1938 Grads Can't See A Depression, But They Do See A Possibility Of This Nation Getting Into War

War and depression? Well, the majority of Big Spring high school seniors—a group of more than 100 who are quitting the classrooms to tackle higher studies or jobs—are not so concerned about a business slump, but they do feel there is a possibility of the U. S. becoming involved in a war within the next few years.

The grads were asked about the two subjects in a questionnaire distributed by The Herald.

Forty-eight per cent said they did not believe the nation is entering another major depression; 30 per cent believe it is; 22 per cent are undecided.

How would they cure such a depression? Well, they were asked specifically about the government's spending-lending program, and the result was close. Forty-one per cent said distribute the money, 39 per cent said no; 20 per cent didn't have a "yes or no" answer.

How To Cure A Depression

Then the students were asked to suggest a program to combat a depression, and the answers covered a wide range. One student wrote "socialism," another "communism," but it was suspected that these were facetious answers. The suggestions of lower prices and "no price fixing" were scattered through the answers; shorter hours was a solution offered by more than one.

An inflationary attitude was taking more money in circulation. Several had the same general idea in suggesting that Americans buy U. S. products, that imports be banned, that aliens be barred from the country. One senior asserted the U. S. should collect its war debts.

There were other ideas. One student suggested that all persons be trained for some sort of work, another saw the need of extensive building.

And then there were the anti-government answers, such as "less legislation" and "silence the politicians." One student frankly said a new president would be necessary.

Perhaps the best answer from the psychological point of view came from the senior who wrote tersely on how to combat a depression.

"Stop talking it."

Opposed To War

As to war, the Big Spring class of 1938 wants no part in it. Seventy-three per cent of those answering the questionnaire, however, saw the possibility of this nation becoming involved. Fifty-eight per cent are opposed to U. S. participation under any circumstance; 29 per cent would favor a war of defense only; nine per cent would favor war "for any good cause," and 14 per cent were undecided.

The students were asked about voluntary enlistment—the girls being asked if they would want their father, brother or sweetheart to enlist. The answer—from boys and girls was "no" in 50 per cent of the cases, "yes" in 48 per cent, and two per cent were uncommitted.

HONORED

Marie Gray was honored with the designation as student speaker on the high school commencement program Tuesday night. Marie will talk on "Education For An Active, Flexible Personality."

Most Seniors Going On To College

Those Going To Work Generally Have A Job Sighted

It's off to college next fall for a big percentage of Big Spring high school's 1938 graduates.

Most of those who aren't going to continue their formal education are going to work, and—happily enough—practically all of these have prospects of a job.

The seniors revealed their plans in a questionnaire distributed by The Herald, 98 of them answering. Of the number:

27 girls are going to college, five into nurse's training—

5 girls are going to work (11 said they had prospects of a job)—

All but nine of the girls know what school they will attend—

42 boys are going to college, three to business colleges—

19 boys are going to work (27 reported prospects of employment)—

Only 14 haven't made a choice of school.

It will be noted that those reporting a chance at a job outnumber those who plan to go to work. It is not determined whether those who go to school will also work or whether they have been offered employment and rejected it for further schooling. At any rate, the unemployment problem doesn't seem to be so acute for this particular crop of graduates.

Here are the schools the Big Spring seniors have selected:

Girls—Texas State College for Women, 8; McMurry, 2; Texas Tech, 2; West Texas State Teachers college, 2; Sul Ross, 1; Howard Payne, 1; Hardin-Simmons, 1; University of Illinois, 1.

Boys—Texas A&M, 5; Hardin-Simmons, 5; Schroeder Institute, 4; North Texas Agricultural college, 3; Texas Tech, 3; Texas College of Mines, Texas university, Abilene Christian, John Tarleton, Howard Payne and Annapolis, 1 each.

Farmers Build Up "Ring Of Steel" To Keep Back Invading Crickets

On The Montana Cricket Sector—A Steel Barrier

By the AP Feature Service

BILLINGS, Mont.—Like France, Yellowstone county has built a "ring of steel" to hold back the enemy. In its first test it proved its worth.

The Yellowstone "ring" was built by farmers south of Billings to save 128,000 acres from cricket infestation and protect crops that may be worth $2,000,000.

The fence, 10 inches high, is constructed of light steel about a V-shaped area. The open side of the V is closed by streams, the surfaces of which will be covered with oil to prevent an attack from that sector.

When the crickets reach the fence they take the course of least resistance. Instead of climbing over it they turn to one side or the other. Cricket "corral" bottle up the insects in great numbers.

A fence patrol visits the corrals occasionally, pours oil over the trapped insects and burns them.

The fence, constructed for a distance of 35 miles, cost about $300 a mile. Farmers say it was worth the price. It divides valuable farm lands from cricket-infested cattle range country.

SUCCESSFUL AIRMAIL WEEK CAMPAIGN ENDS WITH RECORD VOLUME

National Airmail "week" came to a close Saturday evening with the local observance entirely successful from every point.

Total number of pieces posted here during the seven day period ran to 3,000, some 600 above the goal leaders had set for the week. Friday 268 pieces were mailed and Saturday to 7 p. m. there were 204 letters, making the week's total 2,988. Postal officials said enough would be mailed before midnight to send the total over the 3,000 mark.

Postmaster Nat Shick, chairman of the 19th congressional district airmail observance, issued a statement of thanks Saturday evening, commending all who had a part in making "the week the big success it was and in causing Big Spring to make the best showing in West Texas."

Airmail pieces posted during the week were given by him as follows: Sunday 126, Monday 296, Tuesday 383, Wednesday 401, Thursday 1,310, Friday 268 and Saturday 204.

William Cullen Bryant wrote "Thanatopsis," his most famous poem, when he was 18.

COUNTY FARMERS DO PLANTING, MORE RAIN RECEIVED

Howard county farmers, with comparatively few exceptions, were planting their 1938 cotton and feed crops as the week ended, taking advantage of the showers of last week.

Reports at the county agent's office Saturday showed that practically all parts of the county had planting moisture, although it was scanty in about a fourth of the county.

Heaviest rains were received in the southwest quarter where Friday night showers boosted the week's total past four inches in the Lomax territory. All the section southwest of Big Spring, in a dry spot since 1932, was apparently in the best shape of any part of the county with the exception of Knott where crops are already up to a good stand.

Pioneers Of Dawson County Hold Meet

LAMESA, May 21—E. C. Nix was renamed president of the Dawson county Old Settlers reunion at its annual gathering here Friday when 1,000 people, an estimated one-half of whom were old timers, participated in a program of entertainment and reminiscing.

Other officers were E. R. Yates, vice-president, and W. V. P. "Billie" Baker, secretary, reelected.

Around 100 out of county members, including people from three states, attended. R. S. Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, who came from Los Angeles, Calif., traveled the greatest distance. Frank Cooksey, who first came to Dawson county in 1874, had a longer record of residence than others.

Feature in the program was a barbecue at noon. There was music and speeches by many of the old timers.

Big Spring Seniors Want To See High School Plant Improved; For The City They Want More Paving

Attention Mr. and Mrs. Big Spring taxpayer:

Some of your youngsters would like to see some improvement programs undertaken for the city and for the local schools—and what they suggest costs money.

Members of this year's graduation class were asked by The Herald these questions: "What most would you like to see done for the Big Spring schools as a benefit to future classes?" and "What most would you like to see done for the city of Big Spring to make it a better, more attractive place to live?"

Answers were varied, of course, but in the majority they followed a definite trend.

As for school improvement, the seniors' idea is a bigger and better high school plant. The questionnaire went to 98 students, and not all answered the specific questions; but of those answering no less than a dozen favored a new high school building. Others put their suggestions on other planes such as "more room," "more equipment," "better laboratories," "better desk accommodations," "an assembly room." It can be seen that generally they see the high school plant too limited.

Other Suggestions

Others suggested a variety of items, such as a 12-grade system, an R. O. T. C. unit, more recreational equipment (the new auditorium-gymnasium probably will answer some of their proposals), dramatic arts, smaller classes, sports for girls, manual training and a broader range of subjects.

Smaller classes and additional subjects mean, of course, more teachers, and more teachers mean more operating expense. If the seniors' ideas were followed out, Big Spring would have to spend more money on her high school than she is spending now.

The same conclusion holds good on suggestions for improving the city as a whole. On this question, no less than 35 per cent of the seniors answering favored more street paving, particularly on principal thoroughfares, and other street im-

Successful Airmail Week Campaign Ends With Record Volume

National Airmail "week" came to a close Saturday evening with the local observance entirely successful from every point.

Total number of pieces posted here during the seven day period ran to 3,000, some 600 above the goal leaders had set for the week. Friday 268 pieces were mailed and Saturday to 7 p. m. there were 204 letters, making the week's total 2,988. Postal officials said enough would be mailed before midnight to send the total over the 3,000 mark.

Postmaster Nat Shick, chairman of the 19th congressional district airmail observance, issued a statement of thanks Saturday evening, commending all who had a part in making "the week the big success it was and in causing Big Spring to make the best showing in West Texas."

Airmail pieces posted during the week were given by him as follows: Sunday 126, Monday 296, Tuesday 383, Wednesday 401, Thursday 1,310, Friday 268 and Saturday 204.

William Cullen Bryant wrote "Thanatopsis," his most famous poem, when he was 18.

County Farmers Do Planting, More Rain Received

Howard county farmers, with comparatively few exceptions, were planting their 1938 cotton and feed crops as the week ended, taking advantage of the showers of last week.

Reports at the county agent's office Saturday showed that practically all parts of the county had planting moisture, although it was scanty in about a fourth of the county.

Heaviest rains were received in the southwest quarter where Friday night showers boosted the week's total past four inches in the Lomax territory. All the section southwest of Big Spring, in a dry spot since 1932, was apparently in the best shape of any part of the county with the exception of Knott where crops are already up to a good stand.

Pioneers Of Dawson County Hold Meet

LAMESA, May 21—E. C. Nix was renamed president of the Dawson county Old Settlers reunion at its annual gathering here Friday when 1,000 people, an estimated one-half of whom were old timers, participated in a program of entertainment and reminiscing.

Other officers were E. R. Yates, vice-president, and W. V. P. "Billie" Baker, secretary, reelected.

Around 100 out of county members, including people from three states, attended. R. S. Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, who came from Los Angeles, Calif., traveled the greatest distance. Frank Cooksey, who first came to Dawson county in 1874, had a longer record of residence than others.

Feature in the program was a barbecue at noon. There was music and speeches by many of the old timers.

