Headlines From Around The World

Jericho, Israel

PLO Chairman, Yasser Arafat made a triumphant entry into Jericho this week. After 25+ years of exile, the Palestinian returned to set up a semi-autonomous Palestinian state on the west bank of the Jordan River. The move was made possible by the recent Israeli-Palestinian peace accords.

Charlotte, North Carolina

A US Air DC-9 crashed at Charlotte-Douglas International Airport Sunday, killing 37. The accident, the worst ever at the Charlotte facility occurred during a violent thunderstorm. 17 remain hospitalized 3 others were treated and released. Authorities report that a "wind shear" warning had been issued by air traffic controllers "only minutes prior to the crash." The pilot had reportedly aborted a landing attempt moments before the accident.

Washington, D.C.

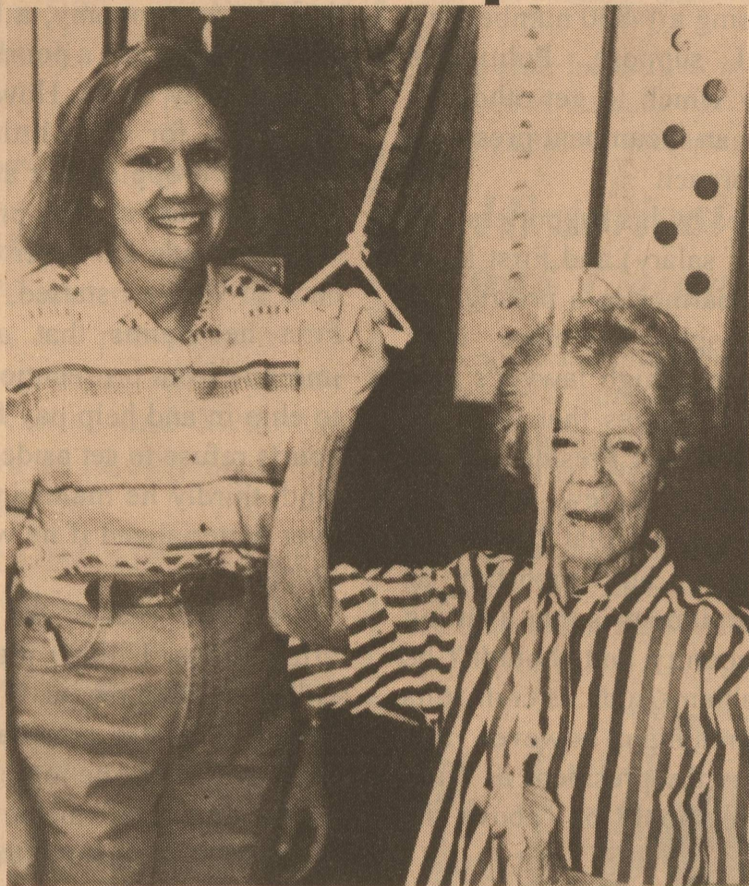

Clinton administration spokesmen, this week announced another in a series of policy changes regarding Haitian refugees. Following a July 4th weekend which saw over 9,000 refugees being intercepted on the open sea. The new policy enunciated Tuesday will allow for those Haitians requesting political asylum in the United States to do so by applying at the U.S. embassy in Port-Au-Prince. Any of the refugees requesting political asylum on the open sea will be taken for a hearing at a base in Panama. All others will be returned to Haiti.

In a show of force, four more war ships have been ordered to the area. The move bolsters the United Nations embargo around the Caribbean nation and ratchets up the tension between the U.S. and military government of Haiti.

Washington, D.C.

Spokesmen for President Clinton announced this week the establishment of a Legal Defense Fund for the President and First Lady. Recent allegations of sexual misconduct by the President while he was Governor of Arkansas as well as charges of wrong-doing related to the "Whitewater" matter prompted the formation of the fund. "Donations are currently being accepted to help offset the skyrocketing legal bills," said one presidential spokesman.

SCMC Opens Physical Therapy Department

Shown above are Christy Brown (L) and Lois Baker (R). Chisty is a Physical Therapist at Schleicher County Medical Center. SCMC announced this week that it's new Physical Therapy Department will be open three days a week.

Schleicher County Medical Center announced this week the opening of a new Physical Therapy Department. Staffed by Christy Brown, a licensed physical therapist, the department will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays to provide physical therapy services to the people of Schleicher County and surrounding areas.

