

On The Divide

While talking with a young lawyer in the capital city recently, after learning where we lived, he remarked: "You, know, I'm coming out to that country one of these days. That is the coming section of Texas and I just like the people from that part of the state."

The opinion regarding west Texas expressed by this young lawyer, is typical of young business men and professional men in every walk of life. That is why Schleicher county along with other counties of West Texas is destined to continue to grow, develop and prosper—the young business men of the state believe opportunities are in store for them in West Texas. They will come out to this fine section of the state in search of those opportunities—and, they will find them.

A. B. "Buck" Bailey, who will be married in California Sunday, was sent the following telegram Thursday afternoon by Eldorado friends, Buck has the food wishes of his many friends here as he enters upon the seas of matrimony:

A. B. Bailey
Olympic Club, San Francisco, Cal.

When you tack self confidence; make numerous mistakes; antagonize others; your wife begins giving you that wifey stare; and you don't feel as young as you used to feel; the children get on your nerves; you begin to think about the good old bachelor days; and your wife doesn't look quiet as lovely as the pretty young number that just went by; an then you have the feeling that the whole world is against you, and you wake up wondering why Columbus discovered America, or Balboa discovered the Pacific ocean; and you find suddenly that you have love without a pay check or your wife finds out you are not the perfect man she thought you were; just close your eyes, keep your mind on the ball.

Shell Leading As League Nears First Half

Large crowds continue to turn out for spectacular softball games under the bright lights of the local field as Shell continues to lead the league with the Gassers and Wool House tied for second place. Interest is high as the teams maneuver for places as they enter the home stretch of the first half which ends next Friday.

Several interesting games were chalked up last week, leaving the teams stacked in the following manner Friday:

J. Griffin, .450; Benson, .421; B. Kerr, .400; Luedecke, .382; R. Isaacs, .382; R. Alexander, .382; J. Kerr, .379 and F. B. Alexander, .371.

Mrs. J. S. Clark Burned As Fire Sweeps Laundry

Mrs. J. S. Clark was severely burned at noon Thursday when an oil stove exploded and flames swept the Help-Self Laundry here. Mrs. Clark was said to have been burned about the arms and face and was rushed to a San Angelo hospital. Her condition had not been learned Thursday afternoon.

An oil stove in the kitchen in the front of the building was said to have exploded as it was being lighted. Flames spread throughout the building quickly but was brought under control by volunteers before much damage had been done to the building.

Clothes in the front of the building were destroyed by the blaze, but machinery used in the laundry was not damaged.

City Will Purchase Fire Truck

The city council will purchase a fire truck in the near future, according to a notice to bidders published in the Success last week. Sealed bids will be received on June 26.

The fire truck will be a triple combination pumper, booster tank and hose truck including 1300 feet of fire hose and other equipment. If the purchase is made the city will issue time warrants in payment of the machinery.

Fire insurance rates will be substantially reduced in the future by the purchase of the fire-fighting unit and organization of a fire department. The equipment being considered by the council meets all insurance regulations and will effect a substantial saving to property owners.

It is not definitely learned just when the fire truck will likely be delivered in the city, but it is understood that the machine will reach here in a short time after the purchase has been made.

Two wells in Schleicher county developed oil showings during the last week to substantially increase oil development possibilities in the area. Tests were being made this week on Lone Star No. 1 Humble-Page which promises to be the county's first producer.

Tubing was run in the Lone Star well Tuesday and valves opened at 6:30. During the first half-hour, approximately five barrels of high gravity oil flowed through the tubing into storage tanks. The oil flowed fairly steady during the first few hours after being opened and then began coming by heads at lengthening intervals. The flow was revived as experiments were made with chokes.

Production during the first 24 hours it was opened was estimated at 65 barrels, it was reported.

A showing of oil was encountered Monday night in Harold B. Opp No. 1 J. T. Jackson, five miles west of Eldorado, bottomed at 4,049 feet. The well was shut down until Wednesday when it was deepened 12 feet and was reported to have shut down again to run tubing for a test. It was reported that the oil had risen 1,500 feet in the well.

Lone Star No. 1 Shell-Page, drilling with rotary was reported at approximately 5,500 feet in lime Thursday afternoon. No oil shows have been reported.

