

On The Divide

L. T. Barber's Wool House Rats capped the title of Softball champs last week climaxing the most interesting softball season ever held in Eldorado.

Since the softball craze seems to have passed into obscurity, along with the passing season, the popular sport of the old gridiron is gaining momentum as fans view the stock that has turned out this fall.

Eldorado is hard to please when it comes to football material and this year fans seem satisfied to classify that of the high school squad as choicest and they are predicting nothing but the best. With two efficient football men in the background to furnish the boys with the necessary "what it takes" Eldorado Eagles are going to be heard from again this year.

PIONEER GROUP ENJOYS HAY RIDE

Splendidly outfitted by Edwin Jackson with a good wide trailer and a generous cushion of hay, the Pioneer group of Presbyterian church enjoyed a hay ride on last Wednesday evening. Meeting at the church at 6:30, and accompanied by Otis and Mrs. Buie and the pastor of the church, they went to the roadside park north of Sonora. There part of the group who had lost in an attendance contest of the past month, supplied everybody with sandwiches, cookies, pickles and potato chips. Lemonade was provided by the pastor. The return trip was by moonlight, and the young people's spirits seemed to rise with the moon for they sang all the way home.

The pioneers and visitors who enjoyed the trip were: Pauline Jones, Frances Thompson, Betty Jo Bryant, Elizabeth Graves, Sara Hill, Tommie Davidson, Alberta Morris, Rosalyn Jones, S. E. Jones, Wilson Page, Billie Wilton, Billie Oglesby, Floyd Spurgers, John Sidney Williams, Jack Neill, Dwight Wiedenman, Tom Bradley, Luke Thompson, and Otis and Mrs. Buie and N. P. Wilkinson.

The whole group appreciated the kindness of Edwin Jackson, R. L. Sample, and Otis and Mrs. Buie, in helping them have a good time so the pastor informs us.

The "Go to church" movement is being promoted in cities throughout the country from time to time. It is hoped by the pastors and sponsors of the advertisements that record attendances will be recorded during the four weeks of this special drive.

Eldorado Athlete Is Captain Of Howard Payne Squad

The Howard Payne Yellow Jackets began intensive training Tuesday with McAdoo Keaton as coach and Joe Turner Hext as captain.

Pioneers Observe Their Birthday Anniversary

Two Schleicher County pioneers who observed a birthday anniversary last week were J. B. Christian and J. R. Hext.

Mr. Christian was born in Greenville, Aug. 31, 1867 and came to Texas with his parents settled at Round Rock, Williamson County when he was a small child. He attended pay schools with his six brothers. His first job was as clerk and bookkeeper in a general merchant store in Old Round Rock. Later he engaged in the hardware business at Hutto.

In 1900 Mr. Christian located here after travelling over much of West Texas, buying the ranch east of here which he still owns. He raised only cattle until 1916 when he bought some sheep. Last year he sold his stock and built two residences here.

Mr. Christian has been associated with the First National Bank almost continuously since its organization in 1907, serving as president much of the time.

Mr. Hext was born Aug. 31, 1859 at Cherokee, walked three miles to a "subscription school", and says "We were in constant fear of the Indians and I still wonder how we escaped being captured or killed." His father died when he was young and it was up to him to look after the stock and do a little farming with oxen and a walking plow.

In 1893 Mr. Hext located on the Mason and Menard County line. When a town was built a few years later it was named Hext in his honor. He lived there until he bought a ranch in Schleicher in 1907. Mr. Hext recalls that at that time the range was good, deer and antelope plentiful but the roads were little better than cow trails.

The Committee voted to discontinue the sale of book cards in order to meet the requirements of P. W. A. Hereafter one can secure a bookcard without cost. SEEING SMALL THINGS

While astronomers turn their telescopes to the exasperation of big things of the universe—planets, suns, galaxies, comets—other scientists working with amazing modern microscopes are studying the little things, magnified up to 9,000 times.

So far as the progress and welfare of mankind is concerned, the microscope is one of the most important instruments ever devised, for by its use the study of the human body to mention only one phase of its usefulness, has been the means of saving countless thousands of lives.