Previously, a person seeking physical therapy was forced to drive to San Angelo or farther, several times a week in many cases causing them undue hardship. Now, a patient seeking physical therapy at SCMC needs only to bring a physicians referral and the therapy can be handled locally.

A wide range of conditions which benefit from physical therapy. PT rehabilitation may be necessary to restore strength, mobility, and function following a fracture, surgery or other injury. Acute conditions such as sprains, strains, tendonitis and bursitis may also benefit.

The department has been equipped with the latest, state of the art equipment such as hot and cold modalities, ultrasound, electrical stimulation, whirlpool and various types of exercise equipment. And, best of all, the services mentioned are all here in Eldorado, just a few blocks from most of the residents in the county.

SCMC plans further expansion and update of services in order to continue providing comprehensive healthcare services. "In order for rural medical facilities to remain viable, they must become competitive," said Jim Blum, SCMC Administrator. "It isn't good enough anymore for us to just be convenient. We at Schleicher County Medical Center seek ways to provide the people of Schleicher County with the high quality medical care they need and deserve." Blum went on to note that several specialists now come to Eldorado on a regular basis and others are scheduled to begin coming soon.

Anyone seeking information or a consultation regarding the Physical Therapy Department are urged to contact Christy Brown at the Schleicher County Medical Center at 853-2507.

Fiesta de la Borrega

Eldorado's second annual open-air lamb festival, Fiesta de la Borrega, will be featuring the light-hearted comedy "Melody Hall". The Fiesta begins at 5:30 P.M. on Thursday, July 14th, on the grounds of the Schleicher County Courthouse in Eldorado, kicking off with and all-you-can-eat lamb barbecue. The seven-member cast of "Melody Hall" will open with musical numbers during the meal.

"Melody Hall" is being directed by Tim Forrester, advertising staff member for Marcus Cable in San Angelo. The play, set in Texas, was written by Houstonians Marty and Lois Fleck, and was first performed in Houston's Country Playhouse. Later it was performed in San Angelo in an 8-performance run of the Angelo Community Theater, with additional performances in Indiana, East Texas State University and Ruidoso, New Mexico. During the month of July the performance may also be seen at the Sonora Caverns as part of the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater. Playwright Marty Fleck has appeared in the production playing the part of "The Butler". Other cast members include Sarah Sherrod as "Jane", Nancy McCollom as the ghostly "Melody Hall", Hollywood Heard as "R.J. Hall", Larry Edwards as "Andy" and Jeff McGuire as "Cal".

Ingredients of the drama include: a near-forgotten seventy year old accident, a young heir with his own country-western trio, a redoubtable butler, a classically trained recital singer and the spectacular "Melody Hall", orchestrating everyone's lives with romantic, and hilarious, effects.

The Fiesta de la Borrega is being sponsored by the Schleicher County Chamber of Commerce in Eldorado, with co-sponsorship by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association and Monfort's, Inc. packing company of San Angelo. All proceeds will go to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center of San Angelo and Abilene. One major goal of the organizers is to promote the enjoyment of lamb as a choice meat for the American consumer.

Tickets are $7.50 each for adults and $5.00 for children. Reservations and ticket information are available by calling the Schleicher County Chamber of Commerce at 853-3109. Tickets will also be available at the event.

Singleton Attends Workshop

Rick Singleton of Eldorado and a teacher in the Schleicher County ISD participated in an electrical workshop sponsored by West Texas Utilities June 23, 1994. Singleton attended the Electric Circuits and Motor Theory 1994 Teacher Workshop.

More than fifty 4th through 8th grade science teachers from the Big Country area received hands on training in areas such as electrical circuits, electric motors and electrical safety in Abilene.

"Many of these teachers want more resources and information to use in their classrooms," said Kit Home, farm and ranch community relations consultant of WTU.

"We try to give the 4th through 8th grade science teachers something they can't get from textbooks," said Home, who has been coordinating science workshops for area educators for more that 10 years.

Once a year WTU sponsors workshops aimed at different teachers, such as science or agriculture teachers. By participating in these workshops, teachers may Freedom, Justice and Liberty, that is what Independence day is all about. Well, much of my liberty is gone because I caved in and let Annamarie have a puppy.