FLAG 162 YEARS OLD

Flag Day, on June 14, commemorated the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the national emblem, by an act of Congress 162 years ago.

During the Revolutionary War a number of unofficial flags of various designs appeared among the regiments of the Continental Army. A flag adopted in 1775 had 13 alternate red and white stripes, representing the 13 colonies, but carried the British crosses of St. George and St. Andrew in a blue canton, to indicate that allegiance to the King had not been renounced. Even after the Declaration of Independence in 1776 this flag was displayed by forts and ships for several months.

But on June 14, 1777, Congress officially adopted a new flag, in the following resolution:

"Resolved that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

When Vermont and Kentucky were admitted to the Union two stripes were added to the flag, making 15. But it was seen that the addition of a stripe for each new state would spoil the symmetry of the flag, so in 1818 Congress provided that in future there should be only the original 13 stripes, but that a star should be added for each new state.

The pretty tradition that Betsy Ross made the first flag according to a design suggested by Washington has been popularly accepted, but historians doubt its authenticity.

Since its establishment in 1896, the observance of Flag Day has become widespread, and is the occasion for patriotic exercises, in which reverence for the flag and all it stands for is inculcated. The Order of Elks has adopted a most inspiring ritual for its Flag Day ceremonies.

Driving along after backing from a curb in New Orleans, Merton Oxford heard persistent horn blowing behind him, but looking back, saw no car following. The tooting continued, so he finally stopped, and found he had been towing a midget car whose bumpers had been caught by his own as he left the curb.

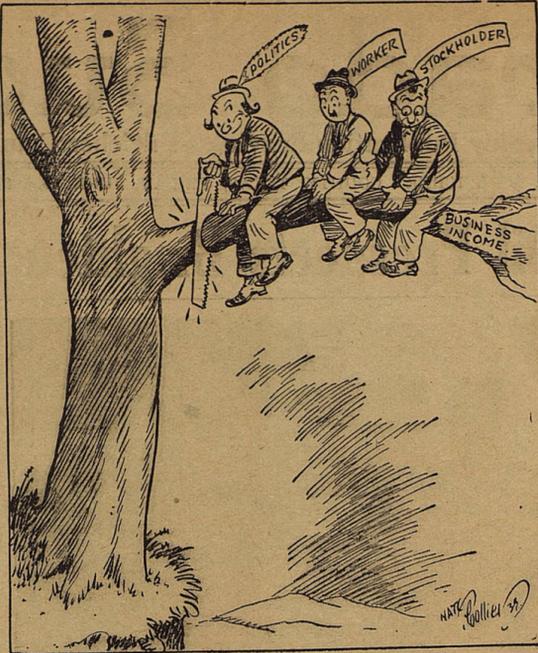

Munich police recently captured a man with a queer mania for snatching women's spectacles from their noses and trampling them underfoot, after he had eluded arrest for a year and a half. He said his strange habit was due to "an irresistible urge."

Bruce Redfield of Titusville, Pa., took heroic measures when bitten on the leg by a rattlesnake a few days ago. Having no knife, he broke a bottle to obtain a cutting edge with which he dug out the flesh around the wound and then walked a mile for aid. The physician said Redfield's action probably saved his life.

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN. —Texas taxpayers were closer this weekend to having a 2 percent sales tax submitted to the voters as a constitutional amendment than they have been at any time this session. The sales tax constitutional amendment, called up last week for what any had believed to be a final test in the House of Representatives, fell nine votes short, and went down to its fifth House defeat, 91 to 56. But the gain registered by proponents of the measure, sponsored by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, and backed by a heavy majority of the special interest lobby, was encouraging enough to induce them to lay plans for still another test in the House, due for this week.

The division is so close that no man can say for certain how it will come out. The head of the special interest lobby, who has been directing the unprecedented pressure drive for many, many weeks, professed confidence that the necessary nine votes would be picked up on the next test. It seems reasonably certain that the next test will be the last one. The Legislature is about ready now to pass the appropriation bills and go home. If the sales tax amendment is adopted, there will be no need for remaining longer in session. If it fails again, it is probably that a majority of the House see no chance of enacting tax legislation at this session and will be just as ready to go home. The Senate has definitely indicated, by its arrogant refusal to consider statutory tax measures, that it is committed to a policy of the sales tax frozen into the Constitution, or nothing. House members point to their record of having passed two statutory tax bills, both killed summarily by the Senate, as a sufficient alibi of no pension-paying revenue is enacted. Leaders of the anti-sales tax bloc in the House declare their ranks will hold on the next test, as they have on previous ones.