In the examination of materials used in industry it is now considered indispensable, and some of the finest microscopes are installed in laboratories of great manufacturing plants. One microscope in the Bell laboratories for example, took five years to build and cost $20,000.

The rapid advance made lately in the development of high-powered microscopes may be illustrated by the fact that 15 years ago the best laboratory equipment magnified only up to about 1,500 times, while magnification of 7,000 times is now common, and that of 9,000 times is possible under particularly favorable conditions, according to G. W. Gray in a recent article in This Week magazine.

One of the greatest living microscopists is Dr. F. F. Lucas, once rejected for West Point because of defective vision!

The most motherly CCC camp was recently established in Mount McKinley national park in Alaska, with 200 boys enrolled.

Mildred Harmon of Evanston, Ill. tried to make a plaster cast of her own face, but when it hardened she had to have it chiseled off.

C. C. Neely, 81, of Nashville, Tenn. was awarded $100 damages in a suit brought against three youths who cut off his long beard.

Mrs. Margaret Dodge of Buffalo was wounded in the leg when a neighbor's dog knocked a rifle to the floor and discharged it.

In the Morris home near Saluda, N. C., a fire has been kept burning continuously in the fireplace for 148 years since it was first lighted by the present owner's great-grandfather.

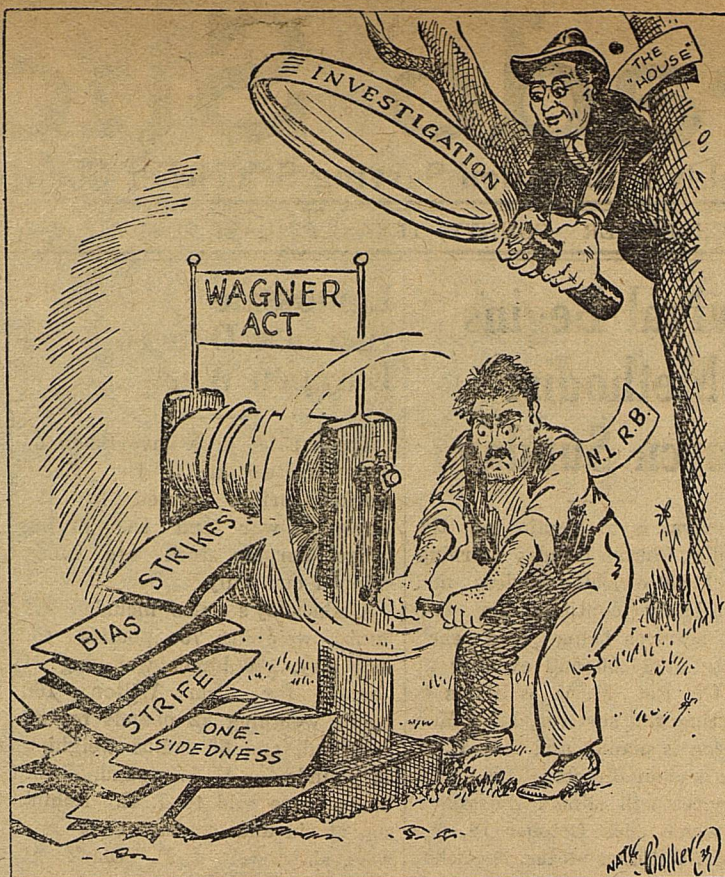

Charles Beenman, 4, of Austin, Minn., accidentally set the fire to the family home, but carried his younger sister to safety.

Joan Manners, a Hollywood actress, was given five days in jail for contempt when she violated a court order against picketing her husband for alimony.

Donald Perry, a South Dakota law student, shaves exclusively with a jackknife given him as a Christmas present in 1934.

As a hobby Miss Anna M. Mandel of Buffalo collects umbrellas, and now has 135, including one 100 years old.

ON THE SPOT

Nobody's Business

By Julian C. Capers

AUSTIN Sept. 8.—European war news this week overshadowed politics and state news in Austin as well as elsewhere in the United States, as state officials and politicians eyed events across the Atlantic which may dwarf state politicians and political questions into insignificance within a few days.

Nevertheless, complete victory for the oil producing states over the major oil companies, led by Sinclair and Humble, who sought to slash crude prices, came over the week-end as the oil flow resumed after the two-week shutdown by six states, and crude price postings were restored to the pre-cut level by all important purchasing companies.