I gave all of the speeches parents give. I told her it would be her responsibility to feed, clean, train and associate with the mutt. For some reason known only to God the dog has decided that we are soul mates. Maybe because I was the first in the family to step in her leavings, but this cute little fur ball has chosen me to use as a teething ring and a throw toy.

I seem to have this power over canines. Dogs like me and I don't know why. I don't like to pet them, they will not do tricks for me, and no amount of my coaxing seems to alter their need to go to the bathroom in the most inappropriate places.

Bonita, that is what Maxine and Annamarie named her, is still a very young pup. She misses cuddling with her siblings at night and has taken to whining mostly after midnight. My hairy legs must remind her of her brothers because she likes to curl up right next to my calves nipping at my heels.

Luckily we are not yet awash in dog "dodo" and maybe, since she seems a bright animal, she'll learn that her toilet needs to be taken care of out of doors. If she never fetches a stick or the paper I will be very happy. It would be nice if the dog learned to play gin but I know I can't have everything.

Bonita is just that... I just hope she becomes closer to her owner, Annamarie, and less interested in my shoes.

Over The Back Fence

by Randy Mankin

I've been hearing a lot lately about the legal defense fund our President and First Lady have established for themselves. It seems that some of the recent accusations against the President are destined to turn up in court and the Clintons are asking for donations to help defray the cost of their legal bills. Pitchmen are making the rounds of talk shows and Sunday morning news shows soliciting donations and advertising a 1-800 number. It's not exactly a new idea, I suppose. Politicians instinctively look for means by which to get others to pay their way. But, I can't recall an incumbent president ever taking such a dramatic approach.

Now the argument is proffered by his supporters that the President ($200,000 per year salary) and First Lady ($250,000 per year as a senior partner in a prestigious law firm) are not wealthy people. Therefore, it is unreasonable to expect them to pay high lawyer's fees in defending themselves against charges that wouldn't have been made if Bill Clinton weren't President.

Another move that has raised a few eyebrows recently is President Clinton's request that the courts dismiss any civil action against him until such time as he is no longer president. His argument is that a sitting president is busy running the country and shouldn't be required to deal with pesky problems such as civil suits and the like. Clinton opponents maintain, however, that the U.S. Constitution establishes the president as "first among equals" and that no one should be "above the law".

Now everyone knows that I'm not a fan of Bill Clinton. I think he became president by sheer dumb luck. There were some extremely well qualified Democrats who, because of George Bush's high popularity rating at the end of the Persian Gulf War, chose not to challenge for the oval office. So, a relatively unknown governor was allowed to capture the Democratic nomination with only token resistance in the 1992 primaries. By all accounts, George Bush should have wiped the floor with Bill Clinton. It didn't happen. A faltering economy, a broken "Read my lips, no new taxes" pledge and a poorly run campaign brought Bush's chances way down. However, in light of all that, had it not been for that little megalomaniac Ross Perot, entering, dropping out and re-entering the race, I think George would still be president today.

But, that's all water under the bridge. Let me get back to where I started, President Clinton's legal woes. First he claims that a sitting president should be immune from prosecution. Secondly, he wants all of us to chip in and help pay for his defense, if and when the courts refuse to set aside the various claims against him. And, thirdly he maintains that none of this would have ever materialized if he were not President of the United States.

At first glance, the easiest solution to the whole affair (oops, I didn't mean to say affair) would be for Bill Clinton to resign. If his assertions are correct, when he is no longer president, all his legal problems will disappear. But, the logical progression of this would see us playing "Hail to the Chief" for President Al Gore. You know, on second thought, maybe I can spare a few dollars for the President's legal defense fund, after all. Now where did I put that 800 number?

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The Class of '44 wishes to express our sincere thanks for the excellent coverage you gave the '94 Mias Amigas, the honors given our Class upon our 50th Graduation Anniversary and the acceptance of the Class of '74 into Mias Amigas membership.

We appreciate your editorial remarks concerning the acceptance speech made by our classmate, Tom Potter. He made us very proud and after reading your comments, it is apparent that others were proud, as well.

We send our thanks for the coverage. We also send our best wishes to you and your newspaper. We trust you will always be at the Mias Amigas meetings to give other classes the same great coverage given to Class of '44.

