

On The DIVIDE

April 2 to 9 has been designated as State-wide Clean-Up week and along with other communities of the state Eldorado will likely undergo considerable spring cleaning.

Some citizens have already begun planting shrubbery, planting gardens and other improvements around their premises, having been encouraged in this by the recent announcement of reduced water rates during summer months. Yards and gardens will be watered this summer at a much lower cost than in past years.

Spring cleaning also brings up the problem of where to haul trash and rubbish that has accumulated about the place during winter months. The city has an adequate place for dumping trash in the north-east outskirts of the city. A dump ground with a rock fence built around, to help obstruct the unsightly view from passersby.

It was noted last week that a Mexican youth hauling rubbish in a pick-up, stopped his truck outside the rock wall and was unloading cans, glass and other trash in the road—not taking the trouble to drive close enough to dump the load in the place prepared for this purpose. This practice not only makes the place more unsightly, but possible causes injury to passing automobiles that might strike broken glass or nails.

Every citizen should be urged to dump his trash in the dump grounds, not in the roadway.

JOBS BEST FARM AID

The National Grange, which claims to be the oldest and largest farm organization in the United States, has long looked with skepticism on most of the panaceas offered by the government under the guise of farm relief.

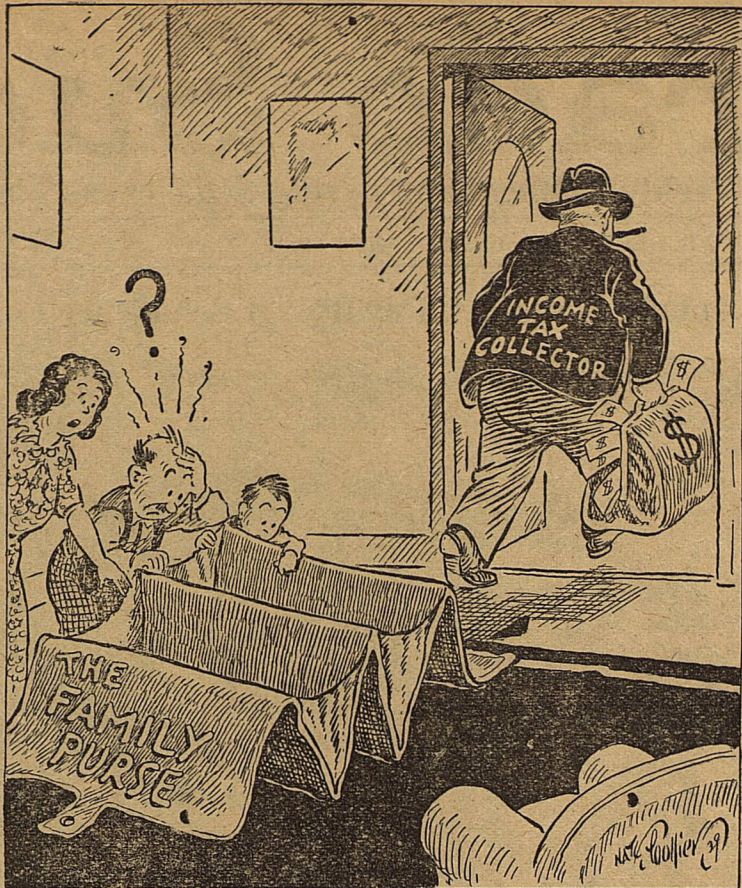

In a recent statement, Fred Brenckman, spokesman and Washington representative of the Grange, suggested to Congress that the best thing it could do for the farmer would be to solve the unemployment problem. He declared that "there is an interdependence between industry and agriculture that is fundamental and inescapable."

"In considering ways and means of improving farm conditions," he said, "the Grange is of the opinion that one of the most helpful things the government could do would be to pursue a policy calculated to restore employment in private industry."

On other phases of the session's problems, the Grange expressed a hope that Congress would overcome "any undue interference from the executive department," abandon the practice of granting lump sum appropriations, reduce the public debt, revise the distribution of relief and let the people know that allotment of funds.