HOUSE RESENTS PRESSURE

The House which has backed the sales tax thus far, showed its resentment at the continued and tremendous pressure to which it has been subjected, when it cast 99 votes in favor of a resolution by Bryan Bradbury, of Abilene, called for a joint House-Senate investigation of the lobbying for the sales tax. The Senate, which wants no undue publicity upon the interests which are backing the stand which it and the Governor have taken in favor of the sales tax, quickly killed the resolution by pigeon-holding it in a committee.

Thompson Gets On Rerod

Political outcroppings on the sales tax issue, which will flare immediately when the time comes for opening next year's state campaigns, continued throughout the week. Col. Ernest O. Thompson, Rail Commissioner and runner-up to W. Lee O'Daniel for governor last year, got on record with a statement condemning the freezing of a sales tax into the constitution. "Taxes ought to be statutory," Thompson said. "And when folks begin to vote themselves bounties, it means trouble ahead. About a year from now, I might have something to say about politics." Thompson is regarded as a certain candidate against O'Daniel and the sales tax issue will undoubtedly be the leading bone of contention in the race.

Meanwhile, an incipient gubernatorial boom was reported by the political gossips for Joe Hill, Senator from Henderson. Hill has been the strongest opponent in the Senate of the sales tax program, and he had denounced O'Daniel from the Senate floor on numerous occasions, with a bitterness seldom heard in that form.

Other political rumors were heard this week to the effect that O'Daniel, if the Federal government should cut off grants to Texas pensioners, under the liberalized pension law, might take the field against D. S. Sen. Tom Connally, up for re-election next year. Maury Mavedick, the extremist New Deal ex-congressman, recently elected Mayor of San Antonio, was also rumored as a possible opponent for Connally. Maverick has been making anti-Garner speeches for several weeks.

LOAN SHARK DECISION

The State of Texas is without power to restrain loan sharks from charging usurious interest by injunction, the Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Richard Critz held last week. Attorney General Mann, who joined the injunction suit brought by Howard Robbins of Lubec, Me., carries with him a small piece of ash tree that was struck by lightning, believing that the "lightening in it" will spare him the sufferings of rheumatism.

Miss Celeste Tisdale will leave Sunday to attend the National Home Economics Association to be held in San Antonio June 19 through the 23.

County officials in Travis county against 19 Austin loan concerns, declared the only relief now is action by the Legislature. Mann, however, held recently in an opinion, that a bill proposed by Mason Harrell and others, designed to legalize reasonable interest and service charges for small loans, intended to curb 400 percent loan sharks, was unconstitutional. So it seems the loan sharks will continue to operate unmolested in Texas for another two years, at least.

METHODIST CHURCH

"The Voice of God." 1 Samuel 3.7
We turn to the revelation in Christ for comfort, only to realize how long it has been since God spoke to men in Him. What we long for is to hear God ourselves, to hear Him speak today. Unless God speaks now we can not believe that He ever spoke to men. He does speak and it is by the Bible to the conscience of men. God speaks to men when their thoughts are stirred to higher conceptions of truth. God can and does speak to individuals through prayer. "Be still and know that I am God".

Rev. Clark will preach in our Church Sunday morning—No evening service.

Reasons Why
Electric
Refrigeration
Is BEST IN West Texas

I. Dry, Hot Climate requires exceptionally low temperature in your refrigerator to properly preserve food. Only Electric Refrigeration can give equally low temperatures (around 40 degrees) in July and August the same as in January.

II. Low Electric Rates are in effect for refrigerator users. Economy of operation, plus the simplest refrigerating mechanism ever built, plus safety from toxic fumes, safety from combustible explosives, plus multiple-cold food protection—all these combine to make electric refrigeration best suited for use in West Texas where summer months undeniably are hot and dry.

ONE THING And THEN ANOTHER
By Fred Gipson

MEXICO, D. F.—When a man will try, he can make friends most any where. Way off down here on a little vacation, I made some friends today.

My new friends live in a little stone hut among the tall cacti back of the Temple of the Sun, the largest of the San Juan Teotihuacan pyramids. The family name is Leva.