So These Women Carry On In Masculine Jobs

SHE DIGS GRAVES
Mrs. Emma Wear of Lancaster, Pa., is 70. "If I couldn't work I wouldn't care about living," she says. So she digs graves. She has been doing it for 15 years. In addition, she farms 10 acres of her own. She is shown pausing in the day's occupation.

SHE SELLS COAL
Mrs. Libbie E. Roth of East St. Louis, Ill., comes from a coal-selling family—her father owned a coal mine, her brothers were coal dealers. A widow, she has run a coal yard for 22 years, says "there's nothing a woman cannot do, if she wants to."

SHE CALLS ALL CARS
Mrs. Pearl Damiano qualified recently as a police radio operator and dispatcher at Piedmont, Calif. She thinks she is the third woman in the country to fill such a post. Employed in the police department, she spent two years studying for new job.

SHE MENDS VIOLINS
Mrs. Mays Badgett of Atlanta, Ga., became a violin repairer when her husband died. She had been a dress designer. "I didn't know the names of the fiddle-fixing tools," she says, "but I had seen Mays use them so much that I knew what they were all for."

SHE'S BEEN WORKIN' ON THE RAILROAD
For 10 years, Miss Ruth Eley has filled tough assignments at the Dallas, Tex., roundhouse. She knows the railroad men's language and technique and can throttle a locomotive with the skill of a veteran. "It's a man's job," she says, "but I like it."

Kansas production declined 19,000 barrels daily to a total of 150,450 barrels a day.

VOTE RITUAL CHANGE

MERIDIAN, Miss., May 2 (AP)—The general assembly of the Presbytery Church in the U. S. voted today 151 to 130 to omit two sections of its confession of faith which some speakers said was the cornerstone of the church code.

MISSIONS TRIM BUFFS

SAN ANTONIO, May 21 (AP)—Behind Harry Kimberlin's masterful five-hit pitching, the San Antonio Missions clung onto first place in the Texas league here tonight by drubbing the Houston Buffs, 7 to 1, in the series opener. Kimberlin didn't allow more than one hit in any inning and was nicked for one run in the third when Epps tripped behind Ira Smith's walk.

MENOW WINS WITHERS

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Hal Price Headley's Menow today regained some of the prestige he lost in the Kentucky Derby and Freshman by scoring a victory in the 63rd Withers Mile.

The Week

ment, the city is adding a $118,000 WPA runway surfacing project. The DOC maintains radio and meteorological service necessitating equipment valued at $100,000. American Airlines keeps a large amount of equipment at the port. An appropriation is available for restoration of U. S. Department of Agriculture weather bureau service at the port after July 1. All in all, the port and its various units requires from 10 to 15 men to adequately man it, and this means payroll from the government and airlines.

Highlight of the one-day gathering of city officials here Wednesday was an address by Mayor M. A. Harlan of El Paso. He was speaking on federal relief funds and predicted that the present spending-approval appropriation would be the last major one by congress. Inasmuch as West Texans will have to help repay the money, they may as well get benefits in the form of projects, said the mayor. He urged all to file for jobs whether they were in sight or not. Big Spring can appreciate the statement for two new school buildings were made possible by such procedure.

On the same day the proposed city budget for 1938 was presented. The document called for appropriations of $187,157, and estimated revenues at $234,478. The disbursements were down about $37,000 from last year. While the tax rate was left unchanged (and the voting of the $50,000 hospital bond issue indicated people expected such a rate or even more) the division this year will be 70 cents to general fund and 30 cents to interest and sinking instead of the former 30-41 arrangement for the same purposes. Hearing on the budget is May 30, but probably no one will bother to attend.

Not included in the budget is further search for an underground water supply by the U. S. G. S. However, the city is making every effort to have the survey continued. It is reported on good authority that the study of last autumn and winter did not disclose any bountiful auxiliary water supply. This is an important item, for another strong water supply would be reassuring to Big Spring.

Showers falling Wednesday night put most of the county in shape for planting. Only trouble with the rain was its spotted qualities. C. H. Devaney of Coahoma got half an inch, but his neighbor, just across the road, got more than an inch. Especially favored was the hard hit territory south and west of town where as much as two inches were received along with some heavy hail. The shower proved a lifesaver for planting, but it will take a general rain to really enhance crop and range prospects.

Another term of 70th district court closed officially here Saturday. Although activities were no more lively than usual, there was one development which suggests itself for further consideration. When business slackened here toward the end of the week, District Judge Klapproth and District Attorney Cecil Collings went to Odessa and dealt with a congested docket there. It seems that there would be more efficiency in the administration of justice and less waste of time if regular long terms, consecutive in the horse and wagon days, were shortened or altered to permit the court to go where it is most needed.

Mention was made of celebrities in opening the review, Robert Wadlow, eight feet eight and a half inch giant, here Tuesday, was probably as much curiosity as celebrity. When he stood up, he made you think it wasn't so. On the opposite extreme was little Spanky McFarland of "Our Gang" comedy fame. Little Spanky's presence here served to remind that famous people and thousands of others use the Broadway of America to go between counties when they want the best route.

COURT AT STANTON

Seventieth district court, ending its current term here Saturday, will open its next session Monday at Stanton. The Martin county term will continue for a period of two weeks.

LEGIONNAIRES ELECT

PAMPA, May 2 (AP)—George C. Bettes of Austin was elected commander of the eighteenth district of the Texas American Legion here today. National Commander Daniel J. Doherty will be the principal speaker tomorrow. State commanders from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma are also on the program.

The pre-election disorders thrust into the open the difficulties between the government and the nation's minority of 3,500,000 Germans.

The elections tomorrow—for local councils—are only the first in a series.

They do not constitute a plebiscite on the German minority's program for autonomy but are considered significant as a test of the minority's strength.

The two men killed early today were members of the Sudeten German party led by stocky, bespectacled Konrad Henlein. They were shot by Czechoslovak border guards near the German border.

Gen. Cedillo's Family Seeks Home In Texas

M'ALLEN, May 21 (AP)—Members of the family of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, Mexican storm center, sought to rent a house in McAllen today for a stay of several weeks.

Members of the party included Cedillo's daughter, sister and three nieces and Juan Luna, his brother-in-law.

Luna denied revolutionary trouble in Mexico was responsible for the trip to the United States. They crossed the border into this country Thursday.

"We visit the Rio Grande valley each year about this time," he said. Meanwhile, there were persistent but unconfirmed reports that fighting had broken out in the states of Puebla, Michoacan and Juarojuato, as well as San Luis Potosi.

YOUTH IS SHOT

CARTHAGE, May 21 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Ted Shihbers was shot and critically wounded near here today as he was plowing in a field. He was rushed to a Shreveport hospital for treatment. An aged man was questioned by officers, but no charges had been filed tonight. The youth was a nephew of County Commissioner S. B. Shihbers.

Electric feeding machines are used in Alsace to make goose fat and produce more "pate de foie gras," Alsatian liver paste delicacy.

THE OLDEST LEGIONNAIRE?

Can Powell, veteran of two wars, wins the designation—at least until another bona fide claimant comes along—of being the oldest regular member of the American Legion. Ninety-one years old, he served in two wars, the civil conflict of 1861-65, and the world war of 1917. Powell is shown receiving his membership card in the local American Legion post, from Dr. W. J. Danforth, departmental commander. The presentation was at Powell's home while Dr. Danforth was visiting in the city.

Big Tanks To Insure Stock Water Supply In Southeast Part Of Co.

If and when a driving rain blankets this area, it will mean that the stock water problem in the southeastern corner of the county is over for a time.

Ranchers are making ready for that rainy day by installing large tanks over that area. In that particular section of the county at least nine big tanks have been constructed to trap the water that formerly washed away down the canyons.

R. L. Powell has just completed a large tank project that will back up a small lake 22 feet deep at the dam, an average 250 feet wide and 500 feet long. He completed one last year that is 20 feet deep at the dam.

D. H. Snyder has built two tanks on his ranch, either of them larger than the Powell tanks. M. J. O'Daniel has two about the size of those on Powell's range.

the committee's decision would be. The membership was divided.

The right wing favored a break to an independent stand committee neither to the A. F. of L. nor to C.I.O.

David Dubinsky, the ILGWU head, leaned to the right.

Loss of Dubinsky's union would be a heavy blow to Lewis.

1. The ILGWU has 250,000 members, rated the third largest C.I.O. union.

2. It is one of four unions that contributed $1,125,000 of the $1,500,000 Lewis got from all his units to organize rubber, glass, auto and steel workers and lead the C.I.O.

3. Some labor leaders feel that Dubinsky quits the C.I.O., other will follow.

4. Coupled with the election suits in Pennsylvania, it may sharply lower the bargaining prestige of Lewis and his labor partisan league in other counties the next few months.

5. It might force Lewis into peace with A. F. of L.'s William Green.

Kennedy Wins 6th

DETROIT, May 21 (AP)—Although he wasn't around at the final Vernon Kennedy was credited with his sixth straight pitching triumph of the season today as the Detroit Tigers beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 5. Kennedy, who has the A's to four hits and one run in the first seven innings, lost control in the eighth and was relieved by Tommy Bridges with the bases full, three runs already in hand one out. The veteran right hander checked the rally.

ADDS TO HOLDINGS
ALEBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 21 (AP)—John J. Rascoy of New York disclosed today the old San Pedro copper and silver mine had been added to the quarter-million acre New Mexico properties held by him and Thomas C. Campbell, Montana "wheat king."

"We purchased it largely because it adjoins our San Pedro grant," Rascoy said. He did not disclose the purchase price of the mine which has not been worked in years.

A LOOK AND A RIDE AND YOU'LL AGREE...

HERE'S THE CAR OF THE YEAR!

Big, roomy, strikingly styled... today's brilliant De Luxe Ford V-8 brings still more of the "fine-car things" to buyers in the low-price field!

DE LUXE TUDOR SEDAN . . . 112-inch wheelbase, 123-inch springbase, 85 h.p. . . . Diagonal folding of front seat back gives easy access to rear . . . Luggage compartment reached from outside . . . Mobair or broadcloth upholstery.

YOU can tell at a glance that there's a different Ford V-8 this year. In beauty, no other car at any price is like it. But it's not until you ride in it that you know how different it is!

No low-priced car has ever been built to all-round standards as high as this one's.

The quiet, flexible "feel" of its engine is a typical V-8 advantage. A feel that only 8 cylinders can give. Its interior is spacious. Partly because the body itself is big. Partly because its short V-8 engine and long springbase add to the passengers' share of total length.

In its rear seat the promise of a "front-seat ride" comes true. You sit well forward of the rear axle . . . Center-Poised where riding comfort is naturally at its best.

