Living Wills

Steve Goode

By now, probably most people have at least heard of Living Wills. A living will is a legal document which one writes (has an attorney to write) while one is still healthy, stating what he/she would want done in the event of terminal illness. Patients who are in a coma or suffering from a stroke are usually not considered to be terminally ill. This means a Living Will may not apply. If you have definite ideas on how you want to be treated in case of a coma, stroke, or other condition which could leave you unable to speak for yourself, here is what to do: Find someone you trust and make them aware of your preferences/desires. Then have your attorney to write a  durable power of attorney for health care. This will give the person you have selected the authority to make decisions in your behalf, even if your condition is not terminal. This is the best method available for you to be sure that what is done to you, when you are unable to speak for yourself, is what you would want done. But remember, no method is perfect.

culous cake" along comes all self-appointed "Henryetta housewife" type, military experts who don't know the difference between a grenade launcher and a ration can. Demonstrating beside government buildings and generally making "donkeys" of themselves!

As a member of the "silent majority" I can no longer remain silent, and I encourage anyone else in this group to come very "un-silent" the proper way: by writing to your elected representatives in the Federal Government and your newspaper editors.

(1) Let them know you're proud of to be a citizen of the greatest Country in the World, United States of America.

(2) Let them know that the United States is far, far from perfect but it is still miles and years ahead of whatever country is in second place. It is worth fighting for, and yes, if necessary, die for.

(3) Let them know "peace at any price" is not peace at all!

(4) Let them know that you would expect the authorities; city, county, state, or federal to evict immediately any "thug" or group of "thugs" that kicked down the front door to your home and told you, at gunpoint, to get out. (That is exactly what Saddam Hussein has done to the Kuwaiti people!)

(5) Let them know that there is a whole lot more at stake in the Persian Gulf Crisis than just oil. (Contrary to what the "self-appointed Henryetta housewife military experts say!")

Last, but not least: When you see a "spontaneous" Conscientious objector, be sure to look at him as he walks away. Even the "socially acceptable (?) title of conscientious objector cannot camouflage that wide yellow streak that runs down the back of every coward!

Library Update

by Jerri Whitten

Relax after the holidays by curling up with a good book from the library. Several new books have just been put on the shelves:

"Friday Night Lights" a town, a team, and a dream. Odessa is the setting for this book but it could be anyplace where on a Friday night stadium lights rise to the heavens. Its High School football in a Texas town.

"Dazzle" --Judith Kranz's new book is large print and standard.

"Longshot" for all the Dick Francis fans.

"Rabbit at Rest" John Updike's newest and #10 on the best seller list.

"The Plains of Passage" sequel to Clan of the Cave Bear and #1 on the best seller list.

"Under Siege" by Steven Coonts. (If you haven't been reading in a while we have all of Coonts latest books for Good Reading!)

Charles Givens has a new best seller out. "Financial Self Defense: How to Stop Getting Taken and Start Making Money" May be a good book to study since IRS Forms have started arriving at the Library.

Looking to 1991 W.E.B. Griffin's Battleground will be out in January and has already been promised to the Library as a birthday book.

Danielle Steel has a new one in February. "The Blue Bedroom" by Rosamund Pilcher a January release. Plan for a year of good reading in both new books and some of the very good older books.

YEW we ARE moving but not until summer. Remodeling takes time and so does new shelving. We just look forward to the move whenever!!

We will be closed Monday, December 24th, Tuesday, December 25th and Tuesday, January 1st.

Life Among The Fishes

by Thomas Giovannitti

Last Tuesday night the three lowest grades, kinder through second, put on their Christmas program. It drew a standing room only crowd. The grammar school gym was packed to the rafters and even a few of the older children, no doubt brought to see their younger siblings shine, had to sit on the gym floor out of camera range.

The array of video cameras paid tribute to the fact that the pre-eight year olds hold the heart and purse strings of many of us. I am sure these little kids were glad it was the Christmas program so they wouldn't have to dress as a turnip or carrot.

The theme was that of a western Christmas complete with cowboys and girls and some country Christmas prelude music. We, the audience were packed in pretty tightly with little room for error. There wasn't an inattentive person there but there were none more attentive than the Grandmothers. As it happened I was seated among several of these fine ladies, including my own child's, and learned a lesson or two in pride of relationship. As the children filed in each Grandmother, bifocals lowered began to search the line of entertainers locating their heirs.

It never ceases to amaze me that, although the child that bore this wonder called a grandchild could never seem to do much of anything right, that this offspring of that same child can't seem to do anything wrong! Talent and good behavior must be generation skipping.

The show was in all things thoroughly entertaining, with Mrs. Parker and the classroom teachers having the good sense to insure that every child one time or another was prominently featured, thus allowing even the shyest of grandmothers to have her moment to brag. In all, this little program was for the grandmothers in the audience the best of all Christmas presents.