Ernest Thompson, chairman of the Interstate Compact Commission, and member of the Texas Railroad Commission, whose strategy stopped the oil combine cold after the price cut was announced, continued to press for a 5-cent additional tax on pipeline run oil. He declared the victory of the oil producing state regulatory authorities proved conclusively that the States can control their oil problem, without Federal government intervention, and insisted that a substantial tax on oil to pay pensions to the old folks ought to be enacted. Thompson evidently was laying a predicate for another race for Governor against W. Lee O'Daniel next year. The oil companies issued various explanations as "face-savers", in restoring the price paid for crude oil, but these fooled nobody. They simply found that Thompson's strategy in cutting off 65 percent of the nation's production by voluntary, cooperative action of the producing states, was too tough a nut for them to crack. They regretfully relinquished—for the time being, at least—visions of another $100,000,000 of extra profit at the expense of the people of Texas, and begged for mercy—and crude oil.

NEW ORDER COMING

The Railroad Commission, meanwhile, announced resumption of production under the proration order that was in effect when the shutdown was ordered. This will continue until Sept. 11, when a statewide hearing will be held. At that time, a new proration order, hiking East Texas production to 488,000 barrels daily, in accordance with Federal court rulings, will be issued, the same order reducing the total state production 15 percent under Bureau of Mines estimates of market demand for September. This will necessitate deep production cuts in West Texas, North Texas, and Gulf Coast areas, and producers from these fields are expected to raise a loud howl at the hearing.

A SORDID CHAPTER

One of the most sordid chapters in the history of politics was written in Austin this week, as Claude D. Teer, veteran chairman of the State Board of Control, was buried. Teer, suffering a severe illness brought on by overwork, ended his life by throwing himself under the wheels of a train in San Antonio, while walking on the grounds of the State Hospital there, where he was a guest and patient in the home of the Superintendent.

Friends of Teer bitterly declared that the able, affable official was literally hounded to death by greedy job-hunters who sought, after Teer became ill several weeks ago, to force his resignation, and get his $6,000 a year job. Immediately after his death, William J. Lawson, secretary to Gov. O'Daniel issued a defensive statement, declaring he was sent to San Antonio by O'Daniel, at the suggestion of Rep. Fred Felty, of San Antonio an O'Daniel political satellite, to "ascertain the condition of Mr. Teer." Just what Felty and O'Daniel intended to do about Teer's condition is not clear, since Teer was not an O'Daniel appointee, and the governor had no power to remove him, nor authority to ask his resignation. Lawson did not get to see Teer, because Dr. W. J. Johnson, Teer's physician, told him Teer was too ill to receive visitors. Whether Teer learned of Lawson's visit, and was further upset, in his desperately ill condition, by its implication, could not be learned, but his desperate act to end his life followed. Teer's illness was the result of overwork, he having spent many hours in recent months, outside regular office hours, in working out an attempted solution of the pension problem, which the Board of Control has administered up to September 1.

TO APPOINT LAWSON?

Speculation as to whom O'Daniel will appoint to succeed Teer included several names, among them Lon Smith, chairman of the Railroad Commission, who is up for re-election next year, and apparently will have plenty of opposition: Lawson, O'Daniel's secretary who made the visit to Teer; Secretary of State Tom Beauchamp, of Tyler; O. P. Lockhart, Austin bakery operator and original O'Daniel supporter, and Comptroller George Sheppard. O'Daniel will have another appointment on the Board January 1, when the six-year term of Henry C. Meyer expires. That will give him control of the powerful Board of Control, which supervises making of departmental budgets, purchases millions of dollars of State supplies, and operates all state charitable institutions. Until this week, the Board has also directed operation of the old age pension system, having been relieved of this duty by the Legislature effective Sept. 1, when the new State Welfare Board takes over. Third Member of the Board is Tom DeBerry, veteran ex-senator from Bogata.

Every official in Austin, from ex-Governor Dan Moody, who originally appointed him, to members of the Legislature who worked with him on budget appropriations, paid high tribute to the efficiency and integrity of the former Granger legislator. Teer literally worked himself to death with a zeal and sincerity which many observers here declared in unequalled by the record of any other State official in recent years.