At the rear of every model is luggage space that's big . . . and opens from outside the car.

And with all its size, the car is fun to drive. Steering, shifting, gears, braking . . . are next to effortless. Ford brakes act easily, stop smoothly . . . and have the safety advantage of steel from pedal to wheel.

Before you spend as much for any car . . . and certainly before you pay more . . . learn for yourself how sharply this De Luxe Ford car steps up the quality standards of low-cost motoring.

4TH WELL ADDED IN NEW POOL IN CROCKETT CO.

Gulf-Mallet Well In Slaughter Area Will Be Plugged Back

SAN ANGELO, May 21—Addition of a fourth producer and recompletion of the second in the new northwestern Crockett county pool on University of Texas land and the resultant assurance of a pipe line outlet; pumping of 52 barrels of oil in 24 hours by Magnolia No. 1 University, opener of a new producing spot in eastern Crane county, and almost a mile southeast extension to the Tubb deep Permian pool in western Crane county were highlights of developments this week in the West Texas Permian Basin.

Magnolia and Tex-Mex No. 1-A McKee, northern Pecos county wildcat, topped the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, at 6,102 feet, 3,717 feet below sea level, after drilling 1,527 feet of Simpson, but had shown no oil gas or water that series in drilling to 6,128 feet in hard dolomite. The test headed off from Simpson sand at 5,271-80 feet in February but the flows were not sustained.

Gulf No. 1 Mallet, two miles southwest of the Slaughter pool in southwestern Hockley county, pumped only 28 barrels of oil with 701 barrels of water on a 24-hour potential test at a plugged back dept. of 5,125 feet and was to plug back farther. It is in the northeast corner of section 6-X-pal.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Mallet, wildcat in extreme southwestern Cochran county, showed more promise, swabbing and flowing around 20 west offset to the Cosden-Kahn No. 1 O'Daniel, half mile eastern extension to the pool, continued to clean out Moore Bros. No. 1-B O'Daniel, east offset to the Cosden well, drilled to 2,466 feet with rotary and made preparations to set seven inch string. Magnolia No. 5 O'Daniel, 2,310 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of section 34, was below 2,020 feet.

Other Operations
Hampered in cleaning out operations by frequent heads, the Lockhart No. 1 Scott (Hyman), 330 feet out of the northeast corner of section 86-29, W&NW, was still unable to test. Magnolia No. 1 Hyman, east offset in the northwest corner of section 87-29, W&NW, drilled to 1,050 feet and the Lockhart No. 2 Heusinger, 900 feet from the east and 330 feet from the south lines of section 67-29, W&NW, was under way and cellar and pits were being dug for a east offset to the No. 1 Heusinger, the test to be in the southwest corner of section 66.

barrels of oil hourly in the early stages of testing at a plugged back depth of 5,058 feet. All the 170-barrel oil load run with 2,000 gallons of acid had not been recovered, however. The well is 440 from the north, 660 feet from the east line of section 7-G-pal, five miles southeast of the Duggan pool in Cochran county and six miles west of the Slaughter field in Hockley.

A Schlumberger survey having confirmed promising zones deep in the Permian lime, Frank S. Perkins and others' No. 1 E. W. Cowden, wildcat in the extreme southwest corner of Andrews county, prepared to run and cement five inch streamlined, outside diameter casing on bottom at 8,012 feet, gun-perforate the string and acidize through the shot holes. Drilling stopped 4,800 feet below sea level.

No. 1 Cowden is in the northwest quarter of section 14-A55-pal.

Despite the two-day-a-week shutdown of all producing wells in the state, locations were staked this week for 43 tests in 11 counties, equaling the number listed in 15 counties the week before, but only one was for a wildcat compared with a half dozen the week before. Producers completed rose to 51 in 10 counties from 39 the week before and only three tests were abandoned dry, one-half the number during the preceding week. Thirteen of the field locations and 19 of the completed producers were in Ector county.

Oil from the new Crockett county field on University land may be trucked to a line in the Yates field until Humble provides connections, probably within 15 days. The new wells added this week were Choate & Hogan's No. 1-J University and Harry Black and Eubank Oil company's No. 1-K University.

Second Pool For Haskell Indicated

Test Northeast Of Avoca Field Gets Oil Showing

ABIENE, May 21—Prospective opening of the second oil pool this month in Haskell county claimed attention in this part of the West Central Texas district as the week ended.

On a northeast trend play from the Avoca field of Jones county, the Fain-McGaha Oil Corporation and P. S. Kendrick No. 1 T. G. Hendrick was underreaming eight-inch casing to test a showing of oil in Adams Branch lime taken from 2,702-04 feet.

Oil rose 1,000 feet in the hole overnight, but definite indication of its possibilities will not be known until pipe is set and more of the lime taken. The wildcat is about eight miles east of the recent Forest Development Corporation and J. W. McMullen, A. E. Pardue five miles northeast of Stamford, and about 12 miles northeast of the Avoca pool.

Saturation is showing from the same lime as that producing in the Pardue discovery, middle Canyon. Contracted by Green & Owens of ter from 4,871-72 feet and was expected to be abandoned. It was in the northeast corner of section 24-A21-pal. Finley & Cherry No. 1 Dalmont, 3 1-2 miles farther northwest and in the northwest quarter of section 6-A21-pal, cored lime from 4,802-22 feet showing sulphur water and was abandoned.

Gulf States No. 1 Gulf-A. E. Graham, northeastern Yoakum county wildcat in the southwest quarter of section 267-D-John H. Gibson, showed sulphur water in a core from 5,368-77 feet and prepared to abandon.

Magnolia No. 1 University in eastern Crane county 3 1-2 miles northwest of the Church & Fields pool, pumped 52 barrels of pipe line oil in 24 hours following a 200-quart shot from 3,264 to 3,325 feet, plugged back depth. It is 330 feet out of the northwest corner of section 16-30-U, 3 1-2 miles northwest of the Church & Fields pool and 6 1-2 miles southeast of the Waddell-Henderson field.

Humble No. 1-B Tubb, southeast extension to the Tubb pool in western Crane county, was swabbed in and flowed 15 barrels of pipe line oil hourly for four hours. It was scheduled to acidize, bottomed at 4,430 feet. Location is 440 feet out of the northwest corner of section 19-32-pal.

Abilene, the test is located 1,330 feet from the west and 2,590 feet from the south lines of the J. A. Matthews abstract 858, Indianola Railroad survey No. 104, half a mile west of the Throckmorton county line.

Coring Lime

Cementing of seven-inch casing on the second well of the Pardue area was also scheduled after coring of the Adams Branch lime, topped at 2,700 feet in the Forest Development Corporation No. 2-A. E. Pardue, north offset to the discovery well for test Haskell.

The rotary test is located 2,100 feet from the north and 550 feet from the west lines of M. Collum survey No. 4.

Completion of wells giving extensions to both the Avoca and Ivy pools of Palo Pinto, basal Canyon, production showed encroachment of water on official railroad commission gauges.

Humble Oil & Refining company, quarter-mile west outpost to the Avoca field in northeastern Jones county, reported 32 per cent water in flowing 482 barrels of fluid in 14 hours from pay at 3,277-91 feet, acidized with 1,000 gallons. It is in the northeast quarter of section 195-BBB&C survey.

Another west outpost was staked by Iron Mountain Oil company a quarter mile south and one location west of the No. 2 Spencer for the firm's No. 2 C. J. Peterson. No. 1 Peterson, 330 feet out of the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of section 195, had cored ten feet of saturated Palo Pinto from 3,202 feet and cemented pipe.

Fain-McGaha Oil corporation and Sinclair-Prarie No. 2 Swedish Lutheran church, a one-location northeast extension to the pool in section 190-BBB&C survey, showed 14 per cent water in flowing 516 barrels in 12 hours from acidized pay at 3,265-73 feet.

In Shackelford county's Ivy pool, operators were attempting a squeeze job on the Iron Mountain Oil company No. 2 D. A. Ivy quarter mile north extension to the pool, after it flowed 790 barrels in 15 1-2 hours, 19 per cent water, from lime at 3,236-37 feet which had been given a 2,000-gallon acidization. It is in section 159-BBB&C survey.

One and a half north outpost to the pool, the Ungren & Frazier No. 1 J. S. McKeever in section 14-3-H&TC survey, was expected to top Palo Pinto Sunday. It was drilling near 3,000 feet.

Graduating Time

you'll be remembering

...so let us help with gifts

Graduation time is one of the very few celebrations that should be welcomed with joy. It is a time to congratulate and reward the winner for a task well done. You'd have to be a poet to put it all in words. And maybe you aren't very good at writing letters, or saying the things they deserve to hear! So—let a gift speak for you on this—their Graduation Day. We have all the usual gifts—such nice ones too. And we have made it a special point to have things that probably you wouldn't think of. The store brims with a wonderful array—and little ones will whisper just as much congratulations as big ones shout.

Wildcat Test In N'west Howard

Two Wells Near Completion In The Snyder Area

Spudding of a wildcat test in the northwest corner of Howard county and showing of two tests nearing completion in the Snyder area in the southeastern part of the county were interesting oil developments here the past week.

S. S. Owens No. 1 Dr. J. G. Wright, 990 feet from the south and east lines of section 33-33-3n, T&P, spudded for a test on the 4,000 acre block organized by Owens. The well is three miles east of Beach community.

In the Snyder pool, the southwest limits of the area was being defined further by the light show in the Moore Bros. No. 1-D TXL, in the northeast corner of section 41-30-1s, T&P. At 2,572 feet it had nothing but small shows. A mile to the south the Austin C. Taylor (Jno. Moore, Agt.) No. 1 W. P. Edwards, section 44, had been abandoned with very little oil at 2,920 feet.

Free Oil Show
Half a mile northeast of the No. 1-D TXL the Moore Bros. 1-B TXL, 1,850 feet from the west and 2,310 feet from the south lines of section 33, had free oil from 2,635-48 feet and drilled ahead to 2,657 feet.

With 1,800 feet of oil in the hole at 2,812 feet, the Moore Bros. No. 5-A TXL, 1,650 feet from the east and 330 feet from the north lines of section 33, the well indicated the due south trend was still good. Moore Bros. No. 6-A TXL, south offset to the No. 5-A, was at 1,590 feet.

Eastland Oil No. 1-B TXL, 2,310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the east lines of section 33, drilled to 1,060 feet. Two locations east in section 34, the Moore Bros. No. 2-A O'Daniel, was at 1,650 feet. While Magnolia No. 4 O'Daniel,

Many Social Events Slated During Women's Tourney

Third annual invitational tournament of the Big Spring Women's Golf association opening here Wednesday will feature a round of gay social events as well as the more serious business of playing golf.