Sincerely
Eldorado High School

Dear Editor:

Recent media headlines have been filled with violence and social injustice. Consequently, America has been shoved into the world's spotlight as a dangerous country to visit, yet the US remains to be the "dream" destination of many teenagers across the globe. As Americans, it is our responsibility to show the people of the world that America is one of the most beautiful, wondrous countries on earth. Our citizens are kind, generous and anxious to share our cultural heritage with people of other countries.

American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE) has been placing foreign high school students with caring American families for over 13 years. By spending a school year with an American family, these students return to their countries with a deeper understanding of Texas, the United States and its people. By opening our hearts, homes and lives to another culture, we will be fostering understanding, furthering education, enriching our own lives and working together to strengthen ties with the future young leaders of foreign nations. This is an imperative step in the approaching peaceful relations between countries.

AISE places students in cities and towns, farms and ranches, in urban areas, mountain areas, desert areas, rural areas and every place in between no matter how small or large a community is. AISE needs loving families who can volunteer to host an exchange student beginning in August 1994. There has been a tremendous response nationwide, but there are still students that have not been placed.

The United Nations has designated 1994 as "The International Year of the Family". If we could show other nations the spirit of volunteerism and love still exists in the family of America as was intended when our constitution was drafted, the world would understand that the people of America still care. Become an "International Family". Call AISE at 1-800-SIBLING for more information.

Sincerely
Eleanor M. Tatsch

Relief for Aircraft Manufacturers

Anyone who doubts the power of government to cripple or destroy an industry ought to take a long look at the fate of American general aviation.

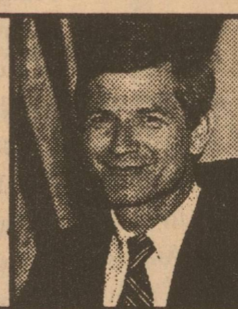

From 1965 to 1982 manufacturers like Mooney Aircraft Corporation in Kerrville produced and sold an average of 13,000 piston-powered planes a year. In 1993, they sold exactly 555. Since 1981, more than 100,000 jobs have been lost in the industry, and 19 of 29 American manufacturers have gone out of business.

What happened? The brick wall that this world-dominating industry ran into can be summed up in four words: litigation and government apathy.

"General aviation" includes smaller aircraft used for both business and personal reasons. They range from single-engine "trainers" to business jets and helicopters.

Lawsuits over accidents involving these aircraft, and the often enormous court settlements awarded, have devastated manufacturers.

Lawyers for Beech Aircraft examined more than 200 suits involving tenance; not once was a crash blamed by officials on the design or manufacturing of the plane itself.

In each case, however, plaintiff lawyers attempted to prove the blocking attempts to deal with this situation. But not any longer. A bill I have cosponsored that would provide liability relief for manufacturers was approved by the House Judiciary Committee last week.

The General Aviation Revitalization Act would limit the legal liability of aircraft manufacturers to 15 years for piston-powered planes, 18 years for turboprops, and 22 years for jets. It could be on the House floor for a final vote as early as this week.

The problem is that many of our planes are simply built to last. They last so long that owners feel free to sue over a fifty-year-old museum piece. This bill will put a stop to that nonsense, and free up a struggling industry to once again start making planes and creating jobs.

between $100,000 and $200,000 apiece to prepare.)

Russell Meyer, the chairman of Cessna, recently testified before a congressional hearing that liability problems were the sole reason his company ceased production of piston-powered aircraft.

Many of these lawsuits involve extremely old planes. In December 1993 a suit was filed against Cessna for an alleged design defect in a plane built in 1946. It had operated safely for 47 years.

Meanwhile, a small handful of members of Congress, who rake in large donations from trial lawyers, have succeeded for years in crashes of their aircraft in the mid-1980s. In each accident, the Federal Aviation Administration blamed weather, air traffic control errors or poor main-

GIANTS OR GRAPES: TAKE YOUR PICK

Everything that God has provided, promised and prepared for us, He has written and put in the form of a Covenant for us to operate in. This based on a relationship that demands fellowship with Him. (John 15: 7)

In Numbers 13: 1-3, we note that God had already promised the land of Canaan to the nation of Israel, yet here in verses 1-3, God reluctantly approves the decision of the people to go in and spy out the land in order to see if what God said was true! (Deut. 1: 19). This was allowed again despite what was said by God in describing the land and what He had for them. There are two things in us as believers that keep us from going into the fullness of what God has in Jesus Christ our Lord. These two needing development are our power of choice and our understanding of God's word.