SANTA FE CARLOADINGS SHOW DECLINE

The Santa Fe System carloadings for the week ending August 26, 1939 were 18,984 as compared with 19,686 for the same week in 1938. Received from connections were 5,400 as compared with 4,905 for the same week in 1938. The total cars moved were 24,384 as compared with 24,591 for the same week in 1938. SECOND GLESSING
(By L. T. Barber)

The heading of this column should be easily understood by sport fans. After each game there is always some one telling how they would have run the play, or which batter they would have used, etc. This column is not going to be just on this order but will be an attempt to try to keep the sport fans in this territory as well informed as possible to the happenings in football and other sports.

I am not claiming to be a sports writer as noted as Blondy Cross, Jinx Tucker, Flem Hall and many others but it seems that in making guesses as to the outcome of the games here and there, and in reporting the happenings gathered up from different sources, most of it is a matter of opinion and your guess is as good as mine. The interest in these columns is gained through the means

Heed that SQUEAK!

... Like the first sneeze of a hay-fever victim, it's a sign of approaching trouble. For it indicates that your car has gone too long without lubrication, and you know, as well as we do, that the life of any kind of machinery is dependent on its proper lubrication at regular intervals. ... Note that we've underscored the word "lubrication"; there's a reason for that. It's to differentiate the lubricating needs of your automobile from the old-time "grease job" which survived the axle-greasing days of the horse-and-buggy era. ... Nowadays, lubrication requires experts using specialized lubricants developed by other experts to do the job asked by the automotive engineers—it's a thing far different from "greasing. . ." So heed that squeak: take your car to the nearest Humble sign for verified Humble lubrication—for an expert job utilizing continually improved Humble lubricants as recommended by the manufacturer of your car. ... Incidentally, this is a good time to do that, squeak or no squeak: we'll bet you've been driving a lot this summer.

of starting arguments among the fans and arousing more interest. Everything said in this column has an Indian guarantee behind it, I can take it back.

After a hectic scramble during the summer, the first season of Softball is over in Eldorado. Most of the opposing players are speaking now and the rest are getting the chips off their shoulders. At times during the season the noise was so great and the arguments so threatening that it made Hitler's noise sound like an amateur. But despite all this there seemed to be a great deal of enjoyment and recreation received by all the players as well as the fans and another season is expected.

Every one is forgetting the softball season and the conversations are turning to football. Many fans are wondering how the Eldorado Eagles are going to get along this fall against the opposition they are to face. They will enter one of the hardest schedules in the history of the school. What is thought to be the hardest game is coming off first. The Crane Cranes will come to Eldorado Saturday week, and from all reports they have an experienced, as well as a heavy team.

Coach Carruthers and Assistant Coach Huggins are putting their charges through the speediest conditioning practices available in order that they may have them in the best condition possible for this game. They seem to be very well satisfied with the turn out of the candidates for the various positions. Some twenty-five to thirty have been reporting every day since the uniforms were issued last Friday. Quite a number of the boys have been conditioning themselves by basketball practice before they were allowed to don their football equipment.

The Eagles will have almost a veteran team to start on the field if some hustling youngster does not come along and edge the more experienced boy out of his position. There seems possibility that something like this might happen. A few boys with little experience are showing a great deal of hustle and are gaining quite a bit of foot ball knowledge, and if I am a judge of football coaches, the hustlers, and best trainers will get the first call.

Quite a number of fans are attending the practices of the Eagles and all seem well satisfied at the showing the boys are making. They are hustling and going thru their practice like they might try to make it a little rough on the opposition this year.

There are few boys who have had little experience in football but are showing up quite a bit in practice and promise to make some of the older ones hustle to keep their places. David Williams, a very aggressive boy, is making a strong bid for a position and will be hard to keep off. This is his second year but his experience has been limited. S. E. Jones, not a heavyweight but has the power and drive, and the ambition to go places will probably see a great deal of service. He was letterman last year but was not on the starting lineup. Joe Reynolds, a big bunch of muscle reported Monday for practice and will make any coach a good man. Joe has not played but very little ball before

Game News

Growth of deer heard in Colorado county from 125 in 1924 to approximately 7,800 fifteen years later despite the fact the big game animals had been hunted a great deal in that district is an excellent example of why Texas is one of the leading deer states in the country. The total for 1939 was determined by a recent survey made by Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Department officials.

