

GOP's To Seek More Liberal Leadership?

Speculation Started By Retirement Of Snell

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Attempts to liberalize the house republican leadership in the 1939 congress appeared probable today as a result of the retirement of Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell.

Not A Candidate

Snell, outspoken critic of Roosevelt policies, announced he would not be a candidate for reelection. After 24 years in congress, he said, he had decided to devote himself to his varied business interests in northern New York.

Politicians, speculating as to Snell's successor, recalled the efforts made in 1936 by Representative Fish (R-N.Y.) to replace him with a leader favoring a "more progressive" program. The insurgent movement, however, was unsuccessful.

Among the few congressmen still in Washington, the first name generally mentioned for Snell's post was that of Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, assistant minority leader. He is 53; Snell is 67.

Friends of Martin asserted his political viewpoint was liberal enough to satisfy all factions of the party. They noted that while he opposed many Roosevelt measures, he supported much of the president's social legislation, including the wage-hour bill signed Saturday by the president.

Martin, a newspaper publisher at North Attleboro, Mass., began his political career in the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1912. He came to congress in 1924.

A run without benefit of a hit in the ninth frame gave the Lubbock Hubbers a 5-4 victory over the Big Spring Barons Monday afternoon at Barton park...

Bobby Hillin, who proved to be one of the big guns of the opposition, stroled in leading off in that stanza as Pat Stasey failed to find the plate...

The Barons had been very much in the ball game all the way. They outhit the visitors, 10-9, and led the score on three different occasions...

Malcolm Stevens, second leading hitter of the loop, put the Hubbers in the lead in the first frame when he hit a "can of corn" into right field...

Untied and Redded Lubbock promptly came back to town and untied the count when Stevens raced across on successive hits by Carr and Watkins.

That lead was short lived. After Decker and Hobson had been retired on a double play, Granly hit Sweet on the shoulder with a pitched ball...

Taylor and Watkins collaborated with Hicks in the eighth to send Lubbock back into the lead only to have Hank Henderson's circuit clutch over the right field wall even matters again.

Johnny Soden was scheduled to go out today to try and stop the league leaders' big bats while Willard Ramadell, new moundsman, was to get Wednesday's call...

(Political Advertising) Paid For By EDWARD ADVERTISING CLUB M. S. GOLDMAN, Chairman

By DAVE CHEAVENS DALLAS, June 28 (AP)—If you want to draw a sour look from a fisherman almost anywhere in Texas these days, ask him how they are biting.

You'll be lucky to get off without being bit yourself. One angler who had hung himself in the ear with a mess of hooks from an awkwardly-thrown plug at a lake near here last weekend was heard to remark, "aw, heck, it doesn't matter anyway. It's the first blood I've drawn all season."

Not all of them have fallen to that depth, but the truth is the fishing—in fresh water—has been universally off since May 1. Everybody has a reason for it, but nobody a solution.

One astute angler, who also peddles artificial bait for a living, offered the opinion there has been so much high water that the fish aren't where they are supposed to be.

"It's like this," he explained. "The lakes are all high, and the fish are there in the vegetation which was once along the banks. Not only are they hard to get to, but they don't care just a lot whether they strike or not because they are getting plenty to eat."

He tried fishing this water with super-weedless baits and had some success with bass. But his string would have been submerged last year or the year before that.

Most fishermen will blame the wind. That's handy in Texas, because it's almost blowing somewhere and ruffling up the lakes. High winds and frequent rains definitely have kept most waters murky except in small lakes which drain from grass pastures.

It's from water of this type that the good bass we've heard about have come. There was a ten-pounder from near Temple, an eight-pounder from a mossy old hole near Athens which every year gives up a few bull bass.

So far as crappie are concerned, this department has retired until the first northern. The slabsides are out now where nothing short of a depth-bomb could get them. Cool weather—say about Oct. 15—will bring them within reach of pole-and-line fishermen.

What it takes to catch crappie is a nasty, rainy day, cold, with the wind in the northwest and water pouring down your neck between hat and slicker. If you can stay with them under those circumstances, they will stay with you.

Meanwhile, the always dependable bream has shaken his spring lethargy and is waiting with open mouth and empty stomach. Catfish are just as hungry in the late days of June as they are in May. Dig yourself a can of worms and forget about bass.

Bunny Austin Say He Thru Distinguished Net Star May Get Into Net Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 28 (AP)—Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, for ten years Britain's model of classical tennis, may end his distinguished career on the center court tomorrow.

When this Wimbledon tourney is done, Bunny has indicated he will have no more of it. And this Wimbledon may be gone for Bunny after tomorrow's semi-final against Henner Henkel of Germany.

Ever since 1929, Austin has been in Wimbledon's last night. Five times in this stretch—1929, 1932, 1936, 1937 and this year—he reached the semi-finals. Once—in 1932—he reached the final.

And now Bunny, having seen the rise and fall of Britain's tennis fortunes in this time, is ready to give up.

Austin is favored to beat Henkel. Bunny is seeded second in this tournament and the German fourth.