We see the Sovereignty of God in this book by His stepping aside and letting the Israelites choose to do it their way. This endeavor was done at the time of the harvesting of grapes, signifying "abundance". Thus taking them "forty" days to see that God was telling the truth, in verses 26-27 words like "surely", also confirm God's word, The words "nevertheless" and "saw" are not words of faith, but words of doubt and unbelief which cause the people to look at the natural and not the spiritual. They saw the Giants and not the grapes; thus causing them to forget that they were a covenant people, faith people, holy nation and a people of God.

Out of the twelve, two saw the promise, provision and providence of God in the mission. They chose to pick the grapes and to kill the giants. Their report was one of faith and victory. The other ten chose to deliver a "slandorous" report of fear, doubt and unbelief. The consequence of choosing to bring this type of report and not believing what God had said is recorded in Numbers 14: 37!

So we have a choice: to believe what God has said in His word, or to believe what we see and hear in the natural as believers. In romans 8: 1-2 we have a choice to operate in the flesh or in the Spirit; to operate in the law of life or in the law of sin and death!!

You make the choice: Giants or Grapes, take your pick! Do or Die!

Reverend George Cantu, Pastor

Dorothy's Movie Time

by Dorothy Dacy

Hi movie fans! I hope you all had a safe and happy 4th of July. I have a great old-fashioned shoot 'em up western for your consideration this week. Tombstone is rated "R" for its violent content.

Kurt Russell (Backdraft and Captain Ron) stars as steely-eyed Wyatt Earp, now retired, or so he thinks. He's come to Tombstone, Arizona with brothers Virgil (played by Sam Elliott) and Morgan (played by Bill Paxton) to try to clean up at the gambling tables. Russell is perfect as Wyatt, but Val Kilmer (The Doors) steals the show as Doc Holiday. He is Wyatt's friend and partner who spouts latin, drinks too much, has a dry sense of humor and a deceptive, easy-going manner; just don't try to out-draw him! Dana Delany co-stars as Wyatt's love interest. There's even a cameo appearance by Charlton Heston.

The Earp brothers team up to bring law to a lawless town in a notorious showdown with ruthless outlaws. Of course, this is the well known "Gunfight at the OK Corral" during which the legend of Tombstone is born and the Earp brothers served notice to an entire territory that "Justice is coming".

Tombstone is currently available at Meyer's and Shot's.

Until next week, remember: People who gamble on a good deal sometimes end up with a good deal less.

Noah's Ark Comes To Presbyterian VBS

Pictured above are but two of the puppets that will be appearing in the "Story of the Flood" puppet show during Noah's Ark VBS at First Presbyterian Church.

Saturday July 9, 1994 is the day. 8:30 a.m. is the time. First Presbyterian Church is the place. All youngsters age preschool to 6th grade are invited to a Vacation Bible School jointly co-sponsored by the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches.

Children will go straight to the sanctuary where they will be divided into six "tribes" and can dress up in Biblical costumes (which will be provided).

From there they will go to six different learning centers where different activities will be going on. The six centers are: Arts and Crafts (make a popsicle stick animal puppet and your very own pet rock); Animal Corral (pet some farm animals and learn how to care for them); Nature Center (get you very own screened in "Bug Barn" for collecting insects); Rainbow Center (Rev. Hawley Wolfe will talk about the meaning of the Lord's Prayer); The Ark (children will play in a giant cardboard Ark and learn from Rev. George Lumpkin); Puppet Theater (the story of the Flood will be told from the point of view of the animals: puppeteers include Nicole Althaus, Katy Lively, Martha Lively, Jenna Richters, and Hillary Hodges).

A hot dog cookout at 12:30 p.m. will include a sing-a-long featuring LeRoy Moore and program by the kids, as well as open house. Everyone is invited. There is no charge. All aboard the "S. S. Noah"!

Lemon juice is six to seven percent acid.

ASCS Review Group To Meet

The Agricultural Conservation Review Group will meet on Monday, July 11, 1994, at the Schleicher County ASCS Office at 9:00 a.m. to discuss effective solutions to soil and water problems and other conservation issues in Schleicher County.