In fortifying Washington representatives with figures for the attempt to raise the approved 20-30-cent mohair loan to the 30 and 40-cent rate requested by the Texas Sheep & Goat Raisers' Association, G. W. Cunningham, association secretary, found in checking records over a period of years that a consistently high average held on the diamond fiber. Cunningham declared that of the committee would take the same base period used in determining the wool loan, 1909 to 1914, that the mohair loan would be 29.3 cents. Recent mohair sales have been well above the loan rate asked, but ranchmen and warehousemen believe the 30-40 rate would serve as a stabilizer. A record of sales from a San Angelo warehouse and a Hill Country company showed an average for the two houses for the years 1908 to 1938 of 41.22 cents a pound for grown hair and 55.16 for kid hair. During the time included in the records there were six years in which grown hair sold under a 30-cent average, with two of these six years holding to 27 cents. Kid hair sold under 40 cents only three years of that time and has sold at better than 85 cents a pound.

EMPTY AGAIN!

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN—The fate of the ambitious scheme of a group of special interest lobbyists, who have put a $42,000,000 burden of new taxation on the backs of the poor people of Texas, and freeze it into the Constitution by means of a sales tax constitutional amendment, appeared doubtful this weekend. The House, smarting with resentment as the plan of the lobbyists unfolded, refused to pass the sales tax amendment by a vote of 79 to 65. It requires 100 votes finally to pass and constitutional change. This is not final action, and another attempt to push over the sales tax program was scheduled for this week, but best students of the situation here were gravely doubtful whether the sales tax amendment could pick up the necessary 21 additional votes in the House. The House taxation and revenue committee killed several bills offering alternate methods of financing pensions, including income tax and natural resource and this effort by 14 super-conservative committeemen to block consideration by the house of anything except a sales amendment, caused a flare of resentment which threatened to jeopardize permanently the success of the carefully-planned scheme of the lobbyists, backed by Gov. O'Daniel, to put over the sales tax. The House quickly referred several other pending taxation bills to other committees, taking them away from the taxation committee, and favorable reports placed these measures before the House, where efforts were to be made to write a new tax bill not a constitutional amendment—around them, by amending.

Solons Have Human Side

Illustrating the human side of the men who make the laws was a little incident in which two of the ablest legislators in the House participated. Homer Leonard, of McEllen, sponsoring the truck-load limit bill, battled throughout a morning session on the floor with his good personal friend, Ely Thornton, of Galveston, who fought the truck bills. That afternoon, after Thornton had thoroughly licked Leonard in the floor fight, Thornton rushed to an Austin hospital and gave two blood transfusions to Leonard's 7 months-old daughter, suffering from a serious throat infection. The baby recovered quickly, and the two warm friends Leonard and Thornton, resumed their bitter legislative battles on the House floor.

O'Daniel Vetoes Probe

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel who told the folks on several occasions that he would not attempt to interfere with the Legislature, and pledged his adherence to the Constitutional separation of the duties of the executive and legislative branches of the Government in no uncertain terms, has had another change of mind. This week he vetoed a joint resolution, calling for an investigation of the Texas prison system by a joint committee of House and Senate, because the legislators didn't follow a recommendation of the Governor to let six "business men," with the Governor selecting two of them, conduct the probe. The investigation of State departments has traditionally been the prerogative of the legislature, and the prison system apparently is badly in need of a checking up. Some solons expressed doubt of the power of the Governor to veto a joint resolution, and the legislature may decide to go ahead with the probe, anyway.

Loan Shark Bill Out

The House committee on banking took seven bills designed to curb the "loan shark" evil in Texas, and wrote a compromise measure, which it recommended favorably and placed on the House calendar. The bill limits interest to 10 percent, but permits small loan brokers, operating under State license, to charge investigation and collection fees on such loans, sufficient to yield a reasonable rate of return to the lenders, and thus discourage operation of sharks who charge small borrowers 300 to 400 percent. The bill is far down on the House calendar, but authors of one of the original bills are expected to use a suspension privilege to get the bill up for passage in the near future, and send it to the Senate.

Delay Bond Money Grab Bill

Word from Washington that the United States Attorney General will hand down an opinion on the proposal to saddle $190,000,000 worth of "dead horse" county lateral road bonds on to the State, by using part of the gasoline tax to pay them, has slowed up proponents of the so-called County Judges bill, embodying the plan. Opposition from representatives of the 200 counties which would receive less than half the benefit also is strengthening in both House and Senate. County Judge Sam Stone of Williamson county, in a letter sent this week to every county judge and commissioner in Texas, opposes the plan with the following pertinent argument: "The 28 counties which owe 56 percent of the $130,000,000 County Lateral Road Debt are no doubt most interested in this bill. I cannot bring myself to believe that the bonded indebtedness of these counties should be placed upon the motorists throughout the State, rather than upon the people who assumed in the beginning, the payment of these bonds. Of these 29 counties, my county registers more automobiles than 10 of the 28 counties has more valuation than 8 of the 29 counties; and has less debt by $1,000,000 to $11,000,000 than any of the 28 counties. There are 10 Texas counties having no lateral road bond debt, and 21 counties having less than the total of the 28 counties above referred to; still, the County Judges Association say this is a fair and just debt for every county to share in. My position is that it is an unfair and unjust distribution of funds to the advantage of a few, and a disadvantage to many."