I first noticed Jose, the 10-year-old boy of the family, while we were sitting in a little pavillion, trying to catch our breaths after having made the climb to the top of the sacrificial pyramid. He was peeping at us from around the end of a row of organ cacti. I smiled at him, which encouraged him enough to approach with a basket of clay gods and other relics he'd picked up in the fields and excavations around the pyramids. Some were obsidian knife blades, scraps of pottery, the heads of pagan gods carved out of jade.

I was already a little overstocked with such pieces, but I liked the dimple in Jose's cheek and bartered a little with him, finally switching the conversation to other things.

I asked him about a tree I'd been taking off a mesquite all the time, until I noticed it hanging with red berry-like fruit, instead of beans.

"China," he explained, then clattered away in Spanish so fast that all I caught was something about pepper.

His young eyes flashed with mischief as he watched me pull off one of the berries and nibble it a bit. I spat it out. The seed was some sort of pepper. I grinned at Jose. He chuckled.

"Come see my rooster," he invited.

We climbed atop a stone fence. Jose's rooster was perched upon a low branch of another "china" tree on the other side. He had more coloring than breeding.

He sings me out of bed every morning," Jose explained.

I could imagine how that red rooster would crow at daybreak. He had the look of a crower.

"I've got a duck, too."

We climbed down off the fence and wound through the cacti, headed for the hut and Jose's duck. On the way, I noticed some cactus apples ripening. They were a strange salmon pink in color. I stopped to examine them. Jose shook his head.

Not good to eat, he said. Only for making the candies. You like eat the tunas!"

Are they good?"
Oh, si! Si! he explained, then lifted his shrill voice. Mama! Mama!" he called. The Senor must eat the tunas!"

That was a little fast for me, but I said nothing. A moment later a slattern, barefooted Indian woman came pacing through the cacti. A baby girl was following. The baby was dirty-faced, but as beautiful as I ever saw.

Jose and his mother held a rapid fire and prolonged consultation of which I understood very little. Then the woman turned to me. "Un momento," she said, then hurried away.

We waited. Sometime later, she reappeared with her husband. He was a low, stocky man, apparently the only one of the family with footwear. Leather guaraches were strapped to his rusty feet. He was armed with a long pole, through one end of which was driven a steel spike. With the pole he reached to the top of a cactus plant and jerked down what looked like a green cactus apple. He handed it to his wife then reached for another.

I was a little dubious. I'd eaten cactus apples as a kid, when they were ripe, mostly because Mama said not to, but they were not particularly good. And a green one, well—

But I'd gone too far to back out now. The little woman cut off the ends of the apple with a murderous knife, split the skin down the side and signified that I should catch the seedy pulp in my hands.

Which I did, only to find myself suddenly being watched anxiously by the whole family.

I bit into it. It had a strange flavor, but was sweet and delicious. I smiled at them. It's good, I said, taking another bite.

Not until then did I fully realize how badly they wanted me to like that tuna. Their happy smiles and excited chatter was good to see and hear. Jose's papa started reaching for more and the baby girl got her little hands slapped tryin to pull one with her fingers. Jose's papa then showed me that the one I'd eaten was ripe. A tinge of yellow was in the stickery skins of the ripe ones. The others were solid green.

I finally left, stuffed and happy though I never did get to see Jose's duck. And the Leva family was happy and insisted that I call again. That is, all but Jose. He'd gone shy on me again, after I'd slipped a 50-centavo piece in to his little brown hand.

A man likes to get acquainted with friendly people.

Films of all the pictures in which he has appeared have been presented to the film library of the New York Museum of Modern Art by Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. The collection contains 2,700,000 feet of film and weights 13 tons.

Refrigeration
Program Given To Woman's Club

"By refrigeration one saves time, money, strength, and temper," said Miss Margaret Stewart in the home of Mrs. Bill McSwane, Wednesday afternoon, June 7.

Refrigerators add to the variety of meal plans by restoring left overs. In placing food in the refrigerator use covered containers. Buy refrigerators that are convenient in opening the doors, suggested Miss Stewart.

Different methods should be considered such as electric, kerosene, gas, ice refrigerator and the iceless milk cooler.

After the program refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to nine members and two visitors.