Of the 7,800 deer now in Colorado county, 4,800 are adults and 3,000 are fawns. Of the adult total 1,500 are bucks and it is estimated by veteran game officials that 650 bucks can be killed in Colorado county next season without doing damage to the breeding stock.

Game Department officials thru-out the State are issuing warnings that the 1938-39 hunting and fishing licenses expired August 31 and that fisherman using artificial lures and hunters above the age of seventeen who shoot outside the county of their residence must procure new licenses for 1939-40. Hunting licenses are $2 and artificial lure licenses $1.10.

Another example of how strong the maternal instinct is in the breasts of wild thing came to light recently in Kerr county, where two days in a row a turkey hen was observed beating off the attack of five-foot whipsnakes who attempted to steal her chicks.

C. M. Hill, caretaker of the L. T. Davis Ranch saw a huge reptile repeatedly dash through a brood of little turkeys, each time grabbing one in its mouth. The old hen, which is of half wild stock, jumped up and down on the snake each time, pecking it and striking it with her wings until the young turk was released and the snake fled. After the third attack by the snake, Mr. Hill killed it. The following day another snake attacked the brood, got the same treatment from the hen and was dispatched by the ranch caretaker.

Antelope trapped last spring in the Trans-Pecos and transferred to new range thrived during the summer, it is reported by the Game Department regional game manager in that area. The physical condition of the animals is excellent and many dropped young. The trapping of antelope as conducted by the Game Department has been but has the makings of a good athlete. There are many more new and inexperienced boys coming out this year that are showing up in practice and we will express our opinions of them as the weeks go on.

CAPTAINS ELECTED FOR THIS SEASON

At a meeting of the football boys last Friday night Joe Ed Hill was elected to Captain of the 1939 football team. Jo Ed is a senior this year, having lettered the past three years in football and has been doing his part in carrying out assignments. He started his football career as center and played that position for two seasons. In his junior year quarterbacks were scarce and due to his leadership, cool thinks he was placed in this position, where he was a sparkplug to his team mates.

In selecting the co-captains Gardner McCormick and Bob Williams were so close in the voting, it was decided that both boys would be given this position. They are both very capable players as well as hard workers and serious trainers. Williams, a hard running back will see plenty of service in this department, and the prospects are that he will be as tough as his brother George was in his senior year. McCormick, plays the tackle position and takes his football very serious and is due for a great season.

The team made no mistake in their selection of these three boys as their leaders. The trio are hard workers, always playing hard clean football to win and will carry their part of the burden as well as being capable leaders for the boys to follow.

hailed as the first successful attempt made in the county and opens up new range for them. Antelope will not jump fences as high as four feet and as a result had been overgrazing land upon which they ranged while other sections were devoid of them. They thrive only in plains county.

4-H Club boys of Warda, Fayette county are now building quail shelters on farms in that section after having received instructions in constructing them during a recent course conducted at Warda by a Game Department regional game manager and other officials of the Department.

Early arrivals among the ducks have been reported from many sections of Texas during the last two weeks. Many are already in southeastern Texas, some have reached the Rio Grande and there are many in the Panhandle. Pintails and teal predominate. The early birds arrived, almost everywhere they have been reported, a week earlier than last year.

Highway Department foremen who have refrained from cutting weeds along the right of way where quail nests were located have added materially to the quail crop this year. A foreman in Dawson county saved nearly a score of nests by not cutting weeds until August.

While the prairie chicken has a long road to travel before there could be an open season which would not destroy the remaining birds, good hatches of Attwater Prairie Chickens were reported this year in Colorado. Austin, DeWitt and Refugio counties by Game Department officials. Young birds in Refugio county flourished so well they were difficult to distinguish from the adult birds in June. Birds have been located in several sections where they had not previously been, but in other sections the converting of more land to rice fields each year is cutting down the range of those fine game birds, Game Department biologists report.

Miss Geraldine Morrow of Sonora was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Ellis last week.