Laugh and Live

by Gary Smith

In his book Kids Say the Darndest Things, Art Linkletter asks a little girl, "What do you want to be when you grow up?"

The little girl says, "An actress."

"All right," said Linkletter, "Let's act out a scene together: Will you marry me and drive away into the sunset in my big, beautiful, new car?"

And the little girl said, "No. I get car sick."

There are many things that make us sick. And sometimes acting is difficult.

When we feel bad, it is hard to act happy.

When we feel abused, it is hard to act like everything is O.K.

When we feel like someone has slighted us, it is hard to act like it just doesn't matter.

When we see hatred in the world, it is hard to act joyously.

It is my Christmas Prayer, for me and for you, that we can have the courage to act authentically. It is my prayer that the things that make us sick will not make us cold, hard and bitter.

TEXAS AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

County Agents Report

by Jerry Swift, County Extension Agent - Schleicher County Pecan Quality Limited by

Several Factors

Pecans are among the tastiest of nuts, but the grower faces some real problems maintaining the equality of the nut meat.

Dr. John Lipe, Extension Service horticulturist, said that insects and drought are the major problems that limit quality, but disease and inferior varieties are also culprits.

Often a small one-eighth inch diameter hole appears in the shell of a pecan. These holes are caused by "redheads," creamy white worms with red heads that are the larvae of the pecan weevil. The weevil larva eats the nutmeat, then bores an exit hole in the shell to escape the overwinter in the ground.

"Pecan weevils are one of the worst pest problems for pecan producers in the Hill Country and Central Texas," Lipe said.

Many unsprayed trees have had heavy damage this year. Lipe said that one or more sprays in late August and September are necessary for reasonable control.

Pecan shucks that don't open or have trouble opening usually signal an infection of hickory shuckworms.

These small white worms are about three-eighths inches long; they tunnel into the shucks and cause extensive damage to the shuck tissue. This damage can cause the shuck to remain tightly closed, or to open partially if they damage is only at the base of the shuck.

Shuck damage results in poorly developed nutmeats. Properly timed insecticide sprays are essential for control, and infected shucks should be destroyed or plowed under to reduce the population of overwintering shuckworm larvae. Shuckworms aren't the only cause of shuck damage. A condition termed sticktight also results in this problem.

Sticktight shucks gradually blacken as the nuts approach maturity in August and September. Affected shucks don't open, and the nuts are very difficult to shake from the tree.

"Tree stress, both drought and heat, are associated with sticktight," Lipe said.

Insect damage also causes the kernel not to fully develop. Aphids sucking sap from pecan leaves during the summer and fall rob the pecans of nutrition. The black mold that grows on the "honeydew" secreted by the aphids blocks sunlight and thus photosynthesis.

Vivipary, another problem limiting the quality of pecans, refers to nuts sprouting in the shuck. This is usually caused by drought stress as nuts develop it the fall.

Certain varieties such as Burkett and Wichita have particularly bad sprouting problems. Vivipary is a serious problem in Wichita orchards this year.

"A recent check of highly stressed versus moderately drought stressed Wichita trees in a Hill Country orchard revealed 60 percent and 5 percent sprouted nuts respectively," Lipe said.

Black spots or streaks on the nutmeats usually are associated with stink bugs and related sucking insects that feed on the nuts.

Insect feeding before the nutmeats gel causes the nuts to drop, but nuts fed on after the nuts reach the dough state (late August) remain on the tree and develop the black spots on the kernels.

These blackened spots sometimes have a bitter taste, but the recommended spray schedule for hickory shuckworm and pecan weevil will usually keep this problem at a minimum.

Moldy kernels, dark kernels and rancidity are problems that are caused by excess water. These problems can be easily cured by allowing the pecans to air dry in a well ventilated place for a couple of weeks.

Their wildy seeds they often sow*

Because of the world he was trying to win*

*The prodigal son he is not to be
For he stands proud for all to see*

And loved ones rushed to stand by his side*

*The love that flickered like a lamp so dim

*Shining bright as the sun in the sky
With nothing to block it's beautiful ray*

*Love has blossomed in a wonderful way
Slowly has strengthened their walk today*

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

My parents told me that during World War II there were people who claimed to be conscientious objectors. People called them CO's for short. These CO's were not spontaneous in their anti-war beliefs, but believed that way all their adult life. Many even served their country in the military as medics, as long as they did not have to "bear arms" against their fellow man. Even though I do not agree with any CO's, I would have to respect their consistency. Not so with the CO's of 1990!

Even the late Elvis Presley with all his money and fame, upon receiving his draft notice, did not run off to Canada nor suddenly "get religion," and claim CO status. He served his country in the U.S. Army.

Not so with Casius Clay. Here was a man that thought nothing of getting into a boxing ring and beating an opponent senseless for the right price. But when he received his draft notice, all of a sudden he "gets religion." Muslim religion. Even changed his name to Mohammed Ali, and then claimed CO status.