Mrs. G. C. Seifert of Buffalo, who once embroidered uniforms for officers of the German army during the reign of Kaiser Wilhelm, now devotes her skill as a needle worker to making emblems and badges for American fraternal societies.

Cauliflower, turnips, carrots, string beans, asparagus, onions, potatoes, and peals all go well with lamb.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders. You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

On May 30th, Wilbur Shaw drove to his second victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Champion Tires at an average speed of 115.03 miles an hour. Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction. That is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

A merciless sun beat down upon the speedway as Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Champion Tires. The blistering brick of the main stretch and the granite-hard surface of the turns and the back stretch put tire safety to the test supreme! Record after record was shattered. Speeds reached as high as 160 miles an hour on the straightaways, as 33 of the fastest drivers in the world waged a breathtaking battle for gold and glory.

Never before in all the history of the motor car have tires been put to such a torturous test. And never before has any tire so firmly established itself as a Champion in construction and performance, as well as in name. Here is dramatic proof of the extra strength which the revolutionary new Safety-Lock cord body provides in Firestone Champion Tires—of the extra protection against blowouts assured by the new and advanced Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process—of the extra mileage resulting from the tougher, wear-resisting rubber compounds in the sensational new Gear-Grip tread.

No longer can there be any question of which tire is safest. One tire—and only one—provides these exclusive safety construction features. One tire—and only one—has been on the winning cars at Indianapolis for 20 consecutive years. Motor car manufacturers enthusiastically adopted the Firestone Champion Tire for their 1939 models. ### Schleicher Women Give Demonstration At Sonora Wool Show

The scouring and carding of wool and the making of wool comforts was the demonstration Schleicher county Home Demonstration club women gave at the Wool and Mohair Show held in Sonora last Saturday. The demonstration was under the direction of Miss Margaret Stewart, Home Demonstration agent.

For scouring wool a solution of soap and soda in water is used and eight pounds of wool may be scoured with four pounds of soap and a quarter pound of sal soda," said Miss Stewart. This solution is poured into four tubs, the first having the highest per cent of soap, the second, third and fourth containing decreasing concentrations, the fifth tub is filled with clear water. The solution in the first tub is held at 120 degrees F. and the temperature is decreased 5 degrees in each of the following tubs, according to the home demonstration agent. Those scouring wool at the show were as follows: Mrs. W. H. McClatchey, Mrs. Joe Hearne Moore, Mrs. G. L. Ballew, Mrs. Arthur Tree, and Miss Lottie Reynolds.

As the wool leaves the last tub, it is placed on hardware cloth to dry before it is carded. The carding process was done by Mrs. Marion Wade and Mrs. M. M. Reynolds. Carded wool is covered with cheese cloth tacked every 12 inches to keep the wool from becoming lumpy. This can be covered with any soft pliable material, however, Miss Stewart says, "Challis makes the nicest covering."

Several comforts and pillows were displayed by Mrs. Norman Hodges, who said, "I have three made and will make three more just as soon as I have time." Mrs. Ray Alexander and Miss Ruth Baker exhibited woolen goods

7,000 POUNDS PINEAPPLE CANNED IN COUNTY

Schleicher county has been pineapple conscience this month, 100 dozen pineapples of 7,000 pounds of pineapple having been distributed over the county for canning, announced Margaret Stewart this week.

These pine apples were purchased through a local merchant and by bargaining for them co-operatively a price of 97 cents per dozen was paid which means that pineapple may be bought and canned for 1-2 to 1-3 the price paid for a good grade of canned pineapple.

The yield of a dozen pineapple is something like this—Mrs. W. G. Godwin obtained 27 pints, crushed, sliced and tidbits and 21 pints of juice. There was no water added to the fruit except for extracting of juice from trimmings, peel and core, and that just enough to cover. It took ten pounds of sugar to put up the 48 containers of fruit, total cost of $1.52 without added cost of jars, a cost of 3-5 cents per pint.

Guest of Miss Jetty Grace DeLong this week is Miss Francis Irvy. Miss Irvy is a classmate of Miss DeLong at University.

The home demonstration agent explained to the crowd of spectators that "this demonstration is given to show how wool can be used in the home and to explain to those interested how they can make a valuable comfort at a very low cost." Mrs. Norman Hodges said her comforts costing $4.50 were comparable to those retailing for $10 to $12.