Miss Billie Bailey was a guest of Miss Anna Florence Page last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ratliff returned Monday from Houston after a weeks visit with Mrs. Ratliff's sister, Mrs. E. H. Topliffe, and Mr. Topliffe.

ONE THING And THEN ANOTHER
By Fred Gipson

Sometimes I like to find a comfortable place to sit and watch the funny people go by. Down in the dining room of the Catus Hotel here is a good place. There's a plate glass window next to the street. A man can see out through it. Venetian blinds keep him from being seen.

It's very necessary that a man watching people is not seen by the people he's watching. In the first place, when people know you're watching them, they cease to be themselves and start being somebody different, for your benefit. Then, too, the people watched might think the sitter was funny, too. And that would take a lot of fun out of the thing.

People are funny that way. I sat at a small table in the Catus dining room just the other night. I put in my order and started watching.

First came a newsboy, selling papers at the top of his voice. He was on a dead run, when suddenly he halted short and dragged his bare foot across the pavement. He had picked up a sticker of some kind. I could tell. I've dragged a thousand grass burrs out of my bare feet, pulling them across the grass or sand, just the same way. This likely wasn't a grass burr, but a bent pin or a curled shaving of steel. I wouldn't know. I never did run barefooted on the streets.

A quick-moving little man with a cane came next. He came from the West. A woman of draft-horse proportion and a fierce eye, met him, going west. The two see-sawed back and forth for a moment, in one of those silly meetings people are always getting into, where they both start to the same place at the same time, back up and start over again.

The little man looked frightened. The woman was obviously very annoyed. Finally she stepped straight at the little man, as if she meant to walk right over such a pest.

The little man ducked around her just in time. He turned to bow and tip his stiff-brim hat. The courtesy was lost on the broad and indignant back of the woman. She kept walking straight on, nose high in the air.

A cop came and leaned up against the window for a moment or two. He hung one heel on the frame that held the window. His feet hurt him. I could tell. I know how I act when my feet hurt me. He reached down and rubbed the toe of his foot with one hand. I figured it was a corn. I wanted to tell him that you can sometimes shave corns off with a razor blade and they don't hurt so much. But the plate glass was between us. Also, you never know whether or not to advise a cop. They're not used to taking advice. They give it.

Next came a frizzly-haired spitz dog, leading a twisty dame on a leather lash. The spitz made for a light pole. The dame jerked him back. The spitz whimpered and tugged. The dame pulled and quarreled. The spitz set back, howling. The dame dragged him on past the window, out of sight. But she wasn't twisting any more.

A little old bundle-loaded woman shuffled by, talking to herself. She looked like the kind of a little old woman who doesn't have anybody to talk to at home.

I was watching a gangling boy, with a gleam in his eye, just about to kiss a girl, when the waitress interrupted.

"Anything else, sir?" It always makes me feel important when waitresses say "Sir" to me.

I looked down. My food was gone. While watching the funny people on the street, I'd wiped my plate clean as a hound's tooth. And I had no more idea than a bat what I'd eaten.

The couple outside the window was gone when I looked out again. I don't know whether the boy made it or not. I like to think he did. She was mighty cute.

People are funny things.

A history of her clothing demonstration by Ora Ballew and a report from A and M short course by Floyce Sherrod was told at a meeting of the 4-H girls in the Ballew home last Wednesday afternoon.

Ora, 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Ballew showed good work in her colthing demonstration. She has made three dresses, one apron, one house coat, one slip and for home improvement she has made cup towels and pot holders. She has also learned to take care of her clothing, nails, teeth and hair.

In her bedroom she has added a closet, papered the room and has a new bedspread. "My daddy made the doors to my closet, mother papered the room and I painted the woodwork and shelves and made a shoe rack and hat stand," she said.

THE English joke differs from the American joke, but without denying my personal preference for the home-grown sorts, I must admit to a deep fondness and profound admiration for some imported varieties.

Not long ago I ran across two typical British jokes that struck me as being particularly fine specimens. Curiously enough, in both of them an Anglican clergyman played the part of the "feeder," as they say in vaudeville.

"Jobson," says the rector to the town butcher, "a good wife is a jewel of rare price, isn't she? I often say that a good wife takes a lot of beating."

"Yus," says Jobson, "and mine gets it!"