They're Born Musicians

Laugh of the week in Austin was at a South Texas solon, in whose district live many Mexicans. He found very little money for his district included in a rural aid bill under discussion, and when he complained sponsors of the bill explained schools in his district were receiving a high percentage of money for vocational training. "Don't gimme that stuff," he said. "Those Mexicans in my district don't need any vocational training. Every one of them is a natural born musician, without any training."

Gubernatorial Prospects

Spring always brings discussion of the "next Governor's race" Early talk here indicates the observers expect a wide-open field in 1940. Gov. O'Daniel, despite his recent statement that he "doubted if he could be elected dog-catcher again," is expected to seek a second term. Rail Commissioner Ernest Thompson is a sure candidate, his friends say. Others receiving early mention as possibilities include Attorney General Gerald Mann, Rail Commissioner Jerry Sadler, ex-Ottorney General Bill McCraw, Lt. Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Harry Holt of the Chousin' Around column of the Abilene paper has been in the registered sheep business for some time and just lately has gotten interested in Angoras. He is looking around for some seed stock for a small registered flock of the mohair makers.

To Query Women All Over South

Touring Reporters have now asked over 1,200 women and girls of leading Southern Cities the now famous question: "Were you helped by CARDUI?"

Averaging all replies so far shows that 93 out of every 100 users questioned declared CARDUI benefited them!

Users by thousands are eager to tell how CARDUI has given them appetite; helped them gain strength; has thus relieved them of the symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Many also say that, when symptoms indicate the need, CARDUI in larger doses helps "at the time" to soothe pain.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WORTH TRYING!

THE AWFUL PRICE YOU PAY FOR BEING NERVOUS

Quivering nerves can make you old and haggard looking, cranky and hard to live with—can keep you awake nights and rob you of good health, good times and jobs. What you may need is a particularly good woman's tonic—and could you ask for anything whose benefits are better proved than famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and thus help calm your shrieking nerves, give more energy and make life worth living again. More than a million women have reported benefit—why not let Pinkham's Compound help YOU, too, to go "smiling thru" trying times like it has other grateful women for the past 3 generations? IT MUST BE GOOD!

Headache, Bad Breath Tell of More to Come

Just as Paul Revere's famous ride warned of the Redcoats' coming, so Nature's messengers — headaches, biliousness, bad breath—often warn of faulty elimination.

Neglecting these signs may cause a host of constipation's discomforts: our stomach, belching; no appetite or energy; mental dullness.

It's so easy to wake up your lazy insides. Just take spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. Its unusual help comes from its principal ingredient—an intestinal tonic-laxative which imparts tone to lazy bowel muscles.

ONE THING And
THEN ANOTHER
By Fred Gipson

Corpus Christi.—Along about now the old barnyard gobbler—and the wild one too, for that matter—is gobbling every morning before he quits the roost and the hens are all stealing off out into the brush to hide their eggs away and plenty of farm kids are kept busy stalking this old hen and that, trying to locate the nests.

That's one farm job, though, that not many kids will raise a howl about having to do. There's a certain amount of adventure in turkey-nest hunting that appeals to kids, as well as to grownups. And then there's little actual work involved.

