More details will be published later in the Success.

Den One Conducted the closing ceremony and refreshments were served by Den Two.

Basketball Season Draws To An End

7th Grade Girls

By Coach Sonny Dunlap

On Monday, February 5, the seventh grade girls played their final game of the season against Big Lake, and won 19-13. It was a pretty hard struggle. The girls played very well against a real aggressive team. They showed a lot of character and a lot of hustle, just like they have all year.

In the second game, against Big Lake, we won 5-2. The girls came back and played them pretty tough.

The girls playing for the seventh grade this year were Kimberly Williams, Ruby Gonzales, Ericka Schooley, Isis Pina, Jennifer Holguin, Jennifer Cheatham, Meagan Stephenson, Jodie Hooten, Shannon West, Lee Ann Lloyd, Christy Ramirez, Claudia Cardinas, Emily Olson, Amber Hamilton, Carmen Joy, Charlie Thoms, Tamera Robledo Courtney Triplett, Lindsey Fuessel, Dee Ann Lloyd, Mandy Belk, Catherina Gower and Jenny Wink.

These girls played hard for Eldorado all year long and were always hustling. All games accumulative, the girls won 15 games and lost 5 games.

7th Grade Boys

By Coach Larry Mitchell

On Monday, February 5, the Eldorado seventh grade boys played Big Lake. They were victorious, 33-22. This was the last ball game of the year.

In this ball game, they played very good basketball. We had a real hard time scoring points in the first half, especially the first quarter, but once we got cranked up and got going we played a good game. We had a 20-6 lead at half-time.

We had a big second quarter. Really what got us the big lead was that Travis Whitten made six free shots in a row during the second quarter, which really helped. All of the boys just played great throughout the year. I was very proud of them.

Those scoring were Pepper Nix with three, Eric McGinnes with six, Cody McCravey with four, Travis Whitten with ten, Reagan Bownds with eight and Will Thomerson with two. This made the seventh grade boys record for the year 8-2, with our only losses to Ozona.

I commend the boys for their play and I feel that if you got to see any of their games you could see that they had a good team and they played hard.

8th Grade Girls

By Coach Teresa Baker

We played the best team in the district, Big Lake, and played pretty good the whole game considering the team they had to play, but we still ended up losing by about 20 points. They went out and had a lot of fun and they tried to do what they were supposed to do and I was real pleased with them.

This was the last game of the season. I enjoyed working with these girls, they worked real hard most of the time and they did what I asked them to do. They will be an asset to the high school program, whatever area they decide to go into.

8th Grade Boys

By Coach Rick Singleton

On Monday, February 5, the eighth grade boys played their last game of the season against Big Lake and lost 36-26.

The boys finished the season real good, our record was 11-6. We had a lot of fun, and I am real proud of them.

J.V. Girls

By Coach Frankie Hardy

On Tuesday, January 30, we played Big Lake. We barely beat them the last time we played them, winning only by four points. We didn't play well, we threw bad passes and did not have a good night, but the girls kept their heads straight.

We were tied until the last few minutes and we won 31-27. We went into our stall game at the end, which I was real pleased with. We had been working on it and we did get to use it. The girls were real cool and were able to carry it out. We didn't do well on our free throws. We had 39% as compared with their 60%, and that could have been the difference in the game.

Lindy Hardy was high scorer with nine points, Stephanie Ledbetter had seven, and Roxanna Martinez had five, Angie McGregor and Whitney Fuessel each had four. Everybody contributed and it was a team effort. Even though we didn't play well, we won.

We played Forsan on Friday, February 2, and won 43-20. This was a fun game because everyone got to play a lot.

Stephanie Ledbetter had probably her best game of the

Life Among The Fishes

By Thomas Giovannitti

Obviously, a few weeks ago I did not have time to give all of the parental one-liners that can be used to keep your kids guessing. What with the cold war coming to an end, we'll have to deal more frequently with our children without giving the excuse that we're too busy.

I know I don't know all of the best "sayings", so if you have a few send them to me or to the paper. Be sure to send any explanation, and leave out the ones that include profanity.

My Mom's favorite saying, since there were so many of us and we often went in and out the door, was, "Close that door, you're letting the flies out!"

I always figured this was a good saying. It accomplished many things with the least amount of psychological harm. It immediately brought to our attention that we were opening the door too much but didn't make us feel guilty since my Mom obviously would prefer the flies to be "out". I don't know what the flies thought, since they seldom went out.