Beside special events such as long driving, approaching and putting contests and mixed foursomes, the tournament will call for a chicken barbecue, caletta pool, Dutch lunch, informal party and a colorful presentation of the most complete list of prizes ever offered to winners.

Arrangements for the tournament have shaped up under the hands of Mrs. G. I. Phillips and Mrs. Harry Stalup, co-chairmen of the tournament. Attendance has been in charge of Mrs. M. E. Tatum and Mrs. Phil Rhinehart.

Qualifying round will open at 9 a. m. Wednesday with Mrs. Willie Rix and Mrs. E. V. Spence in charge. In the afternoon the long driving contest, first of the special features, will be in charge of Mrs. Rix and Sammy Sain.

Chicken Barbecue

Coffee, president of the country club, Fred Stephens, chairman of the committee, Mrs. Rix, Mrs. Phil Rhinehart, Mrs. Travis Read.

The caletta pool, following the barbecue, will be supervised by Mrs. Obie Bristow, Shirley Robbins and Doug Jones. Since several of the better women golfers of West Texas and New Mexico are expected to be in the thick of the tournament fight, bidding at the pool is due to be lively.

Underway Thursday

Thursday morning the tournament really gets underway with first round matches, but in the afternoon another attraction will be the approaching and putting contests under Mrs. M. H. Bennett and Lib Coffee. This event will be topped in the evening by a Dutch lunch, free to entrants and donors, under the direction of Mrs. C. J. Staples, Mrs. Carl Strom and Cliff Wiley.

Following the conclusion of the second round matches Friday will be the afternoon mixed foursomes with Mrs. C. S. Blomshield in charge. Members Of Review Practice Daily For Performance May 30

Members of a dance review to be presented by Mary Ruth Diltz May 30 at the municipal auditorium are practicing daily for what looks like an outstanding performance.

The review is in three acts, the first one consisting of clever specialty numbers. The second scene is to be a modernistic ballet, depicting the Christian religion as seen by the negro. Final act is to portray the southern plantation idea, with more than 30 children on the stage at one time.

Four of the women who are arranging for the third annual invitational tournament of the Big Spring Women's Golf association to open Wednesday are pictured above, left to right, Mrs. Obie Bristow, Mrs. Willie Rix, Mrs. A. Swartz and Mrs. Harry Stalup, the latter of whom is co-chairman of the tourney with Mrs. G. I. Phillips. Below is Mrs. Bristow who was snapped early in the week at the country club practicing up a bit.

She's Studied Glass For 30 Years, Claims Her Knowledge Yet Scant

But Mother Of Local Woman Lecturer On The Subject

After 30 years of continual study and collecting of antique glass, Mrs. F. G. Moor of Walla Walla, Wash., mother of Mrs. Lawrence of Big Spring, doesn't claim to know anything about the subject.

On a visit here recently, she said in comparison to what is to be known about glass, her knowledge is scant. Her one purpose in life is to educate people to buy authentic pieces and to instill a desire in the hearts of youth to invest in antique glass because of its continual rise in value.

Mrs. Moore, wife of a utilities officer of the Veterans' Hospital in Walla Walla, is a glass collector of long standing, her interest being aroused about 30 years ago on a trip through Corning, N. Y., where outstanding glass factories have made the name of the town famous.

Bottle Collection

She has made a special collection of bottles and salt cellars. Each piece is unusual in that it holds the story of a living adventure and was obtained from a natural setting. She avoids antique shops where she claims deception runs amok in the articles advertised as the real thing. "And the prices they ask for such poor imitations are impossible."

This veteran collector knows where to find authentic pieces and spends a great deal of her time browsing through negro cabins and old homes over the United States. "I would say about half of my collection came from the negro cabins around Waco where my husband was stationed," she declared. A number of her most prized possessions were gifts.

During the Civil war, such valuable pieces were acquired by the negroes from the southern families, the collector revealed. Many of

'How's' Exchanged At Clever Pow-Wow Banquet Affair

Ingenious — unique — and most amusing was the Indian reservation setting for the annual Big Spring high school junior-senior banquet and prom in the form of a pow-wow Friday evening at the Settles hotel.

Papoose Joyce Blankenship in costume greeted guests on the first landing of the stairway with the "Indian Village, No Squawks" and ruzzed signs were placed on the mezzanine directing them to tepee town and the junior-senior pow-wow.

Billie Marie Wilson guarded the entrance to the wigwam warpath and presided over the registration book. Indian village was entered through a tepee to the beating of a tom-tom by Chief George Gentry, Jr.

Just inside of the village in colorful costume was Jean Eddy who handed a pow-wow program in the shape of an arrowhead to each guest from an Indian basket.

Chief Moose

Marvin House, as Chief Moose, served as toastmaster and welcomed all of the senior tribe who were leaving the reservation, and had them stand, followed by a rousing "How!" from the others.

The reservation was appropriately decorated in the Indian colors of brown and orange. Colored globes sent out a soft light similar to that of a campfire and wigwams were placed on eight pedestals about the hall. Tucans and wild flowers covered the piano, tables and clustered around the tents.

Clever Favors

The banquet tables were decorated in orange and brown with gumdrops of the same color running through the center. Indian hats and handmade tepees pinned with mesquite wares at each place and every fourth plate, a tepee was made of wooden sticks and red feathers—later given as favors.

Centering the room was a large totem pole garlanded with yucca around which the program took place. Chief Moose called on Jean Kuykendall, dressed in Indian costume to sing and dance "A Cross Eyed Indian on a Cross Eyed Horse" with Squaw Ann House as accompanist. Chief George Gentry made a few remarks as well as Big Chief W. C. Blankenship followed by the singing of "Indian Love Call" by Wanda McQuain and DeAlva McAllister.

"Ramona" was sung by Merry Maiden Jane Tingle and South-Paw R. H. Miller with Jane bringing in an Indian tap dance around the totem pole.

Pipe Ceremony

The program was climaxed with the peace pipe ceremony started by See BANQUET, Page 2, Col. 2

She's Studied Glass For 30 Years, Claims Her Knowledge Yet Scant

After 30 years of continual study and collecting of antique glass, Mrs. F. G. Moor of Walla Walla, Wash., mother of Mrs. Lawrence of Big Spring, doesn't claim to know anything about the subject.

On a visit here recently, she said in comparison to what is to be known about glass, her knowledge is scant. Her one purpose in life is to educate people to buy authentic pieces and to instill a desire in the hearts of youth to invest in antique glass because of its continual rise in value.

Mrs. Moore, wife of a utilities officer of the Veterans' Hospital in Walla Walla, is a glass collector of long standing, her interest being aroused about 30 years ago on a trip through Corning, N. Y., where outstanding glass factories have made the name of the town famous.

Bottle Collection

She has made a special collection of bottles and salt cellars. Each piece is unusual in that it holds the story of a living adventure and was obtained from a natural setting. She avoids antique shops where she claims deception runs amok in the articles advertised as the real thing. "And the prices they ask for such poor imitations are impossible."

This veteran collector knows where to find authentic pieces and spends a great deal of her time browsing through negro cabins and old homes over the United States. "I would say about half of my collection came from the negro cabins around Waco where my husband was stationed," she declared. A number of her most prized possessions were gifts.

During the Civil war, such valuable pieces were acquired by the negroes from the southern families, the collector revealed. Many of

Shirley Brings A New Note To Sunnybrook Farm, In Latest Film Booked At The Ritz

Gloria Stuart, Randolph Scott In Romance Roles

Reigning princess of moviedome, little Shirley Temple, sings, dances and dimples her way through another story of romance and music and fun on the Ritz screen today and Monday. The new opus is called "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," the title being taken from the popular story written by Kate Douglas Wiggin. The story, however, we have been informed, has been "streamlined," and those familiar with the Wiggin plot will find little of the same in the picture.

Shirley is surrounded by an unusually strong cast of adult players, many of whom have been with her in other pictures. They include Randolph Scott, Jack Haley, Gloria Stuart, Phyllis Brooks, Helen Westley, Slim Summerville, Alan Dinehart, J. Edward Bromberg, the Raymond Scott quintet, and that ebony dancing partner of Shirley's, Bill Robinson.

This group merges talents to present song and dance and comedy and romance. There's a radio background to the story, and old Sunnybrook farm becomes a Radio City for the time being while entertainers of the air—led by Shirley—hold sway.

One of the musical features of the film is the introduction by Shirley of a medley of all the song hits she has introduced in former pictures, these tunes ranging from "The Good Ship Lollypop" to "Goodnight, My Love." In addition, there are several new song numbers in the picture, these including "An Old Straw Hat," by Gordon and Revel; "Crackly Grain Flakes," by Pollack and Mitchell, and "Toy Trumpet," by Pollack, Mitchell and Raymond Scott.

'REBECCA' IN NEW SETTING

Rebecca of the Sunnybrook farm, as Kate Douglas Wiggin characterized her, is made into a new Rebecca who stars on the radio in the film story, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," at the Ritz today and Monday. As you probably know Rebecca is none other than Shirley Temple. Among the adult players who contribute to the mirth, melody and romance are Gloria Stuart and Randolph Scott.

Four Sides To This Story Of Romance

'Man Proof' Offered At Lyric Today And Monday

In today's race of modernity, the marital "triangle" gives way to the matrimonial "rectangle" — this according to a version of romance difficulties as presented in "Man Proof," which returns here for showings at the Lyric today and Monday.

Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon are the principals. Miss Loy is the young artist disillusioned in love. Miss Russell is a wealthy socialite. Franchot Tone is a newspaper cartoonist and Walter Pidgeon is a social climber. Miss Loy loves Pidgeon, but he marries Miss Russell. Tone loves Miss Loy, but he keeps it to himself. Miss Loy is determined to separate the newlyweds and marry Pidgeon herself. While they are away on their honeymoon, she temporarily forgets Pidgeon and remains "wedded" only to her art. Tone, idolizing Miss Loy, marks time.

The honeymooners return and Miss Loy's waning spark of love for Pidgeon is rekindled. They have lots of fun together at the fights and in night clubs, until the wife finds the husband in Miss Loy's room. Yet it is not an "irate wife" scene. They all down and talk it over. Friends-like, the wife offers a divorce to the husband. He doesn't want to lose his job and declines the divorce, forgetting Miss Loy to return to his wife. Miss Loy realizes her mistake. She and Tone pledge themselves to remain friends—but one is made to realize it is love.