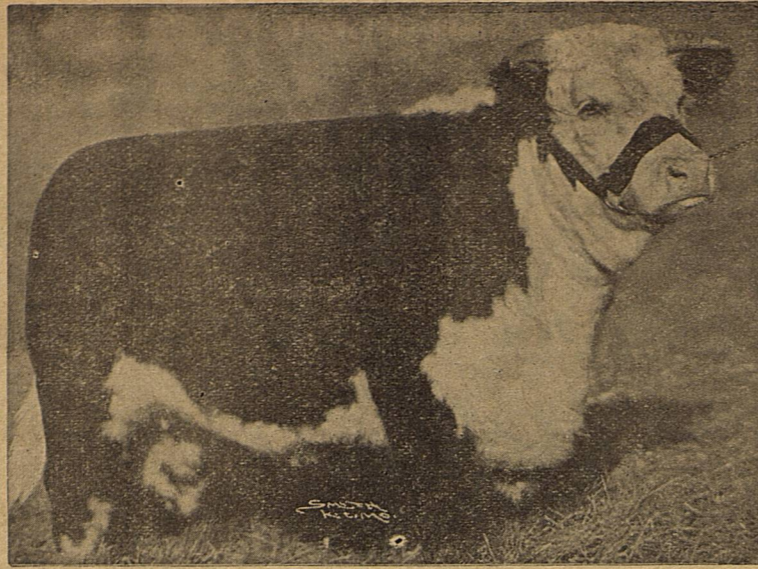

Of course, today many turkey-raisers have a special laying pen in which they keep their hens during the laying season, so that the nests can be found and foxes and skunks and other varmints can't rob them so easily. But when I was a kid we didn't do things that way. We just let the hens make their nests where they pleased and trusted to luck and my skill at stalking turkey hens to get the eggs. Later, we brought in the setting turkey and put her in a box on top of the eggs we'd saved up.

Old turkey hens don't like for their nests to be found, though. They don't take so well to the idea of having somebody find their nests and rob them every day and then later set them on eggs likely not their own. They want to hide their nests and be let alone to raise their flock of young the natural way, like turkey hens have always raised their young. And some of them get mighty smart about being followed.

Plenty of times I've followed a flock of laying turkey hens all day and not found a single egg.

I remember particularly one old slate grey hen we had once. It looked like I never would find her nest. I could stay with the flock half a day, and she'd stay right there, too, until finally some other hen slipped off to her nest. And while I was following this second hen, that old grey one would take advantage of my absence and quit the bunch.

It went on like this until I was afraid she'd lay out her clutch and start setting and I never would find her nest. Finally I located the nests of all the other hens, though, and made up my mind to stick with the bunch until this old hen had to leave.

A number of times during that morning, the old grey hen would catch me off guard for a few moments and slip away. But she'd never get far before I spotted her and started following. Then she'd spot me and pretend to just be just chasing a grasshopper or something and feed back to the bunch.

This went on into the afternoon. The flock fed far back into the catclaw and mesquite tangle north of the house. Other hens left, visited their nests and came back. But still the old grey hen stuck.

It was almost sundown and the flock had fed over most of the wide circle of brushland that was their daily run, when finally the old hen struck out in a very determined sort of walk.

I followed. She led across a post oak ridge, down into the net draw, on up the slope beyond. She got faster and faster. Soon I had to trot to keep her in sight. Soon she was trotting. Then I had to run.

Directly she stopped, went to pecking around in some weeds, as of all she had on her mind all along was catching those particular bugs on those particular weeds.

I waited. A moment later she eased into a clump of prickly pear and I could see her settling herself as if in a nest.

I had her, at last, I figured. I didn't wait to let her lay. It was getting late and weeds would have to be pulled for the hogs. So I went right on up to get her eggs.

She let me get close, then hopped out of the prickly pear and struck out through the brush in another trot. There was no nest in the prickly pear. There'd never been one. There was merely a few green weeds, freshly mashed down. That old hen was pulling my leg.

I took out after her again. She played the same trick, over and over. She led me from catclaw bush to rock fence to tangles of bee myrtle brush and pretended to settle down to lay in each one. There was no nest in any of them.

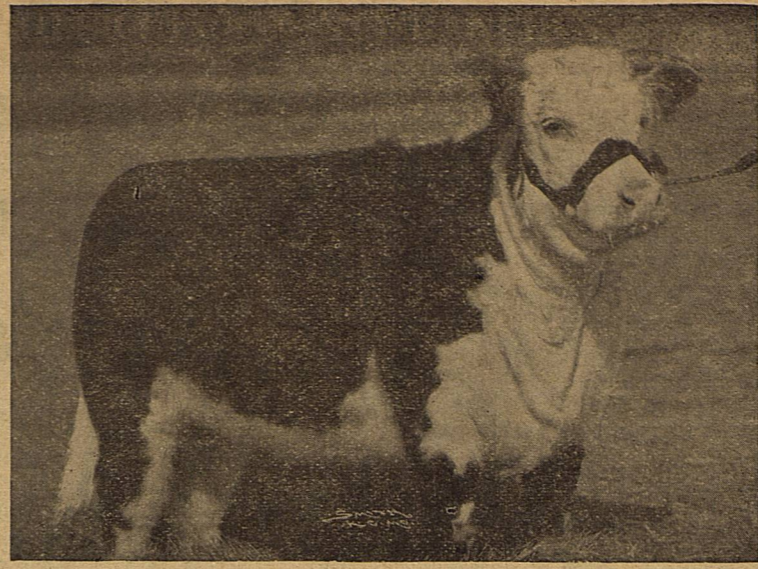

Dusk was falling when she started on another of her long swinging trots, heading back toward the house this time, taking out down a cattle trail where it was easier for me to follow. There were no grass burrs in the trail.