Now, enter a man who claims to be a conscientious objector in 1990:

He voluntarily enlisted. At the end of that enlistment, he voluntarily re-enlisted. Then the Persian Gulf Crisis came about. Now, all of a sudden, this career oriented military man says he is a Conscientious Objector. He gets together with a "jelly-backed" attorney who writes him a speech. The television media gives the new CO a platform to use as he reads his speech.

by Lee R. (Smoky) Taylor, R.Ph.

Drinking Can Affect Nicotine Gum: Smokers who are trying to quit with the help of nicotine gum, but who aren't very successful, might want to watch what they drink. Researchers at the National Institute on Drug Abuse found that acidic drinks ranging from coffee to cola to fruit juices, blocked absorption of nicotine from the gum. They recommended not drinking or eating immediately before or during chewing in order to get the full effect of the gum.

Commissioners Court

The Schleicher County Commissioners met in regular session on December 10, 1990. After the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, action was taken to adjust the salaries of full-time County Employees by $50.00. The court took action to have a telephone installed in the Senior Citizens Building and a pay telephone installed outside the memorial building. Judge Johnny Griffin informed Roy Lynn Love that an Executive order had been issued declaring that Mr. Love was ineligible to serve as County Constable, as he was ineligible to serve as a law enforcement officer in the State of Texas.

The Counties bills were authorized to be paid. Discussion was held concerning the renovation of the Community Center. A call for bids was issued for 1 transport load of diesel fuel. The purchase of a typewriter for the County Treasurer's office was approved.

Basketball Highlights

The Eldorado Eagles seventh grade boys defeated the Iraan team, 24-21. The game was played in Iraan on Dec. 17. Johnny Arispe was the high scorer with 8 points, followed by Jason Clark with 6 and Wayne Jenkins with 4.

Said Coach Larry Mitchell, "This was the last game before Christmas and a very tough game in Iraan. The boys played very hard and had a good aggressive defense."

Their next game will be in Ozona on Jan. 7.

The Eldorado Eagles met Coahoma in basketball competition in Eldorado on Tuesday Dec. 18.

The girls played first and lost 70-63. This was a fiercely fought battle-- a very good ball game. With 1:30 remaining on the clock, there was only a one point difference in the teams.

In spite of the loss, it was definitely a night for Stephanie Ledbetter to shine. Stephanie scored 25 points, followed by Katie Hardy with 16.

"I am really proud of the girls and their effort", said Coach Bobby Helmers.

The boys game followed, with Eldorado-34 and Coahoma-55. This was a difficult night for our boys. Although they played very hard and had a strong defense, our shots simply were not dropping. Our shooting percentage was only 23 percent. Justin Edmiston led the scoring with 8 points followed by Barry Thoms and Cy Griffin with 6.

Said Coach Greg Cleveland, "We are playing well, but our shooting is off. You just can't win ball games unless you make the shots."

The boys and girls both play Robert Lee here on Dec. 31st.

The Eldorado Eagles eighth grade boys have a good season, with their record standing at 5-1. Their first game was against Ozona, being their only loss. The score was 34-48.

Their next game was against Sonora. The boys came back to beat Sonora 34-20.

They won 1st place in the Wall Tournament, beating the Wall B team 59-11, Veribest 60-16, and the Wall A team 42-23. The B team lost to the Wall A team in their first game 7-36, but came back to beat the Wall B team 21-20. The then lost to Reagan County 18-31.

On Monday, December 17th, the boys beat Iraan 49-22.

Stated Coach Rick Singleton, "There are more players this year than what I have had in the past. They are all willing to learn and improve. The boys are now beginning to understand and execute the offenses and defenses."

Scoring totals from the previous games are listed below: Bounds-47, McGinnes-59, McCravey-30, Nix-44, Whitten-16, Edmiston, C.-1, Neal-41, Goodman-14, Herrera-6, Gutierrez-26, Jones-11, Edmiston, W.-4, Peaslee-0, Gower-16, Fuentes-8, Sallee-4 and Sanchez-2.

Their next game will be after on January 7, in Ozona.

What's an Energy Saving Plan Home?

It's a home that gives you extra comfort plus lower energy bills. So check out the features an ESP home can offer.

Attic Ventilation
Proper ventilation controls summer heat build up and moisture accumulation in winter. This adds life to the building and its components.

Air Distribution System
Correctly sized air ducts and proper placement of supply and return air are important considerations for an ESP home.

Insulation
Insulation in the ceiling and walls in the amount appropriate for this area and climate keeps ESP homes cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

Heating and Cooling Equipment
Equipment is properly sized to the structure for highest efficiency. WTU recommends the all-season electric heat pump that heats in the winter and cools in the summer for year-round savings. Call WTU for details.

Air Infiltration Control
Air infiltration control helps stop uncomfortable drafts with weatherstripping, caulking, and insulation.

Windows and Doors
Insulated or storm doors and windows greatly improve both efficiency and comfort by reducing heat gain and loss in both summer and winter.