Ben Franklin Suits Hoover

But Former President Not So Kind To New Deal

PHILADELPHIA, May 22 (AP)—Using the words and philosophy of Benjamin Franklin, former President Herbert Hoover tonight took a dozen back-handed slaps at the new deal.

Speaking at a dinner climaxed a three-day program dedicating a new Franklin memorial, the former president declared that "if we waked Franklin up and walked him around here for a few days we might not quiet him down for the next 142 years."

On the other hand, he added, "from the stimulus to his magnificent sense of humor, he might just laugh."

In a manner unlike that in his previous speeches Hoover struck out at government spending, relief, the farm program, public works, devaluation and business regulation in good-humored fashion, using quotations from Franklin on these subjects.

Admitting that he once delivered a schoolboy oration on the life of the famous colonial statesman, Hoover declared "I even substantiated my view that we could all become healthy, wealthy and wise if we got up early in the morning. I haven't been so sure about it of late years—for I have not been able to find anyone else around then except the police."

Taking a more direct slap at Secretary of Agriculture Wallace he quoted Franklin's statement that "he that kills a breeding sow destroys all her offspring to the thousandth generation." Hoover's reference was to the pig-killing campaign of 1933 as a surplus-removing measure by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

A people cannot live on ideological dialectics or statistics about standards of living or even balanced budgets, Hoover said. "They must have a sterner fare if they are to survive."

Benjamin Franklin "offers a pattern for life which combines personal liberty and self-reliance with national order and well-being," he declared.

"That is a safer pattern for the republic than that of those who, promising an utopia of comfort, demand also an end to liberty."

AN ADVENTUROUS COUPLE

Jack Holt and Jacqueline Wells are starred in a fast-moving adventure story with a South American tropical setting, "Flight Into Nowhere," which headlines the program at the Queen today and Monday. Thrills and excitement confronting a jungle expedition are developed in the play.

Adventures In Jungle Are Dramatized

Jack Holt Star Of 'Flight Into Nowhere,' At Queen

Jack Holt, veteran of many an adventure picture, appears in another of that sort at the Queen theatre today and Monday. The thrills and the excitement are produced in the great jungles of the upper Amazon river in a picture called "Flight Into Nowhere."

The story of a headstrong, irresponsible pilot who crashes in unexplored South America through his own carelessness, "Flight Into Nowhere" narrates the difficulties endured by a rescuing expedition, the horrors of being held captive by headhunters, and the love duel between two girls, one a white woman, the other the proud daughter of a forgotten Inca tribe.

Holt is starred as the superintending of an airline. Jacqueline Wells is his leading lady, and Dick Purcell has the leading juvenile role, that of the ace whose carelessness sent Holt into the jungles.

James Burke, noted screen comedian, plays the part of Holt's pal who is always getting into trouble with members of the fair sex.

Karen Sorrell, as the beautiful native girl L-ana, adds extra romance to an exciting story. Howard Hickman, Fritz Leibor, Robert Fliske, Julian Rivero, Ward Bond and Hal Taliferro are seen in the supporting cast.

The name vaudeville is derived from Vau de Vire, a French town where humorous songs were written in the 15th century.

Some Gaiety Ahead When Ritz Brings 'Vivacious Lady' Here Next Weekend

Some freshness and gaiety, and a lot of sparkling humor, are due to grace the Ritz screen a week hence, when the new picture co-starring Ginger Rogers and James Stewart, "Vivacious Lady," comes for a Sunday-Monday showing.

The picture was previewed by the Ritz management before a small crowd last week, and was declared to be one of the most entertaining stories unreleased in some time. Both Miss Rogers and Stewart are ideal cast, and they are assisted by an able supporting cast.

There's a lot of gossip and a lot of fun in the little upstate college town when one of the quiet young professors returns from a weekend in New York with a lissome blonde night club entertainer as his bride. Stewart is the teacher, Miss Rogers the Broadway beauty. How they overcome difficulties of campus life and those with the professor's family makes for a refreshing story. The film is due to "catch on" with the public in a big way.

See A Change In Monroe Doctrine

It's Taking On An 'All For One' Complexion

By ANDRUE BERDING
WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—The Monroe doctrine, for years a notice to European powers that the United States would not tolerate further colonization in the Americas, is undergoing a fundamental change, foreign affairs experts said today.

In its place—with administration approval—is rising a Pan-American Monroe doctrine, they asserted. This may reach the status of a pact at the Pan-American conference in Lima, Peru, next December.

Instead of a doctrine of "one for all" meaning the United States the protector of all Latin American states, there is rising the cry of the three musketeers—"one for all and all for one."

Officials know that, however beneficial the Monroe doctrine has been in preserving the independence of Latin American states, many of them heartily dislike it. They fear it is giving the United States a protectorate over them.

Hint From FDR
In his Pan-American day address last month President Roosevelt gave a hint of the new direction the policy is taking. Speaking of peace and the 21 American republics, he said:

"It (peace) shall not be endangered by controversies within our family; and we will not permit it to be endangered from aggression coming from outside of our hemisphere.

"This, a common objective of all of us, forms a lasting foundation for the maintenance of an international understanding unique in the world."

Under the old Monroe doctrine, the United States has been ready to resist any attempt by a non-American nation to acquire additional territory in the western hemisphere. This was regardless of the attitude of the Latin American nations.

Under the doctrine now taking form the United States would continue to resist such an attempt, but would consult with the other nations of this hemisphere and would act jointly with them.

The department of agriculture states that 16,818,000 bales of last year's record cotton crop of almost 8,000,000 bales had been sold by farmers for $784,194,000.

Conscription for military service was first introduced by the Chinese during the "Period of the Warring States" (470-370 B.C.).

'MIGHTY PROUD' OF SECOND REPRIEVE

HUNTSVILLE, May 21 (AP)—Selma Canedo, convicted killer, said tonight he "was mighty proud" to have received a reprieve of execution for the second time.

Canedo, accused of killing Joseph W. Daly, San Antonio machinist, said he hoped to win a commutation of sentence.

M'Craw Denounces State Sales Tax

KIRBYVILLE, May 21 (AP)—Speaking in six towns of this southern Texas area, Attorney General William M'Craw gubernatorial candidate, denounced today proposals for a sales tax.

"You can call it a luxury tax if you want to; you can dress it up in any style, but eventually the sales tax will reach every sunbunnet in Texas," he said.

The sales tax would come out of the pocket of the fellow who is least able to pay, M'Craw asserted. "It'll come from sources where it will hurt most. The average man in Texas is just about earning a living and when you dig him for two per cent of what he gets and spends you are digging where it really hurts."

M'Craw also said he was against proposals to abandon all ad valorem taxes.

Three Entertain For Bride-Elect Of Stanton Man

Margaret Parks Is Complimented With Shower

STANTON, May 21 (Sp1)—One of the loveliest parties of the season was given Friday afternoon when Mrs. Jim Tom, Mrs. V. Y. Sadler, and Mrs. Gilbert Graves entertained with a shower complimenting the bride of the season, Miss Margaret Parks. Miss Parks was married Saturday to Wayne Moffett.

The Tom residence was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Masses of roses, larkspur, peonies and cornflowers gave the rooms the appearance of a lovely flower garden.

Guests were met at the door by Mrs. Tom and Mrs. Graves. Mrs. Virgil Stephenson, of Baltimore, presided at the bride's book, in which each guest registered.

In the dining room, the table was laid with a handsome imported linen cloth. Pink tapers in blue holders burned on each side of the centerpiece which was of pink by drangosa. Mrs. Bill Clements served punch.

Misses Janny Beth Zimmerman and Nora Allene Purser entertained guests with tap dances during the afternoon. Mrs. Bryan Henderson gave an appropriate reading dedicated to the honoree. An accordion and violin duet was given by Miss Cleo Crabtree and Mrs. L. P. Daniels.

Glass

her finest pieces were found in cabinets being used for pin trays, pencil holders—usually filled with bits of thread or rolls of kinky hair.

A few of her prizes were handed down through several generations of her own family. Even as a child, Mrs. Moor had a penchant for glass. A 110-year-old powder box is one of the family heirlooms.

The most valuable of her bottle collection is a Venetian piece, said to be one of two in existence, and date from 1850. The man owning the other one offered her $500 for the mate and later liked the offer. She declined to sell. It was found in a negro cabin and picked up for a very small sum. The bottle was made of one of the earliest known kinds of glass by a secret method—now lost—on the island of Murano.

Mrs. Moor believes she is the only collector who has six candy display plates used by the old-time druggist.

A stoppered whiskey decanter with a handle of pressed glass going back to 1838 or perhaps 1812, is her latest piece. It was given to her by one of the workmen at the hospital whose grandfather brought it from New Orleans. Previously, she had been to New Orleans and saw a bottle identical to the gift in a museum.

She examined the piece thoroughly and was told by the museum attendant it was the only one in existence. She returned home, and in less than six months, the workman presented her with the museum mate.

For the past two years, she has been lecturing on old glass in various cities of the west and middle west.

Amusing Mug

One prize piece (1750) is a salt cellar in the shape and size of a modern sherbet glass. Its owner explained its size as being necessary in those days when salt was coarse.

Another museum piece is a tall Waterford celery glass. It has indentations around the base originally intended for thumb holds—a timely safeguard against dropping the heavy glasses of that day and a valuable identification of early types.

An amusing relic of Civil War days explained by the collector is a monkey jug in her possession. These comical bottles were originated by W. C. T. U. members fighting the liquor traffic in early days. It was their hope that a man awakening from a prolonged "souse" would see one of the horrid looking animals and decide to repent.

A few Big Spring women are interested in glass collecting and there has been some talk of them banding together for a study. "My hobby has been fascinating—it has been fun—and when I'm gone, I want someone to have the collection who will enjoy it as I have!" And thus ended an interesting interview with the "glass woman," as she is called by hundreds who are familiar with her hobby but not her name.

Banquet

David Lamun, freshman boy favorite, who gave his best wishes to the seniors, naming the band members who are graduates. He then handed the pipe to Carolyn Smith, freshman favorite, who, with her best wishes, called the names of graduating pep squad girls.

The pipe then went to Lefty Bethell, sophomore favorite who fluted the football graduates in his tribute to the class.

Another sophomore favorite, Sara Lamun, was presented with the pipe and called the choral club maidens and braves who are to leave. Tommie McCrary, junior president, spoke in behalf of her class and the others in presenting the pipe and all it meant—peace, happiness—friendship and goodwill to the senior president, E. C. Ground. Bell responded in behalf of the graduates.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" (I Corinthians 3:16). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To divest thought of false trusts and material evidences in order that the spiritual facts of being may appear—this is the great attainment by means of which we shall sweep away the false and give place to the true. Dead Week At Tech, Then Tests; And What Will The Answers Be?