Another saying I have adopted is, "If it would-a had teeth it would-a bit you!" It seems my children can't find things they think they need even if the item is right out in the open somewhere. Inevitably the thing they are so desperately looking for is right under their noses (another saying that can be used in similar situations). I suppose some child psychologist would complain that such sarcasm might damage their little psyches. I, myself, think my children are much tougher mentally, and, anyway they don't even get the meaning until they are about six or seven.

The last "saying" I want to recommend is a "saying" that during the days of progressive child rearing (Doctor Spock and some of his cronies) was widely condemned. I recommend that parents cultivate the habit of responding to their children's inquiries about the purpose of activities demanded of them with, "Because I said so!" Many of us sixties parents felt we had to explain everything to our children. Well, I am here to tell you that is a waste of time and doesn't do much else than give your kid ammunition when, in fact, you don't have a very good articulated reason for making them do something.

I don't know about you, but now that I am a parent, I can see that many of the things my parents made me do for no apparent reason (pardon the pun) were for my own good. I still can't explain why to my children but I think they need to do some of the same things. "Because I said so!" is all the explanation they need unless, of course, you want to tell them it is "Good for what ails you!"

Blessed are the flexible for they shall not be bent out of shape.

Friend Bill Hodges has two barns full of things. On Tuesday, one of the things in one of Bill's barns was a skunk. Unbeknownst to me, Ol' Bill killed this creature right before I arrived. As I was standing in the barn, I noticed the skunk smell, said something to Bill about the way he smelled and he told me about killing the skunk.

When, I went home, my wife gagged and casually mentioned that I stunk.

I wanted to go to the Eldorado-Ozona ball game Tuesday night, but as I am campaigning for public office, I was afraid to go smelling like I did because I figured that the good folk of Schleicher County might not vote for a fellow who smelled like a skunk.

Martha Lee Meador told me about a dog she had that got sprayed by a skunk and the only way they could get the odor off of the dog was by giving it a bath in tomato juice.

I went home and got in the bath tub while Cathy went to the store for the juice.

Now, my daughter says that I look like the Pillsbury Doughboy. So as I was standing in the bath, covered with tomato sauce, I felt a lot like a giant ravioli.

It was harder to get that tomato sauce off of my body than it was to get the skunk smell off. I don't smell like a skunk any more. Now I smell like a pizza. By the end of the week, I guess I'll be smelling like rotten tomatoes. But, I suppose that's about normal for a politician.

I figure the people of the county are no more likely to vote for someone who smells like a pizza or rotten tomatoes than they are to vote for someone who smells like a skunk.

Ah, what the heck. You win some--- you lose some.

'Til the next time...MAY GOD BLESS.

Editor's Clips

By Mary Jenkins

Well I have heard of everything now. I read in the Standard Times last week about shopping carts equipped with video screens. That's right, video screens showing store specials and product information and ads and entertainment.

In most of the supermarkets where they have these new shopping carts, they also have the regular, plain carts. These new carts are not all over the country yet, just in certain larger areas where they are being tested.

The prediction is that within 10 years these carts will be standard in most grocery stores.

According to the article, there are sensors on the ceiling of each aisle. As the cart turns into an aisle, it automatically knows where it is and shows the specials on that particular aisle.

Press another button and a map of the store appears. It also has movie and video reviews, a seven day weather forecast and community and news items from local schools and organizations.

As customers approach the checkout lines, they can play on-screen trivia games.

An older customer who used one of the new carts remarked later that next time he would use a regular cart. He said that he reads the newspapers and reads the ads, that the screens are too difficult to read and should be adjustable for your height.

I consider myself a comparison shopper. No one likes to grocery shop with me because it takes anywhere from one to two hours to do my shopping. I compare prices, coupons and store specials, then I make my selection.

If I had a video screen on my grocery cart telling me of even more specials or sales, it probably would take me three or four hours to shop. By then all my frozen items would be melted.

I'm all for new technology, it makes life easier in a lot of ways. Before we know it, we will be able to get a grocery cart that you can sit down in and ride. Now that is my idea of technology. I wouldn't mind three or four hours in the grocery store if I didn't have to be on my feet all that time. But the more time I spend in the store, the more money I seem to spend.