Miss Ruth Thompson, district agent, attended the demonstration and said, "I heartily recommend this practice to the ranch women for I feel that they should use the wool in their home to such a good advantage."

Mae Ellie Davis Completes High School With Honors

Miss Mae Ellie Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis, of the Kaffir school district completed her high school education in Austin recently.

She spent 3 1-2 years and one summer in obtaining both an academic and a commercial certificate, normally five years of work. She was elected to the National Honor Society and at graduation she was awarded one of the most valuable scholarships offered by the Austin High School, for entrance into the university of Texas, and a fountain pen and pencil set given to the valedictorian of the commercial department by the Business and professional Woman's club of Austin.

Mae Ellie is spending the summer here with her parents. She will enter the University of Texas, Austin in the fall.

IN MEMORIAM

"Twilight and evening bell After that the dark And may there be no sadness of farewell

When I embark" Thus was the passing of our beloved father and grandfather, John Franklin O'Harrow, who departed this life May 31st 1939.

The Grim Reaper who knocks alike at the door of the just and the unjust, made an early call last Wednesday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Jess Thompson.

"The silver cord was loosened, And the golden bowl was broken." Altho' he was a man of unusual vigor, his passing was as calm and peaceful as the sleep of a babe.

He remained active in christian work up to the time of his long illness. "He was steadfast, unmoving, always abounding in the work of the Lord." We may truly say of him: He fought a good fight; He kept the faith; He will receive a crown of glory.

"Sunset and evening star And one clear call for me. And may there be no moaning at the bar

When I set out to sea." The sunset of his life was golden. He was surrounded by his loving family, children and grandchildren, who ministered to his every want and comfort.

To those he left behind, we leave a parting word "Beyond this vale of tears, There is a life above. Unmeasured by the flight of years And all that life is love."

A Friend.

ROAD BOND BILL PASSES

The Senate finally passed the road bond assumption bill, but it was a far different measure from the monstrosity originally sponsored by the Texas County Judges Association, which sought to put the State's guarantee behind nearly $200,000,000 of "dead horse" county lateral road bonds. The Tar-water house substitute, which Senate amended and adopted the distributes the surplus in the bond retirement fund to counties, but on a formula involving road mileage, population, motor car licenses and area, rather than on the basis of the amount of bond debt owed. Since the bill seeks to put the State's credit lateral behind lateral road bonds, with which the State has no concern, many legal authorities believe it is unconstitutional, and it is regarded as virtually certain to face a court test, as soon as it is finally enacted, through acceptance by the House of Senate amendments, or by adoption of a conference committee report.

Adams Club Meets Tuesday

The Adams Home Demonstration club held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Will Montgomery Tuesday afternoon.

A demonstration on Refrigeration was given by Miss Margaret Stewart, C H D A, who stressed the need of selecting the type of refrigerator that fits the family's own particular needs.

Members present were Miss Lottie Reynolds, Mrs. Will Isaacs, Mrs. Otto Williams, Mrs. Leonard Isaacs, Mrs. Silas Burk, the hostess, and one visitor, Mrs. W. B. McCutcheon of Florence.

CANNING QUESTIONAIR

Last of a series of three articles.

Miscellaneous

Q. Is it possible to can every kind of vegetable at home?

A. It is not recommended that vegetables of the cabbage family—broccoli, brussels sprouts, turnips, cauliflower, kohlrabi—be canned. These vegetables contain sulphur compounds that break down during processing and give the food a disagreeable taste and odor, and unsatisfactory color and texture. When Egg plant is processed under steam pressure as it must be to make it keep, it has an unattractive color and flavor. Also it is impossible to can corn on the cob without special equipment.

Q. Do vegetables lose any food value during ordinary home canning?

A. There will be some loss of vitamin C and B—both of which are destroyed by heat. Tomatoes however, because of their acid, lose practically none of their vitamin C value when canned at home the right way.

To best preserve vitamins, can vegetables as soon as possible after they are gathered. Serve the cooking liquor because in it is dissolved some of the water-soluble vitamins and minerals, originally in the vegetables.

Q. How long will canned foods keep?

A. Indefinitely, if they've been handled properly, processed correctly, and stored in a cool place. Quality is better the first year. So, unless there's a big surplus on hand, it's better to can only one year's supply at a time.