Jan Wanoreck, County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the Group will examine the Agricultural Conservation, Emergency Conservation, Forestry Incentives and Water Bank Programs. "It is important to review and discuss changes made in the programs during the past year," Wanoreck said.

The Conservation Review Group will identify specific conservation problems, overall program priorities and goals, policies, practices and other administrative arrangements that will help make programs more effective in preventing soil erosion and protecting the quality of surface and ground water.

"We will also consider cost effective means to reduce soil erosion on crop, range, and pasture land; conserve water used in agriculture and to reduce flood damage in upstream areas; and reduce agricultural non-point source pollution," the ASCS official said.

Members of the Conservation Review Group include the COC members, CES representative, SCS representative, FMHA representative, and Conservation District representative.

ASCS administers all programs without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability or marital status.

Gov. Richards Seeks Protection For Lamb Producers

Texas Governor Ann Richards announced Friday, June 24th that she has asked U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor to protect Texas lamb producers from unfair foreign competition.

In a letter to Ambassador Kantor, the Governor asked that imported lamb be included under tariff provisions of the existing Meat Import Law and that language to implement the provision be included in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

"The Meat Import Law is the only import measure that will help this industry," Richards said.

Because lamb imports from New Zealand and Australia are unrestricted, lamb imports from these countries have increased 46 percent between 1992 and 1993.

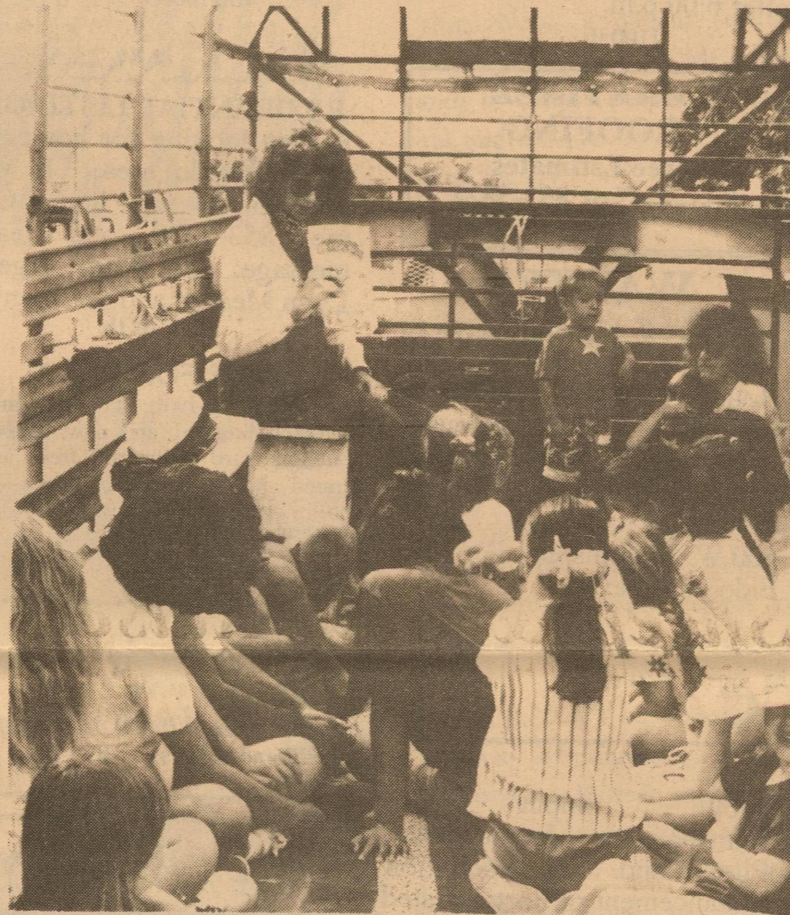

"The unrestricted market access by foreign competitors, combined with the three-year phase-out of the National Wool Act, delivers a knock-out blow to Texas lamb producers," said Richards.

Texas is the nation's largest sheep and goat producer. Many West Texas counties depend on the sheep and goat industry for their economic well-being.

Special focus of the Thursday session is "Life for the Texas sheep and goat industries with reduced government involvement," said Lanny Leinweber of Mountain Home, Association president. Seminar speakers will include wool and mohair industry business leaders, researchers, economists, marketing experts, producers and Association officials.