By NANCY PHILIPS

LUBBOCK, May 21—Dead week is just around the proverbial corner here at Tech, exams around the next sharp, perilous turn and then we come to journey's end—school is out! After that will come joyous, glorious, incessant loafing which will consist of feverish running and playing with the monotonous result of blistered backs, empty heads and blistered backs. It all comes under the head of the joy of living, particularly in the summer time—the good ole summer time.

Slang expressions that run havoc over the campus:

To the freshman the girl's dormitory has several high sounding names; Doak's Hen House, Filly Barn, Finny Barn and, of course, jail. Other slang expressions are "trucking," walking with much rhythm; "snake," one who steps out on his or her steady; "to rat around," to go somewhere but no definite place; "cup of dope," cup of coffee; "popey," pancy, a very, very ugly girl; "dude," one who wears loud colors; "shoot the bull," the well known line; "hop," "struggle," "rat race," all refer to dances; "run and play," a playboy's chief occupation; "courtin'" is just—well, just plain ole courtin' the same as it's always been.

No wonder the professors are 'latty'—here are some of the answers they receive on tests: "The Pilgrim fathers settled at Plymouth Rock," wrote one student, "because the winters were very cold, and the rock was big enough to give protection from the cy north wind." According to one student the Spanish Armada was a lance, somewhat like the rhumba, which originated during the time of Queen Elizabeth. "When Louis XIV invaded Holland," a young man wrote, "th Dutch cut the dikes and serfdom flooded the country driving the French out." According to graders the weather is frequently and thoroughly discussed on daily test papers by students who don't know the answers.

"Twinkle, twinkle little star—how I wonder if these are ever read," wrote one student expressing the sentiment of many students who take daily tests.

Impressive Ceremony Read For Margaret Parks And W. Moffett

STANTON, May 21 (Sp)—Miss Margaret Parks, daughter of R. L. Parks, Sr., became the bride of Wayne Moffett Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in a beautiful and impressive ceremony, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Simpson.

The service was read by the Rev. Fred McPherson, pastor of the First Baptist church. Only relatives and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony which was solemnized in a setting of unusual spring beauty.

The nuptial vows were taken before an improvised altar in the living room of the Simpson residence. Beautiful roses added a colorful note to the floral decorations throughout the house.

Miss Allene Kaderli gave a vocal solo preceding the entrance of the wedding party. The bride wore a brown silk marquisette afternoon frock. With this she wore brown and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, the young couple were honorees at a buffet supper at the home of the groom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Moffett.

Immediately after the supper the bride and groom left on a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Moffett has lived here since childhood. She attended high school in Stanton and Midland. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Moffett. READING AND WRITING

"THE ENGLISH HERITAGE," by Rex Weldon Finn (Reynal & Hitchcock; $2.50); "THE VOICES OF THE CATHEDRAL," by Sartell Prentice (Morrow; $3.50).

The recent opening of "The Cloisters," the beautiful new branch of the Metropolitan museum on a hill in upper New York City, has turned a good many minds back into the past. In the loisters are gathered brilliantly chosen examples of medieval art, whole chapter houses, cloisters and so forth, each incorporated functionally into a building designed in the medieval spirit, but not copied from any particular building.

It is true that The Cloisters contains chiefly French and Spanish art; England is pretty well ignored. For that reason a glance at Rex Weldon Finn's "The English Heritage" may be helpful to anyone who wants to have in mind the entire picture of medieval culture—he does not confine himself to that department, but there is enough on the subject for the general reader.

His purpose is to show what the influence of the English past has been on the English present; what the culture was which produced the abbeys and fortified manor houses, and what survivals of this culture exist and influence us today. He comes down through history to the industrial revolution, and although what he says by no means exhausts the subject, it is intelligent and helpful.

Sartell Prentice's "The Voices of the Cathedral" is closer to the material of The Cloisters, for it considers chiefly the cathedrals of Europe, and its illustrations are of material which may frequently be found duplicated at the museum.

The author's thesis is that the cathedral was not only a building to house religious functions, but a sort of talking book. Nearly every feature of the cathedral was there to tell a story, from the shape of the edifice itself to the minutest carving over the least important door. Time was when these stories were "read" easily by the lowliest peasant of Europe, the changing attitude of civilization have obscured them for most of us. So Mr. Prentice takes us in hand. His book, written with much charm, is a kind of translation of the cathedral, and a valuable one.

Woman Of The Week

Mary Norton

Makes Congressmen Jump

By the AP Feature Service

They call them congressmen, and when they head a legislative committee the title is chairman. Those words are relics of a day when making laws for these United States was a man's job.

That day is done. Exhibit A: Congressman Mary Norton of New Jersey, chairman of the house labor committee, boss carpenter of the new deal crew seeking to build a federal floor under wages and a roof on hours of work.

It was Congressman Norton who cracked the whip that made 217 fellow congressmen march up and sign the petition that finally got the rules committee onto the floor of the house. And it only took 2 hours and 22 minutes, an unusually short time.

Black-eyed Mary Norton doesn't talk much. She tries as hard as anyone to keep her temper. But when she loses it—

She happened to be next in rank when Representative William Conroy, of Massachusetts, died. She could have avoided the responsibility of the labor committee chairmanship, but she didn't.

She was the first congresswoman on the democratic ledger when she came to Washington in 1924. She was the first woman chairman of a congressional committee—the District of Columbia committee, a position that made her what might be termed the "mayor of Washington." Other firsts for her: first woman chairman of a state political convention; first woman chairman of a state party.

Her present job—first woman chairman of a major congressional committee—has been difficult.

When she presided over her first meeting, members staged a kind of "shut-up" strike. She broke that by precipitating a quarrel. Since then it is understood, there has been no sentiment for making her job harder.

"My Feet Are Near Killing Me"

Observe the hurried and harried shopper, her spirits down and her arches following. Right after breakfast this morning, she slipped on another dress, powdered her nose, tucked her handbag under her arm and swung down-town to do the stores.

She has traversed miles of aisles, picking up this, turning over that, not finding precisely what she wanted here, trying again over there. It was warm in the stores, in that winter coat. There were crowds.

She is more tired and discouraged than she might have been. Right there at home was the daily newspaper... a veritable catalog of commodities, telling What, Who, Where and How Much. An hour spent with the advertisements would have saved two or three in town.

Read the ads in this paper before setting out on a shopping trip. It is common sense reduced to its simplest terms.

History Of B'Spring Schools

One of the principal accusations of the Texans in their Declaration of Independence in 1836 was based on the failure of the Mexican government to provide for public education. The early citizen of Big Spring was not different to the average American who always demanded that his child receive a reasonably accurate knowledge of the "Three R's"; reading, writing, and arithmetic.

According to the memory of Mrs. M. E. Barrett the first school in the Big Spring country was taught in a tent in the vicinity of the gateway of the city park. Soon after the organization of the county, on November 13, 1882, the commissioners' court of Howard county ordered the construction of a two-story school building for which $500 was appropriated from the public funds. There was a provision that this upper room might be used as a court room for a period of six months until further arrangements could be made. Later the Masonic organization occupied this room. The building site was that of the present federal post office. Evidently the court was not well versed in school law since it was ordered "that the Howard County Common School shall be conducted under the law governing community schools EXCEPT so far as pertains to the salaries of teachers and the scholastic age of school children. All children between the ages of six and 21 are hereby declared to be within the scholastic age." The modification of state laws by county officials seems to have caused no friction between the two units of government. On July 14, 1883, the commissioners' court officially created the Howard County Common School District No. 1 and the limits were the boundaries of the county. At the same time the court created the Martin County Common School District No. 2. That county was attached to Howard county for judicial purposes. It is interesting that at about the same time, on August 14, 1882, the court awarded the contract for the erection of a calaboose to J. Speight Smith for the sum of $487. The demand for it must have been urgent as he was requested to hurry with the construction.

According to the late I. D. Eddins, he, a Mr. Hines, and a Mr. Stewart were the first trustees. H. M. Morgan was the first teacher. Other teachers who followed were Miss Addie Hyde, A. M. Steele, T. C. Bentley, Mr. McCann, Mr. Chatman, L. S. Trapp, J. C. Mathews, and T. A. Bledsoe.

When our fellow townsman, Jim Winslow, was a student in the school in 1885 there were only two teachers employed. The principal, Mr. Steele, according to Mrs. Zinn, "nearly beat Jim Winslow to death." That incident illustrates well the contrasts in discipline in schools after the lapse of more than fifty years. In keeping with the old Egyptian adage, "the child had a back only to be beaten." Winslow had merely retaliated in a common water fight, with one Lillie Morell, by slapping the dipper when she was drinking. He says that after the teacher had worn out the third hackber-

Our County In The Making

ry switch he began to show fight, but to his own sorrow. This only heightened the rage of the teacher who continued the chastisement more vigorously. He says it must have done him good because it was his first and last whipping in school. He talked over the incident recently with the same Lillie who is married and lives in Amarillo. She has not ceased to sympathize with Winslow and to wish that she had not reported the incident.

As the Big Spring school grew from one teacher in 1882 to five in 1898, there developed a loose system of grading, but without any definite organization. In the coming of E. Reagan, who had been educated at Baylor University and who came here from the superintendency of the schools of Coleman, the school took on new life. A catalog setting forth the regulations of the school and the curriculum by grades was printed, and the institution took on the appearance of a real school. The exercises of the first graduating class took place with the usual dignity in keeping with such occasions. Members of the class were Miss Inez Highsaw, now Mrs. William D. Petet, Miss Ruth Rix, now Mrs. Carl Svenson of Lubbock, and Miss Willie Kennon, a sister of Mrs. Tom Gooch of El Paso.

The incorporation of the Big Spring Independent School District on Dec. 16, 1901 was perfected during the incumbency of Mr. Reagan. At that time Joseph Pottou was president of the school board, S. H. Morrison was secretary, and the other members of the board were A. T. Suddy, J. C. Smith, A. G. Hall, and L. T. Deats. An election was called in which a bond issue of $16,000 was voted for a new school building. The issue was carried by a vote of 117 to six. In December of the same year a $5,000 issue was carried without a dissenting vote. The old school building was moved off on the grounds in front of the postoffice to be used while the proposed building was under construction. Mr. Reagan retired from the teaching profession and entered the drug business. He was succeeded by S. E. Thompson, A.M., who had formerly been the vice president of Baylor University.