Next thing we know, they will have entire movies on these video screens. I can just hear it now, "Mom, can we go buy groceries so I can see the latest Disney movie?" What an age we live in!

Pros and Cons of Daily Aspirin: Although daily aspirin has been advocated to reduce the risk of heart disease, a prospective study has shown that it may increase the risk of kidney cancer and ischemic heart disease.

Researchers at the University of Southern California surveyed 13,987 retired people about their aspirin use and general health. The increased risk of kidney cancer was significant only in men, there was an increase in colon cancer risk for both sexes combined, and the risk of ischemic heart disease was almost doubled in all aspirin takers.

A Touch Of History

By Rene Calcote

The following was written by O.K. Enochs in 1914 for the "Fur News Magazine".

Trapping on the Border of Texas

By Mr. O.K. Enochs
Fur News Magazine
July 1914

"As most all the letters published in our magazine are from the North I thought it might be of interest to some of your readers to hear from the faraway South. There is not so much game here now as there was before the "pale-faced man" laid his devastating hand upon them. Indeed, all the fur-bearing animals are fast disappearing; even the coyote, that at one time went in droves on the Texas border, are now very scarce. The State of Texas some two years ago appropriated $100,000 to assist the sheep men to exterminate the wolves, so they have disappeared like drifting snow in the sunshine.

"There never was much of a variety of fur-bearing animals in this part of Texas. The skunk is found in the greatest numbers, some wildcats, a few opossums, that is about the size of it. There are some coons and gray foxes farther west on the Pecos and Devil's Rivers.

"There are no laws in Texas to protect fur-bearing animals so they are slaughtered at all times of the year.

"I saw a nice narrow-striped skunk sold here this spring for 25 cents; if caught in the proper season it should have brought anywhere from $1.00 to $1.50. Of course we do not expect the fancy price your Northern furs bring; but when taken into consideration the splendid climate we have here one can afford to take less for their furs, as it costs less to catch them.

"Now I did not know there was another market in the Western hemisphere aside from St. Louis until I became the proud possessor of a copy of F.N.M., though I am now 53 years old and have skinned many a fur-bearer and been skinned by the "biggest and oldest" fur houses in the world.

"I was told by a man last year that I was not getting enough for my skunk hides from my local dealer. So I had a batch of hides on hand and I selected six of the best and sold the balance to my local dealer for $1.00 apiece and shipped these six best ones to one of the "largest" fur houses in the world. They sent me 70 cents apiece for them and deducted five per cent commission and 60 cents express charges, and then had the unmitigated gall to write me to ship in quick all the furs I had left on hand. Did I answer them? I should say I did! I would have said more, but was afraid Uncle Samuel would have me arrested for sending such hot letters through the mail. So this big house has my furs and I have some more experience.

"Now I will tell you what kind of an outfit I have to trap with. A good small wagon with grub box attached to back end of bed; two good, trusty Texas cow ponies; 75 No. 4 Hawley and Norton traps; a .30-30 square barrel rifle and a Remington automatic shell ejector shotgun. These guns have proven to be the best meat-getters I have ever tried, and I have tried almost all kinds. The 80 pair of deer horns that adorn the walls of our house will prove to the most skeptical the efficiency of the .30-30.

"As to drags as fastenings for traps I first used wire, but found that was eternally caught and twisted in the trap chains, and further, I found I could not always find something handy to tie to, so I discarded the wire and got me some double hooks, but found them so light that the smallest varmint would drag them so far it required the services of a dog to keep from losing both the trap and varmint it caught. So I discarded the hooks and use a No. 2 horseshoe fastened to the trap chain by bending ring in the end of chain and fastening securely in first nail hole in shoe and then wrapping hard with small wire just below calk. The job is done then; you can set anywhere without having to get close to brush or getting some kind of timber to tie your trap to. I dig a hole and put shoe under trap.

"To dig holes for my traps I use half of a pair of worn-out sheep shears; break the cutting edge off, grind the edge of the broken spring and you have the best digger ever made."

O.K. Enochs.

Susan Crippin To Direct Play

By Jo Ann Sproul

It is always good to have our young people come back home, even if it is only temporarily. Susan Crippin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Crippin, Jr., is attending Angelo State University and will be here through the summer.

She is an actress with an impressive list of accomplishments and is directing the Way Off Broadway Player's production of "Patio/Porch" to be presented February 16, 17 and 18. Not only are the players grateful to her for this service, but those of us working with her are also enjoying getting to know her in a personal way.