She was almost home, when suddenly she stopped and settled herself to the ground once more, right in the middle of the trail. A moment later she rose and I went and picked up the egg she'd laid.

The next morning she was not with the brock, nor the next morning. But about six weeks later she came in with 15 young healthy turkeys, all of them destined to be slate grey in color when they got grown.

The egg I picked up on the trail that day never did hatch.

REGISTERED HEREFORDS ON SCHLEICHER COUNTY RANCHES

Mabelle Mischief 5th, purchased by J. F. Webster from John B. Stribling. Calved January 4, 1937, she is a deep-bodied heavy quartered heifer with an unusually good head, strong back and loin and a very heavy coat. Mr. Webster also purchased Lady Domino S. 12th to add to his fine herd of Herefords on his Schleicher County Ranch.

To be added to the list of summer rodeos—R. W. Faust, president of the Comfort Rodeo Association, and Joe Pachek of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Kerrville, conferred recently to set dates for the Hill country's celebrating in July. Comfort's rodeo is set for Sunday, July 2, and nights of July 3 and 4 for Kerrville's two-day program.

Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde said last week that he had marked up 2,075 lambs out of 3,000 ewes. He believes that the lamb crop over all the ranch country will be considerably lighter than last year—an Ozona ranchman estimated the lamb crop in that section would average around 65 per cent.

The Big Spring Cowboy Reunion has been announced for June 24, 25 and 26.

Sonora's wool and mohair warehouse has 211,000 pounds of new hair in storage and in Del Rio the Producers have around 350,000, Val Verde Wool & Mohair Co. 140,00 and the Del Rio Wool & Mohair Co. 100,000. These two districts and Uvalde goatmen's estimates place the total mohair clip for the year two to three million pounds lighter than that of 1938.

C. C. Bledsoe of San Angelo has purchased 3,600 mutton lambs for May delivery out of the shearing pens at San Saba at 6 1-2 cents. The lambs were bought from F. A. and Jack Sloan, J. A. Dickerson, and William Kuykendall. Bledsoe says the lambs are heavy and will ready easily for the market.

Rudy Vaughan of San Angelo, Oscar Appelt, Jr., and several others have sold 2,500 yearling and two-year-old mutton goats to C. C. Bledsoe of San Angelo. The goats brought $2 to $2.25 a head.

Boyce Gedsoe and O. W. Forte, Jr., of the Boston Wool firm of Forte, Puppee & Sawyer Co., are in Texas with the firm's Texas representative, Guy Burton of San Angelo. The three started a tour of the central wool and mohair concentration points early in the week. Godsoe, who has been with the firm eight years, specializes in work with mohair. He will be here for a week or ten days while young Forte plans to spend several weeks in the state.

Four Senior, or Explorer Scouts have reregistered for the year. They follow an advanced program of Scouting. Counting these older Scouts and the seven men who are registered as Scouters, there are now twenty-five names from Eldorado on file in the national office.

A Camporee is to be held in Ozona on Friday and Saturday. The Scouts from Eldorado will leave on Friday to attend and take part in the competitions. L. T. Barber, Scoutmaster of the Senior Scouts, will accompany them.

Mrs. Clara Driscoll Club Benefactress

Notes amounting to $92,000 were destroyed by Mrs. Clara Driscoll of Corpus Christi, Tuesday, relieving the Texas Federation of Women's clubs of the debt on the Permanent Headquarters Building in Austin which now, because of the gift of Mrs. Driscoll, belongs to them.

At the State convention in Austin last fall, it was announced that all clubs in Texas and there are 1,000 were to be assessed $5 a year, officials taking that step in order to be able to meet the interest.