In any case it's a case of "lose today or lose to Don Budge Friday" and Bunny certainly will have the support of the crowd in his final stand.

MARSHALL AND LINERS COP By the Associated Press Marshall widened its leadership of the East Texas league last night, opening a four-day stand at home with a heavy-clouting, 13-3 massacre of the cellarite Palestine Pala.

Second place Texarkana got runs in bunches to defeat Tyler 8-3. Kilgore's first baseman Frank Green doubled with the bases loaded in the eighth to give the Rangers a 6-2 victory over Jacksonville, and Longview's losing streak continued as the Cannibals dropped their tenth straight, Henderson winning 6-1.

Directors of the Palestine club hoped in last place, threatened after a meeting last night to withdraw the club from the league unless the league reconsiders its recent decision not to split the season.

MAJOR LEAGUE ATTENDANCE MARK MAY BE ESTABLISHED By SID FEEDER Associated Press Sports Writer Major league magnates, those kindly souls who are in the game for the pure fun of the thing, with no thought of profit, are rubbing their hands in glee over the wacky way the current pennant races are unfolding.

While the "experts" just sit around and moan, looking for answers to the merry-go-rounds in both leagues, the moguls joyfully contemplate the huge pieces of pie they're going to slice for themselves if the thing keeps up.

The totally unexpected surge of the Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds in their respective leagues, together with the non-too-secure picture presented by both defending pennant-holders, had the turnstiles clicking at a tune indicating a possible all-time attendance high this season.

KELLEY MAKES GOOD IN NEW SEN CHANCE WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—Clark C. Griffith smiled today when he reflected on his decision last spring to give Harry Kelley, 32-year-old pitcher, another chance.

Early in the season, Harry was adjudged through as a big leaguer by the Philadelphia Athletics.

"How would you like to have Kelley?" President Griffith of the Washington Senators asked Manager Bucky Harris.

"Fine," said Harris, "I think he deserves another chance." Washington bought Kelley from the A's. Worried over the health of his young son, Harry came to the Senators overweight and despairing of his baseball future.

Harris used him in relief roles and the opposing batters used Kelley chiefly to fatten their hitting averages. Fans moaned at the mention of his name.

Bucky and Griffith didn't give up. Neither did Harry. He worked harder than any man on the team and shed 20 pounds.

"I'm going to start you, Harry," said Bucky last week in Chicago. "I think you can do it."

Harry did hurling a shutout against the White Sox. In St. Louis Sunday, Harris gave him another chance. Harry came through again, allowing the Browns but a single run.

"That's one run in his last 18 innings," beamed the Old Fox. "Yes, sir, I think Harry deserves another chance."

Question Mark BOSTON, June 28 (AP)—New England's unpredictable weather today threatened the racing duel for which the nation's fans have long waited—Seabiscuit vs. War Admiral in tomorrow's $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

After 48 hours of continuous, driving rain had turned the track into a mass of mud and water—and more rain was predicted for today—C. S. Howard asserted that "if we get a heavy, sticky track, we will have to think it over."

Raquel Moch New Fems' Net Champ HOUSTON, June 28 (AP)—A diminutive 25-year-old girl of French descent, Raquel Moch, bounded through a three-set match against her fellow-townswan, Lolly Villarelo of Mexico City, here yesterday for a 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory in finals of the Texas state women's tennis tournament.

Miss Moch, a newspaper writer, played with a serve which brought her to victory after she had dropped the first set. Her victim, Miss Villarelo, is the No. 1 ranking woman player in Mexico.

Dallas Beats Shippers, 5-4

By the Associated Press Tulsa tightened its hold on the top of the Texas League last night, while runner-up Oklahoma City lost by a one-run margin.

By a closing spurt to eke out an 8-7 win over the Houston Buffs the Oilers squared their series with the southern division club. Both teams used three hurlers each.

San Antonio climbed into third place, displacing Beaumont, by shutting out Fort Worth 5-0, while Dallas beat the Vinsent-men 6-4.

The lowly Shreveport Sports supported stellar work by their hurler, Bob Combs, to down Oklahoma City Indians 2-1.

Tony Governor's potent bat paced the Dallas Steers to their humbling of the Exporters.

ABILENE WINS OKLAHOMA CITY, June 28 (AP) Joe Bradley, unseeded Tulsa youngster, led the way into the third round of men's singles play in the Arkansas Valley tennis tournament today after upsetting George Counts of Frederick, Okla., seeded No. 8, by a score of 6-2, 6-4, 6-5, in the only second-round match yesterday.

Results of yesterday's first round matches included: Men's singles, Maurice Fincher Abilene, defeated Crawford Bennett, Jr., Oklahoma City, 6-4, 8-4, 6-4.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover WASHINGTON — Every year seats of college boys skip into Washington to present a nice front for the government when the tourists move in, and it always amazes and delights them to have to take an oath to uphold the Constitution.