Susan has done film, television, commercials and theatre. Some of her theatre work includes such well-known plays as "The Moustrap", "A Christmas Carol", "South Pacific", and "Prisoner of Second Avenue". She has studied acting extensively as well as dance and voice/speech.

Susan says "Directing "Patio/Porch" is one way I can do something for this community."

I feel Eldorado should be proud of Susan and grateful to her for her help and involvement in our theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berry of Mesquite announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzette, to Michael Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Phillips of Eldorado. The couple plan a March 17 wedding in Dallas.

'Flour Babies' Implemented Into Parenting Class At EHS

It is not always an easy job -- taking care of a baby, that is. It is a full-time responsibility not to be taken lightly. The students in Mrs. McCravey's Parenting and Child Development class found this out recently.

The class was given a project in which the students made "Flour Babies". This project was an attempt to de-glamourize the "hassles" involved in teenage pregnancy.

Students involved in this project were Richard Adame, Juan Espinosa, Dan Pfluger, Jeff Patton, Michael Kotsch, Janelle Gamez, Martha Iglesias and Jennifer Williams.

The main purpose of this project was for the students to get some insight into the responsibility involved in being a parent.

This class was introduced into the curriculum at Eldorado High School last year. This is the first year to implement the flour babies. Students were given a set of instructions to follow. They were to keep the baby with them at all times. They could hire a babysitter for after school, but for no more than three hours per day and they had to pay the babysitter. They were not to leave the baby unattended at any time. They were allowed to lay the baby down during class or other school activities if it interfered with that class or activity.

The students were required to get up once during the night to check on their babies. They were told to take this project seriously and that it would be a 24-hour a day responsibility.

The babies were made from a five pound bag of flour. The students drew faces and put hair on them. They were taught how to put a diaper on and to dress the babies. Each student had to describe his/her own baby. Birth Certificates were filled out on each with the student naming his/her own baby.

Mrs. McCravey gave each student a new dilemma each day, such as a diaper rash and running a temperature. The student was to tell what caused this dilemma and what they would do about it.

Asked to comment on the class, Mrs. McCravey said, "This is probably one of my favorite classes. I have always liked child development. If I can reach one student then it is all worth it."

One student, Jennifer Williams, commented that she thought this class was "a good idea. All schools should do this. Teen pregnancy is everywhere, not just in the cities. Having a baby is a big responsibility."

As the week of the flour babies drew to a close, one student's baby was "kidnapped" from class. It seems that a student, or students, decided they would hide the baby for a little while, just for laughs, not realizing the consequences of what they had done. The parenting students were told that if they lost their baby it would be an automatic zero.

A civics class taught by Coach Chalmers has been studying courts and how they work. It was decided to use this kidnapping case as a court case for their class, with a judge, jury, eyewitnesses and lawyers.

Principal Ken Newman commented, "This is shameful. I can't believe that someone would steal another child on campus. But, this really could happen and does."

One parent, the father of the student whose baby was kidnapped, remarked, "I liked this idea. I thought it was a good thing. Responsibility is what they needed to learn. Now they have learned about kidnapping. I really got on my son's case about this."

In today's society, teen pregnancy is a major problem. Teens do not realize the responsibility that goes along with having a baby. This class is a big step in helping teens to realize this responsibility.

One of the major problems they had was trying to get their lockers open with books in one hand and their baby in the other.

Asked to take this project seriously, the students carried their babies to basketball games with their parents baby sitting. They even took them into restaurants.

This project counted as a major grade. The personal value of it was in direct proportion to what the students put into it. Over 200 students across the country are doing this project.

Mrs. McCravey concluded by saying, "The whole purpose of this project was for the students to see the responsibility involved in being a parent. That when given a responsibility, to take it and go through with it."

SC Historical Society Meets

The Schleicher County Historical Society met Monday, February 5. The meeting was called to order by Rene Calcote. Ethel Etheredge read the minutes of the last meeting.

Those in attendance were Ruth Harper, Isabella McCutcheon, Ola Ruth Barbee, Bell Neff, Ethel Etheredge and Rene Calcote.

Discussion was held on insurance, keeping the museum open, and having coffee and viewing the museum two hours a day during the summer.

A discussion was held on ways to make money for the historical society. Motion was made to buy a VCR and sell tickets in the coming months.