Dr. Charlie Deats speaks of Mr. Thompson as an immaculately dressed gentleman who wore mustache and a goatee. He was always addressed as "professor" and bore himself with the grace of a Southern aristocrat. He was strong in discipline, but was well liked by the boys. The curriculum was stiff with four years of Latin straight without electives. If the pupil didn't like the course he just got out. It was during the superintendency of Mr. Thompson that Clyde E. Thomas came into the system as principal of the high school and teacher of science and mathematics. The present system of affiliation with the department of education is a matter of recent years, but the Big Spring school was at that time affiliated with the University of Texas and later with other higher institutions of learning. A renewed interest was taken in athletics. Interscholastic games were instituted and basketball became popular. Football was becoming popular. The team was the pride of the town. The boys played thirty minute halves without any of the modern equipment which makes the game much less perilous. Earnest Vaughn was the coach and also played halfback. Ollie Vaughn was one of the popular athletes of the town. Harry Hurt and Johnny Price remember Mr. Thomas as "the absent-minded professor" who put them in detention for a short time and went out to play tennis where he remained till nightfall. The town at that time did not have so many things of interest and school activities attracted much attention. It was the day of Earl Philips who has long since lost his first name and is popularly known as "Shine" Philips. He states that he never graduated, but was "kicked out." It was probably another case where the arbitrary teacher had never studied boyology.

Mr. Thompson was followed by A. D. Ellis under whose administration an additional $16,000 bond issue was voted to relieve ever present congestion. North and South ward school buildings were erected. Mr. Ellis was succeeded by Mr. Thompson who returned for one year.

It was during the administration of M. H. Brasher, now retired and living at Abilene, that the school system was affiliated with the department of education. Also the first unit of the present high school building was erected at a cost of $40,000. Brasher was followed by A. W. Flaniken, who soon carried through another bond election of $35,000 for the erection of a junior high school building. The going of Mr. Flaniken to Lamesa left a vacancy which was filled by the election of P. B. Bittie. During the latter part of his administration a $20,000 bond issue was voted for improvements on the South Ward school plant, and $150,000 was voted to make an annex on the high school building and other improvements. Requirements for equipment were becoming imperative and these bills alone ran into the thousands of dollars.

By this time the town was on the peak of a boom. The discovery of oil nearby was bringing money and many new families into the city. The school, throbbing under the pains of growth, was taken over by W. C. Blankenship in June, 1928. Congested conditions led to the voting of a $125,000 issue in 1930 for the erection of modern plants for the North ward, for the South ward, and for the West ward schools. The purchase of the old school ground by the federal government for a postoffice site led to the wrecking of the old high school building the material of which was used in the construction of a school for the Mexicans. The plant is valued at approximately $40,000 and was named the Kate Morrison school in honor of Mrs. S. H. Morrison who has shown much interest many years for the advancement of the Mexican people. The negro population in Big Spring has always been small and not a great deal of provision had been made for their education. Their number increased, however, along with the growth of the town and a substantial two-room building was provided for them.

Changes for good are usually preceded by spells of radicalism. Men go off at a tangent and advocate the impossible. The very radical nature, however, of their ideas challenge thought. In spite of the fact that all progress is the outgrowth of the evolution of ideas and practices, these theorists prize men out of their old ruts and set the old machine out on more solid ground. For many years school men have felt that our schools were not functioning properly. It became an impressive fact that the school should fit the child and not the child fit the school. It is not so much the question of how many units in Latin a pupil may acquire or how much cultural value there may be attached to the pursuance of a course of study; but, in our highly and ever increasing complex civilization, it becomes a serious question as to how well the youth may be able to fit himself into the social order in which he may be thrown. This is the one problem that should challenge the thought of both conservative and radical.

The problems of the new order are being faced honestly by the executives of the Big Spring school system. Their ideas in the value of the theory is evidenced in the courses of study that are being offered which tend to fit the pupil for life's work. In the department of business training, which includes such studies as bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, salesmanship, and secretarial work, six and a half units are offered. Three and a half units are offered in home economics. One-half unit in this course may be acquired by boys. In music two units are offered in theory, one each in band and orchestra and one in applied music. The band has 65 pieces and is conducted by D. W. Conley. The choral club work is under the supervision of Mrs. Bruce Frazier.

The recent step toward practical education to fit the pupil for life's problems is the apprenticeship training program introduced in 1935 with Pascal Buckner as the teacher or coordinator. When Mr. Buckner received an appointment as state supervisor in the same field of work, Seth Parsons was elected in his stead.

This work is open to pupils of junior standing who are above 16 years of age. The pupil works with some local firm and selects his work in keeping with his own ideas. The coordinator visits the pupil on the job and maps out his studies in keeping with the work undertaken. Four units may be acquired in this manner. The work is aided by the federal government which bears one-half the expense. The other half is borne in equal amounts by the state and by the local school.

The Big Spring school system has been designated as one of the few laboratory schools of the state where modern trends in education are being studied. The unit method of education is being advocated and practiced instead of the text book page to page method. The coming of Thomas E. Pierce, who was for eight years principal of an elementary school in Abilene and who is a master graduate of Columbia university, into the Big Spring system as supervisor of elementary education brought a new day to the schools. Mr. Pierce assumes a sympathetic attitude towards the teacher and enables her to apply the methods in keeping with her aptitudes in the work.

The most recent development in the Big Spring school system was the voting of $65,000 in bonds which is being matched by the W.P.A. setup by an increase of 45% of the amount which is being used for the construction of a new school building on 19th and Goliad which is to be known as the College Heights Elementary school, and in the construction of an auditorium and gymnasium on the grounds of the high school.

In the Big Spring school system there are 89 teachers in all grades and in high school work. There are three administrators: W. C. Blankenship, superintendent; George Gentry, principal of the high school; and Thomas E. Pierce, supervisor of elementary schools. The work of the office is administered by Edmund Notestine and Mrs. Annabelle Lovelace. According to Mr. Gentry, forty-four and a half units of affiliation are offered.

Wayne Brooks Wins Feeding Contest

Takes First Money Of $25 In Rotary-Sponsored Event

Wayne Brooks, son of Fay Brooks, was announced Saturday as first place winner in the feeding contest sponsored by the Rotary club.

His designation won him a $25 award to go with $24 he cleared on his feeding experiment. Son of Fay Brooks, who in 1937 lived on the S. D. Buchanan farm in the Center Point community, Wayne produced all of the feed he used in feeding his calf with the exception of cottonseed meal. His feeding test was interrupted at one point when a change was made to another farm west of Knott in Martin county.

In awarding the places in the contest, judges considered accuracy of records, their conformity with good feeding practices, daily gain of calf and cost per pound gain. 404-Pound Gain
Taking a calf just off the range at 490 pounds, Wayne fed for 180 days, producing a total gain of 404 pounds, total weight of 894 pounds and an average daily gain of 2.2 pounds. Cost of gain was pegged at 83 cents per pound, figuring feterita bundles at two cents, maize heads at $12 a ton, and cottonseed $1.40 per hundred pounds.

John Masters bought the calf, paying $95.37, leaving Wayne a profit of $24.49 after $70.88 cost was deducted.

Others winning places were Varnie Jones, Garner, second; Ray Stalcup, Coahoma, third; Clifton Stalcup, Coahoma, fourth; and Rayford Gillman, Fairview, fifth.

His Story
Wayne Brooks tells his own story about the feeding test: "I joined the 4-H club in 1936 and raised maize my first year. I harvested about 1200 pounds of heads per acre. The following year I raised feterita and harvested approximately 200 bundles per acre. "I bought my calf from the Rotary club of Big Spring, on August 28, 1937, by making a note to Mr. Ira Driver. This calf is a Hereford steer, which weighed 490 pounds and was only about three feet tall.

"I put some feed in the trough, but he would hardly eat, so I put some salt on his feed and he soon began to eat. After this I had no more trouble trying to make him eat. He seemed to be afraid of me at first, but I put a rope around his neck and let him drag it a few days. Everytime I went around the lot I spoke to him and rubbed him. I also brushed and washed him every few days.

Rations
"The first four days I did not feed him any grain, just two bundles of feed each day and kept water in his trough all the time. I fed him an average of about 3-4 pound of cottonseed meal, 1 pound of ground maize heads, and about 3 bundles of feterita per day for the first month. I increased his ground feed and cottonseed meal but decreased the bundles daily until the amount I fed him in February was 4 pounds of cottonseed meal, 14 pounds of ground maize heads and 1 bundle of feterita each day.

"I moved my calf from seven miles north of Big Spring to about thirty miles north of Big Spring on January 17, 1938. He would not drink much water and I rubbed salt around on the trough, which made him want more water.

"I like the feeding and care of beef calves just fine. I have learned quite a bit that I did not know since this is the first experience I have had in caring for beef calves and I hope to some day feed and care for a herd of Herefords of my own."

IN SERIOUS CONDITION
W. A. Gilmour, III at his home for the past several weeks, continued in a serious condition Saturday.

YOUTH CHARTS ITS COURSE

This is the season of the year when youth is exposed to more than the ordinary volume of advice.

Which is all very well. If the advice is not too much and not overdone, youth of today is as open to suggestion and reason as that of any other generation.

An indication of this is revealed in a survey conducted among seniors of the Big Spring high school.

Of 98 seniors answering a questionnaire, 73 are planning on further education, in colleges, business school and other types of institutions.

Not all the plans of the graduates will go to perfection, of course. Some will have found their maker.

WHY NOT A LOCAL BOOK SHOWER?

San Angelo and Tom Green county occupy a fortunate place today in having just opened, for the pleasure and profit of all their citizens, the new headquarters of the Tom Green county public library.

One civic-minded person made the building possible, but the accumulation of many thousands of volumes to go into the library building has resulted from county-wide effort.

We wonder if the same promotion could not be undertaken in Big Spring? Some people with books they cherish would be happy to make a personal sacrifice.

FAIR TREATMENT OF BUSINESS PLEDGED

GAINESVILLE, May 21 (AP)—The American business man was praised as "one of the nation's heroes whose contributions to prosperity and happiness are often overlooked."

"Fair and square" treatment for legitimate business was promised by the candidate in a campaign speech here. He rapped monopoly and the "agency of legitimate business."

THE DEADLOCK

Within administration circles and in the business community there are a fair number of men who are willing to go to a lot of trouble to promote a better understanding and some kind of practical working arrangement.

The easy answer to the question is that they have irreconcilably opposing views. The new dealers say, do not believe that the deepest cause of the trouble is theoretical, or as it is now the fashion to say, ideological.

Yet from what first-hand observations I have been able to make I do not believe that the deepest cause of the trouble is theoretical, or as it is now the fashion to say, ideological.

The trouble as I see it is that without quite intending it we have drifted into a social arrangement under which the economic interests of business men in a normal recovery are at odds with the political interests of stockholders in the perpetuation of their power.