A Message By Rev. Marvin Williams Pastor of The Methodist Church

HARVEST TIME

One

Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe." Joel-3:13.

Men see what they have eyes to see. The farmer looks on the field of golden grain, ripe for the sickle, and sees the reward of his toil and return of his capital. The painter sees a glorious subject for a picture. The economist thinks of prices and national prosperity. The devout Christian sees God's hand opening to answer the prayer for daily bread.

The prophet looked out over the green earth, in his own day and rejoiced in the manifestation of God's presence in the vegetable kingdom, this was God's law. He could also see that, one day under dark skies, the frost and snow would come with killing breath and visit the earth with universal death, this was God's law. In the dear old seer sage of his day gave the people a great lesson. He said life was like that in the very bloom of manhood death with its frosty breath comes and converts life into a monument of cold clay. Again, the prophet seemed to turn from that scene to another, back to the first page of creation. His limped vision saw two pure people walking in the cool of the morning through the beautiful garden of Eden, then of a sudden a fiery shot rang out from the enemy's camp and death passed upon all mankind. So he leaves the thought that there was never a winter until sin entered the garden of God. Therefore, the dying foliage of the vegetable world is only a casket in which all mankind will one day lay this physical body.

Two

Another thought the prophet leaves is that, Harvest reveals the results of man's labour. If in life we have sown sparingly, we shall also reap sparingly. If we have sown abundantly, we shall reap the more abundant life. He saw this in the individual life and in the life of the nation, thus he laboured to reach his people with the value of brotherhood and the kindness of a loving Father. He saw this in the intellectual life of his people and interpreted the knowledge of the law of God to them. Blessed is the land that has in it such men. Human labour is profitable only as it conforms to the law of God. He who would reap life eternal must sow the seed of truth and honesty while living in this world. The seed must under-go a change, so the prophet brings the fact of a new life hid with God in Christ, and that life a growing life with the power to transform its habits into the likeness of God, whose roots will strengthen with the ages, and whose fruits will never lose this sweetness and their bloom.

Three

The prophet here also implies the hope of immortality. There was in his day a Stoic belief no life beyond the grave. He strengthened the heart of his people with the strong truth that though the frost of death did come and freeze the physical body back into the dust of the grave, there would come a glorious spring-time in the Kingdom of God. Is this not the message Christianity should proclaim to the people of our own day? It is a disillusioned world! yet, it is our world. It is what we have made it. This boundless universe not merely awes us, sometimes it depresses us almost beyond recovery. Once when the world seemed so much bigger than now we know it is, man appeared to be more important. Now it is generally accepted knowledge that our world is but a grain of sand in the midst of a wellnigh limitless universe. The closeness of mind to the brain, whatever the relationship of the two may be, is another phase of our disturbing disillusionments. Then we must listen to people, who do not want life after death: as does Loyed Douglas' character in his "Magnificent Obsession". It does not seem consistent, they go on living in this life yet they do not want to live after death.

Yet, deep down in our hearts we have the same longing which our forefathers had, and intense desire for reality and a hungering for a home in the skies, where the voices of our loved ones are still calling us, the true Christian knows they are with God some where out there beyond death, as we call it. Robert Freeman was very near God, when he said,

"When souls go down to sea by ship,

And the dark ship's name is death,
Why morn and wail at the vanishing sail?

Though outward bound, God's world is round,
And only a ship is death."

True there is a harvest after death, in which the Christian will hear words like golden apples in

WHY COVER A TRENCH SILO

1. To prevent excess spoilage.
2. To protect the ensilage against fire, insects, rodents and rain. (There are cases on record where silos have caught on fire when going through the curing stage.)

3. After ensilage has cured out, if not covered the out side layer will still take up moisture. If this is done cured silage will begin to rot immediately.

30 to 60 days is required to cure ensilage.

If the available dirt for covering is good and dry so that it does not make a reasonable tight cover the dirt should be wetted and harrowed down until a good tight cover is made.

If any sort of vegetation is place between the silage and a dirt cover it should be green or, if not green it should be thoroughly wet. Such material as dry straw or dry stalks placed next to the silage will cause more harm than good.

When any question is brought up in regard to covering the Trench silo the only answer is: Just a generous amount of dirt.