A letter was presented to the historical society from Nancy Holt Hughes in which she said:

"I hope these materials will be an addition to the Schleicher County Museum. I cherish them, but I realize they will be of more use there, than in my files. If I find more, in my sorting, I'll send them to you."

Ms. Hughes donated photos and letters to the museum. A public display of the items will be held at a later date.

season and scored more points than anyone has scored yet on the J.V. team with 13 points, Lesa Romero had a good night with nine points, Lindy Hardy had six and the rest of the points were pretty evenly distributed.

J.V. Boys

By Coach Matt Chalmers
On Friday, February 2, we played at Forsan and were beaten in overtime 40-39. Cy Griffin had 20 points, Jesse Vasquez had 11 and Travis Shaw had 8.

We played pretty well in the first three quarters, and in the last quarter we turned frigid from the floor and just flat could not buy a basket. With about two minutes to go, we came down the floor and I counted six shots we took within ten feet of the basket and none of them went in. We got down there to the very end and just could not put one in the hole. That's really what killed us.

This was an overtime game and the kids played hard and played well, but in the last half of the last quarter our shooting killed us. At that point we were ahead by 4 or 5 points and if we could have just scored another four or five points we would have been O.K., but we went the last part of the game and didn't score any points.

Friday we close out the season with Stanton at home, if they come down and play. They have had a lot of kids quit their team and the coach said that if any more quit, then they might not come down here.

The kids have played well all year long and have showed a lot of improvement and I have really enjoyed working with this bunch because they have come so far. They had a long way to go but they have made the most of the trip. They have played well and hustled well all year long and I am real proud to have been a part of them.

Varsity Girls

By Coach Bobby Helmers
Tuesday, January 30, we played Big Lake there. Big Lake was second in the first half of district with one loss. They had four wins and one loss. That one loss was in coming to Eldorado. They were the runner-up team in the first half and played really well in Big Lake.

The girls did not play as well as we hoped they would play but we still ended up winning 31-29 in a really hard-fought game over Big Lake.

In the scoring column, Katie Hardy led with 15 points, Ginger Sterling had five, Claudia Martinez had four, Kris Aguerro had four, Carrie Sauer had two and Dena Lloyd had one.

This got us back in the win column after defeat to McCamey on Saturday night, February 4. It was a really hard-fought game because Big Lake is the second place team in the first half of district and they are hard to beat on their home court especially.

Friday night, February 2, we went to Forsan. Forsan has a real balanced type group of female athletes and we had an awful hard time with them. It was a close ball game all the way through and we ended up losing it 41-40.

We had a number of opportunities to win the ball game, primarily in the last two or three minutes, and could not seem to capitalize on any of the opportunities that we had.

In the scoring category, Katie Hardy led with 25, Claudia Martinez had five, Kris Aguerro, Dena Lloyd, Ginger Sterling, Adrianna Martinez and Tenina Gonzales each had two points for a total of 40 points. Like I said, unfortunately, Forsan had 41 points.

Varsity Boys

By Coach Greg Cleveland
We played the Big Lake Owls on Tuesday, January 30, there and won 65-47. This was probably, overall, our best game of the year. We played great defense, we executed very well offensively, and consequently we won by a number of points.

Jeff Patton led the scoring with 27 points and Michael Kotsch was next with 14. The key to the game was that Robert Martinez came off the bench and played very well defensively and shut down their good point guard, Robert Subia.

The most pleasing aspect of the whole game was that we passed the ball unselfishly, as we have all year long.

This game put us 2-0 in district in the second half and sent us on our way to play Forsan on Friday, February 2. The final score was 60-49, our favor. This game was very unemotional. I was very apprehensive going over there, not the fact that we were going to get beat, but that we wouldn't play well because we had played two good games in a row. It was a long bus ride and against a team that we had already beaten very badly.

Michael Kotsch led the scoring with 17 points, Jeff Patton had 16 and Robert Martinez had 10.

Our shooting the whole game was horrible. Our perimeter players couldn't get the shots to go in, so we finally ended up going to a high-low game and feeding the ball inside to Jeff and Mike the whole game, and they responded. We pulled away towards the end.

Forsan does a good job, but they are competing with a small number of players in a tough district. This puts us 3-0, which is where we were in the first half of district and ended up losing the last two games, but I fully expect us to win our next two games and go far in the play-offs.