April 15 Deadline On Frozen Allotments

If producers do not desire to use 1939 cotton acreage allotments or any part of the 1939 acreage allotment, it is suggested by the State Committee that form SR-327 be executed, releasing unused 1939 cotton acreage allotments, according to County Agent W. G. Godwin, in a letter to producers this week. This form will be filed with the county office.

"The cotton acreage allotment that you assign back to the county office may be reapportioned by the county committee to other producers who desire to produce more cotton," Mr. Godwin stated. "Those allotments will be reapportioned to those producers upon the character and adaptability of the soil and other physical facilities affecting the production of cotton and the need of the operator for an additional allotment to meet the requirements of the family engaged in the production of cotton on the farm."

"I should like to point out, however, that a bill has already passed the Senate and is now pending in the House Committee of Agriculture providing for the elimination of the 80 percent division contained in the rules and regulations of the AAA Act. If such bill becomes a law, full payment will be made on the basis of the final cotton acreage allotment notwithstanding the fact that an acreage smaller than the acreage allotment may be planted to cotton in 1939. In this respect the conservation payment will be on a base similar to the parity of 1939. Example: Suppose your cotton acreage allotment is 34 acres and you desire to plant only 20 acres of cotton. Form SR-327 should be signed with the County Office giving back 14 acres of your allotment that you are not going to use in order that it may be reapportioned to the other producers within Schleicher County and by planting that 20 acres or less you will collect 100 percent, though as if you had planted 34 acres in cotton thus doing away with the 80 percent provision if this should pass the House Committee on Agriculture."

"It is suggested by the County Committee that this is a great opportunity for those producers not desiring cotton to turn that cotton acreage allotment back and let it be reapportioned to other producers in the county that want to raise cotton."

"Remember the date—April 15 is the final date for you to sign SR-327 if you desire to turn all or part of your cotton acreage allotment it be reapportioned to other. If you do turn all or part of your cotton acreage allotment back to the County Office your feed acreage allotment will be increased," he emphasized.

Clean-Up Week April 2 to 9

Austin, Texas.—The week of April 2 to April 9 has been proclaimed State Clean-Up and Fire Prevention Week by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel in an official proclamation issued at Austin. State and city-wide clean-up campaigns are scheduled over the State, these campaigns to facilitate public health protection, lessen fire losses and promote public safety.

The cities and towns of Texas will conduct programs of far-reaching activities. Scheduled for inclusion is cleaning, draining, graveling of streets and alleys, cleaning city parks and playgrounds, malaria control, fire prevention, garbage and trash disposal and spring house cleaning for homes and business establishments.

The observance of good sanitation principles indicates the necessity of prompt removal of all waste matter in and around homes to lessen the spread of diseases, affecting infants and children. Clean-up week is designed to focus attention upon the dirt and disease problems of the State.

Spring clean-up week provides an opportunity for the proper disposal of fire-generating accumulations. A check of homes and business establishments to unearth conditions which are favorable is important so that remedial procedures may be instituted.

Clean-up week gives each citizen an opportunity to investigate cleanliness of services which affect health conditions in his home. As a citizen you have the right to know whether your water supply is pure, whether your milk comes from a clean dairy, whether your community makes use of proper sanitation methods, whether your home has proper sewer connections and plumbing installations. You should make it a point to better inform yourself on the sanitary measures carried out in the various divisions of your municipal government and in business.

The idea of spring clean-up week in Texas is that it be an intensive one week period of scrubbing, raking, painting, etc., and it is hoped that spring clean-up week will generate a standard of cleanliness in each community which will be carried on for the succeeding weeks of the year.

METHODIST CHURCH

Supremely Happiness — "He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water." Psalm 1.3

Notice the plural, "rivers." There is the river of pardon springing from the fountain of holy love out of the heart of God, from which thousands have been made free; who were one time sinful. There is the river of peace. It is said that in the center of all great storms there a cosmic peace. The pardoned and peaceful soul will meet its storms but in the center of life there is a great God of peace and love.

"His leaf shall not wither," his words shall not die. "He being dead, yet speaketh" We can but lay away the body in the cold earth, but we can not but away the influence of that body—it should be always that of a christian. There is the river of comfort. Jesus drank long from this stream then looking out upon the world of people "As sheep without a shepherd." There is the river of Life. The black waters of death are turned into transparent beauty when colored by the waters of eternal comfort.

Our pre-Easter meeting will begin Sunday morning. Special music each evening, come and bring your friends with you.

Subject Sunday morning: "Peace Be Still."
Subject Sunday Evening: The Touch of Jesus