The whole thing originated in the administration of President Hoover when the idea became firmly fixed in the public mind that in a depression the government should protect prices and wage rates by limiting the spending.

During this period of primed recovery under the new deal, the spokesmen of business, both republican and old-style democratic, made what has proved to be a fatal political error.

When finally, in 1937, the administration itself cut down drastically its real deficit expenditure and there followed immediately a crash and another depression, all political reluctance to a resumption of prosperity disappeared.

The success of this system produces a situation in which an important design of the politicians take over the role formerly played by private bankers and private investors.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—For some inexplicable reason I am always confounding Jimmy Dorsey with his brother Tommy. There is no reason for this, except that they are brothers and lead rival bands. They don't look alike and they do not play the same style of music.

These brothers are an interesting parallel in modern dance bands. Like the Warners, Fred and Tom, they used to be together but in those days they were rewarded with only fair success.

Jimmy, too, is just winding up a big town booking. I sat in on one of his final evenings at the Hotel New Yorker, where he has had a marvelous reception, and in the company was a representative of Jimmy's who knows both brothers from sax to trombone.

One learns that the Dorsey boys come by their musical inclinations naturally and honestly. Their father was a musician, and their band in a Pennsylvania town, where they were born.

Tommy is slightly the taller of the two, and a shade lighter in complexion. He wears glasses. Jimmy is darker, on the slender side, and does not wear glasses.

About the time Tommy is knee deep in his tour Jimmy will be on one tour. Tommy goes west, Jimmy heads into the south. He'll go to Birmingham, Ala., where as the guest of the governor, he'll witness the National Air Races.

Tommy, by the way, is a married man and has two kiddies, Patsy and Skipper. Jimmy also is married and has a little girl, known simply but adequately as "the Boss."

HOLLYWOOD—Claire Trevor's the best proof in town that a bit in a "big" picture is worth more to an actress than starring roles in the "little ones."

Blonde Miss Trevor for 20th Century-Fox. Her pictures haven't cost big money, and they've made quite a bit. But they weren't using her in the big ones until she did that one-act role in "Dead End" on loan to Goldwyn.

Incidentally, if B-ing turns out "queens" like Trevor, movie studios ought to make their stars serve apprenticeships. The girl is as easy to get along with now as she was when she dropped from Ernest Truex's stage play, "Whispering in the Dark," into a screen test—and she's a much better actress besides.

Jean Parker looks comically demure these days for her role in "Romance of the Lumberjack." Period thing, turn-of-the-century rural, so Jean wears a hat with ruffled feathers, a weird dress and high-buttoned boots.

The costume didn't suggest ballet, but that's what she talked about mostly between scenes. She's studying it, two lessons a week and what's more, a ballet movie may come out of the subject her husband, George MacDonald, former newspaperman, and with Jean Lasky, Jr., who has written a ballet story, young Lasky being an avid student of the art.

Imagination takes a spring flight at the New Universal, as witness "Memo To The Department Heads—From Charles R. Rogers." Please be advised that the College Series will be entitled as follows—

Fritz Lang, who directed Sylvia Sydney and George Raft in "You and Me," gives credit where it's due:

"Acting and directing are two entirely separate phases of picture-making. Therefore all credit for a fine piece of acting should go to the actor. Naturally it is the director who paces the picture and endeavors to secure an effective blend of performances that will result in a quality production.

Today's pronunciation lesson: Dan-yell Dare-you will do for the new French star... Carol (at Christmas) is good enough for Lombard, despite the "e"... Mee-sha Hour (as on the clock) is best for the funniest Russian... Mar-lay-nah (if you must be fancy) for Dietrich, which is DEE-trick and not Deet-rich or Deet-reech. But Marleen will do... See-moan See-moan, of course, for the double-talk gal... Ree-go for the Argentine Rigaud... Eesa (as in ees-on-the-eyes) for Miranda... Mar-go (as in Mrs. Francis Lederer) for Margot Grahame, which is Gram, as with Ed Wynn, not Gray Hame (as in "My Little Gray Hame in the West")... With George Barbier just be simple... Bar-bee-ay doesn't go with him.

Ostragon House

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

Chapter 13 ANOTHER MOTIVE Assey drew a deep breath. "Pam an' Nettie," he said, "they're sort of cousins. Is that it? Jennie, how in the world do you happen to know all that? You reeled it off like you'd been sayin' it every day for thirty years."

"It'd be peculiar if I didn't know," his cousin said, "considerin' that phone's rung steady since six this mornin'. Oh—an' did you hear about Roddy? Roddy Strutt?" "What's that fellow done now? Smashed up another car or another boat?" "It's a plane this time. He got a new one yesterday. Seems some friends of his had their plane down too, an' they was goin' back to New York in theirs, an' nothin' would do but Roddy had to trail 'em in his. Went as far as Providence, to some airport or somethin'. Com-plaine himself—wouldn't let him land. He landed. He landed it bang down in Quanamet Depot Square in the middle of the night, they say, an' I don't know how many cars he hurt, or folks either. Seems if everybody was hurt but Roddy—ain't that always the way? Oh, an' did you hear about the mural?"

"I see it," Assey said succinctly. "Did you hear about the minister bein' in it—his face? Folks say they're pretty mad about that in Quanamet. He does have a mole on his nose, but no one thinks any thing about it, an' he's a real good man. In the mural, it's awful. Seems they got all sorts of folks in it. An' horrid, too. Horrid drawings stuck onto horrid people doing horrid things. They're pretty mad in Quanamet. I—well, you mustn't tell, because I didn't hear this on the phone but I did hear, Assey, that some of the folks was no mad, they was goin' to do somethin' to that mural. Hurt it."

"You can't blame anyone," Assey said, "for a perfectly natural human reaction; on the other hand, you want to sort of point out that it's government property, an' the government ain't had no sense of humor for a long time."

"Slow Thinking" "You mean they'd send people," Jennie demanded, "like G-men?" "They might, if it happened to strike 'em that way. Myself, I'd think it sort of funny, but the people that matter might consider it the defeat of government property."

"D'you really think it's true what they say about the murder?" Jennie asked, "About what really happened?" "Well, they say someone that was pictured in that mural got mad, an' went for Jack Lorne. 'But they didn't kill him. They killed Marina."

Jennie nodded. "That's just it, Jack Lorne's a good painter, least-ways he was when he first came to town. You could tell what he meant to paint, in those days. After Marina married him he begun to show folks what he was really like. His faces were the same size as their stomachs, or their heads like pins. He did the nicest picture of the lily pond an' they was all mud flats an' dung heaps. Stuff like that."

"An' you think Marina made the change in him?" Assey asked. "It's not that so much, but—well, people did some thinkin', an' they thought about Jack Lorne. Nobody likes him, but he ain't what you'd call bad. He isn't so horrid, Assey, just sort of slow thinkin', if you know what I mean. Not stupid, but slow. Folks would be thought up them cartoons like—all by himself, see? An' the way some folks figger is this. Suppose someone who's been painted in that mural got mad at Jack Lorne, an' then thought it out, an' decided Marina put Jack up to it—you see what I mean?"

Assey nodded. It was exactly the same sort of thing that Pam Fryc had brought up during their conversation on those pink granite post office steps the day before. "Gallivantin' An' Trapsin'" "There's also another side," he remarked, "now that I consider it. Suppose what a hornet's nest he stirred up with his mural. An' how the caricatures Marina put him up to are the things that are the most horney. I wonder if he'd be mad enough—it don't seem so."

"If he thought that, Marina'd of talked him out of it right away," Jennie said. "She's talked him out of lots and lots of things. Why, he loved her, they say. He even thought she was faithful to him, think of that! An' her gallivantin' and trapsin' around with every Tom, Dick and Harry. This year it's been that boob Roddy Strutt. They say that how Jack got to do that mural?"

Assey had to confess that the connection escaped him entirely. "Why, it's simple, Assey. Roddy's uncle is somethin' in Washington. He had the—what would you call it? the letting out of this painting. Lots of people tried for the job in a sort of competition, but Jack Lorne won. An' they say that he wasn't anywhere near the best—from what I hear I guess it was the worst! Anyway, Roddy spoke to his uncle and Jack won. An' you can guess why Roddy spoke to his uncle! An' now, Assey Mayo, you go straight over to Nettie Hobbs an' shut her mouth up! Perhaps"

Long-Range Weather Forecasting To Be Attempted By The Government

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 21 (AP)—The government and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have decided today to take a shot at long-range weather forecasting. It will be done secretly for the present.
Both federal and M.I.T. weather specialists, collaborating, will begin his summer to make five-day forecasts, which will be kept under lock and key for at least a year. After that, if the predictions hold up, the weather men will come out into the open.
The decision marks a step toward the government's dream ultimately to forecast general weather trends as far as a year ahead.
Improvement in meteorological has led weather specialists to believe the time is now ripe for their attempt.
The key to the whole concept is believed to lie in a complete understanding of the influence on weather of the movement of free air in higher levels above the earth, say anywhere from 2,000 to 20,000 feet.
Under this idea, the atmosphere is regarded from a three-dimensional viewpoint, and the five-day forecasts will be based on information from all over the United States, giving surface weather conditions at various levels up to the height an airplane can fly, and statistical analyses put together from these factors.

Public Service company was approved by the directors of National Power and Light yesterday, and similar action by the stockholders was considered certain.
From Knoxville came word there would be no hitch on the buyers' side. Mayor Walter M. Mynatt said both the city and David Lillenthal, TVA director, would agree to pay $7,900,000, a $400,000 hike from an offer characterized as "final" last week.

Louisiana plans a public hunting ground on 35,000 acres of land leased to the state without charge by a lumber company. The land is in process of reforestation.

Louisiana State university and the University of Texas have completed plans for the publication of a 10-volume history of the South.

BRINGS LETTER HERE, SPENDS 54 CENTS FOR POSTAGE

Postmaster Nat Shick increased his air mail stamp sales 54 cents Saturday—and in a very unexpected fashion.

Dorothy Doan arrived in Big Spring Friday night via bus, carrying a large air mail letter for cancellation in the local postoffice. She planned to carry it back to Abilene personally Saturday on the American Airlines plane, broadcasting over the ship's shortwave transmitter for re-broadcast over KRBC, Abilene radio station, en route.

Arriving at the postoffice Mrs. Doan was confronted with the information that the letter would have to carry postage before it could be cancelled.

She bought 54 cents worth of air mail stamps, which the postmaster cancelled.

On top of that, there was so much static that the short-wave broadcast couldn't go through, according to information here.