Even more of them get jobs as guides and bonfire lecturers in the national parks and various historic spots. These also have to swear (or affirm) to uphold the Constitution while they tell dusty tourists about the difference between igneous (heatborn) rocks and common sandstone

Although several hundred college boys get these jobs and take these oaths and draw pay checks which, while not large, amount to a sort of government scholarship, since the boys use the money to buy books, corsages, a noggin of ale and other ingredients of a modern education.

Strange things happen, and one arises in connection with the death of Senator Copeland of New York. At the time of the sudden death last year of Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas a sort of gloom settled over the Senate chamber because he, like Copeland, died evidently as a result of the intense pressure on members of Congress during debates over great issues or when masses of business pile up.

These are the days of migrating turtles in Washington and no seasoned resident is especially alarmed when he goes to the front door and finds a little shellback nuzzling about the butter left by the dairyman.

Now, let's take the case of Joe. Joe's our guinea pig for today. Joe went to the gym and stripped; he had a couple trainers beat the dickens out of him, chase him till he had spots before his eyes, salt him down, cram him into a steam vat, and then dunk him into an icy pool.

"Strutt said they expected trouble," the officer said. "They don't seem to know just what kind, but they expected it. They had the place all armed and fortified. Under those circumstances, how did anyone get here without being seen? And why did Strutt unlock the garage and go in? He must have, too. The garage key is on the same ring with the car keys that were in the roadster, and they tell me that no one else had a key to this garage. Seems there'd been a bit of trouble with the servants swiping the roadster for their joy rides, and that's why it was here all by itself. What was the idea, Ascy?"

"No one knows any opinion," Ascy said wearily. "It's my opinion that the servants was fed up with this armin' an' fortifyin', and that except for the two at the driveway gates, no one was doin' any guardin' at all. I've got some pretty good evidence that the rest was mostly occupied with crap games an' field day in the basement. It was gettin' dark when Roddy disappeared. Someone could have sneaked along the shore all right, without bein' seen. I can't find out why Roddy come here."

"Date, maybe?" Lane suggested. "He had every opportunity to make dates," Ascy said. "He's been phoin' people right an' left all day, an' they been phoin' him. Carveth put his foot down on a couple of parties Roddy'd planned here for today, but you can't tell how many other dates he might have made."

"What were the motives?" Mrs. Carr asked. "Roddy an' Marina," Ascy said, "sort of inspired motives. The place is littered with reasons for people to kill 'em."

"You think it was some nice person who killed Marina and Roddy?" Mrs. Carr asked anxiously. "Oh, dear, I thought it would be someone—well, not with a beard, and teeth missing, but someone—"

Agreement On Unemployed Payments

States Cooperate To Give Worker Full Compensation
Under a plan just adopted by 37 states, the worker who goes from a job in one state to work in another state—or in several other states—may draw any out-of-work benefits he has earned in any state where he loses his job. He need not go back to each state where he worked in order to establish his claim.
This announcement, issued by the social security board, explains that the 37 states that have agreed on this plan are proceeding at once to set up the machinery to put it into effect. The agreement was worked out by the Interstate Conference of Unemployed Compensation Agencies, which was organized to consider the interstate problems that arise in administering unemployment insurance laws.
To workers this agreement will mean, for example, something like this:
A man on an insured job in Alabama, say, may go to another job in Maryland, and then to a third job in Texas. While he is in Texas he is laid off. If he has the necessary wage credits in Alabama and in Maryland to make him eligible to out-of-work benefits under the law of each of those states, the Texas unemployment insurance agency will handle his claim with the other "habitable" states—after first paying whatever may be due him under the Texas law. To bring this about the worker files his claim at the nearest state employment office in Texas, the state where he lost his job. Even if no benefits are due him from Texas, the claim will be handled for him by the Texas unemployment insurance agency.
Without the interstate agreement, the Social Security board explains, this man would have had to go back to Alabama, and then to Maryland, to collect any benefits due him in those states. Under the agreement, he will have to meet the requirements of each state law—as to waiting period, for example—but he need not forget any earned benefits or incur any expense because of the distance of his last job from the others.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams and son returned Monday from El Dorado, Ark., where they have been visiting.
Mrs. Gene Scott and son, Bobby, left for a ten-day visit in Fort Worth and Dallas Monday.
Miss Maxine Hoffman of Fort Worth returned to her home Monday after a visit with Mrs. A. F. Davis.

Seek Higher Cotton Rate Farmers, Shippers And Co-Ops Oppose R. R. Request DALLAS, June 28 (AP)—In the face of opposition from shipping, compress and co-operative farm interests, the fight of Texas railroads for increased rates on cotton got under way here today. The railroads were seeking approximately $250,000 additional revenue which the proposed increase would provide this coming cotton season. The increase would amount to 1 cent a pound on bales of 75 miles for less; 2 cents between 75 and 110 miles, and 3 cents over 110 miles, the increases to absorb previously granted raises since 1937. L. E. Estes, manager of the American Cotton Co-operative association at New Orleans, was among the first witnesses. He declared he represented 100,000 farmers and that every toll levied against a bale of cotton in getting it from the farm to the consuming centers is deducted from the price the producer gets. Examiner C. R. McNamee of the Texas railroad commission is conducting the hearing.
